I can get word out over the weekend to the centers to suspend processing. I just need the list of 7 countries to include in my message. The Directors are already on notice of the possibility. I would exclude from the suspension any petitions for beneficiaries abroad and TPS/DACA.

Thanks for sending this, Lori.

As we've discussed, the most urgent question is whether adjustments and extensions or changes of nonimmigrant status are impacted. Separately, is there any impact on petitions for beneficiaries abroad since we would not be determining admissibility? I would think not, but it would be good to have clarity.

If we can define "suspend processing" as "suspend prior to approval", then one option would be to continue with the interviews, since it is likely we have some that are scheduled as soon as Monday for affected applicants and then hold the cases post interview. We are trying to scrape our schedulers (C4 and NASS) to see when and where we have interviews scheduled for individuals from affected countries. We should have that sometime Monday.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person. [redacted] We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs. (b)(5)

Subject: TRIG Cases

Good afternoon,

Could your office put together a briefing paper for AD1 that looks at the following issues:

1. TRIG cases that are currently on hold and for which there is no exemption right now.
   a. Number of cases
   b. Cases broken down by country
   c. Considerations as to whether we should deny these cases
2. A summary of pending TRIG exemption requests and the status of those requests.
3. List of current exemptions.

This paper is to help inform the decision as to whether we should we deny or continue to hold TRIG cases based on the recent Executive Order. Section 6 of the "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States" Executive Order states:

"Rescission of Exercise of Authority Relating to the Terrorism Grounds of Inadmissibility. The Secretaries of State and Homeland Security shall, in consultation with the Attorney General, consider rescinding the exercises of authority in section 212 of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1182, relating to the terrorism grounds of inadmissibility, as well as any related implementing memorandum."

Please provide me with a draft no later than COB Friday, February 10th.

I also checked with CSPED, and if you are asked by members of the public if we are operating "business as usual," we can respond affirmatively. If the inquiries are more complicated than that or relate to other aspects of the Executive Orders, please continue to forward those to me for response by HQ CSPED.

existing policies and procedures. Further guidance will be issued with respect to beneficiaries currently outside of the United States.

4. USCIS will continue refugee interviews when the person is a religious minority in his or her country of nationality facing religious persecution. Additionally, USCIS will continue refugee interviews in jurisdictions where there is a preexisting international agreement related to refugee processing. USCIS will not approve a refugee application for an individual who we determine would pose a risk to the security or welfare of the United States.

5. USCIS will continue adjudicating all affirmative asylum cases according to existing policies and procedures.

Attached is a summary of information we'd want from other countries to assist in our adjudications process as requested in the "Terrorist Entry" EO, Section 3a. For this tasking we just need a list that DHS PLCY/SCO can incorporate into the larger report they are drafting for this deliverable. This is due to the department tomorrow, so if I could have your edits by 11:00 tomorrow morning, that would be greatly appreciated. It's a fairly succinct document, so hopefully it shouldn't take long to review. Much thanks!

Subject: TRIG points for PCC

Joanna,

I know Karen updated you on the work we've initiated with State relating to the TRIG directive in the EO. We were just discussing and thinking that for tomorrow's PCC it may be helpful to arm you with a couple points to help guide consensus on the appropriate course of action responsive to the directive, insofar as you have a chance to weigh in. On process, our thinking is that the most thoughtful result is likely to follow from bilateral collaboration between USCIS and State – i.e., the other USG entity with experience applying the exemptions to actual cases – followed by broader interagency consultation based on what is hopefully a joint State-DHS (i.e., USCIS) analysis and recommendation. In the event that there is a call for a WH-driven process, our hope is that (1) Multilat leads it, as that directorate traditionally has with respect to TRIG, and (2) some time is permitted to allow the State-USCIS collaboration to take place first. I'm touching base with Sarah Cross (Ronnie's successor) tomorrow and plan to advocate the same with her. Let me know if you want to discuss or think a different course makes sense, though.

Here are TPs that briefly highlight our work and suggest a path forward:

- In response to EO Section 6, which requires considering rescission of existing exercises of authority for TRIG exemptions, DHS and State have begun working on a joint review process to assess the value of the exercises of authority. The review process will take into account factors such as their utility in adjudications, national security implications, and foreign policy considerations. The aim of this work is to arrive at a joint, evidence-based, working-level analysis responsive to Section 6's directive. We would then share this with DOJ for consultation, as set out in the EO, with the aim of arriving at a consensus recommendation for our departments' respective leadership.
- [If asked for an estimate of how long it would take us to produce the analysis]: For USCIS' part, if State agrees, we think we could have something preliminarily developed at the working-level in 2-3 weeks.

Hope that helps, and good luck tomorrow!

Here is our proposed language, based on what we understand the current thinking to be. Is this your understanding of the decision and can we message this as noted below? We have people scheduled to travel on Monday. IOM has booked and the beneficiaries have paid for their travel. Please note that approximately 190 people have booked travel. Of those, only one individual would be traveling with a refugee family member. [note, our numbers are from IOM, so we may be off a bit, but this is close]

SUSPENSION OF TRAVEL FOR INDIVIDUALS GRANTED PAROLE UNDER THE CENTRAL AMERICAN MINORS REFUGEE/PAROLE PROGRAM (CAM)

On January 27, 2017, President Donald J. Trump signed an Executive Order, "Protecting the Nation From Terrorist Entry into the United States" that called for an immediate suspension of the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program (USRAP) for 120 days. In light of this temporary suspension, USCIS will also be pausing travel to the United States for all individuals granted parole under the Central American Minors Refugee/Parole Program. USCIS will act as follows:

- During this suspension, an applicant whose parole request has been approved by USCIS will be permitted to travel with any refugee family member who is permitted to travel pursuant to an exemption.
- The travel for all other individuals who were granted parole by USCIS under this program will be suspended until the U.S. Refugee Admission Program resumes for this population.

Subject: EO implementation

Barbara/Joanna,

I need some information.

1. How many refugees are travel ready and by that I mean we've completed everything and they could get on a plane. I want a breakdown by nationality.

RESPONSE: We have to request this information from PRM to extract from WRAPS. Additionally, RAD has been told to work with the RSCs to provide the most detailed information about cases as not everything is reflected in WRAPS.

2. I know you already did it but give me a list of where we are on circuit rides right now, how many officers, and what the populations look like.

South Africa - Sudanese/Somalis, team of 4
Malaysia (sp) - Rohinga team of 4?

Make corrections where I have things wrong

RESPONSE: See attached.

3. Scheduled circuit rides coming up with the same information.

RESPONSE: See attached.

4. Can we get an RSO assessment on places we would normally go that may be dangerous after this announcement. Baghdad, Turkey, Egypt, Jordan, etc. Get me a completely list of where you think that is necessary. I don't think we will be going anywhere but having the information will be helpful.

RESPONSE: Any location in the Middle East (Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Turkey, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, and UAE). We would want to closely monitor all locations as we were notified today about unrest in Vienna affecting processing.

5. IF we are only admitting 50,000 refugees do we need to do more circuit rides to reach that number. Keep in mind we may not be admitting anyone or very few people from the 7countries.

RESPONSE: USCIS will request this pipeline data extract from PRM. Without reviewing the data, our impression is that there would likely be enough refugees (excluding the 7 nationalities) to ensure 20K additional admissions. We understand that that RSC could pivot to other nationalities for pre-screening if necessary. We also may have to conduct re-interviews on any post-interview refugees that are in the pipeline in order to apply extreme vetting measures.

6. Please get me the number of I730s we have ready to interview or have interviewed that could travel. Break it down that way with nationalities. I also need it broken down by Asylum vs Refugee following to join.

RESPONSE: Only IO data is reported below which represents approximately 40-45% of total I-730 caseload worldwide. Please note DOS/Consular Affairs does roughly 50% of these interviews. USCIS will request statistics from State/PRM and State/Consular Affairs to try to obtain complete I-730 caseload data.

I know this is a tall order. I have a call at 4 and would appreciate anything you can get me by then.

Also, if you have any suggestions on how to handle case by case reviews (you'll need to have something that represents additional vetting) let me have that to run up the chain. If we can get that cleared we might be able to move ahead with some case by case review.

Sorry for the fire drill on a Sunday especially when we had one on Saturday too.

Thanks,
Lori

RESPONSE: USCIS will request this pipeline data extract from PRM. Without reviewing the data, our impression is that there would likely be enough refugees (excluding the 7 nationalities) to ensure 20K additional admissions. We understand that that RSC could pivot to other nationalities for pre-screening if necessary. We also may have to conduct re-interviews on any post-interview refugees that are in the pipeline in order to apply extreme vetting measures.

QUESTION 6

Please get me the number of I730s we have ready to interview or have interviewed that could travel. Break it down that way with nationalities. I also need it broken down by Asylum vs Refugee following to join.

RESPONSE: Only IO data is reported below which represents approximately 40-45% of total I-730 caseload worldwide. Please note DOS/Consular Affairs does roughly 50% of these interviews. USCIS will request statistics from State/PRM and State/Consular Affairs to try to obtain complete I-730 caseload data.

Fine with me. I'd tweaked the I-730 response a bit. Otherwise looks good to me. We just need to add the stats and the tables Jen has.

Whatever we have already scheduled.

Go ahead with the interviews that you are recommending we keep. I already told DHS we are going ahead with Vienna. The one issue we might have is after the review of the process if we are adding anything to vetting or interviewing you may have to revisit the cases you are now interviewing.

Lori,

We are working with RAD to provide you a consolidated response to questions below. We need clarification from you on question #3. Are you seeking all Circuit Rides scheduled for Q2?

Barbara/Joanna,

I need some information.

1. How many refugees are travel ready and by that I mean we've completed everything and they could get on a plane. I want a breakdown by nationality.

RESPONSE: We have to request this information from PRM to extract from WRAPS. Additionally, RAD has been told to work with the RSCs to provide the most detailed information about cases as not everything is reflected in WRAPS.

2. I know you already did it but give me a list of where we are on circuit rides right now, how many officers, and what the populations look like.
South Africa - Sudanese/Somalis, team of 4
Malaysia (sp) - Rohinga team of 4?
Make corrections where I have things wrong

RESPONSE: See attached.

3. Scheduled circuit rides coming up with the same information.

RESPONSE: See attached.

4. Can we get an RSO assessment on places we would normally go that may be dangerous after this announcement. Baghdad, Turkey, Egypt, Jordan, etc. Get me a completely list of where you think that is necessary. I don't think we will be going anywhere but having the information will be helpful.

RESPONSE: Any location in the Middle East (Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Turkey, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, and UAE). We would want to closely monitor all locations as we were notified today about unrest in Vienna affecting processing.

5. IF we are only admitting 50,000 refugees do we need to do more circuit rides to reach that number. Keep in mind we may not be admitting anyone or very few people from the 7countries.

RESPONSE: USCIS will request this pipeline data extract from PRM. Without reviewing the data, our impression is that there would likely be enough refugees (excluding the 7 nationalities) to ensure 20K additional admissions. We understand that that RSC could pivot to other nationalities for pre-screening if necessary. We also may have to conduct re-interviews on any post-interview refugees that are in the pipeline in order to apply extreme vetting measures.

6. Please get me the number of I730s we have ready to interview or have interviewed that could travel. Break it down that way with nationalities. I also need it broken down by Asylum vs Refugee following to join.

I know this is a tall order. I have a call at 4 and would appreciate anything you can get me by then.

Also, if you have any suggestions on how to handle case by case reviews (you'll need to have something that represents additional vetting) let me have that to run up the chain. If we can get that cleared we might be able to move ahead with some case by case review.

Sorry for the fire drill on a Sunday especially when we had one on Saturday too.

Thanks,
Lori

We also may have to conduct re-interviews on any post-interview refugees that are in the pipeline in order to apply extreme vetting measures.

QUESTION 6

Please get me the number of I730s we have ready to interview or have interviewed that could travel. Break it down that way with nationalities. I also need it broken down by Asylum vs Refugee following to join.

RESPONSE: Only IO data is reported below which represents approximately 40-45% of total I-730 caseload worldwide. Please note DOS/Consular Affairs does roughly 50% of these interviews. USCIS will request statistics from State/PRM and State/Consular Affairs to try to obtain complete I-730 caseload data.

I've updated our nationality chart with the circuit ride information. Maura – do you just want to add IOs to this? I'm still trying to track down information for Narau to add before we submit to Lori.

Barbara – I'm online. I think what is being asked for is the number of circuit riders along with this nationality breakdown (attached). Is that correct? If so, I can add the number of circuit riders to this list.

Maura - Looks like we should do a consolidated response.

On #1, I will ask PRM.

#2: can IO take the lead since you have more folks in motion? As you know, RAD just has 1 officer in Vienna, interviewing Iranian religious minorities.

#3: I've got a hard copy of RAD's Q2 circuit ride which I can type up. MM, if you are online can you let me know? Would you have access to the electronic version of the breakdown that you put together?

#4: I don't think that we can get RSO assessments today. I'm not sure how willing they will be to devote resources to this request when the likelihood of our traveling is small. Also query how meaningful an assessment today would be for travel at future dates.

#5: Since we have admitted about 30K refugees this year, there are about 20K slots remaining. I don't have the data in front of me, but surely we have over 20K in the pipeline. That said, it might still make sense to continue interview to address especially vulnerable applicants, religious minorities, and those subject to international agreements (e.g., Nauru).

#6: can IO take the lead?

Barbara/Joanna,

I need some information.

1. How many refugees are travel ready and by that I mean we've completed everything and they could get on a plane. I want a breakdown by nationality.

2. I know you already did it but give me a list of where we are on circuit rides right now, how many officers, and what the populations look like.
South Africa - Sudanese/Somalis, team of 4
Malaysia (sp) - Rohinga team of 4?
Make corrections where I have things wrong.

3. Scheduled circuit rides coming up with the same information.

4. Can we get an RSO assessment on places we would normally go that may be dangerous after this announcement. Baghdad, Turkey, Egypt, Jordan, etc. Get me a completely list of where you think that is necessary. I don't think we will be going anywhere but having the information will be helpful.

5. IF we are only admitting 50,000 refugees do we need to do more circuit rides to reach that number. Keep in mind we may not be admitting anyone or very few people from the 7countries.

6. Please get me the number of I730s we have ready to interview or have interviewed that could travel. Break it down that way with nationalities. I also need it broken down by Asylum vs Refugee following to join.

I know this is a tall order. I have a call at 4 and would appreciate anything you can get me by then.

Also, if you have any suggestions on how to handle case by case reviews (you'll need to have something that represents additional vetting) let me have that to run up the chain. If we can get that cleared we might be able to move ahead with some case by case review.

Sorry for the fire drill on a Sunday especially when we had one on Saturday too.

Thanks,
Lori

Joanna,

I've tried to put down the information requested (tweaking but not erasing the bullet they had already added). I did not list the information exactly as you outlined it but can do that if better...or can adapt to it tomorrow when hopefully we will have numbers to fill in.

I think at this point it can wait until tomorrow and we can regroup. Wondering how hard it will be to get the RAD data updated in CAMINO, at least to show a completion, so we know how many are pending. There must be some way that RAD is tracking what is pending so you know what is on your plate. You can advise on that tomorrow.

I think the only thing we are late on is reporting on the command center request on pending refugee interviews. Let's get that out and then time for people to rest.

Lori,

Please find attached questions to your answers. I am reviewing myself now, as well, but want you to have what we have for the call. I fear they are not as complete as we would like, but are the best we can do right now. Will work to get more complete info. With respect to interviews in offices where we have "ongoing," I know you would like more concrete info. We will have to wait for those offices to be open to know if there are any interviews schedule in Havana or Bangkok for this week. I do know we have interviews for Moscow and New Delhi, as we have mentioned previously.

We are still working on the I-730 stats. We have to write a special script to get the info based on whether is refugee or asylee following to join and Jess has been working on it.

Let me know if you have questions.

Just also a reminder that we also still need guidance on refugee travel docs (among others), but want to be sure that is on your radar screen.

Whatever we have already scheduled.

Go ahead with the interviews that you are recommending we keep. I already told DHS we are going ahead with Vienna. The one issue we might have is after the review of the process if we are adding anything to vetting or interviewing you may have to revisit the cases you are now interviewing.

Barbara/Joanna,

I need some information.

1. How many refugees are travel ready and by that I mean we've completed everything and they could get on a plane. I want a breakdown by nationality.

RESPONSE: We have to request this information from PRM to extract from WRAPS. Additionally, RAD has been told to work with the RSCs to provide the most detailed information about cases as not everything is reflected in WRAPS.

2. I know you already did it but give me a list of where we are on circuit rides right now, how many officers, and what the populations look like.
   South Africa - Sudanese/Somalis, team of 4
   Malaysia (sp) - Rohinga team of 4?

RESPONSE: See attached.

4. Can we get an RSO assessment on places we would normally go that may be dangerous after this announcement. Baghdad, Turkey, Egypt, Jordan, etc. Get me a completely list of where you think that is necessary. I don't think we will be going anywhere but having the information will be helpful.

RESPONSE: Any location in the Middle East (Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Turkey, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, and UAE). We would want to closely monitor all locations as we were notified today about unrest in Vienna affecting processing.

5. IF we are only admitting 50,000 refugees do we need to do more circuit rides to reach that number. Keep in mind we may not be admitting anyone or very few people from the 7countries.

RESPONSE: USCIS will request this pipeline data extract from PRM. Without reviewing the data, our impression is that there would likely be enough refugees (excluding the 7 nationalities) to ensure 20K additional admissions. We understand that that RSC could pivot to other nationalities for pre-screening if necessary. We also may have to conduct re-interviews on any post-interview refugees that are in the pipeline in order to apply extreme vetting measures.

6. Please get me the number of I730s we have ready to interview or have interviewed that could travel. Break it down that way with nationalities. I also need it broken down by Asylum vs Refugee following to join.

RESPONSE: Only IO data is reported below which represents approximately 40-45% of total I-730 caseload worldwide. Please note DOS/Consular Affairs does roughly 50% of these interviews. USCIS will request statistics from State/PRM and State/Consular Affairs to try to obtain complete I-730 caseload data.

I know this is a tall order. I have a call at 4 and would appreciate anything you can get me by then.

Also, if you have any suggestions on how to handle case by case reviews (you'll need to have something that represents additional vetting) let me have that to run up the chain. If we can get that cleared we might be able to move ahead with some case by case review.

Sorry for the fire drill on a Sunday especially when we had one on Saturday too.

Thanks,
Lori

DDs/DDDs,

Just to clarify, below is the official guidance for you to follow right now. The draft guidance that you commented on this past weekend has not yet been cleared for issuance and the situation continues to evolve. You'll note there were some differences between the guidance I provided below and what had been in the draft guidance I had you comment on. Please only follow the guidance below for now.

Thanks,

Maura

Importance: High

DDs/DDDs,

I realize that you have many questions about the Executive Order and appreciate that you have been sending them forward. Please continue to do so. Unfortunately, things remain in flux and we do not have cleared guidance we can provide other than the following for the next few days or less (if we get additional guidance sooner):

- Do not issue any final approvals for any I-730 refugee following to join cases. Further guidance will be coming about how to update CAMINO, etc.
- Do not issue any final approvals for any other application, including I-730 asylee following to join adjudication and travel eligibility cases for nationals or dual nationals of the 7 countries referenced in the Executive Order (Iraq, Iran, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, and Yemen), with the exception of I-131As (see attached email). You can approve I-131As for all applicants following existing guidance, which requires that you flag for HQ any with serious derogatory information for possible discretionary denials. Further guidance will be coming.
- If you have refugee cases scheduled for Monday or Tuesday of this week, please cancel them if there is sufficient time to do so. If there is not sufficient time to cancel, then please collect the applicant's biometrics, review his or her bio-data for accuracy and completeness, and inform the applicant that he/she will be notified when the case is able to proceed in the future.

Right now, we are staying the course on the refugee CR in Indonesia; the team on the ground can continue interviewing and processing the cases there until further notice.

The above guidance is only a stop-gap to assist in addressing the most urgent needs for the next couple of days when more detailed cleared guidance can be issued. Also, for awareness, OCOMM is working on talking points and FAQs related to the Executive Order, which should be issued via USCIS Broadcast soon.

I appreciate the difficulty of being on the front line and getting inquiries from the public and others for which we don't yet have complete answers. Many people throughout the Agency and Department are working hard to sort out the impact of the E.O. on the Agency, and I will continue to keep you posted.

Thank you for your continued patience as we navigate the current policy changes.

Subject:	Touch base call on EOs

Hi all,

As information relative to the impact of the EO continues to evolve, I thought it would be worthwhile to have another DD/DDD touch base call tomorrow morning, Tuesday, January 31, at 8:30 a.m. ET. That way I can share with you the latest information. There is reluctance to put out guidance in writing at the moment, as issues continue to morph and the agency is focusing on official guidance that will come out from Lori S. In the meantime, though, I can share with you any updates and collect additional questions from you.

For awareness, Debbie Benedict will be taking the lead with me in addressing any implementation issues related to the EO affecting parole programs. Jen Kliska will be helping me with the refugee and visa-related EO. They will be working closely with the other BCs who also have equities in these issues. Please cc them on any correspondence related to the EOs. Thanks!

I'll have Kierra send out an invite to you shortly. Hoping this timing will work – please do let me know if you have an issue. And I'm happy to continue to host these calls at regular intervals if they are helpful to you. We can chat about that tomorrow.

Kierra – can you assist in sending out an invite from me with a call-in number to those on this message?

Thanks,

Maura

Lori,

Please find attached questions to your answers. I am reviewing myself now, as well, but want you to have what we have for the call. I fear they are not as complete as we would like, but are the best we can do right now. Will work to get more complete info. With respect to interviews in offices where we have "ongoing," I know you would like more concrete info. We will have to wait for those offices to be open to know if there are any interviews schedule in Havana or Bangkok for this week. I do know we have interviews for Moscow and New Delhi, as we have mentioned previously.

We are still working on the I-730 stats. We have to write a special script to get the info based on whether is refugee or asylee following to join and Jess has been working on it.

Let me know if you have questions.

Just also a reminder that we also still need guidance on refugee travel docs (among others), but want to be sure that is on your radar screen.

Whatever we have already scheduled.

Go ahead with the interviews that you are recommending we keep. I already told DHS we are going ahead with Vienna. The one issue we might have is after the review of the process if we are adding anything to vetting or interviewing you may have to revisit the cases you are now interviewing.

Barbara/Joanna,

I need some information.

1. How many refugees are travel ready and by that I mean we've completed everything and they could get on a plane. I want a breakdown by nationality.

RESPONSE: We have to request this information from PRM to extract from WRAPS. Additionally, RAD has been told to work with the RSCs to provide the most detailed information about cases as not everything is reflected in WRAPS.

2. I know you already did it but give me a list of where we are on circuit rides right now, how many officers, and what the populations look like.
South Africa - Sudanese/Somalis, team of 4
Malaysia (sp) - Rohinga team of 4?
Make corrections where I have things wrong

RESPONSE: See attached.

3. Scheduled circuit rides coming up with the same information.

Thanks. I have not read the attachment yet, but I agree that we should not process I-131As form the 7 countries until we get more guidance. From what I read in the press, the issue of LPRs is still quite muddy. Although Lori has told us this does not apply to LRPs, I think we need to get that in writing from the department. You can let them know that we have received some conflicting guidance on this and so agree we need to wait until we get something in writing from the Department. Might come today.

Maura,

Please see EMEA's full comments attached. In quick summary:

1. We strongly urge the cancelation of the Cape Town CR today and that our officers should not interview tomorrow. If it is too late to inform the applicants of the cancelation, then the officers can stay on the ground and fingerprint only until further guidance is provided.
2. There should be bright line guidance on both I-590s and I-730s without carve outs at this time, since we do not yet have the authority to make the exceptions the EO mentions.
    a. For both I-730s and I-590s, cancel all interviews for now. If the interview cannot be canceled before the individual appears at our office, we should only fingerprint them. No exceptions for now.
3. We suggest completing RFRs if the decision would result in the underlying denial being upheld (which occurs approx. 65% of the time in EMEA).

4. We need cleared language for a wide variety of inquiries our offices are starting to get, both by phone and email. Examples are given in the attached comments. Even if that cleared language is simply "guidance will be forthcoming; please refer to the USCIS website" or "please contact CBP."
5. We do not agree our offices should adjudicate I-131As and issue boarding letters to individuals from any of the 7 named countries. This puts our FODs and officers who will sign off on these letters in a delicate position and may give the wrong signal to the individual, when ultimately CBP will have the final determination.

We very much appreciate how challenging it is to develop guidance right now. Thank you for the opportunity to provide input.

Re: your request for comments on the interim guidance.

Part E references not issuing final decisions on any other form types. This should be clarified to address:

A. Does it include Forms I-407 since this is not an application or petition.

B. Is it intended to include beneficiaries irrespective of age? E.g., an I-130 or I-600 filed by a USC parent on behalf of a child from one of the designated countries.

C. Does it apply to mil Natz N-400s filed by members of the US military or eligible spouses who are nationals of one of the designated countries?

D. Does it apply to I-130s filed by a USC member of the military on behalf of a spouse or child who is a national of one of the designated countries?

Probably more to follow.

DDs/DDDs,

We are continuing to seek clarification on elements of the E.O. signed Friday night, so the situation remains rather fluid. That said, the attached is a draft outline of the guidance I'm hoping you can review – I want to ensure I've captured our immediate needs, understanding that we'll have fuller guidance once DHS implementing guidance is issued and USCIS is able to issue its own, as well. If you are able to provide a quick review and get me any comments or questions tomorrow, I'll incorporate your feedback into the 'final' interim guidance to the field tomorrow. Continue to send questions my way – they've been very helpful in flagging issues we need to address.

Still no decision on our 2 CRs. At this point, I don't expect I'll have a further update until after their processed ends on Monday, so the teams should plan to proceed business as usual. Hopefully with this knowledge they can fully enjoy their Sunday. I appreciate their patience very much; limbo is not a desirable place to be.

Thank you!

The Policy and general objectives language at the beginning pulls key language from the EO for quick reference when we're drafting statements. The date conversion chart indicates the calendar dates associated with any specific timeframe mentioned in the EO.

I am working to convert this to Excel over the weekend so it's a little more scalable, but wanted to pass it on for initial use.

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

State has also issued guidance. Will forward.

Thanks for sending this, Lori.

As we've discussed, the most urgent question is whether adjustments and extensions or changes of nonimmigrant status are impacted. Separately, is there any impact on petitions for beneficiaries abroad since we would not be determining admissibility? I would think not, but it would be good to have clarity.

If we can define "suspend processing" as "suspend prior to approval", then one option would be to continue with the interviews, since it is likely we have some that are scheduled as soon as Monday for affected applicants and then hold the cases post interview. We are trying to scrape our schedulers (C4 and NASS) to see when and where we have interviews scheduled for individuals from affected countries. We should have that sometime Monday.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension (b)(5) of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person [redacted]
We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

The Policy and general objectives language at the beginning pulls key language from the EO for quick reference when we're drafting statements. The date conversion chart indicates the calendar dates associated with any specific timeframe mentioned in the EO.

I am working to convert this to Excel over the weekend so it's a little more scalable, but wanted to pass it on for initial use.

Please let me know if you have any questions or see anything that needs editing.

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

Subject: Executive Order impacting refugee admissions -- flagging issue

Lori and Tracy,

I just wanted to flag a couple of issues for you related to section (5)(f) of the draft executive order that would temporarily suspend most refugee processing.

(f)(a) provides that notwithstanding the temporary suspension, "the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security may continue to process as refugees those refugee claims made by individuals on the basis of religious-based persecution, provided that the religion of the individual is a minority religion in the individual's country of nationality."

We need to know if this will be interpreted to mean that we can continue interviewing and making decisions on Lautenberg cases in Vienna and Moscow. We currently have a RAD circuit rider in Vienna conducting these interviews, and we interview Lautenberg cases 4 days a week in Moscow.

Also, we will need to know whether to pull back the teams currently in South Africa (circuit ride scheduled to end February 3) and Indonesia (circuit ride scheduled to end February 10). One thing to note is that we are interviewing some Rohingya (religious minority) in Indonesia, so arguably they could fall within the exception.

We will need guidance on this ASAP, assuming the language in the final order remains the same. So flagging this to you as something to possibly flag to the Department.

Importance: High

Sorry. I had missed that. Things are moving quickly and shotgun.

So I think all we are waiting for refugee processing guidance on the following, with the most urgent one being South Africa so we can get PRM to start cancelling the interviews and the other locations, so staff know what to do while we sleep tonight (I have included our recommended course of action here):

2. Can we continue interviewing in Indonesia? We recommend that we continue, based on consultations with our APAC leadership and PRM.

They are almost all Rohingya, with just five Afghan refugees (and there are concerned about cancelling only for Afghan and how to message that). The Rohingya transferred from Aceh to Medan for interview are from the 2015 Migrant at Sea Crisis who Indonesia allowed to disembark only after we committed to considering them for resettlement. The Govt of Indonesia allowed them, after much lobbying by Embassy Jakarta , to be transferred to Medan for USRAP processing under the condition that the process be completed in 6 months or they would be transferred back to Aceh. So the clock is ticking and it would be problematic if their continued processing and eventual departure is delayed for 120 days and they be transferred back to poor living conditions in Aceh and away from areas where we can access the refugees.

3. Should we continue interviews in South Africa? We think it would not be the best use of resources to continue to interview this population and intend to move forward to curtail those interviews. We recommend that we do NOT continue interviews.

4. Should we continue interviews in Moscow? We have Lautenberg interviews scheduled in Moscow all week. This includes P1s and Lautenberg (largely Ukrainian religious minorities traveling in from the Ukraine for their interviews). Some of the P-1s travel in from remote areas. Our proposed plan:

   Where someone may already be in transit, we intend to continue with the interview if the individual was a Lautenberg or other religious minority, even though we are all still awaiting guidance on how the religious minority exception may be defined. For those other P1s, we intend to collect prints and inform them of the suspension, but not conduct an interview. We don't want to continue interviewing if we may have to do reinterviews later based on a new or amended approach to processing.

5. We believe we have P-1s also scheduled in New Delhi. Would follow same approach as above.

For reference - current circuit rides:

1. Cape Town, South Africa (total number of cases is 166) – deployed through February 3:
   a. 92% nationality is Somali – Claims are mostly based on religious beliefs (different interpretations of Islam than Al Shabaab)
   b. 8% nationality is Democratic Republic of Congo – Claims are nationality claims based on tribe.

2. Indonesia (total number of cases is 130) – deployed through February 10:
    a. 95% nationality is Burmese – religious minority Rohingya population
    b. 5% nationality is Afghan – No claim info available
3. Vienna (RAD CR – one officer is currently onsite processing cases) – deployed through February 24:
    a. 100% from Iran – claims are religious persecution as either Assyrian/Armenian Christians or Bahai
    b. Note that these cases must obtain special visas to enter Austria and can only remain in Vienna for a very limited amount of time.

Subject: a couple of urgent issues

Lori and Tracy,

I know you get a ton of emails, so per the exchange I just had with Lori, below is the list of questions I sent last night, and again please note that it would be wonderful if we could get answers today. Our staff in Asia will begin working our Sunday evening and staff in EMEA while we sleep tonight (if we sleep tonight). Amman is working today, so we already got some guidance out to them. Most urgently we need to know ASAP whether we can cancel the interviews in Cape Town tomorrow and for the rest of the circuit ride. 92% of the cases are Somali. We do not believe that it is in the interest of the USG to interview them at this time, given that the protocols are going to change.

Also need to know about Vienna (I know you have had exchanges with Barbara on this, as well) and Moscow for Monday interviews.

We also need to know whether we should hold off issuing any boarding letters to LPRs from the identified countries, based on lost/stolen green cards.

If you can provide guidance before the 5:00 call, that would be great. If not, we hope we can get that info then.

If it would help to have a quick chat about this, please let me know.

Thanks,

Joanna

Urgent time-sensitive questions (need answers by Sunday evening, if possible):

1. Can the officer in Vienna resume interview on Monday? In light of the "notwithstanding" language at Sec. 5(e), we propose that he continue w/interviews as planned.

   In particular, that section says that the USRAP can use discretion to admit refugees during the 120-day suspension "when admitting the person would enable the United States to conform its conduct to a preexisting international agreement..." We have such an agreement w/Austria. What we are proposing is not actually ADMISSIONS, however, but continuing w/RAD interviews, which seems in keeping with the intent and spirit of this provision. Since these applicants are Iranian religious minorities, we believe that their future admission would need to be assessed under the 90-day rule in Sec. 3.

2. Can we continue interviewing in Indonesia? We recommend that we continue, at least for the Rohingya population. PRM's guidance to RSC's is to continue processing around the world and just to cancel travel for the affected population, and we are working with them on determining best course of action for this caseload.

3. Should we continue interviews in South Africa? We think it would not be the best use of resources to continue to interview this population and intend to move forward to curtail those interviews. We are consulting with PRM.

4. Should we continue interviews in Moscow? We have Lautenberg interviews scheduled in Moscow all week. This includes P1s and Lautenberg (largely Ukrainian religious minorities traveling in from the Ukraine for their interviews). Some of the P-1s travel in from remote areas. Our proposed plan:

For those other P1s, we intend to collect prints and inform them of the suspension, but not conduct an interview. We don't want to continue interviewing if we may have to do reinterviews later based on a new or amended approach to processing.

5. We believe we have P-1s also scheduled in New Delhi. Would follow same approach as above.

Less Urgent:

6. Should we resume planning scheduling CR for Nauru (originally planned for Feb. 5-6, but suspended). We believe this falls under the "preexisting international agreement" provision is the USG agreement w/Australia concerning Nauru. State believes that having visible evidence of progress is important to both the Australian gov't and to the refugees, whose hopelessness has led to violence, self-harm, non-compliance, etc.

Asylum Processing:

1. Does the suspension apply to processing affirmative asylum applications filed by individuals from the countries on the list?

    - We have notified field leadership that they should arrange to stop any decision-issuance to asylum applicants from the listed countries until they are instructed otherwise.
    - We have told them to review their upcoming schedules and prepare to cancel any interviews for nationals from the listed countries. They were told not to actually begin cancelling the interviews until they received further guidance from HQ.

Refugee Travel Documents:

Should USCIS continue to issue refugee travel documents (domestically and abroad) to those not on the list? IO currently has a number of pending requests for refugee documents and the vast majority are Iraqi and the individuals are currently in Iraq. Will issue guidance to suspend processing those on the list, but what about the others?

TRIG:

Should we tell staff to hold off on approving cases for existing TRIG exemptions while all exemptions are being reviewed for possible rescission?

I-730's Processed Abroad:

1. Can USCIS continue to process following-to-join (I-730) applications for asylee family members from countries not on the list (e.g., China)? State's guidance to consular officers is to continue processing those. We have not issued any yet.
2. If we issued a travel document to a refugee FTJ or an asylee FTJ from one of the 7 countries before the 1/27/17 E.O. and the beneficiary hasn't traveled yet, should we try to get the travel document or packet back?

That is correct. So my recommendation would be that we continue to process and then work with OCC to do the necessary work to enable us to collect biometric in the future.

Lori and Tracy,

We do not collect fingerprints for boarding letters. We do TECS and other checks, but no biometrics. Never have. We can instruct staff to begin that ASAP tomorrow and amend our SOP, if you believe we should be collecting fingerprints from the LPRs (assuming OCC is OK with this, given that it is not included in the instructions to the form or on the web site). All,

I am still trying to get you a list of questions in a more coordinate way for Monday morning, but some of the more time-sensitive for your call at 4:00 (if you get this in time), given we need to get guidance out to staff around the world by tomorrow night.

1. Does the suspension apply to processing affirmative asylum applications filed by individuals from the countries on the list? [We are prepared to send out an message to suspend issuance of any final decisions and interviews for now]

2. Can USCIS continue to interview refugees who are religious-based minorities or should we cancel all scheduled interviews at this time?

3. Can USCIS continue to process following-to-join (I-730) applications for asylee family members from countries not on the list (e.g., China)? [State's guidance to consular officers is to continue processing those. We have not issued any yet.]

4. Should we stop issuing travel documents to those on the list who are LPRs whose green cards have been lost or stolen?

Thanks,

All-

The 2:45 call did not address any of our outstanding issues. The call centered on a group of travel ready refugees and a discussion on whether to recommend applying a waiver allowing them to travel and be admitted. However, there is a WH principals' call at 4:00 that Lori will be on and we were encouraged to send our questions forward in advance of that call so DHS can either get us answers based on their knowledge or address the questions during the 4:00 call. Lori will be forwarding those questions. Stay tuned, we may have some guidance on at least some of our issues later today.

I think that's the case with all benefits within the country, isn't it? The EO says examine benefit processes but the only thing it cuts off is entry into the United States from abroad, as I read it. Is that others' understanding? So if we mention natz, which I am certainly not suggesting we shouldn't, then we probably should expand the item to cover other benefits within the US. Thanks, Phil

Jeff,

I posed this question to DHS HQ just this morning because we had a 1:00 ceremony at the WAS field office with five individuals from the seven countries. I got a response back from DHS just before 1:00 indicating that we were good to go ahead with naturalizing those individuals. So, the answer is no, it does not apply to candidates for naturalization.

One question I could see for us, even though it is somewhat answered in the first question below: Does the Executive Order apply to those currently being adjudicated for naturalization?

Subject: current list of time-sensitive questions

All,

Here is what I plan to send to Jessica Walters later tonight. Let me know if you have anything else you want me to include. Barbara – this does not include the ongoing side-conversations about who can still travel, as I think that is outside this tasker.

RAIO Time Sensitive Questions on the Executive Order

Refugee Processing – what can continue?

For reference - current circuit rides:

1. Cape Town, South Africa (total number of cases is 166) – deployed through February 3:
   a. 92% nationality is Somali – Claims are mostly based on religious beliefs (different interpretations of Islam than Al Shabaab)
   b. 8% nationality is Democratic Republic of Congo – Claims are nationality claims based on tribe.
2. Indonesia (total number of cases is 130) – deployed through February 10:
   a. 95% nationality is Burmese – religious minority Rohingya population
   b. 5% nationality is Afghan – No claim info available
3. Vienna (RAD CR – one officer is currently onsite processing cases) – deployed through February 24:
   a. 100% from Iran – claims are religious persecution as either Assyrian/Armenian Christians or Bahai
   b. Note that these cases must obtain special visas to enter Austria and can only remain in Vienna for a very limited amount of time.

Urgent time-sensitive questions (need answers by Sunday evening, if possible):

1. Can the officer in Vienna resume interview on Monday? In light of the "notwithstanding" language at Sec. 5(e), we propose that he continue w/interviews as planned.

   In particular, that section says that the USRAP can use discretion to admit refugees during the 120-day suspension "when admitting the person would enable the United States to conform its conduct to a preexisting international agreement..." We have such an agreement w/Austria. What we are proposing is not actually ADMISSIONS, however, but continuing w/RAD interviews, which seems in keeping with the intent and spirit of this provision. Since these applicants are Iranian religious minorities, we believe that their future admission would need to be assessed under the 90-day rule in Sec. 3.

2. Can we continue interviewing in Indonesia? We recommend that we continue, at least for the Rohingya population. PRM's guidance to RSC's is to continue processing around the world and just to cancel travel for the affected population, but they are OK with this proposal.

3. Should we continue interviews in South Africa? We think it would not be the best use of resources to continue to interview this population and intend to move forward to curtail those interviews. PRM is OK with this proposal. Not sure they are okay with this yet. They wanted to wait until Monday to discuss.

4. Should we continue interviews in Moscow? We have Lautenberg interviews scheduled in Moscow all week. This includes P1s and Lautenberg (largely Ukrainian religious minorities traveling in from the Ukraine for their interviews). Some of the P-1s travel in from remote areas. Our proposed plan:

   Where someone may already be in transit, we intend to continue with the interview if the individual was a Lautenberg or other religious minority, even though we are all still awaiting guidance on how the religious minority exception may be defined. For those other P1s, we intend to collect prints and inform them of the suspension, but not conduct an interview. We don't want to continue interviewing if we may have to do reinterviews later based on a new or amended approach to processing.

5. We believe we have P-1s also scheduled in New Delhi. Would follow same approach as above.

Less Urgent:

6. Should we resume planning scheduling CR for Nauru (originally planned for Feb. 5-6, but suspended). We believe this falls under the "preexisting international agreement" provision is the USG agreement w/Australia concerning Nauru. State believes that having visible evidence of progress is important to both the Australian gov't and to the refugees, whose hopelessness has led to violence, self-harm, non-compliance, etc.

Asylum Processing:

1. Does the suspension apply to processing affirmative asylum applications filed by individuals from the countries on the list?

   - We have notified field leadership that they should arrange to stop any decision-issuance to asylum applicants from the listed countries until they are instructed otherwise.
   - We have told them to review their upcoming schedules and prepare to cancel any interviews for nationals from the listed countries. They were told not to actually begin cancelling the interviews until they received further guidance from HQ.

Refugee Travel Documents:

Should USCIS continue to issue refugee travel documents (domestically and abroad) to those not on the list? IO currently has a number of pending requests for refugee documents and the vast majority are Iraqi and the individuals are currently in Iraq. Will issue guidance to suspend processing those on the list, but what about the others? Would it make a difference if the applicant has already adjusted and become an LPR versus simply have refugee or asylee status?

TRIG:

Should we tell staff to hold off on approving cases for existing TRIG exemptions while all exemptions are being reviewed for possible rescission?

I-730's Processed Abroad:

1. Can USCIS continue to process following-to-join (I-730) applications for asylee family members from countries not on the list (e.g., China)? State's guidance to consular officers is to continue processing those. We have not issued any yet.
2. If we issued a travel document to a refugee FTJ or an asylee FTJ from one of the 7 countries before the 1/27/17 E.O. and the beneficiary hasn't traveled yet, should we try to get the travel document or packet back? Beneficiaries may have sold their belongings, etc, in preparation for travel to the US.

OK. Will get you what is still scheduled for Q2 aside from what is ongoing now. Just to confirm, and here is the consolidated list for interviews for this coming week and the actions we plan on taking, until we get any further guidance. Would very much appreciate confirmation on plan of action and answer to question below:

Vienna: We will continue with interviews
Indonesia: We will continue with all interviews
Moscow: Where someone may already be in transit, we intend to continue with the interview if the individual was a Lautenberg or other religious minority, even though we are all still awaiting guidance on how the religious minority exception may be defined. For those other P1s, we intend to collect prints and inform them of the suspension, but not conduct an interview. We don't want to continue interviewing if we may have to do reinterviews later based on a new or amended approach to processing.
New Delhi: Same as above with respect to religious minorities

Also, we would like to cancel all interviews scheduled for the rest of the Circuit Ride in Cape Town, which is mostly Somali. Can we move forward with cancelling? Please confirm.

Thanks,

Joanna

Whatever we have already scheduled.

Go ahead with the interviews that you are recommending we keep. I already told DHS we are going ahead with Vienna. The one issue we might have is after the review of the process if we are adding anything to vetting or interviewing you may have to revisit the cases you are now interviewing.

Barbara/Joanna,

I need some information.

1. How many refugees are travel ready and by that I mean we've completed everything and they could get on a plane. I want a breakdown by nationality.

2. I know you already did it but give me a list of where we are on circuit rides right now, how many officers, and what the populations look like.
   South Africa - Sudanese/Somalis, team of 4
   Malaysia (sp) - Rohinga team of 4?

Make corrections where I have things wrong.

3. Scheduled circuit rides coming up with the same information.

4. Can we get an RSO assessment on places we would normally go that may be dangerous after this announcement. Baghdad, Turkey, Egypt, Jordan, etc. Get me a completely list of where you think that is necessary. I don't think we will be going anywhere but having the information will be helpful.

5. IF we are only admitting 50,000 refugees do we need to do more circuit rides to reach that number. Keep in mind we may not be admitting anyone or very few people from the 7countries.

6. Please get me the number of I730s we have ready to interview or have interviewed that could travel. Break it down that way with nationalities. I also need it broken down by Asylum vs Refugee following to join.

I know this is a tall order. I have a call at 4 and would appreciate anything you can get me by then.

Also, if you have any suggestions on how to handle case by case reviews (you'll need to have something that represents additional vetting) let me have that to run up the chain. If we can get that cleared we might be able to move ahead with some case by case review.

Sorry for the fire drill on a Sunday especially when we had one on Saturday too.

Thanks,
Lori

I also don't think that the language of the EO and the cited INA sections indicate that asylum interviews should stop or decisions should be held up, but it is probably wise to confirm rather than proceed and get told otherwise later. I have instructed the offices to continue to accept and process CF and RF referrals since we are not granting any benefit. The only thing that we have actually instructed a pause on until we get an answer is the issuance of decisions on asylum cases. Offices were just told to prepare for possible cancellation of interviews, but they are to proceed unless/until instructed otherwise.

The Policy and general objectives language at the beginning pulls key language from the EO for quick reference when we're drafting statements. The date conversion chart indicates the calendar dates associated with any specific timeframe mentioned in the EO.

I am working to convert this to Excel over the weekend so it's a little more scalable, but wanted to pass it on for initial use.

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person. [redacted]
We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

Joanna – this is what I'd like to send to the Field Managers. I'll attach the EO when I send it for their reference.

International Managers,

We continue to work as rapidly as possible to get clarification on implementation of the Executive Order signed on January 27, 2017 (attached for reference), and are working on detailed guidance to help field staff address various scenarios you may be encountering overseas. In the meantime, please follow the below guidance for the next few days until more complete guidance is available:

1. Refugee-Related Processing

A. For all I-590 Refugee Cases (all nationalities), all I-730 Refugee Follow-to-Join cases (all nationalities), and I-730 Asylee Follow-to-Join cases where the beneficiary is a national of Iraq, Iran, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, and Yemen:

1. Interview already scheduled this week, sufficient time to cancel
   - Cancel interview, even if Lautenberg or other religious minority case. We will offer further guidance on these types of cases as soon as it is available.
   - If I-730 cases, pause CAMINO Clock effective 1/27/2017; enter note "Per Executive Order".
2. Interview already scheduled, insufficient time to cancel
   - Collect fingerprints, review bio-data on case for accuracy and completeness, and notify applicant that he/she will be contacted with additional information in the future when we are able to proceed in the processing of his or her case.

If you receive inquiries from foreign governments about any DHS equities related to the Executive Orders, please direct those inquiries to Matt King, Deputy Assistant Secretary, Policy at [redacted] Please do not provide his contact information to parties external to USCIS.

The above guidance is only a stop-gap to assist in addressing the most urgent needs for the next few days or even this week when more detailed cleared guidance can be issued. Also, for awareness, OCOMM is also working on talking points and FAQs related to the Executive Order, which should be issued via USCIS Broadcast soon.

If districts can continue to collect and consolidate questions from the field, that would be helpful. I appreciate the difficulty of being on the front line and getting inquiries from the public and others for which we don't yet have complete answers. Many people throughout the Agency and Department are working hard to sort out impact of the E.O. on the Agency. I appreciate your patience during this effort!

More to follow soon. Thank you for your continued support and dedication as we navigate the current policy changes!

All,

I am still trying to get you a list of questions in a more coordinate way for Monday morning, but some of the more time-sensitive for your call at 4:00 (if you get this in time), given we need to get guidance out to staff around the world by tomorrow night.

1. Does the suspension apply to processing affirmative asylum applications filed by individuals from the countries on the list? [We are prepared to send out an message to suspend issuance of any final decisions and interviews for now]

2. Can USCIS continue to interview refugees who are religious-based minorities or should we cancel all scheduled interviews at this time?

3. Can USCIS continue to process following-to-join (I-730) applications for asylee family members from countries not on the list (e.g., China)? [State's guidance to consular officers is to continue processing those. We have not issued any yet.]

4. Should we stop issuing travel documents to those on the list who are LPRs whose green cards have been lost or stolen?

Thanks,

Joanna

I got their legal shop on board and to provide the CBP operator's guidance. I believe that guidance is being implemented. This just means that returning refugees and asylees should not need waivers unless they are from 1 of the 7 countries.

We understand Molly had worked this out with OGC and CBP and CBP's guidance is being updated, accordingly. They should not need exemptions.

Kevin,

We are being told that refugees or who entered the U.S. as a refugee before the EO, then traveled outside of the country with a refugee travel document are not being permitted to board for return flights. Same situation for person granted asylum in the U.S. Not just the 7 identified countries but all people in this situation. Ex. There could be an asylee from China who travels to the U.K. for business or to attend a conference who can now not get back into the country. Just wondering if this was vetted with DHS and we're sure this is the intent of the EO.

I would not be surprised if the answer is yes since IVs from the 7 countries can't travel but I'm not sure the intent was to apply this to refugees or asylees from other countries who are traveling on a refugee document, which means we've already accepted them into the U.S. as a refugee or asylee.

Let me know.

Thanks,

Lori

Lori and Tracy,

I know we raised this question, but now flagging for you that CBP guidance is not to board refugees or asylees with refugee travel documents, regardless of their country, unless they have an exemption. See chart below.

This means that there could be someone who has been an asylee or a refugee living in the U.S. for some time (maybe years, in the case of an asylee), who left to go on a business meeting in the U.K. and now cannot get back to family, job, home. Is that really what was intended?

Barbara,

Yes, this has been implemented as refusal to board and admit ALL returning refugees, regardless of nationality. We just confirmed with NTC and the Executive Director of CBP's Admissibility and Passenger Programs Todd Hoffman that this is the policy. The Commissioner has not been very keen to sign waivers to admit those who somehow were able to board. I am told that this policy was negotiated with State Department. Is that the case?

Please see below for the specific NTC guidance regarding boarding. Apologies for the quality. There's no scanner in the crisis room.

Please let me know if there's anything I can do to help.

I know this conversation is probably being had at much higher levels, but I wanted to flag that CBP is denying boarding to returning refugees with refugee travel documents are still being denied boarding and entry, despite the fact that the EO does not prohibit this explicitly. Do we know under what authority this could be done?

I am trying to track down the decision makers here.

Subject: Updates on refugee process and EO

Lori and Tracy,

Just wanted to get you the latest info, some of which may be helpful to send up to the Department. RAIO has established a daily call with PRM and below is what we learned on today's call. Also, we will be setting up a couple working groups with PRM (more to come on that later):

Exemptions:

- Barbara had already alerted you when we met this morning, but PRM noted that there were a few people who should have been on the list of 872 scheduled to travel through Feb 2, but were inadvertently left off. PRM is preparing a request for an exemption for these. In addition, some on the list were not permitted to board flights (mostly not permitted by CBP, a couple by the airlines) and now may not be able to travel by the 2nd. PRM is working with CBP on those and hopes they do not have to request another exemption at the Secretary level. [Note: may be helpful if you alert the Department to help pave the way]
- PRM has been pro-actively reaching out to CBP and airlines to alert them when people are going to travel, given the problems several have had boarding.
- PRM is going to work on categories for potential exemptions, to include Iranians in Vienna (as we know), Iraqi P-2s, among others. They will run it by us.
- PRM and RAIO will establish a working group to work on a proposed exemption process.

Pipeline:

- PRM believes there are enough people in the pipeline to meet the 50,000 this year without interviews of new cases, but we also need to have people in the pipeline for admissions next year. PRM is going to do some analysis of this. Much depends on who in the pipeline will be able to come in under the guidance in the E.O., either as an exemption or once admissions resume. We may need to reinterview some people in the pipeline, depending on what guidance results from the EO.

Interviews scheduled for Q2:

- PRM has the pen to draft a message to the RSCs letting them know that all Q2 circuit rides are being reviewed in light of the EO and it is likely they will be postponed/cancelled while we focus on exemption cases and pipeline cases that require reinterview in light of new guidance.
- We have cancelled refugee interviews in Moscow for the this week and next, including Lautenberg, in an exercise of caution, as additional guidance may be coming on type of info we need to solicit in the interviews.

Please let me know if you have questions/concerns.

Subject: Proposed message to RAIO staff on Q2 refugee processing

Lori and Tracy,

We have been working with PRM on the message they need to send to the RSCs and the message we need to send our staff regarding Q2 refugee circuit ride planning. We all agree that the existing plans are no longer relevant, so the RSCs, IO and RAD staff need to pivet to cancel plans and allocate resources elsewhere – temporarily. Any objections to our sending the message below, which parallels the message PRM is sending out to RSCs today?

Dear RAIO staff – As you know, last week we made the decision to temporarily suspend departures for both RAD and IO circuit rides until February 15. We also temporarily suspended refugee interviews at all international field offices. Following further consultations with PRM, we have jointly decided that the remaining 2nd quarter circuit ride and USCIS international field office interview schedule will be completely revised. PRM is instructing the RSCs to cancel this quarter's USCIS circuit rides and field office interviews at this time.

RAIO will be working with PRM in coming weeks and months to discuss when circuit rides and field office interviews will resume and to identify any interviews that will be needed to reach this year's revised goal of 50,000 admissions, as well as the FY18 ceiling, which has not yet been determined. At this time, we do not have any information to share on 3rd and 4th quarter circuit rides or field office processing, but we will continue to share additional information as it becomes available.

OK. Will get you what is still scheduled for Q2 aside from what is ongoing now. Just to confirm, and here is the consolidated list for interviews for this coming week and the actions we plan on taking, until we get any further guidance. Would very much appreciate confirmation on plan of action and answer to question below:

Vienna: We will continue with interviews
Indonesia: We will continue with all interviews
Moscow: Where someone may already be in transit, we intend to continue with the interview if the individual was a Lautenberg or other religious minority, even though we are all still awaiting guidance on how the religious minority exception may be defined. For those other P1s, we intend to collect prints and inform them of the suspension, but not conduct an interview. We don't want to continue interviewing if we may have to do reinterviews later based on a new or amended approach to processing.
New Delhi: Same as above with respect to religious minorities

Also, we would like to cancel all interviews scheduled for the rest of the Circuit Ride in Cape Town, which is mostly Somali. Can we move forward with cancelling? Please confirm.

Barbara/Joanna,

I need some information.

1. How many refugees are travel ready and by that I mean we've completed everything and they could get on a plane. I want a breakdown by nationality.

2. I know you already did it but give me a list of where we are on circuit rides right now, how many officers, and what the populations look like.
   South Africa - Sudanese/Somalis, team of 4
   Malaysia (sp) - Rohinga team of 4?
Make corrections where I have things wrong.

3. Scheduled circuit rides coming up with the same information.

4. Can we get an RSO assessment on places we would normally go that may be dangerous after this announcement. Baghdad, Turkey, Egypt, Jordan, etc. Get me a completely list of where you think that is necessary. I don't think we will be going anywhere but having the information will be helpful.

5. IF we are only admitting 50,000 refugees do we need to do more circuit rides to reach that number. Keep in mind we may not be admitting anyone or very few people from the 7countries.

6. Please get me the number of I730s we have ready to interview or have interviewed that could travel. Break it down that way with nationalities. I also need it broken down by Asylum vs Refugee following to join.

I know this is a tall order. I have a call at 4 and would appreciate anything you can get me by then.

Also, if you have any suggestions on how to handle case by case reviews (you'll need to have something that represents additional vetting) let me have that to run up the chain. If we can get that cleared we might be able to move ahead with some case by case review.

Sorry for the fire drill on a Sunday especially when we had one on Saturday too.

Thanks,
Lori

Center Directors and Deputies,

On January 27, 2017, the President signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefits. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the entry immigrants and nonimmigrants who are from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

While we await further guidance, we must temporarily suspend adjudication of all applications, petitions or requests involving citizens or nationals of the listed countries. At this point there are no exceptions for any form types, to include I-90s or I-765s. Please physically segregate any files that are impacted by this temporary hold pending further guidance. As you would expect, we will be developing a weekly report format for you to identify the number and types of cases on hold.

We expect to issue more detailed guidance and procedures in the coming days.

Please ensure this guidance is conveyed as soon as possible to all appropriate employees and get back to us with any questions. Also, please reply to let me know each center has received this message.

Thanks,

Subject: Executive Order and Refugee Processing

RAIO Colleagues,

As you know, last week we made the decision to temporarily suspend departures for both the Refugee Affairs Division (RAD) and International Operations (IO) circuit rides until February 15. We also temporarily suspended refugee interviews at all international field offices. Following further consultations with the Department of State Bureau for Population, Refugees and Migration (PRM), we have jointly decided that the remaining 2nd quarter circuit ride and USCIS international field office interview schedule will be completely revised. PRM is instructing the Refugee Support Centers to cancel this quarter's USCIS circuit rides and field office interviews at this time.

RAIO will be working with PRM in coming weeks and months to discuss when circuit rides and field office interviews will resume and to identify any interviews that will be needed to reach this year's revised goal of 50,000 admissions, as well as the FY18 ceiling, which has not yet been determined. At this time, we do not have any information to share on 3rd and 4th quarter circuit rides or field office processing, but we will continue to share additional information as it becomes available.

I would like to encourage you to review the RAIO ECN site that we have begun building to share information with you, as well as to provide a space for questions and collaboration:

2017 Executive Orders

You will find there a place where you may submit questions anonymously. Or, you can identify yourself in case we want to get back to you with any follow up questions to clarify your question. While the site tracks number of "responses," that actually means number of questions. It may take a bit of time, but once we have a number of questions, we will work on posting the questions and responses. Also, something to watch for in the coming weeks is that we will be seeking your views on certain implementation issues through the feedback section of that ECN site (such as additional information it would be helpful to know when processing a benefit request).

Thank you for your support, flexibility and patience.

Thanks for flagging, Don. We need to first regroup with RAD and PRM to coordinate approach with respect to CRs and interview schedules in light of the injunction. I expect we'll do so this weekend or certainly on Monday. We may want to first resume arrivals to the US before rescheduling CRs. That may also allow some time for the legal situation to play out. That was one suggestion but we'll discuss options internally and with State and let you know proposed approach as soon as we can.

The immediate need for us (assuming no stay or other action reverses course), especially in view of the time difference between here and Washington, is whether we try to reschedule CRs. We have one to Sri Lanka that was to begin on Feb 13. We hit a logistical problem and would be short by one officer. No effort was made to fix this because of the EO, but if we are planing to try to go, we'll have to scramble a bit and hope to get a visa for someone asap.

CAM parolees traveling with the refugees that got waivers did not need waivers and just traveled with them. We are now in the situation as of yesterday, that no more CAM refugees are traveling (until we figure out the exemption process). But we have individuals granted parole who have booked travel as soon as Monday. I think I still have not been able to communicate the issue to you properly, given that the responses do not address the issue (at least as far as I can tell). Can we talk?

Kevin,

We are being told that refugees or who entered the U.S. as a refugee before the EO, then traveled outside of the country with a refugee travel document are not being permitted to board for return flights. Same situation for person granted asylum in the U.S. Not just the 7 identified countries but all people in this situation. Ex. There could be an asylee from China who travels to the U.K. for business or to attend a conference who can now not get back into the country. Just wondering if this was vetted with DHS and we're sure this is the intent of the EO.

I would not be surprised if the answer is yes since IVs from the 7 countries can't travel but I'm not sure the intent was to apply this to refugees or asylees from other countries who are traveling on a refugee document, which means we've already accepted them into the U.S. as a refugee or asylee.

Let me know.

Thanks,
Lori

Lori and Tracy,

I know we raised this question, but now flagging for you that CBP guidance is not to board refugees or asylees with refugee travel documents, regardless of their country, unless they have an exemption. See chart below.

This means that there could be someone who has been an asylee or a refugee living in the U.S. for some time (maybe years, in the case of an asylee), who left to go on a business meeting in the U.K. and now cannot get back to family, job, home. Is that really what was intended?

Barbara,

Yes, this has been implemented as refusal to board and admit ALL returning refugees, regardless of nationality. We just confirmed with NTC and the Executive Director of CBP's Admissibility and Passenger Programs Todd Hoffman that this is the policy. The Commissioner has not been very keen to sign waivers to admit those who somehow were able to board. I am told that this policy was negotiated with State Department. Is that the case?

Please see below for the specific NTC guidance regarding boarding. Apologies for the quality. There's no scanner in the crisis room.

Please let me know if there's anything I can do to help.

I know this conversation is probably being had at much higher levels, but I wanted to flag that CBP is denying boarding to returning refugees with refugee travel documents are still being denied boarding and entry, despite the fact that the EO does not prohibit this explicitly. Do we know under what authority this could be done?

I am trying to track down the decision makers here.

I think all this falls in three main areas:
--verification of the person's identity (biometrics, DNA)
--verification of their history (documentation/histories)
--improved interoperability nationally and internationally as the facilitator to the above two items

There may be multiple ways to achieve this, but rather than give them a list of eaches they may or may not remember as this list evolves, I'd point to the big three and use the eaches as examples.

And because I'm a bureaucrat extraordinaire—spell out EURODAC and use something more precise for "ping." (and no Ron, "pong" is not what I'm thinking.")

Hi, Claudia,

Wanted to flag for you FOD's question in the chain below and in the attached matrix regarding whether to adjudicate TRIG hold cases in light of the EO's directive to "consider rescinding" the TRIG exemptions, as FOD (reasonably) suggests that new exemptions are unlikely. Not sure exactly how all these issues will shake out or be discussed next week, but just wanted to share that it may be part of the discussion. My thoughts here! Brandon also made a good point that we need to make sure people understand that nothing in the EO prevents continuing to apply the existing exemptions.

Also, wondering whether once it's decided if we can grant natz cases at all, we should make another push with Lori to apply the exemptions to those cases while we still have them – as discussed in the WG meeting, as an application of a legal interpretation, not a policy change.

Finally, was curious whether you knew if OCC has arrived at an interpretation of what "entry" means, as used in the EO and in the context of INA 212(f), for the purposes of deciding what USCIS adjudications can go forward? We've heard most FOD, SCOPS, and RAIO adjudications from the 7 countries are currently on hold pending further guidance. Wondered whether this is precautionary at this point or if it's based on OCC's legal interpretation of the order. More here.

Subject: RE: Executive Order

I'll look more closely at the chart, but upon first glance and after reading the chain below, I wanted to raise a couple things: (b)(5)

[redacted]

(c) To temporarily reduce investigative burdens on relevant agencies during the review period described in subsection (a) of this section, to ensure the proper review and maximum utilization of available resources for the screening of foreign nationals, and to ensure that adequate standards are established to prevent infiltration by foreign terrorists or criminals, pursuant to section 212(f) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1182(f), I hereby proclaim that the immigrant and nonimmigrant entry into the United States of aliens from countries referred to in section 217(a)(12) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1187(a)(12), would be detrimental to the interests of the United States, and I hereby suspend entry into the United States, as immigrants and nonimmigrants, of such persons for 90 days from the date of this order (excluding those foreign nationals traveling on diplomatic visas, North Atlantic Treaty Organization visas, C-2 visas for travel to the United Nations, and G-1, G-2, G-3, and G-4 visas).

2. FOD has raised a question of whether TRIG hold cases should be adjudicated, indicating that the EO's directive in Section 6 to "consider rescinding" TRIG exemptions would seem to mean that new TRIG exemptions are not forthcoming. This should certainly be a question for discussion (and a reconsideration of the agency's hold policy has recently been a topic of discussion, even before this order), but nothing in the EO requires us to take this step, and I would urge that it be thoughtfully considered before a decision to adjudicate all TRIG hold cases is made. OCC has also been very involved in the discussion to adjust the TRIG hold policy, and will certainly want to weigh in on this decision also!

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this (b)(5) extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person [redacted] We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

Hi, Claudia,

Wanted to flag for you FOD's question in the chain below and in the attached matrix regarding whether to adjudicate TRIG hold cases in light of the EO's directive to "consider rescinding" the TRIG exemptions, as FOD (reasonably) suggests that new exemptions are unlikely. Not sure exactly how all these issues will shake out or be discussed next week, but just wanted to share that it may be part of the discussion. My thoughts here. Brandon also made a good point that we need to make sure people understand that nothing in the EO prevents continuing to apply the existing exemptions.

Also, wondering whether once it's decided if we can grant natz cases at all, we should make another push with Lori to apply the exemptions to those cases while we still have them – as discussed in the WG meeting, as an application of a legal interpretation, not a policy change.

Finally, was curious whether you knew if OCC has arrived at an interpretation of what "entry" means, as used in the EO and in the context of INA 212(f), for the purposes of deciding what USCIS adjudications can go forward? We've heard most FOD, SCOPS, and RAIO adjudications from the 7 countries are currently on hold pending further guidance. Wondered whether this is precautionary at this point or if it's based on OCC's legal interpretation of the order. More here.

Subject: RE: Executive Order

I'll look more closely at the chart, but upon first glance and after reading the chain below, I wanted to raise a couple things: (b)(5)

(b)(5)

[redacted]

(c) To temporarily reduce investigative burdens on relevant agencies during the review period described in subsection (a) of this section, to ensure the proper review and maximum utilization of available resources for the screening of foreign nationals, and to ensure that adequate standards are established to prevent infiltration by foreign terrorists or criminals, pursuant to section 212(f) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1182(f), I hereby proclaim that the immigrant and nonimmigrant entry into the United States of aliens from countries referred to in section 217(a)(12) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1187(a)(12), would be detrimental to the interests of the United States, and I hereby suspend entry into the United States, as immigrants and nonimmigrants, of such persons for 90 days from the date of this order (excluding those foreign nationals traveling on diplomatic visas, North Atlantic Treaty Organization visas, C-2 visas for travel to the United Nations, and G-1, G-2, G-3, and G-4 visas).

2. FOD has raised a question of whether TRIG hold cases should be adjudicated, indicating that the EO's directive in Section 6 to "consider rescinding" TRIG exemptions would seem to mean that new TRIG exemptions are not forthcoming. This should certainly be a question for discussion (and a reconsideration of the agency's hold policy has recently been a topic of discussion, even before this order), but nothing in the EO requires us to take this step, and I would urge that it be thoughtfully considered before a decision to adjudicate all TRIG hold cases is made. OCC has also been very involved in the discussion to adjust the TRIG hold policy, and will certainly want to weigh in on this decision also.

The Policy and general objectives language at the beginning pulls key language from the EO for quick reference when we're drafting statements. The date conversion chart indicates the calendar dates associated with any specific timeframe mentioned in the EO.

I am working to convert this to Excel over the weekend so it's a little more scalable, but wanted to pass it on for initial use.

Please let me know if you have any questions or see anything that needs editing.

- We cannot, and should not, admit those who do not support the Constitution, or those who would place violent ideologies over American law

Thanks, Karen. I share your concern, although I'm somewhat hopeful that the crew of good folks we've worked with on these over the years will be willing to at least put forward a common picture of the basic problem we have been addressing with our exemption endeavors and why it's been consonant with our nat sec interests to pursue them. Clearly, we are going to need a compelling presentation of what this TRIG thing is all about and why it does not make any sense to dismantle it. I hope our ICE and interagency partners will contribute to and help us deliver it to higher ups.

We should probably aim to meet early next week to begin formulating a strategy/approach for developing, and then coordinating intra-DHS and interagency, our position and work to satisfy this portion of the EO. We are going to need to put forward a strong and well-thought-out presentation to preserve our hard-fought progress in this arena, and I'd like to be in ready posture for the inevitable directive to follow up on it. Yes I agree. I think Chelsea and others will have great examples of real life cases that have been able to bee adjudicated - and specifically was thinking that compiling those is crucial. The documents that went into crafting each exemption have sample snipits but I think it would be helpful to include facts that make the cases come fully alive as well.

Hi, Claudia,

Wanted to flag for you FOD's question in the chain below and in the attached matrix regarding whether to adjudicate TRIG hold cases in light of the EO's directive to "consider rescinding" the TRIG exemptions, as FOD (reasonably) suggests that new exemptions are unlikely. Not sure exactly how all these issues will shake out or be discussed next week, but just wanted to share that it may be part of the discussion. My thoughts here! Brandon also made a good point that we need to make sure people understand that nothing in the EO prevents continuing to apply the existing exemptions.

Also, wondering whether once it's decided if we can grant natz cases at all, we should make another push with Lori to apply the exemptions to those cases while we still have them – as discussed in the WG meeting, as an application of a legal interpretation, not a policy change.

Finally, was curious whether you knew if OCC has arrived at an interpretation of what "entry" means, as used in the EO and in the context of INA 212(f), for the purposes of deciding what USCIS adjudications can go forward? We've heard most FOD, SCOPS, and RAIO adjudications from the 7 countries are currently on hold pending further guidance.

Wondered whether this is precautionary at this point or if it's based on OCC's legal interpretation of the order. More here.

I'll look more closely at the chart, but upon first glance and after reading the chain below, I wanted to raise a couple things:

(b)(5)

[redacted]

(c) To temporarily reduce investigative burdens on relevant agencies during the review period described in subsection (a) of this section, to ensure the proper review and maximum utilization of available resources for the screening of foreign nationals, and to ensure that adequate standards are established to prevent infiltration by foreign terrorists or criminals, pursuant to section 212(f) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1182(f), I hereby proclaim that the immigrant and nonimmigrant entry into the United States of aliens from countries referred to in section 217(a)(12) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1187(a)(12), would be detrimental to the interests of the United States, and I hereby suspend entry into the United States, as immigrants and nonimmigrants, of such persons for 90 days from the date of this order (excluding those foreign nationals traveling on diplomatic visas, North Atlantic Treaty Organization visas, C-2 visas for travel to the United Nations, and G-1, G-2, G-3, and G-4 visas).

2. FOD has raised a question of whether TRIG hold cases should be adjudicated, indicating that the EO's directive in Section 6 to "consider rescinding" TRIG exemptions would seem to mean that new TRIG exemptions are not forthcoming. This should certainly be a question for discussion (and a reconsideration of the agency's hold policy has recently been a topic of discussion, even before this order), but nothing in the EO requires us to take this step, and I would urge that it be thoughtfully considered before a decision to adjudicate all TRIG hold cases is made. OCC has also been very involved in the discussion to adjust the TRIG hold policy, and will certainly want to weigh in on this decision also!

The Policy and general objectives language at the beginning pulls key language from the EO for quick reference when we're drafting statements. The date conversion chart indicates the calendar dates associated with any specific timeframe mentioned in the EO.

I am working to convert this to Excel over the weekend so it's a little more scalable, but wanted to pass it on for initial use.

Please let me know if you have any questions or see anything that needs editing.

I did send the question of whether this impact naturalization or not to the Department in an attempt to get an answer this weekend only because we have oath ceremonies scheduled for Monday.

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

State has also issued guidance. Will forward.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person. (b)(5) [redacted] We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

ORDER

PER CURIAM:

At issue in this emergency proceeding is Executive Order 13769, "Protecting the Nation From Foreign Terrorist Entry Into the United States," which, among other changes to immigration policies and procedures, bans for 90 days the entry into the United States of individuals from seven countries. Two States challenged the Executive Order as unconstitutional and violative of federal law, and a federal district court preliminarily ruled in their favor and temporarily enjoined enforcement of the Executive Order. The Government now moves for an emergency stay of the district court's temporary restraining order while its appeal of that order proceeds.

To rule on the Government's motion, we must consider several factors, including whether the Government has shown that it is likely to succeed on the merits of its appeal, the degree of hardship caused by a stay or its denial, and the public interest in granting or denying a stay. We assess those factors in light of the limited evidence put forward by both parties at this very preliminary stage and are mindful that our analysis of the hardships and public interest in this case involves particularly sensitive and weighty concerns on both sides. Nevertheless, we hold that the Government has not shown a likelihood of success on the merits of its appeal, nor has it shown that failure to enter a stay would cause irreparable injury, and we therefore deny its emergency motion for a stay.

I. Background

On January 27, 2017, the President issued Executive Order 13769, "Protecting the Nation From Foreign Terrorist Entry Into the United States" (the "Executive Order"). 82 Fed. Reg. 8,977. Citing the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001, and stating that "numerous foreign-born individuals have been convicted or implicated in terrorism-related crimes" since then, the Executive Order declares that "the United States must ensure that those admitted to this country do not bear hostile attitudes toward it and its founding principles." Id. It asserts, "Deteriorating conditions in certain countries due to war, strife, disaster, and civil unrest increase the likelihood that terrorists will use any means possible to enter the United States. The United States must be vigilant during the visa-issuance process to ensure that those approved for admission do not intend to harm Americans and that they have no ties to terrorism." Id.

The Executive Order makes several changes to the policies and procedures by which non-citizens may enter the United States. Three are at issue here. First, section 3(c) of the Executive Order suspends for 90 days the entry of aliens from seven countries: Iraq, Iran, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, and Yemen. 82 Fed. Reg. 8,977-78 (citing the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA) § 217(a)(12), codified at 8 U.S.C. § 1187(a)(12)). Second, section 5(a) of the Executive Order suspends for 120 days the United States Refugee Admissions Program. 82 Fed. Reg. 8,979. Upon resumption of the refugee program, section 5(b) of the Executive Order directs the Secretary of State to prioritize refugee claims based on religious persecution where a refugee's religion is the minority religion in the country of his or her nationality. Id. Third, section 5(c) of the Executive Order suspends indefinitely the entry of all Syrian refugees. Id. Sections 3(g) and 5(e) of the Executive Order allow the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security to make case-by-case exceptions to these provisions "when in the national interest." 82 Fed. Reg. 8,978-80. Section 5(e) states that situations that would be in the national interest include "when the person is a religious minority in his country of nationality facing religious persecution." 82 Fed. Reg. 8,979. The Executive Order requires the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security and the Director of National Intelligence to evaluate the United States' visa, admission, and refugee programs during the periods in which entry is suspended. 82 Fed. Reg. 8,977-80.

The impact of the Executive Order was immediate and widespread. It was reported that thousands of visas were immediately canceled, hundreds of travelers with such visas were prevented from boarding airplanes bound for the United States or denied entry on arrival, and some travelers were detained. Three days later, on January 30, 2017, the State of Washington filed suit in the United States District Court for the Western District of Washington, challenging sections 3(c), 5(a)-(c), and 5(e) of the Executive Order, naming as defendants the President, the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security, the Secretary of State, and the United States (collectively, "the Government"). Washington alleged that the Executive Order unconstitutionally and illegally stranded its residents abroad, split their families, restricted their travel, and damaged the State's economy and public universities in violation of the First and Fifth Amendments, the INA, the Foreign Affairs Reform and Restructuring Act, the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, and the Administrative Procedure Act. Washington also alleged that the Executive Order was not truly meant to protect against terror attacks by foreign nationals but rather was intended to enact a "Muslim ban" as the President had stated during his presidential campaign that he would do.

Washington asked the district court to declare that the challenged sections of the Executive Order are illegal and unconstitutional and to enjoin their enforcement nationwide. On the same day, Washington filed an emergency motion for a temporary restraining order (TRO) seeking to enjoin the enforcement of sections 3(c), 5(a)-(c), and 5(e) of the Executive Order. Two days later, Washington's Complaint was amended to add the State of Minnesota as a plaintiff and to add a claim under the Tenth Amendment. Washington and Minnesota (collectively, "the States") jointly filed an amended motion for a TRO. The Government opposed the motion the next day, and the district court held a hearing the day after that.

That evening, the court entered a written order granting the TRO. Washington v. Trump, No. C17-0141-JLR, 2017 WL 462040 (W.D. Wash. Feb. 3, 2017). The district court preliminarily concluded that significant and ongoing harm was being inflicted on substantial numbers of people, to the detriment of the States, by means of an Executive Order that the States were likely to be able to prove was unlawful. Id. at *2. The district court enjoined and restrained the nationwide enforcement of sections 3(c) and 5(a)-(c) in their entirety. Id. It enjoined section 5(e) to the extent that section "purports to prioritize refugee claims of certain religious minorities," and prohibited the government from "proceeding with any action that prioritizes the refugee claims of certain religious minorities." The court also directed the parties to propose a briefing schedule for the States' request for a preliminary injunction and denied the Government's motion to stay the TRO pending an emergency appeal. Id. at *3.

The Government filed a notice of appeal the next day and sought an emergency stay in this court, including an immediate stay while its emergency stay motion was under consideration. We denied the request for an immediate stay and set deadlines for the filing of responsive and reply briefs on the emergency stay motion over the next two days.[1] Washington v. Trump, No. 17-35105, 2017 WL 469608 (9th Cir. Feb. 4, 2017). The motion was submitted after oral argument was conducted by telephone.

[1] We have also received many amicus curiae briefs in support of both the Government and the States.

II. Appellate Jurisdiction

The States argue that we lack jurisdiction over the Government's stay motion because the Government's appeal is premature. A TRO is not ordinarily appealable. See Bennett v. Medtronic, Inc., 285 F.3d 801, 804 (9th Cir. 2002). We may nonetheless review an order styled as a TRO if it "possesses the qualities of a preliminary injunction." Serv. Emps. Int'l Union v. Nat'l Union of Healthcare Workers, 598 F.3d 1061, 1067 (9th Cir. 2010). This rule has ordinarily required the would-be appellant to show that the TRO was strongly challenged in adversarial proceedings before the district court and that it has or will remain in force for longer than the fourteen-day period identified in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 65(b). See, e.g., id.

We are satisfied that in the extraordinary circumstances of this case, the district court's order possesses the qualities of an appealable preliminary injunction. The parties vigorously contested the legal basis for the TRO in written briefs and oral arguments before the district court. The district court's order has no expiration date, and no hearing has been scheduled. Although the district court has recently scheduled briefing on the States' motion for a preliminary injunction, it is apparent from the district court's scheduling order that the TRO will remain in effect for longer than fourteen days. In light of the unusual circumstances of this case, in which the Government has argued that emergency relief is necessary to support its efforts to prevent terrorism, we believe that this period is long enough that the TRO should be considered to have the qualities of a reviewable preliminary injunction.[2]

III. Standing

The Government argues that the district court lacked subject matter jurisdiction because the States have no standing to sue. We have an independent obligation to ascertain our jurisdiction, Arbaugh v. Y & H Corp., 546 U.S. 500, 514 (2006), and we consider the Government's argument de novo, see, e.g., Hajro v. U.S. Citizenship & Immigration Servs., 811 F.3d 1086, 1098 (9th Cir. 2016). We conclude that the States have made a sufficient showing to support standing, at least at this preliminary stage of the proceedings.

Article III, section 2 of the Constitution allows federal courts to consider only "Cases" and "Controversies." Massachusetts v. EPA, 549 U.S. 497, 516 (2007). "Those two words confine 'the business of federal courts to questions presented in an adversary context and in a form historically viewed as capable of resolution through the judicial process.'" Id. (quoting Flast v. Cohen, 392 U.S. 83, 95 (1968)). "Standing is an essential and unchanging part of the case-or-controversy requirement" and is therefore a prerequisite to our jurisdiction. See Lujan v. Defs. of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 560 (1992). The "gist of the question of standing" is whether the plaintiff has a sufficiently "personal stake in the outcome of the controversy" to ensure that the parties will be truly adverse and their legal presentations sharpened. Massachusetts, 549 U.S. at 517 (quoting Baker v. Carr, 369 U.S. 186, 204 (1962)).

To establish Article III standing, a plaintiff must demonstrate "that it has suffered a concrete and particularized injury that is either actual or imminent, that the injury is fairly traceable to the defendant, and that it is likely that a favorable decision will redress that injury." Id. (citing Lujan, 504 U.S. at 560-61).

Because standing is "an indispensable part of the plaintiff's case," it "must be supported in the same way as any other matter on which the plaintiff bears the burden of proof, i.e., with the manner and degree of evidence required at the successive stages of the litigation." Lujan, 504 U.S. at 561. At this very preliminary stage of the litigation, the States may rely on the allegations in their Complaint and whatever other evidence they submitted in support of their TRO motion to meet their burden. See id. With these allegations and evidence, the States must make a "clear showing of each element of standing." Townley v. Miller, 722 F.3d 1128, 1133 (9th Cir. 2013).[3]

The States argue that the Executive Order causes a concrete and particularized injury to their public universities, which the parties do not dispute are branches of the States under state law. See, e.g., Hontz v. State, 714 P.2d 1176, 1180 (Wash. 1986) (en banc); Univ. of Minn. v. Raygor, 620 N.W.2d 680, 683 (Minn. 2001).

[3] Our decision in Townley concerned a motion for a preliminary injunction, but the legal standards applicable to TROs and preliminary injunctions are "substantially identical." Stuhlbarg Int'l Sales Co., Inc. v. John D. Brush & Co., Inc., 240 F.3d 832, 839 n.7 (9th Cir. 2001).

Specifically, the States allege that the teaching and research missions of their universities are harmed by the Executive Order's effect on their faculty and students who are nationals of the seven affected countries. These students and faculty cannot travel for research, academic collaboration, or for personal reasons, and their families abroad cannot visit. Some have been stranded outside the country, unable to return to the universities at all. The schools cannot consider attractive student candidates and cannot hire faculty from the seven affected countries, which they have done in the past.

According to declarations filed by the States, for example, two visiting scholars who had planned to spend time at Washington State University were not permitted to enter the United States; one was informed he would be unable to obtain a visa. Similarly, the University of Washington was in the process of sponsoring three prospective employees from countries covered by the Executive Order for visas; it had made plans for their arrival beginning in February 2017, but they have been unable to enter the United States. The University of Washington also sponsored two medicine and science interns who have been prevented by the Executive Order from coming to the University of Washington. The University of Washington has already incurred the costs of visa applications for those interns and will lose its investment if they are not admitted. Both schools have a mission of "global engagement" and rely on such visiting students, scholars, and faculty to advance their educational goals. Students and faculty at Minnesota's public universities were similarly restricted from traveling for academic and personal reasons.

Under the "third party standing" doctrine, these injuries to the state universities give the States standing to assert the rights of the students, scholars, and faculty affected by the Executive Order. See Singleton v. Wulff, 428 U.S. 106, 114-16 (1976) (explaining that third-party standing is allowed when the third party's interests are "inextricably bound up with the activity the litigant wishes to pursue"; when the litigant is "fully, or very nearly, as effective a proponent of the right" as the third party; or when the third party is less able to assert her own rights). Vendors, for example, "have been uniformly permitted to resist efforts at restricting their operations by acting as advocates of the rights of third parties who seek access to their market or function." Craig v. Boren, 429 U.S. 190, 195 (1976). Likewise, doctors have been permitted to assert the rights of their patients. See, e.g., Griswold v. Connecticut, 381 U.S. 479 (1965). And advocacy organizations such as the NAACP have been permitted to assert the constitutional rights of their members. See, e.g., NAACP v. Alabama, 357 U.S. 449 (1958).

Most relevant for our purposes, schools have been permitted to assert the rights of their students. See, e.g., Runyon v. McCrary, 427 U.S. 160, 175 & n.13 (1976) ("It is clear that the schools have standing to assert these arguments [asserting free-association rights, privacy rights, and 'a parent's right to direct the education of his children'] on behalf of their patrons."); Pierce v. Soc'y of Sisters, 268 U.S. 510, 536 (1925) (allowing a school to assert the "right of parents to choose schools where their children will receive appropriate mental and religious training [and] the right of the child to influence the parents' choice of a school"); Parks Sch. of Bus., Inc. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 1480, 1487-88 (9th Cir. 1995) (citing Pierce and rejecting the argument that the plaintiff school had no standing to assert claims of discrimination against its minority students); see also Ohio Ass'n of Indep. Sch. v. Goff, 92 F.3d 419, 422 (6th Cir. 1996) (citing similar authorities). As in those cases, the interests of the States' universities here are aligned with their students. The students' educational success is "inextricably bound up" in the universities' capacity to teach them. Singleton, 428 U.S. at 115. And the universities' reputations depend on the success of their professors' research. Thus, as the operators of state universities, the States may assert not only their own rights to the extent affected by the Executive Order but may also assert the rights of their students and faculty members.[4]

We therefore conclude that the States have alleged harms to their proprietary interests traceable to the Executive Order. The necessary connection can be drawn in at most two logical steps: (1) the Executive Order prevents nationals of seven countries from entering Washington and Minnesota; (2) as a result, some of these people will not enter state universities, some will not join those universities as faculty, some will be prevented from performing research, and some will not be permitted to return if they leave. And we have no difficulty concluding that the States' injuries would be redressed if they could obtain the relief they ask for: a declaration that the Executive Order violates the Constitution and an injunction barring its enforcement. The Government does not argue otherwise.

[4] The Government argues that the States may not bring Establishment Clause claims because they lack Establishment Clause rights. Even if we assume that States lack such rights, an issue we need not decide, that is irrelevant in this case because the States are asserting the rights of their students and professors. Male doctors do not have personal rights in abortion and yet any physician may assert those rights on behalf of his female patients. See Singleton, 428 U.S. at 118.

We therefore hold that the States have standing.[5]

IV. Reviewability of the Executive Order

The Government contends that the district court lacked authority to enjoin enforcement of the Executive Order because the President has "unreviewable authority to suspend the admission of any class of aliens." The Government does not merely argue that courts owe substantial deference to the immigration and national security policy determinations of the political branches—an uncontroversial principle that is well-grounded in our jurisprudence. See, e.g., Cardenas v. United States, 826 F.3d 1164, 1169 (9th Cir. 2016) (recognizing that "the power to expel or exclude aliens [is] a fundamental sovereign attribute exercised by the Government's political departments largely immune from judicial control" (quoting Fiallo v. Bell, 430 U.S. 787, 792 (1977))); see also Holder v. Humanitarian Law Project, 561 U.S. 1, 33-34 (2010) (explaining that courts should defer to the political branches with respect to national security and foreign relations). Instead, the Government has taken the position that the President's decisions about immigration policy, particularly when motivated by national security concerns, are unreviewable, even if those actions potentially contravene constitutional rights and protections. The Government indeed asserts that it violates separation of powers for the judiciary to entertain a constitutional challenge to executive actions such as this one.

[5] The States have asserted other proprietary interests and also presented an alternative standing theory based on their ability to advance the interests of their citizens as parens patriae. Because we conclude that the States' proprietary interests as operators of their public universities are sufficient to support standing, we need not reach those arguments.

There is no precedent to support this claimed unreviewability, which runs contrary to the fundamental structure of our constitutional democracy. See Boumediene v. Bush, 553 U.S. 723, 765 (2008) (rejecting the idea that, even by congressional statute, Congress and the Executive could eliminate federal court habeas jurisdiction over enemy combatants, because the "political branches" lack "the power to switch the Constitution on or off at will"). Within our system, it is the role of the judiciary to interpret the law, a duty that will sometimes require the "[r]esolution of litigation challenging the constitutional authority of one of the three branches." Zivotofsky ex rel. Zivotofsky v. Clinton, 566 U.S. 189, 196 (2012) (quoting INS v. Chadha, 462 U.S. 919, 943 (1983)). We are called upon to perform that duty in this case.

Although our jurisprudence has long counseled deference to the political branches on matters of immigration and national security, neither the Supreme Court nor our court has ever held that courts lack the authority to review executive action in those arenas for compliance with the Constitution. To the contrary, the Supreme Court has repeatedly and explicitly rejected the notion that the political branches have unreviewable authority over immigration or are not subject to the Constitution when policymaking in that context. See Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 695 (2001) (emphasizing that the power of the political branches over immigration "is subject to important constitutional limitations"); Chadha, 462 U.S. at 940-41 (rejecting the argument that Congress has "unreviewable authority over the regulation of aliens," and affirming that courts can review "whether Congress has chosen a constitutionally permissible means of implementing that power").[6] Our court has likewise made clear that "[a]lthough alienage classifications are closely connected to matters of foreign policy and national security," courts "can and do review foreign policy arguments that are offered to justify legislative or executive action when constitutional rights are at stake." American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Comm. v. Reno, 70 F.3d 1045, 1056 (9th Cir. 1995).

Kleindienst v. Mandel, 408 U.S. 753 (1972), does not compel a different conclusion. The Government cites Mandel for the proposition that "'when the Executive exercises' immigration authority 'on the basis of a facially legitimate and bona fide reason, the courts will [not] look behind the exercise of that discretion.'" The Government omits portions of the quoted language to imply that this standard governs judicial review of all executive exercises of immigration authority. In fact, the Mandel standard applies to lawsuits challenging an executive branch official's decision to issue or deny an individual visa based on the application of a congressionally enumerated standard to the particular facts presented by that visa application. The present case, by contrast, is not about the application of a specifically enumerated congressional policy to the particular facts presented in an individual visa application. Rather, the States are challenging the President's promulgation of sweeping immigration policy. Such exercises of policymaking authority at the highest levels of the political branches are plainly not subject to the Mandel standard; as cases like Zadvydas and Chadha make clear, courts can and do review constitutional challenges to the substance and implementation of immigration policy. See Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 695; Chadha, 462 U.S. at 940-41.

[6] See also, e.g., Galvan v. Press, 347 U.S. 522, 530 (1954) (reaffirming the broad power of Congress over immigration, but observing that "[i]n the enforcement of these policies, the Executive Branch of the Government must respect the procedural safeguards of due process"); Yamataya v. Fisher, 189 U.S. 86, 100-01 (1903) (reaffirming, in the context of adjudicating a constitutional challenge to an immigration policy, that "this court has never held, nor must we now be understood as holding, that administrative officers, when executing the provisions of a statute involving the liberty of persons, may disregard the fundamental principles that inhere in 'due process of law' as understood at the time of the adoption of the Constitution"); Chae Chan Ping v. United States, 130 U.S. 581, 604 (1889) ("The powers to declare war, make treaties . . . and admit subjects of other nations to citizenship, are all sovereign powers, restricted in their exercise only by the constitution itself and considerations of public policy and justice which control, more or less, the conduct of all civilized nations.").

This is no less true when the challenged immigration action implicates national security concerns. See Ex parte Quirin, 317 U.S. 1, 19 (1942) (stating that courts have a duty, "in time of war as well as in time of peace, to preserve unimpaired the constitutional safeguards of civil liberty"); Ex parte Milligan, 71 U.S. 2, 120-21 (1866) ("The Constitution of the United States is a law for rulers and people, equally in war and in peace ... under all circumstances."). We are mindful that deference to the political branches is particularly appropriate with respect to national security and foreign affairs, given the relative institutional capacity, informational access, and expertise of the courts. See Humanitarian Law Project, 561 U.S. at 33-34.

Nonetheless, "courts are not powerless to review the political branches' actions" with respect to matters of national security. Alperin v. Vatican Bank, 410 F.3d 532, 559 n.17 (9th Cir. 2005). To the contrary, while counseling deference to the national security determinations of the political branches, the Supreme Court has made clear that the Government's "authority and expertise in [such] matters do not automatically trump the Court's own obligation to secure the protection that the Constitution grants to individuals," even in times of war. Humanitarian Law Project, 561 U.S. at 34 (quoting id. at 61 (Breyer, J., dissenting)); see also United States v. Robel, 389 U.S. 258, 264 (1967) ("'[N]ational defense' cannot be deemed an end in itself, justifying any exercise of legislative power designed to promote such a goal. . . . It would indeed be ironic if, in the name of national defense, we would sanction the subversion of one of those liberties . . . which makes the defense of the Nation worthwhile."); Zemel v. Rusk, 381 U.S. 1, 17 (1965) ("[S]imply because a statute deals with foreign relations [does not mean that] it can grant the Executive totally unrestricted freedom of choice.").

Indeed, federal courts routinely review the constitutionality of—and even invalidate—actions taken by the executive to promote national security, and have done so even in times of conflict. See, e.g., Boumediene, 553 U.S. 723 (striking down a federal statute purporting to deprive federal courts of jurisdiction over habeas petitions filed by non-citizens being held as "enemy combatants" after being captured in Afghanistan or elsewhere and accused of authorizing, planning, committing, or aiding the terrorist attacks perpetrated on September 11, 2001); Aptheker v. Sec'y of State, 378 U.S. 500 (1964) (holding unconstitutional a statute denying passports to American members of the Communist Party despite national security concerns); Ex parte Endo, 323 U.S. 283 (1944) (holding unconstitutional the detention of a law-abiding and loyal American of Japanese ancestry during World War II and affirming federal court jurisdiction over habeas petitions by such individuals). As a plurality of the Supreme Court cautioned in Hamdi v. Rumsfeld, 542 U.S. 507 (2004), "Whatever power the United States Constitution envisions for the Executive in its exchanges with other nations or with enemy organizations in times of conflict, it most assuredly envisions a role for all three branches when individual liberties are at stake." Id. at 536 (plurality opinion).

In short, although courts owe considerable deference to the President's policy determinations with respect to immigration and national security, it is beyond question that the federal judiciary retains the authority to adjudicate constitutional challenges to executive action.

V. Legal Standard

The Government moves to stay the district court's order pending this appeal. "A stay is not a matter of right, even if irreparable injury might otherwise result." Nken v. Holder, 556 U.S. 418, 433 (2009) (quoting Virginian Ry. Co. v. United States, 272 U.S. 658, 672 (1926)). "It is instead 'an exercise of judicial discretion,' and 'the propriety of its issue is dependent upon the circumstances of the particular case.'" Id. (quoting Virginian, 272 U.S. at 672-73) (alterations omitted). "The party requesting a stay bears the burden of showing that the circumstances justify an exercise of that discretion." Id. at 433-34.

Our decision is guided by four questions: "(1) whether the stay applicant has made a strong showing that he is likely to succeed on the merits; (2) whether the applicant will be irreparably injured absent a stay; (3) whether issuance of the stay will substantially injure the other parties interested in the proceeding; and (4) where the public interest lies." Lair v. Bullock, 697 F.3d 1200, 1203 (9th Cir. 2012) (quoting Nken, 556 U.S. at 434). "The first two factors . . . are the most critical," Nken, 556 U.S. at 434, and the last two steps are reached "[o]nce an applicant satisfies the first two factors," id. at 435. We conclude that the Government has failed to clear each of the first two critical steps. We also conclude that the final two factors do not militate in favor of a stay. We emphasize, however, that our analysis is a preliminary one. We are tasked here with deciding only whether the Government has made a strong showing of its likely success in this appeal and whether the district court's TRO should be stayed in light of the relative hardships and the public interest.

The Government has not shown that it is likely to succeed on appeal on its arguments about, at least, the States' Due Process Clause claim, and we also note the serious nature of the allegations the States have raised with respect to their religious discrimination claims. We express no view as to any of the States' other claims.

VI. Likelihood of Success—Due Process

The Fifth Amendment of the Constitution prohibits the Government from depriving individuals of their "life, liberty, or property, without due process of law." U.S. Const. amend. V. The Government may not deprive a person of one of these protected interests without providing "notice and an opportunity to respond," or, in other words, the opportunity to present reasons not to proceed with the deprivation and have them considered. United States v. Raya-Vaca, 771 F.3d 1195, 1204 (9th Cir. 2014); accord Cleveland Bd. of Educ. v. Loudermill, 470 U.S. 532, 542 (1985); ASSE Int'l, Inc. v. Kerry, 803 F.3d 1059, 1073 (9th Cir. 2015).

The Government has not shown that the Executive Order provides what due process requires, such as notice and a hearing prior to restricting an individual's ability to travel. Indeed, the Government does not contend that the Executive Order provides for such process. Rather, in addition to the arguments addressed in other parts of this opinion, the Government argues that most or all of the individuals affected by the Executive Order have no rights under the Due Process Clause.

In the district court, the States argued that the Executive Order violates the procedural due process rights of various aliens in at least three independent ways. First, section 3(c) denies re-entry to certain lawful permanent residents and non-immigrant visaholders without constitutionally sufficient notice and an opportunity to respond. Second, section 3(c) prohibits certain lawful permanent residents and non-immigrant visaholders from exercising their separate and independent constitutionally protected liberty interests in travelling abroad and thereafter re-entering the United States. Third, section 5 contravenes the procedures provided by federal statute for refugees seeking asylum and related relief in the United States. The district court held generally in the TRO that the States were likely to prevail on the merits of their due process claims, without discussing or offering analysis as to any specific alleged violation.

At this stage of the proceedings, it is the Government's burden to make "a strong showing that [it] is likely to" prevail against the States' procedural due process claims. Lair v. Bullock, 697 F.3d 1200, 1203 (9th Cir. 2012) (quoting Nken v. Holder, 556 U.S. 418, 426 (2009)). We are not persuaded that the Government has carried its burden for a stay pending appeal.

The procedural protections provided by the Fifth Amendment's Due Process Clause are not limited to citizens. Rather, they "appl[y] to all 'persons' within the United States, including aliens," regardless of "whether their presence here is lawful, unlawful, temporary, or permanent." Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 693 (2001). These rights also apply to certain aliens attempting to reenter the United States after travelling abroad. Landon v. Plasencia, 459 U.S. 21, 33-34 (1982). The Government has provided no affirmative argument showing that the States' procedural due process claims fail as to these categories of aliens. For example, the Government has failed to establish that lawful permanent residents have no due process rights when seeking to re-enter the United States. See id. ("[T]he returning resident alien is entitled as a matter of due process to a hearing on the charges underlying any attempt to exclude him." (quoting Rosenberg v. Fleuti, 374 U.S. 449, 460 (1963))). Nor has the Government established that the Executive Order provides lawful permanent residents with constitutionally sufficient process to challenge their denial of re-entry. See id. at 35 ("[T]he courts must evaluate the particular circumstances and determine what procedures would satisfy the minimum requirements of due process on the re-entry of a permanent resident alien.").

The Government has argued that, even if lawful permanent residents have due process rights, the States' challenge to section 3(c) based on its application to lawful permanent residents is moot because several days after the Executive Order was issued, White House counsel Donald F. McGahn II issued "[a]uthoritative [g]uidance" stating that sections 3(c) and 3(e) of the Executive Order do not apply to lawful permanent residents. At this point, however, we cannot rely upon the Government's contention that the Executive Order no longer applies to lawful permanent residents. The Government has offered no authority establishing that the White House counsel is empowered to issue an amended order superseding the Executive Order signed by the President and now challenged by the States, and that proposition seems unlikely.

Nor has the Government established that the White House counsel's interpretation of the Executive Order is binding on all executive branch officials responsible for enforcing the Executive Order. The White House counsel is not the President, and he is not known to be in the chain of command for any of the Executive Departments. Moreover, in light of the Government's shifting interpretations of the Executive Order, we cannot say that the current interpretation by White House counsel, even if authoritative and binding, will persist past the immediate stage of these proceedings. On this record, therefore, we cannot conclude that the Government has shown that it is "absolutely clear that the allegedly wrongful behavior could not reasonably be expected to recur." Friends of the Earth, Inc., v. Laidlaw Envtl. Servs., Inc., 528 U.S. 167, 189 (2000) (emphasis added).

Even if the claims based on the due process rights of lawful permanent residents were no longer part of this case, the States would continue to have potential claims regarding possible due process rights of other persons who are in the United States, even if unlawfully, see Zadvydas, 533 U.S. 693; non-immigrant visaholders who have been in the United States but temporarily departed or wish to temporarily depart, see Landon, 459 U.S. 33-34; refugees, see 8 U.S.C. § 1231 note 8; and applicants who have a relationship with a U.S. resident or an institution that might have rights of its own to assert, see Kerry v. Din, 135 S. Ct. 2128, 2139 (2015) (Kennedy, J., concurring in judgment); id. at 2142 (Breyer, J., dissenting); Kleindienst v. Mandel, 408 U.S. 753, 762-65 (1972). Accordingly, the Government has not demonstrated that the States lack viable claims based on the due process rights of persons who will suffer injuries to protected interests due to the Executive Order. Indeed, the existence of such persons is obvious.

The Government argues that, even if the States have shown that they will likely succeed on some of their procedural due process claims, the district court nevertheless erred by issuing an "overbroad" TRO. Specifically, the Government argues that the TRO is overbroad in two independent respects: (1) the TRO extends beyond lawful permanent residents, and covers aliens who cannot assert cognizable liberty interests in connection with travelling into and out of the United States, and (2) the TRO applies nationwide, and enjoins application of the Executive Order outside Washington and Minnesota. We decline to modify the scope of the TRO in either respect.

First, we decline to limit the scope of the TRO to lawful permanent residents and the additional category more recently suggested by the Government, in its reply memorandum, "previously admitted aliens who are temporarily abroad now or who wish to travel and return to the United States in the future." That limitation on its face omits aliens who are in the United States unlawfully, and those individuals have due process rights as well. Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 693. That would also omit claims by citizens who have an interest in specific non-citizens' ability to travel to the United States. See Din, 135 S. Ct. at 2139 (Kennedy, J., concurring in judgment); id. at 2142 (Breyer, J., dissenting) (six Justices declining to adopt a rule that would categorically bar U.S. citizens from asserting cognizable liberty interests in the receipt of visas by alien spouses). There might be persons covered by the TRO who do not have viable due process claims, but the Government's proposed revision leaves out at least some who do.

Second, we decline to limit the geographic scope of the TRO. The Fifth Circuit has held that such a fragmented immigration policy would run afoul of the constitutional and statutory requirement for uniform immigration law and policy. Texas v. United States, 809 F.3d 134, 187-88 (5th Cir. 2015), aff'd by an equally divided Court, 136 S. Ct. 2271 (2016). At this stage of the litigation, we do not need to and do not reach such a legal conclusion for ourselves, but we cannot say that the Government has established that a contrary view is likely to prevail. Moreover, even if limiting the geographic scope of the injunction would be desirable, the Government has not proposed a workable alternative form of the TRO that accounts for the nation's multiple ports of entry and interconnected transit system and that would protect the proprietary interests of the States at issue here while nevertheless applying only within the States' borders.

More generally, even if the TRO might be overbroad in some respects, it is not our role to try, in effect, to rewrite the Executive Order. See United States v. Nat'l Treasury Emps. Union, 513 U.S. 454, 479 (1995) (declining to rewrite a statute to eliminate constitutional defects); cf. Aptheker v. Sec'y of State, 378 U.S. 500, 516 (1964) (invalidating a restriction on freedom of travel despite the existence of constitutional applications). The political branches are far better equipped to make appropriate distinctions. For now, it is enough for us to conclude that the Government has failed to establish that it will likely succeed on its due process argument in this appeal.

VII. Likelihood of Success—Religious Discrimination

The First Amendment prohibits any "law respecting an establishment of religion." U.S. Const. amend. I. A law that has a religious, not secular, purpose violates that clause, Lemon v. Kurtzman, 403 U.S. 602, 612-13 (1971), as does one that "officially prefer[s] [one religious denomination] over another," Larson v. Valente, 456 U.S. 228, 244 (1982). The Supreme Court has explained that this is because endorsement of a religion "sends the ancillary message to . . . nonadherents 'that they are outsiders, not full members of the political community.'" Santa Fe Indep. Sch. Dist. v. Doe, 530 U.S. 290, 310 (2000) (quoting Lynch v. Donnelly, 465 U.S. 668, 688 (1984) (O'Connor, J., concurring)). The Equal Protection Clause likewise prohibits the Government from impermissibly discriminating among persons based on religion. De La Cruz v. Tormey, 582 F.2d 45, 50 (9th Cir. 1978).

The States argue that the Executive Order violates the Establishment and Equal Protection Clauses because it was intended to disfavor Muslims. In support of this argument, the States have offered evidence of numerous statements by the President about his intent to implement a "Muslim ban" as well as evidence they claim suggests that the Executive Order was intended to be that ban, including sections 5(b) and 5(e) of the Order. It is well established that evidence of purpose beyond the face of the challenged law may be considered in evaluating Establishment and Equal Protection Clause claims. See, e.g., Church of the Lukumi Babalu Aye, Inc. v. City of Hialeah, 508 U.S. 520, 534 (1993) ("The Free Exercise Clause, like the Establishment Clause, extends beyond facial discrimination. . . . Official action that targets religious conduct for distinctive treatment cannot be shielded by mere compliance with the requirement of facial neutrality."); Larson, 456 U.S. at 254-55 (holding that a facially neutral statute violated the Establishment Clause in light of legislative history demonstrating an intent to apply regulations only to minority religions); Village of Arlington Heights v. Metro. Housing Dev. Corp., 429 U.S. 252, 266-68 (1977) (explaining that circumstantial evidence of intent, including the historical background of the decision and statements by decisionmakers, may be considered in evaluating whether a governmental action was motivated by a discriminatory purpose).

The States' claims raise serious allegations and present significant constitutional questions. In light of the sensitive interests involved, the pace of the current emergency proceedings, and our conclusion that the Government has not met its burden of showing likelihood of success on appeal on its arguments with respect to the due process claim, we reserve consideration of these claims until the merits of this appeal have been fully briefed.

VIII. The Balance of Hardships and the Public Interest

The Government has not shown that a stay is necessary to avoid irreparable injury. Nken, 556 U.S. at 434. Although we agree that "the Government's interest in combating terrorism is an urgent objective of the highest order," Holder v. Humanitarian Law Project, 561 U.S. 1, 28 (2010), the Government has done little more than reiterate that fact. Despite the district court's and our own repeated invitations to explain the urgent need for the Executive Order to be placed immediately into effect, the Government submitted no evidence to rebut the States' argument that the district court's order merely returned the nation temporarily to the position it has occupied for many previous years.

The Government has pointed to no evidence that any alien from any of the countries named in the Order has perpetrated a terrorist attack in the United States.[7] Rather than present evidence to explain the need for the Executive Order, the Government has taken the position that we must not review its decision at all.[8] We disagree, as explained above.

To the extent that the Government claims that it has suffered an institutional injury by erosion of the separation of powers, that injury is not "irreparable." It may yet pursue and vindicate its interests in the full course of this litigation. See, e.g., Texas v. United States, 787 F.3d 733, 767-68 (5th Cir. 2015) ("[I]t is the resolution of the case on the merits, not whether the injunction is stayed pending appeal, that will affect those principles.").

[7] Although the Government points to the fact that Congress and the Executive identified the seven countries named in the Executive Order as countries of concern in 2015 and 2016, the Government has not offered any evidence or even an explanation of how the national security concerns that justified those designations, which triggered visa requirements, can be extrapolated to justify an urgent need for the Executive Order to be immediately reinstated.

[8] In addition, the Government asserts that, "[u]nlike the President, courts do not have access to classified information about the threat posed by terrorist organizations operating in particular nations, the efforts of those organizations to infiltrate the United States, or gaps in the vetting process." But the Government may provide a court with classified information. Courts regularly receive classified information under seal and maintain its confidentiality. Regulations and rules have long been in place for that. 28 C.F.R. § 17.17(c) (describing Department of Justice procedures to protect classified materials in civil cases); 28 C.F.R. § 17.46(c) ("Members of Congress, Justices of the United States Supreme Court, and Judges of the United States Courts of Appeal and District Courts do not require a determination of their eligibility for access to classified information . . . ."); W.D. Wash. Civ. L.R. 5(g) (providing procedures governing filings under seal).

By contrast, the States have offered ample evidence that if the Executive Order were reinstated even temporarily, it would substantially injure the States and multiple "other parties interested in the proceeding." Nken, 556 U.S. at 434 (quoting Hilton v. Braunskill, 481 U.S. 770, 776 (1987)). When the Executive Order was in effect, the States contend that the travel prohibitions harmed the States' university employees and students, separated families, and stranded the States' residents abroad. These are substantial injuries and even irreparable harms. See Melendres v. Arpaio, 695 F.3d 990, 1002 (9th Cir. 2012) ("It is well established that the deprivation of constitutional rights 'unquestionably constitutes irreparable injury.'" (quoting Elrod v. Burns, 427 U.S. 347, 373 (1976))).

The Government suggests that the Executive Order's discretionary waiver provisions are a sufficient safety valve for those who would suffer unnecessarily, but it has offered no explanation for how these provisions would function in practice: how would the "national interest" be determined, who would make that determination, and when? Moreover, as we have explained above, the Government has not otherwise explained how the Executive Order could realistically be administered only in parts such that the injuries listed above would be avoided.

Finally, in evaluating the need for a stay, we must consider the public interest generally. See Nken, 556 U.S. at 434. Aspects of the public interest favor both sides, as evidenced by the massive attention this case has garnered at even the most preliminary stages. On the one hand, the public has a powerful interest in national security and in the ability of an elected president to enact policies. And on the other, the public also has an interest in free flow of travel, in avoiding separation of families, and in freedom from discrimination. We need not characterize the public interest more definitely than this; when considered alongside the hardships discussed above, these competing public interests do not justify a stay.

IX. Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, the emergency motion for a stay pending appeal is DENIED.

OGC Regs (Christina McDonald) got together CBP, ICE, and USCIS regs POCs to discuss a Regs working group that Christina was asked to lead. Note that there are other working groups at work going over other issues. What Christina has asked the three components to do is provide a preliminary list of potential new regs or revisions to existing regs affected by the attached 3 Executive Orders. We need SMEs help to identify potential regs. This preliminary list is due tomorrow noon to Christina, but we'll need to send over any suggestions to USCIS Regulatory Coordination Division (RCD – Sam Deshommes) a little earlier than that so that she can have time to send over the response for USCIS.

Christina is putting together a preliminary list to start things off. Here are some of preliminary thoughts as to where USCIS may need to start rulemaking actions. Could you fill in below (in a different color) possible 8 CFR cites for regs that may need to be amended or list what new regs might need to be promulgated?

EO 13768 – Public Safety in the Interior

Sec. 6 – Civil Fines and Penalties
CBP said that they impose fines against carriers. ICE mentioned INA 274C (document fraud – and mentioned Warren McBroom). I vaguely remember something about nonimmigrants having a requirement to post a bond?! Not sure if that qualifies or what provision, but could someone look into that? Any other ideas?

Sec. 9(a) (last sentence) – Sanctuary Jurisdictions (8 USC 1373) – SAVE involvement? Maybe too remote, but just raising the possibility.

Sec. 10(b) Very broad order for us to review regs, policies, and procedures for consistency with the order and publish regs rescinding or revising any reg inconsistent with the order

Sec. 12 Recalcitrant Countries – INA section 243(d) (ALD?)

Sec. 14 – Privacy Act: Christina said that this is being worked on by a separate working group, so we do not have to worry about it.

EO 13769 – Foreign Terrorist Entry

Sec. 4(a) Implementing Uniform Screening Standards

- Uniform screening standard and procedure, such as in-person interviews
  New biometrics rule amending 8 CFR 103.2(b)(9) and 103.16; 103.17

- Amended application form that include questions aimed at identifying fraudulent answers and malicious intent

- Mechanism to ensure that the applicant is who the applicant claims to be
  New biometrics rule amending 8 CFR 103.2(b)(9) and 103.16; 103.17

Sec. 6 Rescission of Exercise of Authority Relating to the Terrorism Grounds of Inadmissibility
- Christina thought this was about TRIG

EO 13767 Border Security and Imm Enf

Sec. 11(b): 8 CFR 208.30 and 31 - Credible fear and reasonable fear determinations (RALD—are regs revisions required?)

11(d): Parole authority – must be case-by-case in accordance with the plain language of the statute
- 8 CFCR 103.7 Bundled fees for adjustment applicants?

Please send in any ideas that you have ASAP. Sorry for the quick turnaround. Our answer could be something like – we think 8 CFR XXXX might be affected, but we need to study the issue further.

Ania

All,

Attached see the DHS OPA-cleared Q/As regarding the EO that was issued on Friday. They are not for distribution to the public. For now, please be advised that if an OCC attorney is asked by the client to provide guidance on how to apply the EO, the matter should be raised through his/her chain of command to OCC leadership for coordination before responding to the client. Other inquiries should be sent to OCOMM or OLA as appropriate.

Dear RAD staff – I know that many of you have seen draft copies of an Executive Order related to the USRAP that is expected to be finalized and signed tomorrow. In light of this anticipated announcement, we've determined that it would be prudent to suspend circuit rides that are scheduled to depart between now and February 15.

We are also suspending the remaining PDBs planned for this week.

For our TDYers who are here in DC, we will be sharing information as soon as possible about travel arrangements for returning to home offices.

I hope to share more information tomorrow.

Any good arguments regarding why section 3 doesn't cover refugees? I think you'd have to say they aren't immigrants. OGC shot that down previously because of 101(a)(15) but I thought we'd made that argument before. Anyway can this be a top priority today?

Nope unfortunately not, only that they feel six of the seven countries can be exempted. I'm sure you have reviewed the possibilities already with OGC (that Section 3(g) applies to refugees as well as IV and NIV and both exemptions could be sought and approved, or that the seven countries provision only applies to immigrant and nonimmigrant visas, not the refugee provisions for which only Syrian cases are suspended) but I am not sure how State has articulated it.

Attached is a summary of information we'd want from other countries to assist in our adjudications process as requested in the "Terrorist Entry" EO, Section 3a. For this tasking we just need a list that DHS PLCY/SCO can incorporate into the larger report they are drafting for this deliverable. This is due to the department tomorrow, so if I could have your edits by 11:00 tomorrow morning, that would be greatly appreciated. It's a fairly succinct document, so hopefully it shouldn't take long to review. Much thanks!

Since we are including significant changes to guidance (this may not be what they are looking for, but here goes):

EO 13769 - Section 11(a)(i) and 11(b) (EO should not be construed to impair or affect authority of executive agencies, and shall be implemented consistent with applicable law): This will require rescission of recent guidance suspending the adjudication and granting of immigration benefits, which conflicts with these provisions of the EO, since there is no legal basis for the wholesale suspension of immigration benefits.

Section 3(c) – Need to consider guidance concerning the issuance of travel documents (advance parole, refugee travel documents, perhaps reentry permits) for nationals of the 7 countries.

One more clarification from Christina that just came in. The data call covers both regs and "significant guidance documents." So that means that if we think a significant guidance document would be necessary to implement the EO section, then we should identify that. If a reg, then the reg citation.

Thanks again!

Subject: DUE TOMORROW by 11:30: Data Call on potential Regs Flowing from EOs
Importance: High

OGC Regs (Christina McDonald) got together CBP, ICE, and USCIS regs POCs to discuss a Regs working group that Christina was asked to lead. Note that there are other working groups at work going over other issues. What Christina has asked the three components to do is provide a preliminary list of potential new regs or revisions to existing regs affected by the attached 3 Executive Orders. We need SMEs help to identify potential regs. This preliminary list is due tomorrow noon to Christina, but we'll need to send over any suggestions to USCIS Regulatory Coordination Division (RCD – Sam Deshommes) a little earlier than that so that she can have time to send over the response for USCIS.

Christina is putting together a preliminary list to start things off. Here are some of preliminary thoughts as to where USCIS may need to start rulemaking actions. Could you fill in below (in a different color) possible 8 CFR cites for regs that may need to be amended or list what new regs might need to be promulgated?

EO 13768 – Public Safety in the Interior

Sec. 6 – Civil Fines and Penalties
CBP said that they impose fines against carriers. ICE mentioned INA 274C (document fraud – and mentioned Warren McBroom). I vaguely remember something about nonimmigrants having a requirement to post a bond?! Not sure if that qualifies or what provision, but could someone look into that? Any other ideas?

Sec. 9(a) (last sentence) – Sanctuary Jurisdictions (8 USC 1373) – SAVE involvement? Maybe too remote, but just raising the possibility. Use of SAVE for immigration status queries is currently limited to benefit applications made to federal, state and local agencies (with few exceptions), so expanded uses of SAVE under 1373 would require changes to their requirements, processes and their Program Guidance.

Sec. 10(b) Very broad order for us to review regs, policies, and procedures for consistency with the order and publish regs rescinding or revising any reg inconsistent with the order

Sec. 12 Recalcitrant Countries – INA section 243(d) (ALD?)

Sec. 14 – Privacy Act: Christina said that this is being worked on by a separate working group, so we do not have to worry about it.

EO 13769 – Foreign Terrorist Entry

Sec. 4(a) Implementing Uniform Screening Standards

- Uniform screening standard and procedure, such as in-person interviews
  New biometrics rule amending 8 CFR 103.2(b)(9) and 103.16; 103.17

- Amended application form that include questions aimed at identifying fraudulent answers and malicious intent

- Mechanism to ensure that the applicant is who the applicant claims to be
  New biometrics rule amending 8 CFR 103.2(b)(9) and 103.16; 103.17

Sec. 6 Rescission of Exercise of Authority Relating to the Terrorism Grounds of Inadmissibility

- Christina thought this was about TRIG This is about TRIG, but doesn't require any regulatory action. Our TRIG working group is already looking at this and preparing for future discussions with the Department and the interagency.

EO 13767 Border Security and Imm Enf

Sec. 11(b): 8 CFR 208.30 and 31 - Credible fear and reasonable fear determinations (RALD—are regs revisions required?) I don't see any need for regulatory changes, but the Asylum Division is working on revisions to its Credible Fear lesson plan in response to this. That's not to say that there won't be a push for regulatory changes, but there's nothing here that isn't consistent with the plain language of the statute.

11(d): Parole authority – must be case-by-case in accordance with the plain language of the statute

- 8 CFCR 103.7 Bundled fees for adjustment applicants?
- We think 8 CFR 212.5 might be affected, but need to study the issue further.

11(c): Applying Expedited Removal to applicants for admission present for less than 2 years. Requires a FR notice, but this is primarily a CBP/ICE matter, but it will affect asylum officer resources.

Please send in any ideas that you have ASAP. Sorry for the quick turnaround. Our answer could be something like – we think 8 CFR XXXX might be affected, but we need to study the issue further.

Thanks,
Ania

Dear Colleen, Ron, Molly:

We received the inquiry below from the asylum HQ NACARA POC. I'm not sure if RAIO previously advised the asylum offices (for that brief period) to hold off on all I-881 adjudications or something (which would be odd because the applicants typically aren't from the affected countries in the EO). Regardless, per Lori's attached guidance on the EO, it seems as if the adjudication of NACARA 203 applications should continue as per usual as the I-881 is an application and NACARA applicants are "individuals in the United States" per the language in the 1st paragraph of Lori's guidance.

Please advise at your earliest convenience.

Thanks so much,
Reena

Reena,
Can you please advise me if based on this attached memo asylum offices can continue to adjudicate applications filed for suspension of deportation and cancellation of removal under NACARA 203?

In the first enumerated paragraph, the first sentence indicates that the E.O. "does not affect USCIS adjudications of applications and petitions filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States [...]"

As the I-881 if filed by persons who claim eligibility for NACARA 203, I'm not sure that it falls under the category of "applications [...] filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States."

The last sentence of first paragraph ("this includes, but is not limited to [...]") does not clarify the question as it isn't clear to what "this" refers.

I need to advise all offices as soon as possible. Thank you for your help.

Tremendously helpful! Thank you. Do you have any sense of the DHS position here?

Also, with respect to your prior email, we should have our final RAIO task tracker done by tomorrow and I will share with you, then we can discuss how best to collaborate.

Subject: TRIG points for PCC

Joanna,

I know Karen updated you on the work we've initiated with State relating to the TRIG directive in the EO. We were just discussing and thinking that for tomorrow's PCC it may be helpful to arm you with a couple points to help guide consensus on the appropriate course of action responsive to the directive, insofar as you have a chance to weigh in. On process, our thinking is that the most thoughtful result is likely to follow from bilateral collaboration between USCIS and State – i.e., the other USG entity with experience applying the exemptions to actual cases – followed by broader interagency consultation based on what is hopefully a joint State-DHS (i.e., USCIS) analysis and recommendation. In the event that there is a call for a WH-driven process, our hope is that (1) Multilat leads it, as that directorate traditionally has with respect to TRIG, and (2) some time is permitted to allow the State-USCIS collaboration to take place first. I'm touching base with Sarah Cross (Ronnie's successor) tomorrow and plan to advocate the same with her. Let me know if you want to discuss or think a different course makes sense, though.

Here are TPs that briefly highlight our work and suggest a path forward:

- In response to EO Section 6, which requires considering rescission of existing exercises of authority for TRIG exemptions, DHS and State have begun working on a joint review process to assess the value of the exercises of authority. The review process will take into account factors such as their utility in adjudications, national security implications, and foreign policy considerations. The aim of this work is to arrive at a joint, evidence-based, working-level analysis responsive to Section 6's directive. We would then share this with DOJ for consultation, as set out in the EO, with the aim of arriving at a consensus recommendation for our departments' respective leadership.
- [If asked for an estimate of how long it would take us to produce the analysis]: For USCIS' part, if State agrees, we think we could have something preliminarily developed at the working-level in 2-3 weeks.

Hope that helps, and good luck tomorrow!

Additionally, question for the team based on OCC's responses. Will the entry for Section 11b of EO 13767 have any impact on the RAIO regulation currently on the USCIS Priority List for action (removing the 10-day requirement for reasonable fear screenings)?

All—

OCC RALD was looking at this and thus far, has come up with the following:

EO 13769 – Foreign Terrorist Entry

Sec. 6 Rescission of Exercise of Authority Relating to the Terrorism Grounds of Inadmissibility

- Christina thought this was about TRIG
- OCC RALD: This is about TRIG, but doesn't require any regulatory action. Our TRIG working group is already looking at this and preparing for future discussions with the Department and the interagency.

EO 13767 Border Security and Imm Enf

Sec. 11(b): 8 CFR 208.30 and 31 - Credible fear and reasonable fear determinations
OCC RALD: No need for regulatory changes, but the Asylum Division is working on revisions to its Credible Fear lesson plan in response to this. That's not to say that there won't be a push for regulatory changes, but there's nothing here that isn't consistent with the plain language of the statute.

11(d): Parole authority – must be case-by-case in accordance with the plain language of the statute
We think 8 CFR 212.5 might be affected, but need to study the issue further.
11(c): Applying Expedited Removal to applicants for admission present for less than 2 years. Requires a FR notice, but this is primarily a CBP/ICE matter, but it will affect asylum officer resources.

Good Afternoon RAIO,

Following issuance of the attached Executive Orders (EOs), there have been a number of working groups that have been stood up in the Department to effect implementation. One such group is being chaired by OGC Regulatory Affairs and is tasked with identifying and managing the various regulatory actions that may be needed to implement provisions of these Orders. Ania and I just finished a conference call with them and need some information from you to complete an urgent tasker on possible regulatory actions needed to implement the EOs.

On first glance, I think the Parole, Asylum, Reasonable Fear, and Credible Fear provisions of EO 13767, Section 11 will definitely have regulatory implications for RAIO; however, there could be other provisions that I'm overlooking in the other EOs. Could you please take a look at the attached EOs, if you haven't already, and at minimum identify what specific EO provision is likely to require regulatory changes and the regulatory citation, if known?

DHS needs this information from us by 12 noon tomorrow, so I'd appreciate any assistance you can give in just quickly identifying those items. At this point, your response doesn't need to be any more expansive then the following, for example:

- EO 13767, Section 11: 8 CFR XXX.XX – Update Reasonable Fear regulations to [insert]
- EO 13767, Section 11: 8 CFR XXX.XX – Update asylum regulations to [insert]
- ....

I apologize in advance for the short turnaround on this, and have already requested a delay and been denied. Even if you don't have an idea of the regulatory citation or it depends on the ultimate policy and it is just a possibility, that's fine at this point...

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,
Samantha

Okay. I don't have any major concerns with Joanna's draft below, but wondered if we wanted to announce the possibility of an exemption so prominently. I also think "called for an immediate suspension" is a bit soft. I thought the EO did more called for it rather it "immediately suspended." But if this is approved to post, it is fine, legally.

Here is our proposed language, based on what we understand the current thinking to be. Is this your understanding of the decision and can we message this as noted below? We have people scheduled to travel on Monday. IOM has booked and the beneficiaries have paid for their travel. Please note that approximately 190 people have booked travel. Of those, only one individual would be traveling with a refugee family member. [note, our numbers are from IOM, so we may be off a bit, but this is close]

SUSPENSION OF TRAVEL FOR INDIVIDUALS GRANTED PAROLE UNDER THE CENTRAL AMERICAN MINORS REFUGEE/PAROLE PROGRAM (CAM)

On January 27, 2017, President Donald J. Trump signed an Executive Order, "Protecting the Nation From Terrorist Entry into the United States" that called for an immediate suspension of the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program (USRAP) for 120 days. In light of this temporary suspension, USCIS will also be pausing travel to the United States for all individuals granted parole under the Central American Minors Refugee/Parole Program. USCIS will act as follows:

- During this suspension, an applicant whose parole request has been approved by USCIS will be permitted to travel with any refugee family member who is permitted to travel pursuant to an exemption.
- The travel for all other individuals who were granted parole by USCIS under this program will be suspended until the U.S. Refugee Admission Program resumes for this population.

TO: All USCIS Employees

FROM: Lori L. Scialabba
Acting Director

SUBJECT: Guidance Concerning Executive Order on Immigration

On January 27, President Trump signed an Executive Order entitled "Protecting The Nation From Foreign Terrorist Entry Into The United States." This memorandum provides guidance from the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) regarding the impact of this Executive Order on various immigration benefit requests.

All USCIS employees should be aware of current guidance from DHS, specifically:

1. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order does not affect USCIS adjudication of applications and petitions filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States regardless of their country of nationality. Section 3(c) also does not affect applications and petitions by lawful permanent residents outside the United States, or applications and petitions for individuals outside the United States whose approval does not directly confer travel authorization (including any immigrant or nonimmigrant visa petition). This includes, but is not limited to, the matters discussed more specifically in paragraphs 2, 3 and 5 below.

2. Applications to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status (Form I-485) may continue to be adjudicated, according to existing policies and procedures, for applicants who are nationals of countries designated in the Executive Order.

3. USCIS will adjudicate Refugee/Asylee Relative Petitions (Form I-730) for all beneficiaries, from any country of nationality, currently in the United States according to existing policies and procedures. Further guidance will be issued with respect to beneficiaries currently outside of the United States.

4. USCIS will continue refugee interviews when the person is a religious minority in his or her country of nationality facing religious persecution. Additionally, USCIS will continue refugee interviews in jurisdictions where there is a preexisting international agreement related to refugee processing. USCIS will not approve a refugee application for an individual who we determine would pose a risk to the security or welfare of the United States.

5. USCIS will continue adjudicating all affirmative asylum cases according to existing policies and procedures.

* The Acting Solicitor General and Acting Assistant Attorney General have refrained from signing this brief, out of an abundance of caution, in light of a last-minute filing of an amicus brief by their former law firm.

The Executive Order is a lawful exercise of the President's authority over the entry of aliens into the United States and the admission of refugees. Relying on his express statutory authority to suspend entry of any class of aliens to protect the national interest, the President has directed a temporary suspension of entries through the refugee program and from countries that have a previously identified link to an increased risk of terrorist activity, see 8 U.S.C. § 1187(a)(12). The purpose of that temporary suspension is to permit an orderly review and revision of screening procedures to ensure that adequate standards are in place to protect against terrorist attacks. As a different district court recently concluded, that objective provides a "facially legitimate and bona fide" justification that satisfies any constitutional scrutiny that applies. Louhghalam v. Trump, Civ. Action No. 17-10154-NMG, Order 18-19 (D. Mass. Feb. 3, 2017); see id. at 10-11, 15-16.

The district court therefore erred in entering an injunction barring enforcement of the order. But even if some relief were appropriate, the court's sweeping nationwide injunction is vastly overbroad, extending far beyond the State's legal claims to encompass numerous applications of the Order that the State does not even attempt to argue are unlawful.

1. As an initial matter, the State cannot challenge the denial of entry or visas to third-party aliens. It is well-settled that a State lacks authority to sue "as the representative of its citizens" to protect them from the operation of federal law.

Massachusetts v. Mellon, 262 U.S. 447, 485-86 (1923); South Carolina v. Katzenbach, 383 U.S. 301, 324 (1966). The State invokes the "special solicitude" for States referred to in Massachusetts v. EPA, but there, Massachusetts sought to enforce a congressionally created "procedural right" to protect a loss of "sovereign territory." 549 U.S. 497, 519-20, 522-23 (2007). Here, by contrast, the State's interest in protecting its own territory is not at issue. Instead, the Constitution vests the federal government with exclusive power over immigration for the Nation as a whole, and Congress did not create any "procedural right" for States to sue the federal government to challenge its decisions to deny the entry of (or revoke visas held by) third-party aliens.

To the contrary, an alien outside the United States has no substantive right or basis for judicial review in the denial of a visa at all. See Brownell v. Tom We Shung, 352 U.S. 180, 184 n.3, 185 n.6 (1956). Moreover, Congress has been clear that the issuance of a visa to an alien does not confer upon that alien any right of admission into the United States, 8 U.S.C. § 1201(h), and that the Secretary of State "may, at any time, in his discretion, revoke such visa or other documentation." Id. § 1201(i). If a visa is revoked, even the alien himself has no right of judicial review "except in the context of a removal proceeding," and only if the visa revocation "provides the sole ground for removal." Id. And even an alien who has been admitted to and developed significant ties with this country, who has as a result come within the protection of the Fifth Amendment's Due Process Clause, has no protected property or liberty interest in the retention of his visa. Knoetze v. U.S. Dep't of State, 634 F.2d 207, 212 (5th Cir. 1981). A fortiori, the State cannot challenge the revocation of third-party aliens' visas here. The State likewise cannot challenge the Executive's decision not to admit a refugee.

The Supreme Court's decisions in Kerry v. Din, 135 S. Ct. 2128 (2015), and Kleindienst v. Mandel, 408 U.S. 753 (1972), also do not support even limited judicial review of the State's claims here. In those cases, U.S. citizens sought review of the denial of a third-party visa on the ground that the citizens had an independent constitutionally-protected interest in the third-party's admission to the country—either a marital relationship or a First Amendment interest. The State, in contrast, has no independent constitutional rights to invoke with respect to the denial of admission of aliens affected by the Order.

2. Even if it could establish standing and a right of judicial review, the State would be unlikely to succeed on the merits of its claims.

a. Congress has granted the President broad discretion under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(f) to suspend the entry of "any class of aliens" into the United States, and independently broad discretion over the refugee program under 8 U.S.C. § 1157. The exclusion of aliens is also "a fundamental act of sovereignty * * * inherent in the executive power to control the foreign affairs of the nation." United States ex

rel. Knauff v. Shaughnessy, 338 U.S. 537, 542 (1950). The State does not address the text of § 1182(f), or the extensive caselaw relating to the exclusion of aliens from the United States. And although the State suggests (Response 23) that it is somehow impermissible for the President to rely on § 1182(f) "to impose a categorical ban on admission," the statute's broad grant of authority to suspend the entry "of any class of aliens," "for such period as [the President] shall deem necessary," whenever the President finds that it would be "detrimental to the interests of the United States," clearly authorizes the categorical, temporary suspension the President has adopted here.

b. The State continues to argue that Section 3(c)'s temporary suspension of the entry of aliens from seven countries contravenes the restriction on nationality-based distinctions in 8 U.S.C. § 1152(a)(1)(A). But that restriction applies only to "the issuance of an immigrant visa," Id., not to the President's restrictions on the right of entry. It also has no application at all to aliens who hold or seek non-immigrant visas, such as student visas or work visas. And § 1152(a)(1)(B) permits, as here, a temporary suspension of entry pending completion of a review and revision of procedures for processing visa applications.

Furthermore, even if it applied, § 1152(a)(1)(A) would not restrict § 1182(f)'s broad grant of discretionary authority. A court should, whenever possible, "interpret two seemingly inconsistent statutes to avoid a potential conflict," California ex rel.

Sacramento Metro. Air Quality Mgmt. Dist. v. United States, 215 F.3d 1005, 1012 (9th Cir. 2000), and should interpret "the specific [to] govern[] the general." RadLAX Gateway Hotel v. Amalgamated Bank, 132 S. Ct. 2065, 2070-71 (2012). Here, § 1152(a)(1)(A) establishes a general rule governing the issuance of immigrant visas, whereas § 1182(f) governs the specific instance in which the President determines that entry of a "class of aliens" would be "detrimental to the interests of the United States." The State's assertion that § 1152(a)(1)(A) limits that authority would mean that the President would be statutorily disabled from barring the entry of nationals of a country with which the United States was at war—a result that would raise serious constitutional questions, which is itself a sufficient reason to reject the State's reading. See Edward J. DeBartolo Corp. v. Florida Gulf Coast Building & Constr. Trades Council, 485 U.S. 568, 575 (1988).

c. The State asserts that the Order violates the constitutional rights of lawful permanent residents (LPRs). Response at 10, 15 & n.3, 16. But the Order does not apply to LPRs. Exhibit D. It applies only to aliens who lack LPR status. And most of those aliens are outside the United States and have never been admitted to this country. The Supreme Court "has long held that an alien seeking initial admission to the United States requests a privilege and has no constitutional rights regarding his application." Landon v. Plasencia, 459 U.S. 21, 32 (1982).

The State argues (Response 9) that "courts routinely review executive decisions with far greater security implications than this Order." In those cases, however, the courts were reviewing government actions taken against individuals who had rights under the U.S. Constitution or federal statutes with respect to the adverse actions they faced. See, e.g., Hamdi v. Rumsfeld, 542 U.S. 507, 535 (2004) (plurality op.) (reviewing indefinite detention of U.S. citizen); Boumediene v. Bush, 553 U.S. 723 (2008) (reviewing detention of aliens held to have constitutionally protected interest in habeas corpus review). Those cases do not override the longstanding rule that aliens outside the United States have no right or interest in their admission to the United States protected by the Due Process Clause, Knauff, 338 U.S. at 543, or the rule that non-immigrants do not have a liberty or property interest in the retention of a visa.

d. The State's constitutional challenges lack merit.

i. The State first asserts that the Order violates the Establishment Clause and equal protection principles because it was assertedly based on animus against Muslims. That is incorrect. There are two separate aspects of the Order challenged here, and both are neutral with respect to religion.

First, Section 3(c) temporarily suspends entry of aliens from seven countries previously identified under 8 U.S.C. § 1187(a)(12). Those countries were identified by Congress and the Executive Branch as being associated with a heightened risk of terrorism. Congress itself identified Iraq and Syria, where "the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL) * * * maintain[s] a formidable force." U.S. Department of State, Country Reports on Terrorism 2015 6 (June 2016). See 8 U.S.C. § 1187(a)(12)(A)(i)(I), (ii)(I). Congress also incorporated countries designated as state sponsors of terrorism: Iran, Sudan, and Syria. Id. § 1187(a)(12)(A)(i)(II) and (ii)(II). And in 2016, the Executive Branch added Libya, Somalia, and Yemen after a review that considered "whether the country or area is a safe haven for terrorists" and "whether the presence of an alien in the country or area increases the likelihood that the alien is a credible threat to the national security of the United States." 8 U.S.C. § 1187(a)(12)(D)(iii); https://www.dhs.gov/news/20016/02/18/dhs-announces-further-travel-restrictions-visa-waiver-program.

Second, Section 5(a) temporarily suspends the refugee program as to refugees from all countries, not just the seven countries identified in Section 3(c). Section 5(b) further provides that, when the refugee program resumes, the Secretary of State shall "make changes, to the extent permitted by law, to prioritize refugee claims" by members of persecuted minority religions. Laws that "give relief to a religious minority" "are in tune with the Bill of Rights," Kong v. Scully, 341 F.3d 1132, 1141 (9th Cir. 2003), and Section 5(b) of the Order applies equally to all religious minorities seeking refugee status "on the basis of religious-based persecution." As the district court recognized in Louhghalam, Section 5(b) "could be invoked to give preferred refugee status to a Muslim individual in a country that is predominantly Christian." Order 13.[2]

Accordingly, as the district court held in Louhghalam, Order 13, the Executive Order is "neutral with respect to religion." And under Mandel, the Order's national-security basis for the temporary suspension amply establishes its constitutionality. See also Louhghalam, Order 18-19. The State asserts (Response 10) that the Court should "look behind" the stated basis for the Order to probe its subjective motivations because the State claims to have made "an affirmative showing of bad faith." Din, 135 S. Ct. at 2141 (Kennedy, J., concurring). But the State's allegations of bad faith are not meaningfully different from the allegations deemed insufficient in Mandel, where the plaintiff asserted that the visa was denied because of the alien's advocacy of revolutionary Marxism and world communism, rather than his failure to comply with the terms of prior visas. 408 U.S. at 756; see Din, 135 S. Ct. at 2141-2142 (Kennedy, J., concurring) (endorsing Mandel). And here, the State asks the courts to take the extraordinary step of second-guessing a formal national-security judgment made by the President himself pursuant to broad grants of statutory authority.

[2] Washington relies on Larson v. Valente, 456 U.S. 228 (1982), but that holding is limited to cases where a government statute or practice "explicitly discriminates against a certain religious group." Sep. of Church & State Comm. v. City of Eugene, 93 F.3d 617, 623 (9th Cir. 1996) (O'Scannlain, J., concurring).

ii. The State also argues (Response 14-18) that the order violates aliens' procedural due process rights. But as explained above, aliens outside the United States have no due process rights with respect to their attempt to gain entry into this country. And regardless, "notice and an opportunity to respond" is not required where, as here, the challenged rule reflects a categorical judgment. Cf. Bi-Metallic Inv. Co. v. State Bd. Of Equalization, 239 U.S. 441, 445 (1915) ("[w]here a rule of conduct applies to more than a few people," individuals affected do not "have a constitutional right to be heard before a matter can be decided"); see also Din, 135 S. Ct. at 2144 (Breyer, J., dissenting) (citing Bi-Metallic).

3. The State argues (Response 7-8) that the injunction does not impose any irreparable harm. But the injunction reinstates procedures that the President determined should be temporarily suspended in the interest of national security. Order § 1; see also id. § 2. The Order temporarily suspends entry of aliens from seven countries previously identified by Congress and the Executive Branch as raising heightened terrorism-related concerns. The suspension terminates in 90 days, once concerns relating to screening practices can be addressed, as necessary "to prevent infiltration [into this Nation] by foreign terrorists or criminals," Order § 3(c). Similarly, the temporary suspension of the U.S. refugee program will be lifted after 120 days, once the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security, in consultation with the Director of National Intelligence, determine "what additional procedures should be taken to ensure that those approved for refugee admission do not pose a threat to the security and welfare of the United States." Order § 5(a). The potential national-security risks and harms resulting from the compelled application of procedures that the President has determined must be reexamined, for the purpose of ensuring an adequate measure of protection for the Nation, cannot be undone. Nor can the effect on our constitutional separation of powers.

4. Regardless of the plaintiff's likelihood of success, the injunction court is, at a minimum, vastly overbroad. The State has made clear that it is seeking to protect LPRs and other nationals from the seven identified countries who were previously admitted to the United States and are either temporarily abroad or are here now and wish to travel outside this country—not aliens who are attempting to enter the country for the first time. See Response 11-12, 15-16; Transcript 7-8, 15-16. That makes sense because the latter class of aliens have no constitutional rights with respect to entry into the country—a point the State largely conceded below. See Transcript 7, 15. The injunction, however, bars all applications of Section 3(c)—even as to aliens who have never previously visited this country, and have not yet begun the process of obtaining a visa. It also bars all applications of Section 5, even though there is no indication that any of the aliens affected by the temporary suspension of the refugee program have been previously admitted to this country.[3] That is plainly impermissible. At most, the injunction should be limited to the class of individuals on whom the State's claims rest—previously admitted aliens who are temporarily abroad now or who wish to travel and return to the United States in the future.

[3] Indeed, the district court even enjoined a provision that will not go into effect for 120 days, a provision as to which even plaintiffs conceded that their challenge is not ripe for review. Transcript 15 (Section 5(b) claim "does not necessarily require immediate injunction").

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, defendants respectfully request a stay pending appeal of the district court's February 3, 2017 injunctive order.

Respectfully submitted,

Reena,
Can you please advise me if based on this attached memo asylum offices can continue to adjudicate applications filed for suspension of deportation and cancellation of removal under NACARA 203?

In the first enumerated paragraph, the first sentence indicates that the E.O. "does not affect USCIS adjudications of applications and petitions filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States [...]"

As the I-881 if filed by persons who claim eligibility for NACARA 203, I'm not sure that it falls under the category of "applications [...] filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States."

The last sentence of first paragraph ("this includes, but is not limited to [...]") does not clarify the question as it isn't clear to what "this" refers.

I need to advise all offices as soon as possible. Thank you for your help.

Joanna,

I know Karen updated you on the work we've initiated with State relating to the TRIG directive in the EO. We were just discussing and thinking that for tomorrow's PCC it may be helpful to arm you with a couple points to help guide consensus on the appropriate course of action responsive to the directive, insofar as you have a chance to weigh in. On process, our thinking is that the most thoughtful result is likely to follow from bilateral collaboration between USCIS and State – i.e., the other USG entity with experience applying the exemptions to actual cases – followed by broader interagency consultation based on what is hopefully a joint State-DHS (i.e., USCIS) analysis and recommendation. In the event that there is a call for a WH-driven process, our hope is that (1) Multilat leads it, as that directorate traditionally has with respect to TRIG, and (2) some time is permitted to allow the State-USCIS collaboration to take place first. I'm touching base with Sarah Cross (Ronnie's successor) tomorrow and plan to advocate the same with her. Let me know if you want to discuss or think a different course makes sense, though.

Here are TPs that briefly highlight our work and suggest a path forward:

- In response to EO Section 6, which requires considering rescission of existing exercises of authority for TRIG exemptions, DHS and State have begun working on a joint review process to assess the value of the exercises of authority. The review process will take into account factors such as their utility in adjudications, national security implications, and foreign policy considerations. The aim of this work is to arrive at a joint, evidence-based, working-level analysis responsive to Section 6's directive. We would then share this with DOJ for consultation, as set out in the EO, with the aim of arriving at a consensus recommendation for our departments' respective leadership.
- [If asked for an estimate of how long it would take us to produce the analysis]: For USCIS' part, if State agrees, we think we could have something preliminarily developed at the working-level in 2-3 weeks.

Hope that helps, and good luck tomorrow!

Subject: Executive Order: PROTECTING THE NATION FROM FOREIGN TERRORIST ENTRY INTO THE UNITED STATES - Field Operations Instructions

On January 27, 2017, the President signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefits. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the entry immigrants and nonimmigrants who are from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

Effectively immediately and until additional guidance is received, you may not take final action on any petition or application where the applicant is a citizen or national of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. Field offices may interview applicants for adjustment of status and other benefits according to current processing guidance and may process petitions and applications for individuals from these countries up to the point where a decision would be made. At that point, cases shall be placed on hold until further notice and will be shelved with specific NFTS codes which will be provided through the Regional Offices. Offices are not permitted make any final decision on affected cases to include approval, denial, withdrawal, or revocation.

Please look for additional guidance later this weekend on how to process naturalization applicants from one of the seven countries listed above who are currently scheduled for oath ceremony or whose N-400s have been approved and they are pending scheduling of oath ceremony.

We expect to issue more detailed guidance and procedures as needed in the coming days. Questions or requests for additional clarification may be directed to the Regional Offices through your chain of command.

All,

Phillip has asked us not to forward his message (see below) if you share further. This was on the Washington Post website yesterday but the link is dead this morning, which makes him think the Post has reconsidered its provenance. RALD folks here, though, said that the 4 month freeze of all refugee admissions and reduction to 50,000 is what they have heard will happen.

Thanks

Tony

Hello Everyone,

Great news – we can proceed with our normal processing of cases from the seven countries implicated in the recent Executive Order. Please remove the holds from the cases that we recently placed on hold and resume case processing, to include decision issuance. It's back to business as usual!

If you have any questions or concerns, just let me know.

All the best,
David

Attached is the written formal USCIS guidance that we have been waiting for that allows us to resume adjudicating affirmative asylum cases as normal.

I also checked with CSPED, and if you are asked by members of the public if we are operating "business as usual," we can respond affirmatively. If the inquiries are more complicated than that or relate to other aspects of the Executive Orders, please continue to forward those to me for response by HQ CSPED.

Thanks,
Ted

Effective immediately, we have been instructed to prevent any asylum decision document from being issued in person or by mail to a national of any of the following countries unless or until we are instructed otherwise:

Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya

Please ensure that until further notice, no applicant from the countries above is served as asylum decision document in person or by mail. Any cases PUSHing should get mail-out notices and the cases will remain pending with out office until further notice.

You and your team members should continue to process these cases up to the point of decision service, but may not serve the decision documents at this time.

At this time, we may continue to serve APSO decision documents on individuals from these countries, just not asylum decision documents.

If you have any questions, please let me know.

Thank you,

A tad more guidance on this issue, as I know that inquiries may be already coming your way from applicants and attorneys. Although we do not have any information to share with external stakeholders at this time, you may direct them to the USCIS.gov, DHS.gov, WhiteHouse.gov for additional information and future updates on the Executive Orders. You may also forward any specific, written inquiries to Marianne and me so that we may forward them on to USCIS HQ for response. Thank you all and please let me know if I can provide you with any additional information or support. Best, David

Thanks all for your careful review and input. Attached FYI is what I just sent back to SCOPs et al. I used the OPS documents as a baseline as they requested – have tried to capture the key points made in the OCC comments and edits, while trying to trim them down a bit to eliminate some of the redundancy, back and forth, etc. that inevitably arise when lots of people are ECNing (is that a verb? I guess it is now) on short notice simultaneously, so as not to overwhelm the recipients. Let me know if you think I've missed anything essential. Phil

See the latest we've have learned on this. Please see attached.

What's the authority for CBP to turn folks around at POEs? I feel like I'm missing the answer to that basic question.

Thanks all—but do we think any of our current forms could be used to adjudicate the national interest standard—which at this point we aren't clear on what it is. But if someone concluded that the waiver was in the national interest where someone needed to travel and showed urgent humanitarian reasons or SPB, could we then use the 131 for the waiver decision? And how would that work if folks who needed the waiver couldn't currently apply for the 131?

Molly,
Executive Order 13769, section 3, paragraph (g), states, "Notwithstanding a suspension pursuant to subsection (c) of this section or pursuant to a Presidential proclamation described in subsection (e) of this section, the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security may, on a case-by-case basis, and when in the national interest, issue visas or other immigration benefits to nationals of countries for which visas and benefits are otherwise blocked." Once USCIS has decided what process it will follow, RVLD can advise on the procedural requirements under the PRA and APA for the process to be legally sufficient.

I have one issue, although I am not sure if it has been decided already. The EO says in Sec. 3(g):

"the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security may, on a case-by-case basis, and when in the national interest, issue visas or other immigration benefits to nationals of countries for which visas and benefits are otherwise blocked."

The use of and seems like the EO could be read to either 1) require both DHS and DOJ to jointly agree to waivers; or 2) (b)(5) provide independent authority for DHS and DOS to grant waivers.

Looking for quick thoughts on legal issues if we were asked to adjudicate waivers under the EO at section 3 for the 7 countries in the national interest.

Knowing what we know from DACA, what should we be thinking about. This is a tonight issue so what thoughts you have would be appreciated.

All,

Materials are coming in fast and furious.

Hawaii has moved to intervene (or in the alternative be counted as amicus) in the Washington v. Trump litigation at the request for stay and the appeal of the TRO.

Washington and Minnesota have filed their response to the request for stay.

A number of other amici have filed briefs.

All I have so far received are attached. You may have received these from other sources. Sorry if I am doubling up, but I want to have everyone have all of these.

Washington has finally cited the Fifth Circuit Texas case as supporting their bid to challenge the EO here. Interestingly, this is a the opposite of the position they took when they were among the non-plaintiff states opposing the attack on DAPA/DACA where they approved of the brief filed by the United States opposing the PI and its reasoning and filed additional briefing to the argument made by the United States: http://agportal-s3bucket.s3.amazonaws.com/uploadedfiles/Home/News/Press_Releases/2015/Texas%20v.%20US%20Multi-State%20PI%20Amicus%20As%20Filed.pdf

It was the same Washington AG as it is now. There are distinguishing factors. We have the additional procedural hurdle at being at the TRO stage rather than the PI stage. Also, Washington factually asserted that the Nov. 20 Memo from Secretary Johnson was a net economic positive and they argue only economic harm from the EO. However, the U.S. argued no standing for Texas and the other states on their economic harm theory, and Washington signed onto a brief saying (on page 3)

"To avoid redundancy, the amici States will not repeat the United States' compelling arguments as to why the district court erred in holding that Plaintiffs' APA claim was likely to succeed. Instead, the amici States will focus on the other three elements of the preliminary injunction test: irreparable injury, the balance of hardships, and the public interest. The amici States will also explain why the preliminary injunction is so overbroad that this error independently merits reversal."

Subject: Executive Order update
Date: Thursday, February 16, 2017 2:24:48 PM

Colleagues,

This message provides a short update regarding Executive Order (EO) 13,769, issued on Jan. 27, 2017 and entitled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States." As you undoubtedly know, on Feb. 3, 2017, in a suit brought against the Government by the states of Washington and Minnesota, the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Washington issued a temporary restraining order (TRO) enjoining enforcement of key provisions of the EO nationwide. The United States sought a stay of the TRO from the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. On Feb. 9, 2017, a Ninth Circuit panel denied the stay, leaving in place the district court's TRO. Shortly thereafter, based upon a "sua sponte en banc call" from another Ninth Circuit Judge, the Ninth Circuit requested briefing as to whether the matter should be heard en banc. Today, Feb. 16, the Government filed its brief. While also making legal arguments that the panel's denial of a stay of the TRO was erroneous, the Government's brief stated (citation omitted):

> [T]he United States does not seek en banc review of the merits of the panel's ruling. Rather than continuing this litigation, the President intends in the near future to rescind the [EO] and replace it with a new, substantially revised Executive Order to eliminate what the panel erroneously thought were constitutional concerns. In so doing, the President will clear the way for immediately protecting the country rather than pursuing further, potentially time-consuming litigation. Under the unusual circumstances presented here . . . the government respectfully submits that the most appropriate course would be for the [Ninth Circuit] to hold its consideration of the case until the President issues the new Order and then vacate the panel's preliminary decision.

We do not have further details at this time about the new, revised EO, other than statements made by the President at his news conference today indicating his intention to issue it next week. I emphasize that at the present time (1) the Jan. 27 EO remains in force and has not yet been rescinded; but (2) the district court's order enjoining enforcement of certain provisions of the EO also remains fully in effect. Previous guidance on injunction compliance, including the USCIS Broadcast Message issued on Feb. 3, 2017 entitled "Nationwide Injunction on Executive Order", and the message from Caitlin Miller to OCC attorneys on Feb. 14, 2017 entitled "Injunction Issued in ED VA", remains in force and should be followed. There are numerous other lawsuits pending around the country challenging the EO, and some (such as the case in the E.D. VA) have resulted in injunctive orders, but the Washington TRO is the broadest, and at this time no case other than the one in the Ninth Circuit has reached the circuit court level.

I also would like to remind you all to read and comply with the important message sent to you this morning by Evan Franke entitled "IMPORTANT--YOU ARE REQUIRED TO READ AND RESPOND--EO Litigation Hold."

Thank you all for your continued efforts to carry out our mission. We will continue to try to keep you updated on EO developments, and please do not hesitate to raise questions if you have them.

In particular, the Court rejected the view of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit ("Second Circuit") that interdiction was prohibited because of the INA's prohibition upon the then-Attorney General returning an alien to a country where he or she would be persecuted.[22] The Second Circuit had reached this conclusion by noting that the Attorney General was the President's "agent" in matters of immigration.[23] Therefore, it found that INA's prohibition on the Attorney General returning aliens to countries where the alien's life or freedom would be threatened because of the alien's race, religion, nationality, political opinion, or membership in a particular social group should be imputed to the rest of the executive branch.[24] The Supreme Court disagreed, however, holding that the interdiction program created by the President did not "usurp[] authority that Congress has delegated to, or implicate[] responsibilities that it has imposed on, the Attorney General alone."[25] The Court reached this conclusion, in part, because it viewed the INA as restricting only the then-Attorney General's immigration-related responsibilities under the act. It did not view the INA as restricting the President's actions in geographic areas outside of where Congress had authorized the Attorney General to act in the immigration context (i.e., outside the United States).[26] The upshot of this reasoning was that the Court declined to find that the interdiction program implemented under the authority of Section 212(f) ran afoul of statutory or treaty-based restrictions.

The Sale decision also helped define what is meant by the term entry as that term is used in Section 212(f). At the time when Sale was decided, the INA explicitly defined entry to encompass "any coming of an alien into the United States, from any foreign port or place or from an outlying possession, whether voluntarily or otherwise."[27] Therefore, consistent with this definition, the Court distinguished between (1) aliens who are "on our shores seeking admission" or "on the threshold of initial entry," and (2) aliens who are within the United States after entry, regardless of the legality of that entry.[28] While the statutory definition of entry that the Court relied upon was deleted from the INA as part of the amendments made by the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act (IIRIRA) of 1996 (P.L. 104-208),[29] the Sale Court's construction of entry has persisted in discussions of Section 212(f) and in other contexts.[30]

The Attorney General, in turn, delegated this authority to the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) within the Department of Justice. Following the establishment of the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) pursuant to the Homeland Security Act of 2002 (P.L. 107-296), the INS was abolished and its functions were generally transferred to DHS. See 6 U.S.C. § 251. Hello all,

Yesterday evening, the District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia issued a preliminary injunction in Aziz v. Trump. The Court enjoined the government from enforcing Section 3(c) of the Executive Order, "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States," as applied to "any person who has a Virginia residence or is employed by or attends an educational institution administered by the Commonwealth of Virginia, and who, as of 5:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time on Friday, January 27,2017, was lawfully admitted for permanent residency in the United States, held an immigrant visa that would entitle the bearer to be lawfully admitted for permanent residency upon admission to the United States, held a valid student visa (or accompanying family or spousal visa), or held a valid work visa (or accompanying family or spousal visa)."

OCC has reviewed the court's order and decision and believes that, by virtue of our compliance with the nationwide temporary restraining order that the Ninth Circuit upheld on February 9, USCIS is in compliance with this latest injunction and does not need to take any further affirmative steps. We will keep you updated with any significant further developments.

MEMORANDUM OPINION

In this civil action, the Commonwealth of Virginia ("Commonwealth") alleges that Executive Order 13,769, entitled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States" ("the EO"), violates the First and Fifth Amendments to the United States Constitution, as well as the Immigration and Nationality Act and Religious Freedom Restoration Act. Before the Court is the Commonwealth's Motion for a Preliminary Injunction, to which defendants have responded and on which oral argument has been held. Attached to the Commonwealth's motion were multiple exhibits and declarations. The defendants have responded with no evidence other than the EO, which they have defended primarily with arguments attacking the Commonwealth's standing to oppose the EO and emphasizing the authority of the president to issue such an EO. For the reasons that follow, the Commonwealth's Motion for a Preliminary Injunction will be granted.

I. FINDINGS OF FACT

A. The Executive Order

On January 20, 2017, Donald Trump ("Trump") was inaugurated as the 45th President of the United States. On January 27, 2017, he signed the EO. Section 3 of the EO "proclaim[ed] that the immigrant and nonimmigrant entry into the United States of aliens from" Syria, Iraq, Iran, Libya, Sudan, Yemen, and Somalia "would be detrimental to the interests of the United States" and "suspend[ed] entry into the United States, as immigrants and nonimmigrants, of such persons for 90 days from the date of this order." [Dkt. 7-1] § 3(c). Although the EO specifically excludes "foreign nationals traveling on diplomatic visas, North Atlantic Treaty Organization visas, C-2 visas for travel to the United Nations, and G-1, G-2, G-3, and G-4 visas"[1] from the ban on entry, it does not list lawful permanent residents ("LPRs") among those excluded. Id. Section 5 of the EO suspends the United States Refugee Assistance Program ("USRAP") for persons from all countries for 120 days. Id. at § 5(a). Once the suspension has ended, the EO directs the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security "to the extent permitted by law, to prioritize refugee claims made by individuals on the basis of religious-based persecution, provided that the religion of the individual is a minority religion in the individual's country of nationality." Id. at § 5(b).

Section 1 describes the stated purpose for the EO as follows:

> Numerous foreign-born individuals have been convicted or implicated in terrorism-related crimes since September 11, 2001, including foreign nationals who entered the United States after receiving visitor, student, or employment visas, or who entered through the United States refugee resettlement program. Deteriorating conditions in certain countries due to war, strife, disaster, and civil unrest increase the likelihood that terrorists will use any means possible to enter the United States. The United States must be vigilant during the visa-issuance process to ensure that those approved for admission do not intend to harm Americans and that they have no ties to terrorism.

[Dkt. 31-1] § 1. Section 2 goes on to declare it to be "the policy of the United States to protect its citizens from foreign nationals who intend to commit terrorist attacks in the United States; and to prevent the admission of foreign nationals who intend to exploit United States immigration laws for malevolent purposes." Id. § 2.

The EO was initially applied to LPRs, and the defendants have since conceded that Customs and Border Patrol ("CBP") initially stopped several LPRs at the border in the 24 to 48 hours after the EO was signed, although they represent that all such persons have since been permitted to enter the United States. After initial confusion within the executive branch, [Dkt. 61-17], Homeland Security Secretary John Kelly released a statement on Sunday, January 29, announcing that he "deem[ed] the entry of lawful permanent residents to be in the national interest" and that "lawful permanent resident status will be a dispositive factor in our case-by-case determinations," [Dkt. 61-1].

The next day, White House Counsel Donald F. McGahn II issued a memorandum stating that "there has been reasonable uncertainty about whether [Section 3 of the EO] appl[ies] to lawful permanent residents of the United States. Accordingly, to remove any confusion, I now clarify that Section 3(c) . . . do[es] not apply to such individuals." [Dkt. 34-1]. Defendants have argued that in light of this memorandum, the EO cannot be interpreted to apply to LPRs; however, a voluntary change of policy cannot be taken as binding unless it is "absolutely clear" that the government will not revert to its original position. Friends of the Earth, Inc. v. Laidlaw Envt'l Servs. (TOC), Inc., 528 U.S. 167, 189 (2000). As the Ninth Circuit observed in related litigation, defendants have "offered no authority establishing that the White House counsel is empowered to issue an amended order superseding the Executive Order signed by the president . . . and that proposition seems unlikely," nor have they "established that the White House counsel's interpretation of the Executive Order is binding on all executive branch officials responsible for enforcing" it. Washington v. Trump, __ F.3d __, 2017 WL 526497, at *8 (9th Cir. 2017). Accordingly, the Court finds that the EO presents an ongoing risk to the status of LPRs from the seven countries covered by the EO.

B. Injuries to the Commonwealth and its Residents

The Commonwealth has produced evidence of the EO being disruptive to the operation of its public colleges and universities. As the declaration of W. Taylor Reveley III ("Reveley"), who is president of the College of William & Mary and the chair of the Council of Presidents, a group consisting of the presidents and chancellors of Virginia's 14 public universities and colleges and 23 community colleges, [Dkt. 32] at ¶¶ 1–2, explains, the EO affects international travel of at least 350 students attending Virginia Commonwealth University, Virginia Tech, George Mason University, the University of Virginia, and William & Mary combined.[2] [Dkt. 32] at ¶ 5. That number includes at least two students who were abroad when the EO was issued and were denied reentry to the United States on its authority. Id. at ¶ 6.[3] At one university, Iranian-born faculty and students "have had to cancel their plans to present their work at an international conference on engineering" because they believe they are likely to be denied reentry to the United States. Id. at ¶ 7. The EO is also disrupting the process by which medical students "match" with academic hospitals for their residency, which takes place this month. Id. at ¶ 8. At least two Virginia universities have already had to cancel appearances by foreign scholars as a result of the EO. Id. at ¶ 9. Students have also begun withdrawing applications to attend Virginia schools as a result of the travel ban, and at least two students who had already announced an intention to enroll in Virginia schools have now abandoned those plans. Id. at [2] At oral argument, the Commonwealth represented that across all of its schools its estimate of affected persons has grown to 1,000 students and 66 faculty and staff members.

¶ 11. The affected students and faculty "must refrain from leaving the United States for fear of not being able to return," id. at ¶ 7, and "are unsure whether they should take the trips they had planned to visit family and fulfill research obligations, whether future trips should be planned, and whether members of their family or research partners will be able to visit the United States," id. at ¶ 14. The defendants provided no evidence to counter these representations.

The Commonwealth has also presented evidence that enforcement of § 3(c) of the EO will have a financial impact on its colleges and universities. Most concretely, the EO will result in reduced revenue from tuition money from students who cannot return to continue their studies or who are unable to enroll. [Dkt. 32] at ¶ 11. Department of Homeland Security data from 2015, the most recent year available, shows that 465 student visa holders from the affected countries were enrolled in Virginia schools. [Dkt. 61-15] at 4. College Factual, a company that specializes in higher education analytics, estimates that this could result in up to $20.8 million in lost tuition and fees. Id.; [Dkt. 61-16] at 1. Although the Commonwealth has not identified any specific grants or contracts that are in immediate jeopardy, it also argues that the EO may inhibit the ability of research universities to fulfill the terms of various grants and contracts. [Dkt. 32] at ¶ 12.

Reveley also avers that university personnel are experiencing "anxiety, confusion, and distress" because of the uncertainty introduced by the EO, such that some universities "have experienced an uptick in students, employees, and faculty using their counseling services." Id. at ¶ 14. Finally, Reveley and other administrators are concerned that the EO could imperil Virginia students who are studying abroad, by inflaming "anti-American sentiment[.]" Id. at ¶ 15. Again, defendants have not tendered any evidence to refute these concerns.

C. The Government's Asserted Rationale for the EO

Defendants have maintained that the EO is necessary to protect the United States from terrorist attacks to be carried out by nationals of the seven affected countries [Dkts. 31-1, 80]; however, they have not offered any evidence to identify the national security concerns that allegedly prompted this EO, or even described the process by which the president concluded that this action was necessary.[4]

And contrary to the national security concerns recited in the EO, the only evidence in the record on this subject is a declaration of 10 national security professionals who have served at the highest levels of the Department of State, the Department of Homeland Security, the Central Intelligence Agency, and the National Security Council through both Republican and Democratic administrations, [Dkt. 57], and at least four of whom "were current on active intelligence regarding all credible terrorist threat streams directed against the [United States] as recently as one week before the issuance of the" EO. Id. at ¶ 2. They write

> We all agree that the United States faces real threats from terrorist networks and must take all prudent and effective steps to combat them, including the appropriate vetting of travelers to the United States. We all are nevertheless unaware of any specific threat that would justify the travel ban established by the Executive Order issued on January 27, 2017. We view the Order as one that ultimately undermines the national security of the United States, rather than making us safer. In our professional opinion, this Order cannot be justified on national security or foreign policy grounds.

Id. at ¶ 3. They also observe that since September 11, 2011, "not a single terrorist attack in the United States has been perpetrated by aliens from the countries named in the Order." Id. at ¶ 4.

[4] To the extent that such evidence might be classified, "the Government may provide a court with classified information. Courts regularly receive classified information under seal and maintain its confidentiality. Regulations and rules have long been in place for that." Washington, 2017 WL 526497, at *10 n.8.

D. The President's Public Comments

The Commonwealth's evidence also contains several statements by the president and his senior advisors on the subject of immigration to the United States by Muslims. Although defendants dispute the relevance of these statements, as discussed below, they have not contested their accuracy.

On December 7, 2015, then-candidate Trump issued a press released titled "Donald J. Trump's Statement on Preventing Muslim Immigration." [Dkt. 61-12]. In the statement, he called "for a total and complete shutdown of Muslims entering the United States until our country's representatives can figure out what is going on." Id.

The latter statement is consistent with views that the president has expressed on various occasions over the last six years. A representative example[5] can be found in a 2011 interview with Fox News's Bill O'Reilly ("O'Reilly"). A portion of that interview reads:

> O'Reilly: Is there a Muslim problem in the world?
> Trump: Absolutely. Absolutely. I don't notice Swedish people knocking down the World Trade Center.
> . . .
> O'Reilly: But you do believe overall there is a Muslim problem in the world.
> Trump: Well, there is a Muslim problem. Absolutely. You just have to turn on your television set.
> O'Reilly: And do you think it encompasses all Muslims?
> Trump: No. And that's the sad part about life. Because you have fabulous Muslims. I know many Muslims and they're fabulous people. They're smart. They're industrious. They're great. Unfortunately, at this moment in time, there is a Muslim problem in the world. And by the way, and you know it and I [sic] and I know it and some people don't like saying it because they think it's not politically correct.

[Dkt. 61-19] at 5.

[5] The attachments to the Declaration of Mona Siddiqui [Dkt. 61] collect several other examples, although the Court does not consider every document in the Siddiqui declaration to be relevant.

As the campaign proceeded, there were fewer references to an outright ban on Muslim immigration, with the focus switched to a ban on persons from territories that have a Muslim majority. Mr. Trump and then-vice-presidential candidate Mike Pence ("Pence") were asked about this evolution in an interview with Lesley Stahl ("Stahl") on July 17, 2016. The relevant portion reads:

> Stahl: [I]n December, you [i.e., Pence] tweeted, and I quote you, "Calls to ban Muslims from entering the U.S. are offensive and unconstitutional."
> Trump: So you call it territories. OK? We're gonna do territories. We're not gonna let people come in from Syria that nobody knows who they are.
> . . .
> Stahl: [S]o you're changing . . . your position.
> Trump: –No, I—call it whatever you want. We'll call it territories, OK?
> Stahl: So not Muslims?
> Trump: You know—the Constitution—there's nothing like it. But it doesn't necessarily give us the right to commit suicide, as a country, OK? And I'll tell you this. Call it whatever you want, change territories [sic], but there are territories and terror states and terror nations that we're not gonna allow the people to come into our country.

[Dkt. 61-22] at 9–10.

On the morning of Friday, January 27, 2017, the president gave an interview with the Christian Broadcasting Network's David Brody ("Brody"):

> Brody: Persecuted Christians, we've talked about this, the refugees overseas. The refugee program, or the refugee changes you're looking to make. As it relates to persecuted Christians, do you see them as kind of a priority here?
> Trump: Yes.
> Brody: You do?
> Trump: They've been horribly treated. Do you know if you were a Christian in Syria it was impossible, at least very tough to get into the United States? If you were a Muslim you could come in, but if you were a Christian, it was almost impossible and the reason that was so unfair [sic], everybody was persecuted in all fairness, but they were chopping off the heads of everybody but more so the Christians. And I thought it was very, very unfair. So we are going to help them.

[Dkt. 61-6] at 2. That evening, the EO was signed.

On Sunday, January 29, 2017, two days after the EO was signed, former Mayor of New York City Rudolph Giuliani ("Giuliani") said in an interview on Fox News, "'I'll tell you the whole history of it[.]' . . . 'So when [Trump] first announced it, he said 'Muslim ban.' He called me up. He said, 'Put a commission together. Show me the right way to do it legally.' . . . 'And what we did was, we focused on, instead of religion, danger—the areas of the world that create danger for us[.]' . . . 'Which is a factual basis, not a religious basis. Perfectly legal, perfectly sensible. And that's what the ban is based on. It's not based on religion. It's based on places where there are [sic] substantial evidence that people are sending terrorists into our country.'" [Dkt. 61-4] at 1–2 (emphasis in original).

The president and his advisors deny that the EO represents the Muslim ban that the president spoke about during his campaign. Secretary Kelly said in an interview on Tuesday, January 31, 2017, "'This is not, I repeat not, a ban on Muslims.' . . . 'We cannot gamble with American lives. I will not gamble with American lives. These orders are a matter of national security, and it is my sworn responsibility as secretary of homeland security to protect and defend the American people.'" [Dkt. 61-17] at 3.

II. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A. Justiciability

As a threshold matter, defendants argue that courts "lack jurisdiction to review the Executive Branch's decisions concerning visa revocation and entry," at least in part because those decisions involve national security judgments. [Dkt. 80] at 14.

The word "jurisdiction" was once a "word of many, too many, meanings." Steel Co. v. Citizens for a Better Environment, 523 U.S. 83, 90 (1998) (internal citation and quotation marks omitted). Accordingly, the Supreme Court "has endeavored in recent years to 'bring some discipline' to the use of the term 'jurisdictional.'" Gonzalez v. Thaler, 132 S. Ct. 641, 648 (2012) (quoting Henderson v. Shinseki, 562 U.S. 428, 435 (2011)). Because the modern concept addresses "a court's adjudicatory capacity," it refers to either "subject matter jurisdiction" or "personal jurisdiction." Henderson, 562 U.S. at 435.

Defendants have argued that exercising jurisdiction in this case would be "an impermissible intrusion on the political branches' plenary constitutional authority over foreign affairs, national security, and immigration." [Dkt. 80] at 14. By advancing this argument, defendants appear to be invoking the political question doctrine, under which a court lacks subject matter jurisdiction over "a controversy . . . where there is a textually demonstrable constitutional commitment of the issue to a coordinate political department; or a lack of judicially discoverable and manageable standards for resolving it[.]" Zivotofsky v. Clinton, 566 U.S. 189, 195 (2012) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted).

The issues in this case are not textually committed to another department by the Constitution. To the contrary, the Commonwealth argues that the EO is in violation of constitutional and statutory law, and that resolving these claims requires interpreting the EO, the Immigration and Nationality Act, and the Constitution. "This is a familiar judicial exercise." Zivotofsky, 566 U.S. at 196. "At least since Marbury v. Madison, [the Supreme Court has] recognized that when" government action "is alleged to conflict with the Constitution, 'it is emphatically the province and duty of the judicial department to say what the law is.'" Id. (quoting Marbury, 1 Cranch 137, 177 (1803)). "That duty will sometimes involve the '[r]esolution of litigation challenging the constitutional authority of one of the three branches,' but courts cannot avoid their responsibility merely 'because the issues have political implications.'" Id. (quoting INS v. Chadha, 462 U.S. 919, 943 (1983)).

At oral argument, defendants suggested that their justiciability arguments were limited to the context of 8 U.S.C. § 1182(f), which is the statutory authority that the president invokes for the EO. Section 1182(f) provides that "[w]henever the President finds that the entry of any aliens or of any class of aliens into the United States would be detrimental to the interests of the United States, he may by proclamation, and for such period as he shall deem necessary, suspend the entry of all aliens or any class of aliens as immigrants or nonimmigrants[.]" Defendants urge that this statutory grant of authority places the president at the zenith of his power, citing the framework first articulated by Justice Jackson in his concurrence in Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. v. Sawyer, 343 U.S. 579 (1952). Under Youngstown Sheet & Tube, "[w]hen the President acts pursuant to an express . . . authorization of Congress, his authority is at its maximum, for it includes all that he possesses in his own right plus all that Congress can delegate." 343 U.S. at 635.

Maximum power does not mean absolute power. Every presidential action must still comply with the limits set by Congress' delegation of power and the constraints of the Constitution, including the Bill of Rights.[6] It is a bedrock principle of this nation's legal system that "the Constitution ought to be the standard of construction for the laws, and that wherever there is evident opposition, the laws ought to give place to the Constitution." The Federalist No. 81, at 481 (Alexander Hamilton) (Clinton Rossiter ed., 1999). Defendants have cited no authority for the proposition that Congress can delegate to the president the power to violate the [6] Youngstown Sheet & Tube is better known as the Steel Seizure Case. In that case, President Truman ordered the Secretary of Commerce to seize control of most of the country's steel mills because he felt that an impending strike would jeopardize the military's ability to wage the Korean War. The Supreme Court struck the order, holding that although "[t]he power of Congress to . . . authorize the taking of private property for public use" was beyond question, the president did not have power to do so without Congress' approval, even in wartime. Id. at 588.

Constitution and its amendments and the Supreme Court has made it clear that even in the context of immigration law, congressional and executive power "is subject to important constitutional limitations." Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 695 (2001).

Indeed, the Supreme Court has refused to hold that the president is exempt from compliance with the Due Process Clause even when he is exercising a pure Article II power, such as the detention of persons deemed "enemy combatants." In Hamdi v. Rumsfeld, 542 U.S. 507, 509 (2004), for example, the Supreme Court was confronted with the constitutional claims of an "enemy combatant." The Court recognized the government's "critical . . . interest in detaining those who actually pose an immediate threat to the national security of the United States during ongoing international conflict," id., but still held that the president must comply with the Fifth Amendment, id. at 524. If the president's actions can be subject to judicial review when he is exercising his core Article II powers, as in Hamdi, it follows that his actions are also subject to such review when he exercises Article I powers delegated to him by Congress. As the Ninth Circuit has explained, "the Supreme Court has repeatedly and explicitly rejected the notion that the political branches . . . are not subject to the Constitution when policymaking in [the immigration] context." Washington, 2017 WL 526497, at *5.

The defendants also continue to dispute the Commonwealth's Article III standing to challenge the EO. The Court has already held that the Commonwealth has pleaded facts sufficient to establish standing under both a parens patriae theory and proprietary theory. See Mem. Op., [Dkt. 42] at 11. Because the pending motion is for a preliminary injunction, the Commonwealth may no longer rest on its pleadings but must "set forth by affidavit or other evidence specific facts, which for purposes of the [preliminary injunction] will be taken to be true." Cacchillo v. Insmed, Inc., 638 F.3d 401, 404 (2d Cir. 2011) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted). As discussed above, the Commonwealth has submitted sufficient evidence in the form of Reveley's declaration to establish at this early point in the litigation standing under the standards articulated in this Court's memorandum opinion dated February 3, 2017. See Mem. Op., [Dkt. 42] at 11.

B. Preliminary Injunction

"A plaintiff seeking a preliminary injunction must establish that he is likely to succeed on the merits, that he is likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary relief, that the balance of the equities tips in his favor, and that an injunction is in the public interest." Winter v. Nat. Res. Def. Council, Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 20 (2008). "While plaintiffs seeking preliminary injunctions must demonstrate that they are likely to succeed on the merits, they 'need not show a certainty of success." League of Women Voters of N.C. v. North Carolina, 769 F.3d 224, 247 (4th Cir. 2014) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted).

C. Likelihood of Success on the Merits

The First Amendment to the United States Constitution provides that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion." U.S. Const. amend. I.[7] "The clearest command of the Establishment Clause is that one religious denomination cannot be officially preferred over another." Larson v. Valente, 456 U.S. 228, 244 (1982). The Supreme Court has articulated various tests for determining whether that command has been violated. The first such test is that the law "must have a secular . . . purpose." Lemon v. Kurtzman, 403 U.S. 602, 612 (1971).

[7] Although the First Amendment only addresses Congress by its terms, it has long been held to apply to executive action as well. See, e.g., New York Times Co. v. United States, 403 U.S. 713, 714 (1971).

"In the past, [this] test has not been fatal very often, presumably because government does not generally act unconstitutionally, with the predominant purpose of advancing" one religion over another. McCreary County v. Am. Civil Liberties Union of Ky., 545 U.S. 844, 863 (2005). The secular purpose requirement "'nevertheless serves an important function,'" id. at 859 (quoting Wallace v. Jaffree, 472 U.S. 38, 75 (1985) (O'Connor, J., concurring in the judgment)), because "[b]y showing a purpose to favor religion, the government sends the . . . message to . . . nonadherents that they are outsiders, not full members of the political community, and an accompanying message to adherents that they are insiders, favored members," id. at 860 (internal citations and quotation marks omitted). This message of exclusion from the political community is all the more conspicuous when the government acts with a specific purpose to disfavor a particular religion.

Defendants have argued that the Court may not go beyond the text of the EO in assessing its purpose, or look behind its proffered national security rationale,[8] but the Supreme Court has rejected that position. Although courts "often . . . accept governmental statements of purpose, in keeping with the respect owed in the first instance to such official claims, . . . in those unusual cases where the claim was an apparent sham, or the secular purpose secondary, the unsurprising results have been findings of no adequate secular object." McCreary, 545 U.S. at 865. When determining what purpose motivates governmental action, "an understanding of official objective emerges from readily discoverable fact, without any judicial psychoanalysis of a drafter's heart of hearts." McCreary, 545 U.S. at 862. In other words, what matters is what an "objective observer" would draw from the text of the policy, enlightened by historical context and "the specific sequence of events leading to" its adoption. Id. (internal citations and quotation marks omitted). This historical context can include statements by relevant policymakers. Id. at 870 (considering resolutions authorizing a Ten Commandments display by county boards); see also Washington, 2017 WL 526497 at *10 (sanctioning the consideration of "statements by decisionmakers").

Defendants argue that an elected official's statements before he took the oath of office are irrelevant, but that position also runs counter to McCreary. 545 U.S. at 866. Just as the Supreme Court has held that "the world is not made brand new every morning[,]" id., a person is not made brand new simply by taking the oath of office. Limiting the temporal scope of the purpose inquiry "bucks common sense: reasonable observers have reasonable memories, and [Supreme Court] precedents sensibly forbid an observer 'to turn a blind eye to the context in which [the] policy arose.'" Id. (quoting Santa Fe Ind. Sch. Dist. v. Doe, 530 U.S. 290, 315 (2000)). For example, in McCreary, the American Civil Liberties Union ("ACLU") sought to enjoin a display including the Ten Commandments in two counties' courthouses. Id. at 855. The Supreme Court examined the history of interactions between county executives, the ACLU, and the federal district court for a one-year period before the challenged display was erected, id. at 851–57, and determined from that history that "the [c]ounties were simply reaching for any way to keep a religious document on the walls of courthouses constitutionally required to embody religious neutrality," id. at 873. Further, in Santa Fe, the Court examined over a year's worth of events leading up to a school district's adoption of the challenged "Prayer at Football Games" policy to conclude that it "unquestionably ha[d] the purpose and create[d] the perception of encouraging the delivery of prayer at a series of important school events." Santa Fe, 530 U.S. at 294–98, 317.

This Court is similarly not free to "ignore perfectly probative evidence" from statements made by the president before he took office. See McCreary, 545 U.S. at 866.

Defendants have repeatedly cited Kleindienst v. Mandel, 408 U.S. 753 (1972), arguing that when facing constitutional scrutiny in an immigration context, the government must only supply a "facially legitimate and bona fide reason" for its action, but Mandel is inapplicable to this litigation. By its terms, Mandel does not apply to the persons who have already been granted visas because it involved an as-applied challenge to executive action by a person who had not been granted a visa. Id. at 758–60. Here, by contrast, the allegations involve persons who have passed through extensive vetting requirements and been granted visas. Accordingly, the limitation Mandel imposes on constitutional review of executive action does not apply to the class of persons relevant to this action. Moreover, even if Mandel did apply, it requires that the proffered executive reason be "bona fide." Id. at 770. As the Second and Ninth Circuits have persuasively held, if the proffered "facially legitimate" reason has been given in "bad faith," it is not "bona fide." Am. Academy of Religion v. Napolitano, 573 F.3d 115, 126 (2d Cir. 2009); Bustamente v. Mukasey, 531 F.3d 1059, 1062 (9th Cir. 2008). That leaves the Court in the same position as in an ordinary secular purpose case: determining whether the proffered reason for the EO is the real reason.

Defendants argue that permitting a court to "look behind" the president's national security judgments will result in a trial de novo of the president's national security determinations.[9] No party has asked the Court to engage in such an exercise, nor would precedent permit it to do so. As in the Ninth Circuit, this court's "jurisprudence has long counseled deference to the political branches on matters of immigration and national security[.]" Washington, 2017 WL 526497, at *5. The Establishment Clause concerns discussed above do not involve an assessment of the merits of the president's national security judgment. Instead, the question is whether the EO was animated by national security concerns at all, as opposed to the impermissible motive of, in the context of entry, disfavoring one religious group and, in the area of refugees, favoring another religious group.

The Commonwealth has produced unrebutted evidence supporting its position that it is likely to succeed on an Establishment Clause claim. The "Muslim ban" was a centerpiece of the president's campaign for months, and the press release calling for it was still available on his website as of the day this Memorandum Opinion is being entered. See [Dkt. 61-12]. The president connected that policy to this EO when, asked last July if he had abandoned his plan for a Muslim ban, he responded "Call it whatever you want. We'll call it territories, OK?" [Dkt. 61-22] at 10. Giuliani said two days after the EO was signed that Trump's desire for a Muslim ban was the impetus for this policy. [Dkt. 61-4] at 1. And on the same day that the president signed the EO, he lamented that under the old policy, "If you were a Muslim you could come in, but if you were a Christian, it was almost impossible," and said his administration was "going to help" make persecuted Christians a priority. [Dkt. 61-6] at 2. Defendants have not denied any of these statements or produced any evidence, beyond the text of the EO itself, to support their contention that the EO was primarily motivated by national security concerns.[10]

[10] The Court gives little weight to the post hoc statements by Secretary Kelly and other administration officials that this is not a Muslim ban. See [Dkt. 61-17] at 3. Such rationalizations, coming after the litigation had already been challenged on First Amendment and other legal grounds, are typically afforded little weight in an intent inquiry. See Peacock v. Duval, 694 F.2d 644, 646 (9th Cir. 1982).

The "specific sequence of events" leading to the adoption of the EO bolsters the Commonwealth's argument that the EO was not motivated by rational national security concerns. As the declaration from the national security experts states, ordinarily an executive order prioritizing national security is based "on cleared views from expert agencies with broad experience on the matters presented to [the president]." [Dkt. 57] at ¶ 7. But here there is no evidence that such a deliberative process took place. Id. To the contrary, there is evidence that the president's senior national security officials were taken by surprise. See [Dkt. 61-17]. Although Giuliani suggested that the EO was formulated by a "whole group of very expert lawyers" and at least two members of Congress, this process appears to have taken place during the campaign and there is no evidence that this commission was privy to any national security information when developing the policy. See [Dkt. 61-4]. Once again, defendants have offered no evidence to the contrary.

Defendants argue that the list of countries affected by the EO was singled out by Congress and the previous administration for special scrutiny and therefore cannot reflect religious prejudice. Giuliani advanced a similar argument in his interview after the EO was signed—that as long as the policy was given an outwardly legal form, it is constitutional. [Dkt. 61-4] at 1–2. Once again, McCreary is to the contrary:

> One consequence of taking account of the purpose underlying past actions is that the same government action may be constitutional if taken in the first instance and unconstitutional if it has a sectarian heritage. This presents no incongruity, however, because purpose matters.

545 U.S. at 866 n.14. Absent the direct evidence of animus presented by the Commonwealth, singling out these countries for additional scrutiny might not raise Establishment Clause concerns; however, with that direct evidence, a different picture emerges. In Giuliani's own account, the origin of this EO was a statement by the president that he wanted a legal way to impose a ban on Muslims entering the United States. [Dkt. 61-4] at 1. The president himself acknowledged the conceptual link between a Muslim ban and the EO when, asked if he had changed his position, he said "Call it whatever you want. We'll call it territories, OK?" [Dkt. 61-22] at 10. That the same list might have been created by constitutionally legitimate concerns does not alter the legal analysis under McCreary.

The argument has also been made that the Court cannot infer an anti-Muslim animus because the EO does not affect all, or even most, Muslims. The major premise of that argument—that one can only demonstrate animus toward a group of people by targeting all of them at once—is flawed. For example, it is highly unlikely that the Supreme Court considered the displays of the Ten Commandments erected by the Kentucky counties in McCreary, which had a localized impact, to be targeted at all persons outside the Judeo-Christian traditions. See 545 U.S. at 851. Moreover, the Supreme Court has never reduced its Establishment Clause jurisprudence to a mathematical exercise. It is a discriminatory purpose that matters, no matter how inefficient the execution. See id. at 860.

Finally, defendants argue that the evidence on which the Commonwealth relies proves too much, because it would render every policy that the president makes related to Muslim-majority countries open to challenge. This fear is exaggerated. The Court's conclusion rests on the highly particular "sequence of events" leading to this specific EO and the dearth of evidence indicating a national security purpose. See McCreary, 545 U.S. at 862. The evidence in this record focuses on the president's statements about a "Muslim ban" and the link Giuliani established between those statements and the EO. Based on that evidence, at this preliminary of the litigation, the Court finds that the Commonwealth has established a likelihood of success on the merits.[11]

D. Irreparable Harm

As a matter of law, the threat of an Establishment Clause violation in and of itself constitutes irreparable harm. Newsom v. Albemarle Cnty. Sch. Bd., 354 F.3d 249, 261 (4th Cir. 2003) (citing Elrod v. Burns, 427 U.S. 347, 373 (1976)). But it is not the only irreparable harm that the Commonwealth is experiencing. As discussed above, the travel ban applies to hundreds of students at the Commonwealth's universities, and is already preventing the exchange of faculty on which such universities thrive, by significantly straining freedom of movement. Moreover, Virginia's schools have begun to lose students, and have credibly stated that they expect to continue losing students and medical residents in the coming months if the travel ban is not lifted. Students are not fungible, thus these losses cannot be compensated by money damages, even if money damages were available in this civil action, which they are not. In light of the likelihood of an Establishment Clause violation and the restraint on liberty imposed by the travel ban, the Commonwealth has established irreparable harm.

E. Balance of the Equities

As the Fourth Circuit has held, "a state is in no way harmed by the issuance of a preliminary injunction which prevents the state from enforcing restrictions likely to be found unconstitutional[.]" Giovani Carandola, Ltd. v. Bason, 303 F.3d 507, 521 (4th Cir. 2002) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). Moreover, in contrast to the evidence of irreparable harm to the Commonwealth from the EO, the defendants have failed to present any evidence of harm they or the nation will suffer if enforcement of § 3(c) of the EO is preliminarily enjoined beyond bare assertions that the EO is necessary for national security. Although there is no interest more weighty than a bona fide national security concern, the defendants have presented no evidence to support their contention that the EO is necessary to national security. And as the Ninth Circuit observed, there is no evidence that the procedures in place before the EO was signed were inadequate, as the government has not pointed to any attacks perpetrated by nationals of the affected countries since September 11, 2001. Washington, 2017 WL 526497 at *10. Ironically, the only evidence in this record concerning national security indicates that the EO may actually make the country less safe. As the former national security officials have stated: "[The EO] ultimately undermines the national security of the United States, rather than mak[ing] us safer. In our professional opinion, this Order cannot be justified on national security or foreign policy grounds." [Dkt. 57] at ¶ 3. The Commonwealth therefore prevails on the balance of the equities.

F. Public Interest

The Fourth Circuit has held that "upholding constitutional rights surely serves the public interest." Giovani Carandola, 303 F.3d at 521 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). The Court therefore finds that enjoining an action that is likely a violation of the Establishment Clause serves the public interest, particularly in the absence of evidence to support the government's asserted national security interest as discussed above.

G. Scope of Relief

The Commonwealth originally sought an order enjoining enforcement of § 3(c) of the EO at any port of entry against Virginia residents who lawfully held either LPR status, a valid student visa, or a valid work visa at the time that the EO was signed. At oral argument, it amended its request to include a request for a nationwide injunction applying to all persons, not just Virginia residents. Although "[n]ationwide injunctions are appropriate if necessary to afford relief to the prevailing party," Va. Soc'y for Human Life v. Fed. Election Comm'n, 263 F.3d 379, 393 (2001), injunctive relief must be no broader than necessary to avoid encroaching "on the ability of other circuits to consider the" questions raised. Id. The relief originally requested by the Commonwealth is appropriately tailored to the basis for the Commonwealth's standing and its claims relating to its residents, colleges, and universities. Moreover, the nationwide temporary restraining order entered in the District of Washington provides the broader protection sought by the Commonwealth. To avoid any claim that the preliminary injunction to be entered in this litigation is defective because of overbreadth, this Court declines the Commonwealth's invitation to impose broader relief.

III. CONCLUSION

For the reasons discussed in this Memorandum Opinion, the Court holds that the unrefuted evidence presented by the Commonwealth establishes that there is a likelihood the Commonwealth will prevail on the merits of its Establishment Clause claim; that it will suffer irreparable injury if the enforcement of § 3(c) of the EO is not enjoined as it relates to Virginia residents, Virginia institutions, and persons connected to those persons and institutions; that the defendants will not suffer any harm from imposing the injunction; and that enjoining unconstitutional action by the Executive Branch is always in the public's interest. Accordingly, the Court will enter a separate order granting a modified version of the injunction sought by the Commonwealth.

PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION

For the reasons stated in the accompanying Memorandum Opinion, the Court finds that the Commonwealth of Virginia has standing to maintain this civil action and has established that it is likely to prevail on the merits, that it is likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of injunctive relief, and that the balance of the equities and the public interest favor an injunction. Accordingly, the Commonwealth's Motion for a Preliminary Injunction [Dkt. 23] is GRANTED and it is hereby

ORDERED that respondents, and all officers, agents, and employees of the Executive Branch of the United States government, and anyone acting under their authorization or direction be and are ENJOINED from enforcing § 3(c) of Executive Order 13,769 against any person who has a Virginia residence or is employed by or attends an educational institution administered by the Commonwealth of Virginia, and who, as of 5:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time on Friday, January 27, 2017, was lawfully admitted for permanent residency in the United States, held an immigrant visa that would entitle the bearer to be lawfully admitted for permanent residency upon admission to the United States, held a valid student visa (or accompanying family or spousal visa), or held a valid work visa (or accompanying family or spousal visa); and it is further

ORDERED that nothing in this Order affects the statutes or regulations relating to immigration in effect before Executive Order 13,769 went into effect; and it is further ORDERED that the Commonwealth of Virginia is not required to deposit a security.

The Clerk is directed to forward copies of this Preliminary Injunction and the accompanying Memorandum Opinion to counsel of record.

We (SCOPS) voted for the I-192. It's cleaner for us to implement and CBP will not have issues if they need to ER the person. The I-192 will provide them with an I-797 that is a Transportation Letter (draft language attached). They would need to provide a valid passport and visa to enter and be inspected. On the other hand, if we issue a parole – CBP is worried that if issues arise, they may try to say they have a parole.

Also, while e-verify isn't related to admission, we added it because the Fortune 500 companies are asking to vouch for their employees (e.g. Microsoft, Amazon, Google, etc.). This would ensure that we are only accepting letters from legitimate businesses that have been vetted. We thought it would be good to leave in but completely understand if it's taken out somewhere along the process, as many are reviewing.

Overall the paper looks very good. Thanks to everyone for pulling it together so quickly.

The everify requirement would purely be a policy call. I don't see the nexus between e-verify use and a national interest determination related to admission so I would advocate for removing it.

I agree that adding work to VSC is problematic so if we could do I-192s elsewhere that would be better. We also need to validate the 18000 volume estimate as I don't know who provided it or how it was calculated.

If we believe the I-131 is better we should explain why.

Importance: High

Hi. Here are my concerns in the attached. Look forward to discussing.

- Why are we requiring E-Verify? Are we being told it is a requirement from the FO/Dept. or are we imposing it on ourselves? [redacted] (b)(5)
- If the I-192 is denied, what would be the legal basis for the removal charge be?
- I know VSC already does the I-192s for the victims relate work, but this will coincide with cap where the contractors will already be knee deep in data entry. Recommend moving this elsewhere.

Good morning Pam. Thanks so much for the feedback. It's for folks inside the US. We can certainly make that more clear.

Regarding the timeframe, as I understand it from Leslie, the major piece for start up is around the system updates. Leslie- please confirm. I don't know that those can be cut down.

All- If the system update timeframe ends up being too long, does the team have any ideas on what we can do without those in place for this? Also, if not 30 days for a processing time, what would you recommend?

Thanks again.
Donna

Good morning, All,

The opening paragraph seems to imply this form/process may be used for those visa holders currently "stuck" outside the U.S., is that correct? Otherwise the process proposed is manageable for USCIS to implement – in the long term. If this is simply a short term fix, required for a small number of affected individuals during this 80 day period, then a 45 day startup and 30 day processing time doesn't seem to meet their immediate needs.

Hi all and thanks so much Karla. The I-192 version looks great.

I have been working on the 131 version, and because so much of that is similar to what we note about the I-192 processing, I decided to merge both options into one document and added some background to give some context. Take a look and let me know what you think about that approach.

Bottom line is it looks like we could implement either option in about 45 days as the system updates to notices and filing look minimal and simple web updates. Can you verify those timelines? Also, do we want to go as far as to make a recommendation on which we think is the right one to implement or simply present both?

Thanks again. Looking forward to your feedback. Have a good night and looking forward to meeting in the morning.

All,
This is the latest draft version, we've updated with "business" and "student" criteria. Please feel free to edit.
Donna is working on a separate draft for paroles. We will discuss in the morning as these are both due by noon tomorrow.

Exception Options

Background: As a result of recent Executive Orders relating to limiting travel to the United States from 7 identified countries, the Department of Homeland Security is in a challenging position to assist individuals that may be stuck in this process.

This proposal specifically applies to the population of individuals, currently in the United States, that came to the US on a valid business or student visa, and still has a current, unexpired visa and passport.

This is a truly unique situation for the Agency. One that we haven't encountered to date, thus, will require something new to be implemented. Essentially, DHS needs to create a process that would allow the individuals stuck in this scenario to apply to the Department prior to leaving the country. This provisional review will ensure that, upon their return to the United States, they will be allowed reentry. The goal being that this new process will provide them with a document that they could present to CBP when they arrive to allow entry.

It is estimated per the Department of State (DOS), as communicated to USCIS by CBP that approximately 18,000 people could be in this population.

While we believe that the best option to truly stay aligned to the intent of the Order is to not allow this, we understand that the Department needs to consider and possibly create an option to assure impacted individuals a safe return to the US. USCIS currently doesn't have an existing process that allows for this, thus, a new process must be created for this sole reason. As a result, USCIS is proposing two possible options for consideration.

Option 1: I-192, Application for Advance Permission to Enter as a Nonimmigrant

I-192 Process Overview:

- USCIS shall adjudicate Form I-192, Application for Advance Permission to Enter as a Nonimmigrant. Currently, these cases are accepted at the Vermont Service Center (VSC). We would look to locate this workload at one of the other Service Centers.
    - Fees:
    - Form I-192 $930 USD
    - Biometrics $80 USD
- Approval of the I-192 will generate Form I-797 that will allow the beneficiary to board an aircraft back to the United States. CBP will inspect and determine admission based on the beneficiary's NIV.
    - A denial of Form I-192 may result in the issuance of an NTA.

- USCIS (Service Center Operations) (SCOPS) will accept the current expedite process request for Form I-192.
    - Severe financial loss to company or person;
    - Emergency situation;
    - Nonprofit organization whose request is in furtherance of the cultural and social interests of the United States;
    - Department of Defense or national interest situation (These particular expedite requests must come from an official U.S. government entity and state that delay will be detrimental to the government.);
    - USCIS error; or
    - Compelling interest of USCIS.

- Biometrics are required for all I-192 cases. Adjudication will not occur until results are received and analyzed.
    - Name checks will not be required – currently there is a 9 month backlog.

- Premium Processing is not available for Form I-192.

- USCIS Field Operations will accept emergency process request for Form I-192, when the Form I-192 is pending with USCIS (SCOPS).

- Routine processing time for I-192 requests will be 30 days.

Mandatory Criteria:

The applicant must file Form I-192 with the evidence described in "criteria" below.

1. Business Traveler Criteria
    a) Traveler must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa (H, I, L, O, P, Q, R).
    b) U.S. employer must be enrolled in e-Verify.
    c) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by CEO, Vice President, or President level, from U.S. Company indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
    d) Travel may only be for business.
    e) Travel may not be for vacation.
    f) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order.

2. Student Traveler Criteria
a) Student must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa (F, M, J).
    b) U.S. University/School must be verified in SEVIS.
    c) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by Vice President, or President level, from U.S. University/School indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
    d) Travel may only be for business.
    e) Travel may not be for vacation.
    f) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order.

Option #1 - Required for Implementation:

1. Communications on new process to the public
2. Preparation at VSC for intake and customer interaction.
    a. Training on new process
3. System Updates:
    - Form I-192 – Currently, very little data is collected on the I-192 in USCIS systems. A modification to CLAIMS 3 will be required to add additional data fields. This piece is essential so that we can differentiate these cases from others and be able to run reports on this specific workload. It is estimated that this modification can be made in an estimated two weeks.

    - Form I-797 resides in the local C3 print service. Changes can be made to the notice (body) within two weeks; however, header changes may require more time. Total estimated time for changes is 30 days.

If required, USCIS could implement this portion of option #1 in 45 days. It's important to note at this stage in the proposed process that true success will be dependent on CBP also playing a role in the process as these individuals enter the United States. The CBP process overview is noted below.

USCIS will not interview these cases. In this particular process, USCIS views the interview portion of the adjudication to occur at the time of entry into the US, with CBP.

CBP Process

Option #2 – Advanced Parole

I-131 Process Overview: Much of the process flow as identified in Option # 1 will also apply here in the I-131 process.

- USCIS shall adjudicate Form I-131, Application for Travel Document.
- All Service Centers and many Field Office locations currently adjudicate I-131s, Advanced Parole. For this workload, SCOPS would look to the Nebraska Service Center (NSC) to process these requests.
- The I-131 is a form that we use in support of many different benefits. As a result, this option may be a bit more challenging to segregate the population for reporting purposes. We do believe that we can find a way to do that through data analysis, just wanted to note it in the proposal as a challenge that needs to be overcome.
    - If it is identified that there is a particular need to have these cases follow a different process then the standard we could create an exception here. The Service Center could process the I-131, and USCIS could ask the individual to come into the Field Office to gather their travel document.

Otherwise, the standard process is they will receive their travel document via the mail.

- With that said, advanced parole, under its definition and in looking at the Agency's past use of it, is the solution that makes the most sense and is completely aligned to the intent of parole and USCIS processing.

    - Fees:
    - Form I-131 $575 USD
    - Biometrics $80 USD

- Approval of the I-131 will generate Form I-797 as well as a I-512, which is a travel document. This document will allow the beneficiary to board an aircraft back to the United States. CBP will inspect and determine admission based on the beneficiary's NIV.

    - A denial of Form I-131 may result in the issuance of an NTA.

- USCIS (Service Center Operations) (SCOPS) will accept the current expedite process request for Form I-131.
    - Severe financial loss to company or person;
    - Emergency situation;
    - Nonprofit organization whose request is in furtherance of the cultural and social interests of the United States;
    - Department of Defense or national interest situation (These particular expedite requests must come from an official U.S. government entity and state that delay will be detrimental to the government.);
    - USCIS error; or
    - Compelling interest of USCIS.

- Biometrics are required for all I-131 cases. Adjudication will not occur until results are received and analyzed.

- Premium Processing is not available for Form I-131.

- USCIS Field Operations will accept emergency process requests for Form I-512, Request for Travel Document, when the Form I-131 is pending with USCIS (SCOPS).

- Routine processing time for I-131 requests will be 30 days.

Mandatory Criteria:

The applicant must file Form I-131 with the evidence described in "criteria" below.

3. Business Traveler Criteria

g) Traveler must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa (H, L, O, P, R).
h) U.S. employer must be enrolled in e-Verify.
i) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by CEO, Vice President, or President level, from U.S. Company indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
j) Travel may only be for business.
k) Travel may not be for vacation.
l) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order.

4. Student Traveler Criteria

g) Student must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa (F, M, J).
h) U.S. University/School must be verified in SEVIS.
i) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by Vice President, or President level, from U.S. University/School indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
j) Travel may only be for business.
k) Travel may not be for vacation.
l) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order.

Option #2 - Required for Implementation:

4. Communications on new process to the public
5. Preparation at NSC for intake and customer interaction.
    a. Training on new process
6. System Updates:
    - Form I-512 – USCIS would like to modify the language to the I-512 for this new process so that it is clear that these cases are the exception to the Order. Updates will take approximately 1 month.

    - Form I-797 (approval notice) for the I-131 resides in the local C3 print service. Changes can be made to the notice (body) within two weeks; however, header changes may require more time. Total estimated time for changes is 30 days.

If required, USCIS could implement this portion of option #2 in 45 days. It's important to note at this stage in the proposed process that true success will be dependent on CBP also playing a role in the process as these individuals enter the United States. The same process that CBP outlined in Option #1 would apply here in Option #2 as well.

Recommendation: USCIS recommends that the I-192 process is implemented, if it is required to have an exception process for these individuals with DHS. It is a form and process that's orginal intent is specifically for this purpose. Because it is not currently used for many processes, it's something that allows for ease in reporting and segregating this population from the rest.

Exception Order Authorization

This notice is to advise you of action taken on Form I-192. The official notice has been mailed according to the mailing preference noted on the Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Accredited Representative. Any relevant documentation was mailed according to the specified mailing preference.

The above application for Exception to Executive Order 13769 is approved.

Transportation Line: Presentation of this original document authorizes a transportation line to accept the named bearer on board for travel to the United States without liability under Section 273 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA). This travel authorization is issued pursuant to Section (3)(e) of Executive Order 13769 dated January 27, 2017.

Recipient: This document authorizes a SINGLE DEPARTURE from the United States and a SINGLE RETURN to the United States. Upon your return to the United States and your arrival at a Port of Entry, you must present this document to Customs and Border Protection (CBP), together with your valid, unexpired non-immigrant visa, and your valid unexpired passport. Your travel must be within the validity period of this authorization and your valid non-immigrant visa.

CBP: This authorization has been issued pursuant to Section (3)(g) of Executive Order 13769 following an individual case by case review and upon a determination that admission would be in the national interest. The named bearer is authorized to depart the United States temporarily, with the intent to return to the United States. Presentation of the original of this document and a valid visa allows a Customs and Border Protection (CBP) Officer at a Port of Entry to readmit the named bearer, whose photograph appears on this authorization into the United States based on Section (3)(g) of Executive Order 13769.

WARNING NOTICE

Read before you travel abroad

Presentation of this Exception Order Authorization, together with a valid unexpired passport and a valid unexpired non-immigrant visa, will allow a CBP officer at a port-of entry to readmit you into the United States.

DHS can revoke or terminate your Exception Order Authorization at any time. If you are outside the United States when you are notified that DHS has revoked or terminated your Exception Order Authorization document, the revocation or termination of this travel document may leave you unable to return to the United States unless you receive a subsequent travel authorization.

Leaving the United States, even with this Exception Order Authorization, does not guarantee that you will be readmitted into the United States.

Inadmissibility in general: If you have concerns about admissibility and waivers, you should contact an immigration attorney or an immigrant assistance organization accredited by the BIA before making travel plans.

Agreed, it's changed to "business only." If the FO wants to add personal trips – that's up to them. But, this makes it much cleaner. (new version attached)

Karla,

Should the expedite criteria be modified as our stated criteria to file is for business ONLY travel? Suggest keeping only bullets one (edit out person) five, six and seven. In addition, edit Emergency Criteria to fit criteria to file (business related ONLY).

Process to Grant Exception to "Known Travelers"

Summary

DHS requests that USCIS create a process to grant exceptions to the suspension of entry of Foreign Nationals from specified countries as responsible Known Travelers with pressing needs sponsored by U.S. companies. USCIS will adjudicate Form I-192, Application for Advance Permission to Enter as a Nonimmigrant and upon approval issue a Form I-797 that will allow the beneficiary to board an aircraft back to the United States.

USCIS (SCOPS) will accept the current expedite process request for Form I-192. USCIS (FOD) may accept "emergency" Form I-192, after the fee and Form is filed with SCOPS.

USCIS will issue a Form I-797 to beneficiary, if Form I-192 is approved. (language on Form I-797 to be determined)

Process

Beneficiary will file Form I-192 and the evidence described in "criteria" below.

Criteria

a) Must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa
b) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by CEO, Vice President, or President level, from U.S. Company indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
c) Travel may only be for business.
d) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order

Fees

$930 USD

Where to File

Because the filing address is ONLINE we can change this to CSC, VSC, TSC or NSC. Currently, the VSC is accepting Form I-192 for T's and U's.

Expedite Criteria

USCIS reviews expedite requests on a case-by-case basis and requests are granted at the discretion of the office leadership. The burden is on the applicant or petitioner to demonstrate that one or more of the expedite criteria have been met.

USCIS may expedite a petition or application if it meets one or more of the following criteria:

- Severe financial loss to company or person;
- Emergency situation;
- Nonprofit organization whose request is in furtherance of the cultural and social interests of the United States;

- Department of Defense or national interest situation (These particular expedite requests must come from an official U.S. government entity and state that delay will be detrimental to the government.);
- USCIS error; or
- Compelling interest of USCIS.

Travel for vacation is not a valid criteria.

Date:	Monday, January 30, 2017 2:34:52 PM
Importance:	High

Hi. Per our conversation a little bit ago, here are some high level questions I got from folks for the Department to answer. I hope this is along the lines of what you are looking for. I didn't include the questions I sent you yesterday but if any of them need to be included let me know and I will put them back in.

1. Part of the uniform screening standard is to include "Amended application forms that include questions aimed at identifying fraudulent answers and malicious intent"

    a. Does this mean that all applications and petitions will need to be revised or standardized? We note that many of the forms have already be revised to include the questions related to criminality and national security.

    b. If the answer to one of these questions reveals potential issues, what bearing will this have on benefit types that do not accord status and where the issue is not grounds for denial?

2. As part of the uniform screening standard the EO includes a directive to develop "a process to evaluate the applicant's likelihood of becoming a positively contributing member of society and the applicant's ability to make contributions to the national interest"

    a. Is this process/determination a discretionary call or will there be defined areas?

3. Information is to be collected on "any other information relevant to public safety and security as determined by the Secretary of Homeland security and the Attorney General, including information on the immigration status of foreign nationals charged with major offenses"

    a. What is the definition of "major offenses" as it relates to this section? How is it different from the term "aggravated felony" as defined in the INA 101(a)(43)?

4. Can we accept/adjudicate/approved (if eligible) I-730s for following to join family members of individuals granted asylum (FTJ-A) and I-730s for following to join family members of refugees? Is there any distinction between the processing of I-730s for asylees and refugees?

5. For those outside the US currently in T (victims of trafficking) or U (victims of severe form of crime) nonimmigrant status from the seven countries, will they be allowed re-entry? If waivers can be granted case by case, how will those requests be handled?

6. How does the EO impact TRIG exemptions?

7. What is expected of us in terms of reporting?

a. Data to be collected
b. Frequency
c. Transmission

FYI and in case you find this helpful, Pam sent me the numbers of FB/EB visas that were allocated to applicants from the applicable countries for FY-2017.

Iran	703 visa
Iraq	21 visas
Libya	47 visas
Somalia	7 visas
Sudan	9 visas
Syria	102 visas
Yemen	17 visas

I will go through all the EOs in more detail to see if there are other things that might impact us.

Subject: EO Hold

At the recently concluded leadership meeting we learned that the processing hold we put in place over the weekend will be lifted. All messaging must now be cleared through the Department, so we cannot communicate this in writing to the troops. However, I wanted you to know that so we don't waste time formulating questions about the hold or working on strategies to ensure compliance. I expect that the final guidance may be more nuanced on the processing of parole requests, but otherwise we are expecting to lift the hold on adjustments and other form types. Please do not share this further in light of the messaging restrictions. We hope to have formal cleared language later today or tomorrow.

Hi all. Just talked with Julie and got the first set of responses back in. Looks like FOD agrees that the 192 is the way to go. With that said, we will start working to incorporate feedback. It sounds like a meeting may be scheduled for tomorrow morning with Lori to solidify this. I'll be sure to keep you posted as new information is available.

Thanks again.

I guess I'm ambivalent on the E-verify piece. I think the checks we do on the beneficiaries are most important and unless we think an employer may be complicit in any intended misdeeds, I don't know that it makes a difference that Microsoft vouches for someone or a mom and pop operation without e-verify. Neither would necessarily know what's in the head of their employees.

I don't think this will be our call either way so as long as we don't have operational concerns we should just flag as a policy call.

There is a part in the doc where we say we think the I-131 is better. If we don't, we should fix that and also explain why we think the I-192 is preferable.

Again, thanks to everyone.

We (SCOPS) voted for the I-192. It's cleaner for us to implement and CBP will not have issues if they need to ER the person. The I-192 will provide them with an I-797 that is a Transportation Letter (draft language attached). They would need to provide a valid passport and visa to enter and be inspected. On the other hand, if we issue a parole – CBP is worried that if issues arise, they may try to say they have a parole.

Also, while e-verify isn't related to admission, we added it because the Fortune 500 companies are asking to vouch for their employees (e.g. Microsoft, Amazon, Google, etc.). This would ensure that we are only accepting letters from legitimate businesses that have been vetted. We thought it would be good to leave in but completely understand if it's taken out somewhere along the process, as many are reviewing.

Overall the paper looks very good. Thanks to everyone for pulling it together so quickly.

The everify requirement would purely be a policy call. I don't see the nexus between e-verify use and a national interest determination related to admission so I would advocate for removing it.

I agree that adding work to VSC is problematic so if we could do I-192s elsewhere that would be better. We also need to validate the 18000 volume estimate as I don't know who provided it or how it was calculated.

If we believe the I-131 is better we should explain why.

Hi. Here are my concerns in the attached. Look forward to discussing.

- Why are we requiring E-Verify? Are we being told it is a requirement from the FO/Dept. or are we imposing it on ourselves? [redacted] (b)(5)

[redacted]

- If the I-192 is denied, what would be the legal basis for the removal charge be?
- I know VSC already does the I-192s for the victims relate work, but this will coincide with cap where the contractors will already be knee deep in data entry. Recommend moving this elsewhere.

Good morning, All,

The opening paragraph seems to imply this form/process may be used for those visa holders currently "stuck" outside the U.S., is that correct? Otherwise the process proposed is manageable for USCIS to implement – in the long term. If this is simply a short term fix, required for a small number of affected individuals during this 80 day period, then a 45 day startup and 30 day processing time doesn't seem to meet their immediate needs.

Hi all and thanks so much Karla. The I-192 version looks great.

I have been working on the 131 version, and because so much of that is similar to what we note about the I-192 processing, I decided to merge both options into one document and added some background to give some context. Take a look and let me know what you think about that approach.

Bottom line is it looks like we could implement either option in about 45 days as the system updates to notices and filing look minimal and simple web updates. Can you verify those timelines? Also, do we want to go as far as to make a recommendation on which we think is the right one to implement or simply present both?

Waiver Options

Background: As a result of recent Executive Orders relating to limiting travel to the United States from 7 identified countries, the Department of Homeland Security is in a challenging position to assist individuals that may be stuck in this process. The concerning population consists of individuals, currently in the United States, that came to the US on a valid visa, but as a result of the recent Orders, can no longer enter and depart the country.

This is a truly unique situation for the Agency. One that we haven't encountered to date, thus, will require something new to be implemented. Essentially, DHS needs to create a process that would allow the individuals stuck in this scenario to apply to the Department prior to leaving the country. This provisional review will ensure that, upon their return to the United States, they will be allowed reentry. The goal being that this new process will provide them with a document that they could present to CBP when they arrive to allow entry.

It is estimated that approximately 18,000 people could be in this population.

While we believe that the best option to truly stay aligned to the intent of the Order is to not allow this, we understand that the Department needs to consider and possibly create an option to assure impacted individuals a safe return to the US. USCIS currently doesn't have an existing process that allows for this, thus, a new process must be created for this sole reason. As a result, USCIS is proposing two possible options for consideration.

Option 1: Grant Exception to "Known Travelers"

I-192 Process Overview:

- USCIS shall adjudicate Form I-192, Application for Advance Permission to Enter as a Nonimmigrant. Currently, these cases are accepted at the Vermont Service Center (VSC). For ease of implementation we would look to locate this workload there as well.
    - Fees:
    - Form I-192 $930 USD
    - Biometrics $80 USD
- Approval of the I-192 will generate Form I-797 that will allow the beneficiary to board an aircraft back to the United States. CBP will inspect and determine admission based on the beneficiary's NIV.
    - A denial of Form I-192 may result in the issuance of an NTA.
- USCIS (Service Center Operations) (SCOPS) will accept the current expedite process request for Form I-192.
    - Severe financial loss to company or person;
    - Emergency situation;

- Nonprofit organization whose request is in furtherance of the cultural and social interests of the United States;
- Department of Defense or national interest situation (These particular expedite requests must come from an official U.S. government entity and state that delay will be detrimental to the government.);
- USCIS error; or
- Compelling interest of USCIS.

- Biometrics are required for all I-192 cases. Adjudication will not occur until results are received and analyzed.

- Premium Processing is not available for Form I-192.

- USCIS Field Operations will accept emergency process request for Form I-192, when the Form I-192 is pending with USCIS (SCOPS).

- Routine processing time for I-192 requests will be 30 days.

Mandatory Criteria:

The applicant must file Form I-192 with the evidence described in "criteria" below.

1. Business Traveler Criteria
   a) Traveler must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa (H, L, O, P, R).
   b) U.S. employer must be enrolled in e-Verify.
   c) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by CEO, Vice President, or President level, from U.S. Company indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
   d) Travel may only be for business.
   e) Travel may not be for vacation.
   f) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order.

2. Student Traveler Criteria
a) Student must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa (F, M, J).
   b) U.S. University/School must be verified in SEVIS.
   c) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by Vice President, or President level, from U.S. University/School indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
   d) Travel may only be for business.
   e) Travel may not be for vacation.
   f) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order.

Option #1 - Required for Implementation:

1. Communications on new process to the public
2. Preparation at VSC for intake and customer interaction.
   a. Training on new process

3. System Updates:
    - Form I-192 – Currently, very little data is collected on the I-192 in USCIS systems. A modification to CLAIMS 3 will be required to add additional data fields. This piece is essential so that we can differentiate these cases from others and be able to run reports on this specific workload. It is estimated that this modification can be made in an estimated two weeks.

    - Form I-797 resides in the local C3 print service. Changes can be made to the notice (body) within two weeks; however, header changes may require more time. Total estimated time for changes is 30 days.

If required, USCIS could implement this portion of option #1 in 45 days. It's important to note at this stage in the proposed process that true success will be dependent on CBP also playing a role in the process as these individuals enter the United States. The CBP process overview is noted below.

CBP Process

Option #2 – Advanced Parole

I-131 Process Overview: Much of the process flow as identified in Option # 1 will also apply here in the I-131 process.

- USCIS shall adjudicate Form I-131, Application for Travel Document.
- All Service Centers and many Field Office locations currently adjudicate I-131s, Advanced Parole. For this workload, SCOPS would look to the Nebraska Service Center (NSC) to process these requests.
- The I-131 is a form that we use in support of many different benefits. As a result, this option may be a bit more challenging to segregate the population for reporting purposes. We do believe that we can find a way to do that through data analysis, just wanted to note it in the proposal as a challenge that needs to be overcome.
    - If it is identified that there is a particular need to have these cases follow a different process then the standard we could create an exception here. The Service Center could process the I-131, and USCIS could ask the individual to come into the Field Office to gather their travel document. Otherwise, the standard process is they will receive their travel document via the mail.

- With that said, advanced parole, under its definition and in looking at the Agency's past use of it, is the solution that makes the most sense and is completely aligned to the intent of parole and USCIS processing.

    - Fees:
    - Form I-131 $575 USD

- Biometrics $80 USD

- Approval of the I-131 will generate Form I-797 as well as a I-512, which is a travel document. This document will allow the beneficiary to board an aircraft back to the United States. CBP will inspect and determine admission based on the beneficiary's NIV.

  - A denial of Form I-131 may result in the issuance of an NTA.

- USCIS (Service Center Operations) (SCOPS) will accept the current expedite process request for Form I-131.
  - Severe financial loss to company or person;
  - Emergency situation;
  - Nonprofit organization whose request is in furtherance of the cultural and social interests of the United States;
  - Department of Defense or national interest situation (These particular expedite requests must come from an official U.S. government entity and state that delay will be detrimental to the government.);
  - USCIS error; or
  - Compelling interest of USCIS.

- Biometrics are required for all I-131 cases. Adjudication will not occur until results are received and analyzed.

- Premium Processing is not available for Form I-131.

- USCIS Field Operations will accept emergency process requests for Form I-512, Request for Travel Document, when the Form I-131 is pending with USCIS (SCOPS).

- Routine processing time for I-131 requests will be 30 days.

Mandatory Criteria:

The applicant must file Form I-131 with the evidence described in "criteria" below.

3. Business Traveler Criteria
   g) Traveler must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa (H, L, O, P, R).
   h) U.S. employer must be enrolled in e-Verify.
   i) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by CEO, Vice President, or President level, from U.S. Company indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
   j) Travel may only be for business.
   k) Travel may not be for vacation.
   l) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order.

4. Student Traveler Criteria

g) Student must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa (F, M, J).
h) U.S. University/School must be verified in SEVIS.
i) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by Vice President, or President level, from U.S. University/School indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
j) Travel may only be for business.
k) Travel may not be for vacation.
l) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order.

Option #2 - Required for Implementation:

4. Communications on new process to the public
5. Preparation at NSC for intake and customer interaction.
    a. Training on new process
6. System Updates:
    - Form I-512 – USCIS would like to modify the language to the I-512 for this new process so that it is clear that these cases are the exception to the Order. Updates will take approximately 1 month.

    - Form I-797 (approval notice) for the I-131 resides in the local C3 print service. Changes can be made to the notice (body) within two weeks; however, header changes may require more time. Total estimated time for changes is 30 days.

If required, USCIS could implement this portion of option #2 in 45 days. It's important to note at this stage in the proposed process that true success will be dependent on CBP also playing a role in the process as these individuals enter the United States. The same process that CBP outlined in Option #1 would apply here in Option #2 as well.

Hi Karla,

I am with the IT personnel trying to send you the attachments via PKI, but it is telling me that you may have missing or invalid certificate. You may need to publish your PKI certificate to GAL in order for me to send you this via PKI. I have the copies whenever you are ready to receive them.

Thank you,

No, the 3 cases (H-1Bs) are automatic revocations based on petitioner's withdrawal request. The other two are I-129 and I-539 COS from L to E2 where the final decision has not been made yet as we will need to issue NOID. They are not adverse decision based on DOS NIV revocation. I will forward you the auto revocation notices as soon as PKI is fixed.

Subject: Friday's EO

Sorry to bother you over the weekend. The President signed an executive order on Friday titled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States". Among other things, it prevents the entry of citizens or nationals from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for a 90 day period. I am working with Dan, Andrew, Tracy and Lori on a message to send out this weekend that would suspend certain adjudications while we seek guidance/clarity on how this will specifically apply to our workloads.

Most likely, on Monday we will want to identify any potentially impacted cases in C3 and ELIS. I assume it will be possible to run reports identifying cases with applicants, requestors or beneficiaries from these countries sorted by form type. Does anyone know if we could somehow flag them for hold? Ideally we'd be able to prevent accidental approval, but even if we can't stop approval it would be good to flag them for adjudicators. Also, this isn't an indefinite hold so whatever we do it needs to allow normal processing to proceed fairly easily at some point in the future.

At this point, I'm just looking for thoughts and ideas on how to identify what will be a changing universe of cases and flag them for possible special handling. I'd prefer to keep this among ourselves for now so please check with me before sharing with anyone. Any thoughts or concerns are appreciated.

Thanks,

Don

My comments and questions:

There is a large population of I-730s from the effected countries and smaller population of I-130s. Adjudication of these petitions does not admit a person, therefore if the Bene is overseas the EO would apply to the visa issuance at our office or DOS not our SCs. However, if the bene is in the US and adjusting stateside would that be seen as an entry? FOD would handle these cases.

Will this EO prevent USCIS from adjudicating EOS and/or COS requests filed by nationals from the effected countries?

Would 765s be effected? Would there be an instance where CBP would accept an EAD doc as evidence for admission? Canadian and Mexicans perhaps?

Hi. One of the questions I flagged is whether/how the EO impacts the 180-day auto extension under AC21 for timely filed renewal applications under the eligible categories, which includes those admitted as refugees, granted asylum, and pending asylum, among others, which could impact folks from affected countries. We had been working with Magteld and her team all last week to resolve the plain language issues and also fine tune and I believe the web page is with the FO. I also believe that the ETA from OCOMM for posting was today or tomorrow. Until we have a better handle on the EO and how it affects us, would you like to me to reach out to OCOMM or ask Magteld to reach out to OCOMM to put a hold on that web page?

Hi. It ended up being more questions than what I initially thought. Since I had a number of questions, I put them in the attached Word document so they can be more easily be combined with Pam's questions and questions anyone else may have. There is a potential AC21 impact regarding renewals filed under the eligible categories. I am also attaching a list of those categories so you have it handy as you read through the document.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Good morning Sophia. Can you please take a look at the premium reg for us? Discussion this morning was if we have premium cases that will go beyond 15 days because they are part of this hold, do we refund? Looks like some of the centers already have some cases that are getting close to this situation between the 140s and 129s. It isn't that we can't adjudicate them in the timeframe, it's that we have an EO that may not allow for this…

Thanks in advance.

Hi. I just finished reading the whole EO. Section 3c, which suspends the immigrant and nonimmigrant entry, refers to those described in INA 217(a)(2). As far as I can tell, only Iraq and Syria are mentioned in this statutory provision. Are other countries affected or just Iraq and Syria? I couldn't find reference to any other countries anywhere else, so wanted to be sure I wasn't missing anything.

Regarding EAD categories that would include those in INA 217(a)(2), we have:

- (c)(1) For the dependents of A-1 and A-2 government officials.
  - These are adjudicated at the NSC.
  - Requires favorable DOS endorsement;
  - DOS sends only the favorably endorsed applications to NSC.
- (c)(4) For the dependents of G-1, G-3, or G-4 (I think this includes NATO and at the US Mission to the UN, too).
  - These are adjudicated at the NSC.
  - Requires favorable DOS endorsement.
  - DOS sends only the favorably endorsed applications to NSC.

There are some special immigrant categories applicable to As, Gs, and NATO. The I-360 is filed with Dallas and Phoenix LB and the I-485 is filed with Phoenix LB. I am thinking that NSC adjudicates these, but it would be best to confirm.

- I Special Immigrants (INA 101(a)(27)(I) who meet certain residence and physical presence requirements. Includes:
  - Unmarried sons/daughters of an officer or employee, or a former officer or employee of an international organization described in INA 101(a)(15)(G)(i).
  - Surviving spouses of deceased officers or employees of international organizations described in INA 101(a)(15)(G)(i).
  - Retired officers and employees of international organizations.
  - Following to join/accompanying spouse of a retired officer or employee who was granted special immigrant status as a retired officer or employee of an international organization.
- L Special Immigrants (INA 101(a)(27)(L) who meet certain residence and physical presence requirements. Looks like this covers NATO and the same categories of persons described in 101(a)(27)(I).

This is all I can think of for now. If I come up with anything else, I will send it forward.

Subject: Friday's EO

Sorry to bother you over the weekend. The President signed an executive order on Friday titled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States". Among other things, it prevents the entry of citizens or nationals from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for a 90 day period. I am working with Dan, Andrew, Tracy and Lori on a message to send out this weekend that would suspend certain adjudications while we seek guidance/clarity on how this will specifically apply to our workloads.

Most likely, on Monday we will want to identify any potentially impacted cases in C3 and ELIS. I assume it will be possible to run reports identifying cases with applicants, requestors or beneficiaries from these countries sorted by form type. Does anyone know if we could somehow flag them for hold? Ideally we'd be able to prevent accidental approval, but even if we can't stop approval it would be good to flag them for adjudicators. Also, this isn't an indefinite hold so whatever we do it needs to allow normal processing to proceed fairly easily at some point in the future.

At this point, I'm just looking for thoughts and ideas on how to identify what will be a changing universe of cases and flag them for possible special handling. I'd prefer to keep this among ourselves for now so please check with me before sharing with anyone. Any thoughts or concerns are appreciated.

Thanks,

Don

Sure thing. I am pretty sure we have to refund if we do not take action in 15 days. The PP regs are at 8 CFR 103.7(e). It's 15 calendar days. Per 103.7(e)(2)(i) the 15 day processing period begins when USCIS receives the request for PP accompanied by an eligible employment-based immigration benefit request. Per 103.7(e)(2)(ii), if USCIS cannot reach a final decision on the request for which PP was requested, as evidenced by an approval, denial, NOID, or RFE, we will refund the PP fee but continue to process the case. I don't see anything in the PP regs that provide for any type of exception. Hope this helps. Let me know if you need anything else.

Good morning Sophia. Can you please take a look at the premium reg for us? Discussion this morning was if we have premium cases that will go beyond 15 days because they are part of this hold, do we refund? Looks like some of the centers already have some cases that are getting close to this situation between the 140s and 129s. It isn't that we can't adjudicate them in the timeframe, it's that we have an EO that may not allow for this…

Thanks in advance.

Hi. I just finished reading the whole EO. Section 3c, which suspends the immigrant and nonimmigrant entry, refers to those described in INA 217(a)(2). As far as I can tell, only Iraq and Syria are mentioned in this statutory provision. Are other countries affected or just Iraq and Syria? I couldn't find reference to any other countries anywhere else, so wanted to be sure I wasn't missing anything.

Regarding EAD categories that would include those in INA 217(a)(2), we have:

- (c)(1) For the dependents of A-1 and A-2 government officials.
  - These are adjudicated at the NSC.
  - Requires favorable DOS endorsement;
  - DOS sends only the favorably endorsed applications to NSC.
- (c)(4) For the dependents of G-1, G-3, or G-4 (I think this includes NATO and at the US Mission to the UN, too).
  - These are adjudicated at the NSC.
  - Requires favorable DOS endorsement.
  - DOS sends only the favorably endorsed applications to NSC.

There are some special immigrant categories applicable to As, Gs, and NATO. The I-360 is filed with Dallas and Phoenix LB and the I-485 is filed with Phoenix LB. I am thinking that NSC adjudicates these, but it would be best to confirm.

- I Special Immigrants (INA 101(a)(27)(I) who meet certain residence and physical presence requirements. Includes:

- Unmarried sons/daughters of an officer or employee, or a former officer or employee of an international organization described in INA 101(a)(15)(G)(i).
- Surviving spouses of deceased officers or employees of international organizations described in INA 101(a)(15)(G)(i).
- Retired officers and employees of international organizations.
- Following to join/accompanying spouse of a retired officer or employee who was granted special immigrant status as a retired officer or employee of an international organization.

- L Special Immigrants (INA 101(a)(27)(L) who meet certain residence and physical presence requirements. Looks like this covers NATO and the same categories of persons described in 101(a)(27)(I).

This is all I can think of for now. If I come up with anything else, I will send it forward.

Date:	Monday, January 30, 2017 11:29:17 AM

At the recently concluded leadership meeting we learned that the processing hold we put in place over the weekend will be lifted. All messaging must now be cleared through the Department, so we cannot communicate this in writing to the troops. However, I wanted you to know that so we don't waste time formulating questions about the hold or working on strategies to ensure compliance. I expect that the final guidance may be more nuanced on the processing of parole requests, but otherwise we are expecting to lift the hold on adjustments and other form types. Please do not share this further in light of the messaging restrictions. We hope to have formal cleared language later today or tomorrow.

Hi everyone,

Please see attached the cleared hot topic for the call centers on the executive action. Please note that this is for internal dissemination only for the use of verbally answering public inquiries. This is what the call centers will be using, but we will of course defer to SCOPS in terms of how to respond to inquiries from service center stakeholders.

In addition, the final fact sheet has been posted on the DHS website: https://www.dhs.gov/news/2017/01/29/protecting-nation-foreign-terrorist-entry-united-states.

Executive Order: Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry

Release Date to Call Centers: 01/30/2017

Discard Date: 03/01/2017

For Internal Use Only

The executive order signed on January 27, 2017, allows for the proper review and establishment of standards to prevent terrorist or criminal infiltration by foreign nationals. In order to ensure that the United States government can conduct a thorough and comprehensive analysis of the national security risks posed from our immigration system, it imposes a 90-day suspension on entry to the United States of nationals of certain designated countries.

For the next 90 days, nearly all travelers, except U.S. citizens, traveling from Iraq, Syria, Sudan, Iran, Somalia, Libya, and Yemen will be temporarily suspended from entry to the United States. The 90 day period will allow for proper review and establishment of standards to prevent terrorist or criminal infiltration by foreign nationals.

Lawful permanent residents of the United States traveling on a valid I-551(green card) will be allowed to board U.S. bound aircraft and will be assessed for exceptions at arrival ports of entry, as appropriate. The entry of these individuals, subject to national security checks, is in the national interest. Therefore, we expect swift entry for these individuals.

DHS and the Department of State have the authority, on a case-by-case basis, to issue visas or allow the entry of nationals of these countries into the United States when it serves the national interest.

The Refugee Admissions Program will be temporarily suspended for the next 120 days while DHS and interagency partners review screening procedures to ensure refugees admitted in the future do not pose a security risk to citizens of the United States.

The executive order does not prohibit entry of, or visa issuance to, travelers with diplomatic visas, North Atlantic Treaty Organization visas, C-2 visas for travel to the United Nations, and G-1, G-2, G-3, and G-4 visas.

Questions and Answers: Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States

Q1: How is the president legally allowed to issue this kind of executive order?
A: Congress provided the President with the authority under section 212(f) of the Immigration and Nationality Act to suspend the entry of any class of aliens he deems detrimental to the interests of the United States. This authority has been exercised by Presidents for decades, and has been a component of our immigration laws since the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952.

Q2: Does this Executive Order apply to green card holders from one of the seven countries listed?
A: Green card holders are eligible for national interest waivers consistent with the provisions of the Executive Order. The Secretary has determined that, absent significant derogatory information about an individual, it is in the national interest to allow entry for green card holders. The Executive Order does not affect lawful permanent residents who are currently in the country.

Q3: So far, how many Lawful Permanent Residents have not been allowed to enter pursuant to the Exception to the Executive Order?
A: Two. One, who was entered into proceedings based on a criminal record. Another individual chose to return to Canada and withdrew his request for entry.

Q4: So far, how many aliens with special immigrant visas have been denied entry?
A: None

Q5: Does this Executive Order apply to dual nationals of the seven countries who want to enter the U.S.? If they apply for entry based on their citizenship from one of the countries NOT on the list, will they be allowed entry?
A: Yes, but travelers are being treated according to the travel document they present. For example, if they present a Canadian passport, that is how they are processed for entry.

Q6: What happened to the two men being held at JFK who were released?
A: While DHS does not generally comment on individual cases, CBP is granting waivers, as outlined in the Executive Order, to individuals whose admission into the country is in the national interest, and who does not pose a national security threat.

Q7: What do the two exemptions in the Executive Order mean? How are they applied to individual cases?
A: DHS and State can review individual cases and grant waivers on a case-by-case basis if that individual's admission to the United States is deemed to be in the national interest and if they do not pose a national security threat.

Q8: How will the EO affect college students from the barred countries, such as F1/J1/M1 visa holders? Are they included in the ban? What kind of guidance is being given to foreign students from these countries legally in the US?
A: F1/J1/M1 visas are currently temporarily suspended due to the executive order. Individuals who were in the U.S. at the time of the signing of the executive order are not affected by the order. However, individuals who were out of the country at the time of the signing, or who travel out of the country and attempt to return will not be allowed to return for this temporary period. The Department is evaluating whether those who are precluded from returning as a result of the Executive Order will be considered to have maintained their status as F1 or M1 students.

Q9: Is it correct that DHS workers were instructed to implement at 4:30 pm on Friday, Jan 27?
A: The Executive Order and the instructions therein were effective at the time of the order's signing. Guidance was provided to DHS field personnel shortly thereafter.

Q12: Can USCIS continue refugee interviews of religious minorities and for countries with which we have an agreement?
A: DHS and DOS continue to review the Executive Order and will conduct interviews as appropriate and consistent with the Executive Order.

Q13: Will the U.S. accept emergency requests to process a refugee who will then travel?
A: DHS and DOS will coordinate the processing of individual refugee cases which may be appropriate for travel consistent with the Executive Order.

Q14: Can the exception for refugee admission be used in I-730 cases (family members following to join) for the petition of refugee/asylee relatives?
A: These cases will be evaluated on a case-by-case basis.

Q15: Does "from one of the seven countries" mean citizen, national or born in?
A: Travelers are being treated according to the travel document they present.

Q16: Does the Executive Order apply to those currently being adjudicated for naturalization?
A: No. USCIS will continue to adjudicate N-400 applications for naturalization and administer the oath of citizenship consistent with prior practices.

Q17: How does the lawsuit/stay affect DHS operations in implementing this executive order?
A: Upon issuance of the court orders yesterday, U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) immediately began taking steps to comply with the orders. Concurrently, the Department of Homeland Security continues to work with our partners in the Departments of Justice and State to implement President Trump's executive order on protecting the nation from foreign terrorist entry into the United States.

We are committed to ensuring that all individuals affected by the executive orders, including those affected by the court orders, are being provided all rights afforded under the law. We are also working closely with airline partners to prevent travelers who would not be granted entry under the executive orders from boarding international flights to the U.S. Therefore, we do not anticipate that further individuals traveling by air to the United States will be affected.

As Secretary Kelly previously stated, in applying the provisions of the president's Executive Order, the entry of lawful permanent residents is in the national interest. Accordingly, absent significant derogatory information indicating a serious threat to public safety and welfare, lawful permanent resident status will be a dispositive factor in our case-by-case determinations.

Q18: Does DHS have a comment on the protests happening at airports around the country?
A: The Department of Homeland Security fully respects the rights of all people to voice their opinion within the confines of the law.

Q19: What about refugees who are considered to be "in transit?"
A: There are currently 872 refugees who are considered to be in transit who are scheduled to arrive in the United States this week. The Secretaries of State and DHS have coordinated and will process the 872 individuals consistent with the terms of the Executive Order, which we've operationalized by assessing each traveler on a case-by-case basis.

Memorandum

TO: All USCIS Employees

FROM: Lori L. Scialabba Lori Scialabba
Acting Director

SUBJECT: Guidance Concerning Executive Order on Immigration

On January 27, President Trump signed an Executive Order entitled "Protecting The Nation From Foreign Terrorist Entry Into The United States." This memorandum provides guidance from the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) regarding the impact of this Executive Order on various immigration benefit requests.

All USCIS employees should be aware of current guidance from DHS, specifically:

1. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order does not affect USCIS adjudication of applications and petitions filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States regardless of their country of nationality. Section 3(c) also does not affect applications and petitions by lawful permanent residents outside the United States, or applications and petitions for individuals outside the United States whose approval does not directly confer travel authorization (including any immigrant or nonimmigrant visa petition). This includes, but is not limited to, the matters discussed more specifically in paragraphs 2, 3 and 5 below.

2. Applications to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status (Form I-485) may continue to be adjudicated, according to existing policies and procedures, for applicants who are nationals of countries designated in the Executive Order.

3. USCIS will adjudicate Refugee/Asylee Relative Petitions (Form I-730) for all beneficiaries, from any country of nationality, currently in the United States according to existing policies and procedures. Further guidance will be issued with respect to beneficiaries currently outside of the United States.

4. USCIS will continue refugee interviews when the person is a religious minority in his or her country of nationality facing religious persecution. Additionally, USCIS will continue refugee interviews in jurisdictions where there is a preexisting international agreement related to refugee processing. USCIS will not approve a refugee application for an individual who we determine would pose a risk to the security or welfare of the United States.

5. USCIS will continue adjudicating all affirmative asylum cases according to existing policies and procedures.

Questions concerning the information contained in this memorandum may be addressed via your directorate or program office through appropriate supervisory channels.

I read this to mean the only thing we should continue to hold in SCOPS would be I-730s for beneficiaries outside the United States. Is that accurate?

To be clear, we are only holding up where the bene is from one of the 7 and is overseas. We are holding whether they are asylee or refugee follow to joins. As I understand it, we aren't actually approving them but are rather "provisionally" approving them subject to final approval after interview. We should get clarification if the provisional approvals are subject to the hold as well, or if they can continue. Also, I would think denials could proceed but we'll hold all pending further guidance.

I think the issue we still need clarification on is whether that hold for I-730 beneficiaries outside the US would only be for refugee follow-to-joins (all nationalities) and asylee follow-to-joins who are nationals or duals of one of the 7 countries.

They have to be in the U.S. to apply, but it's possible they may travel before approval and a family member may send it to them. I assume we don't worry about that.

Shouldn't we be providing some kind of notice to those of the 7 nationalities who may have an I-131 approved that they may not be able to get back into the U.S.? I worry about giving a signal that by approving the request, they won't have a problem returning. CBP has guidance that they would need a waiver to get back in.

There is already standard language that the decision to parole will be made at a POE. It would be problematic to try to introduce special language for only certain I-512s.

Shouldn't we be providing some kind of notice to those of the 7 nationalities who may have an I-131 approved that they may not be able to get back into the U.S.? I worry about giving a signal that by approving the request, they won't have a problem returning. CBP has guidance that they would need a waiver to get back in.

They have to be in the U.S. to apply, but it's possible they may travel before approval and a family member may send it to them. I assume we don't worry about that.

Adding the Branch Chiefs. As discussed this morning, our understanding of this guidance is that the hold I implemented last Saturday is now released for nearly everything we adjudicate in SCOPS. The notable exceptions are I-730s where the beneficiary is abroad and I-131s for Refugee Travel Documents where the applicant is abroad. These applications and petitions should continue to be held in abeyance pursuant to the EO and attached guidance pending further clarification.

Memorandum

TO: All USCIS Employees

FROM: Lori L. Scialabba Lori Scialabba
Acting Director

SUBJECT: Guidance Concerning Executive Order on Immigration

On January 27, President Trump signed an Executive Order entitled "Protecting The Nation From Foreign Terrorist Entry Into The United States." This memorandum provides guidance from the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) regarding the impact of this Executive Order on various immigration benefit requests.

All USCIS employees should be aware of current guidance from DHS, specifically:

1. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order does not affect USCIS adjudication of applications and petitions filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States regardless of their country of nationality. Section 3(c) also does not affect applications and petitions by lawful permanent residents outside the United States, or applications and petitions for individuals outside the United States whose approval does not directly confer travel authorization (including any immigrant or nonimmigrant visa petition). This includes, but is not limited to, the matters discussed more specifically in paragraphs 2, 3 and 5 below.

2. Applications to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status (Form I-485) may continue to be adjudicated, according to existing policies and procedures, for applicants who are nationals of countries designated in the Executive Order.

3. USCIS will adjudicate Refugee/Asylee Relative Petitions (Form I-730) for all beneficiaries, from any country of nationality, currently in the United States according to existing policies and procedures. Further guidance will be issued with respect to beneficiaries currently outside of the United States.

4. USCIS will continue refugee interviews when the person is a religious minority in his or her country of nationality facing religious persecution. Additionally, USCIS will continue refugee interviews in jurisdictions where there is a preexisting international agreement related to refugee processing. USCIS will not approve a refugee application for an individual who we determine would pose a risk to the security or welfare of the United States.

5. USCIS will continue adjudicating all affirmative asylum cases according to existing policies and procedures.

Questions concerning the information contained in this memorandum may be addressed via your directorate or program office through appropriate supervisory channels.

Process to Grant Exception to "Known Travelers"

Summary

U.S. Corporations are requesting that DHS create a process to grant exceptions to the suspension of entry of Foreign Nationals from specified countries as responsible Known Travelers with pressing needs sponsored by U.S. companies. USCIS will adjudicate Form I-192, Application for Advance Permission to Enter as a Nonimmigrant and upon approval issue a Form I-797 that will allow the beneficiary to board an aircraft back to the United States.

USCIS will accept the current expedite process request for Form I-192, with SCOPS. FOD may accept "emergency" Form I-192, after the fee and Form is filed with SCOPS.

Process

Beneficiary will file Form I-192 and the evidence described in "criteria" below.

Criteria

a) Must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa
b) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter from U.S. Company indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
c) Travel may only be for business
d) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order

Fees

$930 USD

Where to File

Because the filing address is ONLINE we can change this to any Service Center. Currently, the VSC is accepting Form I-192 for T's and U's; however, any of our Centers may accept it.

Expedite Criteria

USCIS reviews expedite requests on a case-by-case basis and requests are granted at the discretion of the office leadership. The burden is on the applicant or petitioner to demonstrate that one or more of the expedite criteria have been met.

USCIS may expedite a petition or application if it meets one or more of the following criteria:

- Severe financial loss to company or person;
- Emergency situation;
- Humanitarian reasons;
- Nonprofit organization whose request is in furtherance of the cultural and social interests of the United States;
- Department of Defense or national interest situation (These particular expedite requests must come from an official U.S. government entity and state that delay will be detrimental to the government.);

- USCIS error; or
- Compelling interest of USCIS.

Process to Grant Exception to "Known Travelers"

Summary

USCIS shall adjudicate Form I-192, Application for Advance Permission to Enter as a Nonimmigrant and upon approval issue a Form I-797 that will allow the beneficiary to board an aircraft back to the United States. CBP will inspect and determine admission based on the beneficiary's NIV.

USCIS (SCOPS) will accept the current expedite process request for Form I-192. Premium Processing is not available for Form I-192. Biometrics are required prior to adjudication of Form I-192. USCIS (FOD) will accept emergency process request for Form I-192, when the Form I-192 is pending with USCIS (SCOPS).

A denial of Form I-192 may result in the issuance of an NTA.

Hi all and thanks so much Karla. The I-192 version looks great.

I have been working on the 131 version, and because so much of that is similar to what we note about the I-192 processing, I decided to merge both options into one document and added some background to give some context. Take a look and let me know what you think about that approach.

Bottom line is it looks like we could implement either option in about 45 days as the system updates to notices and filing look minimal and simple web updates. Can you verify those timelines? Also, do we want to go as far as to make a recommendation on which we think is the right one to implement or simply present both?

Thanks again. Looking forward to your feedback. Have a good night and looking forward to meeting in the morning.

Waiver Options

Background: As a result of recent Executive Orders relating to limiting travel to the United States from 7 identified countries, the Department of Homeland Security is in a challenging position to assist individuals that may be stuck in this process. The concerning population consists of individuals, currently in the United States, that came to the US on a valid visa, but as a result of the recent Orders, can no longer enter and depart the country.

This is a truly unique situation for the Agency. One that we haven't encountered to date, thus, will require something new to be implemented. Essentially, DHS needs to create a process that would allow the individuals stuck in this scenario to apply to the Department prior to leaving the country. This provisional review will ensure that, upon their return to the United States, they will be allowed reentry. The goal being that this new process will provide them with a document that they could present to CBP when they arrive to allow entry.

It is estimated that approximately 18,000 people could be in this population.

While we believe that the best option to truly stay aligned to the intent of the Order is to not allow this, we understand that the Department needs to consider and possibly create an option to assure impacted individuals a safe return to the US. USCIS currently doesn't have an existing process that allows for this, thus, a new process must be created for this sole reason. As a result, USCIS is proposing two possible options for consideration.

Option 1: Grant Exception to "Known Travelers"

I-192 Process Overview:

- USCIS shall adjudicate Form I-192, Application for Advance Permission to Enter as a Nonimmigrant. Currently, these cases are accepted at the Vermont Service Center (VSC). For ease of implementation we would look to locate this workload there as well.
    - Fees:
    - Form I-192 $930 USD
    - Biometrics $80 USD
- Approval of the I-192 will generate Form I-797 that will allow the beneficiary to board an aircraft back to the United States. CBP will inspect and determine admission based on the beneficiary's NIV.
    - A denial of Form I-192 may result in the issuance of an NTA.
- USCIS (Service Center Operations) (SCOPS) will accept the current expedite process request for Form I-192.
    - Severe financial loss to company or person;
    - Emergency situation;

- Nonprofit organization whose request is in furtherance of the cultural and social interests of the United States;
- Department of Defense or national interest situation (These particular expedite requests must come from an official U.S. government entity and state that delay will be detrimental to the government.);
- USCIS error; or
- Compelling interest of USCIS.

- Biometrics are required for all I-192 cases. Adjudication will not occur until results are received and analyzed.

- Premium Processing is not available for Form I-192.

- USCIS Field Operations will accept emergency process request for Form I-192, when the Form I-192 is pending with USCIS (SCOPS).

- Routine processing time for I-192 requests will be 30 days.

Mandatory Criteria:

The applicant must file Form I-192 with the evidence described in "criteria" below.

1. Business Traveler Criteria
   a) Traveler must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa (H, L, O, P, R).
   b) U.S. employer must be enrolled in e-Verify.
   c) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by CEO, Vice President, or President level, from U.S. Company indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
   d) Travel may only be for business.
   e) Travel may not be for vacation.
   f) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order.

2. Student Traveler Criteria
a) Student must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa (F, M, J).
   b) U.S. University/School must be verified in SEVIS.
   c) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by Vice President, or President level, from U.S. University/School indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
   d) Travel may only be for business.
   e) Travel may not be for vacation.
   f) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order.

Option #1 - Required for Implementation:

1. Communications on new process to the public
2. Preparation at VSC for intake and customer interaction.
   a. Training on new process

3. System Updates:
    - Form I-192 – Currently, very little data is collected on the I-192 in USCIS systems. A modification to CLAIMS 3 will be required to add additional data fields. This piece is essential so that we can differentiate these cases from others and be able to run reports on this specific workload. It is estimated that this modification can be made in an estimated two weeks.

    - Form I-797 resides in the local C3 print service. Changes can be made to the notice (body) within two weeks; however, header changes may require more time. Total estimated time for changes is 30 days.

If required, USCIS could implement this portion of option #1 in 45 days. It's important to note at this stage in the proposed process that true success will be dependent on CBP also playing a role in the process as these individuals enter the United States. The CBP process overview is noted below.

CBP Process

Option #2 – Advanced Parole

I-131 Process Overview: Much of the process flow as identified in Option # 1 will also apply here in the I-131 process.

- USCIS shall adjudicate Form I-131, Application for Travel Document.
- All Service Centers and many Field Office locations currently adjudicate I-131s, Advanced Parole. For this workload, SCOPS would look to the Nebraska Service Center (NSC) to process these requests.
- The I-131 is a form that we use in support of many different benefits. As a result, this option may be a bit more challenging to segregate the population for reporting purposes. We do believe that we can find a way to do that through data analysis, just wanted to note it in the proposal as a challenge that needs to be overcome.
    - If it is identified that there is a particular need to have these cases follow a different process then the standard we could create an exception here. The Service Center could process the I-131, and USCIS could ask the individual to come into the Field Office to gather their travel document. Otherwise, the standard process is they will receive their travel document via the mail.

- With that said, advanced parole, under its definition and in looking at the Agency's past use of it, is the solution that makes the most sense and is completely aligned to the intent of parole and USCIS processing.

    - Fees:
    - Form I-131 $575 USD

- Biometrics $80 USD

- Approval of the I-131 will generate Form I-797 as well as a I-512, which is a travel document. This document will allow the beneficiary to board an aircraft back to the United States. CBP will inspect and determine admission based on the beneficiary's NIV.

  - A denial of Form I-131 may result in the issuance of an NTA.

- USCIS (Service Center Operations) (SCOPS) will accept the current expedite process request for Form I-131.
  - Severe financial loss to company or person;
  - Emergency situation;
  - Nonprofit organization whose request is in furtherance of the cultural and social interests of the United States;
  - Department of Defense or national interest situation (These particular expedite requests must come from an official U.S. government entity and state that delay will be detrimental to the government.);
  - USCIS error; or
  - Compelling interest of USCIS.

- Biometrics are required for all I-131 cases. Adjudication will not occur until results are received and analyzed.

- Premium Processing is not available for Form I-131.

- USCIS Field Operations will accept emergency process requests for Form I-512, Request for Travel Document, when the Form I-131 is pending with USCIS (SCOPS).

- Routine processing time for I-131 requests will be 30 days.

Mandatory Criteria:

The applicant must file Form I-131 with the evidence described in "criteria" below.

3. Business Traveler Criteria
   g) Traveler must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa (H, L, O, P, R).
   h) U.S. employer must be enrolled in e-Verify.
   i) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by CEO, Vice President, or President level, from U.S. Company indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
   j) Travel may only be for business.
   k) Travel may not be for vacation.
   l) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order.

4. Student Traveler Criteria

g) Student must have a valid Non Immigrant Visa (F, M, J).
h) U.S. University/School must be verified in SEVIS.
i) Must have an original letterhead/signed letter by Vice President, or President level, from U.S. University/School indicating purpose of travel (business) and length of trip.
j) Travel may only be for business.
k) Travel may not be for vacation.
l) Travel may not be to one of the seven countries indicated on Executive Order.

Option #2 - Required for Implementation:

4. Communications on new process to the public
5. Preparation at NSC for intake and customer interaction.
    a. Training on new process
6. System Updates:
    - Form I-512 – USCIS would like to modify the language to the I-512 for this new process so that it is clear that these cases are the exception to the Order. Updates will take approximately 1 month.

    - Form I-797 (approval notice) for the I-131 resides in the local C3 print service. Changes can be made to the notice (body) within two weeks; however, header changes may require more time. Total estimated time for changes is 30 days.

If required, USCIS could implement this portion of option #2 in 45 days. It's important to note at this stage in the proposed process that true success will be dependent on CBP also playing a role in the process as these individuals enter the United States. The same process that CBP outlined in Option #1 would apply here in Option #2 as well.

Good morning, All,

The opening paragraph seems to imply this form/process may be used for those visa holders currently "stuck" outside the U.S., is that correct? Otherwise the process proposed is manageable for USCIS to implement – in the long term. If this is simply a short term fix, required for a small number of affected individuals during this 80 day period, then a 45 day startup and 30 day processing time doesn't seem to meet their immediate needs.

Hi all and thanks so much Karla. The I-192 version looks great.

I have been working on the 131 version, and because so much of that is similar to what we note about the I-192 processing, I decided to merge both options into one document and added some background to give some context. Take a look and let me know what you think about that approach.

Bottom line is it looks like we could implement either option in about 45 days as the system updates to notices and filing look minimal and simple web updates. Can you verify those timelines? Also, do we want to go as far as to make a recommendation on which we think is the right one to implement or simply present both?

Thanks again. Looking forward to your feedback. Have a good night and looking forward to meeting in the morning.

Good morning Pam. Thanks so much for the feedback. It's for folks inside the US. We can certainly make that more clear.

Regarding the timeframe, as I understand it from Leslie, the major piece for start up is around the system updates. Leslie- please confirm. I don't know that those can be cut down.

All- If the system update timeframe ends up being too long, does the team have any ideas on what we can do without those in place for this? Also, if not 30 days for a processing time, what would you recommend?

Thanks again.

It sounds like a meeting may be scheduled for tomorrow morning with Lori to solidify this. I'll be sure to keep you posted as new information is available.

I guess I'm ambivalent on the E-verify piece. I think the checks we do on the beneficiaries are most important and unless we think an employer may be complicit in any intended misdeeds, I don't know that it makes a difference that Microsoft vouches for someone or a mom and pop operation without e-verify. Neither would necessarily know what's in the head of their employees.

I don't think this will be our call either way so as long as we don't have operational concerns we should just flag as a policy call.

There is a part in the doc where we say we think the I-131 is better. If we don't, we should fix that and also explain why we think the I-192 is preferable.

Again, thanks to everyone.

We (SCOPS) voted for the I-192. It's cleaner for us to implement and CBP will not have issues if they need to ER the person. The I-192 will provide them with an I-797 that is a Transportation Letter (draft language attached). They would need to provide a valid passport and visa to enter and be inspected. On the other hand, if we issue a parole – CBP is worried that if issues arise, they may try to say they have a parole.

Also, while e-verify isn't related to admission, we added it because the Fortune 500 companies are asking to vouch for their employees (e.g. Microsoft, Amazon, Google, etc.). This would ensure that we are only accepting letters from legitimate businesses that have been vetted. We thought it would be good to leave in but completely understand if it's taken out somewhere along the process, as many are reviewing.

Overall the paper looks very good. Thanks to everyone for pulling it together so quickly.

The everify requirement would purely be a policy call. I don't see the nexus between e-verify use and a national interest determination related to admission so I would advocate for removing it.

I agree that adding work to VSC is problematic so if we could do I-192s elsewhere that would be better. We also need to validate the 18000 volume estimate as I don't know who provided it or how it was calculated.

If we believe the I-131 is better we should explain why.

Hi. Here are my concerns in the attached. Look forward to discussing.

- Why are we requiring E-Verify? Are we being told it is a requirement from the FO/Dept. or are we imposing it on ourselves? [redacted]

(b)(5) [redacted]

- If the I-192 is denied, what would be the legal basis for the removal charge be?
- I know VSC already does the I-192s for the victims relate work, but this will coincide with cap where the contractors will already be knee deep in data entry. Recommend moving this elsewhere.

Good morning Pam. Thanks so much for the feedback. It's for folks inside the US. We can certainly make that more clear.

Regarding the timeframe, as I understand it from Leslie, the major piece for start up is around the system updates. Leslie- please confirm. I don't know that those can be cut down.

All- If the system update timeframe ends up being too long, does the team have any ideas on what we can do without those in place for this? Also, if not 30 days for a processing time, what would you recommend?

Thanks again.

Good morning, All,

The opening paragraph seems to imply this form/process may be used for those visa holders currently "stuck" outside the U.S., is that correct? Otherwise the process proposed is manageable for USCIS to implement – in the long term. If this is simply a short term fix, required for a small number of affected individuals during this 80 day period, then a 45 day startup and 30 day processing time doesn't seem to meet their immediate needs.

Pam

Hi all and thanks so much Karla. The I-192 version looks great.

I have been working on the 131 version, and because so much of that is similar to what we note about the I-192 processing, I decided to merge both options into one document and added some background to give some context. Take a look and let me know what you think about that approach.

Bottom line is it looks like we could implement either option in about 45 days as the system updates to notices and filing look minimal and simple web updates. Can you verify those timelines? Also, do we want to go as far as to make a recommendation on which we think is the right one to implement or simply present both?

Thanks again. Looking forward to your feedback. Have a good night and looking forward to meeting in the morning.

Hi. I just finished reading the whole EO. Section 3c, which suspends the immigrant and nonimmigrant entry, refers to those described in INA 217(a)(2). As far as I can tell, only Iraq and Syria are mentioned in this statutory provision. Are other countries affected or just Iraq and Syria? I couldn't find reference to any other countries anywhere else, so wanted to be sure I wasn't missing anything.

Regarding EAD categories that would include those in INA 217(a)(2), we have:

- (c)(1) For the dependents of A-1 and A-2 government officials.
  - These are adjudicated at the NSC.
  - Requires favorable DOS endorsement;
  - DOS sends only the favorably endorsed applications to NSC.
- (c)(4) For the dependents of G-1, G-3, or G-4 (I think this includes NATO and at the US Mission to the UN, too).
  - These are adjudicated at the NSC.
  - Requires favorable DOS endorsement.
  - DOS sends only the favorably endorsed applications to NSC.

There are some special immigrant categories applicable to As, Gs, and NATO. The I-360 is filed with Dallas and Phoenix LB and the I-485 is filed with Phoenix LB. I am thinking that NSC adjudicates these, but it would be best to confirm.

- I Special Immigrants (INA 101(a)(27)(I) who meet certain residence and physical presence requirements. Includes:
  - Unmarried sons/daughters of an officer or employee, or a former officer or employee of an international organization described in INA 101(a)(15)(G)(i).
  - Surviving spouses of deceased officers or employees of international organizations described in INA

101(a)(15)(G)(i).
    - Retired officers and employees of international organizations.
    - Following to join/accompanying spouse of a retired officer or employee who was granted special immigrant status as a retired officer or employee of an international organization.
- L Special Immigrants (INA 101(a)(27)(L) who meet certain residence and physical presence requirements. Looks like this covers NATO and the same categories of persons described in 101(a)(27)(I).

This is all I can think of for now. If I come up with anything else, I will send it forward.

Subject: Friday's EO

Sorry to bother you over the weekend. The President signed an executive order on Friday titled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States". Among other things, it prevents the entry of citizens or nationals from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for a 90 day period. I am working with Dan, Andrew, Tracy and Lori on a message to send out this weekend that would suspend certain adjudications while we seek guidance/clarity on how this will specifically apply to our workloads.

Most likely, on Monday we will want to identify any potentially impacted cases in C3 and ELIS. I assume it will be possible to run reports identifying cases with applicants, requestors or beneficiaries from these countries sorted by form type. Does anyone know if we could somehow flag them for hold? Ideally we'd be able to prevent accidental approval, but even if we can't stop approval it would be good to flag them for adjudicators. Also, this isn't an indefinite hold so whatever we do it needs to allow normal processing to proceed fairly easily at some point in the future.

At this point, I'm just looking for thoughts and ideas on how to identify what will be a changing universe of cases and flag them for possible special handling. I'd prefer to keep this among ourselves for now so please check with me before sharing with anyone. Any thoughts or concerns are appreciated.

Thanks,

Don

Subject: RE: Executive Order

All – I asked the regs team to give us an idea of the tie frames for doing and re-doing forms as well as regs:

For forms , if, for instance, we have to add new vetting questions, OMB approval can be accomplished relatively quickly as an emergency action (compared to the normal process).
Steps and qualifications for emergency OMB approval:
1) OP&S division, operational directorates, OCC, and RCD collaborate on the amended form and/or instructions.
2) RCD prepares the relevant PRA supporting documents (Supporting Statement, etc.) working with OIDP and Office of Privacy
3) Draft a memo justifying the emergent need (e.g., the EO), signed by USCIS CIO and DHS CIO.
4) RCD submits the package to OMB. OMB approval under emergency will only be valid for 6 months. To extend the validity of the OMB approval beyond 6 months, RCD would need to publish the 60- and 30-day Notices as normal and then resubmit the package to OMB.
As a side note, the interior enforcement EO took away the Privacy Act protections that the USG had extended to non-citizens (by policy I believe). This change may significantly impact how the Privacy Act is interpreted w/r/t USCIS forms and systems, and may or may not cause changes to our Privacy Threshold Analyses which support the PRA process. We need to get a legal opinion on whether our PTAs, etc. will change because of this, and if we can update the relevant PRA supporting documents as they come up in the queue (i.e. as RCD starts work upon expiration) or if this needs to be implemented immediately (which would be a significant workload).

For regs, the time it took to get the EA rules out from the Nov. 20, 2014 memo are good barometers of the average timeline when there is WH support and it's moving as an emergency action:
- Average of 12-16 months for drafting and publishing an NPRM (but note that there was already some work done on EA before the 11/2014 announcement)
- Average of 6-8 months to review public comments, draft final rule, and publish the final rule.

Caveats: 1) The above assumes a relatively hands-off approach of OGC staff-level attorneys and economists prior to moving to OGC FO, S1 FO, and OMB. Also assumes that the timelines for S1 FO review will be similarly expedited (i.e. a matter of hours wherein the Assistant General Counsel briefs S1 and obtains signature). 2) The "effective date" will largely depend on the speed that our computer systems can be stood up. 3) Also, of course, depends on the number and complexity of public comments received and the continued availability of monetary resources to fund contractor support of our regulatory projects (comment analysis).

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

State has also issued guidance. Will forward.

I can do that but I think it's the same as what I've mentioned. It would be good to have time to consult with others. Can I get it to you on Monday?

And, in the meantime can I get something to the centers this weekend? I can share a draft email tomorrow.

I can get word out over the weekend to the centers to suspend processing. I just need the list of 7 countries to include in my message. The Directors are already on notice of the possibility. I would exclude from the suspension any petitions for beneficiaries abroad and TPS/DACA.

Thanks for sending this, Lori.

As we've discussed, the most urgent question is whether adjustments and extensions or changes of nonimmigrant status are impacted. Separately, is there any impact on petitions for beneficiaries abroad since we would not be determining admissibility? I would think not, but it would be good to have clarity.

If we can define "suspend processing" as "suspend prior to approval", then one option would be to continue with the interviews, since it is likely we have some that are scheduled as soon as Monday for affected applicants and then hold the cases post interview. We are trying to scrape our schedulers (C4 and NASS) to see when and where we have interviews scheduled for individuals from affected countries. We should have that sometime Monday.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person. [redacted] (b)(5) We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

Subject: Questions
Date: Monday, January 30, 2017 12:14:47 PM

Hi Sophia,

ADJ DIVISION questions – edit at will:

Mainly concerning definitions:

Sec 4 states as part of the uniform screening standard "Amended application forms that include questions aimed at identifying fraudulent answers and malicious intent" Does this mean all form types will need to be revised or standardized? (Note – many of the forms have already be revised to include the inadmissibility questions)

Sec 4 states as part of the uniform screening standard "a process to evaluate the applicant's likelihood of becoming a positively contributing member of society and the applicant's ability to make contributions to the national interest" Is this a discretionary call or will there be defined areas with a point system?

Sec 8 (b)(iv) states information is to be collected on "any other information relevant to public safety and security as determined by the Secretary of Homeland security and the Attorney General, including information on the immigration status of foreign nationals charged with major offenses" What is the definition of "major offenses" as it relates to this section?

Operational Questions:

For COS/EOS requests, how do we go about adjudicating those? Of particular concern are the cases already included in our existing backlog. Is there a distinction between cases filed in the past versus now or in the future?

For Cap cases, do we reject cases with beneficiaries from the listed countries or do accept the cases and hold them?

- Are FTJ-A cases affected (i730) in the same way FTJ-R cases are affected by the pause in refugee processing? FTJ-A cases would be admitted as asylees.

- For those outside the US currently in T or U nonimmigrant status from the seven countries, will they be allowed re-entry?

- Don said in the email chain below "One more thing, the suspension does not apply to those foreign nationals traveling on A-1, A-2, G-1, G-2, G-3, G-4, NATO, C-2 or diplomatic type visas, or to issuance of visas in those categories. Do we adjudicate anything related to those visa categories at the centers?"

Based on the exception mentioned above, are the Centers allowed to adjudicate an I-485 from applicants from these countries who used one of these diplomatic visas in their last entry or are they on hold with the rest?

Just as an FYI.
Below are the numbers of FB/EB visas that were allocated to applicants from these countries for FY-2017.

Iran	703 visa
Iraq	21 visas
Libya	47 visas
Somalia	7 visas
Sudan	9 visas
Syria	102 visas
Yemen	17 visas

Yes. In my eagerness to respond quickly, I neglected to mention 8 CFR 103.7(e)(2)(ii). USCIS may retain the PP fee and not reach a conclusion on the request within 15 days, and not notify the person who filed the request, if USCIS opens an investigation for fraud or misrepresentation relating the to benefit request. So we do get to keep the fee if we go beyond 15 days if we are investigating for fraud or misrep.

Sure thing. I am pretty sure we have to refund if we do not take action in 15 days. The PP regs are at 8 CFR 103.7(e). It's 15 calendar days. Per 103.7(e)(2)(i) the 15 day processing period begins when USCIS receives the request for PP accompanied by an eligible employment-based immigration benefit request. Also per 103.7(e)(2)(i), if USCIS cannot reach a final decision on the request for which PP was requested, as evidenced by an approval, denial, NOID, or RFE, we will refund the PP fee but continue to process the case. I don't see anything in the PP regs that provide for any type of exception. Hope this helps. Let me know if you need anything else.

Good morning Sophia. Can you please take a look at the premium reg for us? Discussion this morning was if we have premium cases that will go beyond 15 days because they are part of this hold, do we refund? Looks like some of the centers already have some cases that are getting close to this situation between the 140s and 129s. It isn't that we can't adjudicate them in the timeframe, it's that we have an EO that may not allow for this…

Thanks in advance.

Hi. I just finished reading the whole EO. Section 3c, which suspends the immigrant and nonimmigrant entry, refers to those described in INA 217(a)(2). As far as I can tell, only Iraq and Syria are mentioned in this statutory provision. Are other countries affected or just Iraq and Syria? I couldn't find reference to any other countries anywhere else, so wanted to be sure I wasn't missing anything.

Regarding EAD categories that would include those in INA 217(a)(2), we have:

- (c)(1) For the dependents of A-1 and A-2 government officials.
  - These are adjudicated at the NSC.
  - Requires favorable DOS endorsement;
  - DOS sends only the favorably endorsed applications to NSC.
- (c)(4) For the dependents of G-1, G-3, or G-4 (I think this includes NATO and at the US Mission to the UN, too).

- These are adjudicated at the NSC.
- Requires favorable DOS endorsement.
- DOS sends only the favorably endorsed applications to NSC.

There are some special immigrant categories applicable to As, Gs, and NATO. The I-360 is filed with Dallas and Phoenix LB and the I-485 is filed with Phoenix LB. I am thinking that NSC adjudicates these, but it would be best to confirm.

- I Special Immigrants (INA 101(a)(27)(I) who meet certain residence and physical presence requirements. Includes:
  - Unmarried sons/daughters of an officer or employee, or a former officer or employee of an international organization described in INA 101(a)(15)(G)(i).
  - Surviving spouses of deceased officers or employees of international organizations described in INA 101(a)(15)(G)(i).
  - Retired officers and employees of international organizations.
  - Following to join/accompanying spouse of a retired officer or employee who was granted special immigrant status as a retired officer or employee of an international organization.
- L Special Immigrants (INA 101(a)(27)(L) who meet certain residence and physical presence requirements. Looks like this covers NATO and the same categories of persons described in 101(a)(27)(I).

This is all I can think of for now. If I come up with anything else, I will send it forward.

Subject: Friday's EO

Sorry to bother you over the weekend. The President signed an executive order on Friday titled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States". Among other things, it prevents the entry of citizens or nationals from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for a 90 day period. I am working with Dan, Andrew, Tracy and Lori on a message to send out this weekend that would suspend certain adjudications while we seek guidance/clarity on how this will specifically apply to our workloads.

Most likely, on Monday we will want to identify any potentially impacted cases in C3 and ELIS. I assume it will be possible to run reports identifying cases with applicants, requestors or beneficiaries from these countries sorted by form type. Does anyone know if we could somehow flag them for hold? Ideally we'd be able to prevent accidental approval, but even if we can't stop approval it would be good to flag them for adjudicators. Also, this isn't an indefinite hold so whatever we do it needs to allow normal processing to proceed fairly easily at some point in the future.

At this point, I'm just looking for thoughts and ideas on how to identify what will be a changing universe of cases and flag them for possible special handling. I'd prefer to keep this among ourselves for now so please check with me before sharing with anyone. Any thoughts or concerns are appreciated.

Thanks,

Don

I read this to mean the only thing we should continue to hold in SCOPS would be I-730s for beneficiaries outside the United States. Is that accurate?

And please note that under our current guidance staff can continue to process the I-730s for asylee following to join who are not in the 7 counties. We will of course be reviewing that process just as we review the process for all other benefits as directed under the order, while we continue to process.

To be clear, we are only holding up where the bene is from one of the 7 and is overseas. We are holding whether they are asylee or refugee follow to joins. As I understand it, we aren't actually approving them but are rather "provisionally" approving them subject to final approval after interview. We should get clarification if the provisional approvals are subject to the hold as well, or if they can continue. Also, I would think denials could proceed but we'll hold all pending further guidance.

Adding the Branch Chiefs. As discussed this morning, our understanding of this guidance is that the hold I implemented last Saturday is now released for nearly everything we adjudicate in SCOPS. The notable exceptions are I-730s where the beneficiary is abroad and I-131s for Refugee Travel Documents where the applicant is abroad. These applications and petitions should continue to be held in abeyance pursuant to the EO and attached guidance pending further clarification.

Memorandum

TO: All USCIS Employees

FROM: Lori L. Scialabba Lori Scialabba
Acting Director

SUBJECT: Guidance Concerning Executive Order on Immigration

On January 27, President Trump signed an Executive Order entitled "Protecting The Nation From Foreign Terrorist Entry Into The United States." This memorandum provides guidance from the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) regarding the impact of this Executive Order on various immigration benefit requests.

All USCIS employees should be aware of current guidance from DHS, specifically:

1. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order does not affect USCIS adjudication of applications and petitions filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States regardless of their country of nationality. Section 3(c) also does not affect applications and petitions by lawful permanent residents outside the United States, or applications and petitions for individuals outside the United States whose approval does not directly confer travel authorization (including any immigrant or nonimmigrant visa petition). This includes, but is not limited to, the matters discussed more specifically in paragraphs 2, 3 and 5 below.

2. Applications to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status (Form I-485) may continue to be adjudicated, according to existing policies and procedures, for applicants who are nationals of countries designated in the Executive Order.

3. USCIS will adjudicate Refugee/Asylee Relative Petitions (Form I-730) for all beneficiaries, from any country of nationality, currently in the United States according to existing policies and procedures. Further guidance will be issued with respect to beneficiaries currently outside of the United States.

4. USCIS will continue refugee interviews when the person is a religious minority in his or her country of nationality facing religious persecution. Additionally, USCIS will continue refugee interviews in jurisdictions where there is a preexisting international agreement related to refugee processing. USCIS will not approve a refugee application for an individual who we determine would pose a risk to the security or welfare of the United States.

5. USCIS will continue adjudicating all affirmative asylum cases according to existing policies and procedures.

Questions concerning the information contained in this memorandum may be addressed via your directorate or program office through appropriate supervisory channels.

Importance:	High

Greetings:

FOD was designated to co-lead with FDNS the interview portion of Section 4 (a) Implementing Uniform Screening Standards for All Immigration Programs. The relevant interview portions of Section 4(a) are as follows:

1. The development of a uniform screening standard and procedure, such as in-person interviews;
2. A mechanism to ensure that the applicant is who the applicant claims to be;
3. A process to evaluate the applicant's likelihood of becoming a positively contributing member of society and the applicant's ability to make contributions to the national interest;
4. Amended application forms that include questions aimed at identifying fraudulent answers and malicious intent; and
5. A mechanism to assess whether or not the applicant has the intent to commit criminal or terrorist acts after entering the United States.

For action: Provide recommendations on how the interview process has been and/or can be enhanced (best practices, new policies, new tools/systems, resources, and/or additional questions) to ensure we are using our interviews in the best way to inform our eligibility, credibility and national security/public safety determinations.

I will serve as the FOD coordinator and will work with HQ FDNS (Kemi Akinjiola) to organize the responses. Please identify a SME within your respective branch or office to provide feedback on this task. The final deliverable will be a proposal paper consisting of preliminary recommendations. A brief teleconference will be held early next week to go over the task, expectations, and answer questions.

Please submit responses to both Kemi and me by noon on Tuesday, Feb 14th 2017.

Thank you!

Looks good. some comments/questions from me on the attached. Whatever criteria we come up with, I would suggest we simply list them as the criteria and not bifurcate them into expedite criteria and emergency criteria. This will make it easier for officers and for the public. Also, this would avoid confusion with the expedite criteria, which we use to determine whether to put a case in the front of the line and expedite the adjudication.

USCIS shall adjudicate Form I-192, Application for Advance Permission to Enter as a Nonimmigrant and upon approval issue a Form I-797 that will allow the beneficiary to board an aircraft back to the United States. A denial of Form I-192 may result in the issuance of an NTA.

USCIS Process

Applicant will be scheduled for a Biometrics Appointment. The Form I-192 will not be adjudicated if the applicant has not completed a Biometrics Appointment.
Applicant must file Form I-192 with the evidence described in "criteria" below.

Criteria

Application
Form I-192 - A change to collect this data can be made within approximately two weeks.

Form I-797 resides in the local C3 print service. Changes can be made to the notice (body) within two weeks; however, header changes may require more time.

Hi. Here are my concerns in the attached. Look forward to discussing.

- Why are we requiring E-Verify? Are we being told it is a requirement from the FO/Dept. or are we imposing it on ourselves? [redacted] (b)(5)
- If the I-192 is denied, what would be the legal basis for the removal charge be?
- I know VSC already does the I-192s for the victims relate work, but this will coincide with cap where the contractors will already be knee deep in data entry. Recommend moving this elsewhere.

Good morning Pam. Thanks so much for the feedback. It's for folks inside the US. We can certainly make that more clear.

Regarding the timeframe, as I understand it from Leslie, the major piece for start up is around the system updates. Leslie- please confirm. I don't know that those can be cut down.

All- If the system update timeframe ends up being too long, does the team have any ideas on what we can do without those in place for this? Also, if not 30 days for a processing time, what would you recommend?

Thanks again.

Good morning, All,

The opening paragraph seems to imply this form/process may be used for those visa holders currently "stuck" outside the U.S., is that correct? Otherwise the process proposed is manageable for USCIS to implement – in the long term. If this is simply a short term fix, required for a small number of affected individuals during this 80 day period, then a 45 day startup and 30 day processing time doesn't seem to meet their immediate needs.

Hi all and thanks so much Karla. The I-192 version looks great.

I have been working on the 131 version, and because so much of that is similar to what we note about the I-192 processing, I decided to merge both options into one document and added some background to give some context. Take a look and let me know what you think about that approach.

Bottom line is it looks like we could implement either option in about 45 days as the system updates to notices and filing look minimal and simple web updates. Can you verify those timelines? Also, do we want to go as far as to make a recommendation on which we think is the right one to implement or simply present both?

Thanks again. Looking forward to your feedback. Have a good night and looking forward to meeting in the morning.

Waiver Options

Background: As a result of recent Executive Orders relating to limiting travel to the United States from 7 identified countries, the Department of Homeland Security is in a challenging position to assist individuals that may be stuck in this process. The concerning population consists of individuals, currently in the United States, that came to the US on a valid visa, but as a result of the recent Orders, can no longer enter and depart the country.

This is a truly unique situation for the Agency. One that we haven't encountered to date, thus, will require something new to be implemented. Essentially, DHS needs to create a process that would allow the individuals stuck in this scenario to apply to the Department prior to leaving the country. This provisional review will ensure that, upon their return to the United States, they will be allowed reentry. The goal being that this new process will provide them with a document that they could present to CBP when they arrive to allow entry.

It is estimated that approximately 18,000 people could be in this population.

While we believe that the best option to truly stay aligned to the intent of the Order is to not allow this, we understand that the Department needs to consider and possibly create an option to assure impacted individuals a safe return to the US. USCIS currently doesn't have an existing process that allows for this, thus, a new process must be created for this sole reason. As a result, USCIS is proposing two possible options for consideration.

Donna,

Here is the draft language for the I-797 we will issue if the I-192 is approved.

I'm sure it will look quite different after OCC and OP&S.

I agree that adding work to VSC is problematic so if we could do I-192s elsewhere that would be better. We also need to validate the 18000 volume estimate as I don't know who provided it or how it was calculated.

If we believe the I-131 is better we should explain why.

Hi. Here are my concerns in the attached. Look forward to discussing.

- Why are we requiring E-Verify? Are we being told it is a requirement from the FO/Dept. or are we imposing it on ourselves? [redacted]

- If the I-192 is denied, what would be the legal basis for the removal charge be?
- I know VSC already does the I-192s for the victims relate work, but this will coincide with cap where the contractors will already be knee deep in data entry. Recommend moving this elsewhere.

Good morning Pam. Thanks so much for the feedback. It's for folks inside the US. We can certainly make that more clear.

Regarding the timeframe, as I understand it from Leslie, the major piece for start up is around the system updates. Leslie- please confirm. I don't know that those can be cut down.

All- If the system update timeframe ends up being too long, does the team have any ideas on what we can do without those in place for this? Also, if not 30 days for a processing time, what would you recommend?

Thanks again.

Good morning, All,

The opening paragraph seems to imply this form/process may be used for those visa holders currently "stuck" outside the U.S., is that correct? Otherwise the process proposed is manageable for USCIS to implement – in the long term. If this is simply a short term fix, required for a small number of affected individuals during this 80 day period, then a 45 day startup and 30 day processing time doesn't seem to meet their immediate needs.

Hi all and thanks so much Karla. The I-192 version looks great.

I have been working on the 131 version, and because so much of that is similar to what we note about the I-192 processing, I decided to merge both options into one document and added some background to give some context. Take a look and let me know what you think about that approach.

Bottom line is it looks like we could implement either option in about 45 days as the system updates to notices and filing look minimal and simple web updates. Can you verify those timelines? Also, do we want to go as far as to make a recommendation on which we think is the right one to implement or simply present both?

Thanks again. Looking forward to your feedback. Have a good night and looking forward to meeting in the morning.

Waiver Options

Background: As a result of recent Executive Orders relating to limiting travel to the United States from 7 identified countries, the Department of Homeland Security is in a challenging position to assist individuals that may be stuck in this process. The concerning population consists of individuals, currently in the United States, that came to the US on a valid visa, but as a result of the recent Orders, can no longer enter and depart the country.

This is a truly unique situation for the Agency. One that we haven't encountered to date, thus, will require something new to be implemented. Essentially, DHS needs to create a process that would allow the individuals stuck in this scenario to apply to the Department prior to leaving the country. The goal being that this new process will provide them with a document that they could present to CBP when they arrive to allow entry.

I don't think this will be our call either way so as long as we don't have operational concerns we should just flag as a policy call.

There is a part in the doc where we say we think the I-131 is better. If we don't, we should fix that and also explain why we think the I-192 is preferable.

Again, thanks to everyone.

We (SCOPS) voted for the I-192. It's cleaner for us to implement and CBP will not have issues if they need to ER the person. The I-192 will provide them with an I-797 that is a Transportation Letter (draft language attached). They would need to provide a valid passport and visa to enter and be inspected. On the other hand, if we issue a parole – CBP is worried that if issues arise, they may try to say they have a parole.

Also, while e-verify isn't related to admission, we added it because the Fortune 500 companies are asking to vouch for their employees (e.g. Microsoft, Amazon, Google, etc.). This would ensure that we are only accepting letters from legitimate businesses that have been vetted. We thought it would be good to leave in but completely understand if it's taken out somewhere along the process, as many are reviewing.

Center Directors and Deputies,

On January 27, 2017, the President signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefits. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the entry immigrants and nonimmigrants who are from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

While we await further guidance, we must temporarily suspend adjudication of all applications, petitions or requests involving citizens or nationals of the listed countries. At this point there are no exceptions for any form types, to include I-90s or I-765s. Please physically segregate any files that are impacted by this temporary hold pending further guidance. As you would expect, we will be developing a weekly report format for you to identify the number and types of cases on hold.

We expect to issue more detailed guidance and procedures in the coming days.

Please ensure this guidance is conveyed as soon as possible to all appropriate employees and get back to us with any questions. Also, please reply to let me know each center has received this message.

Thanks,

Don

No, not yet. Giving them the document that extends their status (to include travel) doesn't necessarily mean they will travel so we shouldn't withhold that document from people who need it as proof of status. If we confirm that travel while a Conditional Resident might pose a problem we can tweak the notice language in similar fashion to what we do for those who get advance parole and might be subject to the 3/10-year bar when they attempt reentry. And clearly we will be doing as much communication as possible once we understand the facts.

I'm not saying that you shouldn't put them on a temp hold like you are other categories of adjudication, I'm saying we shouldn't jump to suppressing notices or changing language. If you've given the order to pause adjudication leave it as is until we get some clarity.

Subject: Executive Order: PROTECTING THE NATION FROM FOREIGN TERRORIST ENTRY INTO THE UNITED STATES - Service Center Instructions

Center Directors and Deputies,

On January 27, 2017, the President signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefits. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the entry immigrants and nonimmigrants who are from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

While we await further guidance, we must temporarily suspend adjudication of all applications, petitions or requests involving citizens or nationals of the listed countries. At this point there are no exceptions for any form types, to include I-90s or I-765s. Please physically segregate any files that are impacted by this temporary hold pending further guidance. As you would expect, we will be developing a weekly report format for you to identify the number and types of cases on hold.

We expect to issue more detailed guidance and procedures in the coming days.

Please ensure this guidance is conveyed as soon as possible to all appropriate employees and get back to us with any questions. Also, please reply to let me know each center has received this message.

Thanks,

Don

Subject: RE: Executive Order - Vienna on Monday

Lori and Tracy - I have 2 operational questions.

Most time-sensitive: We currently have one officer overseas in Vienna who is scheduled to resume interviews on Monday. In light of the "notwithstanding" language at Sec. 5(e), we propose that he continue w/interviews as planned.

In particular, that section says that the USRAP can use discretion to admit refugees during the 120-day suspension "when admitting the person would enable the United States to conform its conduct to a preexisting international agreement..." We have such an agreement w/Austria. What I am proposing is not actually ADMISSIONS, however, but continuing w/RAD interviews, which seems in keeping with the intent and spirit of this provision. Since these applicants are Iranian religious minorities, I believe that their future admission would need to be assessed under the 90-day rule in Sec. 3.

Would you let me know if you concur w/this plan of action?

One caveat is that the RSC in Vienna is anticipating that there may be a protest at the office on Monday by the refugee applicants who now perceive that they are "stuck" there. PRM is notifying the embassy, and we would of course modify our operations if the RSO advises.

Second question: The other processing location that falls under the "preexisting international agreement" provision is the USG agreement w/Australia concerning Nauru. We had a team scheduled to depart for Nauru on Feb. 5-6, which we suspended Wed. in light of the anticipated EO. Are you comfortable if we start to work on Monday to resume this circuit ride? State believes that having visible evidence of progress is important to both the Australian gov't and to the refugees, whose hopelessness has led to violence, self-harm, non-compliance, etc.

Thanks,
Barbara

As we've discussed, the most urgent question is whether adjustments and extensions or changes of nonimmigrant status are impacted. If we can define "suspend processing" as "suspend prior to approval", then one option would be to continue with the interviews, since it is likely we have some that are scheduled as soon as Monday for affected applicants and then hold the cases post interview. We are trying to scrape our schedulers (C4 and NASS) to see when and where we have interviews scheduled for individuals from affected countries. We should have that sometime Monday.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person. [redacted] We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs. (b)(5)

No, not yet. Giving them the document that extends their status (to include travel) doesn't necessarily mean they will travel so we shouldn't withhold that document from people who need it as proof of status. If we confirm that travel while a Conditional Resident might pose a problem we can tweak the notice language in similar fashion to what we do for those who get advance parole and might be subject to the 3/10-year bar when they attempt reentry. And clearly we will be doing as much communication as possible once we understand the facts.

Field leadership,

Just wanted to give you a heads-up on instructions you may need to begin implementing on Monday. In light of the language in Friday's Executive Order, we may need to put a hold on decision-making for asylum cases from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. We may also be asked to postpone any scheduled interviews.

On Monday morning, you should plan on preventing any decision document from being issued in person or by mail to a national of any of the above countries unless or until you are instructed otherwise.

You should also review you list of upcoming interviews and be preparing to cancel any scheduled interviews for persons from one of the listed countries. DO NOT cancel any interviews, however, until you receive instructions from HQ on how to proceed. Hopefully, we will have more guidance on the interviews by Monday morning.

Please let Ted and I know if you have any questions.

The attached document is a matrix breaking down the EO into its component parts and action items. I've added columns for QAs and started compiling those I saw come across this morning and some early ones I saw from Div. 1.

The Policy and general objectives language at the beginning pulls key language from the EO for quick reference when we're drafting statements. The date conversion chart indicates the calendar dates associated with any specific timeframe mentioned in the EO.

I am working to convert this to Excel over the weekend so it's a little more scalable, but wanted to pass it on for initial use.

Please let me know if you have any questions or see anything that needs editing.

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person
We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

The attached document is a matrix breaking down the EO into its component parts and action items. I've added columns for QAs and started compiling those I saw come across this morning and some early ones I saw from Div. 1.

The Policy and general objectives language at the beginning pulls key language from the EO for quick reference when we're drafting statements. The date conversion chart indicates the calendar dates associated with any specific timeframe mentioned in the EO.

I am working to convert this to Excel over the weekend so it's a little more scalable, but wanted to pass it on for initial use.

Please let me know if you have any questions or see anything that needs editing.

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person
We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs. (b)(5)

I've only seen this on Twitter, but it looks like a judge in EDNY has granted a nationwide stay of the refugee EO. I haven't been able to nail down a copy of the actual order, so I have no actual details. Anyone else hear anything?

The attached document is a matrix breaking down the EO into its component parts and action items. I've added columns for QAs and started compiling those I saw come across this morning and some early ones I saw from Div. 1.

The Policy and general objectives language at the beginning pulls key language from the EO for quick reference when we're drafting statements. The date conversion chart indicates the calendar dates associated with any specific timeframe mentioned in the EO.

I am working to convert this to Excel over the weekend so it's a little more scalable, but wanted to pass it on for initial use.

Please let me know if you have any questions or see anything that needs editing.

1. Are the following forms impacted: N-400s, N-336, I-601A, I-131, I-765, N-565, I-130, ...?
2. Should we deschedule oath ceremonies for individuals from the 7?

If there are URGENT questions that we need answers to before Monday go ahead and flag those for us but I'm not sure the Department is going to get to us immediately, they are likely dealing with issues at the POEs which have a bit more urgency. I did send the question of whether this impact naturalization or not to the Department in an attempt to get an answer this weekend only because we have oath ceremonies scheduled for Monday.

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

State has also issued guidance. Will forward.

As we've discussed, the most urgent question is whether adjustments and extensions or changes of nonimmigrant status are impacted. If we can define "suspend processing" as "suspend prior to approval", then one option would be to continue with the interviews, since it is likely we have some that are scheduled as soon as Monday for affected applicants and then hold the cases post interview. We are trying to scrape our schedulers (C4 and NASS) to see when and where we have interviews scheduled for individuals from affected countries. We should have that sometime Monday.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person [redacted]
We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs. (b)(5)

Everyone,

As of the moment, the instructions I sent out yesterday stay in place until we get further instruction from agency/department leadership. As you can see from the below chain, Joanna has notified leadership of our present instructions and is seeking further guidance.

Given what is happening at the airports, I understand that some additional guidance is needed on CF/RF processing. CF/RF screenings should continue for anyone who is placed into ER and is referred to us after making a fear claim, or anyone subject to reinstatement or admin removal order who is referred to us after making a fear claim. We confer no benefit in the screening process, so our work in these areas should continue unless/until we are instructed otherwise.

Please feel free to continue to submit any questions that you may have.

Jessica,

Attached please find a preliminary list of implementation issues for RAIO. These are ones that are most time sensitive, in that we need to get guidance out to the field as soon as possible – by Sunday evening, if possible.

This does not include the most urgent issue regarding the list of individuals State is requesting to exempt so they can travel, which is being worked separately.

Let me know if you have questions. Also including content in the message in case that is helpful for those on phones.

RAIO Time Sensitive Questions on the Executive Order

Refugee Processing – what can continue?

For reference - current circuit rides:

1. Cape Town, South Africa (total number of cases is 166) – deployed through February 3:
    a. 92% nationality is Somali – Claims are mostly based on religious beliefs (different interpretations of Islam than Al Shabaab)
    b. 8% nationality is Democratic Republic of Congo – Claims are nationality claims based on tribe.
2. Indonesia (total number of cases is 130) – deployed through February 10:
    a. 95% nationality is Burmese – religious minority Rohingya population
    b. 5% nationality is Afghan – No claim info available
3. Vienna (RAD CR – one officer is currently onsite processing cases) – deployed through February 24:
    a. 100% from Iran – claims are religious persecution as either Assyrian/Armenian Christians or Bahai
    b. Note that these cases must obtain special visas to enter Austria and can only remain in Vienna for a very limited amount of time.

Urgent time-sensitive questions (need answers by Sunday evening, if possible):

1. Can the officer in Vienna resume interview on Monday? In light of the "notwithstanding" language at Sec. 5(e), we propose that he continue w/interviews as planned.

    In particular, that section says that the USRAP can use discretion to admit refugees during the 120-day suspension "when admitting the person would enable the United States to conform its conduct to a preexisting international agreement..." We have such an agreement w/Austria. What we are proposing is not actually ADMISSIONS, however, but continuing w/RAD interviews, which seems in keeping with the intent and spirit of this provision. Since these applicants are Iranian religious minorities, we believe that their future admission would need to be assessed under the 90-day rule in Sec. 3.

2. Can we continue interviewing in Indonesia? We recommend that we continue, at least for the Rohingya population. PRM's guidance to RSC's is to continue processing around the world and just to cancel travel for the affected population, and we are working with them on determining best course of action for this caseload.

3. Should we continue interviews in South Africa? We think it would not be the best use of resources to continue to interview this population and intend to move forward to curtail those interviews. We are consulting with PRM.

4. Should we continue interviews in Moscow? We have Lautenberg interviews scheduled in Moscow all week. This includes P1s and Lautenberg (largely Ukrainian religious minorities traveling in from the Ukraine for their interviews). Some of the P-1s travel in from remote areas. Our proposed plan:

   Where someone may already be in transit, we intend to continue with the interview if the individual was a Lautenberg or other religious minority, even though we are all still awaiting guidance on how the religious minority exception may be defined. For those other P1s, we intend to collect prints and inform them of the suspension, but not conduct an interview. We don't want to continue interviewing if we may have to do reinterviews later based on a new or amended approach to processing.

5. We believe we have P-1s also scheduled in New Delhi. Would follow same approach as above.

Less Urgent:

6. Should we resume planning scheduling CR for Nauru (originally planned for Feb. 5-6, but suspended). We believe this falls under the "preexisting international agreement" provision is the USG agreement w/Australia concerning Nauru. State believes that having visible evidence of progress is important to both the Australian gov't and to the refugees, whose hopelessness has led to violence, self-harm, non-compliance, etc.

Asylum Processing:

1. Does the suspension apply to processing affirmative asylum applications filed by individuals from the countries on the list?

   - We have notified field leadership that they should arrange to stop any decision-issuance to asylum applicants from the listed countries until they are instructed otherwise.
   - We have told them to review their upcoming schedules and prepare to cancel any interviews for nationals from the listed countries. They were told not to actually begin cancelling the interviews until they received further guidance from HQ.

Refugee Travel Documents:

Should USCIS continue to issue refugee travel documents (domestically and abroad) to those not on the list? IO currently has a number of pending requests for refugee documents and the vast majority are Iraqi and the individuals are currently in Iraq. Will issue guidance to suspend processing those on the list, but what about the others?

TRIG:

Should we tell staff to hold off on approving cases for existing TRIG exemptions while all exemptions are being reviewed for possible rescission?

I-730's Processed Abroad:

1. Can USCIS continue to process following-to-join (I-730) applications for asylee family members from countries not on the list (e.g., China)? State's guidance to consular officers is to continue processing those. We have not issued any yet.
2. If we issued a travel document to a refugee FTJ or an asylee FTJ from one of the 7 countries before the 1/27/17 E.O. and the beneficiary hasn't traveled yet, should we try to get the travel document or packet back?

Subject: RE: Executive Order

All – I asked the regs team to give us an idea of the tie frames for doing and re-doing forms as well as regs:

For forms , if, for instance, we have to add new vetting questions, OMB approval can be accomplished relatively quickly as an emergency action (compared to the normal process).
Steps and qualifications for emergency OMB approval:
1) OP&S division, operational directorates, OCC, and RCD collaborate on the amended form and/or instructions.
2) RCD prepares the relevant PRA supporting documents (Supporting Statement, etc.) working with OIDP and Office of Privacy
3) Draft a memo justifying the emergent need (e.g., the EO), signed by USCIS CIO and DHS CIO.
4) RCD submits the package to OMB. OMB approval under emergency will only be valid for 6 months. To extend the validity of the OMB approval beyond 6 months, RCD would need to publish the 60- and 30-day Notices as normal and then resubmit the package to OMB.
As a side note, the interior enforcement EO took away the Privacy Act protections that the USG had extended to non-citizens (by policy I believe). This change may significantly impact how the Privacy Act is interpreted w/r/t USCIS forms and systems, and may or may not cause changes to our Privacy Threshold Analyses which support the PRA process. We need to get a legal opinion on whether our PTAs, etc. will change because of this, and if we can update the relevant PRA supporting documents as they come up in the queue (i.e. as RCD starts work upon expiration) or if this needs to be implemented immediately (which would be a significant workload).

For regs, the time it took to get the EA rules out from the Nov. 20, 2014 memo are good barometers of the average timeline when there is WH support and it's moving as an emergency action:
- Average of 12-16 months for drafting and publishing an NPRM (but note that there was already some work done on EA before the 11/2014 announcement)
- Average of 6-8 months to review public comments, draft final rule, and publish the final rule.

Caveats: 1) The above assumes a relatively hands-off approach of OGC staff-level attorneys and economists prior to moving to OGC FO, S1 FO, and OMB. Also assumes that the timelines for S1 FO review will be similarly expedited (i.e. a matter of hours wherein the Assistant General Counsel briefs S1 and obtains signature). 2) The "effective date" will largely depend on the speed that our computer systems can be stood up. 3) Also, of course, depends on the number and complexity of public comments received and the continued availability of monetary resources to fund contractor support of our regulatory projects (comment analysis).

Subject: RE: Executive Order

The attached document is a matrix breaking down the EO into its component parts and action items. I've added columns for QAs and started compiling those I saw come across this morning and some early ones I saw from Div. 1.

The Policy and general objectives language at the beginning pulls key language from the EO for quick reference when we're drafting statements. The date conversion chart indicates the calendar dates associated with any specific timeframe mentioned in the EO.

I am working to convert this to Excel over the weekend so it's a little more scalable, but wanted to pass it on for initial use.

Please let me know if you have any questions or see anything that needs editing.

For section 4, do we need to take any actions prior to the"plan" described in section four being developed and implemented? And who is responsible for developing the plan?

For section 6, should we adjudicate cases in TRIG hold? It doesn't seem like exemptions are forthcoming.

1. Are the following forms impacted: N-400s, N-336, I-601A, I-131, I-765, N-565, I-130, ...?
2. Should we deschedule oath ceremonies for individuals from the 7?

Everyone should be compiling a list of all of their questions and getting them to Jess so Lori and I have a complete list. If there are URGENT questions that we need answers to before Monday go ahead and flag those for us but I'm not sure the Department is going to get to us immediately, they are likely dealing with issues at the POEs which have a bit more urgency. I did send the question of whether this impact naturalization or not to the Department in an attempt to get an answer this weekend only because we have oath ceremonies scheduled for Monday.

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

State has also issued guidance. Will forward.

As we've discussed, the most urgent question is whether adjustments and extensions or changes of nonimmigrant status are impacted. Separately, is there any impact on petitions for beneficiaries abroad since we would not be determining admissibility? I would think not, but it would be good to have clarity.

If we can define "suspend processing" as "suspend prior to approval", then one option would be to continue with the interviews, since it is likely we have some that are scheduled as soon as Monday for affected applicants and then hold the cases post interview. We are trying to scrape our schedulers (C4 and NASS) to see when and where we have interviews scheduled for individuals from affected countries. We should have that sometime Monday.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person
We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

Everyone,

As of this moment, yesterday's guidance remains in place:

- hold issuance of asylum decisions to nationals to the seven countries covered by the EO (hope to get this resolved today);
- proceed with scheduled interviews for nationals from the seven countries;
- proceed with all CF/RF processing, including for nationals from the seven countries.

One new instruction: if you are referred any individual for CF/RF processing who was denied admission as a result of the EO, please notify Beth Mura and Brooke Kirkland. Proceed with processing of the referral unless instructed otherwise.

Please let us know if you have any questions.

Everyone,

I understand that many of you do not have access to your CF mailboxes where you receive referrals from ICE. If you have a way to easily get access to the mailbox, please do so and let us know whether you received something. If it needs to wait until you get into the office tomorrow morning, that will be OK. I would ask that each office get back to us no later than tomorrow morning on these 2 questions.

Thanks!

Everyone,

As of the moment, the instructions I sent out yesterday stay in place until we get further instruction from agency/department leadership. As you can see from the below chain, Joanna has notified leadership of our present instructions and is seeking further guidance.

Given what is happening at the airports, I understand that some additional guidance is needed on CF/RF processing. CF/RF screenings should continue for anyone who is placed into ER and is referred to us after making a fear claim, or anyone subject to reinstatement or admin removal order who is referred to us after making a fear claim. We confer no benefit in the screening process, so our work in these areas should continue unless/until we are instructed otherwise.

Please feel free to continue to submit any questions that you may have.

Jessica,

Attached please find a preliminary list of implementation issues for RAIO. These are ones that are most time sensitive, in that we need to get guidance out to the field as soon as possible – by Sunday evening, if possible.

This does not include the most urgent issue regarding the list of individuals State is requesting to exempt so they can travel, which is being worked separately.

Let me know if you have questions. Also including content in the message in case that is helpful for those on phones.

RAIO Time Sensitive Questions on the Executive Order

Refugee Processing – what can continue?

For reference - current circuit rides:

1. Cape Town, South Africa (total number of cases is 166) – deployed through February 3:
    a. 92% nationality is Somali – Claims are mostly based on religious beliefs (different interpretations of Islam than Al Shabaab)
    b. 8% nationality is Democratic Republic of Congo – Claims are nationality claims based on tribe.
2. Indonesia (total number of cases is 130) – deployed through February 10:
    a. 95% nationality is Burmese – religious minority Rohingya population
    b. 5% nationality is Afghan – No claim info available
3. Vienna (RAD CR – one officer is currently onsite processing cases) – deployed through February 24:
    a. 100% from Iran – claims are religious persecution as either Assyrian/Armenian Christians or Bahai
    b. Note that these cases must obtain special visas to enter Austria and can only remain in Vienna for a very limited amount of time.

Urgent time-sensitive questions (need answers by Sunday evening, if possible):

1. Can the officer in Vienna resume interview on Monday? In light of the "notwithstanding" language at Sec. 5(e), we propose that he continue w/interviews as planned.

    In particular, that section says that the USRAP can use discretion to admit refugees during the 120-day suspension "when admitting the person would enable the United States to conform its conduct to a preexisting international agreement..." We have such an agreement w/Austria. What we are proposing is not actually ADMISSIONS, however, but continuing w/RAD interviews, which seems in keeping with the intent and spirit of this provision. Since these applicants are Iranian religious minorities, we believe that their future admission would need to be assessed under the 90-day rule in Sec. 3.

2. Can we continue interviewing in Indonesia? We recommend that we continue, at least for the Rohingya population. PRM's guidance to RSC's is to continue processing around the world and just to cancel travel for the affected population, and we are working with them on determining best course of action for this caseload.

3. Should we continue interviews in South Africa? We think it would not be the best use of resources to continue to interview this population and intend to move forward to curtail those interviews. We are consulting with PRM.

4. Should we continue interviews in Moscow? We have Lautenberg interviews scheduled in Moscow all week. This includes P1s and Lautenberg (largely Ukrainian religious minorities traveling in from the Ukraine for their interviews). Some of the P-1s travel in from remote areas. Our proposed plan:

   Where someone may already be in transit, we intend to continue with the interview if the individual was a Lautenberg or other religious minority, even though we are all still awaiting guidance on how the religious minority exception may be defined. For those other P1s, we intend to collect prints and inform them of the suspension, but not conduct an interview. We don't want to continue interviewing if we may have to do reinterviews later based on a new or amended approach to processing.

5. We believe we have P-1s also scheduled in New Delhi. Would follow same approach as above.

Less Urgent:

6. Should we resume planning scheduling CR for Nauru (originally planned for Feb. 5-6, but suspended). We believe this falls under the "preexisting international agreement" provision is the USG agreement w/Australia concerning Nauru. State believes that having visible evidence of progress is important to both the Australian gov't and to the refugees, whose hopelessness has led to violence, self-harm, non-compliance, etc.

Asylum Processing:

1. Does the suspension apply to processing affirmative asylum applications filed by individuals from the countries on the list?

   - We have notified field leadership that they should arrange to stop any decision-issuance to asylum applicants from the listed countries until they are instructed otherwise.
   - We have told them to review their upcoming schedules and prepare to cancel any interviews for nationals from the listed countries. They were told not to actually begin cancelling the interviews until they received further guidance from HQ.

Refugee Travel Documents:

Should USCIS continue to issue refugee travel documents (domestically and abroad) to those not on the list? IO currently has a number of pending requests for refugee documents and the vast majority are Iraqi and the individuals are currently in Iraq. Will issue guidance to suspend processing those on the list, but what about the others?

TRIG:

Should we tell staff to hold off on approving cases for existing TRIG exemptions while all exemptions are being reviewed for possible rescission?

I-730's Processed Abroad:

1. Can USCIS continue to process following-to-join (I-730) applications for asylee family members from countries not on the list (e.g., China)? State's guidance to consular officers is to continue processing those. We have not issued any yet.

2. If we issued a travel document to a refugee FTJ or an asylee FTJ from one of the 7 countries before the 1/27/17 E.O. and the beneficiary hasn't traveled yet, should we try to get the travel document or packet back?

On the second point, that is what this guidance provides.

On the first one, if you want more clarity based on the evolving guidance we have been getting about LPRs in this document, that can be done, but I think it would need to go through DHS clearance again. Perhaps it is more efficient to clarify that particular point with RAIO than revise the guidance to all employees again.

Lori and Tracy – were you award of this recommended delegation that would make CBP responsible for exercising the refugee exemption authority under 5(e)? Seems quite odd to me. At least it should be "in consultation with" USCIS.

Also, the factual representation under "Need" is off-base. There is no reason to "expect hundreds of individuals to seek such waivers in the next week." PRM will be controlling who gets put forward for exemptions.

Here in clean copy is the guidance. In addition to revising point 1 as discussed, I did this per a final look: (1) changed a reference to "Department" to "DHS" to conform to the previously established acronym; (2) shortened the title of the memo which was very verbose and redundant; (3) deleted an unnecessary full title of the EO toward the end of the memo, per a good OGC suggestion. I see there is a missing line space between #3 and #4 but trying to fix that I got into the problem of it screwing up the autonumbering so I'll leave that to a more adept scribe. Thanks, Phil

TO: All USCIS Employees

FROM: Lori L. Scialabba
Acting Director

SUBJECT: Guidance Concerning Executive Order on Immigration

On January 27, President Trump signed an Executive Order entitled "Protecting The Nation From Foreign Terrorist Entry Into The United States." This memorandum provides guidance from the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) regarding the impact of this Executive Order on various immigration benefit requests.

All USCIS employees should be aware of current guidance from DHS, specifically:

1. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order does not affect USCIS adjudication of applications and petitions filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States regardless of their country of nationality. Section 3(c) also does not affect applications and petitions by lawful permanent residents outside the United States, or applications and petitions for individuals outside the United States whose approval does not directly confer travel authorization (including any immigrant or nonimmigrant visa petition). This includes, but is not limited to, the matters discussed more specifically in paragraphs 2, 3 and 5 below.

2. Applications to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status (Form I-485) may continue to be adjudicated, according to existing policies and procedures, for applicants who are nationals of countries designated in the Executive Order.

3. USCIS will adjudicate Refugee/Asylee Relative Petitions (Form I-730) for all beneficiaries, from any country of nationality, currently in the United States according to existing policies and procedures. Further guidance will be issued with respect to beneficiaries currently outside of the United States.

4. USCIS will continue refugee interviews when the person is a religious minority in his or her country of nationality facing religious persecution. Additionally, USCIS will continue refugee interviews in jurisdictions where there is a preexisting international agreement related to refugee processing. USCIS will not approve a refugee application for an individual who we determine would pose a risk to the security or welfare of the United States.

5. USCIS will continue adjudicating all affirmative asylum cases according to existing policies and procedures.

Questions concerning the information contained in this memorandum may be addressed via your directorate or program office through appropriate supervisory channels.

Please see the attached guidance that I would like to send to USCIS staff. It does not answer all questions but it will address the vast majority. Please let me know if you'd like to discuss. OCC and our politicals have reviewed.

I plan to send our parole program paper in the next day or so with our recommendations for consideration. Once decisions are made I'll have guidance drafted for implementation and sent up for review.

I know everyone is very busy but if I can get a clearance on the attached memo we'll be out in front of what may be the next round of questions regarding the EO that was signed on Friday.

Regards,
Lori

Overview of current external messages

- As you are all aware, information related to the executive orders announced last Friday continues to be updated and released. Thus far, the Secretary has issued at least 3 statements and a fact sheet. These are all posted at dhs.gov. Our goal in to create a central repository on USCIS Connect to house these cleared materials as they become available. We will share the Connect link once the page it up and populated.

- If you receive questions from customers or the public about the executive orders, you can refer them to dhs.gov to read the latest statements from the Department.

- In one of yesterday's statements, Secretary Kelly addressed the question of whether or not green card holders will be allowed to return to the United States. The Secretary stated, quote, "In applying the provisions of the president's executive order, I hereby deem the entry of lawful permanent residents to be in the national interest. Accordingly, absent the receipt of significant derogatory information indicating a serious threat to public safety and welfare, lawful permanent resident status will be a dispositive factor in our case-by-case determinations."

- In another statement, the Department pointed out the fact that "No foreign national in a foreign land, without ties to the United States, has any unfettered right to demand entry into the United States or to demand immigration benefits in the United States."

- That statement also says, "The Department of Homeland Security will comply with judicial orders; faithfully enforce our immigration laws, and implement President Trump's Executive Orders to ensure that those entering the United States do not pose a threat to our country or the American people."

- And DHS pledged that "we will treat all of those we encounter humanely and with professionalism."

- I think it's important for field leadership to underscore this point, and to point out that acting with professionalism applies not only to how we treat our customers. It also applies to how we act as agency employees and civil servants in positions of public trust and national security.

Communications Guidance:

- Please remind your teams that the Office of Communications manages all interactions with the news media and represents the agency on social media.

Likewise the Office of Legislative Affairs represents the agency to members of Congress and their staff, and CSPED represents the agency to stakeholder organizations.

- White House and DHS communications and legislative affairs continue to lead external relations efforts on the President's executive orders. For now, our guidance is to push everything up to them. Our USCIS external communicators are providing daily reports to DHS on incoming inquiries from the Hill, media outlets, state and locals, and other stakeholders.

- We are hearing reports of media outlets reaching out directly to employees. If a reporter contacts an employee or field leadership, the reporter should be referred to your PAO right away. You can also send the requested information, including the reporter's name, affiliation and contact information to your PAO to follow up. You should not promise to follow up yourself.

- Please remind your teams that there are legal rules about government employees referring to their positions or agency affiliation outside their official duties. With social media, even if someone posts a private opinion in their off hours, they should be mindful that to the public, it could be misconstrued or interpreted as calling into question their ability to be an impartial and apolitical public servant. It could also confuse our customers and the public who are looking to the Department and USCIS for clarity about what the executive orders mean.

- Right now we all need to focus on staying informed and doing what we are directed to do, and working closely with our DHS partners to carry out those responsibilities.

- Finally, I call your attention to the two Executive Orders from earlier last week which deal with border security and immigration enforcement. You can find them at whitehouse.gov. One of the orders is entitled "Enhancing Public Safety in the Interior of the United States," and section 5 in particular could be relevant to certain adjudications. Section 5 directs the Secretary to establish removal priorities, including removable aliens who:

    - (a) Have been convicted of any criminal offense;
    - (b) Have been charged with any criminal offense, where such charge has not been resolved;
    - (c) Have committed acts that constitute a chargeable criminal offense;
    - (d) Have engaged in fraud or willful misrepresentation in connection with any official matter or application before a governmental agency;
    - (e) Have abused any program related to receipt of public benefits;
    - (f) Are subject to a final order of removal, but who have not complied with their legal obligation to depart the United States; or

- (g) In the judgment of an immigration officer, otherwise pose a risk to public safety or national security.

- Again, you can read the order at whitehouse.gov in the Briefing Room section under Presidential Actions.

Everyone,

As of the moment, the instructions I sent out yesterday stay in place until we get further instruction from agency/department leadership. As you can see from the below chain, Joanna has notified leadership of our present instructions and is seeking further guidance.

Given what is happening at the airports, I understand that some additional guidance is needed on CF/RF processing. CF/RF screenings should continue for anyone who is placed into ER and is referred to us after making a fear claim, or anyone subject to reinstatement or admin removal order who is referred to us after making a fear claim. We confer no benefit in the screening process, so our work in these areas should continue unless/until we are instructed otherwise.

Please feel free to continue to submit any questions that you may have.

Jessica,

Attached please find a preliminary list of implementation issues for RAIO. These are ones that are most time sensitive, in that we need to get guidance out to the field as soon as possible – by Sunday evening, if possible.

This does not include the most urgent issue regarding the list of individuals State is requesting to exempt so they can travel, which is being worked separately.

Let me know if you have questions. Also including content in the message in case that is helpful for those on phones.

Thanks,

Joanna

RAIO Time Sensitive Questions on the Executive Order

Refugee Processing – what can continue?

For reference - current circuit rides:

1. Cape Town, South Africa (total number of cases is 166) – deployed through February 3:
   a. 92% nationality is Somali – Claims are mostly based on religious beliefs (different interpretations of Islam than Al Shabaab)
   b. 8% nationality is Democratic Republic of Congo – Claims are nationality claims based on tribe.
2. Indonesia (total number of cases is 130) – deployed through February 10:
   a. 95% nationality is Burmese – religious minority Rohingya population
   b. 5% nationality is Afghan – No claim info available
3. Vienna (RAD CR – one officer is currently onsite processing cases) – deployed through February 24:
   a. 100% from Iran – claims are religious persecution as either Assyrian/Armenian Christians or Bahai
   b. Note that these cases must obtain special visas to enter Austria and can only remain in Vienna for a very limited amount of time.

Urgent time-sensitive questions (need answers by Sunday evening, if possible):

1. Can the officer in Vienna resume interview on Monday? In light of the "notwithstanding" language at Sec. 5(e), we propose that he continue w/interviews as planned.

   In particular, that section says that the USRAP can use discretion to admit refugees during the 120-day suspension "when admitting the person would enable the United States to conform its conduct to a preexisting international agreement..." We have such an agreement w/Austria. What we are proposing is not actually ADMISSIONS, however, but continuing w/RAD interviews, which seems in keeping with the intent and spirit of this provision. Since these applicants are Iranian religious minorities, we believe that their future admission would need to be assessed under the 90-day rule in Sec. 3.

2. Can we continue interviewing in Indonesia? We recommend that we continue, at least for the Rohingya population. PRM's guidance to RSC's is to continue processing around the world and just to cancel travel for the affected population, and we are working with them on determining best course of action for this caseload.

3. Should we continue interviews in South Africa? We think it would not be the best use of resources to continue to interview this population and intend to move forward to curtail those interviews. We are consulting with PRM.

4. Should we continue interviews in Moscow? We have Lautenberg interviews scheduled in Moscow all week. This includes P1s and Lautenberg (largely Ukrainian religious minorities traveling in from the Ukraine for their interviews). Some of the P-1s travel in from remote areas. Our proposed plan:

Where someone may already be in transit, we intend to continue with the interview if the individual was a Lautenberg or other religious minority, even though we are all still awaiting guidance on how the religious minority exception may be defined. For those other P1s, we intend to collect prints and inform them of the suspension, but not conduct an interview. We don't want to continue interviewing if we may have to do reinterviews later based on a new or amended approach to processing.

5. We believe we have P-1s also scheduled in New Delhi. Would follow same approach as above.

Less Urgent:

6. Should we resume planning scheduling CR for Nauru (originally planned for Feb. 5-6, but suspended). We believe this falls under the "preexisting international agreement" provision is the USG agreement w/Australia concerning Nauru. State believes that having visible evidence of progress is important to both the Australian gov't and to the refugees, whose hopelessness has led to violence, self-harm, non-compliance, etc.

Asylum Processing:

1. Does the suspension apply to processing affirmative asylum applications filed by individuals from the countries on the list?

   - We have notified field leadership that they should arrange to stop any decision-issuance to asylum applicants from the listed countries until they are instructed otherwise.
   - We have told them to review their upcoming schedules and prepare to cancel any interviews for nationals from the listed countries. They were told not to actually begin cancelling the interviews until they received further guidance from HQ.

Refugee Travel Documents:

Should USCIS continue to issue refugee travel documents (domestically and abroad) to those not on the list? IO currently has a number of pending requests for refugee documents and the vast majority are Iraqi and the individuals are currently in Iraq. Will issue guidance to suspend processing those on the list, but what about the others?

TRIG:

Should we tell staff to hold off on approving cases for existing TRIG exemptions while all exemptions are being reviewed for possible rescission?

I-730's Processed Abroad:

1. Can USCIS continue to process following-to-join (I-730) applications for asylee family members from countries not on the list (e.g., China)? State's guidance to consular officers is to continue processing those. We have not issued any yet.
2. If we issued a travel document to a refugee FTJ or an asylee FTJ from one of the 7 countries before the 1/27/17 E.O. and the beneficiary hasn't traveled yet, should we try to get the travel document or packet back?

The attached document is a matrix breaking down the EO into its component parts and action items. I've added columns for QAs and started compiling those I saw come across this morning and some early ones I saw from Div. 1.

The Policy and general objectives language at the beginning pulls key language from the EO for quick reference when we're drafting statements. The date conversion chart indicates the calendar dates associated with any specific timeframe mentioned in the EO.

I am working to convert this to Excel over the weekend so it's a little more scalable, but wanted to pass it on for initial use.

Please let me know if you have any questions or see anything that needs editing.

Thanks,

For section 4, do we need to take any actions prior to the"plan" described in section four being developed and implemented? And who is responsible for developing the plan?

For section 6, should we adjudicate cases in TRIG hold? It doesn't seem like exemptions are forthcoming.

1. Are the following forms impacted: N-400s, N-336, I-601A, I-131, I-765, N-565, I-130, ...?
2. Should we deschedule oath ceremonies for individuals from the 7?
3. How do we handle N-400s 120+ days from interview?
4. Should we stop RFEs?
5. Should we stop scheduling interviews?

Everyone should be compiling a list of all of their questions and getting them to Jess so Lori and I have a complete list. If there are URGENT questions that we need answers to before Monday go ahead and flag those for us but I'm not sure the Department is going to get to us immediately, they are likely dealing with issues at the POEs which have a bit more urgency. I did send the question of whether this impact naturalization or not to the Department in an attempt to get an answer this weekend only because we have oath ceremonies scheduled for Monday.

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

State has also issued guidance. Will forward.

As we've discussed, the most urgent question is whether adjustments and extensions or changes of nonimmigrant status are impacted. Separately, is there any impact on petitions for beneficiaries abroad since we would not be determining admissibility? I would think not, but it would be good to have clarity.

If we can define "suspend processing" as "suspend prior to approval", then one option would be to continue with the interviews, since it is likely we have some that are scheduled as soon as Monday for affected applicants and then hold the cases post interview. We are trying to scrape our schedulers (C4 and NASS) to see when and where we have interviews scheduled for individuals from affected countries. We should have that sometime Monday.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person
We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

DECISION AND ORDER

17 Civ. 480 (AMD)

ANN DONNELLY, District Judge.

On January 28, 2017, the petitioners filed an Emergency Motion for Stay of Removal on behalf of themselves and others similarly situated.

IT APPEARING to the Court from the Emergency Motion for Stay of Removal, the other submissions, the arguments of counsel, and the hearing held on the 28th of January, 2017,

1. The petitioners have a strong likelihood of success in establishing that the removal of the petitioner and others similarly situated violates their rights to Due Process and Equal Protection guaranteed by the United States Constitution;

2. There is imminent danger that, absent the stay of removal, there will be substantial and irreparable injury to refugees, visa-holders, and other individuals from nations subject to the January 27, 2017 Executive Order;
3. The issuance of the stay of removal will not injure the other parties interested in the proceeding;
4. It is appropriate and just that, pending completion of a hearing before the Court on the merits of the Petition, that the Respondents be enjoined and restrained from the commission of further acts and misconduct in violation of the Constitution as described in the Emergency Motion for Stay of Removal.

WHEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the respondents, their officers, agents, servants, employees, attorneys, and all members and persons acting in concert or participation with them, from the date of this Order, are ENJOINED AND RESTRAINED from, in any manner or by any means, removing individuals with refugee applications approved by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services as part of the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program, holders of valid immigrant and non-immigrant visas, and other individuals from Iraq, Syria, Iran, Sudan, Libya, Somalia, and Yemen legally authorized to enter the United States.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that to assure compliance with the Court's order, the Court directs service of this Order upon the United States Marshal for the Eastern District of New York, and further directs the United States Marshals Service to take those actions deemed necessary to enforce the provisions and prohibitions set forth in this Order.

SO ORDERED.

Subject: RAIO's most time sensitive issues for Executive Order Implementation Attachments: Executive Order on terrorism - RAIO questions.docx

Jessica,

Attached please find a preliminary list of implementation issues for RAIO. These are ones that are most time sensitive, in that we need to get guidance out to the field as soon as possible – by Sunday evening, if possible.

This does not include the most urgent issue regarding the list of individuals State is requesting to exempt so they can travel, which is being worked separately.

Let me know if you have questions. Also including content in the message in case that is helpful for those on phones.

Thanks,

Joanna

RAIO Time Sensitive Questions on the Executive Order

Refugee Processing – what can continue?

For reference - current circuit rides:

1. Cape Town, South Africa (total number of cases is 166) – deployed through February 3:
    a. 92% nationality is Somali – Claims are mostly based on religious beliefs (different interpretations of Islam than Al Shabaab)
    b. 8% nationality is Democratic Republic of Congo – Claims are nationality claims based on tribe.
2. Indonesia (total number of cases is 130) – deployed through February 10:
    a. 95% nationality is Burmese – religious minority Rohingya population
    b. 5% nationality is Afghan – No claim info available
3. Vienna (RAD CR – one officer is currently onsite processing cases) – deployed through February 24:
    a. 100% from Iran – claims are religious persecution as either Assyrian/Armenian Christians or Bahai
    b. Note that these cases must obtain special visas to enter Austria and can only remain in Vienna for a very limited amount of time.

Urgent time-sensitive questions (need answers by Sunday evening, if possible):

1. Can the officer in Vienna resume interview on Monday? In light of the "notwithstanding" language at Sec. 5(e), we propose that he continue w/interviews as planned.

    In particular, that section says that the USRAP can use discretion to admit refugees during the 120-day suspension "when admitting the person would enable the United States to conform its conduct to a preexisting international agreement..." We have such an agreement w/Austria. What we are proposing is not actually ADMISSIONS, however, but continuing w/RAD interviews, which seems in keeping with the intent and spirit of this provision. Since these applicants are Iranian religious minorities, we believe that their future admission would need to be assessed under the 90-day rule in Sec. 3.

2. Can we continue interviewing in Indonesia? We recommend that we continue, at least for the Rohingya population. PRM's guidance to RSC's is to continue processing around the world and just to cancel travel for the affected population, and we are working with them on determining best course of action for this caseload.

3. Should we continue interviews in South Africa? We think it would not be the best use of resources to continue to interview this population and intend to move forward to curtail those interviews. We are consulting with PRM.

4. Should we continue interviews in Moscow? We have Lautenberg interviews scheduled in Moscow all week. This includes P1s and Lautenberg (largely Ukrainian religious minorities traveling in from the Ukraine for their interviews). Some of the P-1s travel in from remote areas. Our proposed plan:

   Where someone may already be in transit, we intend to continue with the interview if the individual was a Lautenberg or other religious minority, even though we are all still awaiting guidance on how the religious minority exception may be defined. For those other P1s, we intend to collect prints and inform them of the suspension, but not conduct an interview. We don't want to continue interviewing if we may have to do reinterviews later based on a new or amended approach to processing.

5. We believe we have P-1s also scheduled in New Delhi. Would follow same approach as above.

Less Urgent:

6. Should we resume planning scheduling CR for Nauru (originally planned for Feb. 5-6, but suspended). We believe this falls under the "preexisting international agreement" provision is the USG agreement w/Australia concerning Nauru. State believes that having visible evidence of progress is important to both the Australian gov't and to the refugees, whose hopelessness has led to violence, self-harm, non-compliance, etc.

Asylum Processing:

1. Does the suspension apply to processing affirmative asylum applications filed by individuals from the countries on the list?

   - We have notified field leadership that they should arrange to stop any decision-issuance to asylum applicants from the listed countries until they are instructed otherwise.
   - We have told them to review their upcoming schedules and prepare to cancel any interviews for nationals from the listed countries. They were told not to actually begin cancelling the interviews until they received further guidance from HQ.

Refugee Travel Documents:

Should USCIS continue to issue refugee travel documents (domestically and abroad) to those not on the list? IO currently has a number of pending requests for refugee documents and the vast majority are Iraqi and the individuals are currently in Iraq. Will issue guidance to suspend processing those on the list, but what about the others?

TRIG:

Should we tell staff to hold off on approving cases for existing TRIG exemptions while all exemptions are being reviewed for possible rescission?

I-730's Processed Abroad:

1. Can USCIS continue to process following-to-join (I-730) applications for asylee family members from countries not on the list (e.g., China)? State's guidance to consular officers is to continue processing those. We have not issued any yet.
2. If we issued a travel document to a refugee FTJ or an asylee FTJ from one of the 7 countries before the 1/27/17 E.O. and the beneficiary hasn't traveled yet, should we try to get the travel document or packet back?

Subject: Preliminary injunction in EDVA

This evening, the District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia issued a preliminary injunction in Aziz v. Trump. The Court enjoins the government from enforcing Section 3(c) of the Executive Order, "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States," as applied to "any person who has a Virginia residence or is employed by or attends an educational institution administered by the Commonwealth of Virginia, and who, as of 5:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time on Friday, January 27,2017, was lawfully admitted for permanent residency in the United States, held an immigrant visa that would entitle the bearer to be lawfully admitted for permanent residency upon admission to the United States, held a valid student visa (or accompanying family or spousal visa), or held a valid work visa (or accompanying family or spousal visa)."

OCC has reviewed the court's order and decision and believes that, by virtue of our compliance with the nationwide temporary restraining order that the Ninth Circuit recently upheld, USCIS is already in compliance with this latest injunction and does not need to take any further affirmative steps.

Please let us know if you have any concerns.

Since I believe that RAIO was tasked with the lead on this for USCIS, I would like to suggest that Karen Sohrakoff, copied here, take the lead on this. She already did a data call and has put together some numbers. Also, I know that the USCIS Office of Policy and she have been working on identifying some preliminary issues.

Subject: TRIG Cases

Good afternoon,

Could your office put together a briefing paper for AD1 that looks at the following issues:

1. TRIG cases that are currently on hold and for which there is no exemption right now.
    a. Number of cases
    b. Cases broken down by country
    c. Considerations as to whether we should deny these cases
2. A summary of pending TRIG exemption requests and the status of those requests.
3. List of current exemptions.

This paper is to help inform the decision as to whether we should we deny or continue to hold TRIG cases based on the recent Executive Order. Section 6 of the "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States" Executive Order states:

"Rescission of Exercise of Authority Relating to the Terrorism Grounds of Inadmissibility. The Secretaries of State and Homeland Security shall, in consultation with the Attorney General, consider rescinding the exercises of authority in section 212 of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1182, relating to the terrorism grounds of inadmissibility, as well as any related implementing memorandum."

Please provide me with a draft no later than COB Friday, February 10th.

Thank you,

Subject: Executive Order Updates and Refugee Processing

RAIO Colleagues,

As stated in the USCIS Broadcast, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services has suspended any and all actions implementing the affected sections of the Executive Order entitled, "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States" (January 27, 2017) (these affected sections are Sections 3(c), Section 5(a), Section 5(b), Section 5 (c) and Section 5 (e) to the extent that it purports to prioritize refugee claims of certain religious minorities).

USCIS has resumed approving refugee cases that are otherwise eligible for refugee resettlement. The travel schedule of these approved cases will be determined by the Department of State so as not to exceed the refugee ceiling set by the current Administration. At this time, USCIS generally will not be regularly conducting refugee interviews in international field offices, or deploying additional circuit rides this quarter other than select, previously scheduled circuit rides. USCIS will coordinate other possible interviews, including urgent humanitarian protection cases, at the request of the Department of State. The previously organized trainings for credible fear will move forward as scheduled.

USCIS, including RAIO headquarters staff, is participating in intra and inter-agency working groups established to implement the Executive Order and field input will be sought as appropriate.

Many of you have expressed interesting in learning more about the ongoing litigation relating to the Executive Order Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States. Oral arguments on whether or not to lift the temporary restraining order took place yesterday before the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals. You can listen to a recording of the oral arguments and find information about the litigation on the 9th Circuit's website:

https://www.ca9.uscourts.gov/content/view.php?pk_id=0000000860

Information about the Executive Orders that impact USCIS can be found on USCIS Connect:

http://connect.uscis.dhs.gov/org/CL/Pages/Presidential-Actions.aspx

And information more specific to RAIO can be found on the RAIO ECN (this site is still a work in process):

http://ecn.uscis.dhs.gov/team/raio/Pages/RAIO.aspx

Finally, I would like to apologize for confusion that arose when all RAIO staff were scheduled for a Town Hall. That was based on a miscommunication error on my part. I had requested an all hands meeting for "Directorate staff," meaning the RAIO Program Chiefs and their staff. In my capacity as acting A/D for RAIO, I plan on holding monthly meetings with my team, just as Maura and I hold monthly all hands meetings with IO HQ staff. This was understood to mean all RAIO staff. Then the cancelation led to some rumors of some other motive. It was pure miscommunication. I am trying hard to get ahead of all rumors and stop them as soon as I hear them. There also has been a bit of miscommunication about a potential Town Hall with Lori Scialabba. We are working to clarify plans with the front office and will provide more info shortly. Things are moving fast and furious here at HQ, so I appreciate everyone's patience when communication mistakes are made. We are truly acting with the best of intentions.

Thank you for the opportunity to review this letter. I have a general comment—it assumes that we will use the Form I-131 to grant advance parole, but I believe that is still an open question and we may want to use the I-192 instead. We just may need to tweak the language to say 'a waiver granted by DHS' or something like that rather than AP, if we do decide on the I-192.

Subject: Time Sensitive - CAM parole applicants booked to travel

Lori and Tracy,

IO and RAD are currently compiling statistics for all of the individuals offered parole under CAM pending checks (approximately 3000). In the meantime, the most urgent issue for your consideration remains what to do about those already booked for travel. In an effort to wind down the program in the most orderly and humane way and in a way that may mitigate anticipated public concern, it is RAIO's recommendation that we allow those already booked to travel to do so. There is a very small number of these individuals – only 78. All are booked to travel next week. Note however, that some of the 110 approved to travel this week, missed their flights due to unforeseen circumstances, and are being rebooked. Given they had permission to travel, we presume they can continue to do so, though it may not be this week.

The qualifying children booked for travel next week were interviewed, found to have a well-founded fear and warrant parole as a matter of discretion. Each qualifying child was granted conditional approval, paid for and cleared their medical and background checks, and booked and paid for their travel. The actual travel authorizations have not yet been issued for this group – they are normally provided 5 days in advance of booked travel.

Of the 78 individuals traveling, 65 are qualifying children, 13 are their accompanying family members (8 in country parents, 5 children of the qualifying child, ages 1-5 years old). For the 65 qualifying children in this group, the US based parents all have TPS.

Only 1 person out of the 78 is scheduled to travel with refugees. The rest are all scheduled to travel alone or with other parolees.

IOM is aware that no further travel should be booked. We have not provided any further guidance to IOM regarding travel next week or the status of the program. If these individuals (and other pending cases) will not be approved for travel we need approved messaging, including the basis for the instruction to not issue travel authorizations for booked travelers. We have drafted some language, which is being reviewed by OCC, that simply indicates we have stopped the program. OCC has expressed concern about stopping the travel, so I think it would be important to meet with them ASAP regarding this issue.

While we have drafted very simple language about stopping the CAM parole program, we need assistance from the Department on how to answer questions we anticipate we will get. Below is a sampling of the types of questions, we believe we will get. We are working on others.

- What is the basis for stopping CAM travel for parolees? Of course the Secretary has the authority to stop a discretionary parole program. The basis is the Executive Order: Border Security and Immigration Enforcement Improvements section 11(d), which says the Secretary shall take appropriate action to ensure parole authority is exercised only on a case by case basis. However, because there is no public document noting that S1 has directed USCIS to stop this program, we have nothing to point to that explains why CAM is being curtailed, but not other parole programs based on a finding that the program itself provides significant public benefit (e.g., HFRP, FWVP and CFRP). When CMPP was stopped, the WH provided us with very specific language about the reason. Would be helpful if we could get the same here.

- Why is travel stopped for CAM parolees but not CAM refugees? Will families where one member was approved as a refugee and one as a parolee be allowed to travel together? We assume that the answer for this would be based on the answer to the question above, and if one family member was approved as a refugee and one as a parolee, only the refugee comes in. However, nothing would preclude the family member from filing a I-131 parole request under the regular program.

- Many of those who received conditional approval have invested significant funds to pay for required medical exams or travel or have sold property. Will these individuals be provided an opportunity to travel at some future date? Proposed response based on what we understand is DHS's position: Not under the CAM program. If they are eligible to apply for other immigration benefits, they can do so as provided by existing law.

Last night we received from DHS two documents to review: a draft of what would be White House guidance on the EO, and a draft of a new DOS visa revocation order. As always we need to get back to them as soon as possible today.

Would appreciate response to this when possible.

Thanks, Phil

Subject: National Interest Waiver Request Options Paper
Attachments: National Interest Options Paper.docx

Follow Up Flag: Follow up
Flag Status: Completed

Attached please find the draft of the options paper for USCIS to process national interest waiver requests for those who are barred from entry. In addition to the attached, there are a few questions that we will need clarity on before implementing. The outstanding policy questions pertaining to the options paper are:

- How will we define what is in the national interest?
- Should we include a justification as to why we should charge a fee for this request?
- Would applicants be eligible for a fee waiver?
- Will we conduct an FBI namecheck on these cases?
- Should we issue an NTA if we deny the request?
- What are the legal implications of requiring someone to file and pay for a travel document when they already have a valid travel document (i.e., a visa)?

I assume we'll maybe want to discuss the paper at tomorrow's meeting, but if you need to forward it to the Department sooner than that, here is what we have as of now.

Have a good night.

Julie

Exception Options

Background: Section 3(c) of Executive Order (EO) 13769 prohibits entry to the United States from nationals of seven identified countries. However, section 3(g) of the EO permits the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security to, "on a case-by-case basis, and when in the national interest, issue visas or other immigration benefits to nationals of countries for which visas and benefits are otherwise blocked." U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) has been asked by the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) to review options to establish a process under section 3(g) by which aliens subject to section 3(c), but already present in the United States in nonimmigrant status with a valid multi-entry nonimmigrant visa, could request the section 3(g) waiver in advance of departure from the United States, thus giving them a reasonable basis to expect that they will be able to travel back to the United States and be admitted, if otherwise admissible. Exception Options

Background: As a result of recent Executive Orders relating to limiting travel to the United States from 7 identified countries, the Department of Homeland Security is in a challenging position to assist individuals that may be stuck in this process.

This proposal specifically applies to the population of individuals, currently in the United States, that came to the US on a valid business or student visa, and still has a current, unexpired visa and passport.

This is a truly unique situation for the Agency. One that we haven't encountered to date, thus, will require something new to be implemented. Essentially, DHS needs to create a process that would allow the individuals stuck in this scenario to apply to the Department prior to leaving the country. This provisional review will ensure that, upon their return to the United States, they will be allowed reentry. The goal being that this new process will provide them with a document that they could present to CBP when they arrive to allow entry.

Hi, Jennifer. Apologies for not sharing our internal EO tracker with you. Please find it attached.

Regarding the DHS tracker, we had two suggested changes:

- The resumption of the USRAP is listed on the tracker (page 19) as March 28, 2017, but we believe this should say May.
- USCIS is listed as the lead to produce recommendations for how state and locals may have greater involvement in the resettlement process (page 20). We respectfully request that DHS IGA take the lead.

For the outstanding policy questions/issues, they are as follows (attached as well):

- Should USCIS move forward with denying cases on hold awaiting TRIG exemptions since it appears that exemptions are unlikely now?
- Should USCIS place all TRIG exemption determinations on hold?
- I-730s: Does the guidance apply to both asylees and refugees who are outside the country? The asylees do not count against the refugee ceiling and are not admitted as refugees (they are admitted as asylees). They are not issued visas, just boarding foils.
    - Does DHS consider asylees as refugees?
    - Does the I-730 guidance apply to all counties, or only the 7?
    - Can USCIS continue to process following-to-join (I-730) applications for asylee family members from countries not on the list of 7 (e.g., China)? State's guidance to consular officers is to continue processing those. We have not issued any yet.
- How will the NTA policy be impacted by the EO? Should we stop the naturalization NTA panels until further guidance is issued?
- How do we define "national interest" when it comes to admitting/paroling individuals? (Section 3g of EO#3)

USCIS is working on a briefing paper related to the TRIG questions. We currently have approximately 1,200 TRIG cases on hold.

If you need anything additional, please let us know.

We are double checking on whether the interviews can go forward of religious minorities under the TRO but understand none would happen til Monday. We will get back to you with our best advice. I think we can safely say: no efforts to prioritize religious minorities on RAIO's part.

The small # of refugee interviews that have been in progress remain in progress (or resume Monday): Vienna for RAD and (I believe) Indonesia for IO. RAD is making plans to get a team to Nauru -- not religious minorities -- for later Feb. After that, we'll need to talk w/PRM on Monday about what circuit rides they want to get back in motion.

In terms of refugees traveling, PRM is working on that w/IOM. It would be very hard to prioritize religious minorities in this process even if they tried: what will get "prioritized" is those cases that are most travel-ready -- i.e., all security checks, medical clearance, exit permits, etc. If they "prioritize" anyone, I expect that it would be medical cases, kids rejoining parents,, and unaccompanied minors, if they are travel-ready.

Thanks. Adding RAD and Maura.

Would be most helpful if we could get that word to our staff as soon as tomorrow morning. Please keep in mind that our office in Amman is open Sunday. The message would basically be business as usual.

I also just got off the phone with Larry Bartlett. State understands that they are ordered to resume the refugee admission program. Tomorrow they will begin working with IOM to identify individuals ready to travel and what needs to be done. They recognize that DOJ likely will challenge the order and, should the Injunction be removed, they may again have people in transit. So they would need to seek waivers.

Consular is working on "unfreezing" the visas that were frozen. Apparently, they were not revoked, but frozen. I am not familiar with those terms, but they were the ones Larry used.

I think USCIS needs to issue similar guidance. Should we send you something or should it be handled another way. I still believe RAIO is the most impacted.

Subject: URGENT TIME SENSTIIVE: Proposed Language for CAM parolees

Here is our proposed language, based on what we understand the current thinking to be. Is this your understanding of the decision and can we message this as noted below? We have people scheduled to travel on Monday. IOM has booked and the beneficiaries have paid for their travel. Please note that approximately 190 people have booked travel. Of those, only one individual would be traveling with a refugee family member. [note, our numbers are from IOM, so we may be off a bit, but this is close]

SUSPENSION OF TRAVEL FOR INDIVIDUALS GRANTED PAROLE UNDER THE CENTRAL AMERICAN MINORS REFUGEE/PAROLE PROGRAM (CAM)

On January 27, 2017, President Donald J. Trump signed an Executive Order, "Protecting the Nation From Terrorist Entry into the United States" that called for an immediate suspension of the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program (USRAP) for 120 days. In light of this temporary suspension, USCIS will also be pausing travel to the United States for all individuals granted parole under the Central American Minors Refugee/Parole Program. USCIS will act as follows:

- During this suspension, an applicant whose parole request has been approved by USCIS will be permitted to travel with any refugee family member who is permitted to travel pursuant to an exemption.
- The travel for all other individuals who were granted parole by USCIS under this program will be suspended until the U.S. Refugee Admission Program resumes for this population.

I also checked with CSPED, and if you are asked by members of the public if we are operating "business as usual," we can respond affirmatively. Memorandum

TO: All USCIS Employees

FROM: Lori L. Scialabba
Acting Director

SUBJECT: Guidance Concerning Executive Order on Immigration

On January 27, President Trump signed an Executive Order entitled "Protecting The Nation From Foreign Terrorist Entry Into The United States." This memorandum provides guidance from the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) regarding the impact of this Executive Order on various immigration benefit requests.

All USCIS employees should be aware of current guidance from DHS, specifically:

1. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order does not affect USCIS adjudication of applications and petitions filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States regardless of their country of nationality. Section 3(c) also does not affect applications and petitions by lawful permanent residents outside the United States, or applications and petitions for individuals outside the United States whose approval does not directly confer travel authorization (including any immigrant or nonimmigrant visa petition). This includes, but is not limited to, the matters discussed more specifically in paragraphs 2, 3 and 5 below.

2. Applications to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status (Form I-485) may continue to be adjudicated, according to existing policies and procedures, for applicants who are nationals of countries designated in the Executive Order.

3. USCIS will adjudicate Refugee/Asylee Relative Petitions (Form I-730) for all beneficiaries, from any country of nationality, currently in the United States according to existing policies and procedures. Further guidance will be issued with respect to beneficiaries currently outside of the United States.

4. USCIS will continue refugee interviews when the person is a religious minority in his or her country of nationality facing religious persecution. Additionally, USCIS will continue refugee interviews in jurisdictions where there is a preexisting international agreement related to refugee processing. USCIS will not approve a refugee application for an individual who we determine would pose a risk to the security or welfare of the United States.

5. USCIS will continue adjudicating all affirmative asylum cases according to existing policies and procedures.

Questions concerning the information contained in this memorandum may be addressed via your directorate or program office through appropriate supervisory channels.

Here is our proposed language, based on what we understand the current thinking to be. Is this your understanding of the decision and can we message this as noted below? We have people scheduled to travel on Monday. IOM has booked and the beneficiaries have paid for their travel. Please note that approximately 190 people have booked travel. Of those, only one individual would be traveling with a refugee family member. [note, our numbers are from IOM, so we may be off a bit, but this is close]

SUSPENSION OF TRAVEL FOR INDIVIDUALS GRANTED PAROLE UNDER THE CENTRAL AMERICAN MINORS REFUGEE/PAROLE PROGRAM (CAM)

On January 27, 2017, President Donald J. Trump signed an Executive Order, "Protecting the Nation From Terrorist Entry into the United States" that called for an immediate suspension of the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program (USRAP) for 120 days. In light of this temporary suspension, USCIS will also be pausing travel to the United States for all individuals granted parole under the Central American Minors Refugee/Parole Program. USCIS will act as follows:

- During this suspension, an applicant whose parole request has been approved by USCIS will be permitted to travel with any refugee family member who is permitted to travel pursuant to an exemption.
- The travel for all other individuals who were granted parole by USCIS under this program will be suspended until the U.S. Refugee Admission Program resumes for this population.

Subject: Putative Class Action Challenging CARRP and the 1-27 EO: Wagafe v. USCIS

Dear Lori, Matt and Dan,

I wanted to alert you to a new filing against USCIS (attached). The case is pled as a national class action and is the first case that merges an attack on the 1-27 EO with an attack on CARRP. The case is filed in Seattle in the Western District of Washington. Currently there are two named plaintiffs, and we are tracking down who they are and what we have in our systems. We will work with our field attorneys, FOD and FDNS to coordinate our response. The case was originally filed before the release of the EO (filing date Jan. 23), but was quickly amended to include a challenge to the EO along with a challenge to CARRP on Feb. 1. DOJ notified us about the case last night. We have not yet confirmed service of either the original or the amended complaint. The plaintiffs have not yet filed a motion to certify the class(es).

The plaintiffs' representatives include NWIRP, national ACLU and several local chapters of the ACLU, the National Lawyers Guild and other advocacy groups involved in the national litigation against the EO.

Chris Dempsey's new team at OIL DCS has the lead on the case for DOJ. Two trial attorneys on the team, Aaron Petty and Ed White will be handling the case.

We have reported the case up to DHS OGC. Because there is no preliminary relief requested, we are still providing support on the responses to the more exigent EO cases currently pending, and we will meet with OIL DCS early next week to refine our approach to the case. In preparation, we will identify the individuals, what records we hold about them, and the location of pending adjudications and files.

Please don't hesitate to contact me if you have any questions or concerns. Caitlin Miller and Yoel Malashock on my team will, at present, have the lead on this case for OCC.

Evan

INTRODUCTION

1. This class action lawsuit seeks to stop the federal government from unconstitutionally preventing Plaintiffs, and others like them, from obtaining immigration benefits, including, but not limited to, asylum, naturalization, lawful permanent residence, and employment authorization.

2. On January 27, 2017, President Trump issued an Executive Order entitled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States."

3. Section 3 of the Executive Order suspends entry into the United States of citizens or nationals of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Yemen, Somalia, Sudan, and Libya, all of which are predominantly Muslim countries, for 90 days or more. Although the Executive Order says nothing about suspending adjudications, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service ("USCIS") has determined that the Executive Order requires it to suspend adjudication or final action on all pending petitions, applications, or requests involving citizens or nationals of those seven countries with the exception of naturalization applications.

4. Section 4 of the Executive Order further directs federal agencies to create and implement a policy of extreme vetting of all immigration benefits applications to identify individuals who are seeking to enter the country based on fraud and with the intent to cause harm or who are at risk of causing harm after admission. Any such "extreme vetting" policy will expand a current USCIS program called the Controlled Application Review and Resolution Program ("CARRP"). CARRP imposes extra-statutory rules and criteria to delay and deny immigration benefits to which applicants are entitled.

5. Plaintiff Abdiqafar Wagafe is a Somali national who has applied for and is eligible to naturalize as a United States citizen. He has been waiting three and a half years for a decision on his naturalization application.

6. Plaintiff Mehdi Ostadhassan is an Iranian national who has applied for and is eligible to adjust his status to that of a permanent resident. He has waited three years for a decision on his adjustment of status application.

7. Both Plaintiffs are practicing Muslims and long-term residents of the United States. Adjudication of Plaintiff Ostadhassan's application is now suspended. This suspension, as well as the inordinate delays both he and Plaintiff Wagafe have faced, have held and will hold the lives of Plaintiffs, and others like them, in a state of limbo. They are prevented from having certainty about their future residence in the United States, from being able to travel overseas, from petitioning for immigration benefits for family members, from obtaining jobs available only to U.S. citizens, and from voting in U.S. elections.

Telephone (206) 957-8611

8. On behalf of themselves, and others similarly situated, Plaintiffs request that this Court order USCIS to resume adjudications of immigration benefits applications for citizens or nationals of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Yemen, Somalia, Sudan, and Libya. They also seek to enjoin the federal government from subjecting them and others like them—immigrants who are living in the United States and who are applying for naturalization or adjustment of status as permanent residents—to any "extreme vetting" and screening program that imposes unlawful criteria for adjudication and approval of their applications and that is ultra vires to the Constitution and immigration laws and is based on unconstitutional animus towards people of the Muslim faith or from Muslim-majority countries.

9. The Executive Order and application of CARRP[1] to pending immigration applications are unlawful and unconstitutional. The Executive Order reflects a preference for one religious faith over another in the adjudication of immigration applications, and, inter alia, discriminates against immigrants who are Muslim or from Muslim-majority countries on the basis of their religion and country of origin. CARRP and the "extreme vetting" program to be established under the Executive Order are similarly unlawful and ultra vires. The Constitution expressly assigns to Congress, not the executive branch, the authority to establish uniform rules of naturalization. The Immigration and Nationality Act ("INA") sets forth those rules, along with the requirements for adjustment of status to lawful permanent residence, asylum, and all other immigration benefits. By creating additional, non-statutory, substantive criteria for adjudicating immigration applications, CARRP and any successor "extreme vetting" program violate the INA, Article I of the Constitution, and the Due Process Clause.

10. Without intervention by this Court, the applications of Plaintiff Ostadhassan and proposed class members will be unlawfully suspended due to the application of the Executive Order, and adjudications

[1] As set forth below in paragraph 70, USCIS did not make information about CARRP public, and the program only was discovered through fortuity during federal court litigation. To the extent the program has shifted in name, scope, or method, Plaintiffs may have no way to obtain that information. Thus, Plaintiffs' reference to "CARRP" incorporates any similar non-statutory and sub-regulatory successor vetting policy.

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

of both Plaintiff's and proposed class members' applications will be unlawfully subject to, and adjudicated under, CARRP or a successor "extreme vetting" program.

11. Plaintiffs therefore request that the Court order USCIS to resume adjudications of immigration benefits applications for citizens and nationals of the seven countries identified in the Executive Order and enjoin USCIS from applying CARRP (or any similar ultra vires policy/successor "extreme vetting" program) to their immigration applications and the applications of similarly situated individuals.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

12. Plaintiffs allege violations of the INA, the Administrative Procedure Act ("APA"), and the U.S. Constitution. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1331. This Court also has authority to grant declaratory relief under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202, and injunctive relief under 5 U.S.C. § 702 and 28 U.S.C. § 1361.

13. Venue is proper in the Western District of Washington under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(b) and 1391(e) because (1) Plaintiff Abdiqafar Wagafe, a lawful permanent resident of the United States, resides in this district and no real property is involved in this action; (2) a substantial part of the events giving rise to the claims occurred in this district; and (3) Plaintiffs sue Defendants in their official capacity as officers of the United States.

PARTIES

14. Plaintiff Abdiqafar Wagafe is a thirty-two-year-old Somali national and a lawful permanent resident of the United States. He has lived in the United States since May 2007 and currently resides in SeaTac, Washington. He is Muslim. He applied for naturalization in November 2013. Even though he satisfies all statutory criteria for naturalization, USCIS has subjected his application to CARRP or its successor "extreme vetting" program, and as a result, a final decision has not been issued.

15. Plaintiff Mehdi Ostadhassan is a thirty-three-year-old national of Iran. He has lived in the United States since 2009 and resides in Grand Forks, North Dakota. He applied for adjustment to lawful permanent resident status in February 2014. He is Muslim. Even though he satisfies all statutory criteria for adjustment of status, USCIS has suspended adjudication of his application under the Executive Order and subjected his application to CARRP or its successor "extreme vetting" program,

Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

and as a result, a final decision has not been issued.

16. Defendant Donald Trump is the President of the United States. Plaintiffs sue Defendant Trump in his official capacity.

17. Defendant USCIS is a component of the Department of Homeland Security ("DHS"), and is responsible for overseeing the adjudication of immigration benefits. USCIS implements federal law and policy with respect to immigration benefits applications.

18. Defendant John F. Kelly is the Secretary of DHS, the department under which USCIS and several other immigration agencies operate. Accordingly, Secretary Kelly has supervisory responsibility over USCIS. Plaintiffs sue Defendant Kelly in his official capacity.

19. Defendant Lori Scialabba is the Acting Director of USCIS. Acting Director Scialabba establishes and implements immigration benefits applications policy for USCIS and its subdivisions. Plaintiffs sue Defendant Scialabba in her official capacity.

20. Defendant Matthew D. Emrich is the Associate Director of the Fraud Detection and National Security Directorate of USCIS ("FDNS"), which is ultimately responsible for determining whether individuals filing applications for immigration benefits pose a threat to national security, public safety, or the integrity of the nation's legal immigration system. Associate Director Emrich establishes and implements policy for FDNS. Plaintiffs sue Defendant Emrich in his official capacity.

21. Defendant Daniel Renaud is the Associate Director of the Field Operations Directorate of USCIS, which is responsible for and oversees the processing and adjudication of immigration benefits applications through the USCIS field offices and the National Benefits Center. Plaintiffs sue Defendant Renaud in his official capacity.

LEGAL FRAMEWORK

A. Naturalization

22. To naturalize as a U.S. citizen, an applicant must satisfy certain eligibility criteria under the INA and its implementing regulations. See generally 8 U.S.C. §§ 1421-1458; 8 C.F.R. §§ 316.1-316.14.

23. Applicants must prove that they are "at least 18 years of age," 8 C.F.R. § 316.2(a)(1); have "resided continuously, after being lawfully admitted" in the United States, "for at least five years"; and have been "physically present" in the United States for "at least half of that time," 8 U.S.C.

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

§ 1427(a)(1).

24. Applicants must also demonstrate "good moral character" for the five years preceding the date of application, "attach[ment] to the principles of the Constitution of the United States, and favorabl[e] dispos[ition] toward the good order and happiness of the United States . . . ." 8 C.F.R. § 316.2(a)(7).

25. An applicant is presumed to possess the requisite "good moral character" for naturalization unless, during the five years preceding the date of the application, he or she is found (1) to be a habitual drunkard, (2) to have committed certain drug-related offenses, (3) to be a gambler whose income derives principally from gambling or has been convicted of two or more gambling offenses, (4) to have given false testimony for the purpose of obtaining immigration benefits; or if the applicant (5) has been convicted and confined to a penal institution for an aggregate period of 180 days or more, (6) has been convicted of an aggravated felony, or (7) has engaged in conduct such as aiding Nazi persecution or participating in genocide, torture, or extrajudicial killings. 8 U.S.C. § 1101(f)(6).

26. The statutory and regulatory requirements set forth in paragraphs 23-24 are less stringent for certain persons who married U.S. citizens and employees of certain nonprofit organizations, in that less than five years of residency and good moral character are required. See generally 8 U.S.C. § 1430; 8 C.F.R. §§ 319.1 and 319.4.

27. An applicant is barred from naturalization for national security-related reasons in circumstances limited to those codified in 8 U.S.C. § 1424, including, inter alia, if the applicant has advocated, is affiliated with any organization that advocates, or writes or distributes information that advocates, "the overthrow by force or violence or other unconstitutional means of the Government of the United States," the "duty, necessity, or propriety of the unlawful assaulting or killing of any officer . . . of the Government of the United States," or "the unlawful damage, injury, or destruction of property."

28. Once an individual submits an application, USCIS must conduct a background investigation, see 8 U.S.C. § 1446(a); 8 C.F.R. § 335.1, which includes a full criminal background check by the Federal Bureau of Investigation ("FBI"), see 8 C.F.R. § 335.2.

29. After completing the background investigation, USCIS must schedule a naturalization examination at which the applicant meets with a USCIS examiner for an interview.

30. In order to avoid inordinate processing delays and backlogs, Congress has stated "that the

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT

Telephone (206) 957-8611

processing of an immigration benefit application," which includes naturalization, "should be completed not later than 180 days after the initial filing of the application." 8 U.S.C. § 1571(b). USCIS must either grant or deny a naturalization application within 120 days of the date of the examination. 8 C.F.R. § 335.3.

31. If the applicant has complied with all requirements for naturalization, federal regulations state that USCIS "shall grant the application." 8 C.F.R. § 335.3(a) (emphasis added).

32. Courts have long recognized that "Congress is given power by the Constitution to establish a uniform Rule of Naturalization. . . . And when it establishes such uniform rule, those who come within its provisions are entitled to the benefit thereof as a matter of right. . . ." Schwab v. Coleman, 145 F.2d 672, 676 (4th Cir. 1944) (emphasis added); see also Marcantonio v. United States, 185 F.2d 934, 937 (4th Cir. 1950) ("The opportunity having been conferred by the Naturalization Act, there is a statutory right in the alien to submit his petition and evidence to a court, to have that tribunal pass upon them, and, if the requisite facts are established, to receive the certificate." (quoting Tutun v. United States, 270 U.S. 568, 578 (1926))).

33. Once an application is granted, the applicant is sworn in as a United States citizen.

B. Adjustment of Status to Lawful Permanent Resident

34. Federal law allows certain non-citizens to adjust their immigration status to that of a lawful permanent resident ("LPR").

35. Several events may trigger eligibility to adjust to LPR status, including, but not limited to, an approved petition through a family member, such as a U.S. citizen spouse, or employer. See, e.g., 8 U.S.C. § 1255(a); 8 C.F.R. § 245.1.

36. In general, a noncitizen who is the beneficiary of an approved immigrant visa petition and who is physically present in the United States may adjust to LPR status if he or she "makes an application for such adjustment," was "inspected and admitted or paroled" into the United States, is eligible for an immigrant visa and admissible to the United States, and the immigrant visa is immediately available to the applicant at the time the application is filed. 8 U.S.C. §§ 1255(a)(1)-(3); 8 C.F.R. § 245.1.

37. An adjustment applicant may be found inadmissible, and therefore ineligible to become an LPR, if certain security-related grounds apply, including, inter alia, the applicant has engaged in terrorist activity, is a representative or member of a terrorist organization, endorses or espouses terrorist activity, or incites terrorist activity. See 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(3). USCIS's definition of a national security concern in CARRP is significantly broader than these security-related grounds of inadmissibility set by Congress.

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400

38. Congress has directed USCIS to process immigration benefit applications, including for adjustment of status, within 180 days. 8 U.S.C. § 1571(b).

C. Other Immigration Benefits

39. Federal laws provide noncitizens living within the United States the opportunity to apply for a myriad of other immigration benefits apart from either naturalization or adjustment of status.

40. For example, persons fleeing persecution or torture may apply for asylum under 8 U.S.C. § 1158, or withholding of removal, under 8 U.S.C. § 1231(b)(3). Victims of certain crimes and trafficking who have suffered serious harm and who have cooperated with law enforcement may apply for nonimmigrant visas under 8 U.S.C. §§ 1101(a)(15)(T), (U). Certain noncitizens from designated countries may apply for Temporary Protected Status ("TPS") in the event of, inter alia, a natural disaster or political upheaval in their country of origin. 8 U.S.C. § 1254a. In addition, a significant number of noncitizens within the United States are eligible for employment authorization based on either their current immigration status, their employment status, or their temporary immigration status, including while other applications for immigration benefits are pending. See generally 8 C.F.R. § 274.12a(a)-(c).

41. Every immigration benefit has enumerated statutory and/or regulatory requirements that applicants must affirmatively establish to demonstrate eligibility. In addition, each applicant generally must show that they are admissible under 8 U.S.C. § 1182 and/or are that any past immigration violation or criminal conduct does not disqualify them for the benefit sought. See, e.g., 8 U.S.C., §§ 1158(b)(2) (precluding asylum eligibility to individuals found to have persecuted others, to have been convicted of "a particularly serious crime," or to present a danger to national security); 1231(b)(3)(B) (precluding applicants from receiving withholding of removal based on national security grounds); 1254a(c)(2)(B)(i) (precluding applicants from qualifying for TPS if they have been convicted of a felony or two or more misdemeanors).

A. Executive Order of January 27, 2017

42. President Donald Trump campaigned for election on promises to ban Muslims from coming to the United States.

43. On December 7, 2015, the Trump campaign issued a press release stating that "Donald J. Trump is calling for a total and complete shutdown of Muslims entering the United States until our country's representatives can figure out what is going on." The press release is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

44. In March 2016, Defendant Trump said, "Frankly, look, we're having problems with the Muslims, and we're having problems with Muslims coming into the country." Alex Griswold, Trump Responds to Brussels Attacks: 'We're Having Problems with the Muslims,' MEDIAITE, Mar. 22, 2016, available at http://www.mediaite.com/tv/trump-responds-to-brussels-attack-were-having-problems-with-the-muslims/ (last visited: Feb. 1, 2017).

45. On June 14, 2016, Defendant Trump promised to ban all Muslims entering this country until "we as a nation are in a position to properly and perfectly screen those people coming into our country." The transcript of his speech is attached hereto as Exhibit B.

46. In a speech on August 15, 2016, Defendant Trump said that the United States could not "adequate[ly] screen[]" immigrants because it admits "about 100,000 permanent immigrants from the Middle East every year." Defendant Trump proposed creating an ideological screening test for immigration applicants, which would "screen out any who have hostile attitudes towards our country or its principles—or who believe that Sharia law should supplant American law." During the speech, he referred to his proposal as "extreme, extreme vetting." A copy of his prepared remarks are attached hereto as Exhibit C. A video link to the delivered speech is available at: https://www.c-span.org/video/?413977-1/donald-trump-delivers-foreign-policy-address (quoted remarks at 50:46).

47. During an August 2016 speech, Michael Flynn, who is now President Trump's National Security Advisor, called Islam "a political ideology," suggesting it is not a religion, and called it "a vicious cancer inside the body of 1.7 billion people on this planet and it has to be excised." A copy of a news article reporting this speech is attached hereto as Exhibit D. A video link with clips of his speech is available at: http://www.cnn.com/2016/11/22/politics/kfile-michael-flynn-august-speech/.

48. On January 20, 2017, Donald Trump was inaugurated as the President of the United States.

Telephone (206) 957-8611

49. In his first television appearance as President, he again referred to his plan for "extreme vetting." The transcript of this interview is attached hereto as Exhibit E.

50. On January 27, 2017, one week after taking office, Defendant Trump signed an executive order entitled, "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States." The Executive Order is attached hereto as Exhibit F and is hereinafter referred to as the "EO." On information and belief, and in light of the statements by Mr. Trump and his advisors set forth above, the EO was intended to target Muslims.

51. Citing the threat of terrorism committed by foreign nationals, the EO directs a variety of changes to the processing of certain immigration benefits. Most relevant to the instant action is Section 3 of the EO, which falls within a section entitled "Suspension of Issuance of Visas and Other Immigration Benefits," in which President Trump orders, in Section 3(a), an immediate "review to determine the information needed from any country to adjudicate any visa, admission, or other benefit under the INA (adjudications) in order to determine that the individual seeking the benefit is who the individual claims to be and is not a security or public-safety threat." In Section 3(c), the order then explains that to reduce the burden of the reviews described in Section 3(a), "immigrant and nonimmigrant entry into the United States of aliens from countries referred to in section 217(a)(12) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1187(a)(12), would be detrimental to the interests of the United States," and that Defendant Trump is therefore "suspend[ing] entry into the United States, as immigrants and nonimmigrants, of such persons for 90 days from the date of this order."

52. There are seven countries that fit the criteria in 8 U.S.C. § 1187(a)(12): Iraq, Iran, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, and Yemen. The populations of those countries are overwhelmingly Muslim.

53. The EO purports to rely on 8 U.S.C. § 1182(f) for the authority to suspend entry into the United States.

54. On information and belief, USCIS relies on Section 3 of the EO to suspend processing immigrant visas and immigration benefits.

55. Section 4 of the EO orders the creation of a screening program for all immigration benefits applications, which will seek to identify individuals "who are seeking to enter the United States on a fraudulent basis with the intent to cause harm, or who are at risk of causing harm subsequent to their admission" and "a process to evaluate the applicant's likelihood of becoming a positively contributing member of society and the applicant's ability to make contributions to the national interest."

56. Sections 5(a) and (b) of the EO suspends the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program in its entirety for 120 days and then, upon its resumption, directs the program to prioritize refugees who claim persecution on the basis of religious-based persecution, "provided that the religion of the individual is a minority religion in the individual's country of nationality." Section 5(e) states that notwithstanding the suspension of the Refugee Program, on a case-by-case basis, the United States may admit refugees "only so long as they determine that the admission of such individuals as refugees is in the national interest—including when the person is a religious minority in his country of nationality facing religious persecution."

57. In a January 27, 2017, interview with the Christian Broadcasting Network, President Trump confirmed his intent to prioritize Christians in the Middle East for admission as refugees. A copy of the report of this interview is attached hereto as Exhibit G (David Brody: "As it relates to persecuted Christians, do you see them as kind of a priority here?" President Trump: "Yes.").

B. Ban on the Adjudication of Immigration Benefits Applications for Immigrants from the Seven Countries

58. After the issuance of the EO, at least two department heads within USCIS sent internal communications barring any final action on any petition or benefits application involving citizens or nationals of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya.

59. On January 28, 2017, Associate Director of Service Center Operations for USCIS, Donald Neufeld, issued instructions to Service Center directors and deputies in an email message directing the suspension of the "adjudication of all applications, petitions or requests involving citizens or nationals of the [seven] listed countries." The email continues, "At this point there are no exceptions for any form types, to include I-90s or I-765s. Please physically segregate any files that are impacted by this temporary hold pending further guidance." Photographs of the internal email communication are attached hereto as Exhibit H.

60. In another email to staff from Daniel M. Renaud, Associate Director of Field Operations for USCIS, on January 28, 2017, Mr. Renaud stated, "Effectively [sic] immediately and until additional guidance is received, you may not take final action on any petition or application where the applicant is a citizen or national of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya." Alice Speri and Ryan Devereaux, Turmoil at DHS and State Department, THE INTERCEPT, Jan. 30, 2017, available at https://theintercept.com/2017/01/30/asylum-officials-and-state-department-in-turmoil-there-are-people-literally-crying-in-the-office-here/. The email continued, "Offices are not permitted [to] make any final decision on affected cases to include approval, denial, withdrawal, or revocation. Please look for additional guidance later this weekend on how to process naturalization applicants from one of the seven countries listed above who are currently scheduled for oath ceremony or whose N-400s have been approved and they are pending scheduling of oath ceremony." Id.; see also Michael D. Shear and Ron Nixon, How Trump's Rush to Enact an Immigration Ban Unleashed Global Chaos, NEW YORK TIMES (Jan. 29, 2017), available at https://www.nytimes.com/2017/01/29/us/politics/donald-trump-rush-immigration-order-chaos.html.

61. On January 31, 2017, U.S. Customs and Border Protection, a subdivision of DHS, published a clarification on its website regarding whether the EO applies to people with pending naturalization applications. The site reported that the EO does not so apply and that "USCIS will continue to adjudicate N-400 applications for naturalization and administer the oath of citizenship consistent with prior practices." Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States, CBP, https://www.cbp.gov/border-security/protecting-nation-foreign-terrorist-entry-united-states.

62. Referencing the hold on adjudications for people from the seven countries, a USCIS official told The Intercept, "We know what is coming. These cases will all be denied after significant waits." Alice Speri and Ryan Devereaux, Turmoil at DHS and State Department, THE INTERCEPT, Jan. 30, 2017.

63. The application of the EO to immigration benefits applications for immigrants from the seven countries will effectuate the intent of the EO to target Muslims.

C. "Extreme Vetting" of Muslim Immigrants

64. As described above, Section 4 of the EO orders the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Homeland Security, the Director of National Intelligence, and the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to "implement a program, as part of the adjudication process for immigration benefits" to identify individuals "who are at risk of causing harm." The EO calls for the implementation of a

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT

Telephone (206) 957-8611

"program [that] will include the development of a uniform screening standard and procedure," including "a process to evaluate the applicant's likelihood of becoming a positively contributing member of society and the applicant's ability to make contributions to the national interest," as well as "a mechanism to assess whether or not the applicant has the intent to commit criminal or terrorist acts after entering the United States."

65. Upon information and belief, this "extreme vetting" program will dramatically expand CARRP, an existing program USCIS has implemented since April 2008.

66. CARRP is an agency-wide policy for identifying, processing, and adjudicating immigration applications that raise "national security concerns." As described below, however, CARRP unlawfully imposes extra statutory rules and criteria to delay and deny applicants immigration benefits to which they are entitled.

67. Congress did not enact CARRP, and USCIS did not promulgate it as a proposed rule with the notice-and-comment procedures mandated by the APA. See 5 U.S.C. § 553(b)-(c).

68. Upon information and belief, prior to CARRP's enactment, USCIS simply delayed the adjudication of many immigration applications that raised possible national security concerns, in part due to backlogs created by the FBI Name Check process (one of many security checks utilized by USCIS).

69. Indeed, the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Washington previously certified a district class of hundreds of naturalization applicants whose cases were delayed due to FBI Name Checks, see Roshandel v. Chertoff, 554 F. Supp. 2d 1194 (W.D. Wash. 2008), and denied the defendants' motion to dismiss the suit, see Roshandel, 2008 WL 1969646 (W.D. Wash. May 5, 2008). The case resulted in a settlement in which the defendants agreed to adjudicate class member applications within a specified time period. See Roshandel, No. C07-1739MJP, Dkt. 81 (W.D. Wash. Aug. 25, 2008).

70. Now, in lieu of delays based on the FBI Name Check process, USCIS delays applications by applying CARRP. Since CARRP's inception, USCIS has not made information about CARRP available to the public, except in response to Freedom of Information Act ("FOIA") requests and litigation to compel responses to those requests. See ACLU of Southern California v. USCIS, No. CV 13-861

(D.D.C. filed June 7, 2013). In fact, the program was unknown to the public, including applicants for immigration benefits, until it was discovered in litigation challenging an unlawful denial of naturalization in Hamdi v. USCIS, No. EDCV 10-894 VAP (DTBx), 2012 WL 632397 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 25, 2012), and then revealed in greater detail through the government's response to a FOIA request.

71. CARRP directs USCIS officers to screen citizenship and immigration benefits applications for national security concerns.

72. If a USCIS officer determines that an application presents a national security concern, he or she will take the application off a routine adjudication track and—without notifying the applicant—place it on a CARRP adjudication track where it is subject to distinct procedures, heightened scrutiny, and, most importantly, extra-statutory criteria that result in lengthy delays and prohibit approvals, except in limited circumstances, regardless of an applicant's statutory eligibility.

1. CARRP's Definition of a National Security Concern

73. According to the CARRP definition, a national security concern arises when an individual or organization has been determined to have an articulable link—no matter how attenuated or unsubstantiated—to prior, current, or planned involvement in, or association with, an activity, individual, or organization described in sections 212(a)(3)(A), (B), or (F), or 237(a)(4)(A) or (B) of the Immigration and Nationality Act. Those sections of the INA make inadmissible or removable any individual who, inter alia, "has engaged in terrorist activity" or is a member of a "terrorist organization." 8 U.S.C. §§ 1182(a)(3) and 1227(a)(4).

74. For the reasons described herein, an individual need not be actually suspected of engaging in any unlawful activity or joining any proscribed organization to be branded a national security concern under CARRP.

75. CARRP distinguishes between two types of national security concerns: those ostensibly involving "Known or Suspected Terrorists" ("KSTs"), and those ostensibly involving "non-Known or Suspected Terrorists" ("non-KSTs").

76. USCIS automatically considers an applicant a KST, and thus a national security concern, if his or her name appears in the Terrorist Screening Database, also referred to as the Terrorist Watchlist ("TSDB" or "Watchlist"). USCIS, therefore, applies CARRP to any applicant whose name appears in

615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

the TSDB.

77. Upon information and belief, the TSDB includes approximately one million names, many of whom present no threat to the United States.

78. The government's Watchlisting Guidance sets a very low "reasonable suspicion" standard for placement on the Watchlist. Under the Guidance, concrete facts are not necessary to satisfy the reasonable suspicion standard, and uncorroborated information of questionable or even doubtful reliability can serve as the basis for blacklisting an individual. The Guidance further reveals that the government blacklists non-U.S. citizens, including LPRs, even where it cannot meet the already low reasonable suspicion standard of purported involvement with terrorist activity. The Guidance permits the watchlisting of noncitizens simply for being associated with someone else who has been watchlisted, even if there is no known involvement with that person's purportedly suspicious activity. The Guidance also states explicitly that noncitizens may be watchlisted based on information that is very limited or of suspected reliability. These extremely loose standards significantly increase the likelihood that the TSDB contains information on individuals who are neither known nor appropriately suspected terrorists.

79. Furthermore, the Terrorist Screening Center ("TSC"), which maintains the TSDB, has failed to ensure that individuals who do not meet the Watchlist's criteria are promptly removed from the TSDB (or not blacklisted in the first place). In 2013 alone, the watchlisting community nominated 468,749 individuals to the TSDB, and the TSC rejected only approximately one percent of those nominations. Public reports also confirm that the government has nominated or retained people on government watchlists as a result of human error.

80. The federal government's official policy is to refuse to confirm or deny any given individual's inclusion in the TSDB or provide a meaningful opportunity to challenge that inclusion. Nevertheless, individuals can become aware of their inclusion due to air travel experiences. In particular, individuals may learn that they are on the "Selectee List" or the "Expanded Selectee List," subsets of the TSDB, if their boarding passes routinely display the code "SSSS" or they are routinely directed for additional screening before boarding a flight over U.S. airspace. They may also learn of their inclusion in the TSDB if U.S. federal agents regularly subject them to secondary inspection when they enter the United States from abroad. Such individuals are also often unable to check-in for flights online or at airline electronic kiosks at the airport.

81. Where the KST designation does not apply, CARRP instructs officers to look for indicators of a non-Known or Suspected Terrorist ("non-KST") concern.

82. These indicators fall into three categories: (1) statutory indicators; (2) non-statutory indicators; and (3) indicators contained in security check results.

83. Statutory indicators of a national security concern arise when an individual generally meets the definitions described in Sections 212(a)(3)(A), (B), and (F), and 237(a)(4)(A) and (B) of the INA (codified at 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(3)(A), (B), and (F) and § 1227(a)(4)(A) and (B)), which list the security and terrorism grounds of inadmissibility and removability.[2] However, CARRP expressly defines statutory indicators of a national security concern more broadly than the statute, stating that the facts of the case do not need to satisfy the legal standard used in determining admissibility or removability under those provisions of the INA to give rise to a non-KST national security concern.

84. For example, CARRP policy specifically directs USCIS officers to scrutinize evidence of charitable donations to organizations later designated as financiers of terrorism by the U.S. Treasury Department and to construe such donations as evidence of a national security concern, even if an individual had made such donations without any knowledge that the organization was engaged in proscribed activity. Such conduct would not make an applicant inadmissible for a visa, asylum, or LPR status under the statute, see 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(3)(B), nor does it have any bearing on a naturalization application.

85. Under CARRP, non-statutory indicators of a national security concern include travel through or residence in areas of known terrorist activity; a large scale transfer or receipt of funds; a person's employment, training, or government affiliations; the identities of a person's family members or close associates, such as a roommate, co-worker, employee, owner, partner, affiliate, or friend; or simply other

[2] These security and terrorism grounds of inadmissibility, if applicable, may bar an applicant from obtaining lawful permanent resident status, asylum, or a visa. However, they do not bar an applicant who is already a lawful permanent resident from naturalization, which is governed by the statutory provisions specific to naturalization. See 8 U.S.C. §§ 1421-1458. The security and terrorism provisions may also render a non-citizen removable, see 8 U.S.C. § 1227(a)(4), but the government has not charged Plaintiffs with removability under these provisions.

Telephone (206) 957-8611

86. Finally, security check results are considered indicators of a national security concern in instances where, for example, the FBI Name Check produces a positive hit on an applicant's name and the applicant's name is associated with a national security-related investigatory file. Upon information and belief, this indicator leads USCIS to label applicants national security concerns solely because their names appear in a law enforcement or intelligence file, even if they were never the subject of an investigation. For example, an applicant's name could appear in a law enforcement file in connection with a national security investigation because he or she once gave a voluntary interview to an FBI agent, he or she attended a mosque that was the subject of FBI surveillance, or he or she knew or was associated with someone under investigation.

87. Upon information and belief, CARRP labels applicants national security concerns based on vague and overbroad criteria that often turn on national origin or innocuous and lawful activities or associations. These criteria are untethered from the statutory criteria that determine whether a person is eligible for the immigration status or benefit they seek, and are so general that they necessarily ensnare individuals who pose no threat to the security of the United States.

2. Delay and Denial

88. Once a USCIS officer identifies a CARRP-defined national security concern, the application is subjected to CARRP's rules and procedures that guide officers to deny such applications or, if an officer cannot find a basis to deny the application, to delay adjudication as long as possible.

a) Deconfliction

89. One such procedure is called "deconfliction," which requires USCIS to coordinate with—and, upon information and belief, subordinate its authority to—the law enforcement agency, often the FBI, that possesses information giving rise to the supposed national security concern.

90. During deconfliction, the relevant law enforcement agency has authority: to instruct USCIS to ask certain questions in an interview or to issue a Request for Evidence ("RFE"); to comment on a proposed decision on the benefit; and to request that USCIS deny, grant, or hold the application in abeyance for an indefinite period of time.

91. Upon information and belief, deconfliction allows law enforcement or intelligence agencies such

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

as the FBI to directly affect the adjudication of a requested immigration benefit, and also results in the agencies conducting independent interrogations of the applicant—or the applicant's friends and family.

92. Upon information and belief, USCIS often makes decisions to deny immigration benefit applications because the FBI requests or recommends the denial, not because the person is statutorily ineligible for the benefit.

93. The FBI often seeks to use the pending immigration application to coerce the applicant to act as an informant or otherwise provide information.

b) Eligibility Assessment

94. In addition to deconfliction, once officers identify an applicant as a national security concern, CARRP directs officers to perform an "eligibility assessment" to determine whether the applicant is eligible for the benefit sought.

95. Upon information and belief, at this stage, CARRP instructs officers to look for any reason to deny an application so that time and resources are not expended to investigate the possible national security concern. Where no legitimate reason supports denial of an application subjected to CARRP, USCIS officers often utilize spurious or pretextual reasons to deny the application.

c) Internal Vetting

96. Upon information and belief, if, after performing the eligibility assessment, an officer cannot find a reason to deny an application, CARRP instructs officers to first "internally vet" the national security concern using information available in DHS systems and databases, open source information, review of the applicant's file, RFEs, and interviews or site visits.

97. After conducting the eligibility assessment and internal vetting, USCIS officers are instructed to again conduct deconfliction to determine the position of any interested law enforcement agency.

d) External Vetting

98. If the national security concern remains and the officer cannot find a basis to deny the benefit, the application then proceeds to "external vetting."

99. During external vetting, USCIS instructs officers to confirm the existence of the national security concern with the law enforcement or intelligence agency that possesses the information that created the concern and obtain additional information from that agency about the concern and its relevance to the

615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

individual.

100. CARRP policy instructs USCIS officers to hold applications in abeyance for periods of 180 days to enable law enforcement agents and USCIS officers to investigate the national security concern. According to CARRP policy, the USCIS Field Office Director may extend the abeyance periods as long as the investigation remains open.

101. Upon information and belief, CARRP provides no outer limit on how long USCIS may hold a case in abeyance, even though the INA requires USCIS to adjudicate a naturalization application within 120 days of examination, 8 C.F.R. § 335.3, and Congress has made clear its intent that USCIS adjudicate immigration applications, including visa petitions and accompanying applications for adjustment of status to lawful permanent residence, within 180 days of filing the application. 8 U.S.C. § 1571(b).

e) Adjudication

102. When USCIS considers an applicant to be a KST national security concern, CARRP policy forbids USCIS adjudications officers from granting the requested benefit even if the applicant satisfies all statutory and regulatory criteria.

103. When USCIS considers an applicant to be a non-KST national security concern, CARRP policy forbids USCIS adjudications officers from granting the requested benefit in the absence of supervisory approval and concurrence from a senior level USCIS official.

104. In Hamdi, 2012 WL 632397, when asked whether USCIS's decision to brand naturalization applicant Tarek Hamdi as a national security concern affected whether he was eligible for naturalization, a USCIS officer testified that "it doesn't make him statutorily ineligible, but because he is a—he still has a national security concern, it affects whether or not we can approve him." The officer testified that, under CARRP, "until [the] national security concern [is] resolved, he won't get approved."

105. Upon information and belief, USCIS routinely delays adjudication of applications subject to CARRP when it cannot find a reason to deny the application. When an applicant files a mandamus action to compel USCIS to finally adjudicate his or her pending application, it often has the effect of forcing USCIS to deny a statutorily-eligible application on pretextual grounds because CARRP prevents agency field officers from granting an application involving a national security concern.

106. CARRP effectively creates two substantive regimes for immigration application processing and adjudication: one for those applications subject to heightened scrutiny and vetting under CARRP and one for all other applications. CARRP rules and procedures create substantive eligibility criteria that indefinitely delay adjudications and unlawfully deny immigration benefits to noncitizens who are statutorily eligible and entitled by law.

107. At no point during the CARRP process is the applicant made aware that he or she has been labeled a national security concern, nor is the applicant ever provided with an opportunity to respond to and contest the classification.

108. Upon information and belief, CARRP results in unauthorized adjudication delays, often lasting many years, and pre-textual denials of statutorily-eligible immigration applications.

B. Facts Specific To Each Plaintiff

Abdiqafar Wagafe

109. Plaintiff Abdiqafar Aden Wagafe is a thirty-two-year-old Somali national who currently resides in SeaTac, Washington.

110. Between 2001 and 2007, Mr. Wagafe lived in refugee camps and temporary refugee housing in Kenya and Ethiopia.

111. On May 24, 2007, he moved to the United States with nine family members and was admitted as a refugee. He has lived in the United States since then.

112. After arriving in the United States, Mr. Wagafe briefly stayed in Minneapolis, Minnesota with his brother. He then moved to Seattle, where his two sisters and another brother live.

113. All of the nine family members who moved to the United States with Mr. Wagafe have become U.S. citizens.

114. From July 2007 until February 2011, Mr. Wagafe worked for Delta Global Services until widespread layoffs left him without a job. Since February 2011, he has worked at a Somali restaurant, which he currently co-owns and manages.

115. On May 28, 2008, Mr. Wagafe filed an application for refugee adjustment of status to become an LPR.

116. USCIS granted his application on November 3, 2008, retroactively granting him LPR status as of

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT

Telephone (206) 957-8611

May 24, 2007, the date he was admitted to the U.S. as a refugee. See 8 C.F.R. § 209.1(e).

117. Mr. Wagafe filed his first application for naturalization on July 3, 2012. USCIS interviewed him on October 29, 2012, but he failed the English-language portion of the exam. USCIS interviewed Mr. Wagafe a second time on January 3, 2013, but he again failed the English writing portion of the exam. He also did not understand English sufficiently to comprehend the Oath of Allegiance. On these bases, USCIS denied his first application for naturalization on January 9, 2013.

118. Mr. Wagafe has since improved his English skills significantly.

119. Mr. Wagafe filed a second application for naturalization on November 8, 2013. USCIS scheduled his interview for February 25, 2014, but cancelled it on January 29, 2014 without explanation.

120. Mr. Wagafe has made various inquiries concerning his case to USCIS, but he has not received an explanation for the delay. USCIS last responded to his queries in July 2015, instructing his attorney to have patience and that the agency would let him know when the agency was ready to interview him. His subsequent inquiries have gone unanswered.

121. Mr. Wagafe has resided continuously in the United States for at least five years preceding the date of filing his application for naturalization, and has resided continuously within the United States from the date of filing his application until the present.

122. Mr. Wagafe has never been convicted of a crime.

123. There is no statutory basis for denying his naturalization application.

124. Mr. Wagafe is Muslim and regularly attends Mosque. He also frequently sends small amounts of money to his relatives in Somalia, Kenya, and Uganda. He has been married to a woman in Uganda since December 2015 and makes visits to see her. He has been unable to bring her to the United States because of the delays in his case.

125. Mr. Wagafe's immigration Alien file ("A-file") makes clear that USCIS subjected his pending application to CARRP. The A-file states that a CARRP officer handled his case. In addition, a document in the A-File shows that on December 8, 2013, there was a hit on Mr. Wagafe's name in the FBI Name Check and that the Name Check result contained "derogatory information." The document also states that Mr. Wagafe appears eligible for naturalization absent confirmation of national security issues. The document then states that the case is being forwarded for external vetting.

126. Upon information and belief, Mr. Wagafe's naturalization application is subject to CARRP or its successor "extreme vetting" program, which is causing the delay in adjudication of his naturalization application, despite the fact that he is statutorily entitled to naturalize.

127. Mr. Wagafe has suffered significant harm due to the delay in adjudication of his naturalization application. Although he is married to a Ugandan woman, he has been unable to bring her to live with him in the United States, because he must become a United States citizen in order for her to qualify as an immediate relative, see generally 8 U.S.C. § 1151, and thus avoid the waiting list for petitions filed by lawful permanent residents on behalf of their spouses. CARRP has also has harmed his professional options and prevented him from voting in local and national elections.

Mehdi Ostadhassan

128. Plaintiff Mehdi Ostadhassan is a thirty-three-year-old national of Iran. He resides in Grand Forks, North Dakota.

129. Mr. Ostadhassan moved to the United States in 2009 on a student visa and studied at the University of North Dakota. He earned his Ph.D. in Petroleum Engineering, and, after graduation, was immediately hired by the University of North Dakota as an Assistant Professor of Petroleum Engineering.

130. At the University of North Dakota, Mr. Ostadhassan met Bailey Bubach, a United States citizen. In January 2014, they were married in a small religious ceremony in California, and then obtained their marriage license in Grand Forks, North Dakota. Their first child was born in July 2016.

131. In February 2014, Ms. Bubach filed an immigrant visa petition (USCIS Form I-130) for Mr. Ostadhassan and he concurrently filed an application to adjust status (USCIS Form I-485) based upon his marriage.

132. Mr. Ostadhassan has never been convicted of a crime.

133. USCIS scheduled Mr. Ostadhassan for an interview on May 19, 2014, but when he appeared for the interview, USCIS informed him that it was cancelled.

134. USCIS rescheduled and conducted an interview almost a year and a half later, on September 24, 2015. At that interview, a USCIS officer told Mr. Ostadhassan that the agency still could not make a decision and that it needed to complete further background and security checks. To date, Mr.

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

Ostadhassan is still waiting for a decision from USCIS.

135. Mr. Ostadhassan and Ms. Bubach are Muslim and active participants in their religious community. Each year they donate to Muslim charities in accordance with the teachings of Islam. They are both involved in the Muslim Student Association at the University of North Dakota. In addition, they run a Muslim Sunday School. Mr. Ostadhassan also coordinates the Muslim Congress's Koran competition every year.

136. Upon information and belief, USCIS considers Mr. Ostadhassan a non-KST national security concern and is subjecting him to CARRP. USCIS may have subjected Mr. Ostadhassan's adjustment application to CARRP because he has resided in and traveled through what the government considers areas of known terrorist activity—namely, Iran—and because of his donations to Islamic charities and involvement in the Muslim community.

137. In October 2014, an FBI agent contacted Mr. Ostadhassan and asked to meet to discuss his recent trip to Iran to visit family. Mr. Ostadhassan declined to meet with the FBI, and his lawyer informed the agent that any further communications should go through the attorney. The FBI has not contacted Mr. Ostadhassan since.

138. Upon information and belief, the request for a visit by the FBI was a product of CARRP's deconfliction process. As Mr. Ostadhassan is a citizen of Iran, one of the seven countries listed in the EO, his application for adjustment of status is subject to the EO. Upon information and belief, adjudication of his application therefore has been suspended indefinitely.

139. Upon information and belief, Mr. Ostadhassan's application for adjustment of status is also subject to CARRP or its successor "extreme vetting" program, which is has delayed the adjudication of his application, despite the fact that he is statutorily eligible for adjustment of status.

140. Mr. Ostadhassan has been significantly harmed by the delay in adjudication of his adjustment of status application. Because of his temporary nonimmigrant status, and without an approved adjustment application, he cannot travel outside the United States. He recently was unable to travel to Iran to introduce his American wife and infant to his Iranian family; his wife and child traveled to Iran without him. He has also lost out on significant professional opportunities. He is a college professor, and his unapproved adjustment application has prevented him from attending conferences overseas. Due to the delay, he and his wife feel that their lives and future in the United States are suspended in limbo, not knowing whether they have a future in the United States.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

141. Pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(a) and 23(b)(2), Plaintiffs bring this action on behalf of themselves and all other similarly-situated individuals. Plaintiffs do not bring claims for compensatory relief. Instead, Plaintiffs seek injunctive relief broadly applicable to members of the Plaintiff Classes, as defined below. The requirements for Rule 23 are met with respect to the classes defined below.

142. Plaintiffs seek to represent the following nationwide classes:

> A Muslim Ban Class defined as:
> A national class of all persons currently and in the future (1) who are in the United States, (2) have or will have an application for an immigration benefit pending before USCIS that is not a naturalization application, and (3) are a citizen or national of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Yemen, Somalia, Sudan, or Libya.
> An Extreme Vetting Naturalization Class defined as:
> A national class of all persons currently and in the future (1) who have or will have an application for naturalization pending before USCIS, (2) that is subject to CARRP or its successor "extreme vetting" program, and (3) that has not been or will not be adjudicated by USCIS within six months of having been filed.
> An Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Class defined as:
> A national class of all persons currently and in the future (1) who have or will have an application for adjustment of status pending before USCIS, (2) that is subject to CARRP or its successor "extreme vetting" program, and (3) that has not been or will not be adjudicated by USCIS within six months of having been filed.

143. Plaintiff Ostadhassan is an adequate class representative of the Muslim Ban class. Plaintiff Wagafe is an adequate representative of the Extreme Vetting Naturalization Class. Plaintiff Ostadhassan is also an adequate representation of the Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Class.

144. The Proposed Classes are each so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable.

145. Although Plaintiffs do not know the total number of people from the seven countries targeted in the EO who have pending immigration benefits applications (excluding naturalization applications) at any given time, publicly available USCIS data reveals that in 2015, there were 83,109 people from those seven countries who were granted applications for lawful permanent residence, asylum, and refugee admission.

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

146. Similarly, although Plaintiffs do not know the total number of people subject to CARRP or any successor "extreme vetting" program at any given time, USCIS data reveals that between Fiscal Year 2008 and Fiscal Year 2012, more than 19,000 people from twenty-one Muslim-majority countries or regions were subjected to CARRP. Upon information and belief, between 2008 and 2016, USCIS opened 41,805 CARRP cases.

147. This data includes individuals with pending naturalization and adjustment of status applications. For example, in March 2009, there were 1,437 adjustment of status (I-485) applications subject to CARRP that had been pending for at least six months and 1,065 naturalization (N-400) applications subject to CARRP that had been pending for at least six months.

148. The exact number of individuals subject to the EO, CARRP or any successor "extreme vetting" program at any given time fluctuates as applications are filed and USCIS applies these policies and practices to the applications. Moreover, members of the class reside in various locations across the country. For these and other reasons, joinder of the members of the Classes would create substantial challenges to the efficient administration of justice. Joinder is thus impracticable here.

149. In addition, there are questions of law and fact common to the members of the Classes. The Muslim Ban and Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Class are subject to Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications. All classes are subject to CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program). Accordingly, common questions of law and fact include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO violates Defendants' duty to timely adjudicate immigration benefit applications authorized by the Immigration and Nationality Act;

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO to Plaintiff Ostadhassan's application violates the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution by not pursuing a course of neutrality with regard to different religious faiths;

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO and application of CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program) to Plaintiffs' applications discriminates against Plaintiffs on the basis of their country of origin, and without sufficient justification, and therefore violates the equal protection component of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO and application of CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program) to Plaintiffs' applications is substantially motivated by animus toward—and has a disparate effect on—Muslims in violation of the equal protection component of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution;

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO and application of CARRP or a successor "extreme vetting" program to Plaintiffs' applications for immigration benefits, for which they are statutorily eligible and to which they are legally entitled, constitutes an arbitrary denial in violation of Plaintiffs' right to substantive due process under the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution;

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO and application of CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program) to Plaintiffs' applications violates the INA by creating additional, non-statutory, substantive criteria that must be met prior to a grant of a naturalization or adjustment of status application;

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO and application of CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program) to Plaintiffs' applications violates the APA, 5 U.S.C. § 706, as final agency action that is arbitrary and capricious, contrary to constitutional law, and in excess of statutory authority;

- Whether Defendants' the application of CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program) to Plaintiffs' applications constitutes a substantive rule and, as a result, Defendants violated the APA, 5 U.S.C. § 553, when they promulgated CARRP without providing a notice-and-comment period prior to implementing it;

- Whether Defendants' failure to give Plaintiffs notice of their classification under CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program), a meaningful explanation of the reason for such classification, and a process by which Plaintiffs can challenge their classification violates the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution; and

- Whether Defendants' application of CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program) to Plaintiff Wagafe's application violates the Uniform Rule of Naturalization, Article I, Section 8, Clause 4 of the United States Constitution by establishing criteria for naturalization not authorized by Congress.

150. The claims of the named Plaintiffs are typical of their respective Plaintiff Classes. Plaintiffs know of no conflict between their interests and those of the Plaintiff Classes they seek to represent. In defending their own rights, the named Plaintiffs will defend the rights of all proposed Plaintiff Class members fairly and adequately. The members of the Classes are readily ascertainable through notice and discovery.

151. Plaintiffs are represented by counsel with particular expertise in immigration and constitutional

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

law, and extensive experience in class action and other complex litigation.

152. Defendants have acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to each member of the Plaintiff Classes by unlawfully applying the EO and/or CARRP (or its successor "extreme vetting" program) to their immigration applications—thus applying additional non-statutory, substantive requirements for naturalization and adjustment of status, and causing them to have suffered and continue to suffer injury in the form of unreasonable delays and denials of their applications.

153. A class action is superior to other methods available for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy because joinder of all members of the Classes is impracticable. Absent the relief they seek here, there would be no other way for the Plaintiff Class members to individually redress the wrongs they have suffered and will continue to suffer.

CAUSES OF ACTION

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Immigration and Nationality Act and the Administrative Procedure Act

(Plaintiff Ostadhassan on behalf of himself and the Muslim Ban Class)

154. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

155. Section 212(f) of the Immigration and Nationality, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(f), is entitled "Suspension of Entry or Imposition of Restrictions by President." That provision authorizes the President to suspend entries or impose restrictions on entries. That provision does not authorize the President to suspend adjudication of immigration petitions, applications, or requests of any class of persons.

156. Defendants have interpreted the EO to authorize the suspension of immigration petitions, applications, or requests involving Plaintiff Ostadhassan and members of the Muslim Ban Class.

157. Accordingly, Defendants have suspended adjudication of such immigration benefits petitions, applications, or requests.

158. Defendants' actions in suspending adjudications violates 8 U.S.C. § 1182(f) and is arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law; contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity; in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, or short of statutory right; and without observance of procedure required by law, in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. §§ 706(2)(A)-(D).

Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Mandamus (28 U.S.C. § 1361)

(Plaintiff Ostadhassan on behalf of himself and the Muslim Ban Class)

159. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

160. Defendants have a duty to adjudicate all immigrant benefits petitions, applications or requests authorized by the Immigration and Nationality Act, implementing regulations, or other law.

161. The EO does not authorize the suspension of adjudication of immigration benefits petitions, applications, or requests.

162. Defendants have interpreted the EO to authorize the suspension of immigration benefit applications for petitions, applications, or requests involving Plaintiff Ostadhassan and members of the Muslim Ban Class.

163. Accordingly, Defendants have suspended adjudication of immigration benefits petitions, applications, or requests.

164. Defendants' refusal to adjudicate immigration benefits petitions, applications, or requests violates Defendants' statutory and constitutional duty to adjudicate these matters, and to do so in a nondiscriminatory manner.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF

First Amendment (Establishment Clause)

(Plaintiff Ostadhassan on behalf of himself and the Muslim Ban Class)

165. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

166. The EO was intended to target a specific religious faith, Islam, and gives preference to other religious faiths, principally Christianity, and it has that intended effect when applied to Plaintiffs and members of the Muslim Ban Class. Defendants' application of the EO to Plaintiffs and members of the Plaintiff Classes violates the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution by not pursuing a course of neutrality with regard to different religious faiths.

FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Fifth Amendment (Procedural Due Process)

(All Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and the Plaintiff Classes)

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

167. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

168. Defendants' failure to give Plaintiffs and members of the Extreme Vetting Naturalization and Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Classes notice of their classification under CARRP (or successor "extreme vetting" program), a meaningful explanation of the reason for such classification, and any process by which Plaintiffs can challenge their classification, violates the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

169. The EO's directive to screen applicants for immigration benefits based on "the applicant's likelihood of becoming a positively contributing member of society and the applicant's ability to make contributions to the national interest" also is void because it is unconstitutionally vague under the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

170. Because of these violations of their constitutional rights, Plaintiffs and members of the Plaintiff Classes have suffered and continue to suffer injury in the form of unreasonable delays and unwarranted denials of their immigration applications.

FIFTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Fifth Amendment (Substantive Due Process)

(All Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and the Plaintiff Classes)

171. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

172. Defendants' unauthorized and indefinite suspension of the adjudication of Plaintiffs' and the Proposed Classes' applications for immigration benefits violates their right to substantive due process under the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution, because Plaintiffs cannot be denied immigration benefits for which they are statutorily eligible, and to which they are entitled by law, in an arbitrary manner.

SIXTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Fifth Amendment (Equal Protection)

(All Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and the Plaintiff Classes)

173. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the proceeding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

174. Defendants' indefinite suspension of the adjudication of Plaintiffs' applications for immigration benefits on the basis of their country of origin, and without sufficient justification, violates the equal

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

protection component of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment.

175. Additionally, Defendants' indefinite suspension of the adjudication of Plaintiff Ostadhassan and the Muslim Ban Class applications for immigration benefits under the EO was substantially motivated by animus toward—and has a disparate effect on—Muslims, which also violates the equal protection component of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment.

176. Applying a general law in a fashion that discriminates on the basis of religion violates Plaintiffs' and the Plaintiff Classes' rights to equal protection under the Fifth Amendment Due Process Clause.

177. The EO is intended and will be applied primarily to exclude individuals on the basis of their national origin and religion. Further, the President has promised that preferential treatment will be given to Christians, unequivocally demonstrating the special preferences and discriminatory impact that the EO has upon Plaintiffs and the Proposed Classes.

178. Defendants have applied the EO with discriminatory animus and discriminatory intent in violation of the equal protection component of the Fifth Amendment.

SEVENTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Immigration and Nationality Act and Implementing Regulations

(Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and the Extreme Vetting Naturalization and Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Classes)

179. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

180. To secure naturalization and adjustment of status, an applicant must satisfy certain statutorily-enumerated criteria.

181. By its terms, CARRP creates additional, non-statutory, substantive adjudicatory criteria.

182. Accordingly, CARRP violates 8 U.S.C. § 1427, 8 C.F.R. § 316.2, and 8 C.F.R. § 335.3, as those provisions set forth the exclusive applicable statutory and regulatory criteria for a grant of naturalization.

183. CARRP also violates 8 U.S.C. § 1255, 8 U.S.C. § 1159, 8 C.F.R. § 245.1, and 8 C.F.R. § 209.1, as those provisions set forth the applicable statutory and regulatory criteria for individuals present in the United States to adjust their status.

184. Because of these violations and/or because CARRP's additional, non-statutory, substantive criteria have been applied to their applications, Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class members have suffered and

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

will continue to suffer injury in the form of unreasonable delays and unwarranted denials of their applications for naturalization and adjustment of status.

EIGHTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. § 706)

(Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and the Extreme Vetting Naturalization and Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Classes)

185. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

186. CARRP constitutes final agency action that is arbitrary and capricious because it "neither focuses on nor relates to a [noncitizen's] fitness to" obtain the immigration benefits subject to its terms. Judulang v. Holder, 132 S. Ct. 476, 485 (2011).

187. CARRP is also not in accordance with law, is contrary to constitutional rights, and is in excess of statutory authority because it violates the INA and exceeds USCIS's statutory authority to implement (not create) the immigration laws, as alleged herein.

188. As a result of these violations, Plaintiffs and members of the Proposed Extreme Vetting Naturalization and Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Classes have suffered and continue to suffer injury in the form of unreasonable delays and unwarranted denials of their immigration applications.

NINTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Administrative Procedure Act (Notice and Comment)

(Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and the Extreme Vetting Naturalization and Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Classes)

189. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

190. The APA, 5 U.S.C. § 553, requires administrative agencies to provide a notice-and-comment period prior to implementing a substantive rule.

191. CARRP constitutes a substantive agency rule within the meaning of 5 U.S.C. § 551(4).

192. Defendants failed to provide a notice-and-comment period prior to the adoption of CARRP.

193. Because CARRP is a substantive rule promulgated without the notice-and-comment period, it violates 5 U.S.C. § 553 and is therefore invalid.

194. As a result of these violations, Plaintiffs and members of the Plaintiff Classes have suffered and

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

continue to suffer injury in the form of unreasonable delays and unwarranted denials of their immigration applications.

TENTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

"Uniform Rule of Naturalization"

(Plaintiff Abdiqafar Wagafe on behalf of himself and the Naturalization Class)

195. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

196. Congress has the sole power to establish criteria for naturalization, and any additional requirements not enacted by Congress are ultra vires.

197. By its terms, CARRP creates additional, non-statutory, substantive criteria that must be met prior to a grant of a naturalization application.

198. Accordingly, CARRP violates Article I, Section 8, Clause 4 of the United States Constitution.

199. Because of this violation and because CARRP's additional, non-statutory, substantive criteria have been applied to their applications, Plaintiff Wagafe and Naturalization Plaintiff Class members have suffered and will continue to suffer injury in the form of unreasonable delays and unwarranted denials of their naturalization applications.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court grant the following relief:

1. Certify the case as a class action as proposed herein;
2. Appoint Plaintiff Ostadhassan a representative of the Muslim Ban Class;
3. Appoint Plaintiff Wagafe as representative of the Extreme Vetting Naturalization Class, and Plaintiff Ostadhassan as representative of the Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Class;
4. Order Defendants to adjudicate the petitions, applications or requests of Plaintiffs and members of the proposed classes;
5. Order Defendants to adjudicate Plaintiffs' and proposed class members' petitions, applications, or requests based solely on the statutory criteria;
6. Declare that Sections 3(c) and 4 of the Executive Order contrary to the Constitution and the INA;
7. Issue an order enjoining Defendants from applying Section 3(c) and 4 to Plaintiffs and members

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

of the proposed classes;

8. Declare that CARRP or any successor "extreme vetting" program violates the Constitution, the INA and the APA;
9. Enjoin Defendants, their subordinates, agents, employees, and all others acting in concert with them from applying CARRP or any successor "extreme vetting" program to the processing and adjudication of the immigration benefit petitions, applications, or requests of Plaintiffs and members of the proposed classes;
10. Order Defendants to rescind CARRP because they failed to follow the process for notice and comment by the public;
11. Alternatively, order Defendants to provide Plaintiffs and members of the proposed classes with notice that they have been subjected to CARRP or any successor "extreme vetting" program, the reasons for subjecting them to CARRP or any successor "extreme vetting" program, and a reasonable opportunity to respond to those allegations before a neutral decisionmaker;
12. Award Plaintiffs and other members of the proposed class reasonable attorneys' fees and costs; and
13. Grant any other relief that this Court may deem fit and proper.

Respectfully submitted this 1st day of February, 2017.

Subject: For today's call

Hi Tracy,
For your awareness and background, Joe Moore and team participated in a call with HAC/SAC on Monday (DHS cleared). The purpose of the call was to clarify sections of the INA. It, of course, strayed beyond that.

The staffers requested information on the number of circuit rides that were in progress, and had to be cancelled, when Friday's Executive Order was issued. They did not indicate whether they would be sending an official request for that information, but did ask us to provide what information we could. These same staffers will be on today's call and I expect it to come up.

Mary Margaret and Jennifer have pulled together the following:

RAD-
At the time the E.O. was signed

- RAD had one single circuit ride in progress in Vienna, Austria. This consisted of 1 single person.
- As the circuit ride interviews in Vienna consisted of religious minorities, the circuit ride was not canceled and is currently in progress.
- RAD canceled all other circuit rides scheduled to deploy on or before February 15. A total of 19 circuit rides (Middle East, Africa, Asia, and Latin America) were canceled.
- All circuit rides scheduled to deploy after February 15 are being reviewed in light of the E.O. There are 11 circuit rides under this review.

- RAD is now considering adding two additional adjudicators to the Vienna circuit ride.
- RAD is also planning toward staffing an upcoming circuit ride to Nauru (it was one that was originally canceled) as it falls within one of the E.O.'s stated exceptions as this location's processing is pursuant to an international agreement.

IO-

IO curtailed one circuit ride that had been taking place in Cape Town, South Africa. There were 4 members on the team.

Hi Phil:

Lori/Tracy discussed this exact issue with the Department. Lori pointed out that people who leave with advance parole may not be able to return. The parole document includes language to that effect also so I think the person is on notice that he/she might not be able to come back.

Yes, as it's an application by an alien in the United States. It's not barred by the EO.

However, the more I think about this one the more I think some further discussion is warranted on whether we should be doing this as a matter of policy since it would be taken as approval to return which it really wouldn't be.

There's a missing letter in the answer to Q2. Also, the answer is mislabeled as A1:

A~~1~~2. Yes. For individuals outside the country, USCIS will only process applications and petitions (including immigrant and nonimmigrant petitions) that do not confer an immigration benefit. Examples of applications and petitions that do not confer an immigration benefit include, but are not limited to, Form 130, Petition for Alien Relative; Form I-140, Immigrant Petition for Alien Worker; and Form I-129F, Petition for Alien Fiancé(e).

I can do that since the WH has said the EO does not apply to LPRs. But since that's been made public I I think it can go into the memo without going back to DHS.

On the second point, that is what this guidance provides.

On the first one, if you want more clarity based on the evolving guidance we have been getting about LPRs in this document, that can be done, but I think it would need to go through DHS clearance again. Perhaps it is more efficient to clarify that particular point with RAIO than revise the guidance to all employees again.

I was also told we could issue refugee travel document to anyone in the U.S. As well as an I-730.

It's saying what is barred so those adjudications are barred but the individual could get a waiver so I think it is fine.

Please see the attached guidance that I would like to send to USCIS staff. It does not answer all questions but it will address the vast majority. Please let me know if you'd like to discuss. OCC and our politicals have reviewed.

I plan to send our parole program paper in the next day or so with our recommendations for consideration. Once decisions are made I'll have guidance drafted for implementation and sent up for review.

I know everyone is very busy but if I can get a clearance on the attached memo we'll be out in front of what may be the next round of questions regarding the EO that was signed on Friday.

Lori

OCOMM received inquiries from the Arizona Republic and Law360 asking if USCIS has been directed to stop processing applications for green cards, status adjustments, etc. The following statement, which has been developed with FOD, addresses the question:

Lori and Tracy,

We received an inquiry from the Arizona Republic and Law360 asking if USCIS has been directed to stop processing applications for green cards, status adjustments, etc. Below is the original response language developed by FOD addressing the issue along with my recommended edits. Let me know if you're comfortable with sending the revised statement along to OPA for clearance.

---Original Version---
"USCIS continues to adjudicate and administer the oath of allegiance for all citizenship cases. Final adjudication on other applications, including adjustment of status applications, continues up to final decision. 2. Has your office received any CF referral documents from ICE or CBP related to people stopped from entry in the aftermath of Friday's EO?

Thanks!!

Everyone,

As of the moment, the instructions I sent out yesterday stay in place until we get further instruction from agency/department leadership. As you can see from the below chain, Joanna has notified leadership of our present instructions and is seeking further guidance.

Given what is happening at the airports, I understand that some additional guidance is needed on CF/RF processing. CF/RF screenings should continue for anyone who is placed into ER and is referred to us after making a fear claim, or anyone subject to reinstatement or admin removal order who is referred to us after making a fear claim. We confer no benefit in the screening process, so our work in these areas should continue unless/until we are instructed otherwise.

Please feel free to continue to submit any questions that you may have.

Jessica,

Attached please find a preliminary list of implementation issues for RAIO. These are ones that are most time sensitive, in that we need to get guidance out to the field as soon as possible – by Sunday evening, if possible.

This does not include the most urgent issue regarding the list of individuals State is requesting to exempt so they can travel, which is being worked separately.

Let me know if you have questions. Also including content in the message in case that is helpful for those on phones.

RAIO Time Sensitive Questions on the Executive Order

Refugee Processing – what can continue?

For reference - current circuit rides:

1. Cape Town, South Africa (total number of cases is 166) – deployed through February 3:
    a. 92% nationality is Somali – Claims are mostly based on religious beliefs (different interpretations of Islam than Al Shabaab)
    b. 8% nationality is Democratic Republic of Congo – Claims are nationality claims based on tribe.
2. Indonesia (total number of cases is 130) – deployed through February 10:
    a. 95% nationality is Burmese – religious minority Rohingya population
    b. 5% nationality is Afghan – No claim info available
3. Vienna (RAD CR – one officer is currently onsite processing cases) – deployed through February 24:
    a. 100% from Iran – claims are religious persecution as either Assyrian/Armenian Christians or Bahai
    b. Note that these cases must obtain special visas to enter Austria and can only remain in Vienna for a very limited amount of time.

Urgent time-sensitive questions (need answers by Sunday evening, if possible):

1. Can the officer in Vienna resume interview on Monday? In light of the "notwithstanding" language at Sec. 5(e), we propose that he continue w/interviews as planned.

   In particular, that section says that the USRAP can use discretion to admit refugees during the 120-day suspension "when admitting the person would enable the United States to conform its conduct to a preexisting international agreement..." We have such an agreement w/Austria. What we are proposing is not actually ADMISSIONS, however, but continuing w/RAD interviews, which seems in keeping with the intent and spirit of this provision. Since these applicants are Iranian religious minorities, we believe that their future admission would need to be assessed under the 90-day rule in Sec. 3.

2. Can we continue interviewing in Indonesia? We recommend that we continue, at least for the Rohingya population. PRM's guidance to RSC's is to continue processing around the world and just to cancel travel for the affected population, and we are working with them on determining best course of action for this caseload.

3. Should we continue interviews in South Africa? We think it would not be the best use of resources to continue to interview this population and intend to move forward to curtail those interviews. We are consulting with PRM.

4. Should we continue interviews in Moscow? We have Lautenberg interviews scheduled in Moscow all week. This includes P1s and Lautenberg (largely Ukrainian religious minorities traveling in from the Ukraine for their interviews). Some of the P-1s travel in from remote areas. Our proposed plan:

   Where someone may already be in transit, we intend to continue with the interview if the individual was a Lautenberg or other religious minority, even though we are all still awaiting guidance on how the religious minority exception may be defined. For those other P1s, we intend to collect prints and inform them of the suspension, but not conduct an interview. We don't want to continue interviewing if we may have to do reinterviews later based on a new or amended approach to processing.

5. We believe we have P-1s also scheduled in New Delhi. Would follow same approach as above.

Less Urgent:

6. Should we resume planning scheduling CR for Nauru (originally planned for Feb. 5-6, but suspended). We believe this falls under the "preexisting international agreement" provision is the USG agreement w/Australia concerning Nauru. State believes that having visible evidence of progress is important to both the Australian gov't and to the refugees, whose hopelessness has led to violence, self-harm, non-compliance, etc.

Asylum Processing:

1. Does the suspension apply to processing affirmative asylum applications filed by individuals from the countries on the list?

   - We have notified field leadership that they should arrange to stop any decision-issuance to asylum applicants from the listed countries until they are instructed otherwise.
   - We have told them to review their upcoming schedules and prepare to cancel any interviews for nationals from the listed countries. They were told not to actually begin cancelling the interviews until they received further guidance from HQ.

Refugee Travel Documents:

Should USCIS continue to issue refugee travel documents (domestically and abroad) to those not on the list? IO currently has a number of pending requests for refugee documents and the vast majority are Iraqi and the individuals are currently in Iraq. Will issue guidance to suspend processing those on the list, but what about the others?

TRIG:

Should we tell staff to hold off on approving cases for existing TRIG exemptions while all exemptions are being reviewed for possible rescission?

I-730's Processed Abroad:

1. Can USCIS continue to process following-to-join (I-730) applications for asylee family members from countries not on the list (e.g., China)? State's guidance to consular officers is to continue processing those. We have not issued any yet.
2. If we issued a travel document to a refugee FTJ or an asylee FTJ from one of the 7 countries before the 1/27/17 E.O. and the beneficiary hasn't traveled yet, should we try to get the travel document or packet back?

The attached document is a matrix breaking down the EO into its component parts and action items. I've added columns for QAs and started compiling those I saw come across this morning and some early ones I saw from Div. 1.

The Policy and general objectives language at the beginning pulls key language from the EO for quick reference when we're drafting statements. The date conversion chart indicates the calendar dates associated with any specific timeframe mentioned in the EO.

I am working to convert this to Excel over the weekend so it's a little more scalable, but wanted to pass it on for initial use.

Please let me know if you have any questions or see anything that needs editing.

Everyone should be compiling a list of all of their questions and getting them to Jess so Lori and I have a complete list. If there are URGENT questions that we need answers to before Monday go ahead and flag those for us but I'm not sure the Department is going to get to us immediately, they are likely dealing with issues at the POEs which have a bit more urgency. I did send the question of whether this impact naturalization or not to the Department in an attempt to get an answer this weekend only because we have oath ceremonies scheduled for Monday.

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

State has also issued guidance. Will forward.

I can do that but I think it's the same as what I've mentioned. It would be good to have time to consult with others. Can I get it to you on Monday?

And, in the meantime can I get something to the centers this weekend? I can share a draft email tomorrow.

I can get word out over the weekend to the centers to suspend processing. I just need the list of 7 countries to include in my message. The Directors are already on notice of the possibility. I would exclude from the suspension any petitions for beneficiaries abroad and TPS/DACA.

Thanks for sending this, Lori.

As we've discussed, the most urgent question is whether adjustments and extensions or changes of nonimmigrant status are impacted. Separately, is there any impact on petitions for beneficiaries abroad since we would not be determining admissibility? I would think not, but it would be good to have clarity.

If we can define "suspend processing" as "suspend prior to approval", then one option would be to continue with the interviews, since it is likely we have some that are scheduled as soon as Monday for affected applicants and then hold the cases post interview. We are trying to scrape our schedulers (C4 and NASS) to see when and where we have interviews scheduled for individuals from affected countries. We should have that sometime Monday.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person [redacted]
We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

Tracy,

We will need official confirmation from the Department but here are the three major lists of the designated countries of concerns. One lists the consesus countries of state sponsored terrorism and the other two are maintained by DOS for the SAO process and CBP for ESTA. I am pretty sure this will be close to the inclusive list. In reading the Executive Order we should confirm with the Department as soon as possible if the 30 day suspension of immigrants and non-immigrants from these countries extends to those adjusting status.

MEMORANDUM OPINION

In this civil action, the Commonwealth of Virginia ("Commonwealth") alleges that Executive Order 13,769, entitled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States" ("the EO"), violates the First and Fifth Amendments to the United States Constitution, as well as the Immigration and Nationality Act and Religious Freedom Restoration Act. Before the Court is the Commonwealth's Motion for a Preliminary Injunction, to which defendants have responded and on which oral argument has been held. Attached to the Commonwealth's motion were multiple exhibits and declarations. The defendants have responded with no evidence other than the EO, which they have defended primarily with arguments attacking the Commonwealth's standing to oppose the EO and emphasizing the authority of the president to issue such an EO. For the reasons that follow, the Commonwealth's Motion for a Preliminary Injunction will be granted.

I. FINDINGS OF FACT

A. The Executive Order

On January 20, 2017, Donald Trump ("Trump") was inaugurated as the 45th President of the United States. On January 27, 2017, he signed the EO. Section 3 of the EO "proclaim[ed] that the immigrant and nonimmigrant entry into the United States of aliens from" Syria, Iraq, Iran, Libya, Sudan, Yemen, and Somalia "would be detrimental to the interests of the United States" and "suspend[ed] entry into the United States, as immigrants and nonimmigrants, of such persons for 90 days from the date of this order." [Dkt. 7-1] § 3(c). Although the EO specifically excludes "foreign nationals traveling on diplomatic visas, North Atlantic Treaty Organization visas, C-2 visas for travel to the United Nations, and G-1, G-2, G-3, and G-4 visas"[1] from the ban on entry, it does not list lawful permanent residents ("LPRs") among those excluded. Id. Section 5 of the EO suspends the United States Refugee Assistance Program ("USRAP") for persons from all countries for 120 days. Id. at § 5(a). Once the suspension has ended, the EO directs the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security "to the extent permitted by law, to prioritize refugee claims made by individuals on the basis of religious-based persecution, provided that the religion of the individual is a minority religion in the individual's country of nationality." Id. at § 5(b).

Section 1 describes the stated purpose for the EO as follows:

> Numerous foreign-born individuals have been convicted or implicated in terrorism-related crimes since September 11, 2001, including foreign nationals who entered the United States after receiving visitor, student, or employment visas, or who entered through the United States refugee resettlement program. Deteriorating conditions in certain countries due to war, strife, disaster, and civil unrest increase the likelihood that terrorists will use any means possible to enter the United States. The United States must be vigilant during the visa-issuance process to ensure that those approved for admission do not intend to harm Americans and that they have no ties to terrorism.

[Dkt. 31-1] § 1. Section 2 goes on to declare it to be "the policy of the United States to protect its citizens from foreign nationals who intend to commit terrorist attacks in the United States; and to prevent the admission of foreign nationals who intend to exploit United States immigration laws for malevolent purposes." Id. § 2.

[1] The "G" series of visas are available to qualifying representatives of foreign governments and international organizations.

The EO was initially applied to LPRs, and the defendants have since conceded that Customs and Border Patrol ("CBP") initially stopped several LPRs at the border in the 24 to 48 hours after the EO was signed, although they represent that all such persons have since been permitted to enter the United States. After initial confusion within the executive branch, [Dkt. 61-17], Homeland Security Secretary John Kelly released a statement on Sunday, January 29, announcing that he "deem[ed] the entry of lawful permanent residents to be in the national interest" and that "lawful permanent resident status will be a dispositive factor in our case-by-case determinations," [Dkt. 61-1].

The next day, White House Counsel Donald F. McGahn II issued a memorandum stating that "there has been reasonable uncertainty about whether [Section 3 of the EO] appl[ies] to lawful permanent residents of the United States. Accordingly, to remove any confusion, I now clarify that Section 3(c) . . . do[es] not apply to such individuals." [Dkt. 34-1]. Defendants have argued that in light of this memorandum, the EO cannot be interpreted to apply to LPRs; however, a voluntary change of policy cannot be taken as binding unless it is "absolutely clear" that the government will not revert to its original position. Friends of the Earth, Inc. v. Laidlaw Envt'l Servs. (TOC), Inc., 528 U.S. 167, 189 (2000). As the Ninth Circuit observed in related litigation, defendants have "offered no authority establishing that the White House counsel is empowered to issue an amended order superseding the Executive Order signed by the president . . . and that proposition seems unlikely," nor have they "established that the White House counsel's interpretation of the Executive Order is binding on all executive branch officials responsible for enforcing" it. Washington v. Trump, __ F.3d __, 2017 WL 526497, at *8 (9th Cir. 2017). Accordingly, the Court finds that the EO presents an ongoing risk to the status of LPRs from the seven countries covered by the EO.

B. Injuries to the Commonwealth and its Residents

The Commonwealth has produced evidence of the EO being disruptive to the operation of its public colleges and universities. As the declaration of W. Taylor Reveley III ("Reveley"), who is president of the College of William & Mary and the chair of the Council of Presidents, a group consisting of the presidents and chancellors of Virginia's 14 public universities and colleges and 23 community colleges, [Dkt. 32] at ¶¶ 1–2, explains, the EO affects international travel of at least 350 students attending Virginia Commonwealth University, Virginia Tech, George Mason University, the University of Virginia, and William & Mary combined.[2] [Dkt. 32] at ¶ 5. That number includes at least two students who were abroad when the EO was issued and were denied reentry to the United States on its authority. Id. at ¶ 6.[3] At one university, Iranian-born faculty and students "have had to cancel their plans to present their work at an international conference on engineering" because they believe they are likely to be denied reentry to the United States. Id. at ¶ 7. The EO is also disrupting the process by which medical students "match" with academic hospitals for their residency, which takes place this month. Id. at ¶ 8. At least two Virginia universities have already had to cancel appearances by foreign scholars as a result of the EO. Id. at ¶ 9. Students have also begun withdrawing applications to attend Virginia schools as a result of the travel ban, and at least two students who had already announced an intention to enroll in Virginia schools have now abandoned those plans. Id. at [2] At oral argument, the Commonwealth represented that across all of its schools its estimate of affected persons has grown to 1,000 students and 66 faculty and staff members.

[3] One of these students, Najwa Elyazgi, has since entered the United States, but only as a result of the District of Washington's order staying enforcement of the EO. [Dkt. 54] ¶ 11.

¶ 11. The affected students and faculty "must refrain from leaving the United States for fear of not being able to return," id. at ¶ 7, and "are unsure whether they should take the trips they had planned to visit family and fulfill research obligations, whether future trips should be planned, and whether members of their family or research partners will be able to visit the United States," id. at ¶ 14. The defendants provided no evidence to counter these representations.

The Commonwealth has also presented evidence that enforcement of § 3(c) of the EO will have a financial impact on its colleges and universities. Most concretely, the EO will result in reduced revenue from tuition money from students who cannot return to continue their studies or who are unable to enroll. [Dkt. 32] at ¶ 11. Department of Homeland Security data from 2015, the most recent year available, shows that 465 student visa holders from the affected countries were enrolled in Virginia schools. [Dkt. 61-15] at 4. College Factual, a company that specializes in higher education analytics, estimates that this could result in up to $20.8 million in lost tuition and fees. Id.; [Dkt. 61-16] at 1. Although the Commonwealth has not identified any specific grants or contracts that are in immediate jeopardy, it also argues that the EO may inhibit the ability of research universities to fulfill the terms of various grants and contracts. [Dkt. 32] at ¶ 12.

Reveley also avers that university personnel are experiencing "anxiety, confusion, and distress" because of the uncertainty introduced by the EO, such that some universities "have experienced an uptick in students, employees, and faculty using their counseling services." Id. at ¶ 14. Finally, Reveley and other administrators are concerned that the EO could imperil Virginia students who are studying abroad, by inflaming "anti-American sentiment[.]" Id. at ¶ 15. Again, defendants have not tendered any evidence to refute these concerns.

C. The Government's Asserted Rationale for the EO

Defendants have maintained that the EO is necessary to protect the United States from terrorist attacks to be carried out by nationals of the seven affected countries [Dkts. 31-1, 80]; however, they have not offered any evidence to identify the national security concerns that allegedly prompted this EO, or even described the process by which the president concluded that this action was necessary.[4]

And contrary to the national security concerns recited in the EO, the only evidence in the record on this subject is a declaration of 10 national security professionals who have served at the highest levels of the Department of State, the Department of Homeland Security, the Central Intelligence Agency, and the National Security Council through both Republican and Democratic administrations, [Dkt. 57], and at least four of whom "were current on active intelligence regarding all credible terrorist threat streams directed against the [United States] as recently as one week before the issuance of the" EO. Id. at ¶ 2. They write

> We all agree that the United States faces real threats from terrorist networks and must take all prudent and effective steps to combat them, including the appropriate vetting of travelers to the United States. We all are nevertheless unaware of any specific threat that would justify the travel ban established by the Executive Order issued on January 27, 2017. We view the Order as one that ultimately undermines the national security of the United States, rather than making us safer. In our professional opinion, this Order cannot be justified on national security or foreign policy grounds.

Id. at ¶ 3. They also observe that since September 11, 2011, "not a single terrorist attack in the United States has been perpetrated by aliens from the countries named in the Order." Id. at ¶ 4.

[4] To the extent that such evidence might be classified, "the Government may provide a court with classified information. Courts regularly receive classified information under seal and maintain its confidentiality. Regulations and rules have long been in place for that." Washington, 2017 WL 526497, at *10 n.8.

D. The President's Public Comments

The Commonwealth's evidence also contains several statements by the president and his senior advisors on the subject of immigration to the United States by Muslims. Although defendants dispute the relevance of these statements, as discussed below, they have not contested their accuracy.

On December 7, 2015, then-candidate Trump issued a press released titled "Donald J. Trump's Statement on Preventing Muslim Immigration." [Dkt. 61-12]. In the statement, he called "for a total and complete shutdown of Muslims entering the United States until our country's representatives can figure out what is going on." Id.

The latter statement is consistent with views that the president has expressed on various occasions over the last six years. A representative example[5] can be found in a 2011 interview with Fox News's Bill O'Reilly ("O'Reilly"). A portion of that interview reads:

> O'Reilly: Is there a Muslim problem in the world?
> Trump: Absolutely. Absolutely. I don't notice Swedish people knocking down the World Trade Center.
> . . .
> O'Reilly: But you do believe overall there is a Muslim problem in the world.
> Trump: Well, there is a Muslim problem. Absolutely. You just have to turn on your television set.
> O'Reilly: And do you think it encompasses all Muslims?
> Trump: No. And that's the sad part about life. Because you have fabulous Muslims. I know many Muslims and they're fabulous people. They're smart. They're industrious. They're great. Unfortunately, at this moment in time, there is a Muslim problem in the world. And by the way, and you know it and I [sic] and I know it and some people don't like saying it because they think it's not politically correct.

[Dkt. 61-19] at 5.

[5] The attachments to the Declaration of Mona Siddiqui [Dkt. 61] collect several other examples, although the Court does not consider every document in the Siddiqui declaration to be relevant.

As the campaign proceeded, there were fewer references to an outright ban on Muslim immigration, with the focus switched to a ban on persons from territories that have a Muslim majority. Mr. Trump and then-vice-presidential candidate Mike Pence ("Pence") were asked about this evolution in an interview with Lesley Stahl ("Stahl") on July 17, 2016. The relevant portion reads:

> Stahl: [I]n December, you [i.e., Pence] tweeted, and I quote you, "Calls to ban Muslims from entering the U.S. are offensive and unconstitutional."
> Trump: So you call it territories. OK? We're gonna do territories. We're not gonna let people come in from Syria that nobody knows who they are.
> . . .
> Stahl: [S]o you're changing . . . your position.
> Trump: --No, I—call it whatever you want. We'll call it territories, OK?
> Stahl: So not Muslims?
> Trump: You know—the Constitution—there's nothing like it. But it doesn't necessarily give us the right to commit suicide, as a country, OK? And I'll tell you this. Call it whatever you want, change territories [sic], but there are territories and terror states and terror nations that we're not gonna allow the people to come into our country.

[Dkt. 61-22] at 9–10.

On the morning of Friday, January 27, 2017, the president gave an interview with the Christian Broadcasting Network's David Brody ("Brody"):

> Brody: Persecuted Christians, we've talked about this, the refugees overseas. The refugee program, or the refugee changes you're looking to make. As it relates to persecuted Christians, do you see them as kind of a priority here?
> Trump: Yes.
> Brody: You do?
> Trump: They've been horribly treated. Do you know if you were a Christian in Syria it was impossible, at least very tough to get into the United States? If you were a Muslim you could come in, but if you were a Christian, it was almost impossible and the reason that was so unfair [sic], everybody was persecuted in all fairness, but they were chopping off the heads of everybody but more so the Christians. And I thought it was very, very unfair. So we are going to help them.

[Dkt. 61-6] at 2. That evening, the EO was signed.

On Sunday, January 29, 2017, two days after the EO was signed, former Mayor of New York City Rudolph Giuliani ("Giuliani") said in an interview on Fox News, "'I'll tell you the whole history of it[.]' . . . 'So when [Trump] first announced it, he said 'Muslim ban.' He called me up. He said, 'Put a commission together. Show me the right way to do it legally.' . . . 'And what we did was, we focused on, instead of religion, danger—the areas of the world that create danger for us[.]' . . . 'Which is a factual basis, not a religious basis. Perfectly legal, perfectly sensible. And that's what the ban is based on. It's not based on religion. It's based on places where there are [sic] substantial evidence that people are sending terrorists into our country.'" [Dkt. 61-4] at 1–2 (emphasis in original).

The president and his advisors deny that the EO represents the Muslim ban that the president spoke about during his campaign. Secretary Kelly said in an interview on Tuesday, January 31, 2017, "'This is not, I repeat not, a ban on Muslims.' . . . 'We cannot gamble with American lives. I will not gamble with American lives. These orders are a matter of national security, and it is my sworn responsibility as secretary of homeland security to protect and defend the American people.'" [Dkt. 61-17] at 3.

II. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A. Justiciability

As a threshold matter, defendants argue that courts "lack jurisdiction to review the Executive Branch's decisions concerning visa revocation and entry," at least in part because those decisions involve national security judgments. [Dkt. 80] at 14.

The word "jurisdiction" was once a "word of many, too many, meanings." Steel Co. v. Citizens for a Better Environment, 523 U.S. 83, 90 (1998) (internal citation and quotation marks omitted). Accordingly, the Supreme Court "has endeavored in recent years to 'bring some discipline' to the use of the term 'jurisdictional.'" Gonzalez v. Thaler, 132 S. Ct. 641, 648 (2012) (quoting Henderson v. Shinseki, 562 U.S. 428, 435 (2011)). Because the modern concept addresses "a court's adjudicatory capacity," it refers to either "subject matter jurisdiction" or "personal jurisdiction." Henderson, 562 U.S. at 435.

Defendants have argued that exercising jurisdiction in this case would be "an impermissible intrusion on the political branches' plenary constitutional authority over foreign affairs, national security, and immigration." [Dkt. 80] at 14. By advancing this argument, defendants appear to be invoking the political question doctrine, under which a court lacks subject matter jurisdiction over "a controversy . . . where there is a textually demonstrable constitutional commitment of the issue to a coordinate political department; or a lack of judicially discoverable and manageable standards for resolving it[.]" Zivotofsky v. Clinton, 566 U.S. 189, 195 (2012) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted).

The issues in this case are not textually committed to another department by the Constitution. To the contrary, the Commonwealth argues that the EO is in violation of constitutional and statutory law, and that resolving these claims requires interpreting the EO, the Immigration and Nationality Act, and the Constitution. "This is a familiar judicial exercise." Zivotofsky, 566 U.S. at 196. "At least since Marbury v. Madison, [the Supreme Court has] recognized that when" government action "is alleged to conflict with the Constitution, 'it is emphatically the province and duty of the judicial department to say what the law is.'" Id. (quoting Marbury, 1 Cranch 137, 177 (1803)). "That duty will sometimes involve the '[r]esolution of litigation challenging the constitutional authority of one of the three branches,' but courts cannot avoid their responsibility merely 'because the issues have political implications.'" Id. (quoting INS v. Chadha, 462 U.S. 919, 943 (1983)).

At oral argument, defendants suggested that their justiciability arguments were limited to the context of 8 U.S.C. § 1182(f), which is the statutory authority that the president invokes for the EO. Section 1182(f) provides that "[w]henever the President finds that the entry of any aliens or of any class of aliens into the United States would be detrimental to the interests of the United States, he may by proclamation, and for such period as he shall deem necessary, suspend the entry of all aliens or any class of aliens as immigrants or nonimmigrants[.]" Defendants urge that this statutory grant of authority places the president at the zenith of his power, citing the framework first articulated by Justice Jackson in his concurrence in Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. v. Sawyer, 343 U.S. 579 (1952). Under Youngstown Sheet & Tube, "[w]hen the President acts pursuant to an express . . . authorization of Congress, his authority is at its maximum, for it includes all that he possesses in his own right plus all that Congress can delegate." 343 U.S. at 635.

Maximum power does not mean absolute power. Every presidential action must still comply with the limits set by Congress' delegation of power and the constraints of the Constitution, including the Bill of Rights.[6] It is a bedrock principle of this nation's legal system that "the Constitution ought to be the standard of construction for the laws, and that wherever there is evident opposition, the laws ought to give place to the Constitution." The Federalist No. 81, at 481 (Alexander Hamilton) (Clinton Rossiter ed., 1999). Defendants have cited no authority for the proposition that Congress can delegate to the president the power to violate the [6] Youngstown Sheet & Tube is better known as the Steel Seizure Case. In that case, President Truman ordered the Secretary of Commerce to seize control of most of the country's steel mills because he felt that an impending strike would jeopardize the military's ability to wage the Korean War. The Supreme Court struck the order, holding that although "[t]he power of Congress to . . . authorize the taking of private property for public use" was beyond question, the president did not have power to do so without Congress' approval, even in wartime. Id. at 588.

Constitution and its amendments and the Supreme Court has made it clear that even in the context of immigration law, congressional and executive power "is subject to important constitutional limitations." Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 695 (2001).

Indeed, the Supreme Court has refused to hold that the president is exempt from compliance with the Due Process Clause even when he is exercising a pure Article II power, such as the detention of persons deemed "enemy combatants." In Hamdi v. Rumsfeld, 542 U.S. 507, 509 (2004), for example, the Supreme Court was confronted with the constitutional claims of an "enemy combatant." The Court recognized the government's "critical . . . interest in detaining those who actually pose an immediate threat to the national security of the United States during ongoing international conflict," id., but still held that the president must comply with the Fifth Amendment, id. at 524. If the president's actions can be subject to judicial review when he is exercising his core Article II powers, as in Hamdi, it follows that his actions are also subject to such review when he exercises Article I powers delegated to him by Congress. As the Ninth Circuit has explained, "the Supreme Court has repeatedly and explicitly rejected the notion that the political branches . . . are not subject to the Constitution when policymaking in [the immigration] context." Washington, 2017 WL 526497, at *5.

The defendants also continue to dispute the Commonwealth's Article III standing to challenge the EO. The Court has already held that the Commonwealth has pleaded facts sufficient to establish standing under both a parens patriae theory and proprietary theory. See Mem. Op., [Dkt. 42] at 11. Because the pending motion is for a preliminary injunction, the Commonwealth may no longer rest on its pleadings but must "set forth by affidavit or other evidence specific facts, which for purposes of the [preliminary injunction] will be taken to be true." Cacchillo v. Insmed, Inc., 638 F.3d 401, 404 (2d Cir. 2011) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted). As discussed above, the Commonwealth has submitted sufficient evidence in the form of Reveley's declaration to establish at this early point in the litigation standing under the standards articulated in this Court's memorandum opinion dated February 3, 2017. See Mem. Op., [Dkt. 42] at 11.

B. Preliminary Injunction

"A plaintiff seeking a preliminary injunction must establish that he is likely to succeed on the merits, that he is likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary relief, that the balance of the equities tips in his favor, and that an injunction is in the public interest." Winter v. Nat. Res. Def. Council, Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 20 (2008). "While plaintiffs seeking preliminary injunctions must demonstrate that they are likely to succeed on the merits, they 'need not show a certainty of success." League of Women Voters of N.C. v. North Carolina, 769 F.3d 224, 247 (4th Cir. 2014) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted).

C. Likelihood of Success on the Merits

The First Amendment to the United States Constitution provides that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion." U.S. Const. amend. I.[7] "The clearest command of the Establishment Clause is that one religious denomination cannot be officially preferred over another." Larson v. Valente, 456 U.S. 228, 244 (1982). The Supreme Court has articulated various tests for determining whether that command has been violated. The first such test is that the law "must have a secular . . . purpose." Lemon v. Kurtzman, 403 U.S. 602, 612 (1971).

[7] Although the First Amendment only addresses Congress by its terms, it has long been held to apply to executive action as well. See, e.g., New York Times Co. v. United States, 403 U.S. 713, 714 (1971).

"In the past, [this] test has not been fatal very often, presumably because government does not generally act unconstitutionally, with the predominant purpose of advancing" one religion over another. McCreary County v. Am. Civil Liberties Union of Ky., 545 U.S. 844, 863 (2005). The secular purpose requirement "'nevertheless serves an important function,'" id. at 859 (quoting Wallace v. Jaffree, 472 U.S. 38, 75 (1985) (O'Connor, J., concurring in the judgment)), because "[b]y showing a purpose to favor religion, the government sends the . . . message to . . . nonadherents that they are outsiders, not full members of the political community, and an accompanying message to adherents that they are insiders, favored members," id. at 860 (internal citations and quotation marks omitted). This message of exclusion from the political community is all the more conspicuous when the government acts with a specific purpose to disfavor a particular religion.

Defendants have argued that the Court may not go beyond the text of the EO in assessing its purpose, or look behind its proffered national security rationale,[8] but the Supreme Court has rejected that position. Although courts "often . . . accept governmental statements of purpose, in keeping with the respect owed in the first instance to such official claims, . . . in those unusual cases where the claim was an apparent sham, or the secular purpose secondary, the unsurprising results have been findings of no adequate secular object." McCreary, 545 U.S. at 865. When determining what purpose motivates governmental action, "an understanding of official objective emerges from readily discoverable fact, without any judicial psychoanalysis of a drafter's heart of hearts." McCreary, 545 U.S. at 862. In other words, what matters is what an "objective observer" would draw from the text of the policy, enlightened by historical context and "the specific sequence of events leading to" its adoption. Id. (internal citations and quotation marks omitted). This historical context can include statements by relevant policymakers. Id. at 870 (considering resolutions authorizing a Ten Commandments display by county boards); see also Washington, 2017 WL 526497 at *10 (sanctioning the consideration of "statements by decisionmakers").

Defendants argue that an elected official's statements before he took the oath of office are irrelevant, but that position also runs counter to McCreary. 545 U.S. at 866. Just as the Supreme Court has held that "the world is not made brand new every morning[,]" id., a person is not made brand new simply by taking the oath of office. Limiting the temporal scope of the purpose inquiry "bucks common sense: reasonable observers have reasonable memories, and [Supreme Court] precedents sensibly forbid an observer 'to turn a blind eye to the context in which [the] policy arose.'" Id. (quoting Santa Fe Ind. Sch. Dist. v. Doe, 530 U.S. 290, 315 (2000)). For example, in McCreary, the American Civil Liberties Union ("ACLU") sought to enjoin a display including the Ten Commandments in two counties' courthouses. Id. at 855. The Supreme Court examined the history of interactions between county executives, the ACLU, and the federal district court for a one-year period before the challenged display was erected, id. at 851–57, and determined from that history that "the [c]ounties were simply reaching for any way to keep a religious document on the walls of courthouses constitutionally required to embody religious neutrality," id. at 873. Further, in Santa Fe, the Court examined over a year's worth of events leading up to a school district's adoption of the challenged "Prayer at Football Games" policy to conclude that it "unquestionably ha[d] the purpose and create[d] the perception of encouraging the delivery of prayer at a series of important school events." Santa Fe, 530 U.S. at 294–98, 317.

This Court is similarly not free to "ignore perfectly probative evidence" from statements made by the president before he took office. See McCreary, 545 U.S. at 866.

Defendants have repeatedly cited Kleindienst v. Mandel, 408 U.S. 753 (1972), arguing that when facing constitutional scrutiny in an immigration context, the government must only supply a "facially legitimate and bona fide reason" for its action, but Mandel is inapplicable to this litigation. By its terms, Mandel does not apply to the persons who have already been granted visas because it involved an as-applied challenge to executive action by a person who had not been granted a visa. Id. at 758–60. Here, by contrast, the allegations involve persons who have passed through extensive vetting requirements and been granted visas. Accordingly, the limitation Mandel imposes on constitutional review of executive action does not apply to the class of persons relevant to this action. Moreover, even if Mandel did apply, it requires that the proffered executive reason be "bona fide." Id. at 770. As the Second and Ninth Circuits have persuasively held, if the proffered "facially legitimate" reason has been given in "bad faith," it is not "bona fide." Am. Academy of Religion v. Napolitano, 573 F.3d 115, 126 (2d Cir. 2009); Bustamente v. Mukasey, 531 F.3d 1059, 1062 (9th Cir. 2008). That leaves the Court in the same position as in an ordinary secular purpose case: determining whether the proffered reason for the EO is the real reason.

Defendants argue that permitting a court to "look behind" the president's national security judgments will result in a trial de novo of the president's national security determinations.[9] No party has asked the Court to engage in such an exercise, nor would precedent permit it to do so. As in the Ninth Circuit, this court's "jurisprudence has long counseled deference to the political branches on matters of immigration and national security[.]" Washington, 2017 WL 526497, at *5. The Establishment Clause concerns discussed above do not involve an assessment of the merits of the president's national security judgment. Instead, the question is whether the EO was animated by national security concerns at all, as opposed to the impermissible motive of, in the context of entry, disfavoring one religious group and, in the area of refugees, favoring another religious group.

The Commonwealth has produced unrebutted evidence supporting its position that it is likely to succeed on an Establishment Clause claim. The "Muslim ban" was a centerpiece of the president's campaign for months, and the press release calling for it was still available on his website as of the day this Memorandum Opinion is being entered. See [Dkt. 61-12]. The president connected that policy to this EO when, asked last July if he had abandoned his plan for a Muslim ban, he responded "Call it whatever you want. We'll call it territories, OK?" [Dkt. 61-22] at 10. Giuliani said two days after the EO was signed that Trump's desire for a Muslim ban was the impetus for this policy. [Dkt. 61-4] at 1. And on the same day that the president signed the EO, he lamented that under the old policy, "If you were a Muslim you could come in, but if you were a Christian, it was almost impossible," and said his administration was "going to help" make persecuted Christians a priority. [Dkt. 61-6] at 2. Defendants have not denied any of these statements or produced any evidence, beyond the text of the EO itself, to support their contention that the EO was primarily motivated by national security concerns.[10]

[10] The Court gives little weight to the post hoc statements by Secretary Kelly and other administration officials that this is not a Muslim ban. See [Dkt. 61-17] at 3. Such rationalizations, coming after the litigation had already been challenged on First Amendment and other legal grounds, are typically afforded little weight in an intent inquiry. See Peacock v. Duval, 694 F.2d 644, 646 (9th Cir. 1982).

The "specific sequence of events" leading to the adoption of the EO bolsters the Commonwealth's argument that the EO was not motivated by rational national security concerns. As the declaration from the national security experts states, ordinarily an executive order prioritizing national security is based "on cleared views from expert agencies with broad experience on the matters presented to [the president]." [Dkt. 57] at ¶ 7. But here there is no evidence that such a deliberative process took place. Id. To the contrary, there is evidence that the president's senior national security officials were taken by surprise. See [Dkt. 61-17]. Although Giuliani suggested that the EO was formulated by a "whole group of very expert lawyers" and at least two members of Congress, this process appears to have taken place during the campaign and there is no evidence that this commission was privy to any national security information when developing the policy. See [Dkt. 61-4]. Once again, defendants have offered no evidence to the contrary.

Defendants argue that the list of countries affected by the EO was singled out by Congress and the previous administration for special scrutiny and therefore cannot reflect religious prejudice. Giuliani advanced a similar argument in his interview after the EO was signed—that as long as the policy was given an outwardly legal form, it is constitutional. [Dkt. 61-4] at 1–2. Once again, McCreary is to the contrary:

> One consequence of taking account of the purpose underlying past actions is that the same government action may be constitutional if taken in the first instance and unconstitutional if it has a sectarian heritage. This presents no incongruity, however, because purpose matters.

545 U.S. at 866 n.14. Absent the direct evidence of animus presented by the Commonwealth, singling out these countries for additional scrutiny might not raise Establishment Clause concerns; however, with that direct evidence, a different picture emerges. In Giuliani's own account, the origin of this EO was a statement by the president that he wanted a legal way to impose a ban on Muslims entering the United States. [Dkt. 61-4] at 1. The president himself acknowledged the conceptual link between a Muslim ban and the EO when, asked if he had changed his position, he said "Call it whatever you want. We'll call it territories, OK?" [Dkt. 61-22] at 10. That the same list might have been created by constitutionally legitimate concerns does not alter the legal analysis under McCreary.

The argument has also been made that the Court cannot infer an anti-Muslim animus because the EO does not affect all, or even most, Muslims. The major premise of that argument—that one can only demonstrate animus toward a group of people by targeting all of them at once—is flawed. For example, it is highly unlikely that the Supreme Court considered the displays of the Ten Commandments erected by the Kentucky counties in McCreary, which had a localized impact, to be targeted at all persons outside the Judeo-Christian traditions. See 545 U.S. at 851. Moreover, the Supreme Court has never reduced its Establishment Clause jurisprudence to a mathematical exercise. It is a discriminatory purpose that matters, no matter how inefficient the execution. See id. at 860.

Finally, defendants argue that the evidence on which the Commonwealth relies proves too much, because it would render every policy that the president makes related to Muslim-majority countries open to challenge. This fear is exaggerated. The Court's conclusion rests on the highly particular "sequence of events" leading to this specific EO and the dearth of evidence indicating a national security purpose. See McCreary, 545 U.S. at 862. The evidence in this record focuses on the president's statements about a "Muslim ban" and the link Giuliani established between those statements and the EO. Based on that evidence, at this preliminary of the litigation, the Court finds that the Commonwealth has established a likelihood of success on the merits.[11]

D. Irreparable Harm

As a matter of law, the threat of an Establishment Clause violation in and of itself constitutes irreparable harm. Newsom v. Albemarle Cnty. Sch. Bd., 354 F.3d 249, 261 (4th Cir. 2003) (citing Elrod v. Burns, 427 U.S. 347, 373 (1976)). But it is not the only irreparable harm that the Commonwealth is experiencing. As discussed above, the travel ban applies to hundreds of students at the Commonwealth's universities, and is already preventing the exchange of faculty on which such universities thrive, by significantly straining freedom of movement. Moreover, Virginia's schools have begun to lose students, and have credibly stated that they expect to continue losing students and medical residents in the coming months if the travel ban is not lifted. Students are not fungible, thus these losses cannot be compensated by money damages, even if money damages were available in this civil action, which they are not. In light of the likelihood of an Establishment Clause violation and the restraint on liberty imposed by the travel ban, the Commonwealth has established irreparable harm.

E. Balance of the Equities

As the Fourth Circuit has held, "a state is in no way harmed by the issuance of a preliminary injunction which prevents the state from enforcing restrictions likely to be found unconstitutional[.]" Giovani Carandola, Ltd. v. Bason, 303 F.3d 507, 521 (4th Cir. 2002) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). Moreover, in contrast to the evidence of irreparable harm to the Commonwealth from the EO, the defendants have failed to present any evidence of harm they or the nation will suffer if enforcement of § 3(c) of the EO is preliminarily enjoined beyond bare assertions that the EO is necessary for national security. Although there is no interest more weighty than a bona fide national security concern, the defendants have presented no evidence to support their contention that the EO is necessary to national security. And as the Ninth Circuit observed, there is no evidence that the procedures in place before the EO was signed were inadequate, as the government has not pointed to any attacks perpetrated by nationals of the affected countries since September 11, 2001. Washington, 2017 WL 526497 at *10. Ironically, the only evidence in this record concerning national security indicates that the EO may actually make the country less safe. As the former national security officials have stated: "[The EO] ultimately undermines the national security of the United States, rather than mak[ing] us safer. In our professional opinion, this Order cannot be justified on national security or foreign policy grounds." [Dkt. 57] at ¶ 3. The Commonwealth therefore prevails on the balance of the equities.

F. Public Interest

The Fourth Circuit has held that "upholding constitutional rights surely serves the public interest." Giovani Carandola, 303 F.3d at 521 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). The Court therefore finds that enjoining an action that is likely a violation of the Establishment Clause serves the public interest, particularly in the absence of evidence to support the government's asserted national security interest as discussed above.

G. Scope of Relief

The Commonwealth originally sought an order enjoining enforcement of § 3(c) of the EO at any port of entry against Virginia residents who lawfully held either LPR status, a valid student visa, or a valid work visa at the time that the EO was signed. At oral argument, it amended its request to include a request for a nationwide injunction applying to all persons, not just Virginia residents. Although "[n]ationwide injunctions are appropriate if necessary to afford relief to the prevailing party," Va. Soc'y for Human Life v. Fed. Election Comm'n, 263 F.3d 379, 393 (2001), injunctive relief must be no broader than necessary to avoid encroaching "on the ability of other circuits to consider the" questions raised. Id. The relief originally requested by the Commonwealth is appropriately tailored to the basis for the Commonwealth's standing and its claims relating to its residents, colleges, and universities. Moreover, the nationwide temporary restraining order entered in the District of Washington provides the broader protection sought by the Commonwealth. To avoid any claim that the preliminary injunction to be entered in this litigation is defective because of overbreadth, this Court declines the Commonwealth's invitation to impose broader relief.

III. CONCLUSION

For the reasons discussed in this Memorandum Opinion, the Court holds that the unrefuted evidence presented by the Commonwealth establishes that there is a likelihood the Commonwealth will prevail on the merits of its Establishment Clause claim; that it will suffer irreparable injury if the enforcement of § 3(c) of the EO is not enjoined as it relates to Virginia residents, Virginia institutions, and persons connected to those persons and institutions; that the defendants will not suffer any harm from imposing the injunction; and that enjoining unconstitutional action by the Executive Branch is always in the public's interest. Accordingly, the Court will enter a separate order granting a modified version of the injunction sought by the Commonwealth.

PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION

For the reasons stated in the accompanying Memorandum Opinion, the Court finds that the Commonwealth of Virginia has standing to maintain this civil action and has established that it is likely to prevail on the merits, that it is likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of injunctive relief, and that the balance of the equities and the public interest favor an injunction. Accordingly, the Commonwealth's Motion for a Preliminary Injunction [Dkt. 23] is GRANTED and it is hereby

ORDERED that respondents, and all officers, agents, and employees of the Executive Branch of the United States government, and anyone acting under their authorization or direction be and are ENJOINED from enforcing § 3(c) of Executive Order 13,769 against any person who has a Virginia residence or is employed by or attends an educational institution administered by the Commonwealth of Virginia, and who, as of 5:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time on Friday, January 27, 2017, was lawfully admitted for permanent residency in the United States, held an immigrant visa that would entitle the bearer to be lawfully admitted for permanent residency upon admission to the United States, held a valid student visa (or accompanying family or spousal visa), or held a valid work visa (or accompanying family or spousal visa); and it is further

ORDERED that nothing in this Order affects the statutes or regulations relating to immigration in effect before Executive Order 13,769 went into effect; and it is further ORDERED that the Commonwealth of Virginia is not required to deposit a security.

The Clerk is directed to forward copies of this Preliminary Injunction and the accompanying Memorandum Opinion to counsel of record.

RE: State of Washington et al. v. Donald J. Trump, et al., Case No. 2:17-cv-00141JLR

Dear Clerk:

This afternoon, the Ninth Circuit denied an emergency motion for a stay of the temporary injunction imposed by Judge Robart. The Court of Appeals held that the district court order "possesses the qualities of an appealable preliminary injunction" and established a briefing schedule for the appeal of the district court order. Washington v. Trump, Case No. 17-35105, slip op. at 8, Dkt. Entry 134 (9th Cir. 2017); id. at Dkt. Entry 135 (ECF Nos. 68, 69). In light of the Court of Appeals decision, the States assume the district court briefing schedule is no longer applicable. The States will not be filing a preliminary injunction motion and brief in the district court tonight, unless we receive contrary guidance from the district court.

THIRD DECLARATION OF ASIF CHAUDHRY

I, Asif Chaudhry, hereby declare and affirm:

1. I am the Vice President for International Programs at Washington State University (WSU). I have made further inquiries regarding current applicants to WSU from countries targeted by the Executive Order entitled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry Into the United States." Based on those inquiries, I provide the following additional information. I have personal knowledge of the facts set forth in this declaration, and I am competent to testify about them.

ATTORNEY GENERAL OF WASHINGTON

(509) 335-2636

2. Several WSU students from targeted countries have had to forego international travel and conference activities related to their research. One student in WSU's College of Agricultural, Human, and Natural Resource Sciences, who is from Iran, was registered for an academic conference in Canada scheduled to take place February 5 - 8, 2017. His WSU department paid for the conference. The receipt, made out to his department chair, is attached as Exhibit A. The department also planned to cover his travel expenses. Due to the executive order, the student was unable to attend the conference.

3. WSU currently has one (1) graduate student applicant for the 2017 summer term and fifty-three (53) graduate student applicants for the 2017 fall semester from the countries targeted by the Executive Order. If these students were offered admission and accepted, they would pay a minimum of $42,216 per academic year in tuition and fees to WSU. If they were unable to obtain visas, were denied entry, or decided that study in the United States was no longer feasible, WSU could lose as much as $2,279,664 per academic year in revenue.

4. In addition, WSU currently has one (1) admitted undergraduate and six (6) undergraduate applications pending for the 2017 fall semester from prospective students from the countries targeted by the Executive Order. These students would pay a minimum of $41,628 per academic year in tuition and fees to WSU. If these students were unable to obtain visas, were denied entry, or decided that study in the United States was no longer feasible due to the Executive Order, WSU could lose as much as $291,396 in revenue per academic year.

5. Ten (10) of the applicants, graduate and undergraduate, currently are already in the United States.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of Washington that the foregoing is true and complete to the best of my knowledge.

Dated this 9th day of February, 2017.

STATE OF WASHINGTON and STATE OF MINNESOTA

Plaintiffs,

v.

DONALD TRUMP, in his official capacity as President of the United States; U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY; JOHN F. KELLY, in his official capacity as Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security; TOM SHANNON, in his official capacity as Acting Secretary of State; and the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendants.

DECLARATION OF ROVY BRANON

I, Rovy Branon, hereby declare and affirm:

1. I am over the age of 18 and am competent to testify.

2. I am the Vice Provost for the Continuum College, a self-sustaining unit of the University of Washington (UW). Continuum College operates a broad range of fee-based programs for the UW, including a large International English Language Program (IELP) that attracts students from around the world.

3. I have reviewed the provisions of the Presidential Executive Order entitled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry Into the United States" ("Order") and I understand that, among other things, it imposes a 90-day ban on the entry into the U.S. by persons from the countries of Syria, Iran, Sudan, Somalia, Iraq, Libya, and Yemen.

4. Continuum College's IELP has routinely enrolled students from several of these countries. The students who come to the UW for the IELP pay a program fee of $3,680 per quarter and a registration fee of $45.00 per quarter. The IELP offers entry to students at the beginning of each quarter during the academic year, including summer quarter. A copy of the IELP website pages showing general IELP information, including current tuition fees is attached hereto as Exhibit 1.

5. While Continuum College cannot know how many prospective students for its programs have chosen not to apply at all since the promulgation of the Order, we do know specifically of four students (three from Libya and one from Yemen) who, before the Order was issued, did apply to the IELP, were accepted for this coming Spring Quarter (which begins on March 22, 2017) and have been issued F-1 visas, but who would not be able to travel to the U.S. under the Order. True and accurate copies of the e-mail messages (with personally identifying information redacted) that were sent to these students informing them of their acceptance for Spring Quarter are attached hereto as Exhibits 2-5.

6. I am also aware of one student from Iran who has been accepted into the IELP for Summer Quarter 2017 and also has been issued an F-1 visa. Again, if the travel ban were to remain in place into Summer Quarter (which begins June 13, 2017) this student would not be able to enter the U.S. to participate in the program. A true and accurate copy of the acceptance letter to this student (with personally identifiable information redacted) is attached hereto as Exhibit 6.

7. A majority of students who enroll in IELP for a particular quarter continue to participate in the program for subsequent quarters. Accordingly, I believe that it is probable that some of the students referenced above would enroll for subsequent quarters if they were able to enroll in Spring and Summer Quarters, respectively.

8. In addition, Continuum College has sponsored a professional instructor from Waseda University in Japan (Waseda) who is a citizen of Iran to participate in a regular short term faculty training program offered through Continuum College under an agreement with Waseda. This individual has been issued a B-1 visa and was scheduled to commence the training program on February 27, 2017. If this individual is unable to attend the training program because of the travel ban, Continuum College will lose the fee amount of $3,600 it expects to receive from Waseda for his participation.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States that the foregoing is true and complete to the best of my knowledge.

Dated this 9th day of February, 2017.

Intensive English Program (IEP)

Overview | Program Details | How to Apply

The UW Intensive English Program (IEP) has multiple levels of instruction to serve students who range from beginning to advanced English proficiency. Depending on the track you select, you will take a combination of core courses covering listening, speaking, reading and writing, along with elective courses on different topics.

The IEP offers three different tracks. Click on the links below to get more information about each track.

- University Track
- Business English Track
- Communication & Culture Track

Placement

Before classes begin, students will take a placement test to evaluate their English reading, writing and listening skills. The test will determine your level in each area. You will choose or be assigned to classes based on your test results. You may be higher in one skill area than another.

Students who have a TOEFL iBT of 84-91 or IELTS of 6.5 may be eligible for the accelerated University Track. Contact us if you meet these requirements and are interested in learning more.

Students interested in the Business English Track who meet certain English proficiency requirements may also apply directly to the Intensive Business English Program (IBEP). See the IBEP How to Apply page for more details.

Location

IEP classes are held in several locations.

Level 1 courses for all tracks meet at UW's downtown Seattle location, located in the Puget Sound Plaza Building, 1325 4th Ave., Suite 400 (map). Located in the busy heart of Seattle, not far from the waterfront, the UW's downtown location offers the best of our city's culture and events, food and drink, and business community. The downtown location is easily accessed by the bus and light rail.

Take a video tour of our downtown location.

Other University Track classes typically meet on the University of Washington campus in Seattle or in the nearby 45th Street Plaza building (map).

Classes for the Business English and Communication & Culture tracks are held either on the main campus, the 45th Street Plaza building or the UW downtown Seattle location, depending on the level.

Be sure to check your schedule to determine the exact location of your classes.

IEP Tracks

The IEP offers three tracks that are designed to help students meet their educational goals. The three tracks are: University Track, Business English Track, Communication & Culture Track. For your reference, we have attached a diagram of the three tracks to this e-mail. More information is available on our website (http://www.ielp.uw.edu/programs/academic-prep/iep/) and will be provided during orientation.

The location of your classes will depend on your track and current level. Your initial level will be determined by the results for your placement test (see below).

Placement Test

All IEP students take a placement test at the beginning of the program to determine their level. You will be tested on your reading, writing, and listening skills. (There is no speaking assessment on the placement test. Listening and speaking classes are integrated.) Based on your results, you will be placed into a level from 1 to 5.

All students who test into Level 1 begin in General English classes at our UW downtown Seattle campus. All students who test into Level 2 begin in General English classes at our UW Seattle campus. Students who test into the higher levels take classes that are specific to their track.

If your score is lower than level 1, you cannot study in IEP. F-1 visa holders with placement test results lower than level 1 will be required to study at another SEVP-approved program for at least one quarter before returning to IEP. We will assist such students with the transfer process.

NOTE: Only students taking the IEP placement test are allowed in the testing room. Children, spouses, family members, friends, and any other non-test-takers will NOT be allowed in the testing room. If you have children, you must make your own childcare arrangements in advance of the test. Do not bring your children to the test.

Registration and Advising

At the placement test, you will be assigned a registration appointment. During your registration appointment, you will receive the results of your placement test, choose your classes, and pay your tuition.

F-1 visa holders are required to study full-time. Full-time study in IEP is 20 hours per week.

Payment for Program Fees

You will pay for your classes at the time of your registration appointment. These are the fees you can expect to pay:

- Tuition (20 hours/week) & registration fee: $3725
- Health insurance: $310 (see Health Insurance below)
- U-PASS: $150 (see Commuting to Campus below)

Fees above are per quarter and are subject to change without notice.

Payments can be made by traveler's checks, certified bank checks, personal checks, or Visa/MasterCard. IMPORTANT: We can ONLY accept VISA or MASTERCARD. We CANNOT accept American Express, Discover, or any other type of credit/debit card.

IMPORTANT: If you plan to pay by credit card, you should inform your credit card company of the date and amount so that they will be sure to honor the charge.

Refer to our website for further information about paying for program fees (http://www.ielp.uw.edu/student-services/registration-payment/).

Housing

Students must make their own housing arrangements. The options are university dormitory, host family, or individual house or apartment. You will need to make housing arrangements before you arrive in the US. Our office does not make hotel, housing, home stay, or dormitory reservations for students.

Refer to our website for further information about housing arrangements (http://www.ielp.uw.edu/housing/). Dormitory housing is usually not available during Autumn Quarter.

Health Insurance

The UW International Student Health Insurance Plan (ISHIP) is required for all international students with F-1 visa status who are enrolled full-time. Eligible international students will be enrolled automatically for quarterly, student-only coverage for each quarter they register for classes. The current rate for ISHIP is $310 per quarter.

Dependents: If you want to enroll your spouse and/or children, you must indicate this during registration. Insurance for dependents is $300 per person, per quarter.

NOTE: This requirement will only be waived for students who are funded by their government or by the U.S. government.

Measles Immunization

All UW IELP students are required to provide proof of Measles (Rubeola) immunity by filling out the UW Measles Immunity Requirement Form (MIRF). A copy of the MIRF is attached to this e-mail.

WHAT do you need to do?

- Complete the MIRF with the following information:
  - Date of two live virus measles (rubeola) vaccinations, both given after January 1, 1968
  - Vaccines must have been given no earlier than 12 months of age (on or after first birthday) with at least 28 days between doses.
- Submit your completed MIRF and a copy of your immunization records to the IELP office by e-mail or fax:
  - E-mail: IELPAdmissions@pce.uw.edu
  - Fax: (206) 685-9572

NOTE: If you are not able to get the vaccination because you are pregnant or you have a compromised immune system, you can take a measles (rubeola) titer blood test. If you take a titer test, write the date of the test on your MIRF and submit a copy of the titer lab result.

WHEN do you need to do this?

- BEFORE your program begins
- If you are not able to complete the MIRF before you arrive, you may get vaccinated at the UW Hall Health Center

NOTE: Students born before January 1, 1957 are considered immune to measles and are not required to submit proof of immunity.

In addition, it is recommended that international students also get a health certificate (in English) from their doctor that lists all immunizations and diseases they have had or have been exposed to, and bring this with them to the University of Washington.

Commuting to Campus

The University of Washington has a special discounted bus pass, called the U-PASS, which is $150 per quarter (3 months) for students. You are not required to purchase the U-PASS. However, even if you drive a car, having a U-PASS has its advantages. You will learn more about the U-PASS at orientation. You will be able to purchase the U-PASS when you pay for your classes.

Cancellations or Deferrals

If you decide not to attend our program, please let us know so that we can cancel your reservation.

If you need to defer your admission to a later quarter, you MUST contact us no later than the fifth day of the quarter you are accepted to. Otherwise, you will need to reapply to our program.

We look forward to meeting you and having you study with us!

Sincerely,

Placement Test

All IEP students take a placement test at the beginning of the program to determine their level. You will be tested on your reading, writing, and listening skills. (There is no speaking assessment on the placement test. Listening and speaking classes are integrated.) Based on your results, you will be placed into a level from 1 to 5.

All students who test into Level 1 begin in General English classes at our UW downtown Seattle campus. All students who test into Level 2 begin in General English classes at our UW Seattle campus. Students who test into the higher levels take classes that are specific to their track.

If your score is lower than level 1, you cannot study in IEP. F-1 visa holders with placement test results lower than level 1 will be required to study at another SEVP-approved program for at least one quarter before returning to IEP. We will assist such students with the transfer process.

NOTE: Only students taking the IEP placement test are allowed in the testing room. Children, spouses, family members, friends, and any other non-test-takers will NOT be allowed in the testing room. If you have children, you must make your own childcare arrangements in advance of the test. Do not bring your children to the test.

Registration and Advising

At the placement test, you will be assigned a registration appointment. During your registration appointment, you will receive the results of your placement test, choose your classes, and pay your tuition.

F-1 visa holders are required to study full-time. Full-time study in IEP is 20 hours per week.

Payment for Program Fees

You will pay for your classes at the time of your registration appointment. These are the fees you can expect to pay:

- Tuition (20 hours/week) & registration fee: $3725
- Health insurance: $310 (see Health Insurance below)
- U-PASS: $150 (see Commuting to Campus below)

Fees above are per quarter and are subject to change without notice.

Payments can be made by traveler's checks, certified bank checks, personal checks, or Visa/MasterCard. IMPORTANT: We can ONLY accept VISA or MASTERCARD. We CANNOT accept American Express, Discover, or any other type of credit/debit card.

IMPORTANT: If you plan to pay by credit card, you should inform your credit card company of the date and amount so that they will be sure to honor the charge.

Refer to our website for further information about paying for program fees (http://www.ielp.uw.edu/student-services/registration-payment/).

Housing

Students must make their own housing arrangements. The options are university dormitory, host family, or individual house or apartment. You will need to make housing arrangements before you arrive in the US. Our office does not make hotel, housing, home stay, or dormitory reservations for students.

Refer to our website for further information about housing arrangements (http://www.ielp.uw.edu/housing/). Dormitory housing is usually not available during Autumn Quarter.

Health Insurance

The UW International Student Health Insurance Plan (ISHIP) is required for all international students with F-1 visa status who are enrolled full-time. Eligible international students will be enrolled automatically for quarterly, student-only coverage for each quarter they register for classes. The current rate for ISHIP is $310 per quarter.

Dependents: If you want to enroll your spouse and/or children, you must indicate this during registration. Insurance for dependents is $300 per person, per quarter.

NOTE: This requirement will only be waived for students who are funded by their government or by the U.S. government.

Measles Immunization

All UW IELP students are required to provide proof of Measles (Rubeola) immunity by filling out the UW Measles Immunity Requirement Form (MIRF). A copy of the MIRF is attached to this e-mail.

WHAT do you need to do?

- Complete the MIRF with the following information:
  - Date of two live virus measles (rubeola) vaccinations, both given after January 1, 1968
  - Vaccines must have been given no earlier than 12 months of age (on or after first birthday) with at least 28 days between doses.
- Submit your completed MIRF and a copy of your immunization records to the IELP office by e-mail or fax:
  - E-mail: IELPAdmissions@pce.uw.edu
  - Fax: (206) 685-9572

NOTE: If you are not able to get the vaccination because you are pregnant or you have a compromised immune system, you can take a measles (rubeola) titer blood test. If you take a titer test, write the date of the test on your MIRF and submit a copy of the titer lab result.

WHEN do you need to do this?

- BEFORE your program begins
- If you are not able to complete the MIRF before you arrive, you may get vaccinated at the UW Hall Health Center

NOTE: Students born before January 1, 1957 are considered immune to measles and are not required to submit proof of immunity.

In addition, it is recommended that international students also get a health certificate (in English) from their doctor that lists all immunizations and diseases they have had or have been exposed to, and bring this with them to the University of Washington.

Commuting to Campus

The University of Washington has a special discounted bus pass, called the U-PASS, which is $150 per quarter (3 months) for students. You are not required to purchase the U-PASS. However, even if you drive a car, having a U-PASS has its advantages. You will learn more about the U-PASS at orientation. You will be able to purchase the U-PASS when you pay for your classes.

Cancellations or Deferrals

If you decide not to attend our program, please let us know so that we can cancel your reservation.

If you need to defer your admission to a later quarter, you MUST contact us no later than the fifth day of the quarter you are accepted to. Otherwise, you will need to reapply to our program.

We look forward to meeting you and having you study with us!

Thanks Jeff. I get it and if it had been posted prior to us. Ring aware of the injunction it would be normal course of business posting it after, even if a re-post of a DHS post might give the impression that we are not completely compliant. I tend to be super conservative on this stuff which is why I'm deferring to OCC. Molly, you don't need the link, the press statement is at the bottom of this email chain.

STATEMENT ON COUNTRIES CURRENTLY SUSPENDED FROM TRAVEL TO THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON - The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) would like to clarify the classes of aliens affected by the 90-day temporary pause on travel, with case-by-base exceptions and waivers, as outlined in the President's Executive Order entitled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States."

To ensure that the U.S. government can conduct a thorough analysis of the national security risks faced by our immigration system, the Executive Order imposes a 90-day pause on the entry into the United States of nationals from Iraq, Syria, Sudan, Iran, Somalia, Libya, and Yemen. This pause does not apply to Lawful Permanent Residents, dual citizens with passports from a country other than the seven listed, or those traveling on diplomatic, NATO or UN visas. Special Immigrant Visa holders who are nationals of these seven countries may board U.S.-bound planes, and apply for and receive a national interest exception to the pause upon arrival.

Importantly, these seven countries are the only countries to which the pause on entry applies. No other countries face such treatment. Nor have any other countries been identified as warranting future inclusion at this time, contrary to false reports.

As directed by the Executive Order, DHS is working with the Department of State and the Office of the Director of National Intelligence to conduct a country-by-country review of the information provided by countries in order for their nationals to apply for myriad visas, immigration benefits, or otherwise seek admission into the United States. This review is needed to ensure that individuals seeking to enter the U.S. are who they claim to be and do not pose a security or public-safety threat.

The results of this review will be provided to the President within 30 days of the Executive Order's signing. This review, conducted in consultation with our interagency partners, will determine which countries do not provide adequate information on their nationals seeking immigration benefits or admission into the United States. Principally, the goal is to ensure that those admitted to this country do not bear hostile attitudes toward the United States and its founding principles.

Based on that report, the State Department will ask any foreign governments who were determined to not be supplying adequate information on their nationals to begin providing such information within 60 days.

In order to protect Americans, and to advance the national interest, the United States must ensure that we have adequate information about individuals seeking to enter this country to ensure that they do not bear malicious intent toward the United States and its people.

To ensure that the U.S. government can conduct a thorough analysis of the national security risks faced by our immigration system, the Executive Order imposes a 90-day pause on the entry into the United States of nationals from Iraq, Syria, Sudan, Iran, Somalia, Libya, and Yemen. This pause does not apply to Lawful Permanent Residents, dual citizens with passports from a country other than the seven listed, or those traveling on diplomatic, NATO or UN visas. Special Immigrant Visa holders who are nationals of these seven countries may board U.S.-bound planes, and apply for and receive a national interest exception to the pause upon arrival.

Importantly, these seven countries are the only countries to which the pause on entry applies. No other countries face such treatment. Nor have any other countries been identified as warranting future inclusion at this time, contrary to false reports.

As directed by the Executive Order, DHS is working with the Department of State and the Office of the Director of National Intelligence to conduct a country-by-country review of the information provided by countries in order for their nationals to apply for myriad visas, immigration benefits, or otherwise seek admission into the United States. This review is needed to ensure that individuals seeking to enter the U.S. are who they claim to be and do not pose a security or public-safety threat.

The results of this review will be provided to the President within 30 days of the Executive Order's signing. This review, conducted in consultation with our interagency partners, will determine which countries do not provide adequate information on their nationals seeking immigration benefits or admission into the United States. Principally, the goal is to ensure that those admitted to this country do not bear hostile attitudes toward the United States and its founding principles.

Based on that report, the State Department will ask any foreign governments who were determined to not be supplying adequate information on their nationals to begin providing such information within 60 days.

In order to protect Americans, and to advance the national interest, the United States must ensure that we have adequate information about individuals seeking to enter this country to ensure that they do not bear malicious intent toward the United States and its people.

Subject: URGENT TIME SENSTIIVE: Proposed Language for CAM parolees

Here is our proposed language, based on what we understand the current thinking to be. Is this your understanding of the decision and can we message this as noted below? We have people scheduled to travel on Monday. IOM has booked and the beneficiaries have paid for their travel. Please note that approximately 190 people have booked travel. Of those, only one individual would be traveling with a refugee family member. [note, our numbers are from IOM, so we may be off a bit, but this is close]

SUSPENSION OF TRAVEL FOR INDIVIDUALS GRANTED PAROLE UNDER THE CENTRAL AMERICAN MINORS REFUGEE/PAROLE PROGRAM (CAM)

On January 27, 2017, President Donald J. Trump signed an Executive Order, "Protecting the Nation From Terrorist Entry into the United States" that called for an immediate suspension of the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program (USRAP) for 120 days. In light of this temporary suspension, USCIS will also be pausing travel to the United States for all individuals granted parole under the Central American Minors Refugee/Parole Program. USCIS will act as follows:

- During this suspension, an applicant whose parole request has been approved by USCIS will be permitted to travel with any refugee family member who is permitted to travel pursuant to an exemption.
- The travel for all other individuals who were granted parole by USCIS under this program will be suspended until the U.S. Refugee Admission Program resumes for this population.

"Trump lashes 'dumb deal' with Australia on refugees after fraught call with Turnbull"

- Trump tweets fury at agreement to resettle refugees from Nauru and Manus
- Washington Post says he told Australian PM their conversation was 'worst call'

Donald Trump has torn into the US agreement to resettle refugees from Australia's offshore detention centres, calling it a "dumb deal" and describing the refugees as illegal immigrants.

Trump took to Twitter to voice his displeasure at a deal he had pledged to uphold in a phone call with the Australian prime minister on Sunday.

"Do you believe it? The Obama administration agreed to take thousands of illegal immigrants from Australia. Why? I will study this dumb deal."

Less than two hours previously, the US State Department had insisted the deal was on in response to a Washington Post report of a fraught phone call between Trump and Australia's prime minister, Malcolm Turnbull.

"President Trump's decision to honour the refugee agreement has not changed," a US embassy spokesperson in Canberra said in a statement.

The deal brokered between former president Barack Obama and Turnbull originally forecast the resettlement of up to 1,250 refugees from Australia's offshore detention islands of Manus Island and Nauru.

According to the Washington Post, Trump told Turnbull the refugee resettlement agreement was "the worst deal ever" and warned he was going to "get killed" politically for it during their one-on-one call last weekend, according to a detailed account of the conversation in the Washington Post.

The Post reported that Trump had fumed during his Sunday phone call with the Australian prime minister telling Turnbull he'd spoken to other world leaders on the same day, and this was "this was the worst call by far".

Trump, according to the report, accused Australia of seeking to export the "next Boston bombers".

The report says the friction between the two leaders "reflected Trump's anger over being bound by an agreement reached by the Obama administration to accept refugees from Australian detention sites even while Trump was issuing an executive order suspending such arrivals from elsewhere in the world".

The White House declined to comment on the report on Thursday.

The "one-off" refugee resettlement deal was announced in November with Obama agreeing to take an unspecified number of refugees from Australia's offshore detention centres on Manus Island and Nauru.

Both Australian-run detention camps have been the subject of sustained criticism by the UN, human rights groups and other nations over systemic sexual and physical abuse of those detained, including rapes, beatings and the murder of one asylum seeker by guards; child sexual abuse; chronic rates of self-harm and suicide; dangerous levels of sustained mental illness, harsh conditions and inadequate medical treatment leading to several deaths.

The report on the phone call says Turnbull insisted the new administration honour the agreement, and allow refugees to enter the country on the normal vetting arrangements, which prompted Trump to declare they would be subjected to "extreme vetting".

The call, scheduled for an hour, was terminated after 25 minutes, the Post said. The source of the account is attributed as a "senior US official".

Turnbull declined to comment on the report, saying the resettlement deal remained on track and it was best that conversations between leaders remained private.

"I'm not going to comment on the conversation," Turnbull told reporters in Melbourne. "During the course of the conversation, as you know and it was confirmed by the president's official spokesman, the president assured me that he would continue with, honour the agreement we entered into with the Obama administration, with respect to refugee resettlement."

Asked whether Trump had hung up on him, Turnbull again declined to comment, but he suggested he had argued Australia's corner. "Australians know me very well. I always stand up for Australia in every forum."

The new report significantly intensifies the government's woes over the refugee deal, which has been the subject of confusing accounts out of Washington over the past few days.

The Turnbull government has been at pains to stress the deal is on track despite the contradictory statements out of Washington, and Turnbull has not referenced any tension between the two leaders, despite the fact the deal clearly contradicts Trump's anti-immigrant messaging throughout the presidential campaign.

Tracy and Lori,

Just as FOD, SCOPs and Asylum have sent out guidance to staff to hold certain cases tomorrow, IO plans to send out the following tonight to address the questions we have been getting and ensure staff do not violate the E.O. Please let me know if you have any objections.

The guidance is only intended for cases this week, until we can issue cleared guidance.

Thanks,

Joanna – this is what I'd like to send to the Field Managers. I'll attach the EO when I send it for their reference.

International Managers,

We continue to work as rapidly as possible to get clarification on implementation of the Executive Order signed on January 27, 2017 (attached for reference), and are working on detailed guidance to help field staff address various scenarios you may be encountering overseas. In the meantime, please follow the below guidance for the next few days until more complete guidance is available:

1. Refugee-Related Processing

A. For all I-590 Refugee Cases (all nationalities), all I-730 Refugee Follow-to-Join cases (all nationalities), and I-730 Asylee Follow-to-Join cases where the beneficiary is a national of Iraq, Iran, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, and Yemen:

1. Interview already scheduled this week, sufficient time to cancel

   - Cancel interview, even if Lautenberg or other religious minority case. We will offer further guidance on these types of cases as soon as it is available.

   - If I-730 cases, pause CAMINO Clock effective 1/27/2017; enter note "Per Executive Order".

2. Interview already scheduled, insufficient time to cancel

- Collect fingerprints, review bio-data on case for accuracy and completeness, and notify applicant that he/she will be contacted with additional information in the future when we are able to proceed in the processing of his or her case.

- For I-730 cases, pause CAMINO Clock effective 1/27/2017; enter note "Per Executive Order".

3. Interview not yet scheduled

- Do not schedule any cases until further notice.

- For I-730 cases, pause CAMINO Clock effective 1/27/2017; enter note "Per Executive Order".

4-6 below relate to I-730 Refugee Follow-to-Joins (all nationalities) and I-730 Asylee Follow-to-Joins of the 7 nationalities (Only)

4. Already interviewed, pending decision or travel packet issuance

- No final decisions or travel packets should be issued. Pause CAMINO Clock effective 1/27/2017; enter note "Per Executive Order".

5. If new cases received

- Immediately pause the Clock upon case entry, noting 1/27/2017 E.O.

Note: I-730 Asylee Follow-to-Join cases of all other nationalities can continue processing to completion, as usual.

B. I-590 Adjudications, I-590 Supervisory Review and I-602 Adjudications

- Staff should stop making decisions or completing supervisory review until further notice.

C. RFR Adjudications

- You may continue to process RFR adjudications to completion if they are denials. All others should be held until further notice and the Clock in CAMINO paused as of 1/27/2017.

2. All Other Benefit Types where the Applicant/Beneficiary is a national or dual national of Iraq, Iran, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, or Yemen

You may continue processing other case types but do not issue any final decisions until further notice, including I-131A boarding letters. If you receive an I-131A boarding letter request from a national or dual national of one of the 7 countries listed above, please contact me and Jen Kliska for guidance. I-407 abandonments can continue to be processed.

3. Handling of Inquiries

If you receive inquiries from foreign governments about any DHS equities related to the Executive Orders, please direct those inquiries to Matt King, Deputy Assistant Secretary, Policy at [redacted] Please do not provide his contact information to parties external to USCIS.

(b)(6)

The above guidance is only a stop-gap to assist in addressing the most urgent needs for the next few days or even this week when more detailed cleared guidance can be issued. Also, for awareness, OCOMM is also working on talking points and FAQs related to the Executive Order, which should be issued via USCIS Broadcast soon.

If districts can continue to collect and consolidate questions from the field, that would be helpful. I appreciate the difficulty of being on the front line and getting inquiries from the public and others for which we don't yet have complete answers. Many people throughout the Agency and Department are working hard to sort out impact of the E.O. on the Agency. I appreciate your patience during this effort!

More to follow soon. Thank you for your continued support and dedication as we navigate the current policy changes!

Subject: Executive Order: PROTECTING THE NATION FROM FOREIGN TERRORIST ENTRY INTO THE UNITED STATES - Field Operations Instructions

On January 27, 2017, the President signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefits. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the entry immigrants and nonimmigrants who are from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

Effectively immediately and until additional guidance is received, you may not take final action on any petition or application where the applicant is a citizen or national of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. Field offices may interview applicants for adjustment of status and other benefits according to current processing guidance and may process petitions and applications for individuals from these countries up to the point where a decision would be made. At that point, cases shall be placed on hold until further notice and will be shelved with specific NFTS codes which will be provided through the Regional Offices. Offices are not permitted make any final decision on affected cases to include approval, denial, withdrawal, or revocation.

Please look for additional guidance later this weekend on how to process naturalization applicants from one of the seven countries listed above who are currently scheduled for oath ceremony or whose N-400s have been approved and they are pending scheduling of oath ceremony.

We expect to issue more detailed guidance and procedures as needed in the coming days. Questions or requests for additional clarification may be directed to the Regional Offices through your chain of command.

Thanks Angie. Just to solidify one issue, we need to have a single individual working our communications on this issue with DHS and that person will be Angie given her expertise in multiple varieties of external engagement. She will need assistance and perhaps back-up from OCOM and/or CSPE as we negotiate these and perhaps future EOs. I'm asking all of you to support Angie in her role and keep her informed and copied on all exchanges with DHS. If you have questions/concerns let me know.

Wonderful, thanks!
Alan and I just participated in the leg affairs call. His excellent notes below:

1). Press Release distributed to Hill and Press. Need to advance as broadly as possible as quickly as possible.

2). NJIC activated yesterday, expected to be operational for 5-7 days. Staffed 24/7 with all components staffing. NJIC working closely with WH Comms, WH Policy, and WH Leg. CBP provided numbers regarding detentions. Stay is being reviewed to see how it affects the EOs.

3). Fact sheets being developed and hopefully will be distributed today (1/29). Fact Sheets will address which countries are affected and why (7 countries), LPRs, and provide greater context to decisions and implementation.

4). NOT using word "ban," but referring to section 212(f) "suspension of entry."

5). DHS OLA collecting information on contacts from the Hill. Roll-ups due to DHS at 3:00 p.m. And 3:00 a.m. each day. DHS OLA will send out a template to collect critical information. Tier 1 calls should be flagged for OLA and NJIC to alert S1 staff and consider direct calls to Members. Case inquiries should be included in the roll-up, but also sent to the responsible agencies.

6). CBP is not providing information on individual cases. Need talking points. DFOs are not meeting with Members who are at ports of entry. 9:00 a.m. - Fewer than 40 in custody/detention. CBP processing waivers on all who have not yet been admitted.

7). FAQs being developed on issues regarding LPRs, Refugee processing, and a myriad of CBP-specific matters.

We have been asked to ensure that the DHS statement is shared far and wide. Jeff is aware and will make sure CSPE and OLA govdel boxes are checked. MAriela, what is the current guidance for the call centers?
We will be pulling together various reports (due at 3pm and 3am) capturing Hill requests. I am told we will have the Q/As TODAY. We will be asked to distribute. We will also have various fact sheets.
Please identify a person on your staff who will run point and be responsible for submitting info. I'll have more detail on what specific info we will need to submit shortly but the general issue are hill/press/s&l/private sector.

NER ran a scrape of C3 data. Field Ops has 13,376 pending case filed by or on behalf of an individual from one of the 7 countries. That number, of course is limited to cases that can be identified through systems data, and does not account for cases with missing data in the system or dual citizens where the third country was listed. Its close enough, though to get an idea of the number of impacted cases.

Since it appears the EO does not apply to the citizenship line of business, we will hold off on a run of C4.

Thanks Molly. I should have been a little clearer on the intent of this. Its just to get the conversation started with DHS. This is for policy discussion, It's not for public consumption. I think much of what youa re suggestion is perfect for public statements. I put the explanations in so DHS knows why we are taking the position we are for each question.

2. I think if we use the word visa we're going to not be allowed to continue to adjudicate them. We don't do visas. Do we?

3. I'd really like to get the go ahead to continue doing as much as possible in the refugee arena. I like your statement for public consumption.

4. I like this for a statement for OCOM to use.

5. I'm assuming we can adjudicate asylum requests but we should get clarification.

Now we are aware of at least two TROs, so I am not sure how quickly we will get anything cleared or agreement on what the impact is. But that said I offer the following comments for consideration.

I don't think we should try to explain the intent of the EOs in trying to explain the answer to 1. I'd prefer it to say: No, the EO does not prevent the adjudication of domestic 485 adjudications. But I don't think we have clarity if it does or does not. 212(f) speaks to suspension on entry but I understand the language in the order is broader so I am not clear what the DHS or USG position will be.

2. USCIS will continue to adjudicate any visa or other application, request or benefit not impacted by the Executive Order.

-- we do adjudicate Ts and Us and extensions of status so want to walk a line and with uncertainty about reach of order think something along these lines may be better.

3-Should we just be a little more vague and say. For example if we have few religious minorities on circuit ride with other things.

DHS along with DOS continues to review the Executive Order and planned refugee circuit rides and will conduct interviews as appropriate and consistent with the Executive Order.

4-DHS and DOS will coordinate on processing individual refugee cases that may be appropriate for travel consistent with the Executive Order.

5- I'm wondering about whether the exception can be used for following to join asylees? Need to double check.

6-- OGC had advised yesterday that CBP was to follow the VWP dual national guidance. But we should confirm or ask that they provide the answer.

Here we go. I've added Todd and Jessica for clean up once I have reactions because these answers could go any number of ways. I"m just getting a sense of our answer here. It's not pretty or diplomatic.

1. THe EOs are to protect the NS and safety of the U.S. From persons entering our country from the designated countries and does not apply to people in the U.S. Applying for adjustment of status. (OCC check me on this.). I know the EO uses language like all immigration benefits but the details address visa issuance to NIVs and IVs. Maybe the intent is to include adjustment but as long as this answer isn't completely ridiculous I'd like to start here.

2. USCIS will continue to adjudicate various petitions and applications. Visas are not issued by USCIS

3. Yes, in light of the language in the EO we will continue these refugee interviews.

4. THis will be done on a case by case basis. (We will need some standards for this)

5. This will be done on a case by case basis. (Ditto on standards and procedures)

6. Yes.

Let's hear what everyone h as to say.

Subject: RE: Clearance for Extreme Vetting Q&A

All:

We have been asked by DHS to draft and clear within USCIS responses to the questions we sent up earlier.

Also, FYI, attached is what CBP submitted back to DHS OPA. We will be adding to that document so the questions should similarly be framed as media inquiries and I have taken a stab at that below.

DHS has asked for our responses as soon as possible tonight. Please send to me and I will forward them along.

Thanks,

Jeff

1. Does the Executive Order apply to I-485 applications to adjust to LPR status here in the U.S.?

2. Does this impact USCIS ability to adjust visas of those eligible to adjust in the U.S., such as a family based petition or an employment based petition?

3. Can USCIS continue refugee interviews of religious minorities and for countries with which we have an agreement?

4. Will the U.S. accept emergency requests to process a refugee who will then travel?

5. Can the exception for refugee admission be used in I-730 cases?

6. Does "from one of the seven countries" mean citizen, national or born in?

7. Does the Executive Order apply to those currently being adjudicated for naturalization?
USCIS will continue to adjudicate N-400 applications for naturalization and administer the oath of citizenship for approved candidates who remain eligible.

Many more than I would have expected. We have folks running reports to see what we have pending in C3 and ELIS for applicants, beneficiaries and requesters from the 7 countries. We should have that Monday afternoon.

Regarding COS and EOS, it occurred to me to wonder to what extent there actually are nonimmigrants from those countries. Numbers aren't huge, but they are there. For FY 2015 per DHS yearbook, total nonimmigrant admissions for nationals of these countries were:
Iraq, 21,381
Iran, 35,266
Libya, 3,879
Yemen, 5,549
Sudan, 4,792
Syria, 16,018
Somalia, 359

Numbers for the two preceding years were similar. There are also tables further breaking it down by category but I didn't dig into it that deeply.

All-

The 2:45 call did not address any of our outstanding issues. The call centered on a group of travel ready refugees and a discussion on whether to recommend applying a waiver allowing them to travel and be admitted. However, there is a WH principals' call at 4:00 that Lori will be on and we were encouraged to send our questions forward in advance of that call so DHS can either get us answers based on their knowledge or address the questions during the 4:00 call. Lori will be forwarding those questions. Stay tuned, we may have some guidance on at least some of our issues later today.

Jeff,

I posed this question to DHS HQ just this morning because we had a 1:00 ceremony at the WAS field office with five individuals from the seven countries. I got a response back from DHS just before 1:00 indicating that we were good to go ahead with naturalizing those individuals. So, the answer is no, it does not apply to candidates for naturalization.

OPA just called – they would like anything we can provide within the hour so they can hold a call with CBP and others who are getting bombarded with media inquiries and prepare S1 to return Hill calls.

One question I could see for us, even though it is somewhat answered in the first question below: Does the Executive Order apply to those currently being adjudicated for naturalization?

These seem to be issue that need to be addressed at the Department level.

They are also asking for other questions we think should be included, so we may want to put together a list of questions, even if we don't have answers yet.

Hi Phyllis,

I just received a call from Kavita on my cell phone asking for a comment regarding people currently detained at JFK. She indicated that the Mayor is en route. I told her that USCIS does not have jurisdiction regarding people detained at the airport. She was fine with my response. I referred her to DHS HQ OPA.

I'm not saying that you shouldn't put them on a temp hold like you are other categories of adjudication, I'm saying we shouldn't jump to suppressing notices or changing language. If you've given the order to pause adjudication leave it as is until we get some clarity.

No, not yet. Giving them the document that extends their status (to include travel) doesn't necessarily mean they will travel so we shouldn't withhold that document from people who need it as proof of status. If we confirm that travel while a Conditional Resident might pose a problem we can tweak the notice language in similar fashion to what we do for those who get advance parole and might be subject to the 3/10-year bar when they attempt reentry. And clearly we will be doing as much communication as possible once we understand the facts.

Center Directors and Deputies,

On January 27, 2017, the President signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefits. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the entry immigrants and nonimmigrants who are from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

While we await further guidance, we must temporarily suspend adjudication of all applications, petitions or requests involving citizens or nationals of the listed countries. At this point there are no exceptions for any form types, to include I-90s or I-765s. Please physically segregate any files that are impacted by this temporary hold pending further guidance. As you would expect, we will be developing a weekly report format for you to identify the number and types of cases on hold.

We expect to issue more detailed guidance and procedures in the coming days.

Please ensure this guidance is conveyed as soon as possible to all appropriate employees and get back to us with any questions. Also, please reply to let me know each center has received this message.

Thanks,

Don

While we await further guidance, we must temporarily suspend adjudication of all applications, petitions or requests involving citizens or nationals of the listed countries. At this point there are no exceptions for any form types, to include I-90s or I-765s. Please physically segregate any files that are impacted by this temporary hold pending further guidance. As you would expect, we will be developing a weekly report format for you to identify the number and types of cases on hold.

We expect to issue more detailed guidance and procedures in the coming days.

Please ensure this guidance is conveyed as soon as possible to all appropriate employees and get back to us with any questions. Also, please reply to let me know each center has received this message.

So now the question comes do we stop issuing I-751 receipt notices since they provide interim extension of evidence of LPR status that can be used for employment and travel. I have said no unless I hear otherwise.

Subject: Executive Order: PROTECTING THE NATION FROM FOREIGN TERRORIST ENTRY INTO THE UNITED STATES - Service Center Instructions

Center Directors and Deputies,

On January 27, 2017, the President signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefits. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the entry immigrants and nonimmigrants who are from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

While we await further guidance, we must temporarily suspend adjudication of all applications, petitions or requests involving citizens or nationals of the listed countries. At this point there are no exceptions for any form types, to include I-90s or I-765s. Please physically segregate any files that are impacted by this temporary hold pending further guidance. O.K. This is fine except please hold all decisions. When I was in INS general counsel we moved ahead with suspension denials and held approvals when there were no longer numbers available and we got sued and lost in the 9th circuit. A strange outcome that I do not agree with but I'd prefer not to have us involved in litigation if we can help it. Ha, ha, ha, I just realized that was a ridiculous statement, we're going to get sued but I'd still prefer to hold all cases unless we are planning to put the denied person into proceedings as a NS or public safety risk.

Effectively immediately, you may not approve any immigrant or nonimmigrant petition or application where the applicant is a citizen or national of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. Field offices may interview applicants for adjustment of status and other benefits according to current processing guidance and may process petitions and applications for individuals from these countries up to the point where a decision would be made. Cases where approval is recommended shall be held in abeyance until further notice and will be shelved with specific NFTS codes which will be provided through the Regional Office. Denials, withdrawals, and administrative closures may proceed as they normally would.

Additionally, until provided with further instructions, offices also may not approve any Form N-400 (Application for Naturalization) or naturalize any individual from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. Here's my recommended message for the centers. I'm looking to either Tracy or Lori to weigh in on the highlighted sentence. On reflection, I'd really like to keep at least I-90s and I-765s in motion given the high volume and potential impact of delays. However, I'm comfortable with striking anything or even the whole sentence.

On January 27, 2017, the President signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefits. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the entry immigrants and nonimmigrants who are from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

Exceptions to this temporary suspension would be I-765 applications for employment authorization; I-751 petitions to remove conditions; I-130 and I-140 visa petitions; I-90, N-565 and I-102 applications for replacement documents; and I-129 nonimmigrant petitions where the beneficiary is not seeking an extension or change of status.

Please segregate any files that are impacted by this temporary hold pending further guidance. As you would expect, we will be developing a weekly report format for you to identify the number and types of cases on hold.

I see your point, since the adjudication of applications and petitions is not specifically mentioned in the EO, I will change my language to be more along the line of yours. How about this:

On January 27, 2017, the President signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefits. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the entry immigrants and nonimmigrants who are from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

Effectively immediately and until additional guidance is received, you may not approve any immigrant or nonimmigrant petition or application where the applicant is a citizen or national of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. Field offices may interview applicants for adjustment of status and other benefits according to current processing guidance and may process petitions and applications for individuals from these countries up to the point where a decision would be made. Cases shall then be held in abeyance until further notice and will be shelved with specific NFTS codes which will be provided through the Regional Office. Offices are not permitted make any final decision on affected cases to include approval, denial, withdrawal, or revocation.

Additionally, until provided with further instructions, offices also may not approve any Form N-400 (Application for Naturalization) or naturalize any individual from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. As discussed above, cases may be processed up to the point of a decision. Cases shall then be held in abeyance.

Please look for additional guidance later this weekend on how to process naturalization applicants from one of the seven countries listed above who are currently scheduled for oath ceremony or whose N-400s have been approved and they are pending scheduling of oath ceremony.

The thinking here is that I will have folks run a scrape of everything pending in C3 and ELIS involving nationals/citizens of these countries and see what additional guidance may be needed based on what we actually have pending. We may be able to do something in the system to hold up processing like placing a supervisory hold or something similar.

Dan – I don't see anything in the EO regarding temporary suspension in the processing of immigrant and nonimmigrant benefit applications and petitions. I only see the reference to suspending entry. I want to be on the same page as you, but my intent was to say something more along the lines of:

"While we await further guidance, we are temporarily suspending approval of applications, petitions or requests involving citizens or nationals of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan and Libya. Exceptions to this temporary suspension would be I-765 applications for employment authorization, I-751 petitions to remove conditions, I-130 and I-140 visa petitions, and I-129 nonimmigrant petitions where the beneficiary is not seeking an extension or change of status."

I prefer listing which cases can proceed rather than what should be held as we handle so many I fear missing something. I'd rather add more exceptions to the hold as they are identified than risk letting something through up front. We will also impose a weekly reporting requirement to identify the numbers and case types on hold and a process to identify any cases or case types that should be considered for exception.

Dan – I don't see anything in the EO regarding temporary suspension in the processing of immigrant and nonimmigrant benefit applications and petitions. I only see the reference to suspending entry. I want to be on the same page as you, but my intent was to say something more along the lines of:

"While we await further guidance, we are temporarily suspending approval of applications, petitions or requests involving citizens or nationals of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan and Libya. Exceptions to this temporary suspension would be I-765 applications for employment authorization, I-751 petitions to remove conditions, I-130 and I-140 visa petitions, and I-129 nonimmigrant petitions where the beneficiary is not seeking an extension or change of status."

I prefer listing which cases can proceed rather than what should be held as we handle so many I fear missing something. I'd rather add more exceptions to the hold as they are identified than risk letting something through up front. We will also impose a weekly reporting requirement to identify the numbers and case types on hold and a process to identify any cases or case types that should be considered for exception.

Here is the draft message to field offices. I added a hold on N-400s, but if you think those can proceed, it can be removed. I'd like to get this out this morning, if possible. NER is going to run a scrape to determine the location of every field office pending case filed by a citizen or national of one of the 7 countries. As cases in process get held, we will establish NFTS codes that we can track nationally to determine the number of held cases. NBC will identify affected cases and no schedule them going forward.

Here's the message:

On January 27, 2017, President Trump signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefit applications. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the processing of immigrant and nonimmigrant benefit applications and petitions for nationals of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

Effectively immediately, you may not approve any immigrant or nonimmigrant petition or application where the applicant is a citizen or national of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. Field offices may interview applicants for adjustment of status and other benefits according to current processing guidance and may process petitions and applications for individuals from these countries up to the point where a decision would be made. Cases where approval is recommended shall be held in abeyance until further notice and will be shelved with specific NFTS codes which will be provided through the Regional Office. Denials, withdrawals, and administrative closures may proceed as they normally would.

Additionally, until provided with further instructions, offices also may not approve any Form N-400 (Application for Naturalization) or naturalize any individual from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. As discussed above, cases may be processed up to the point of a decision. Cases that are to be approved will be held in abeyance.

We expect to issue more detailed guidance and procedures as needed in the coming days. Questions or requests for additional clarification may be directed to the Regional Office through your chain of command.

O.K. This is fine except please hold all decisions. When I was in INS general counsel we moved ahead with suspension denials and held approvals when there were no longer numbers available and we got sued and lost in the 9th circuit. A strange outcome that I do not agree with but I'd prefer not to have us involved in litigation if we can help it. Ha, ha, ha, I just realized that was a ridiculous statement, we're going to get sued but I'd still prefer to hold all cases unless we are planning to put the denied person into proceedings as a NS or public safety risk.

Thoughts?

As we've discussed, the most urgent question is whether adjustments and extensions or changes of nonimmigrant status are impacted. Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this (b)(5) extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person. [redacted] We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

Lori,

I retyped the modification that were made by OGC below. Paragraph 3 that relates to I-730s has the same insertion as paragraph "according to existing policies and procedures."

1. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order does not affect USCIS adjudication of applications and petitions filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States regardless of their country of nationality~~origin~~, or application and petitions for individuals outside the United States whose approval ~~that~~ does not directly confer travel authorization ~~a benefit~~ (including any immigrant or nonimmigrant visa petition). This includes, but is not limited to, the matters discussed more specifically in paragraphs 2, 3 and 5 below.

2. Applications to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status (Form I-485) may continue to be adjudicated, according to existing policies and procedures, for applicants who are nationals of countries designated~~ities outlined~~ in the Executive Order, "Protecting The Nation From Foreign Terrorist Entry Into The United States."

On the second point, that is what this guidance provides.

On the first one, if you want more clarity based on the evolving guidance we have been getting about LPRs in this document, that can be done, but I think it would need to go through DHS clearance again. Perhaps it is more efficient to clarify that particular point with RAIO than revise the guidance to all employees again.

A very good question about who has authority on behalf of the Secretary to grant sec. 3(g) waivers. Certainly CBP has been doing it, last I heard no lower than their Acting Commissioner level, although they were trying to get that expanded so he could redelegate and didn't have to do them all personally; hopefully that has happened. The way you've phrased it assumes we'd be looking to someone else to determine the waiver, rather than doing that ourselves (in coordination with CBP) for benefit requests under our jurisdiction, if we had that authority from the Secretary.

But I would suggest that the answer to the question, important as it is, isn't directly relevant to getting this particular guidance out, as it is intended to confirm what adjudications we do are not subject to the Sec. 3 EO ban, as opposed to getting into what the procedures are for those that are subject to it, which travel documents for 7 country nationals abroad are, under both the original way the guidance was drafted, and the way it has been edited by OGC which I think does better clarify the meaning.

Please see the attached guidance that I would like to send to USCIS staff. It does not answer all questions but it will address the vast majority. Please let me know if you'd like to discuss. OCC and our politicals have reviewed.

I plan to send our parole program paper in the next day or so with our recommendations for consideration. Once decisions are made I'll have guidance drafted for implementation and sent up for review.

I know everyone is very busy but if I can get a clearance on the attached memo we'll be out in front of what may be the next round of questions regarding the EO that was signed on Friday.

Is USCIS processing nonimmigrant and immigrant petitions for nationals of the seven countries affected by the executive order? Hello Joanna,

I think the decision was made to have the guidance concerning talking to the press and re-directing inquiries to OCOMM cascade down from managers, so I think your all hands meeting this afternoon would be a good opportunity to do that. The alt RAIO twitter account is still up but it doesn't look like there has been any activity since the 28th.

Thanks for forwarding. I note that this message also references a senior official in RAIO talking to the press. I am hoping the broadcast message reminding people to refer all inquiries from the press to OCOM comes out ASAP. I am reluctant to send a broadcast to all RAIO staff myself, as it likely will be leaked and misinterpreted. I do have an all hands meeting with the Directorate-level staff this afternoon and will remind them of this orally at that time. I also have a meeting scheduled with OCC and LER to discuss what actions I should take related to the alt RAIO twitter account. I assume it is still up and running, but don't get twitter so don't know.

Hi Joanna,

My name is Ryan Devereaux and I am a reporter with TheIntercept.com in New York City. I hope you're doing well. My colleague Alice Speri and I are working on a story looking at the impact President Trump's recent executive order is having among career professionals working on refugee and asylum issues.

In the course of our reporting we were sent the email you sent your staff last Friday regarding the impact the EO will have on RAIO's work. We are not publishing your email in full by any means, but we are planning to use a couple lines to illustrate that there officials in government doing their best to keep their staff informed in a tumultous time.

We are also going to be reporting some of what we've heard about the impact the new administration has had on RAIO so far — specifically, it is our understanding that dozens of staffers were slated to head to the Middle East and North Africa this week but as of right now that has been put on hold.

We're writing you now for a few reasons. First, as a courtesy to you so you're not caught off guard. Second, we want to give you the opportunity to comment — on the record, on background, on deep background, whatever you're most comfortable with. And third, we were hoping to run what we have heard about RAIO by you to insure that everything we are reporting is accurate.

Just to be clear, the RAIO portion is just one part of this story and the portion of your email we are using is all about illustrating that people are trying to keep things together. Feel free to reach us here or you can call me at 970 308 7323.

Thanks for your time.

Lori and Tracy,

We received an inquiry from the Arizona Republic and Law360 asking if USCIS has been directed to stop processing applications for green cards, status adjustments, etc. Below is the original response language developed by FOD addressing the issue along with my recommended edits. Let me know if you're comfortable with sending the revised statement along to OPA for clearance.

"USCIS continues to adjudicate and administer the oath of allegiance for all citizenship cases. Final adjudication on other applications, including adjustment of status applications, continues up to final decision. [redacted] (b)(6)

---Proposed Revisions---
"USCIS continues to adjudicate and administer the oath of allegiance for all citizenship cases. Todd:

OCOMM received inquiries from the Arizona Republic and Law360 asking if USCIS has been directed to stop processing applications for green cards, status adjustments, etc. The following statement, which has been developed with FOD, addresses the question:

"USCIS continues to adjudicate and administer the oath of allegiance for all citizenship cases. Final adjudication on other applications, including adjustment of status applications, continues up to final decision. USCIS believes this temporary pause in issuing final decisions will not result in noticeable delays for applicants and petitioners."

I will send to OPA for clearance with your approval.

Subject: RE: Message to USCIS staff regarding press inquiries

I'm still messing with it but am cooked tonight. Also need to incorp Q/A
Overview of current external messages:

- As you are all aware, information related to the executive orders announced last Friday continues to be updated and released. Thus far, the Secretary has issued at least 3 statements and a fact sheet. These are all posted at dhs.gov. Our goal in to create a central repository on USCISConnect to house these cleared materials as they become available. We will share the Connect link once the page it up and populated.
- In one of yesterday's statements, Secretary Kelly addressed the question of whether or not green card holders will be allowed to return to the United State. The Secretary stated, quote, "In applying the provisions of the president's executive order, I hereby deem the entry of lawful permanent residents to be in the national interest. Accordingly, absent the receipt of significant derogatory information indicating a serious threat to public safety and welfare, lawful permanent resident status will be a dispositive factor in our case-by-case determinations."
- In another statement, the Department pointed out the fact that "No foreign national in a foreign land, without ties to the United States, has any unfettered right to demand entry into the United States or to demand immigration benefits in the United States."
- That statement also says, "The Department of Homeland Security will comply with judicial orders; faithfully enforce our immigration laws, and implement President Trump's Executive Orders to ensure that those entering the United States do not pose a threat to our country or the American people."
- And DHS pledged that "we will treat all of those we encounter humanely and with professionalism."
- I think it's important for field leadership to underscore this point, and to point out that acting with professionalism applies not only to how we treat our customers. It also applies to how we act as agency employees and civil servants in positions of public trust and national security.

Communications Guidance:

- Please remind your teams that the Office of Communications manages all interactions with the news media and represents the agency on social media. Likewise the Office of Legislative Affairs represents the agency to members of Congress and their staff, and CSPED represents the agency to stakeholder organizations.
- White House and DHS communications and legislative affairs continue to lead external relations efforts on the President's executive orders. For now, our guidance is to push everything up to them. Our USCIS external communicators are providing daily reports to DHS on incoming inquiries from the Hill, media outlets, state and locals, and other stakeholders.
- We are hearing reports of media outlets reaching out directly to employees. If a reporter contacts an employee or field leadership, the reporter should be referred to your PAO right away. You can also send the requested information, including the reporter's name, affiliation and contact information to your PAO to follow up. You should not promise to follow up yourself.
- Please remind your teams that there are legal rules about government employees referring to their positions or agency affiliation outside their official duties. With social media, even if someone posts what they think is a private opinion in their off hours, it could be misconstrued or call into question their ability to be an impartial and apolitical public servant. It could also confuse our customers and the public who are looking to the Department and USCIS for clarity about what the executive orders mean.
- Right now we all need to focus on staying informed and doing what we are directed to do, and working closely with our DHS partners to carry out those responsibilities.

Angie,

I know your plate is full, so to be helpful (and to get a jump on tomorrow) here are some TPs for Lori that specifically address the handling of media calls and alt social media sites.

- Given the events of the past few days, I feel the need to remind you of some basic tenants of communications discipline under which we operate as federal employees in USCIS. These are not restrictive nor reactive policies and they have been in place over the course of Administrations on both sides of the aisle.

- There is one entity in USCIS that is authorized to regularly engage the news media and represent the agency on social media and that is the Office of Communications. Likewise the Office of Legislative Affairs represents the agency to members of Congress and their staff.

- No employee should be conducting independent outreach to the news media or Congress on behalf of USCIS, and any employee contacted by the news media or a member of Congress should immediately refer them to the appropriate office to vet and coordinate an official response.

- No employee is authorized to setup or contribute to "rogue" or "alt" social media sites on government time or using government resources. And no employee is authorized to use our name, seal, or the name of their program office or division in such endeavors.

- USCIS employees have an absolute First Amendment right to their opinions as private citizens. However, public statements by employees which touch upon their official duties and are brought to the agency's attention may be reviewed to determine if there has been a violation of the Hatch Act, which bans certain federal employees from engaging in political activity.

- Bottom line, we are under a microscope by those on both sides of the immigration debate and we cannot afford to be viewed as partisan. I ask that you ensure your employees are aware of these standards.

I understand the need for a broadcast but any messages we send USCIS wide will have to be cleared and right now HQ is focused on the Q/A's, fact sheets, talking points. We may want to consider a leadership call tomorrow to update folks on status of various aspects of the EO as well as provide reminders on handling media and hill inquiries. In the very short term, we may have to rely on the message cascading down.
That said, there's a signed OCOMM memo and a management directive that spells out OCOMMs role as the sole agency spokesperson. We may want to consider giving both prominent real estate on connect.

I would suggest you immediately work with Peter Gregory and LER on telling those employees to shut it down or rename it. We do not know who established the account for USCIS, and I doubt that we would know that for RAIO. The posts are pretty anonymous. There is a disclaimer on the alt USCIS page that says it is an unofficial account of people working hard to make everyone deserving legal and is not affiliated with DHS or USCIS kinda. A little bit of a dig at the end. It's important to note that there are other alt sites popping up..EPA, NPS and others.

FACT SHEET: Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry to the United States

WASHINGTON - The executive order signed on January 27, 2017, allows for the proper review and establishment of standards to prevent terrorist or criminal infiltration by foreign nationals. The United States has the world's most generous immigration system, yet it has been repeatedly exploited by terrorists and other malicious actors who seek to do us harm. In order to ensure that the United States government can conduct a thorough and comprehensive analysis of the national security risks posed from our immigration system, it imposes a 90-day suspension on entry to the United States of nationals of certain designated countries—countries that were designated by Congress and the Obama Administration as posing national security risks in the Visa Waiver Program.

In order to protect Americans, and to advance the national interest, the United States must ensure that those entering this country will not harm the American people subsequent to their entry, and that they do not bear malicious intent toward the United States and its people. The executive order protects the United States from countries compromised by terrorism and ensures a more rigorous vetting process. This Executive Order ensures that we have a functional immigration system that safeguards our national security.

This executive order, as well as the two issued earlier in the week, provide the Department with additional resources, tools and personnel to carry out the critical work of securing our borders, enforcing the immigration laws of our nation, and ensuring that individuals who pose a threat to national security or public safety cannot enter or remain in our country. Protecting the American people is the highest priority of our government and this Department.

The Department of Homeland Security will faithfully execute the immigration laws and the President's executive order, and we will treat all of those we encounter humanely and with professionalism.

Authorities

The Congress provided the president of the United States, in section 212(f) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), with the authority to suspend the entry of any class of aliens the president deems detrimental to the national interest. This authority has been exercised by nearly every president since President Carter, and has been a component of immigration laws since the enactment of the INA in 1952.

Actions

For the next 90 days, nearly all travelers, except U.S. citizens, traveling from Iraq, Syria, Sudan, Iran, Somalia, Libya, and Yemen will be temporarily suspended from entry to the United States. The 90 day period will allow for proper review and establishment of standards to prevent terrorist or criminal infiltration by foreign nationals.

Importantly, however, lawful permanent residents of the United States traveling on a valid I-551 will be allowed to board U.S. bound aircraft and will be assessed for exceptions at arrival ports of entry, as appropriate. The entry of these individuals, subject to national security checks, is in the national interest. Therefore, we expect swift entry for these individuals.

In the first 30 days, DHS will perform a global country-by-country review of the information each country provides when their citizens apply for a U.S. visa or immigration benefit. Countries will then have 60 days to comply with any requests from the U.S. government to update or improve the quality of the information they provide.

DHS and the Department of State have the authority, on a case-by-case basis, to issue visas or allow the entry of nationals of these countries into the United States when it serves the national interest. These seven countries were designated by Congress and the Obama Administration as posing a significant enough security risk to warrant additional scrutiny in the visa waiver context.

The Refugee Admissions Program will be temporarily suspended for the next 120 days while DHS and interagency partners review screening procedures to ensure refugees admitted in the future do not pose a security risk to citizens of the United States.

The executive order does not prohibit entry of, or visa issuance to, travelers with diplomatic visas, North Atlantic Treaty Organization visas, C-2 visas for travel to the United Nations, and G-1, G-2, G-3, and G-4 visas.

The Department of Homeland Security along with the Department of State, the Office of the Director of National Intelligence, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation will develop uniform screening standards for all immigration programs government-wide.

Upon resumption of the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program, refugee admissions to the United States will not exceed 50,000 for fiscal year 2017.

The Secretary of Homeland Security will expedite the completion and implementation of a biometric entry-exit tracking system of all travelers into the United States.

Federal Government
As part of a broader set of government actions, the Secretary of State will review all nonimmigrant visa reciprocity agreements to ensure that they are, with respect to each visa classification, truly reciprocal.

The Department of State will suspend the Visa Interview Waiver Program and ensure all individuals seeking nonimmigrant visas undergo an in-person interview.

Transparency
The Department of Homeland Security, in order to be more transparent with the American people, and to more effectively implement policies and practices that serve the national interest will make information available to the public every 180 days. In coordination with the Department of Justice, DHS will provide information regarding the number of foreign nationals charged with terrorism-related offense or gender-based violence against women while in the United States.

OMG. So they think we should turn LPRs around at the POE? Notably missing in all this are paroles. I know they want us to review the use of parole authority, but this EO didn't include parole in excluding from entry these nationals and citizens.

Probably easiest. I can't believe it but they are applying this to LPRs so approving an I90 might be an issue too.

For some reason OGC and OPLA think a LPR is an immigrant.

Operationally, I think it is easier to hold off on everything, certainly in the beginning. I would hope going forward we could allow denials and other actions that could in no way be interpreted as allowing "entry" to go forward just to keep the number of cases on hold to a minimum.

O.K. This is fine except please hold all decisions. When I was in INS general counsel we moved ahead with suspension denials and held approvals when there were no longer numbers available and we got sued and lost in the 9th circuit. A strange outcome that I do not agree with but I'd prefer not to have us involved in litigation if we can help it. Ha, ha, ha, I just realized that was a ridiculous statement, we're going to get sued but I'd still prefer to hold all cases unless we are planning to put the denied person into proceedings as a NS or public safety risk.

Thoughts?

Here is the draft message to field offices. I added a hold on N-400s, but if you think those can proceed, it can be removed. I'd like to get this out this morning, if possible. NER is going to run a scrape to determine the location of every field office pending case filed by a citizen or national of one of the 7 countries. As cases in process get held, we will establish NFTS codes that we can track nationally to determine the number of held cases. NBC will identify affected cases and no schedule them going forward.

Here's the message:

On January 27, 2017, President Trump signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefit applications. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the processing of immigrant and nonimmigrant benefit applications and petitions for nationals of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

Effectively immediately, you may not approve any immigrant or nonimmigrant petition or application where the applicant is a citizen or national of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. Field offices may interview applicants for adjustment of status and other benefits according to current processing guidance and may process petitions and applications for individuals from these countries up to the point where a decision would be made. Cases where approval is recommended shall be held in abeyance until further notice and will be shelved with specific NFTS codes which will be provided through the Regional Office. Denials, withdrawals, and administrative closures may proceed as they normally would.

Additionally, until provided with further instructions, offices also may not approve any Form N-400 (Application for Naturalization) or naturalize any individual from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. As discussed above, cases may be processed up to the point of a decision. Cases that are to be approved will be held in abeyance.

We expect to issue more detailed guidance and procedures as needed in the coming days. Questions or requests for additional clarification may be directed to the Regional Office through your chain of command.

Here's my recommended message for the centers. I'm looking to either Tracy or Lori to weigh in on the highlighted sentence. On reflection, I'd really like to keep at least I-90s and I-765s in motion given the high volume and potential impact of delays. However, I'm comfortable with striking anything or even the whole sentence.

On January 27, 2017, the President signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefits. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the entry immigrants and nonimmigrants who are from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

While we await further guidance, we are temporarily suspending adjudication of applications, petitions or requests involving citizens or nationals of the listed countries. Exceptions to this temporary suspension would be I-765 applications for employment authorization; I-751 petitions to remove conditions; I-130 and I-140 visa petitions; I-90, N-565 and I-102 applications for replacement documents; and I-129 nonimmigrant petitions where the beneficiary is not seeking an extension or change of status.

Please segregate any files that are impacted by this temporary hold pending further guidance. As you would expect, we will be developing a weekly report format for you to identify the number and types of cases on hold.

We expect to issue more detailed guidance and procedures in the coming days.

Please ensure this guidance is conveyed to all appropriate employees and get back to us with any questions.

I would also like to flag I-730s. While adjudication does not give status to those outside the US, it does for those inside. Also, since part of the directive is to reviewing to enhance information we collect and screening, we likely will be proposing changes to the I-730 process, to include revisions to the form and the I-730A, which would be completed by the beneficiary. We have mock ups and can move quickly, but need to think first about those in pipeline. Maura has giving directive to staff outside US to cancel pick up document pickups for 730s for next week.

We are working on further guidance and of course will coordinate with SCOP.

State has also issued guidance. Will forward.

As we've discussed, the most urgent question is whether adjustments and extensions or changes of nonimmigrant status are impacted. If we can define "suspend processing" as "suspend prior to approval", then one option would be to continue with the interviews, since it is likely we have some that are scheduled as soon as Monday for affected applicants and then hold the cases post interview. We are trying to scrape our schedulers (C4 and NASS) to see when and where we have interviews scheduled for individuals from affected countries. We should have that sometime Monday.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this (b)(5) extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person. [redacted] We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

I still think that would suspend adjudication of all petitions even where the beneficiary is abroad and must apply for a visa. (I-130s, I-140s, I-129s, I-526, etc.) I realize your folks don't do I-140s or I-129s, but I'm sure your language will be read by my folks and vice versa.

I'm beginning to think maybe the best thing would be to have a simple message this weekend saying to hold up approving anything for these nationals except I-90s, I-751s, N-565s and N-600s pending more detailed guidance to follow later next week. That more detailed guidance should probably be in the form of agency wide guidance so everyone gets the same thing. This would give us a bit more time to get it right. We are all smart, but I'm sure there are things we haven't thought of and we could use a couple workdays to get broader input.

I see your point, since the adjudication of applications and petitions is not specifically mentioned in the EO, I will change my language to be more along the line of yours. How about this:

On January 27, 2017, the President signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefits. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the entry immigrants and nonimmigrants who are from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

Offices are not permitted make any final decision on affected cases to include approval, denial, withdrawal, or revocation.

Additionally, until provided with further instructions, offices also may not approve any Form N-400 (Application for Naturalization) or naturalize any individual from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. As discussed above, cases may be processed up to the point of a decision. Cases shall then be held in abeyance.

Please look for additional guidance later this weekend on how to process naturalization applicants from one of the seven countries listed above who are currently scheduled for oath ceremony or whose N-400s have been approved and they are pending scheduling of oath ceremony.

We expect to issue more detailed guidance and procedures as needed in the coming days. Questions or requests for additional clarification may be directed to the Regional Office through your chain of command.

The thinking here is that I will have folks run a scrape of everything pending in C3 and ELIS involving nationals/citizens of these countries and see what additional guidance may be needed based on what we actually have pending. We may be able to do something in the system to hold up processing like placing a supervisory hold or something similar.

Dan – I don't see anything in the EO regarding temporary suspension in the processing of immigrant and nonimmigrant benefit applications and petitions. I only see the reference to suspending entry. I want to be on the same page as you, but my intent was to say something more along the lines of:

"While we await further guidance, we are temporarily suspending approval of applications, petitions or requests involving citizens or nationals of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan and Libya. Exceptions to this temporary suspension would be I-765 applications for employment authorization, I-751 petitions to remove conditions, I-130 and I-140 visa petitions, and I-129 nonimmigrant petitions where the beneficiary is not seeking an extension or change of status."

I prefer listing which cases can proceed rather than what should be held as we handle so many I fear missing something. I'd rather add more exceptions to the hold as they are identified than risk letting something through up front. We will also impose a weekly reporting requirement to identify the numbers and case types on hold and a process to identify any cases or case types that should be considered for exception.

Here is the draft message to field offices. I added a hold on N-400s, but if you think those can proceed, it can be removed. I'd like to get this out this morning, if possible. NER is going to run a scrape to determine the location of every field office pending case filed by a citizen or national of one of the 7 countries. As cases in process get held, we will establish NFTS codes that we can track nationally to determine the number of held cases. NBC will identify affected cases and no schedule them going forward.

Here's the message:

On January 27, 2017, President Trump signed an Executive Order that, in part, relates to the suspension of processing of certain immigration benefit applications. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order invokes sections 212(f) and 217(a)(12) of the INA to temporarily suspend the processing of immigrant and nonimmigrant benefit applications and petitions for nationals of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya for 90 days from the date of the Executive Order.

Effectively immediately, you may not approve any immigrant or nonimmigrant petition or application where the applicant is a citizen or national of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. Field offices may interview applicants for adjustment of status and other benefits according to current processing guidance and may process petitions and applications for individuals from these countries up to the point where a decision would be made. Cases where approval is recommended shall be held in abeyance until further notice and will be shelved with specific NFTS codes which will be provided through the Regional Office. Denials, withdrawals, and administrative closures may proceed as they normally would.

Additionally, until provided with further instructions, offices also may not approve any Form N-400 (Application for Naturalization) or naturalize any individual from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya. As discussed above, cases may be processed up to the point of a decision. Cases that are to be approved will be held in abeyance.

We expect to issue more detailed guidance and procedures as needed in the coming days. Questions or requests for additional clarification may be directed to the Regional Office through your chain of command.

Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this (b)(5) extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person [redacted] We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

That is a very difficulty question to answer as S1's draft guidance on the border and enforcement EA only mention an increase of FDNS IOs to support anti-fraud operations in relation to Asylum processing as well as a generalized increase to support RAIO and Field OPS. The only extra capacity we will have in the interim with the RAD shutdown is in our social media group and Intel Division. We expect to use these resources to pivot immediately from refugee to asylum screening of the countries of interest. Where I think we will need the increase to meet the substance of the EA is our IO/IRSs in the Field and at the Centers. Enhanced screening and fraud investigations are mostly carried out there. We will start our review and should have some rough estimates by end of next week.

We raised that verbally with S1 and his advisor yesterday and they took note of our question. We will continue to seek clarification. On a related matter, there was mention of us likely needing to hire additional FDNS officers. Lori pointed out that we will have some capacity as a result of the pause/decrease in refugee processing. We are going to need FDNS to conduct a review/study of what your capacity is and what you anticipate your resource need to be in order to effectively implement the EO. Tracy,

It is my understanding that POTUS will sign the "Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Attacks by Foreign Nationals" order today at 4:30pm. In complying with the EA I believe we need immediate clarification in Section 3 (c) relative to the 30 day suspension of processing immigrants and non-immigrants from the designated countries of interest and if this (b)(5) extends to processing of permanent resident applications. Though the EA states "immigrant and non-immigrant entry into the United States", once we grant an adjustment we "admit" that person. [redacted] We just need to clarify if by extension this applies to our product lines. If this is the case then Don and Dan will need to get guidance to the Field to put these adjudications on hold. Other than the refugee suspension that appears fully deployed on our end this appears the most urgent clarification we need relative to the EAs.

Thanks,

Thanks for sending this, Lori.

As we've discussed, the most urgent question is whether adjustments and extensions or changes of nonimmigrant status are impacted. Separately, is there any impact on petitions for beneficiaries abroad since we would not be determining admissibility? I would think not, but it would be good to have clarity.

If we can define "suspend processing" as "suspend prior to approval", then one option would be to continue with the interviews, since it is likely we have some that are scheduled as soon as Monday for affected applicants and then hold the cases post interview. We are trying to scrape our schedulers (C4 and NASS) to see when and where we have interviews scheduled for individuals from affected countries. We should have that sometime Monday.

Joanna,

This is the message I meant to reply to with revised language that AD1 and I prefer:

As stated in the USCIS Broadcast, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services has suspended any and all actions implementing the affected sections of the Executive Order entitled, "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States" (January 27, 2017) (these affected sections are Sections 3(c), Section 5(a), Section 5(b), Section 5 (c) and Section 5 (e) to the extent that it purports to prioritize refugee claims of certain religious minorities).

USCIS has resumed approving refugee cases that are otherwise eligible for refugee resettlement. The travel schedule of these approved cases will be determined by the Department of State so as not to exceed the refugee ceiling set by the current Administration. At this time, USCIS generally will not be regularly conducting refugee interviews in international field offices, or deploying additional circuit rides this quarter other than select, previously scheduled circuit rides. USCIS will coordinate other possible interviews, including urgent humanitarian protection cases, at the request of the Department of State. The previously organized trainings for credible fear will move forward as scheduled.

USCIS, including RAIO headquarters staff, is participating in intra and inter-agency working groups established to implement the Executive Order and field input will be sought as appropriate.

Tracy and Lori,

I would like to send the message below to RAIO staff who have been asking their managers about the state of play of refugee processing. Given sensitivity with the litigation, I wanted to check with you and Molly (copied here) to see if there are any concerns with me sending out the message below. Thanks for your consideration. Of course, by the time you read this, we may have another court order . . . . . Still, staff would really like some info.

Proposed message:

As a result suspension of the U.S. Refugee Admission Program is no longer in effect. Suspension of the entry of Syrian nationals as refugees is also no longer in effect.

USCIS has resumed approving refugee cases that are otherwise eligible for refugee resettlement (digitally or manually). The travel schedule of these approved cases will be determined by the Department of State so as not to exceed the refugee ceiling set by the current Administration.

Given that section 5(d) of the order, which limits the refugee ceiling, was not impacted by recent litigation, the Department of State is reviewing the cases in the pipeline to determine how many interviews are needed this fiscal year to meet the revised ceiling for this year and anticipated for next year. At this time, USCIS generally will not be regularly conducting refugee interviews in international field offices, or deploying additional circuit rides this quarter other than the previously scheduled Nauru and Vienna circuit rides. USCIS will coordinate other possible interviews, including urgent humanitarian protection cases, at the request of the Department of State. The previously organized trainings for credible fear will move forward as scheduled.

USCIS is participating in intra and inter-agency working groups established to implement the Executive Order, including review of and recommendations for additional vetting of individuals processed in the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program. HQ FDNS has the lead for this effort for USCIS, and RAD and RAIO FDNS are supporting these efforts. In addition, RAIO headquarters staff is also participating in other working groups addressing implementation of uniform screening standards and a review of USCIS forms and interviews. As I mentioned previously, we are also committed to working on a process to ensure an opportunity for field input into this process.

A couple of other issues:

- NBC does not collect fees, so if there is a fee, we'd need to use a lockbox,
- I assume we'll be looking at fingerprints and FBI Name checks.
- With checks and interviews, I'd estimate the first one would be completed within 4-6 months.

I know that FOD can put together a process either with or without interviews. Requiring interviews will be a challenge specifically with respect to technology. While we have C3 LAN at NBC and the field has access to the NBC LAN via ICMS, the I-192 is supported, I believe by C3, but is not currently supported by ICMS. So we can't update and I-192 in C3 from the field using ICMS. That would likely need to change. We'd have to also see if NASS or the C3/C4 scheduler can accommodate I-192 scheduling or these would need to be scheduled manually.

There would be impact on the NBC and on I-485 and/or N-400 cycle times. Do we have an estimated volume of multiple-entry visa holders from these countries who are in the US?

Our folks are now looking at the I-192 option, but if an interview is required that would seem to move this in FOD's direction. To be candid, we were beginning to think even the I-131 might go that way if these are truly urgent cases - consistent with how AP is handled now in urgent situations.

Thanks Molly. One clarification, it is a USCIS form but the instructions say file it with CBP unless it's a T or U situation. But as you note CBP says they don't actually use it as broadly as the instructions suggest – the applicant is supposed to file it at a designated port, and the only ports CBP has designated for that are along the Northern Border.

Subject: RE: The 2 issues re individuals inside US

We've been discussing how a waiver process could work be established legally with OGC and CBP and I am copying what Phil sent to start the conversation. In sum, we suggest using the Form I-192, Application for Advance Permission to Enter as a Nonimmigrant. It does look to inadmissibility rather than entry but comes closer to the intended purpose than any of the forms we regularly adjudicate. It is a CBP form and they use it on the Northern border for Canadians. We are told DOS uses it. USCIS does use it for certain Ts and Us. CBP is naturally a bit resistant, but it seems to be a promising way forward in light of the legal analysis below from our SME's.

We've identified a very promising existing avenue to consider the waiver with respect to those with valid nonimmigrant visas in the United States – the Form I-192, which is even called, "Application for Advance Permission to Enter as a Nonimmigrant." While not exact, since it talks about INA inadmissibility, it is extremely close – in fact, at p. 5 of the instructions it asks those inadmissible on foreign policy or national security grounds to provide a written detailed statement under penalty of perjury about why they should be admitted, which seems like a good fit with asking for a justification for the national interest waiver. Except for those seeking T or U nonimmigrant status, who file I-192 with us, it is filed with CBP with a $585 fee.

Stepping back from that particular form and process, here are some more general comments from our SMEs about regulatory implementation issues regarding the contemplated waiver:

Executive Order 13769, section 3, paragraph (g), states, "Notwithstanding a suspension pursuant to subsection (c) of this section or pursuant to a Presidential proclamation described in subsection (e) of this section, the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security may, on a case-by-case basis, and when in the national interest, issue visas or other immigration benefits to nationals of countries for which visas and benefits are otherwise blocked."

At this point, USCIS does not understand what information should be obtained, the level of review required or the process for determining when it is "in the national interest" to waive the requirements of section 3 under this the provision.

If the established process requires the collection of information, asking questions, or filling out a form for more than 9 individuals then that collection would be subject to the requirements of the Paperwork Reduction Act (PRA). See 44 U.S.C. § 3502; 5 C.F.R. § 1320.3(c), which covers, "the obtaining, causing to be obtained, soliciting, or requiring the disclosure to an agency, third parties or the public of information by or for an agency by means of identical questions posed to, or identical reporting, recordkeeping, or disclosure requirements imposed on, ten or more persons, whether such collection of information is mandatory, voluntary, or required to obtain or retain a benefit."

Any new questionnaire or form, even if completed during a verbal interview, requires a 60-day notice under 5 CFR 1320.8(d)(1) and a 30-day notice under 5 CFR 1320.10(a). OMB may be requested to approve the process as an emergency approval under 5 CFR 1320.13 if the new collection is needed because it is essential to the mission of the agency, the agency cannot reasonably comply with the normal clearance procedures, public harm is reasonably likely to result if normal clearance procedures are followed, an unanticipated event has occurred, or a statutory or court ordered deadline to be missed. OMB will usually approve an emergency request in 30 days. The problem with an emergency approval is that OMB only approves the collection of information for a maximum of 90 days. However, section 3(c), states that it applies to, "such persons for 90 days from the date of this order." Thus, an emergency request under 5 CFR 1320.13 may be appropriate if we decide that a new collection is necessary.

If a new form is required or provides a list of questions for the officer to ask the individuals either verbally or manually, then the PRA applies. The PRA may not apply if there is already a process or form that very closely fits what is necessary that can be easily adapted without change to the 3(g) waiver process. The PRA may also not apply if the process is left to officer discretion, no standard questions will be asked, or if the waiver can be requested with a simple request that only identifies the individual, and the waiver can be approved with only a review of the applicable individual's file and current information on hand.

In addition, if the individuals who desire a waiver under section 3(g) are asked questions that impose a new standard or implicate a substantive right, then those questions may violate the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) and DHS would have to engage in notice and comment rulemaking under 5 U.S.C. 553 to ask them.

We are looking at whether the I-131 process could be modified to support this. It may be very difficult to make the systems changes needed to support issuance of an I-797 rather than the I-512 or RP/RTD. I'm wondering if alternatively we could issue an actual advance parole document (I-512) with the understanding that CBP would instead admit them with their NIV if otherwise admissible. We are looking at that option as well.

You guys need to start thinking about how we can adjudicate these national interest waivers here in the U.S. For anyone wanting to travel abroad with a multiple entry visa.

1. How do we do it and what are the guidelines?
2. where do we put the information so CBP can see it when the person returns or what document can we give them that shows they got a waiver.

I'm still fighting this but in the event we are ordered to do it you need to be thinking about how it would happen.

Wait, DOS reversed the 1/27 revocation? Did the court order that? ANd I see your point but doesn't it also apply to the waiver we are promising to valid visa holders? If the TRO is lifted they are no longer valid visa holders.

This part isn't about the waiver, but whether USCIS used the Jan 27 DOS revocation in adjudicating anything. Since it is forward looking it seems we could be okay. But then again they've reversed the Jan 27 revocation so how could we apply that revocation going forward? And if TRO is lifted a new revocation will come out. So it could be misleading. Frankly I don't think this language gets us where DOJ wants us to be- but in the timeframe given I don't know whether we could get there since folks are running down cases.

So Phil is saying the waiver section says if you have a valid multiple entry visa we'll consider a waiver when the last paragraph says DOS revoked the visas. So how does anyone have a valid visa to apply for a waiver. Is that the point?

Press Secretary's statement on court ruling:

"At the earliest possible time, the Department of Justice intends to file an emergency stay of the order and defend the executive order of the President, which we believe is lawful and appropriate. The president's order is intended to protect the country and he has the constitutional authority and responsibility to protect the American people.

As the law states, "Whenever the President finds that the entry of any aliens or of any class of aliens into the United States would be detrimental to the interests of the United States, he may by proclamation, and for such period as he shall deem necessary, suspend the entry of all aliens or any class of aliens as immigrants or nonimmigrants, or impose on entry of aliens any restrictions may deem to be appropriate."

Sorry Tracy,

That version had the "prioritizes" typo and was missing an "of" before Syrian. This one is right.

A federal district court in Washington state has issued a nationwide injunction of each one of the following provisions of the January 27, 2017 Executive Order on Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States:

- Section 3(c)
- Section 5(a)
- Section 5(b)
- Section 5(c)
- Section 5(e) to the extent that it purports to prioritize refugee claims of certain religious minorities

All enforcement of the above-listed sections of the Executive Order must halt immediately. The judge's written order is attached. To be clear, the injunction is effective right now and compliance with the ruling must begin immediately.

Accordingly, effective immediately U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services will suspend any and all actions implementing the affected sections of the Executive Order entitled, "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States" (January 27, 2017). Additionally, USCIS shall not proceed with any action that prioritizes refugee claims of certain religious minorities. Further, suspension of the U.S. Refugee Admission Program is no longer in effect. Suspension of the entry of Syrian nationals as refugees is also no longer in effect.

We are informed that the Administration is considering options to expeditiously appeal this ruling. We will update you with further guidance as soon as it is received.

Thanks Jeff. I get it and if it had been posted prior to us. Ring aware of the injunction it would be normal course of business posting it after, even if a re-post of a DHS post might give the impression that we are not completely compliant. Press Release

STATEMENT ON COUNTRIES CURRENTLY SUSPENDED FROM TRAVEL TO THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON - The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) would like to clarify the classes of aliens affected by the 90-day temporary pause on travel, with case-by-base exceptions and waivers, as outlined in the President's Executive Order entitled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States."

To ensure that the U.S. government can conduct a thorough analysis of the national security risks faced by our immigration system, the Executive Order imposes a 90-day pause on the entry into the United States of nationals from Iraq, Syria, Sudan, Iran, Somalia, Libya, and Yemen. This pause does not apply to Lawful Permanent Residents, dual citizens with passports from a country other than the seven listed, or those traveling on diplomatic, NATO or UN visas. Special Immigrant Visa holders who are nationals of these seven countries may board U.S.-bound planes, and apply for and receive a national interest exception to the pause upon arrival.

Importantly, these seven countries are the only countries to which the pause on entry applies. No other countries face such treatment. Nor have any other countries been identified as warranting future inclusion at this time, contrary to false reports.

As directed by the Executive Order, DHS is working with the Department of State and the Office of the Director of National Intelligence to conduct a country-by-country review of the information provided by countries in order for their nationals to apply for myriad visas, immigration benefits, or otherwise seek admission into the United States. This review is needed to ensure that individuals seeking to enter the U.S. are who they claim to be and do not pose a security or public-safety threat.

The results of this review will be provided to the President within 30 days of the Executive Order's signing. This review, conducted in consultation with our interagency partners, will determine which countries do not provide adequate information on their nationals seeking immigration benefits or admission into the United States. Principally, the goal is to ensure that those admitted to this country do not bear hostile attitudes toward the United States and its founding principles.

Based on that report, the State Department will ask any foreign governments who were determined to not be supplying adequate information on their nationals to begin providing such information within 60 days.

In order to protect Americans, and to advance the national interest, the United States must ensure that we have adequate information about individuals seeking to enter this country to ensure that they do not bear malicious intent toward the United States and its people.

Additionally, USCIS shall not proceed with any action that priorities refugee claims of certain religious minorities. Further, suspension of the U.S. Refugee Admission Program is no longer in effect. Suspension of the entry Syrian nationals as refugees is also no longer in effect.

We are informed that the Administration is considering options to expeditiously appeal this ruling. We will update you with further guidance as soon as it is received.

Thanks Jeff. I get it and if it had been posted prior to us. Ring aware of the injunction it would be normal course of business posting it after, even if a re-post of a DHS post might give the impression that we are not completely compliant. I tend to be super conservative on this stuff which is why I'm deferring to OCC. Molly, you don't need the link, the press statement is at the bottom of this email chain.

Press Release

STATEMENT ON COUNTRIES CURRENTLY SUSPENDED FROM TRAVEL TO THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON - The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) would like to clarify the classes of aliens affected by the 90-day temporary pause on travel, with case-by-base exceptions and waivers, as outlined in the President's Executive Order entitled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States."

To ensure that the U.S. government can conduct a thorough analysis of the national security risks faced by our immigration system, the Executive Order imposes a 90-day pause on the entry into the United States of nationals from Iraq, Syria, Sudan, Iran, Somalia, Libya, and Yemen. This pause does not apply to Lawful Permanent Residents, dual citizens with passports from a country other than the seven listed, or those traveling on diplomatic, NATO or UN visas. Special Immigrant Visa holders who are nationals of these seven countries may board U.S.-bound planes, and apply for and receive a national interest exception to the pause upon arrival.

Importantly, these seven countries are the only countries to which the pause on entry applies. No other countries face such treatment. Nor have any other countries been identified as warranting future inclusion at this time, contrary to false reports.

As directed by the Executive Order, DHS is working with the Department of State and the Office of the Director of National Intelligence to conduct a country-by-country review of the information provided by countries in order for their nationals to apply for myriad visas, immigration benefits, or otherwise seek admission into the United States. This review is needed to ensure that individuals seeking to enter the U.S. are who they claim to be and do not pose a security or public-safety threat.

The results of this review will be provided to the President within 30 days of the Executive Order's signing. This review, conducted in consultation with our interagency partners, will determine which countries do not provide adequate information on their nationals seeking immigration benefits or admission into the United States. Principally, the goal is to ensure that those admitted to this country do not bear hostile attitudes toward the United States and its founding principles.

Based on that report, the State Department will ask any foreign governments who were determined to not be supplying adequate information on their nationals to begin providing such information within 60 days.

In order to protect Americans, and to advance the national interest, the United States must ensure that we have adequate information about individuals seeking to enter this country to ensure that they do not bear malicious intent toward the United States and its people.

Subject: RE: USCIS Guidance on 1/27 executive order

Lori, that is specifically covered in another paragraph of this guidance:

1. USCIS will adjudicate Refugee/Asylee Relative Petitions (Form I-730) for all beneficiaries, from any country of nationality, currently in the United States according to existing policies and procedures. Further guidance will be issued with respect to beneficiaries currently outside of the United States.

The only change OGC made to that was to add "according to existing policies and procedures" which doesn't change any of the substance of what we sent up for review.

Subject: RE: USCIS Guidance on 1/27 executive order

Lori,

I retyped the modification that were made by OGC below. Paragraph 3 that relates to I-730s has the same insertion as paragraph "according to existing policies and procedures."

1. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order does not affect USCIS adjudication of applications and petitions filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States regardless of their country of nationality~~origin~~, or application and petitions for individuals outside the United States whose approval ~~that~~ does not directly confer travel authorization ~~a benefit~~ (including any immigrant or nonimmigrant visa petition). This includes, but is not limited to, the matters discussed more specifically in paragraphs 2, 3 and 5 below.

2. Applications to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status (Form I-485) may continue to be adjudicated, according to existing policies and procedures, for applicants who are nationals of countries designated~~ities outlined~~ in the Executive Order, "Protecting The Nation From Foreign Terrorist Entry Into The United States."

I can do that since the WH has said the EO does not apply to LPRs. But since that's been made public I I think it can go into the memo without going back to DHS.

On the second point, that is what this guidance provides.

On the first one, if you want more clarity based on the evolving guidance we have been getting about LPRs in this document, that can be done, but I think it would need to go through DHS clearance again. Perhaps it is more efficient to clarify that particular point with RAIO than revise the guidance to all employees again.

Subject: Executive Order impacting refugee admissions -- flagging issue

Lori and Tracy,

I just wanted to flag a couple of issues for you related to section (5)(f) of the draft executive order that would temporarily suspend most refugee processing.

(f)(a) provides that notwithstanding the temporary suspension, "the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security may continue to process as refugees those refugee claims made by individuals on the basis of religious-based persecution, provided that the religion of the individual is a minority religion in the individual's country of nationality."

We need to know if this will be interpreted to mean that we can continue interviewing and making decisions on Lautenberg cases in Vienna and Moscow. We currently have a RAD circuit rider in Vienna conducting these interviews, and we interview Lautenberg cases 4 days a week in Moscow.

Also, we will need to know whether to pull back the teams currently in South Africa (circuit ride scheduled to end February 3) and Indonesia (circuit ride scheduled to end February 10). One thing to note is that we are interviewing some Rohingya (religious minority) in Indonesia, so arguably they could fall within the exception.

We will need guidance on this ASAP, assuming the language in the final order remains the same. So flagging this to you as something to possibly flag to the Department.

Thanks,

Joanna

Tracy,

We will need official confirmation from the Department but here are the three major lists of the designated countries of concerns. One lists the consesus countries of state sponsored terrorism and the other two are maintained by DOS for the SAO process and CBP for ESTA. I am pretty sure this will be close to the inclusive list. In reading the Executive Order we should confirm with the Department as soon as possible if the 30 day suspension of immigrants and non-immigrants from these countries extends to those adjusting status.

We are double checking on whether the interviews can go forward of religious minorities under the TRO but understand none would happen til Monday. We will get back to you with our best advice. I recognize the judge may not have intended to stop them but want clear consensus on whether the language he used has that impact.

I think we can safely say: no efforts to prioritize religious minorities on RAIO's part.

The small # of refugee interviews that have been in progress remain in progress (or resume Monday): Vienna for RAD and (I believe) Indonesia for IO. RAD is making plans to get a team to Nauru -- not religious minorities -- for later Feb. After that, we'll need to talk w/PRM on Monday about what circuit rides they want to get back in motion.

In terms of refugees traveling, PRM is working on that w/IOM. It would be very hard to prioritize religious minorities in this process even if they tried: what will get "prioritized" is those cases that are most travel-ready -- i.e., all security checks, medical clearance, exit permits, etc. If they "prioritize" anyone, I expect that it would be medical cases, kids rejoining parents,, and unaccompanied minors, if they are travel-ready.

We are concerned that you not take any action that would prioritize refugee claims from religious minorities. Do you need more guidance than what went out last night? It may be easier to discuss. Let us know.

Thanks. Adding RAD and Maura.

Would be most helpful if we could get that word to our staff as soon as tomorrow morning. Please keep in mind that our office in Amman is open Sunday. The message would basically be business as usual.

I also just got off the phone with Larry Bartlett. State understands that they are ordered to resume the refugee admission program. Tomorrow they will begin working with IOM to identify individuals ready to travel and what needs to be done. They recognize that DOJ likely will challenge the order and, should the Injunction be removed, they may again have people in transit. So they would need to seek waivers.

Consular is working on "unfreezing" the visas that were frozen. Apparently, they were not revoked, but frozen. I am not familiar with those terms, but they were the ones Larry used.

McALEENAN, in his official capacity as Acting Commissioner of U.S. Customs and Border Patrol, Defendants.

Before the Court is Plaintiffs' Motion for Temporary Restraining Order And/Or Preliminary Injunctive Relief. (Dkt. No. 3.) Upon consideration of the Complaint (Dkt. No. 1), the Motion, and the supporting declarations (Dkt. Nos. 4, 5), for Good Cause Shown, the Court hereby GRANTS the Motion.

DISCUSSION

A temporary restraining order ("TRO") is "an extraordinary remedy that may only be awarded upon a clear showing that the plaintiff is entitled to such relief." Winter v. Nat. Res. Def. Council, 555 U.S. 7, 22 (2008). The purpose of a TRO is to preserve the status quo before a preliminary injunction hearing may be held. Granny Goose Foods, Inc. v. Bhd. of Teamsters & Auto Truck Drivers Local No. 70 of Alameda City., 415 U.S. 423, 439 (1974). Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 65 governs the issuance of TROs and preliminary injunctions, and courts apply the same standard to both. Frontline Med. Assocs., Inc. v. Coventry Healthcare Workers Comp., Inc., 620 F. Supp. 2d 1109, 1110 (C.D. Cal. 2009).

A party seeking preliminary injunctive relief must satisfy one of two tests. Under one test, the party must establish that he is (1) likely to succeed on the merits of his claims, (2) that he is likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary relief, (3) that the balance of equities tips in his favor, and (4) that an injunction is in the public interest. Am. Trucking Ass'n, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles, 559 F.3d 1046, 1052 (9th Cir. 2009).

Under the alternative test, a party must show "'serious questions going to the merits' [,] a balance of hardships that tips sharply toward the plaintiff," a likelihood of irreparable harm, and that the injunction is in the public interest. Alliance for the Wild Rockies v. Cottrell, 632 F.3d 1127, 1132 (9th Cir. 2011). A "serious question" is one on which the movant "has a fair chance of success on the merits." Sierra On-Line, Inc. v. Phoenix Software, Inc., 739 F.2d 1415, 1421 (9th Cir. 1984).

The Court finds that Plaintiffs have satisfied these standards and that a TRO should issue. Plaintiffs have satisfied the first test because they have shown that they are likely to succeed on the merits of claims that would entitle them to relief; Plaintiffs are likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary relief; the balance of equities favors Plaintiffs; and an injunction is in the public interest. Plaintiffs have also satisfied the "alternative" test: they have established at least a serious question going to the merits of their claims; that the balance of hardships tips decisively in their favor; and, as noted as to the first test, a likelihood of irreparable harm and that an injunction is in the public interest.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT:

1. Defendants and their officers, agents, employees, attorneys, and all persons acting in concert or participating with them, are ENJOINED AND RESTRAINED from enforcing Defendant President Donald J. Trump's January 27, 2017 Executive Order by removing, detaining, or blocking the entry of Plaintiffs, or any other person from Iran, Iraq, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria and Yemen with a valid immigrant visa;
2. Defendants, and Defendant United States Department of State in particular, are hereby ENJOINED AND RESTRAINED from cancelling validly obtained and issued immigrant visas of Plaintiffs;
3. Defendants, and Defendant United States Department of State in particular, are hereby ORDERED to return to Plaintiffs their passports containing validly issued immigrant visas so that Plaintiffs may travel to the United States on said visas; and
4. Defendants are hereby ORDERED to IMMEDIATELY inform all relevant airport, airline, and other authorities at Los Angeles International Airport and International Airport in Djibouti that Plaintiffs are permitted to travel to the United States on their valid immigrant visas.

Unless otherwise agreed upon by the parties:

- Plaintiffs shall file any supplemental brief in support of their motion for preliminary injunction by February 2, 2017.
- Defendants shall file their opposition by February 5, 2017.
- Plaintiffs shall file their reply by February 8, 2017.
- Defendants shall appear on February 10, 2017 at 10:00 a.m. to show cause why the preliminary injunctive relief sought in the Ex Parte Application for Temporary Restraining Order And/Or Preliminary Injunction should not be granted.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Thank you for the opportunity to review this letter. I have a general comment—it assumes that we will use the Form I-131 to grant advance parole, but I believe that is still an open question and we may want to use the I-192 instead. We just may need to tweak the language to say 'a waiver granted by DHS' or something like that rather than AP, if we do decide on the I-192.

Memorandum

TO: All USCIS Employees

FROM: Lori L. Scialabba
Acting Director

SUBJECT: Guidance Concerning Executive Order on Immigration

On January 27, President Trump signed an Executive Order entitled "Protecting The Nation From Foreign Terrorist Entry Into The United States." This memorandum provides guidance from the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) regarding the impact of this Executive Order on various immigration benefit requests.

All USCIS employees should be aware of current guidance from DHS, specifically:

1. Section 3(c) of the Executive Order does not affect USCIS adjudication of applications and petitions filed for or on behalf of individuals in the United States regardless of their country of nationality. Section 3(c) also does not affect applications and petitions by lawful permanent residents outside the United States, or applications and petitions for individuals outside the United States whose approval does not directly confer travel authorization (including any immigrant or nonimmigrant visa petition). This includes, but is not limited to, the matters discussed more specifically in paragraphs 2, 3 and 5 below.

2. Applications to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status (Form I-485) may continue to be adjudicated, according to existing policies and procedures, for applicants who are nationals of countries designated in the Executive Order.

3. USCIS will adjudicate Refugee/Asylee Relative Petitions (Form I-730) for all beneficiaries, from any country of nationality, currently in the United States according to existing policies and procedures. Further guidance will be issued with respect to beneficiaries currently outside of the United States.

4. USCIS will continue refugee interviews when the person is a religious minority in his or her country of nationality facing religious persecution. Additionally, USCIS will continue refugee interviews in jurisdictions where there is a preexisting international agreement related to refugee processing. USCIS will not approve a refugee application for an individual who we determine would pose a risk to the security or welfare of the United States.

5. USCIS will continue adjudicating all affirmative asylum cases according to existing policies and procedures.

Questions concerning the information contained in this memorandum may be addressed via your directorate or program office through appropriate supervisory channels.

Hi, Jennifer. Apologies for not sharing our internal EO tracker with you. Please find it attached.

Regarding the DHS tracker, we had two suggested changes:

- The resumption of the USRAP is listed on the tracker (page 19) as March 28, 2017, but we believe this should say May.
- USCIS is listed as the lead to produce recommendations for how state and locals may have greater involvement in the resettlement process (page 20). We respectfully request that DHS IGA take the lead.

For the outstanding policy questions/issues, they are as follows (attached as well):

- Should USCIS move forward with denying cases on hold awaiting TRIG exemptions since it appears that exemptions are unlikely now?
- Should USCIS place all TRIG exemption determinations on hold?
- I-730s: Does the guidance apply to both asylees and refugees who are outside the country? The asylees do not count against the refugee ceiling and are not admitted as refugees (they are admitted as asylees). They are not issued visas, just boarding foils.
    - Does DHS consider asylees as refugees?
    - Does the I-730 guidance apply to all counties, or only the 7?
    - Can USCIS continue to process following-to-join (I-730) applications for asylee family members from countries not on the list of 7 (e.g., China)? State's guidance to consular officers is to continue processing those. We have not issued any yet.
- How will the NTA policy be impacted by the EO? Should we stop the naturalization NTA panels until further guidance is issued?
- How do we define "national interest" when it comes to admitting/paroling individuals? (Section 3g of EO#3)

USCIS is working on a briefing paper related to the TRIG questions. We currently have approximately 1,200 TRIG cases on hold.

If you need anything additional, please let us know.

Thanks Jeff. I get it and if it had been posted prior to us. Ring aware of the injunction it would be normal course of business posting it after, even if a re-post of a DHS post might give the impression that we are not completely compliant. I tend to be super conservative on this stuff which is why I'm deferring to OCC. Molly, you don't need the link, the press statement is at the bottom of this email chain.

The press release was sent out by DHS to the media and I asked Juan to post it, has we have other DHS statements, to the Connect page. We do not have to post it by any means but, again, the press release was distributed by DHS.

STATEMENT ON COUNTRIES CURRENTLY SUSPENDED FROM TRAVEL TO THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON - The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) would like to clarify the classes of aliens affected by the 90-day temporary pause on travel, with case-by-base exceptions and waivers, as outlined in the President's Executive Order entitled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States."

To ensure that the U.S. government can conduct a thorough analysis of the national security risks faced by our immigration system, the Executive Order imposes a 90-day pause on the entry into the United States of nationals from Iraq, Syria, Sudan, Iran, Somalia, Libya, and Yemen. This pause does not apply to Lawful Permanent Residents, dual citizens with passports from a country other than the seven listed, or those traveling on diplomatic, NATO or UN visas. Special Immigrant Visa holders who are nationals of these seven countries may board U.S.-bound planes, and apply for and receive a national interest exception to the pause upon arrival.

Importantly, these seven countries are the only countries to which the pause on entry applies. No other countries face such treatment. Nor have any other countries been identified as warranting future inclusion at this time, contrary to false reports.

As directed by the Executive Order, DHS is working with the Department of State and the Office of the Director of National Intelligence to conduct a country-by-country review of the information provided by countries in order for their nationals to apply for myriad visas, immigration benefits, or otherwise seek admission into the United States. This review is needed to ensure that individuals seeking to enter the U.S. are who they claim to be and do not pose a security or public-safety threat.

The results of this review will be provided to the President within 30 days of the Executive Order's signing. This review, conducted in consultation with our interagency partners, will determine which countries do not provide adequate information on their nationals seeking immigration benefits or admission into the United States. Principally, the goal is to ensure that those admitted to this country do not bear hostile attitudes toward the United States and its founding principles.

Based on that report, the State Department will ask any foreign governments who were determined to not be supplying adequate information on their nationals to begin providing such information within 60 days.

In order to protect Americans, and to advance the national interest, the United States must ensure that we have adequate information about individuals seeking to enter this country to ensure that they do not bear malicious intent toward the United States and its people.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON AT SEATTLE

STATE OF WASHINGTON, et al., Plaintiffs, v. DONALD J. TRUMP, et al., Defendants.	CASE NO. C17-0141JLR TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER

I. INTRODUCTION

Before the court is Plaintiffs State of Washington and State of Minnesota's (collectively, "the States") emergency motion for a temporary restraining order ("TRO"). (TRO Mot. (Dkt. ## 3, 19 (as amended)).) The court has reviewed the motion, the complaint (Compl. (Dkt. # 1)), the amended complaint (FAC (Dkt. # 18)), all the submissions of the parties related to the motion, the relevant portions of the record, and the applicable law. In addition, the court heard the argument of counsel on February 3, 2017. (See Min. Entry (Dkt. # 51).) Having considered all of the foregoing, the court GRANTS the States' motion as set forth below.

//

II. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On January 30, 2017, the State of Washington filed a complaint seeking declaratory and injunctive relief against Defendants Donald J. Trump, in his official capacity as President of the United States, the United States Department of Homeland Security ("DHS"), John F. Kelly, in his official capacity as Secretary of DHS, Tom Shannon, in his official capacity as Acting Secretary of State, and the United States of America (collectively, "Federal Defendants"). (See Compl.) On February 1, 2017, the State of Washington filed an amended complaint adding the State of Minnesota as a plaintiff. (See FAC.) The States seek declaratory relief invalidating portions of the Executive Order of January 27, 2017, entitled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States" ("Executive Order") (see FAC Ex. 7 (attaching a copy of the Executive Order)), and an order enjoining Federal Defendants from enforcing those same portions of the Executive Order. (See generally FAC at 18.)

The States are presently before the court seeking a TRO against Federal Defendants. (See generally TRO Mot.) The purpose of a TRO is to preserve the status quo before the court holds a hearing on a motion for preliminary injunction. See Granny Goose Foods, Inc. v. Bhd. Of Teamsters & Auto Truck Drivers Local No. 70 of Alameda City, 415 U.S. 423, 439 (1974); Am. Honda Fin. Corp. v. Gilbert Imports, LLC, No. CV-13-5015-EFS, 2013 WL 12120097, at *3 (E.D. Wash. Feb. 22, 2013) ("The purpose of a TRO is to preserve the status quo until there is an opportunity to hold a hearing on the application for a preliminary injunction . . . .") (internal quotation marks omitted).

Federal Defendants oppose the States' motion. (See generally Resp. (Dkt. # 50).)

III. FINDINGS OF FACT & CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

As an initial matter, the court finds that it has jurisdiction over Federal Defendants and the subject matter of this lawsuit. The States' efforts to contact Federal Defendants reasonably and substantially complied with the requirements of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 65(b). See Fed. R. Civ. P. 65(b). Indeed, Federal Defendants have appeared, argued before the court, and defended their position in this action. (See Not. of App. (Dkt. ## 20, 21); Min. Entry; see generally Resp.;)

The standard for issuing a TRO is the same as the standard for issuing a preliminary injunction. See New Motor Vehicle Bd. of Cal. v. Orrin W. Fox Co., 434 U.S. 1345, 1347 n.2 (1977). A TRO is "an extraordinary remedy that may only be awarded upon a clear showing that the plaintiff is entitled to such relief." Winter v. Nat. Res. Def. Council, Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 24 (2008). "The proper legal standard for preliminary injunctive relief requires a party to demonstrate (1) 'that he is likely to succeed on the merits, (2) that he is likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary relief, (3) that the balance of equities tips in his favor, and (4) that an injunction is in the public interest.'" Stormans, Inc. v. Selecky, 586 F.3d 1109, 1127 (9th Cir. 2009) (citing Winter, 555 U.S. at 20).

As an alternative to this test, a preliminary injunction is appropriate if "serious questions going to the merits were raised and the balance of the hardships tips sharply in the plaintiff's favor," thereby allowing preservation of the status quo when complex legal questions require further inspection or deliberation. All. for the Wild Rockies v. Cottrell, 632 F.3d 1127, 1134-35 (9th Cir. 2011). However, the "serious questions" approach supports the court's entry of a TRO only so long as the plaintiff also shows that there is a likelihood of irreparable injury and that the injunction is in the public interest. Id. at 1135. The moving party bears the burden of persuasion and must make a clear showing that it is entitled to such relief. Winter, 555 U.S. at 22.

The court finds that the States have satisfied these standards and that the court should issue a TRO. The States have satisfied the Winter test because they have shown that they are likely to succeed on the merits of the claims that would entitle them to relief; the States are likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary relief; the balance of the equities favor the States; and a TRO is in the public interest. The court also finds that the States have satisfied the "alternative" Cottrell test because they have established at least serious questions going to the merits of their claims and that the balance of the equities tips sharply in their favor. As the court noted for the Winter test, the States have also established a likelihood of irreparable injury and that a TRO is in the public interest.

Specifically, for purposes of the entry of this TRO, the court finds that the States have met their burden of demonstrating that they face immediate and irreparable injury as a result of the signing and implementation of the Executive Order. The Executive Order adversely affects the States' residents in areas of employment, education, business, family relations, and freedom to travel. These harms extend to the States by virtue of their roles as parens patriae of the residents living within their borders. In addition, the States themselves are harmed by virtue of the damage that implementation of the Executive Order has inflicted upon the operations and missions of their public universities and other institutions of higher learning, as well as injury to the States' operations, tax bases, and public funds. These harms are significant and ongoing. Accordingly, the court concludes that a TRO against Federal Defendants is necessary until such time as the court can hear and decide the States' request for a preliminary injunction.

IV. TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that:

1. Federal Defendants and all their respective officers, agents, servants, employees, attorneys, and persons acting in concert or participation with them are hereby ENJOINED and RESTRAINED from:

   (a) Enforcing Section 3(c) of the Executive Order;

   (b) Enforcing Section 5(a) of the Executive Order;

   (c) Enforcing Section 5(b) of the Executive Order or proceeding with any action that prioritizes the refugee claims of certain religious minorities;

   (d) Enforcing Section 5(c) of the Executive Order;

   (e) Enforcing Section 5(e) of the Executive Order to the extent Section 5(e) purports to prioritize refugee claims of certain religious minorities.

2. This TRO is granted on a nationwide basis and prohibits enforcement of Sections 3(c), 5(a), 5(b), 5(c), and 5(e) of the Executive Order (as described in the above paragraph) at all United States borders and ports of entry pending further orders from this court. Although Federal Defendants argued that any TRO should be limited to the States at issue (see Resp. at 30), the resulting partial implementation of the Executive Order "would undermine the constitutional imperative of 'a uniform Rule of Naturalization' and Congress's instruction that 'the immigration laws of the United States should be enforced vigorously and uniformly.'" Texas v. United States, 809 F.3d 134, 155 (5th Cir. 2015) (footnotes omitted) (quoting U.S. CONST. art. I, § 8, cl. 4 (emphasis added) and Immigration and Reform Control Act of 1986, Pub. L. No. 99-603, § 115(1), 100 Stat. 3359, 3384 (emphasis added)).[1]

3. No security bond is required under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 65(c).

4. Finally, the court orders the parties to propose a briefing schedule and noting date with respect to the States' motion for a preliminary injunction no later than Monday, February 6, 2017 at 5:00 p.m. The court will promptly schedule a hearing on the States' motion for a preliminary injunction, if requested and necessary, following receipt of the parties' briefing.

V. CONCLUSION

Fundamental to the work of this court is a vigilant recognition that it is but one of three equal branches of our federal government. The work of the court is not to create policy or judge the wisdom of any particular policy promoted by the other two branches.

[1]An equally divided Supreme Court affirmed Texas v. United States, 809 F.3d 134, in United States v. Texas, --- U.S. ----, 136 S. Ct. 2271 (2016) (per curiam).

That is the work of the legislative and executive branches and of the citizens of this country who ultimately exercise democratic control over those branches. The work of the Judiciary, and this court, is limited to ensuring that the actions taken by the other two branches comport with our country's laws, and more importantly, our Constitution. The narrow question the court is asked to consider today is whether it is appropriate to enter a TRO against certain actions taken by the Executive in the context of this specific lawsuit. Although the question is narrow, the court is mindful of the considerable impact its order may have on the parties before it, the executive branch of our government, and the country's citizens and residents. The court concludes that the circumstances brought before it today are such that it must intervene to fulfill its constitutional role in our tripart government. Accordingly, the court concludes that entry of the above-described TRO is necessary, and the States' motion (Dkt. ## 2, 19) is therefore GRANTED.

Dated this 3rd day of February, 2017.

Subject: Putative Class Action Challenging CARRP and the 1-27 EO: Wagafe v. USCIS
Attachments: Wagafe v USCIS, No. 17-cv-00094 WD Wash.pdf

Dear Lori, Matt and Dan,

I wanted to alert you to a new filing against USCIS (attached). The case is pled as a national class action and is the first case that merges an attack on the 1-27 EO with an attack on CARRP. The case is filed in Seattle in the Western District of Washington. Currently there are two named plaintiffs, and we are tracking down who they are and what we have in our systems. We will work with our field attorneys, FOD and FDNS to coordinate our response. The case was originally filed before the release of the EO (filing date Jan. 23), but was quickly amended to include a challenge to the EO along with a challenge to CARRP on Feb. 1. DOJ notified us about the case last night. We have not yet confirmed service of either the original or the amended complaint. The plaintiffs have not yet filed a motion to certify the class(es).

The plaintiffs' representatives include NWIRP, national ACLU and several local chapters of the ACLU, the National Lawyers Guild and other advocacy groups involved in the national litigation against the EO.

Chris Dempsey's new team at OIL DCS has the lead on the case for DOJ. Two trial attorneys on the team, Aaron Petty and Ed White will be handling the case.

We have reported the case up to DHS OGC. Because there is no preliminary relief requested, we are still providing support on the responses to the more exigent EO cases currently pending, and we will meet with OIL DCS early next week to refine our approach to the case. In preparation, we will identify the individuals, what records we hold about them, and the location of pending adjudications and files.

Please don't hesitate to contact me if you have any questions or concerns. Caitlin Miller and Yoel Malashock on my team will, at present, have the lead on this case for OCC.

Evan

COMPLAINT-CLASS ACTION Case No: 2:17-cv-00094-JCC AMENDED COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

INTRODUCTION

1. This class action lawsuit seeks to stop the federal government from unconstitutionally preventing Plaintiffs, and others like them, from obtaining immigration benefits, including, but not limited to, asylum, naturalization, lawful permanent residence, and employment authorization.

2. On January 27, 2017, President Trump issued an Executive Order entitled "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States."

3. Section 3 of the Executive Order suspends entry into the United States of citizens or nationals of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Yemen, Somalia, Sudan, and Libya, all of which are predominantly Muslim countries, for 90 days or more. Although the Executive Order says nothing about suspending adjudications, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service ("USCIS") has determined that the Executive Order requires it to suspend adjudication or final action on all pending petitions, applications, or requests involving citizens or nationals of those seven countries with the exception of naturalization applications.

4. Section 4 of the Executive Order further directs federal agencies to create and implement a policy of extreme vetting of all immigration benefits applications to identify individuals who are seeking to enter the country based on fraud and with the intent to cause harm or who are at risk of causing harm after admission. Any such "extreme vetting" policy will expand a current USCIS program called the Controlled Application Review and Resolution Program ("CARRP"). CARRP imposes extra-statutory rules and criteria to delay and deny immigration benefits to which applicants are entitled.

5. Plaintiff Abdiqafar Wagafe is a Somali national who has applied for and is eligible to naturalize as a United States citizen. He has been waiting three and a half years for a decision on his naturalization application.

6. Plaintiff Mehdi Ostadhassan is an Iranian national who has applied for and is eligible to adjust his status to that of a permanent resident. He has waited three years for a decision on his adjustment of status application.

7. Both Plaintiffs are practicing Muslims and long-term residents of the United States. Adjudication of Plaintiff Ostadhassan's application is now suspended. This suspension, as well as the inordinate delays both he and Plaintiff Wagafe have faced, have held and will hold the lives of Plaintiffs, and others like them, in a state of limbo. They are prevented from having certainty about their future

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT

Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

residence in the United States, from being able to travel overseas, from petitioning for immigration benefits for family members, from obtaining jobs available only to U.S. citizens, and from voting in U.S. elections.

8. On behalf of themselves, and others similarly situated, Plaintiffs request that this Court order USCIS to resume adjudications of immigration benefits applications for citizens or nationals of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Yemen, Somalia, Sudan, and Libya. They also seek to enjoin the federal government from subjecting them and others like them—immigrants who are living in the United States and who are applying for naturalization or adjustment of status as permanent residents—to any "extreme vetting" and screening program that imposes unlawful criteria for adjudication and approval of their applications and that is ultra vires to the Constitution and immigration laws and is based on unconstitutional animus towards people of the Muslim faith or from Muslim-majority countries.

9. The Executive Order and application of CARRP[1] to pending immigration applications are unlawful and unconstitutional. The Executive Order reflects a preference for one religious faith over another in the adjudication of immigration applications, and, inter alia, discriminates against immigrants who are Muslim or from Muslim-majority countries on the basis of their religion and country of origin. CARRP and the "extreme vetting" program to be established under the Executive Order are similarly unlawful and ultra vires. The Constitution expressly assigns to Congress, not the executive branch, the authority to establish uniform rules of naturalization. The Immigration and Nationality Act ("INA") sets forth those rules, along with the requirements for adjustment of status to lawful permanent residence, asylum, and all other immigration benefits. By creating additional, non-statutory, substantive criteria for adjudicating immigration applications, CARRP and any successor "extreme vetting" program violate the INA, Article I of the Constitution, and the Due Process Clause.

10. Without intervention by this Court, the applications of Plaintiff Ostadhassan and proposed class members will be unlawfully suspended due to the application of the Executive Order, and adjudications

[1] As set forth below in paragraph 70, USCIS did not make information about CARRP public, and the program only was discovered through fortuity during federal court litigation. To the extent the program has shifted in name, scope, or method, Plaintiffs may have no way to obtain that information. Thus, Plaintiffs' reference to "CARRP" incorporates any similar non-statutory and sub-regulatory successor vetting policy.

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

of both Plaintiff's and proposed class members' applications will be unlawfully subject to, and adjudicated under, CARRP or a successor "extreme vetting" program.

11. Plaintiffs therefore request that the Court order USCIS to resume adjudications of immigration benefits applications for citizens and nationals of the seven countries identified in the Executive Order and enjoin USCIS from applying CARRP (or any similar ultra vires policy/successor "extreme vetting" program) to their immigration applications and the applications of similarly situated individuals.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

12. Plaintiffs allege violations of the INA, the Administrative Procedure Act ("APA"), and the U.S. Constitution. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1331. This Court also has authority to grant declaratory relief under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202, and injunctive relief under 5 U.S.C. § 702 and 28 U.S.C. § 1361.

13. Venue is proper in the Western District of Washington under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(b) and 1391(e) because (1) Plaintiff Abdiqafar Wagafe, a lawful permanent resident of the United States, resides in this district and no real property is involved in this action; (2) a substantial part of the events giving rise to the claims occurred in this district; and (3) Plaintiffs sue Defendants in their official capacity as officers of the United States.

PARTIES

14. Plaintiff Abdiqafar Wagafe is a thirty-two-year-old Somali national and a lawful permanent resident of the United States. He has lived in the United States since May 2007 and currently resides in SeaTac, Washington. He is Muslim. He applied for naturalization in November 2013. Even though he satisfies all statutory criteria for naturalization, USCIS has subjected his application to CARRP or its successor "extreme vetting" program, and as a result, a final decision has not been issued.

15. Plaintiff Mehdi Ostadhassan is a thirty-three-year-old national of Iran. He has lived in the United States since 2009 and resides in Grand Forks, North Dakota. He applied for adjustment to lawful permanent resident status in February 2014. He is Muslim. Even though he satisfies all statutory criteria for adjustment of status, USCIS has suspended adjudication of his application under the Executive Order and subjected his application to CARRP or its successor "extreme vetting" program,

Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

and as a result, a final decision has not been issued.

16. Defendant Donald Trump is the President of the United States. Plaintiffs sue Defendant Trump in his official capacity.

17. Defendant USCIS is a component of the Department of Homeland Security ("DHS"), and is responsible for overseeing the adjudication of immigration benefits. USCIS implements federal law and policy with respect to immigration benefits applications.

18. Defendant John F. Kelly is the Secretary of DHS, the department under which USCIS and several other immigration agencies operate. Accordingly, Secretary Kelly has supervisory responsibility over USCIS. Plaintiffs sue Defendant Kelly in his official capacity.

19. Defendant Lori Scialabba is the Acting Director of USCIS. Acting Director Scialabba establishes and implements immigration benefits applications policy for USCIS and its subdivisions. Plaintiffs sue Defendant Scialabba in her official capacity.

20. Defendant Matthew D. Emrich is the Associate Director of the Fraud Detection and National Security Directorate of USCIS ("FDNS"), which is ultimately responsible for determining whether individuals filing applications for immigration benefits pose a threat to national security, public safety, or the integrity of the nation's legal immigration system. Associate Director Emrich establishes and implements policy for FDNS. Plaintiffs sue Defendant Emrich in his official capacity.

21. Defendant Daniel Renaud is the Associate Director of the Field Operations Directorate of USCIS, which is responsible for and oversees the processing and adjudication of immigration benefits applications through the USCIS field offices and the National Benefits Center. Plaintiffs sue Defendant Renaud in his official capacity.

LEGAL FRAMEWORK

A. Naturalization

22. To naturalize as a U.S. citizen, an applicant must satisfy certain eligibility criteria under the INA and its implementing regulations. See generally 8 U.S.C. §§ 1421-1458; 8 C.F.R. §§ 316.1-316.14.

23. Applicants must prove that they are "at least 18 years of age," 8 C.F.R. § 316.2(a)(1); have "resided continuously, after being lawfully admitted" in the United States, "for at least five years"; and have been "physically present" in the United States for "at least half of that time," 8 U.S.C.

24. Applicants must also demonstrate "good moral character" for the five years preceding the date of application, "attach[ment] to the principles of the Constitution of the United States, and favorabl[e] dispos[ition] toward the good order and happiness of the United States . . . ." 8 C.F.R. § 316.2(a)(7).

25. An applicant is presumed to possess the requisite "good moral character" for naturalization unless, during the five years preceding the date of the application, he or she is found (1) to be a habitual drunkard, (2) to have committed certain drug-related offenses, (3) to be a gambler whose income derives principally from gambling or has been convicted of two or more gambling offenses, (4) to have given false testimony for the purpose of obtaining immigration benefits; or if the applicant (5) has been convicted and confined to a penal institution for an aggregate period of 180 days or more, (6) has been convicted of an aggravated felony, or (7) has engaged in conduct such as aiding Nazi persecution or participating in genocide, torture, or extrajudicial killings. 8 U.S.C. § 1101(f)(6).

26. The statutory and regulatory requirements set forth in paragraphs 23-24 are less stringent for certain persons who married U.S. citizens and employees of certain nonprofit organizations, in that less than five years of residency and good moral character are required. See generally 8 U.S.C. § 1430; 8 C.F.R. §§ 319.1 and 319.4.

27. An applicant is barred from naturalization for national security-related reasons in circumstances limited to those codified in 8 U.S.C. § 1424, including, inter alia, if the applicant has advocated, is affiliated with any organization that advocates, or writes or distributes information that advocates, "the overthrow by force or violence or other unconstitutional means of the Government of the United States," the "duty, necessity, or propriety of the unlawful assaulting or killing of any officer . . . of the Government of the United States," or "the unlawful damage, injury, or destruction of property."

28. Once an individual submits an application, USCIS must conduct a background investigation, see 8 U.S.C. § 1446(a); 8 C.F.R. § 335.1, which includes a full criminal background check by the Federal Bureau of Investigation ("FBI"), see 8 C.F.R. § 335.2.

29. After completing the background investigation, USCIS must schedule a naturalization examination at which the applicant meets with a USCIS examiner for an interview.

30. In order to avoid inordinate processing delays and backlogs, Congress has stated "that the processing of an immigration benefit application," which includes naturalization, "should be completed not later than 180 days after the initial filing of the application." 8 U.S.C. § 1571(b). USCIS must either grant or deny a naturalization application within 120 days of the date of the examination. 8 C.F.R. § 335.3.

31. If the applicant has complied with all requirements for naturalization, federal regulations state that USCIS "shall grant the application." 8 C.F.R. § 335.3(a) (emphasis added).

32. Courts have long recognized that "Congress is given power by the Constitution to establish a uniform Rule of Naturalization. . . . And when it establishes such uniform rule, those who come within its provisions are entitled to the benefit thereof as a matter of right. . . ." Schwab v. Coleman, 145 F.2d 672, 676 (4th Cir. 1944) (emphasis added); see also Marcantonio v. United States, 185 F.2d 934, 937 (4th Cir. 1950) ("The opportunity having been conferred by the Naturalization Act, there is a statutory right in the alien to submit his petition and evidence to a court, to have that tribunal pass upon them, and, if the requisite facts are established, to receive the certificate." (quoting Tutun v. United States, 270 U.S. 568, 578 (1926))).

33. Once an application is granted, the applicant is sworn in as a United States citizen.

B. Adjustment of Status to Lawful Permanent Resident

34. Federal law allows certain non-citizens to adjust their immigration status to that of a lawful permanent resident ("LPR").

35. Several events may trigger eligibility to adjust to LPR status, including, but not limited to, an approved petition through a family member, such as a U.S. citizen spouse, or employer. See, e.g., 8 U.S.C. § 1255(a); 8 C.F.R. § 245.1.

36. In general, a noncitizen who is the beneficiary of an approved immigrant visa petition and who is physically present in the United States may adjust to LPR status if he or she "makes an application for such adjustment," was "inspected and admitted or paroled" into the United States, is eligible for an immigrant visa and admissible to the United States, and the immigrant visa is immediately available to the applicant at the time the application is filed. 8 U.S.C. §§ 1255(a)(1)-(3); 8 C.F.R. § 245.1.

37. An adjustment applicant may be found inadmissible, and therefore ineligible to become an LPR, if certain security-related grounds apply, including, inter alia, the applicant has engaged in terrorist activity, is a representative or member of a terrorist organization, endorses or espouses terrorist activity, or incites terrorist activity. See 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(3). USCIS's definition of a national security concern in CARRP is significantly broader than these security-related grounds of inadmissibility set by Congress.

38. Congress has directed USCIS to process immigration benefit applications, including for adjustment of status, within 180 days. 8 U.S.C. § 1571(b).

C. Other Immigration Benefits

39. Federal laws provide noncitizens living within the United States the opportunity to apply for a myriad of other immigration benefits apart from either naturalization or adjustment of status.

40. For example, persons fleeing persecution or torture may apply for asylum under 8 U.S.C. § 1158, or withholding of removal, under 8 U.S.C. § 1231(b)(3). Victims of certain crimes and trafficking who have suffered serious harm and who have cooperated with law enforcement may apply for nonimmigrant visas under 8 U.S.C. §§ 1101(a)(15)(T), (U). Certain noncitizens from designated countries may apply for Temporary Protected Status ("TPS") in the event of, inter alia, a natural disaster or political upheaval in their country of origin. 8 U.S.C. § 1254a. In addition, a significant number of noncitizens within the United States are eligible for employment authorization based on either their current immigration status, their employment status, or their temporary immigration status, including while other applications for immigration benefits are pending. See generally 8 C.F.R. § 274.12a(a)-(c).

41. Every immigration benefit has enumerated statutory and/or regulatory requirements that applicants must affirmatively establish to demonstrate eligibility. In addition, each applicant generally must show that they are admissible under 8 U.S.C. § 1182 and/or are that any past immigration violation or criminal conduct does not disqualify them for the benefit sought. See, e.g., 8 U.S.C., §§ 1158(b)(2) (precluding asylum eligibility to individuals found to have persecuted others, to have been convicted of "a particularly serious crime," or to present a danger to national security); 1231(b)(3)(B) (precluding applicants from receiving withholding of removal based on national security grounds); 1254a(c)(2)(B)(i) (precluding applicants from qualifying for TPS if they have been convicted of a felony or two or more misdemeanors).

A. Executive Order of January 27, 2017

42. President Donald Trump campaigned for election on promises to ban Muslims from coming to the United States.

43. On December 7, 2015, the Trump campaign issued a press release stating that "Donald J. Trump is calling for a total and complete shutdown of Muslims entering the United States until our country's representatives can figure out what is going on." The press release is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

44. In March 2016, Defendant Trump said, "Frankly, look, we're having problems with the Muslims, and we're having problems with Muslims coming into the country." Alex Griswold, Trump Responds to Brussels Attacks: 'We're Having Problems with the Muslims,' MEDIAITE, Mar. 22, 2016, available at http://www.mediaite.com/tv/trump-responds-to-brussels-attack-were-having-problems-with-the-muslims/ (last visited: Feb. 1, 2017).

45. On June 14, 2016, Defendant Trump promised to ban all Muslims entering this country until "we as a nation are in a position to properly and perfectly screen those people coming into our country." The transcript of his speech is attached hereto as Exhibit B.

46. In a speech on August 15, 2016, Defendant Trump said that the United States could not "adequate[ly] screen[]" immigrants because it admits "about 100,000 permanent immigrants from the Middle East every year." Defendant Trump proposed creating an ideological screening test for immigration applicants, which would "screen out any who have hostile attitudes towards our country or its principles—or who believe that Sharia law should supplant American law." During the speech, he referred to his proposal as "extreme, extreme vetting." A copy of his prepared remarks are attached hereto as Exhibit C. A video link to the delivered speech is available at: https://www.c-span.org/video/?413977-1/donald-trump-delivers-foreign-policy-address (quoted remarks at 50:46).

47. During an August 2016 speech, Michael Flynn, who is now President Trump's National Security Advisor, called Islam "a political ideology," suggesting it is not a religion, and called it "a vicious cancer inside the body of 1.7 billion people on this planet and it has to be excised." A copy of a news article reporting this speech is attached hereto as Exhibit D. A video link with clips of his speech is available at: http://www.cnn.com/2016/11/22/politics/kfile-michael-flynn-august-speech/.

48. On January 20, 2017, Donald Trump was inaugurated as the President of the United States.

Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

49. In his first television appearance as President, he again referred to his plan for "extreme vetting." The transcript of this interview is attached hereto as Exhibit E.

50. On January 27, 2017, one week after taking office, Defendant Trump signed an executive order entitled, "Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States." The Executive Order is attached hereto as Exhibit F and is hereinafter referred to as the "EO." On information and belief, and in light of the statements by Mr. Trump and his advisors set forth above, the EO was intended to target Muslims.

51. Citing the threat of terrorism committed by foreign nationals, the EO directs a variety of changes to the processing of certain immigration benefits. Most relevant to the instant action is Section 3 of the EO, which falls within a section entitled "Suspension of Issuance of Visas and Other Immigration Benefits," in which President Trump orders, in Section 3(a), an immediate "review to determine the information needed from any country to adjudicate any visa, admission, or other benefit under the INA (adjudications) in order to determine that the individual seeking the benefit is who the individual claims to be and is not a security or public-safety threat." In Section 3(c), the order then explains that to reduce the burden of the reviews described in Section 3(a), "immigrant and nonimmigrant entry into the United States of aliens from countries referred to in section 217(a)(12) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1187(a)(12), would be detrimental to the interests of the United States," and that Defendant Trump is therefore "suspend[ing] entry into the United States, as immigrants and nonimmigrants, of such persons for 90 days from the date of this order."

52. There are seven countries that fit the criteria in 8 U.S.C. § 1187(a)(12): Iraq, Iran, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, and Yemen. The populations of those countries are overwhelmingly Muslim.

53. The EO purports to rely on 8 U.S.C. § 1182(f) for the authority to suspend entry into the United States.

54. On information and belief, USCIS relies on Section 3 of the EO to suspend processing immigrant visas and immigration benefits.

55. Section 4 of the EO orders the creation of a screening program for all immigration benefits applications, which will seek to identify individuals "who are seeking to enter the United States on a fraudulent basis with the intent to cause harm, or who are at risk of causing harm subsequent to their admission" and "a process to evaluate the applicant's likelihood of becoming a positively contributing member of society and the applicant's ability to make contributions to the national interest."

56. Sections 5(a) and (b) of the EO suspends the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program in its entirety for 120 days and then, upon its resumption, directs the program to prioritize refugees who claim persecution on the basis of religious-based persecution, "provided that the religion of the individual is a minority religion in the individual's country of nationality." Section 5(e) states that notwithstanding the suspension of the Refugee Program, on a case-by-case basis, the United States may admit refugees "only so long as they determine that the admission of such individuals as refugees is in the national interest—including when the person is a religious minority in his country of nationality facing religious persecution."

57. In a January 27, 2017, interview with the Christian Broadcasting Network, President Trump confirmed his intent to prioritize Christians in the Middle East for admission as refugees. A copy of the report of this interview is attached hereto as Exhibit G (David Brody: "As it relates to persecuted Christians, do you see them as kind of a priority here?" President Trump: "Yes.").

B. Ban on the Adjudication of Immigration Benefits Applications for Immigrants from the Seven Countries

58. After the issuance of the EO, at least two department heads within USCIS sent internal communications barring any final action on any petition or benefits application involving citizens or nationals of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya.

59. On January 28, 2017, Associate Director of Service Center Operations for USCIS, Donald Neufeld, issued instructions to Service Center directors and deputies in an email message directing the suspension of the "adjudication of all applications, petitions or requests involving citizens or nationals of the [seven] listed countries." The email continues, "At this point there are no exceptions for any form types, to include I-90s or I-765s. Please physically segregate any files that are impacted by this temporary hold pending further guidance." Photographs of the internal email communication are attached hereto as Exhibit H.

60. In another email to staff from Daniel M. Renaud, Associate Director of Field Operations for USCIS, on January 28, 2017, Mr. Renaud stated, "Effectively [sic] immediately and until additional guidance is received, you may not take final action on any petition or application where the applicant is a citizen or national of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Somalia, Yemen, Sudan, and Libya." Alice Speri and Ryan Devereaux, Turmoil at DHS and State Department, THE INTERCEPT, Jan. 30, 2017, available at https://theintercept.com/2017/01/30/asylum-officials-and-state-department-in-turmoil-there-are-people-literally-crying-in-the-office-here/. The email continued, "Offices are not permitted [to] make any final decision on affected cases to include approval, denial, withdrawal, or revocation. Please look for additional guidance later this weekend on how to process naturalization applicants from one of the seven countries listed above who are currently scheduled for oath ceremony or whose N-400s have been approved and they are pending scheduling of oath ceremony." Id.; see also Michael D. Shear and Ron Nixon, How Trump's Rush to Enact an Immigration Ban Unleashed Global Chaos, NEW YORK TIMES (Jan. 29, 2017), available at https://www.nytimes.com/2017/01/29/us/politics/donald-trump-rush-immigration-order-chaos.html.

61. On January 31, 2017, U.S. Customs and Border Protection, a subdivision of DHS, published a clarification on its website regarding whether the EO applies to people with pending naturalization applications. The site reported that the EO does not so apply and that "USCIS will continue to adjudicate N-400 applications for naturalization and administer the oath of citizenship consistent with prior practices." Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States, CBP, https://www.cbp.gov/border-security/protecting-nation-foreign-terrorist-entry-united-states.

62. Referencing the hold on adjudications for people from the seven countries, a USCIS official told The Intercept, "We know what is coming. These cases will all be denied after significant waits." Alice Speri and Ryan Devereaux, Turmoil at DHS and State Department, THE INTERCEPT, Jan. 30, 2017.

63. The application of the EO to immigration benefits applications for immigrants from the seven countries will effectuate the intent of the EO to target Muslims.

C. "Extreme Vetting" of Muslim Immigrants

64. As described above, Section 4 of the EO orders the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Homeland Security, the Director of National Intelligence, and the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to "implement a program, as part of the adjudication process for immigration benefits" to identify individuals "who are at risk of causing harm." The EO calls for the implementation of a

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

"program [that] will include the development of a uniform screening standard and procedure," including "a process to evaluate the applicant's likelihood of becoming a positively contributing member of society and the applicant's ability to make contributions to the national interest," as well as "a mechanism to assess whether or not the applicant has the intent to commit criminal or terrorist acts after entering the United States."

65. Upon information and belief, this "extreme vetting" program will dramatically expand CARRP, an existing program USCIS has implemented since April 2008.

66. CARRP is an agency-wide policy for identifying, processing, and adjudicating immigration applications that raise "national security concerns." As described below, however, CARRP unlawfully imposes extra statutory rules and criteria to delay and deny applicants immigration benefits to which they are entitled.

67. Congress did not enact CARRP, and USCIS did not promulgate it as a proposed rule with the notice-and-comment procedures mandated by the APA. See 5 U.S.C. § 553(b)-(c).

68. Upon information and belief, prior to CARRP's enactment, USCIS simply delayed the adjudication of many immigration applications that raised possible national security concerns, in part due to backlogs created by the FBI Name Check process (one of many security checks utilized by USCIS).

69. Indeed, the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Washington previously certified a district class of hundreds of naturalization applicants whose cases were delayed due to FBI Name Checks, see Roshandel v. Chertoff, 554 F. Supp. 2d 1194 (W.D. Wash. 2008), and denied the defendants' motion to dismiss the suit, see Roshandel, 2008 WL 1969646 (W.D. Wash. May 5, 2008). The case resulted in a settlement in which the defendants agreed to adjudicate class member applications within a specified time period. See Roshandel, No. C07-1739MJP, Dkt. 81 (W.D. Wash. Aug. 25, 2008).

70. Now, in lieu of delays based on the FBI Name Check process, USCIS delays applications by applying CARRP. Since CARRP's inception, USCIS has not made information about CARRP available to the public, except in response to Freedom of Information Act ("FOIA") requests and litigation to compel responses to those requests. See ACLU of Southern California v. USCIS, No. CV 13-861

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT

Telephone (206) 957-8611

(D.D.C. filed June 7, 2013). In fact, the program was unknown to the public, including applicants for immigration benefits, until it was discovered in litigation challenging an unlawful denial of naturalization in Hamdi v. USCIS, No. EDCV 10-894 VAP (DTBx), 2012 WL 632397 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 25, 2012), and then revealed in greater detail through the government's response to a FOIA request.

71. CARRP directs USCIS officers to screen citizenship and immigration benefits applications for national security concerns.

72. If a USCIS officer determines that an application presents a national security concern, he or she will take the application off a routine adjudication track and—without notifying the applicant—place it on a CARRP adjudication track where it is subject to distinct procedures, heightened scrutiny, and, most importantly, extra-statutory criteria that result in lengthy delays and prohibit approvals, except in limited circumstances, regardless of an applicant's statutory eligibility.

1. CARRP's Definition of a National Security Concern

73. According to the CARRP definition, a national security concern arises when an individual or organization has been determined to have an articulable link—no matter how attenuated or unsubstantiated—to prior, current, or planned involvement in, or association with, an activity, individual, or organization described in sections 212(a)(3)(A), (B), or (F), or 237(a)(4)(A) or (B) of the Immigration and Nationality Act. Those sections of the INA make inadmissible or removable any individual who, inter alia, "has engaged in terrorist activity" or is a member of a "terrorist organization." 8 U.S.C. §§ 1182(a)(3) and 1227(a)(4).

74. For the reasons described herein, an individual need not be actually suspected of engaging in any unlawful activity or joining any proscribed organization to be branded a national security concern under CARRP.

75. CARRP distinguishes between two types of national security concerns: those ostensibly involving "Known or Suspected Terrorists" ("KSTs"), and those ostensibly involving "non-Known or Suspected Terrorists" ("non-KSTs").

76. USCIS automatically considers an applicant a KST, and thus a national security concern, if his or her name appears in the Terrorist Screening Database, also referred to as the Terrorist Watchlist ("TSDB" or "Watchlist"). USCIS, therefore, applies CARRP to any applicant whose name appears in

615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

the TSDB.

77. Upon information and belief, the TSDB includes approximately one million names, many of whom present no threat to the United States.

78. The government's Watchlisting Guidance sets a very low "reasonable suspicion" standard for placement on the Watchlist. Under the Guidance, concrete facts are not necessary to satisfy the reasonable suspicion standard, and uncorroborated information of questionable or even doubtful reliability can serve as the basis for blacklisting an individual. The Guidance further reveals that the government blacklists non-U.S. citizens, including LPRs, even where it cannot meet the already low reasonable suspicion standard of purported involvement with terrorist activity. The Guidance permits the watchlisting of noncitizens simply for being associated with someone else who has been watchlisted, even if there is no known involvement with that person's purportedly suspicious activity. The Guidance also states explicitly that noncitizens may be watchlisted based on information that is very limited or of suspected reliability. These extremely loose standards significantly increase the likelihood that the TSDB contains information on individuals who are neither known nor appropriately suspected terrorists.

79. Furthermore, the Terrorist Screening Center ("TSC"), which maintains the TSDB, has failed to ensure that individuals who do not meet the Watchlist's criteria are promptly removed from the TSDB (or not blacklisted in the first place). In 2013 alone, the watchlisting community nominated 468,749 individuals to the TSDB, and the TSC rejected only approximately one percent of those nominations. Public reports also confirm that the government has nominated or retained people on government watchlists as a result of human error.

80. The federal government's official policy is to refuse to confirm or deny any given individual's inclusion in the TSDB or provide a meaningful opportunity to challenge that inclusion. Nevertheless, individuals can become aware of their inclusion due to air travel experiences. In particular, individuals may learn that they are on the "Selectee List" or the "Expanded Selectee List," subsets of the TSDB, if their boarding passes routinely display the code "SSSS" or they are routinely directed for additional screening before boarding a flight over U.S. airspace. They may also learn of their inclusion in the TSDB if U.S. federal agents regularly subject them to secondary inspection when they enter the United States from abroad. Such individuals are also often unable to check-in for flights online or at airline electronic kiosks at the airport.

81. Where the KST designation does not apply, CARRP instructs officers to look for indicators of a non-Known or Suspected Terrorist ("non-KST") concern.

82. These indicators fall into three categories: (1) statutory indicators; (2) non-statutory indicators; and (3) indicators contained in security check results.

83. Statutory indicators of a national security concern arise when an individual generally meets the definitions described in Sections 212(a)(3)(A), (B), and (F), and 237(a)(4)(A) and (B) of the INA (codified at 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(3)(A), (B), and (F) and § 1227(a)(4)(A) and (B)), which list the security and terrorism grounds of inadmissibility and removability.[2] However, CARRP expressly defines statutory indicators of a national security concern more broadly than the statute, stating that the facts of the case do not need to satisfy the legal standard used in determining admissibility or removability under those provisions of the INA to give rise to a non-KST national security concern.

84. For example, CARRP policy specifically directs USCIS officers to scrutinize evidence of charitable donations to organizations later designated as financiers of terrorism by the U.S. Treasury Department and to construe such donations as evidence of a national security concern, even if an individual had made such donations without any knowledge that the organization was engaged in proscribed activity. Such conduct would not make an applicant inadmissible for a visa, asylum, or LPR status under the statute, see 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(3)(B), nor does it have any bearing on a naturalization application.

85. Under CARRP, non-statutory indicators of a national security concern include travel through or residence in areas of known terrorist activity; a large scale transfer or receipt of funds; a person's employment, training, or government affiliations; the identities of a person's family members or close associates, such as a roommate, co-worker, employee, owner, partner, affiliate, or friend; or simply other

[2] These security and terrorism grounds of inadmissibility, if applicable, may bar an applicant from obtaining lawful permanent resident status, asylum, or a visa. However, they do not bar an applicant who is already a lawful permanent resident from naturalization, which is governed by the statutory provisions specific to naturalization. See 8 U.S.C. §§ 1421-1458. The security and terrorism provisions may also render a non-citizen removable, see 8 U.S.C. § 1227(a)(4), but the government has not charged Plaintiffs with removability under these provisions.

Telephone (206) 957-8611

suspicious activities.

86. Finally, security check results are considered indicators of a national security concern in instances where, for example, the FBI Name Check produces a positive hit on an applicant's name and the applicant's name is associated with a national security-related investigatory file. Upon information and belief, this indicator leads USCIS to label applicants national security concerns solely because their names appear in a law enforcement or intelligence file, even if they were never the subject of an investigation. For example, an applicant's name could appear in a law enforcement file in connection with a national security investigation because he or she once gave a voluntary interview to an FBI agent, he or she attended a mosque that was the subject of FBI surveillance, or he or she knew or was associated with someone under investigation.

87. Upon information and belief, CARRP labels applicants national security concerns based on vague and overbroad criteria that often turn on national origin or innocuous and lawful activities or associations. These criteria are untethered from the statutory criteria that determine whether a person is eligible for the immigration status or benefit they seek, and are so general that they necessarily ensnare individuals who pose no threat to the security of the United States.

2. Delay and Denial

88. Once a USCIS officer identifies a CARRP-defined national security concern, the application is subjected to CARRP's rules and procedures that guide officers to deny such applications or, if an officer cannot find a basis to deny the application, to delay adjudication as long as possible.

a) Deconfliction

89. One such procedure is called "deconfliction," which requires USCIS to coordinate with—and, upon information and belief, subordinate its authority to—the law enforcement agency, often the FBI, that possesses information giving rise to the supposed national security concern.

90. During deconfliction, the relevant law enforcement agency has authority: to instruct USCIS to ask certain questions in an interview or to issue a Request for Evidence ("RFE"); to comment on a proposed decision on the benefit; and to request that USCIS deny, grant, or hold the application in abeyance for an indefinite period of time.

91. Upon information and belief, deconfliction allows law enforcement or intelligence agencies such

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT

Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

as the FBI to directly affect the adjudication of a requested immigration benefit, and also results in the agencies conducting independent interrogations of the applicant—or the applicant's friends and family.

92. Upon information and belief, USCIS often makes decisions to deny immigration benefit applications because the FBI requests or recommends the denial, not because the person is statutorily ineligible for the benefit.

93. The FBI often seeks to use the pending immigration application to coerce the applicant to act as an informant or otherwise provide information.

b) Eligibility Assessment

94. In addition to deconfliction, once officers identify an applicant as a national security concern, CARRP directs officers to perform an "eligibility assessment" to determine whether the applicant is eligible for the benefit sought.

95. Upon information and belief, at this stage, CARRP instructs officers to look for any reason to deny an application so that time and resources are not expended to investigate the possible national security concern. Where no legitimate reason supports denial of an application subjected to CARRP, USCIS officers often utilize spurious or pretextual reasons to deny the application.

c) Internal Vetting

96. Upon information and belief, if, after performing the eligibility assessment, an officer cannot find a reason to deny an application, CARRP instructs officers to first "internally vet" the national security concern using information available in DHS systems and databases, open source information, review of the applicant's file, RFEs, and interviews or site visits.

97. After conducting the eligibility assessment and internal vetting, USCIS officers are instructed to again conduct deconfliction to determine the position of any interested law enforcement agency.

d) External Vetting

98. If the national security concern remains and the officer cannot find a basis to deny the benefit, the application then proceeds to "external vetting."

99. During external vetting, USCIS instructs officers to confirm the existence of the national security concern with the law enforcement or intelligence agency that possesses the information that created the concern and obtain additional information from that agency about the concern and its relevance to the individual.

100. CARRP policy instructs USCIS officers to hold applications in abeyance for periods of 180 days to enable law enforcement agents and USCIS officers to investigate the national security concern. According to CARRP policy, the USCIS Field Office Director may extend the abeyance periods as long as the investigation remains open.

101. Upon information and belief, CARRP provides no outer limit on how long USCIS may hold a case in abeyance, even though the INA requires USCIS to adjudicate a naturalization application within 120 days of examination, 8 C.F.R. § 335.3, and Congress has made clear its intent that USCIS adjudicate immigration applications, including visa petitions and accompanying applications for adjustment of status to lawful permanent residence, within 180 days of filing the application. 8 U.S.C. § 1571(b).

e) Adjudication

102. When USCIS considers an applicant to be a KST national security concern, CARRP policy forbids USCIS adjudications officers from granting the requested benefit even if the applicant satisfies all statutory and regulatory criteria.

103. When USCIS considers an applicant to be a non-KST national security concern, CARRP policy forbids USCIS adjudications officers from granting the requested benefit in the absence of supervisory approval and concurrence from a senior level USCIS official.

104. In Hamdi, 2012 WL 632397, when asked whether USCIS's decision to brand naturalization applicant Tarek Hamdi as a national security concern affected whether he was eligible for naturalization, a USCIS officer testified that "it doesn't make him statutorily ineligible, but because he is a—he still has a national security concern, it affects whether or not we can approve him." The officer testified that, under CARRP, "until [the] national security concern [is] resolved, he won't get approved."

105. Upon information and belief, USCIS routinely delays adjudication of applications subject to CARRP when it cannot find a reason to deny the application. When an applicant files a mandamus action to compel USCIS to finally adjudicate his or her pending application, it often has the effect of forcing USCIS to deny a statutorily-eligible application on pretextual grounds because CARRP prevents agency field officers from granting an application involving a national security concern.

106. CARRP effectively creates two substantive regimes for immigration application processing and adjudication: one for those applications subject to heightened scrutiny and vetting under CARRP and one for all other applications. CARRP rules and procedures create substantive eligibility criteria that indefinitely delay adjudications and unlawfully deny immigration benefits to noncitizens who are statutorily eligible and entitled by law.

107. At no point during the CARRP process is the applicant made aware that he or she has been labeled a national security concern, nor is the applicant ever provided with an opportunity to respond to and contest the classification.

108. Upon information and belief, CARRP results in unauthorized adjudication delays, often lasting many years, and pre-textual denials of statutorily-eligible immigration applications.

B. Facts Specific To Each Plaintiff

Abdiqafar Wagafe

109. Plaintiff Abdiqafar Aden Wagafe is a thirty-two-year-old Somali national who currently resides in SeaTac, Washington.

110. Between 2001 and 2007, Mr. Wagafe lived in refugee camps and temporary refugee housing in Kenya and Ethiopia.

111. On May 24, 2007, he moved to the United States with nine family members and was admitted as a refugee. He has lived in the United States since then.

112. After arriving in the United States, Mr. Wagafe briefly stayed in Minneapolis, Minnesota with his brother. He then moved to Seattle, where his two sisters and another brother live.

113. All of the nine family members who moved to the United States with Mr. Wagafe have become U.S. citizens.

114. From July 2007 until February 2011, Mr. Wagafe worked for Delta Global Services until widespread layoffs left him without a job. Since February 2011, he has worked at a Somali restaurant, which he currently co-owns and manages.

115. On May 28, 2008, Mr. Wagafe filed an application for refugee adjustment of status to become an LPR.

116. USCIS granted his application on November 3, 2008, retroactively granting him LPR status as of

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

May 24, 2007, the date he was admitted to the U.S. as a refugee. See 8 C.F.R. § 209.1(e).

117. Mr. Wagafe filed his first application for naturalization on July 3, 2012. USCIS interviewed him on October 29, 2012, but he failed the English-language portion of the exam. USCIS interviewed Mr. Wagafe a second time on January 3, 2013, but he again failed the English writing portion of the exam. He also did not understand English sufficiently to comprehend the Oath of Allegiance. On these bases, USCIS denied his first application for naturalization on January 9, 2013.

118. Mr. Wagafe has since improved his English skills significantly.

119. Mr. Wagafe filed a second application for naturalization on November 8, 2013. USCIS scheduled his interview for February 25, 2014, but cancelled it on January 29, 2014 without explanation.

120. Mr. Wagafe has made various inquiries concerning his case to USCIS, but he has not received an explanation for the delay. USCIS last responded to his queries in July 2015, instructing his attorney to have patience and that the agency would let him know when the agency was ready to interview him. His subsequent inquiries have gone unanswered.

121. Mr. Wagafe has resided continuously in the United States for at least five years preceding the date of filing his application for naturalization, and has resided continuously within the United States from the date of filing his application until the present.

122. Mr. Wagafe has never been convicted of a crime.

123. There is no statutory basis for denying his naturalization application.

124. Mr. Wagafe is Muslim and regularly attends Mosque. He also frequently sends small amounts of money to his relatives in Somalia, Kenya, and Uganda. He has been married to a woman in Uganda since December 2015 and makes visits to see her. He has been unable to bring her to the United States because of the delays in his case.

125. Mr. Wagafe's immigration Alien file ("A-file") makes clear that USCIS subjected his pending application to CARRP. The A-file states that a CARRP officer handled his case. In addition, a document in the A-File shows that on December 8, 2013, there was a hit on Mr. Wagafe's name in the FBI Name Check and that the Name Check result contained "derogatory information." The document also states that Mr. Wagafe appears eligible for naturalization absent confirmation of national security issues. The document then states that the case is being forwarded for external vetting.

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

126. Upon information and belief, Mr. Wagafe's naturalization application is subject to CARRP or its successor "extreme vetting" program, which is causing the delay in adjudication of his naturalization application, despite the fact that he is statutorily entitled to naturalize.

127. Mr. Wagafe has suffered significant harm due to the delay in adjudication of his naturalization application. Although he is married to a Ugandan woman, he has been unable to bring her to live with him in the United States, because he must become a United States citizen in order for her to qualify as an immediate relative, see generally 8 U.S.C. § 1151, and thus avoid the waiting list for petitions filed by lawful permanent residents on behalf of their spouses. CARRP has also has harmed his professional options and prevented him from voting in local and national elections.

Mehdi Ostadhassan

128. Plaintiff Mehdi Ostadhassan is a thirty-three-year-old national of Iran. He resides in Grand Forks, North Dakota.

129. Mr. Ostadhassan moved to the United States in 2009 on a student visa and studied at the University of North Dakota. He earned his Ph.D. in Petroleum Engineering, and, after graduation, was immediately hired by the University of North Dakota as an Assistant Professor of Petroleum Engineering.

130. At the University of North Dakota, Mr. Ostadhassan met Bailey Bubach, a United States citizen. In January 2014, they were married in a small religious ceremony in California, and then obtained their marriage license in Grand Forks, North Dakota. Their first child was born in July 2016.

131. In February 2014, Ms. Bubach filed an immigrant visa petition (USCIS Form I-130) for Mr. Ostadhassan and he concurrently filed an application to adjust status (USCIS Form I-485) based upon his marriage.

132. Mr. Ostadhassan has never been convicted of a crime.

133. USCIS scheduled Mr. Ostadhassan for an interview on May 19, 2014, but when he appeared for the interview, USCIS informed him that it was cancelled.

134. USCIS rescheduled and conducted an interview almost a year and a half later, on September 24, 2015. At that interview, a USCIS officer told Mr. Ostadhassan that the agency still could not make a decision and that it needed to complete further background and security checks. To date, Mr.

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

Ostadhassan is still waiting for a decision from USCIS.

135. Mr. Ostadhassan and Ms. Bubach are Muslim and active participants in their religious community. Each year they donate to Muslim charities in accordance with the teachings of Islam. They are both involved in the Muslim Student Association at the University of North Dakota. In addition, they run a Muslim Sunday School. Mr. Ostadhassan also coordinates the Muslim Congress's Koran competition every year.

136. Upon information and belief, USCIS considers Mr. Ostadhassan a non-KST national security concern and is subjecting him to CARRP. USCIS may have subjected Mr. Ostadhassan's adjustment application to CARRP because he has resided in and traveled through what the government considers areas of known terrorist activity—namely, Iran—and because of his donations to Islamic charities and involvement in the Muslim community.

137. In October 2014, an FBI agent contacted Mr. Ostadhassan and asked to meet to discuss his recent trip to Iran to visit family. Mr. Ostadhassan declined to meet with the FBI, and his lawyer informed the agent that any further communications should go through the attorney. The FBI has not contacted Mr. Ostadhassan since.

138. Upon information and belief, the request for a visit by the FBI was a product of CARRP's deconfliction process. As Mr. Ostadhassan is a citizen of Iran, one of the seven countries listed in the EO, his application for adjustment of status is subject to the EO. Upon information and belief, adjudication of his application therefore has been suspended indefinitely.

139. Upon information and belief, Mr. Ostadhassan's application for adjustment of status is also subject to CARRP or its successor "extreme vetting" program, which is has delayed the adjudication of his application, despite the fact that he is statutorily eligible for adjustment of status.

140. Mr. Ostadhassan has been significantly harmed by the delay in adjudication of his adjustment of status application. Because of his temporary nonimmigrant status, and without an approved adjustment application, he cannot travel outside the United States. He recently was unable to travel to Iran to introduce his American wife and infant to his Iranian family; his wife and child traveled to Iran without him. He has also lost out on significant professional opportunities. He is a college professor, and his unapproved adjustment application has prevented him from attending conferences overseas. Due to the delay, he and his wife feel that their lives and future in the United States are suspended in limbo, not knowing whether they have a future in the United States.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

141. Pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(a) and 23(b)(2), Plaintiffs bring this action on behalf of themselves and all other similarly-situated individuals. Plaintiffs do not bring claims for compensatory relief. Instead, Plaintiffs seek injunctive relief broadly applicable to members of the Plaintiff Classes, as defined below. The requirements for Rule 23 are met with respect to the classes defined below.

142. Plaintiffs seek to represent the following nationwide classes:

> A Muslim Ban Class defined as:
> A national class of all persons currently and in the future (1) who are in the United States, (2) have or will have an application for an immigration benefit pending before USCIS that is not a naturalization application, and (3) are a citizen or national of Syria, Iraq, Iran, Yemen, Somalia, Sudan, or Libya.
>
> An Extreme Vetting Naturalization Class defined as:
> A national class of all persons currently and in the future (1) who have or will have an application for naturalization pending before USCIS, (2) that is subject to CARRP or its successor "extreme vetting" program, and (3) that has not been or will not be adjudicated by USCIS within six months of having been filed.
>
> An Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Class defined as:
> A national class of all persons currently and in the future (1) who have or will have an application for adjustment of status pending before USCIS, (2) that is subject to CARRP or its successor "extreme vetting" program, and (3) that has not been or will not be adjudicated by USCIS within six months of having been filed.

143. Plaintiff Ostadhassan is an adequate class representative of the Muslim Ban class. Plaintiff Wagafe is an adequate representative of the Extreme Vetting Naturalization Class. Plaintiff Ostadhassan is also an adequate representation of the Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Class.

144. The Proposed Classes are each so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable.

145. Although Plaintiffs do not know the total number of people from the seven countries targeted in the EO who have pending immigration benefits applications (excluding naturalization applications) at any given time, publicly available USCIS data reveals that in 2015, there were 83,109 people from those seven countries who were granted applications for lawful permanent residence, asylum, and refugee admission.

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

146. Similarly, although Plaintiffs do not know the total number of people subject to CARRP or any successor "extreme vetting" program at any given time, USCIS data reveals that between Fiscal Year 2008 and Fiscal Year 2012, more than 19,000 people from twenty-one Muslim-majority countries or regions were subjected to CARRP. Upon information and belief, between 2008 and 2016, USCIS opened 41,805 CARRP cases.

147. This data includes individuals with pending naturalization and adjustment of status applications. For example, in March 2009, there were 1,437 adjustment of status (I-485) applications subject to CARRP that had been pending for at least six months and 1,065 naturalization (N-400) applications subject to CARRP that had been pending for at least six months.

148. The exact number of individuals subject to the EO, CARRP or any successor "extreme vetting" program at any given time fluctuates as applications are filed and USCIS applies these policies and practices to the applications. Moreover, members of the class reside in various locations across the country. For these and other reasons, joinder of the members of the Classes would create substantial challenges to the efficient administration of justice. Joinder is thus impracticable here.

149. In addition, there are questions of law and fact common to the members of the Classes. The Muslim Ban and Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Class are subject to Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications. All classes are subject to CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program). Accordingly, common questions of law and fact include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO violates Defendants' duty to timely adjudicate immigration benefit applications authorized by the Immigration and Nationality Act;

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO to Plaintiff Ostadhassan's application violates the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution by not pursuing a course of neutrality with regard to different religious faiths;

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO and application of CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program) to Plaintiffs' applications discriminates against Plaintiffs on the basis of their country of origin, and without sufficient justification, and therefore violates the equal protection component of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO and application of CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program) to Plaintiffs' applications is substantially motivated by animus toward—and has a disparate effect on—Muslims in violation of the equal protection component of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution;

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO and application of CARRP or a successor "extreme vetting" program to Plaintiffs' applications for immigration benefits, for which they are statutorily eligible and to which they are legally entitled, constitutes an arbitrary denial in violation of Plaintiffs' right to substantive due process under the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution;

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO and application of CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program) to Plaintiffs' applications violates the INA by creating additional, non-statutory, substantive criteria that must be met prior to a grant of a naturalization or adjustment of status application;

- Whether Defendants' unauthorized suspension of immigration benefits adjudications under the EO and application of CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program) to Plaintiffs' applications violates the APA, 5 U.S.C. § 706, as final agency action that is arbitrary and capricious, contrary to constitutional law, and in excess of statutory authority;

- Whether Defendants' the application of CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program) to Plaintiffs' applications constitutes a substantive rule and, as a result, Defendants violated the APA, 5 U.S.C. § 553, when they promulgated CARRP without providing a notice-and-comment period prior to implementing it;

- Whether Defendants' failure to give Plaintiffs notice of their classification under CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program), a meaningful explanation of the reason for such classification, and a process by which Plaintiffs can challenge their classification violates the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution; and

- Whether Defendants' application of CARRP (or a successor "extreme vetting" program) to Plaintiff Wagafe's application violates the Uniform Rule of Naturalization, Article I, Section 8, Clause 4 of the United States Constitution by establishing criteria for naturalization not authorized by Congress.

150. The claims of the named Plaintiffs are typical of their respective Plaintiff Classes. Plaintiffs know of no conflict between their interests and those of the Plaintiff Classes they seek to represent. In defending their own rights, the named Plaintiffs will defend the rights of all proposed Plaintiff Class members fairly and adequately. The members of the Classes are readily ascertainable through notice and discovery.

151. Plaintiffs are represented by counsel with particular expertise in immigration and constitutional

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT

Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

law, and extensive experience in class action and other complex litigation.

152. Defendants have acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to each member of the Plaintiff Classes by unlawfully applying the EO and/or CARRP (or its successor "extreme vetting" program) to their immigration applications—thus applying additional non-statutory, substantive requirements for naturalization and adjustment of status, and causing them to have suffered and continue to suffer injury in the form of unreasonable delays and denials of their applications.

153. A class action is superior to other methods available for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy because joinder of all members of the Classes is impracticable. Absent the relief they seek here, there would be no other way for the Plaintiff Class members to individually redress the wrongs they have suffered and will continue to suffer.

CAUSES OF ACTION

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Immigration and Nationality Act and the Administrative Procedure Act

(Plaintiff Ostadhassan on behalf of himself and the Muslim Ban Class)

154. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

155. Section 212(f) of the Immigration and Nationality, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(f), is entitled "Suspension of Entry or Imposition of Restrictions by President." That provision authorizes the President to suspend entries or impose restrictions on entries. That provision does not authorize the President to suspend adjudication of immigration petitions, applications, or requests of any class of persons.

156. Defendants have interpreted the EO to authorize the suspension of immigration petitions, applications, or requests involving Plaintiff Ostadhassan and members of the Muslim Ban Class.

157. Accordingly, Defendants have suspended adjudication of such immigration benefits petitions, applications, or requests.

158. Defendants' actions in suspending adjudications violates 8 U.S.C. § 1182(f) and is arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law; contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity; in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, or short of statutory right; and without observance of procedure required by law, in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. §§ 706(2)(A)-(D).

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Mandamus (28 U.S.C. § 1361)

(Plaintiff Ostadhassan on behalf of himself and the Muslim Ban Class)

159. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

160. Defendants have a duty to adjudicate all immigrant benefits petitions, applications or requests authorized by the Immigration and Nationality Act, implementing regulations, or other law.

161. The EO does not authorize the suspension of adjudication of immigration benefits petitions, applications, or requests.

162. Defendants have interpreted the EO to authorize the suspension of immigration benefit applications for petitions, applications, or requests involving Plaintiff Ostadhassan and members of the Muslim Ban Class.

163. Accordingly, Defendants have suspended adjudication of immigration benefits petitions, applications, or requests.

164. Defendants' refusal to adjudicate immigration benefits petitions, applications, or requests violates Defendants' statutory and constitutional duty to adjudicate these matters, and to do so in a nondiscriminatory manner.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF

First Amendment (Establishment Clause)

(Plaintiff Ostadhassan on behalf of himself and the Muslim Ban Class)

165. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

166. The EO was intended to target a specific religious faith, Islam, and gives preference to other religious faiths, principally Christianity, and it has that intended effect when applied to Plaintiffs and members of the Muslim Ban Class. Defendants' application of the EO to Plaintiffs and members of the Plaintiff Classes violates the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution by not pursuing a course of neutrality with regard to different religious faiths.

FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Fifth Amendment (Procedural Due Process)

(All Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and the Plaintiff Classes)

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

167. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

168. Defendants' failure to give Plaintiffs and members of the Extreme Vetting Naturalization and Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Classes notice of their classification under CARRP (or successor "extreme vetting" program), a meaningful explanation of the reason for such classification, and any process by which Plaintiffs can challenge their classification, violates the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

169. The EO's directive to screen applicants for immigration benefits based on "the applicant's likelihood of becoming a positively contributing member of society and the applicant's ability to make contributions to the national interest" also is void because it is unconstitutionally vague under the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

170. Because of these violations of their constitutional rights, Plaintiffs and members of the Plaintiff Classes have suffered and continue to suffer injury in the form of unreasonable delays and unwarranted denials of their immigration applications.

FIFTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Fifth Amendment (Substantive Due Process)

(All Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and the Plaintiff Classes)

171. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

172. Defendants' unauthorized and indefinite suspension of the adjudication of Plaintiffs' and the Proposed Classes' applications for immigration benefits violates their right to substantive due process under the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution, because Plaintiffs cannot be denied immigration benefits for which they are statutorily eligible, and to which they are entitled by law, in an arbitrary manner.

SIXTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Fifth Amendment (Equal Protection)

(All Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and the Plaintiff Classes)

173. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the proceeding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

174. Defendants' indefinite suspension of the adjudication of Plaintiffs' applications for immigration benefits on the basis of their country of origin, and without sufficient justification, violates the equal

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT

Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

protection component of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment.

175. Additionally, Defendants' indefinite suspension of the adjudication of Plaintiff Ostadhassan and the Muslim Ban Class applications for immigration benefits under the EO was substantially motivated by animus toward—and has a disparate effect on—Muslims, which also violates the equal protection component of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment.

176. Applying a general law in a fashion that discriminates on the basis of religion violates Plaintiffs' and the Plaintiff Classes' rights to equal protection under the Fifth Amendment Due Process Clause.

177. The EO is intended and will be applied primarily to exclude individuals on the basis of their national origin and religion. Further, the President has promised that preferential treatment will be given to Christians, unequivocally demonstrating the special preferences and discriminatory impact that the EO has upon Plaintiffs and the Proposed Classes.

178. Defendants have applied the EO with discriminatory animus and discriminatory intent in violation of the equal protection component of the Fifth Amendment.

SEVENTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Immigration and Nationality Act and Implementing Regulations

(Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and the Extreme Vetting Naturalization and Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Classes)

179. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

180. To secure naturalization and adjustment of status, an applicant must satisfy certain statutorily-enumerated criteria.

181. By its terms, CARRP creates additional, non-statutory, substantive adjudicatory criteria.

182. Accordingly, CARRP violates 8 U.S.C. § 1427, 8 C.F.R. § 316.2, and 8 C.F.R. § 335.3, as those provisions set forth the exclusive applicable statutory and regulatory criteria for a grant of naturalization.

183. CARRP also violates 8 U.S.C. § 1255, 8 U.S.C. § 1159, 8 C.F.R. § 245.1, and 8 C.F.R. § 209.1, as those provisions set forth the applicable statutory and regulatory criteria for individuals present in the United States to adjust their status.

184. Because of these violations and/or because CARRP's additional, non-statutory, substantive criteria have been applied to their applications, Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class members have suffered and

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT
615 2nd Avenue, Suite 400
Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

will continue to suffer injury in the form of unreasonable delays and unwarranted denials of their applications for naturalization and adjustment of status.

EIGHTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. § 706)

(Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and the Extreme Vetting Naturalization and Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Classes)

185. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

186. CARRP constitutes final agency action that is arbitrary and capricious because it "neither focuses on nor relates to a [noncitizen's] fitness to" obtain the immigration benefits subject to its terms. Judulang v. Holder, 132 S. Ct. 476, 485 (2011).

187. CARRP is also not in accordance with law, is contrary to constitutional rights, and is in excess of statutory authority because it violates the INA and exceeds USCIS's statutory authority to implement (not create) the immigration laws, as alleged herein.

188. As a result of these violations, Plaintiffs and members of the Proposed Extreme Vetting Naturalization and Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Classes have suffered and continue to suffer injury in the form of unreasonable delays and unwarranted denials of their immigration applications.

NINTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Administrative Procedure Act (Notice and Comment)

(Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and the Extreme Vetting Naturalization and Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Classes)

189. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

190. The APA, 5 U.S.C. § 553, requires administrative agencies to provide a notice-and-comment period prior to implementing a substantive rule.

191. CARRP constitutes a substantive agency rule within the meaning of 5 U.S.C. § 551(4).

192. Defendants failed to provide a notice-and-comment period prior to the adoption of CARRP.

193. Because CARRP is a substantive rule promulgated without the notice-and-comment period, it violates 5 U.S.C. § 553 and is therefore invalid.

194. As a result of these violations, Plaintiffs and members of the Plaintiff Classes have suffered and

Seattle, WA 98104
Telephone (206) 957-8611

continue to suffer injury in the form of unreasonable delays and unwarranted denials of their immigration applications.

TENTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

"Uniform Rule of Naturalization"

(Plaintiff Abdiqafar Wagafe on behalf of himself and the Naturalization Class)

195. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

196. Congress has the sole power to establish criteria for naturalization, and any additional requirements not enacted by Congress are ultra vires.

197. By its terms, CARRP creates additional, non-statutory, substantive criteria that must be met prior to a grant of a naturalization application.

198. Accordingly, CARRP violates Article I, Section 8, Clause 4 of the United States Constitution.

199. Because of this violation and because CARRP's additional, non-statutory, substantive criteria have been applied to their applications, Plaintiff Wagafe and Naturalization Plaintiff Class members have suffered and will continue to suffer injury in the form of unreasonable delays and unwarranted denials of their naturalization applications.

200.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court grant the following relief:

1. Certify the case as a class action as proposed herein;
2. Appoint Plaintiff Ostadhassan a representative of the Muslim Ban Class;
3. Appoint Plaintiff Wagafe as representative of the Extreme Vetting Naturalization Class, and Plaintiff Ostadhassan as representative of the Extreme Vetting Adjustment of Status Class;
4. Order Defendants to adjudicate the petitions, applications or requests of Plaintiffs and members of the proposed classes;
5. Order Defendants to adjudicate Plaintiffs' and proposed class members' petitions, applications, or requests based solely on the statutory criteria;
6. Declare that Sections 3(c) and 4 of the Executive Order contrary to the Constitution and the INA;
7. Issue an order enjoining Defendants from applying Section 3(c) and 4 to Plaintiffs and members

NORTHWEST IMMIGRANT RIGHTS PROJECT

Telephone (206) 957-8611

of the proposed classes;

8. Declare that CARRP or any successor "extreme vetting" program violates the Constitution, the INA and the APA;
9. Enjoin Defendants, their subordinates, agents, employees, and all others acting in concert with them from applying CARRP or any successor "extreme vetting" program to the processing and adjudication of the immigration benefit petitions, applications, or requests of Plaintiffs and members of the proposed classes;
10. Order Defendants to rescind CARRP because they failed to follow the process for notice and comment by the public;
11. Alternatively, order Defendants to provide Plaintiffs and members of the proposed classes with notice that they have been subjected to CARRP or any successor "extreme vetting" program, the reasons for subjecting them to CARRP or any successor "extreme vetting" program, and a reasonable opportunity to respond to those allegations before a neutral decisionmaker;
12. Award Plaintiffs and other members of the proposed class reasonable attorneys' fees and costs; and
13. Grant any other relief that this Court may deem fit and proper.

Respectfully submitted this 1st day of February, 2017.

I saw the forwarded questions. I would like to add the EOS/COS issue as a corollary to the I-485 question.

All-

The 2:45 call did not address any of our outstanding issues. The call centered on a group of travel ready refugees and a discussion on whether to recommend applying a waiver allowing them to travel and be admitted. However, there is a WH principals' call at 4:00 that Lori will be on and we were encouraged to send our questions forward in advance of that call so DHS can either get us answers based on their knowledge or address the questions during the 4:00 call. Lori will be forwarding those questions. Stay tuned, we may have some guidance on at least some of our issues later today.

Subject: 5:00 EO call

Hi Lori and Tracy,
The 5:00 comms call was mostly an organizing/info sharing call. WH is starting to push questions back down to DHS on both the leg and comms sides. WH is handling the 60k level stuff but the majority of incoming has to do with process questions.
OPA has Lori's Q document. Based on the call, it sounds like they want components filling in the answers. Seeking clarification on this point. Alan emphasized the need to have clear, consistent, and concise messaging. I flagged Lori's interest in sending out a message internally. They will want to see it and clear it and it will need to encompass overarching messaging which has yet to be developed.
Gene provided a few general updates: LPRs are being allowed to board, checks will be run/re run and additional screening once they land. Sounds like DOS has provisionally revoked all non immigrant visas.
He mentioned the importance of vernacular - that this is not a "muslim ban". This is about public safety and national security. We need to reflect a sense of calm and purpose.
They will be staffing the NJIC 24/7. Gillian will get back to me on what they'll need from us.
I'll let you know if I hear anything else about Q/A document. Scott Krause (DHS alum under Ridge I believe) will be coordinating the NJIC efforts.
If I were to guess, a lot of this will end up falling on USCIS and CBP. WE know how to do this and do it well.
Let me know if you have any questions.
