Application:	Form I-924, Application for Regional Center Under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program
Regional Center:	Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC ID1031910101
Re:	Request to Amend Regional Center Designation Project: GreenTech Automotive, Inc. RCW1221950726

On 02/12/2014, USCIS approved the request of Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC (GCFM) to amend its Regional Center Designation under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program. GCFM submitted electronic correspondence on 02/20/2014 & 02/28/2014 to USCIS citing project related factual errors within the decision letter as it pertained to the number of investors, the EB-5 capital contribution amount and the type of investors.

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) has decided to reconsider the approval decision of the Form I-924, Application for Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program that was filed by the applicant with the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services ("USCIS") on 08/06/2012. After consideration of the law, regulations and policy guiding USCIS, it is concluded that the decision dated, 02/12/2014, was made in error. This has prompted USCIS to reconsider the decision on your Form I-924.

USCIS has reopened and issued an amended approval to your Form I-924 as followed:

The applicant filed the Form I-924 to request approval of an amendment to a previously approved regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program. The Immigrant Investor Program was established under § 610 of the Department of Commerce, Justice and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 1993 (Pub. L. 102-395, Oct. 6, 1992, 106 Stat. 1874).

In addition to the Form I-924, the applicant submitted a completed exemplar Form I-526, Immigrant Petition by Alien Entrepreneur, seeking USCIS review and approval of an actual project supported by a comprehensive business plan as contemplated in Matter of Ho, 22 I. & N. Dec. 206 (Assoc. Comm'r 1998).

I. Executive Summary of Adjudication

Effective the date of this notice, USCIS approves the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project based on the evidence submitted with the above referenced Form I-924 and exemplar Form I-526. The applicant has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. will be a new commercial enterprise (NCE) and that the project is likely to result in the creation of at least [redacted] USCIS will give deference to the applicant's estimates of actual job creation and economic analysis, the business plan, and the organizational documents, offering memorandum, and investment agreements in subsequent related filings of any Form I-526 filed by an individual investor associated with the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project. Deference, however, will not apply if the underlying facts have materially changed, there is evidence of fraud or misrepresentation in the record of proceeding, or the previously favorable decision is determined to be legally deficient (involved an objective mistake of fact or law).

II. Procedural History

On August 18, 2008, USCIS approved the Gulf Coast Fund Management, LLC (GCFM) for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as a designated regional center with an approved geographical scope of the entire State of Mississippi and Louisiana. GCFM now seeks to amend its previously approved regional center designation to include an actual project that will be managed by GreenTech Automotive, Inc., an NCE established on July 19, 2012.

III. The Project

Effective the date of this notice, USCIS approves the applicant's amendment request to include the following actual capital investment project supported by an exemplar Form I-526:

(b)(4)

Project	Type of Project	Organization Documents	Date of Document
GreenTech Automotive, Inc. Geographic Location:	Actual Project support by an Exemplar Form I-526 Petition Project Investment: Equity	Business Plan	07/19/2012
		Economic Analysis	02/11/2012 with Supplement Dated 12/12/2012 & 08/13/2013
		Confidential Private	03/12/2013 with

[1] The job estimate of [redacted] offers sufficient job creation to account for investors in Series "A-1", "A-2" and "A-3" (see Confidential Private Placement Memorandum Dated 03/12/2013 with Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013). This amended application to include Series A-2, requires up to [redacted] jobs. Please reference section IV of this approval letter for more information related to the job creation number.

1323 US Highway 61 Tunica, MS		Placement Memorandum	Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013
		Subscription Agreement	As Submitted

Note: If material changes to this project and its supporting documents are found in a subsequent Form I-526 petition or Form I-829, Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions, USCIS will review the supporting documents once more to ensure continued compliance with EB-5 program requirements.

The requested amendment identifies the NCE of the proposed project as GreenTech Automotive, Inc. which was formed in the State of Mississippi on July 19, 2012. The GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project is located at 1323 US Highway 61 in the City of Tunica, Mississippi. Approximately [redacted] EB-5 investors will subscribe to the NCE as preferred shareholders in exchange for capital contributions of $500,000 each and an aggregate of [redacted]

The NCE will contribute the [redacted] of EB-5 capital as an equity investment. The EB-5 capital proceeds will be used to own and operate an automotive manufacturing facility in Tunica, Mississippi. The NCE will manufacture the MyCar, a two-seat electric vehicle with a 25 to 115 mile range between charges, depending on the battery type and size selected by the customer. The projected total cost of the project is [redacted] The operation at the manufacturing auto plant is expected to be on-going and job creation will occur over the next five years and will generate approximately [redacted]

IV. Job Creation

The job creation methodology presented in the economic impact analysis and underlying business plan is found to be reasonable based on the following inputs, when applying the RIMS II economic model:

NAICS [3]	Industry Name	Input	Multiplier	Jobs[4]
336111	Automobile Manufacturing

[2] Page 20 of the Business Plan Dated 07/19/2012 indicates that GreenTech Automotive, Inc. "intends to use the [redacted] proceeds from the offering of our Preferred Shares for general corporate purposes." The Confidential Private Placement Memorandum Dated 03/12/2013 with Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013, supports an equity investment of up to [redacted] Series A-2 Preferred Shares [redacted] If the project requires up to [redacted] submitting supporting documents such as a revised Business Plan in a subsequent Form I-526 petition or Form I-829, Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions, USCIS will review the supporting documents to ensure continued compliance with EB-5 program requirements.

[3] These industry codes are used for informational purposes in estimating job creation and do not limit the economic or job creating activity of an approved regional center or its investors. Jobs created in industries not previously identified in the economic methodology may still be credited to the investors in subsequent Form I-526 and Form I-829 filings, as long as the evidence in the record establishes that it is probably true that the requisite jobs are estimated to be created, or have been created, in those additional industries.

[4] The GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project potentially has the capacity to create up to [redacted] jobs from the combined investments of the Series "A-1", "A-2" and "A-3". If fully subscribed, this round of equity investment (Series "A-2") requires [redacted] jobs of the total job estimate that GreenTech Automotive, Inc. proposes to create.

3363	Motor Vehicle Parts Manufacturing (outside new facility)
Total Jobs:

The approval of this Form I-924 application, supported by the exemplar Form I-526 petition, is based upon the assumptions and estimates used as inputs in the business plan for job creation. Please refer to the input and multiplier analysis table above.

The economic analysis accurately portrays the assumptions stated in the business plan, and the calculations using RIMS II multipliers are verifiable. The applicant has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the project is expected to result in the creation of approximately at least [redacted] jobs as part of the total [redacted] calculated associated with the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project.

USCIS will give deference to the job creation methodology when adjudicating Forms I-526 and I-829 associated with GreenTech Automotive, Inc. Deference, however, will not apply if the underlying facts have materially changed, there is evidence of fraud or misrepresentation in the record of proceeding, or the previously favorable decision is determined to be legally deficient (involved an objective mistake of fact or law).

It will be the responsibility of the individual investor to demonstrate that the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology remain materially unchanged when he or she files a Form I-526. When filing Form I-829 for removal of conditional status, the individual investor has the burden of demonstrating that the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology have not materially changed and have been realized (or can be expected to be realized within a reasonable time). If the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology have materially changed, an updated business plan and economic analysis may need to be submitted to establish eligibility.

If the job creation estimated in the business plan and economic analysis will not be realized, then it will be the responsibility of the EB-5 investor to notify USCIS of an agreed upon methodology to allocate job creation among eligible investors.

V. Guidelines for Filing Form I-526 Petitions based on the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is affiliated with the Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC, in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual immigrant investor petition, shall also contain the following:

[5] The reliability of job creation estimates provided by an economic analysis is dependent upon the validity of the information and assumptions that form the basis for the analysis. Please be advised that the number of projected jobs were revised lower due to the reduction of [redacted] (Economic Analysis 02/11/2012 with Supplement Dated 12/12/2012 & 08/13/2013, GTA Inc. proforma financial statements Dated 01/27/2012) to [redacted] as documented in the Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013.

[6] Job Creation as a result of this Amendment to include the Series A-2 Preferred Shares offering.

1. A copy of this regional center approval notice and designation letter including all subsequent amendment approval letters (if applicable).

2. An economic impact analysis which reflects a job creation methodology required at 8 CFR § 204.6(j)(4)(iii) and shows how the capital investment by the individual immigrant investor will more likely than not create ten (10) jobs.

3. A comprehensive, detailed and credible business plan for an actual project that contains the factual details necessary to be in compliance with the requirements described in Matter of Ho.

4. Legally executed organizational documents of the commercial enterprise. The documents may be the same documents noted in Section III of this approval notice.

5. If the project timeline has changed significantly from the original business plan, a narrative that explains the changes in the project timeline, along with a timeline that realistically reflects the status of the project should be submitted.

VI. Designee's Responsibilities in the Operations of the Regional Center

As provided in 8 CFR § 204.6(m)(6), to ensure that the regional center continues to meet the requirements of section 610(a) of the Appropriations Act, a regional center must provide USCIS with updated information to demonstrate the regional center is continuing to promote economic growth, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment in the approved geographic area. Such information must be submitted to USCIS on an annual basis or as otherwise requested by USCIS. The applicant must monitor all investment activities under the sponsorship of the regional center and to maintain records in order to provide the information required on the Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924. Form I-924A is available in the "Forms" section on the USCIS website at www.uscis.gov.

Regional centers that remain designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as of September 30th of a calendar year are required to file Form I-924A in that year. The Form I-924A with the required supporting documentation must be filed on or before December 29th of the same calendar year.

The failure to timely file a Form I-924A for each fiscal year in which the regional center has been designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program will result in the issuance of an intent to terminate the participation of the regional center in the Immigrant Investor Program, which may ultimately result in the termination of the designation of the regional center.

The regional center designation is non-transferable.

VII. Legal Notice

This approval and designation of a Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Program does not constitute or imply an endorsement or recommendation by USCIS, the United States Government or any instrumentality thereof, of the investment opportunities, projects or other business activities related to or undertaken by such Regional Center. Except as expressly set forth in this approval and designation, USCIS has not reviewed any information provided in connection with or otherwise related to the Regional Center for compliance with relevant securities laws or any other laws unrelated to eligibility for designation as a Regional Center. Accordingly USCIS makes no determination or representation whatsoever regarding the compliance of either the Regional Center or associated New Commercial Enterprises with such laws.

Each Regional Center designated by USCIS must monitor and oversee all investment offerings and activities associated with, through or under the sponsorship of the Regional Center. The failure of an associated New Commercial Enterprise to comply with all laws and regulations related to such investment offerings and activities may result in the issuance by USCIS of a notice of intent to terminate the Regional Center designation.

If the applicant has any questions concerning the regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program, please contact USCIS by email at USCIS.ImmigrantInvestorProgram@uscis.dhs.gov.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Colucci
Chief, Immigrant Investor Program

RE: Form 1-924A, Supplement to Form 1-924 FY 2012 Submission
Applicant: GULF COAST FUNDS MANAGEMENT REGIONAL CENTER, LLC

Dear Sir or Madam:

This is a submission of the Form I-924A for fiscal year 2012 ending on September 30, 2012. As the enclosed information and documentation verifies, Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC ("GCFM") was designated by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service (USCIS) as a Regional Center to administer EB-5 compliant projects and investments. GCFM was created for the intended purpose of establishing successive EB-5 Alien Entrepreneur investment projects, and managing these investment projects in conformance with 8 U.S.C. §1153 (b)(5)(A)-(D), INA§ 203 (b)(5)(A)-(D) of the Immigration and Nationality Act ("the Act" and the Pilot Program Law. USCIS approved GCFM's request for designation on August 18, 2008. Subsequently GCFM submitted requests for amendments, the most recent amendment being approved on July 13, 2009 to add two additional investment funds and the use of the IMPLAN economic methodologies for job creation.

In FY 2012, EB-5 investments were made in two new commercial enterprises serving as vehicles for investment into a single job creating enterprise, GreenTech Automotive Inc. (GTA). GTA is a US-based automotive manufacturer dedicated to developing and producing environmentally-friendly, energy-efficient vehicles. GTA's core values encompass green technology, affordability, and job creation. The company is currently constructing an automobile manufacturing facility in Tunica, Mississippi. GTA (formerly Hybrid Kinetic Automotive Corp) was founded in 2008 and headed by accomplished entrepreneurs Terry McAuliffe and Charles Wang. Terry McAuliffe, Chairman of GTA, is recognized as one of America's leading political and business leaders, including his role as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee. The two commercial enterprises investing into GTA in FY 2012 were Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-2, LLC ("Fund A-2") (which is now closed to new investors) and GreenTech Automotive Partnership A-3, LP, ("GTA A-3"). Please note, that in FY 2011, GCFM also administered another commercial enterprise -- Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-1, LLC ("Fund A-1") -- which is also now closed. There were no investors in Fund A-1 in FY 2012.

GCFM is owned by the American Immigration Center, LLC, (AIC), a Virginia limited liability company. AIC is a single member LLC owned by Charles Wang. The day to day operations of GCFM are managed by a professional staff liaising with counsel, investors and GTA. Anthony Rodham serves as the President and Simone Williams, the General Counsel. Dickstein Shapiro, LLP and Klasko, Rulon, Stock & Seltzer, LLP, were retained in 2012 to serve as Outside Counsel. Currently, GCFM is only administering the GTA A- 3 offering as Fund A-2 is now closed to further investors.

As part of our Regional Center compliance responsibilities and in an effort to ensure satisfaction of program requirements and investor objectives, GCFM internally manages all project monitoring and reporting activities including, but not limited to, collecting and maintaining information on financial and operational reporting, job creation confirmation, and investment processing and tracking. Our responsibilities specifically include reviewing the new commercial enterprise (NCE) where the funds are invested by the EB-5 applicant, as well as the job creating enterprise where the NCE invests EB-5 money.

The supplemental information provides below addresses the job creation and allocation methodologies applied to GTA A-3 investments.

I Employment Creation-Methodology

The relevant standard for job creation pursuant to Regional Center administration is identified at 8 C.F.R. §204.6(j)(4)(i)(B)(iii) which relates specifically to Regional Centers and notes that evidence of the creation of "full-time positions for not fewer than 10 persons either directly or indirectly . . . may be demonstrated by reasonable methodologies including those set in paragraph (m)(3) of this section." The referenced paragraph identifies the use of "economically or statistically valid forecasting tools, including, but not limited to feasibility studies . . . and/or multiplier tables."[1] Furthermore, the regulations note that an alien entrepreneur seeking an immigrant visa through an approved Regional Center may use "reasonable methodologies" that "may include multiplier tables . . . and other economically or statistically valid forecasting devices which indicate the likelihood that the business will result in increased employment" (emphasis added).[2]

Job Creation Calculations and Methodology. In reporting statistics, USCIS estimates job creation (10 jobs per investor) based upon the number of Form I-829 petitions that were approved within the period of time under study. GCFM has chosen to adopt the following job creation/allocation approach to simplify our record keeping and data analysis required to be responsive to Part 3 of Form I-924A.

II Job Allocation Among EB-5 Investors

In its role as the regional center manager, GCFM records job allocation for each investor per the job allocation as outlined below. Please note that job allocation differs for Fund A-2 and GTA A-3.

Job Allocation for Fund A-2: GCFM carefully tracks and records the allocation of the qualifying employment positions as the management company pursuant to its obligations noted on the original Operational Plan (previously provided to USCIS and updated in the 2009 Audit Reporting) and which notes GCFM's responsibilities for tracking the progress of the investment projects and the offering memorandum. For the A-2 Limited Partners, job allocation is outlined in the Offering Memorandum, which states that GCFM will allocate to each investor ten jobs from those jobs created and maintained by GreenTech Automotive, according to the date that an investor files Form I-829 with USCIS. Fund A-1 and Fund A-2 were organized to attract up to [redacted] and were closed. The EB-5 investments were pooled, and then released pursuant to escrow agreements where applicable, or pursuant to the Subscription Agreement, into the job creating enterprise GTA. In exchange, GTA agreed to show actual and planned job positions created for each $500,000 investment received. The direct job creation was evidenced by the new jobs GTA created, which stemmed from the EB-5 funds invested through both Fund A-1 and Fund A-2.

[2] 8 C.F.R. §204.6(m)(7)(ii).

(b)(4)

(b)(4)

Job Allocation for GTA A-3: The offering documents for GTA A-3 notes GCFM's responsibilities for tracking the progress of the investment projects. Jobs allocated to the A-3 Limited Partners will be subordinated according to the allocation of jobs for investors from each of the Funds. The Management Company anticipates that as many as [redacted] indirect and induced jobs will be set aside and allocated to the investors in the Funds before any such jobs will be allocated to the A-3 Limited Partners. Additionally, jobs further will be allocated to the Limited Partners (and the members or partners of any other new pooled investment vehicle established for the financial benefit of the Project Company, directly or indirectly) in the order in which such Limited Partner's permanent residency commences. A Limited Partner's permanent residency shall be deemed to commence on the date (a) that such Limited Partner's Application for Adjustment of Status (I-485) is processed by the USCIS or (b) that such Limited Partner first enters the United States on an Immigrant Visa. This allocation process will continue until all EB-5 Jobs have been allocated to the Limited Partners and there is no guaranty that one or more Limited Partners will receive legal permanent residency in the United States as a result of his or her investment in the Partnership.

GTA A-3 was organized to attract up to [redacted] The Fund continues to remain open. The EB-5 investment is pooled, and then released pursuant to escrow agreements where applicable or pursuant the Subscription Agreement into the job creating enterprise GTA. In exchange, GTA agreed to show actual and planned job positions created for each $500,000 investment received. The direct job creation is thus evidenced by the new jobs GTA creates (b)(4) stemming from the EB-5 funds invested through GTA A-3.

Please note that during FY 2012, GCFM received [redacted] I-526 approvals for two commercial enterprises (Fund A-1 and Fund A-2) and received [redacted] I-526 denials. Furthermore, in FY 2012, GCFM filed [redacted] I-526 petitions for investors of Fund A-2 and [redacted] I-526 petitions for investors of GTA A-3.

In conjunction with the GCFM' s reporting responsibilities, we submit the following documentation:

1. Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney, original.
2. Form 1-924A, Supplement to Form 1-924, original.
3. USCIS Regional Center Designation - most recent approval notification, copy.

III Conclusion

The job creating enterprise has made significant progress in moving forward with establishing a new automobile manufacturing plant in the TEA area of Tunica, Mississippi. The GTA project is economically significant to the region and meets the criteria set forth for the ongoing designation of GCFM as a Regional Center. The attached I-924A form provides the statistical data requested by the Service for reporting purposes. If you have any questions regarding this matter please contact our General Counsel, Simone Williams at 571.765.3500.

Re: Amendment to a Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program

BACKGROUND:

Pursuant to Section 610 of the Appropriations Act of 1993, on January 17, 2008, GCFM submitted a proposal for the designation of Gulf Coast Funds Management Regional Center which focuses on the entirety of the states of Mississippi and Louisiana. The industry focus is primarily as follows:

1. Shipbuilding,
2. Food Processing Plants, and
3. Manufacturing Plants.

The initial proposal contained the following evidence in support of its requested designation:

- A Job Creation Analysis and Econometric Model prepared by a professional economic analysis firm which specifically calculates but excludes construction jobs from the detailed prediction;
- A business plan reflecting the timing, scale and planned use of the alien investor capital;
- A Private Placement Memorandum;
- An Operating Agreement;
- A Subscription Agreement; and
- A Management Agreement.

The initial regional center proposal for GCFM was approved by USCIS on August 18, 2008.

On May 7, 2009, petitioner submitted an amendment to its approved regional center requesting the establishment of two additional investment GCFM funds. The amendment is approved. The separate IMPLAN investment funds have been added below.

1. Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-1 (GCAIF A-1)

Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-1 entails the construction and subsequent operation of a manufacturing facility where hybrid automobiles will be designed and manufactured. The facility will consist of multiple buildings including a factory, machine shop, office building, museum and residential housing. When fully operational, the facility is expected to be able to produce up to one million vehicles per year.

2. Gulf Coast Fund I (GCF)

(b)(4) Gulf Coast Fund I entails the construction and subsequent operation a shipyard in Houma, Louisiana where [redacted] in new ships will be built. The shipyard complex will consist of four buildings, an underground foundation, footings, drainage, utilities, electrical platforms, a parking lot, warehouse and a sewage plant.

DECISION:

Based on its review and analysis of your proposal, and of your response to the USCIS Request For Evidence to which you provided a satisfactory response, USCIS hereby approves and designates GCFM as a Regional Center within the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program to include two additional, separate capital investment funds. GCFM shall continue to have a geographic scope that includes the entire states of both Mississippi and Louisiana as a Regional Center.

FOCUS OF INVESTMENT ACTIVITY AND CAPITAL INVESTMENT THRESHOLD:

The USCIS-approved focus of the GCFM business plan and job creation analysis and multipliers is to generate immigrant investor capital into the following commercial enterprise activities within Mississippi and Louisiana:

1. Shipbuilding,
2. Food Processing Plants, and
3. Manufacturing Plants.

As such, aliens seeking immigrant visas through the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program may file individual petitions with USCIS for these commercial enterprises located within the GCFM area comprised of the states of Mississippi and Louisiana. The geographic focus of this area contains numerous High Unemployment Targeted Employment Areas (TEAs) as designated by the States of Mississippi and Louisiana and rural TEA's as defined in 8 CFR 204.6(e). Therefore, the minimum capital investment threshold for any individual immigrant investment into an approved commercial enterprise throughout the Regional Center shall be not less than $ 500,000 if inside a TEA, or $1,000,000 if outside a TEA.

EMPLOYMENT CREATION:

Alien entrepreneurs who file petitions for commercial enterprises located in the GCFM area must fulfill all of the requirements set forth in 8 CFR 204.6, except that the petition need not show that the new commercial enterprises created ten new jobs indirectly as a result of the alien entrepreneur's investment. This determination has been established by way of USCIS' acceptance of the final economic analysis that is contained as part of the approved GCFM proposal and its indirect job creation model and multipliers contained within the final approved GCFM application package. In addition, where job creation or preservation of existing jobs is claimed based on a multiplier rooted in underlying new "direct jobs" in support of an immigrant investor's individual I-526 petition affiliated with the GCFM, then:

- To be credited with projected creation of new "direct" jobs for "qualifying employees" upon filing the I-526 petition, then the petition must be supported by a comprehensive detailed business plan and supporting financial, marketing and related data and analysis providing a reasonable basis for projecting creation of any new direct jobs for "qualifying employees" to be achieved/realized within two years pursuant to 8 CFR 204.6(j)(4)(B).

An alien investor's I-829 petition to remove the conditions which was based on an I-526 petition approval that involved the creation of new direct jobs or the creation of new indirect jobs based on a multiplier tied to underlying new direct jobs needs to be properly supported by evidence of job creation. To support the full number of direct and indirect new jobs being claimed in connection with removal of conditions, the petition will need to be supported by probative evidence of the number of new direct full time (35 hours per week) jobs for qualified employees whose positions have been created as a result of the alien's investment. Such evidence may include copies of quarterly state employment tax reports, Forms W-2, Forms I-9, and any other pertinent employment records sufficient to demonstrate the number of qualified employees whose jobs were created directly.

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is associated with the GCFM , in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual alien entrepreneur petition, shall also contain as supporting evidence relating to this amended regional center designation, the following:

1. A copy of this letter for the GCFM amendment approval and designation.

2. A copy of the approved regional center narrative proposal and business plan.

3. A copy of the job creation methodology required in 8 CFR 204.6(j)(4)(iii), as contained in the regional center economic analysis which has been approved by USCIS, which reflects that investment by an individual alien investor of at least $500,000 into the Transit Village or any other similar project will create full-time employment positions, either directly or indirectly, for not fewer than ten qualified employees per alien investor.

4. A legally executed copy of:

    a. the Private Placement Memorandum;
    b. the Subscription Agreement; and
    c. the Operating Agreement.

DESIGNEE'S RESPONSIBILITIES INHERENT IN CONDUCT OF THE GCFM REGIONAL CENTER:

The law, as reflected in the regulations at 8 CFR 204.6(m)(6), requires that an approved regional center, in order to maintain the validity of its approval and designation, must continue to meet the statutory requirements of the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program by serving the purpose of promoting economic growth, including increased export sales (where applicable), improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment. Therefore, in order for USCIS to determine whether your regional center is in compliance with the above cited regulation, and in order to continue to operate as a USCIS approved and designated regional center, your administration, oversight, and management of your regional center shall be such as to monitor all investment activities under the sponsorship of your regional center and to maintain records, data and information on a quarterly basis in order to report to USCIS upon request the following year to date information for each Federal Fiscal Year[1], commencing with the initial year as follows:

1. Provide the principal authorized official and point of contact of the regional center responsible for the normal operation, management and administration of the regional center.

2. Be prepared to explain how you are administering the regional center and how you will be actively engaged in supporting a due diligence screening of its alien investors' lawful source of capital and the alien investor's ability to fully invest the requisite amount of capital.

3. Be prepared to explain the following:

    a. How the regional center is actively engaged in the evaluation, oversight and follows up on any proposed commercial activities that will be utilized by alien investors.

    b. How the regional center is actively engaged in the ongoing monitoring, evaluation, oversight and follows up on any investor commercial activity affiliated through the regional center that will be utilized by alien investors in order to create direct and/or indirect jobs through qualifying EB-5 capital investments into commercial enterprises within the regional center.

[1] A Federal Fiscal Year runs for twelve consecutive months from October 1st to September 30th.

4. Be prepared to provide:

   a. the name, date of birth, petition receipt number, and alien registration number (if one has been assigned by USCIS) of each principal alien investor who has made an investment and has filed an EB-5/I-526 Petition with USCIS, specifying whether:
      i. the petition was filed,
      ii. is pending,
      iii. was approved,
      iv. denied, or
      v. withdrawn by the petitioner, together with the date(s) of such event.

   b. The total number of visas represented in each case for the principal alien investor identified in 4.a. above, plus his/her dependents (spouse and children) for whom immigrant status is sought or has been granted.

   c. The country of nationality of each alien investor who has made an investment and filed an EB-5/I-526 petition with USCIS.

   d. The U.S. city and state of residence (or intended residence) of each alien investor who has made an investment and filed an EB-5/I-526 petition with USCIS.

   e. For each alien investor listed in item 4.a., above, identify the following:

      i. the date(s) of investment in the commercial enterprise;

      ii. the amount(s) of investment in the commercial enterprise; and

      iii. the date(s), nature, and amount(s) of any payment/remuneration/profit/return on investment made to the alien investor by the commercial enterprise and/or regional center from when the investment was initiated to the present.

5. Be prepared to identify/list each of the target industry categories of business activity within the geographic boundaries of your regional center that have:

   a. received alien investors' capital, and in what aggregate amounts;

   b. received non-EB-5 domestic capital that has been combined and invested together, specifying the separate aggregate amounts of the domestic investment capital;

   c. of the total investor capital (alien and domestic) identified above in 5.a and 5.b, identify and list the following:
      i. The name and address of each "direct" job creating commercial enterprise.
      ii. The industry category for each indirect job creating investment activity.

6. Be prepared to provide:

    a. The total aggregate number of approved EB-5 alien investor I-526 petitions per each Federal Fiscal Year to date made through your regional center.

    b. The total aggregate number of approved EB-5 alien investor I-829 petitions per each Federal Fiscal Year to date through your regional center.

7. The total aggregate sum of EB-5 alien capital invested through your regional center for each Federal Fiscal Year to date since your approval and designation.

8. The combined total aggregate of "new" direct and/or indirect jobs created by EB-5 investors through your regional center for each Federal Fiscal Year to date since your approval and designation.

9. If applicable, the total aggregate of "preserved" or saved jobs by EB-5 alien investors into troubled businesses through your regional center for each Federal Fiscal Year to date since your approval and designation.

10. If for any given Federal Fiscal Year your regional center did or does not have investors to report, then provide:

    a. a detailed written explanation for the inactivity,

    b. a specific plan which specifies the budget, timelines, milestones and critical steps to:

        i. actively promote your regional center program,

        ii. identify and recruit legitimate and viable alien investors, and

        iii. a strategy to invest into job creating enterprises and/or investment activities within the regional center.

11. Regarding your website, if any, please be prepared to provide a hard copy which represents fully what your regional center has posted on its website, as well as providing your web address. Additionally, please provide a packet containing all of your regional center's hard copy promotional materials such as brochures, flyers, press articles, advertisements, etc.

12. Finally, please be aware that it is incumbent on each USCIS approved and designated regional center, in order to remain in good standing, to notify USCIS within 15 business days at USCIS.ImmigrantInvestorProgram@dhs.gov of any change of address or occurrence of any material change in:

- the name and contact information of the responsible official and/or Point of Contact (POC) for the RC

- the management and administration of the RC,

RE: Form 1-924A, Supplement to Form 1-924 FY 2013 Submission
Applicant: GULF COAST FUNDS MANAGEMENT REGIONAL CENTER, LLC

Dear Sir or Madam:

This is a submission of the Form I-924A for fiscal year 2013 ending on September 30, 2013. As the enclosed information and documentation verifies, Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC ("GCFM") was designated by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service (USCIS) as a Regional Center to administer EB-5 compliant projects and investments. GCFM was created for the intended purpose of establishing successive EB-5 Alien Entrepreneur investment projects, and managing these investment projects in conformance with 8 U.S.C. §1153 (b)(5)(A)-(D), INA§ 203 (b)(5)(A)-(D) of the Immigration and Nationality Act ("the Act" and the Pilot Program Law. USCIS approved GCFM's request for designation on August 18, 2008.

In FY 2013, EB-5 investments were made in one new commercial enterprise serving as a vehicle for investment into a single job creating enterprise, GreenTech Automotive Inc. (GTA). EB-5 investments were also made directly into the single job creating enterprise, GTA, through the sale of GTA's preferred shares.

GTA is a US-based automotive manufacturer dedicated to developing and producing environmentally-friendly, energy-efficient vehicles. GTA's core values encompass green technology, affordability, and job creation. The company is currently constructing an automobile manufacturing facility in Tunica, Mississippi. GTA (formerly Hybrid Kinetic Automotive Corp) was founded in 2008 and headed by entrepreneur, Charles Wang. The commercial enterprise investing into GTA in FY 2013 was GreenTech Automotive Partnership A-3, LP, ("GTA"). GTA also offered investors an opportunity to invest in up to [ ] shares of its Series A-2 Preferred Stock ("Series A-2") in FY 2013.

Please note, that GCFM also administered two other commercial enterprises -- Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-1, LLC ("Fund A-1") and Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-2, LLC ("Fund A-2") – both are now closed to new investors. There were [ ] investors in Fund A-1 and Fund A-2 in FY 2013.

GCFM is owned by the American Immigration Center, LLC, (AIC), a Virginia limited liability company. AIC is a single member LLC owned by Charles Wang. The day to day operations of GCFM are managed by a professional staff liaising with counsel, investors and GTA. Anthony Rodham serves as the President and Simone Williams, the General Counsel. Dickstein Shapiro, LLP and Dentons, LLP were retained in 2012 and 2013 to serve as Outside Counsel. Currently, GCFM is only administering the GTA A- 3 offering and Preferred Shares offering as Fund A-1 and Fund A-2 are now closed to further investors.

As part of our Regional Center compliance responsibilities and in an effort to ensure satisfaction of program requirements and investor objectives, GCFM internally manages all project monitoring and reporting activities including, but not limited to, collecting and maintaining information on financial and operational reporting, job creation confirmation, and investment processing and tracking. Our responsibilities specifically include reviewing the new commercial enterprise (NCE) where the funds are invested by the EB-5 applicant, as well as the job creating enterprise where the NCE invests EB-5 money.

The supplemental information provides below addresses the job creation and allocation methodologies applied to GTA A-3 investments.

I Employment Creation-Methodology

The relevant standard for job creation pursuant to Regional Center administration is identified at 8 C.F.R. §204.6(j)(4)(i)(B)(iii) which relates specifically to Regional Centers and notes that evidence of the creation of "full-time positions for not fewer than 10 persons either directly or indirectly . . . may be demonstrated by reasonable methodologies including those set in paragraph (m)(3) of this section." The referenced paragraph identifies the use of "economically or statistically valid forecasting tools, including, but not limited to feasibility studies . . . and/or multiplier tables."[1] Furthermore, the regulations note that an alien entrepreneur seeking an immigrant visa through an approved Regional Center may use "reasonable methodologies" that "may include multiplier tables . . . and other economically or statistically valid forecasting devices which indicate the likelihood that the business will result in increased employment" (emphasis added).[2]

[1] 8 C.F.R. §204.6(m)(3)(v).
[2] 8 C.F.R. §204.6(m)(7)(ii).

Job Creation Calculations and Methodology. In reporting statistics, USCIS estimates job creation (10 jobs per investor) based upon the number of Form I-829 petitions that were approved within the period of time under study. GCFM has chosen to adopt the following job creation/allocation approach to simplify our record keeping and data analysis required to be responsive to Part 3 of Form I-924A.

II Job Allocation Among EB-5 Investors

In its role as the regional center manager, GCFM records job allocation for each investor per the job allocation as outlined below.

Job Allocation for GTA A-3: The offering documents for GTA A-3 notes GCFM's responsibilities for tracking the progress of the investment projects. Jobs allocated to the A-3 Limited Partners will be subordinated according to the allocation of jobs for investors from each of the Funds. The Management Company anticipates that as many as [redacted] indirect and induced jobs will be set aside and allocated to the investors in the Funds before any such jobs will be allocated to the A-3 Limited Partners. Additionally, jobs further will be allocated to the Limited Partners (and the members or partners of any other new pooled investment vehicle established for the financial benefit of the Project Company, directly or indirectly) in the order in which such Limited Partner's permanent residency commences. A Limited Partner's permanent residency shall be deemed to commence on the date (a) that such Limited Partner's Application for Adjustment of Status (I-485) is processed by the USCIS or (b) that such Limited Partner first enters the United States on an Immigrant Visa. This allocation process will continue until all EB-5 Jobs have been allocated to the Limited Partners and there is no guaranty that one or more Limited Partners will receive legal permanent residency in the United States as a result of his or her investment in the Partnership.

Job Allocation for Series A-2: The offering documents for Series A-2 notes GCFM's responsibilities for tracking the progress of the investment projects. Jobs allocated to the Series A-2 Limited Partners will be subordinated to the allocation of jobs to investors in A-1 and A-2 Funds. The Management Company anticipates that as many as [redacted] direct, indirect and induced jobs will be set aside and allocated to the investors in the A-1 and A-2 Funds before any of the anticipated [redacted] direct, indirect and induced jobs will be allocated to investors in this Offering and in the A-3 Fund. Additionally, jobs further will be allocated to investors in this Offering and in the A-3 Fund (and additional EB-5 Investors investing indirectly and directly in the Company) in the order in which such investor's permanent residency commences.

GTA A-3 was organized to attract up to [redacted] The Fund remains open until December 31, 2013. The EB-5 investment is pooled, and then released pursuant to escrow agreements where applicable or pursuant to the Subscription Agreement into the job creating enterprise GTA. In exchange, GTA agreed to show actual and planned job positions created for each $500,000 investment received. The direct job creation is thus evidenced by the new jobs GTA creates stemming from the EB-5 funds invested through GTA A-3.

Series A-2 was organized to attract up to [redacted] of Preferred Shares, and would be offered primarily to prospective investors desiring to participate in the EB-5 Program. The EB-5 investment is pooled, and then released pursuant to escrow agreements where applicable or pursuant to the Subscription Agreement into the job creating enterprise GTA. In exchange, GTA agreed to show actual and planned job positions created for each $500,000 investment received. The direct job creation is thus evidenced by the new jobs GTA creates stemming from the EB-5 funds invested through Series A-2.

(b)(4)

Please note that during FY 2013, GCFM received [ ] I-526 approvals for Fund A-3 and [ ] I-526 approvals for Series A-2. Furthermore, in FY 2013, GCFM filed [ ] petitions for investors of Fund A-3 and [ ] I-526 petitions for investors of Series A-2.

In conjunction with the GCFM's reporting responsibilities, we submit the following documentation:

1. Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney, original.

2. Form 1-924A, Supplement to Form 1-924, original.

3. USCIS Regional Center Designation - most recent approval notification, copy.

III Conclusion

The job creating enterprise has made significant progress in moving forward with establishing a new automobile manufacturing plant in the TEA area of Tunica, Mississippi. The GTA project is economically significant to the region and meets the criteria set forth for the ongoing designation of GCFM as a Regional Center. The attached I-924A form provides the statistical data requested by the Service for reporting purposes. If you have any questions regarding this matter please contact our General Counsel, Simone Williams at (571)765-3500.

Anthony Dean Rodham, President & CEO

BACKGROUND:

Pursuant to Section 610 of the Appropriations Act of 1993, on January 17, 2008, GCFM submitted a proposal for the designation of Gulf Coast Funds Management Regional Center which focuses on the entirety of the states of Mississippi and Louisiana. The industry focus is primarily as follows:

1. Shipbuilding,
2. Food Processing Plants, and
3. Manufacturing Plants.

The initial proposal contained the following evidence in support of its requested designation:

- A Job Creation Analysis and Econometric Model prepared by a professional economic analysis firm which specifically calculates but excludes construction jobs from the detailed prediction;
- A business plan reflecting the timing, scale and planned use of the alien investor capital;
- A Private Placement Memorandum;
- An Operating Agreement;
- A Subscription Agreement; and
- A Management Agreement.

The initial regional center proposal for GCFM was approved by USCIS on August 18, 2008.

On May 7, 2009, petitioner submitted an amendment to its approved regional center requesting the establishment of two additional investment GCFM funds. The amendment is approved. The separate IMPLAN investment funds have been added below.

1. Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-1 (GCAIF A-1)

Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-1 entails the construction and subsequent operation of a manufacturing facility where hybrid automobiles will be designed and manufactured. The facility will consist of multiple buildings including a factory, machine shop, office building, museum and residential housing. When fully operational, the facility is expected to be able to produce up to one million vehicles per year.

2. Gulf Coast Fund I (GCF)

(b)(4) Gulf Coast Fund I entails the construction and subsequent operation a shipyard in Houma, Louisiana where [redacted] in new ships will be built. The shipyard complex will consist of four buildings, an underground foundation, footings, drainage, utilities, electrical platforms, a parking lot, warehouse and a sewage plant.

DECISION:

Based on its review and analysis of your proposal, and of your response to the USCIS Request For Evidence to which you provided a satisfactory response, USCIS hereby approves and designates GCFM as a Regional Center within the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program to include two additional, separate capital investment funds. GCFM shall continue to have a geographic scope that includes the entire states of both Mississippi and Louisiana as a Regional Center.

FOCUS OF INVESTMENT ACTIVITY AND CAPITAL INVESTMENT THRESHOLD:

The USCIS-approved focus of the GCFM business plan and job creation analysis and multipliers is to generate immigrant investor capital into the following commercial enterprise activities within Mississippi and Louisiana:

1. Shipbuilding,
2. Food Processing Plants, and
3. Manufacturing Plants.

As such, aliens seeking immigrant visas through the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program may file individual petitions with USCIS for these commercial enterprises located within the GCFM area comprised of the states of Mississippi and Louisiana. The geographic focus of this area contains numerous High Unemployment Targeted Employment Areas (TEAs) as designated by the States of Mississippi and Louisiana and rural TEA's as defined in 8 CFR 204.6(e). Therefore, the minimum capital investment threshold for any individual immigrant investment into an approved commercial enterprise throughout the Regional Center shall be not less than $ 500,000 if inside a TEA, or $1,000,000 if outside a TEA.

EMPLOYMENT CREATION:

Alien entrepreneurs who file petitions for commercial enterprises located in the GCFM area must fulfill all of the requirements set forth in 8 CFR 204.6, except that the petition need not show that the new commercial enterprises created ten new jobs indirectly as a result of the alien entrepreneur's investment. This determination has been established by way of USCIS' acceptance of the final economic analysis that is contained as part of the approved GCFM proposal and its indirect job creation model and multipliers contained within the final approved GCFM application package. In addition, where job creation or preservation of existing jobs is claimed based on a multiplier rooted in underlying new "direct jobs" in support of an immigrant investor's individual I-526 petition affiliated with the GCFM, then:

- To be credited with projected creation of new "direct" jobs for "qualifying employees" upon filing the I-526 petition, then the petition must be supported by a comprehensive detailed business plan and supporting financial, marketing and related data and analysis providing a reasonable basis for projecting creation of any new direct jobs for "qualifying employees" to be achieved/realized within two years pursuant to 8 CFR 204.6(j)(4)(B).

An alien investor's I-829 petition to remove the conditions which was based on an I-526 petition approval that involved the creation of new direct jobs or the creation of new indirect jobs based on a multiplier tied to underlying new direct jobs needs to be properly supported by evidence of job creation. To support the full number of direct and indirect new jobs being claimed in connection with removal of conditions, the petition will need to be supported by probative evidence of the number of new direct full time (35 hours per week) jobs for qualified employees whose positions have been created as a result of the alien's investment. Such evidence may include copies of quarterly state employment tax reports, Forms W-2, Forms I-9, and any other pertinent employment records sufficient to demonstrate the number of qualified employees whose jobs were created directly.

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is associated with the GCFM , in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual alien entrepreneur petition, shall also contain as supporting evidence relating to this amended regional center designation, the following:

1. A copy of this letter for the GCFM amendment approval and designation.
2. A copy of the approved regional center narrative proposal and business plan.
3. A copy of the job creation methodology required in 8 CFR 204.6(j)(4)(iii), as contained in the regional center economic analysis which has been approved by USCIS, which reflects that investment by an individual alien investor of at least $500,000 into the Transit Village or any other similar project will create full-time employment positions, either directly or indirectly, for not fewer than ten qualified employees per alien investor.

4. A legally executed copy of:

    a. the Private Placement Memorandum;
    b. the Subscription Agreement; and
    c. the Operating Agreement.

DESIGNEE'S RESPONSIBILITIES INHERENT IN CONDUCT OF THE GCFM REGIONAL CENTER:

The law, as reflected in the regulations at 8 CFR 204.6(m)(6), requires that an approved regional center, in order to maintain the validity of its approval and designation, must continue to meet the statutory requirements of the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program by serving the purpose of promoting economic growth, including increased export sales (where applicable), improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment. Therefore, in order for USCIS to determine whether your regional center is in compliance with the above cited regulation, and in order to continue to operate as a USCIS approved and designated regional center, your administration, oversight, and management of your regional center shall be such as to monitor all investment activities under the sponsorship of your regional center and to maintain records, data and information on a quarterly basis in order to report to USCIS upon request the following year to date information for each Federal Fiscal Year[1], commencing with the initial year as follows:

1. Provide the principal authorized official and point of contact of the regional center responsible for the normal operation, management and administration of the regional center.

2. Be prepared to explain how you are administering the regional center and how you will be actively engaged in supporting a due diligence screening of its alien investors' lawful source of capital and the alien investor's ability to fully invest the requisite amount of capital.

3. Be prepared to explain the following:

    a. How the regional center is actively engaged in the evaluation, oversight and follows up on any proposed commercial activities that will be utilized by alien investors.

    b. Application:	Form I-924, Application for Regional Center Under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program
Re:	Request to Amend Regional Center Designation Project: GreenTech Automotive, Inc. RCW1221950726

On 02/12/2014, USCIS approved the request of Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC (GCFM) to amend its Regional Center Designation under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program. GCFM submitted electronic correspondence on 02/20/2014 & 02/28/2014 to USCIS citing project related factual errors within the decision letter as it pertained to the number of investors, the EB-5 capital contribution amount and the type of investors.

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) has decided to reconsider the approval decision of the Form I-924, Application for Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program that was filed by the applicant with the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services ("USCIS") on 08/06/2012. After consideration of the law, regulations and policy guiding USCIS, it is concluded that the decision dated, 02/12/2014, was made in error. This has prompted USCIS to reconsider the decision on your Form I-924.

USCIS has reopened and issued an amended approval to your Form I-924 as followed:

The applicant filed the Form I-924 to request approval of an amendment to a previously approved regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program. The Immigrant Investor Program was established under § 610 of the Department of Commerce, Justice and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 1993 (Pub. L. 102-395, Oct. 6, 1992, 106 Stat. 1874).

In addition to the Form I-924, the applicant submitted a completed exemplar Form I-526, Immigrant Petition by Alien Entrepreneur, seeking USCIS review and approval of an actual project supported by a comprehensive business plan as contemplated in Matter of Ho, 22 I. & N. Dec. 206 (Assoc. Comm'r 1998).

I. Executive Summary of Adjudication

Effective the date of this notice, USCIS approves the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project based on the evidence submitted with the above referenced Form I-924 and exemplar Form I-526. The applicant has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. will be a new commercial enterprise (NCE) and that the project is likely to result in the creation of at least [redacted] jobs. USCIS will give deference to the applicant's estimates of actual job creation and economic analysis, the business plan, and the organizational documents, offering memorandum, and investment agreements in subsequent related filings of any Form I-526 filed by an individual investor associated with the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project. Deference, however, will not apply if the underlying facts have materially changed, there is evidence of fraud or misrepresentation in the record of proceeding, or the previously favorable decision is determined to be legally deficient (involved an objective mistake of fact or law).

II. Procedural History (b)(4)

On August 18, 2008, USCIS approved the Gulf Coast Fund Management, LLC (GCFM) for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as a designated regional center with an approved geographical scope of the entire State of Mississippi and Louisiana. GCFM now seeks to amend its previously approved regional center designation to include an actual project that will be managed by GreenTech Automotive, Inc., an NCE established on July 19, 2012.

III. The Project

Effective the date of this notice, USCIS approves the applicant's amendment request to include the following actual capital investment project supported by an exemplar Form I-526:

Project	Type of Project	Organization Documents	Date of Document
GreenTech Automotive, Inc. Geographic Location:	Actual Project support by an Exemplar Form I-526 Petition Project Investment: Equity	Business Plan	07/19/2012
		Economic Analysis	02/11/2012 with Supplement Dated 12/12/2012 & 08/13/2013
		Confidential Private	03/12/2013 with

[1] The job estimate of [redacted] offers sufficient job creation to account for investors in Series "A-1", "A-2" and "A-3" (see Confidential Private Placement Memorandum Dated 03/12/2013 with Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013). This amended application to include Series A-2, requires up to [redacted] jobs. Please reference section IV of this approval letter for more information related to the job creation number.

		Subscription Agreement	As Submitted

Note: If material changes to this project and its supporting documents are found in a subsequent Form I-526 petition or Form I-829, Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions, USCIS will review the supporting documents once more to ensure continued compliance with EB-5 program requirements.

The requested amendment identifies the NCE of the proposed project as GreenTech Automotive, Inc. which was formed in the State of Mississippi on July 19, 2012. The GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project is located at 1323 US Highway 61 in the City of Tunica, Mississippi. Approximately [ ] EB-5 investors will subscribe to the NCE as preferred shareholders in exchange for capital contributions of $500,000 each and an aggregate of [ ]

The NCE will contribute the [ ] of EB-5 capital as an equity investment. The EB-5 capital proceeds will be used to own and operate an automotive manufacturing facility in Tunica, Mississippi. The NCE will manufacture the MyCar, a two-seat electric vehicle with a 25 to 115 mile range between charges, depending on the battery type and size selected by the customer. The projected total cost of the project is [ ] The operation at the manufacturing auto plant is expected to be on-going and job creation will occur over the next five years and will generate approximately [ ] jobs.

IV. Job Creation

The job creation methodology presented in the economic impact analysis and underlying business plan is found to be reasonable based on the following inputs, when applying the RIMS II economic model:

NAICS [3]	Industry Name	Input	Multiplier	Jobs[4]
336111	Automobile Manufacturing

[2] Page 20 of the Business Plan Dated 07/19/2012 indicates that GreenTech Automotive, Inc. "intends to use the [ ] proceeds from the offering of our Preferred Shares for general corporate purposes." The Confidential Private Placement Memorandum Dated 03/12/2013 with Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013 supports an equity investment of up to [ ] Series A-2 Preferred Shares ([ ]). If the project requires up to [ ] submitting supporting documents such as a revised Business Plan in a subsequent Form I-526 petition or Form I-829, Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions, USCIS will review the supporting documents to ensure continued compliance with EB-5 program requirements.

[3] These industry codes are used for informational purposes in estimating job creation and do not limit the economic or job creating activity of an approved regional center or its investors. Jobs created in industries not previously identified in the economic methodology may still be credited to the investors in subsequent Form I-526 and Form I-829 filings, as long as the evidence in the record establishes that it is probably true that the requisite jobs are estimated to be created, or have been created, in those additional industries.

[4] The GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project potentially has the capacity to create up to [ ] jobs from the combined investments of the Series "A-1", "A-2" and "A-3". If fully subscribed, this round of equity investment (Series "A-2") requires [ ] jobs of the total job estimate that GreenTech Automotive, Inc. proposes to create.

3363	Motor Vehicle Parts Manufacturing (outside new facility)
Total Jobs:

The approval of this Form I-924 application, supported by the exemplar Form I-526 petition, is based upon the assumptions and estimates used as inputs in the business plan for job creation. Please refer to the input and multiplier analysis table above.

The economic analysis accurately portrays the assumptions stated in the business plan, and the calculations using RIMS II multipliers are verifiable. The applicant has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the project is expected to result in the creation of approximately at least [redacted] jobs as part of the total [redacted] jobs calculated associated with the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project.

USCIS will give deference to the job creation methodology when adjudicating Forms I-526 and I-829 associated with GreenTech Automotive, Inc. Deference, however, will not apply if the underlying facts have materially changed, there is evidence of fraud or misrepresentation in the record of proceeding, or the previously favorable decision is determined to be legally deficient (involved an objective mistake of fact or law).

It will be the responsibility of the individual investor to demonstrate that the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology remain materially unchanged when he or she files a Form I-526. When filing Form I-829 for removal of conditional status, the individual investor has the burden of demonstrating that the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology have not materially changed and have been realized (or can be expected to be realized within a reasonable time). If the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology have materially changed, an updated business plan and economic analysis may need to be submitted to establish eligibility.

If the job creation estimated in the business plan and economic analysis will not be realized, then it will be the responsibility of the EB-5 investor to notify USCIS of an agreed upon methodology to allocate job creation among eligible investors.

V. Guidelines for Filing Form I-526 Petitions based on the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is affiliated with the Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC, in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual immigrant investor petition, shall also contain the following:

[5] The reliability of job creation estimates provided by an economic analysis is dependent upon the validity of the information and assumptions that form the basis for the analysis. Please be advised that the number of projected jobs were revised lower due to the reduction of [redacted] (Economic Analysis 02/11/2012 with Supplement Dated 12/12/2012 & 08/13/2013, GTA Inc. proforma financial statements Dated 01/27/2012) to [redacted] as documented in the Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013.

(b)(4)

[6] Job Creation as a result of this Amendment to include the Series A-2 Preferred Shares offering.

1. A copy of this regional center approval notice and designation letter including all subsequent amendment approval letters (if applicable).

2. An economic impact analysis which reflects a job creation methodology required at 8 CFR § 204.6(j)(4)(iii) and shows how the capital investment by the individual immigrant investor will more likely than not create ten (10) jobs.

3. A comprehensive, detailed and credible business plan for an actual project that contains the factual details necessary to be in compliance with the requirements described in Matter of Ho.

4. Legally executed organizational documents of the commercial enterprise. The documents may be the same documents noted in Section III of this approval notice.

5. If the project timeline has changed significantly from the original business plan, a narrative that explains the changes in the project timeline, along with a timeline that realistically reflects the status of the project should be submitted.

VI. Designee's Responsibilities in the Operations of the Regional Center

As provided in 8 CFR § 204.6(m)(6), to ensure that the regional center continues to meet the requirements of section 610(a) of the Appropriations Act, a regional center must provide USCIS with updated information to demonstrate the regional center is continuing to promote economic growth, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment in the approved geographic area. Such information must be submitted to USCIS on an annual basis or as otherwise requested by USCIS. The applicant must monitor all investment activities under the sponsorship of the regional center and to maintain records in order to provide the information required on the Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924. Form I-924A is available in the "Forms" section on the USCIS website at www.uscis.gov.

Regional centers that remain designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as of September 30th of a calendar year are required to file Form I-924A in that year. The Form I-924A with the required supporting documentation must be filed on or before December 29th of the same calendar year.

The failure to timely file a Form I-924A for each fiscal year in which the regional center has been designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program will result in the issuance of an intent to terminate the participation of the regional center in the Immigrant Investor Program, which may ultimately result in the termination of the designation of the regional center.

The regional center designation is non-transferable.

VII. Legal Notice

This approval and designation of a Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Program does not constitute or imply an endorsement or recommendation by USCIS, the United States Government or any instrumentality thereof, of the investment opportunities, projects or other business activities related to or undertaken by such Regional Center. Except as expressly set forth in this approval and designation, USCIS has not reviewed any information provided in connection with or otherwise related to the Regional Center for compliance with relevant securities laws or any other laws unrelated to eligibility for designation as a Regional Center. Accordingly USCIS makes no determination or representation whatsoever regarding the compliance of either the Regional Center or associated New Commercial Enterprises with such laws.

Each Regional Center designated by USCIS must monitor and oversee all investment offerings and activities associated with, through or under the sponsorship of the Regional Center. The failure of an associated New Commercial Enterprise to comply with all laws and regulations related to such investment offerings and activities may result in the issuance by USCIS of a notice of intent to terminate the Regional Center designation.

If the applicant has any questions concerning the regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program, please contact USCIS by email at USCIS.ImmigrantInvestorProgram@uscis.dhs.gov.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Colucci

Application:	Form I-924, Application for Regional Center Under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program
Regional Center:	Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC ID1031910101
Re:	Request to Amend Regional Center Designation Project: GreenTech Automotive, Inc. RCW1221950726

On 02/12/2014, USCIS approved the request of Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC (GCFM) to amend its Regional Center Designation under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program. GCFM submitted electronic correspondence on 02/20/2014 & 02/28/2014 to USCIS citing project related factual errors within the decision letter as it pertained to the number of investors, the EB-5 capital contribution amount and the type of investors.

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) has decided to reconsider the approval decision of the Form I-924, Application for Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program that was filed by the applicant with the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services ("USCIS") on 08/06/2012. After consideration of the law, regulations and policy guiding USCIS, it is concluded that the decision dated, 02/12/2014, was made in error. This has prompted USCIS to reconsider the decision on your Form I-924.

USCIS has reopened and issued an amended approval to your Form I-924 as followed:

The applicant filed the Form I-924 to request approval of an amendment to a previously approved regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program. The Immigrant Investor Program was established under § 610 of the Department of Commerce, Justice and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 1993 (Pub. L. 102-395, Oct. 6, 1992, 106 Stat. 1874).

In addition to the Form I-924, the applicant submitted a completed exemplar Form I-526, Immigrant Petition by Alien Entrepreneur, seeking USCIS review and approval of an actual project supported by a comprehensive business plan as contemplated in Matter of Ho, 22 I. & N. Dec. 206 (Assoc. Comm'r 1998).

I. Executive Summary of Adjudication (b)(4)

Effective the date of this notice, USCIS approves the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project based on the evidence submitted with the above referenced Form I-924 and exemplar Form I-526. The applicant has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. will be a new commercial enterprise (NCE) and that the project is likely to result in the creation of at least [redacted] jobs. USCIS will give deference to the applicant's estimates of actual job creation and economic analysis, the business plan, and the organizational documents, offering memorandum, and investment agreements in subsequent related filings of any Form I-526 filed by an individual investor associated with the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project. Deference, however, will not apply if the underlying facts have materially changed, there is evidence of fraud or misrepresentation in the record of proceeding, or the previously favorable decision is determined to be legally deficient (involved an objective mistake of fact or law).

II. Procedural History

On August 18, 2008, USCIS approved the Gulf Coast Fund Management, LLC (GCFM) for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as a designated regional center with an approved geographical scope of the entire State of Mississippi and Louisiana. GCFM now seeks to amend its previously approved regional center designation to include an actual project that will be managed by GreenTech Automotive, Inc., an NCE established on July 19, 2012.

III. The Project

Effective the date of this notice, USCIS approves the applicant's amendment request to include the following actual capital investment project supported by an exemplar Form I-526:

Project	Type of Project	Organization Documents	Date of Document
GreenTech Automotive, Inc. Geographic Location:	Actual Project support by an Exemplar Form I-526 Petition Project Investment: Equity	Business Plan	07/19/2012
		Economic Analysis	02/11/2012 with Supplement Dated 12/12/2012 & 08/13/2013
		Confidential Private	03/12/2013 with

[1] The job estimate of ~6,136 offers sufficient job creation to account for investors in Series "A-1", "A-2" and "A-3" (see Confidential Private Placement Memorandum Dated 03/12/2013 with Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013). This amended application to include Series A-2, requires up to [redacted] jobs. Please reference section IV of this approval letter for more information related to the job creation number.

		Subscription Agreement	As Submitted

Note: If material changes to this project and its supporting documents are found in a subsequent Form I-526 petition or Form I-829, Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions, USCIS will review the supporting documents once more to ensure continued compliance with EB-5 program requirements.

The requested amendment identifies the NCE of the proposed project as GreenTech Automotive, Inc. which was formed in the State of Mississippi on July 19, 2012. The GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project is located at 1323 US Highway 61 in the City of Tunica, Mississippi. Approximately [redacted] EB-5 investors will subscribe to the NCE as preferred shareholders in exchange for capital contributions of $500,000 each and an aggregate of [redacted]

The NCE will contribute the [redacted] of EB-5 capital as an equity investment. The EB-5 capital proceeds will be used to own and operate an automotive manufacturing facility in Tunica, Mississippi. The NCE will manufacture the MyCar, a two-seat electric vehicle with a 25 to 115 mile range between charges, depending on the battery type and size selected by the customer. The projected total cost of the project is [redacted] The operation at the manufacturing auto plant is expected to be on-going and job creation will occur over the next five years and will generate approximately [redacted] jobs.

IV. Job Creation

The job creation methodology presented in the economic impact analysis and underlying business plan is found to be reasonable based on the following inputs, when applying the RIMS II economic model:

NAICS [3]	Industry Name	Input	Multiplier	Jobs[4]
336111	Automobile Manufacturing	[redacted]

[2] Page 20 of the Business Plan Dated 07/19/2012 indicates that GreenTech Automotive, Inc. "intends to use the [redacted] proceeds from the offering of our Preferred Shares for general corporate purposes." The Confidential Private Placement Memorandum Dated 03/12/2013 with Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013, supports an equity investment of up to [redacted] Series A-2 Preferred Shares [redacted] If the project requires up to $[redacted] submitting supporting documents such as a revised Business Plan in a subsequent Form I-526 petition or Form I-829, Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions, USCIS will review the supporting documents to ensure continued compliance with EB-5 program requirements.

[3] These industry codes are used for informational purposes in estimating job creation and do not limit the economic or job creating activity of an approved regional center or its investors. Jobs created in industries not previously identified in the economic methodology may still be credited to the investors in subsequent Form I-526 and Form I-829 filings, as long as the evidence in the record establishes that it is probably true that the requisite jobs are estimated to be created, or have been created, in those additional industries.

[4] The GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project potentially has the capacity to create up t[redacted] jobs from the combined investments of the Series "A-1", "A-2" and "A-3". If fully subscribed, this round of equity investment (Series "A-2") requires [redacted] jobs of the total job estimate that GreenTech Automotive, Inc. proposes to create.

3363	Motor Vehicle Parts Manufacturing (outside new facility)
Total Jobs:

The approval of this Form I-924 application, supported by the exemplar Form I-526 petition, is based upon the assumptions and estimates used as inputs in the business plan for job creation. Please refer to the input and multiplier analysis table above.

The economic analysis accurately portrays the assumptions stated in the business plan, and the calculations using RIMS II multipliers are verifiable. The applicant has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the project is expected to result in the creation of approximately at least [redacted] jobs as part of the total [redacted] jobs calculated associated with the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project.

USCIS will give deference to the job creation methodology when adjudicating Forms I-526 and I-829 associated with GreenTech Automotive, Inc. Deference, however, will not apply if the underlying facts have materially changed, there is evidence of fraud or misrepresentation in the record of proceeding, or the previously favorable decision is determined to be legally deficient (involved an objective mistake of fact or law).

It will be the responsibility of the individual investor to demonstrate that the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology remain materially unchanged when he or she files a Form I-526. When filing Form I-829 for removal of conditional status, the individual investor has the burden of demonstrating that the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology have not materially changed and have been realized (or can be expected to be realized within a reasonable time). If the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology have materially changed, an updated business plan and economic analysis may need to be submitted to establish eligibility.

If the job creation estimated in the business plan and economic analysis will not be realized, then it will be the responsibility of the EB-5 investor to notify USCIS of an agreed upon methodology to allocate job creation among eligible investors.

V. Guidelines for Filing Form I-526 Petitions based on the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is affiliated with the Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC, in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual immigrant investor petition, shall also contain the following:

(b)(4)

[5] The reliability of job creation estimates provided by an economic analysis is dependent upon the validity of the information and assumptions that form the basis for the analysis. Please be advised that the number of projected jobs were revised lower due to the reduction of [redacted] (Economic Analysis 02/11/2012 with Supplement Dated 12/12/2012 & 08/13/2013, GTA Inc. proforma financial statements Dated 01/27/2012) to [redacted] as documented in the Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013.

[6] Job Creation as a result of this Amendment to include the Series A-2 Preferred Shares offering.

1. A copy of this regional center approval notice and designation letter including all subsequent amendment approval letters (if applicable).

2. An economic impact analysis which reflects a job creation methodology required at 8 CFR § 204.6(j)(4)(iii) and shows how the capital investment by the individual immigrant investor will more likely than not create ten (10) jobs.

3. A comprehensive, detailed and credible business plan for an actual project that contains the factual details necessary to be in compliance with the requirements described in Matter of Ho.

4. Legally executed organizational documents of the commercial enterprise. The documents may be the same documents noted in Section III of this approval notice.

5. If the project timeline has changed significantly from the original business plan, a narrative that explains the changes in the project timeline, along with a timeline that realistically reflects the status of the project should be submitted.

VI. Designee's Responsibilities in the Operations of the Regional Center

As provided in 8 CFR § 204.6(m)(6), to ensure that the regional center continues to meet the requirements of section 610(a) of the Appropriations Act, a regional center must provide USCIS with updated information to demonstrate the regional center is continuing to promote economic growth, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment in the approved geographic area. Such information must be submitted to USCIS on an annual basis or as otherwise requested by USCIS. The applicant must monitor all investment activities under the sponsorship of the regional center and to maintain records in order to provide the information required on the Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924. Form I-924A is available in the "Forms" section on the USCIS website at www.uscis.gov.

Regional centers that remain designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as of September 30th of a calendar year are required to file Form I-924A in that year. The Form I-924A with the required supporting documentation must be filed on or before December 29th of the same calendar year.

The failure to timely file a Form I-924A for each fiscal year in which the regional center has been designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program will result in the issuance of an intent to terminate the participation of the regional center in the Immigrant Investor Program, which may ultimately result in the termination of the designation of the regional center.

The regional center designation is non-transferable.

VII. Legal Notice

This approval and designation of a Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Program does not constitute or imply an endorsement or recommendation by USCIS, the United States Government or any instrumentality thereof, of the investment opportunities, projects or other business activities related to or undertaken by such Regional Center. Except as expressly set forth in this approval and designation, USCIS has not reviewed any information provided in connection with or otherwise related to the Regional Center for compliance with relevant securities laws or any other laws unrelated to eligibility for designation as a Regional Center. Accordingly USCIS makes no determination or representation whatsoever regarding the compliance of either the Regional Center or associated New Commercial Enterprises with such laws.

Each Regional Center designated by USCIS must monitor and oversee all investment offerings and activities associated with, through or under the sponsorship of the Regional Center. The failure of an associated New Commercial Enterprise to comply with all laws and regulations related to such investment offerings and activities may result in the issuance by USCIS of a notice of intent to terminate the Regional Center designation.

If the applicant has any questions concerning the regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program, please contact USCIS by email at USCIS.ImmigrantInvestorProgram@uscis.dhs.gov.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Colucci

Re: Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924 FY 2011 Submission
Applicant: GULF COAST FUNDS MANAGEMENT, LLC

Dear Sir or Madam:

We respectfully submit the enclosed Form I-924A on behalf of Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC a USCIS designated Regional Center. The Gulf Coast Funds Management ("GCFM") was created (inter alia) for the intended purpose of establishing successive EB-5 Alien Entrepreneur investment projects, and managing these investment projects in conformance with 8 U.S.C. § 1153 (b)(5)(A)-(D), INA § 203 (b)(5)(A)-(D) of the Immigration and Nationality Act ("the Act") and the Pilot Program Law. USCIS approved GCFM's request for designation on August 18, 2008. Subsequently GCFM submitted requests for amendments, the most recent amendment being approved on July 13, 2009 to add two additional investment funds and the use of the IMPLAN economic methodologies for job creation.

In fiscal year 2011 two EB-5 pooled investment vehicles served as the new commercial enterprises operating under the GCFM Regional Center designation. Both funds invested all available EB-5 money into the job creating enterprise, GreenTech Automotive, Inc. (GTA) in Tunica, Mississippi. GTA is a development stage company established to design, develop and manufacture electric vehicles. The company is currently constructing an automobile manufacturing facility in Tunica, Mississippi.

In conjunction with the GCFM's reporting responsibilities, we submit the following documentation:

1. Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney, original.
2. Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924, original.
3. USCIS Regional Center Designation - most recent approval notification, copy.

Please do not hesitate to contact undersigned counsel a[redacted] with any questions.

RE: GULF COAST FUNDS MANAGEMENT REGIONAL CENTER, LLC
Form I-924A for FY 2011

Dear Sir or Madam:

This is a timely filed submission of the Form I-924A for Fiscal Year 2011 ending on September 30, 2011. As the enclosed information and documentation verifies, Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC ("GCFM") was designated by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) as a Regional Center to administer EB-5 compliant projects and investments.

In FY 2011, EB-5 investments were made in two different new commercial enterprises serving as vehicles for investment into a single job creating enterprise, GreenTech Automotive, Inc. (GTA), which is establishing a new automobile manufacturing plant in the Targeted Employment Area (TEA) of Tunica, Mississippi. GTA is a US-based automotive manufacturer dedicated to developing and producing environmentally-friendly, energy-efficient vehicles. GTA's core values encompass green technology, affordability, and job creation. GTA (formerly Hybrid Kinetic Automotive Corp.) was founded in 2009 and is now headed by accomplished entrepreneurs Terry McAuliffe and Charles Wang. Mr. McAuliffe, Chairman of GTA as well as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is recognized as one of America's leading political and business leaders. The two commercial enterprises investing into GTA are Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-1, LLC ("Fund A-1"), and Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-2, LLC ("Fund A-2").

GCFM is owned by the American Immigration Center, LLC, (AIC) a Virginia limited liability company. AIC is a single member LLC owned by Charles Wang. The day to day operations of GCFM are managed by a professional staff liaising with counsel, investors, and GTA. Anthony Rodham serves as President and Cheryl Wei as Manager. Also on staff is former USCIS employee Carol Williams. Greenberg Traurig, LLP was retained in 2011 to serve as counsel. Currently GCFM is managing the two funds that invest in the one job creating enterprise, GTA.

As part of our Regional Center compliance responsibilities and in an effort to ensure satisfaction of program requirements and investor objectives, GCFM internally manages all project monitoring and reporting activities including, but not limited to, collecting and maintaining information on financial and operational reporting, job creation confirmation, and investment processing and tracking. Our responsibilities specifically include reviewing the new commercial enterprise (NCE) where the funds are invested by the EB-5 applicant, as well as the job creating enterprise where the NCE invests EB-5 money.

The supplemental information provided below addresses the job creation and allocation methodologies applied to Fund A-1 and Fund A-2 investments.

I Employment Creation-Methodology

The relevant standard for job creation pursuant to Regional Center administration is identified at 8 C.F.R. §204.6(j)(4)(i)(B)(iii) which relates specifically to Regional Centers and notes that evidence of the creation of "full-time positions for not fewer than 10 persons either directly or indirectly . . . may be demonstrated by reasonable methodologies including those set in paragraph (m)(3) of this section." The referenced paragraph identifies the use of "economically or statistically valid forecasting tools, including, but not limited to feasibility studies . . . and/or multiplier tables."[1] Furthermore, the regulations note that an alien entrepreneur seeking an immigrant visa through an approved Regional Center may use "reasonable methodologies" that "may include multiplier tables . . . and other economically or statistically valid forecasting devices which indicate the likelihood that the business will result in increased employment" (emphasis added).[2]

[2] 8 C.F.R. §204.6(m)(7)(ii).

Job Creation Calculations and Methodology. According to the December 2011 FAQ, "in reporting statistics, USCIS estimates job creation (10 jobs per investor) based upon the number of Form I-829 petitions that were approved within the period of time under study." GCFM has chosen to adopt this timing approach to simplify our record keeping and data analysis required to be responsive to Part 3 of Form I-924A.

GCFM carefully tracks and records the allocation of the qualifying employment positions, as the management company, pursuant to its obligations noted on the original Operational Plan (previously provided to USCIS and updated in the 2009 Audit Reporting), notes GCFM's responsibilities for tracking the progress of the investment projects. For the A-1 and A-2 limited partners, the allocation of the jobs is assigned among the investors based on the date the USCIS "receipts" the I-526, Application for Alien Entrepreneur.

Direct job creation is evidenced by new jobs created by GTA which have stemmed from Fund A-1 and Fund A-2 investments and will be counted after the I-829 approval.

Fund A-1 and Fund A-2 were organized to attract up to [redacted] and were closed. The Funds were closed to investors prior to reaching a [redacted] person limit. The EB-5 investments were pooled, and then released pursuant to escrow agreements where applicable or pursuant to the Subscription Agreement into the job creating enterprise GTA. In exchange, GTA agreed to show actual and planned job positions created for each $500,000 investment received. The direct job creation is thus evidenced by the new jobs GTA creates stemming from the EB-5 funds invested through Fund A-1 and Fund A-2.

II Job Allocation Among EB-5 Investors

Accordingly, as of the time of the instant submission, [redacted] Fund A-1 investors and [redacted] Fund A-2 investors will require jobs to be created by GTA within the appropriate time frame in connection with their EB-5 investments into each respective fund. In its role as the Regional Center Manager, GCFM accords job allocation for each investor based on the date the I-526 is "receipted" by USCIS. As noted in the Management Agreement between GCFM and each Fund, GCFM is responsible for maintaining records and preparing reports required under the EB-5 regulatory framework. Pursuant to this designated function of the Management company, GCFM will allocate the direct jobs and appropriate indirect jobs for each investor based on the date USCIS receipts the Form I-526. If a Form I-526 is ultimately denied or withdrawn, the job will be placed back in the pool and allocated to the next investor in line.

III Conclusion

The job creating enterprise has made significant progress in moving forward with establishing a new automobile manufacturing plant in the TEA area of Tunica, Mississippi. The GTA project is economically significant to the region and meets the criteria set forth for the ongoing designation of GCFM as a Regional Center. The attached I-924A form provides the statistical data requested by the Service for reporting purposes. Re: Amendment to a Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program

BACKGROUND:

Pursuant to Section 610 of the Appropriations Act of 1993, on January 17, 2008, GCFM submitted a proposal for the designation of Gulf Coast Funds Management Regional Center which focuses on the entirety of the states of Mississippi and Louisiana. The industry focus is primarily as follows:

1. Shipbuilding,
2. Food Processing Plants, and
3. Manufacturing Plants.

The initial proposal contained the following evidence in support of its requested designation:

- A Job Creation Analysis and Econometric Model prepared by a professional economic analysis firm which specifically calculates but excludes construction jobs from the detailed prediction;
- A business plan reflecting the timing, scale and planned use of the alien investor capital;
- A Private Placement Memorandum;

The in oved by USCIS on August 18, 2008.

On M , its approved regional center requesting the estab ds. The amendment is approved. The separ below.

DO NOT SCAN

1. Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-1 (GCAIF A-1)

Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-1 entails the construction and subsequent operation of a manufacturing facility where hybrid automobiles will be designed and manufactured. The facility will consist of multiple buildings including a factory, machine shop, office building, museum and residential housing. When fully operational, the facility is expected to be able to produce up to one million vehicles per year.

2. Gulf Coast Fund I (GCF)

(b)(4)

Gulf Coast Fund I entails the construction and subsequent operation a shipyard in Houma, Louisiana where [redacted] in new ships will be built. The shipyard complex will consist of four buildings, an underground foundation, footings, drainage, utilities, electrical platforms, a parking lot, warehouse and a sewage plant.

DECISION:

Based on its review and analysis of your proposal, and of your response to the USCIS Request For Evidence to which you provided a satisfactory response, USCIS hereby approves and designates GCFM as a Regional Center within the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program to include two additional, separate capital investment funds. GCFM shall continue to have a geographic scope that includes the entire states of both Mississippi and Louisiana as a Regional Center.

FOCUS OF INVESTMENT ACTIVITY AND CAPITAL INVESTMENT THRESHOLD:

The USCIS-approved focus of the GCFM business plan and job creation analysis and multipliers is to generate immigrant investor capital into the following commercial enterprise activities within Mississippi and Louisiana:

1. Shipbuilding,
2. Food Processing Plants, and
3. Manufacturing Plants.

As such, aliens seeking immigrant visas through the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program may file individual petitions with USCIS for these commercial enterprises located within the GCFM area comprised of the states of Mississippi and Louisiana. The geographic focus of this area contains numerous High Unemployment Targeted Employment Areas (TEAs) as designated by the States of Mississippi and Louisiana and rural TEA's as defined in 8 CFR 204.6(e). Therefore, the minimum capital investment threshold for any individual immigrant investment into an approved commercial enterprise throughout the Regional Center shall be not less than $ 500,000 if inside a TEA, or $1,000,000 if outside a TEA.

EMPLOYMENT CREATION:

Alien entrepreneurs who file petitions for commercial enterprises located in the GCFM area must fulfill all of the requirements set forth in 8 CFR 204.6, except that the petition need not show that the new commercial enterprises created ten new jobs indirectly as a result of the alien entrepreneur's investment. This determination has been established by way of USCIS' acceptance of the final economic analysis that is contained as part of the approved GCFM proposal and its indirect job creation model and multipliers contained within the final approved GCFM application package. In addition, where job creation or preservation of existing jobs is claimed based on a multiplier rooted in underlying new "direct jobs" in support of an immigrant investor's individual I-526 petition affiliated with the GCFM, then:

- To be credited with projected creation of new "direct" jobs for "qualifying employees" upon filing the I-526 petition, then the petition must be supported by a comprehensive detailed business plan and supporting financial, marketing and related data and analysis providing a reasonable basis for projecting creation of any new direct jobs for "qualifying employees" to be achieved/realized within two years pursuant to 8 CFR 204.6(j)(4)(B).

An alien investor's I-829 petition to remove the conditions which was based on an I-526 petition approval that involved the creation of new direct jobs or the creation of new indirect jobs based on a multiplier tied to underlying new direct jobs needs to be properly supported by evidence of job creation. To support the full number of direct and indirect new jobs being claimed in connection with removal of conditions, the petition will need to be supported by probative evidence of the number of new direct full time (35 hours per week) jobs for qualified employees whose positions have been created as a result of the alien's investment. Such evidence may include copies of quarterly state employment tax reports, Forms W-2, Forms I-9, and any other pertinent employment records sufficient to demonstrate the number of qualified employees whose jobs were created directly.

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is associated with the GCFM , in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual alien entrepreneur petition, shall also contain as supporting evidence relating to this amended regional center designation, the following:

1. A copy of this letter for the GCFM amendment approval and designation.

2. A copy of the approved regional center narrative proposal and business plan.

3. A copy of the job creation methodology required in 8 CFR 204.6(j)(4)(iii), as contained in the regional center economic analysis which has been approved by USCIS, which reflects that investment by an individual alien investor of at least $500,000 into the Transit Village or any other similar project will create full-time employment positions, either directly or indirectly, for not fewer than ten qualified employees per alien investor.

4. A legally executed copy of:

    a. the Private Placement Memorandum;
    b. the Subscription Agreement; and
    c. the Operating Agreement.

DESIGNEE'S RESPONSIBILITIES INHERENT IN CONDUCT OF THE GCFM REGIONAL CENTER:

The law, as reflected in the regulations at 8 CFR 204.6(m)(6), requires that an approved regional center, in order to maintain the validity of its approval and designation, must continue to meet the statutory requirements of the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program by serving the purpose of promoting economic growth, including increased export sales (where applicable), improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment. Therefore, in order for USCIS to determine whether your regional center is in compliance with the above cited regulation, and in order to continue to operate as a USCIS approved and designated regional center, your administration, oversight, and management of your regional center shall be such as to monitor all investment activities under the sponsorship of your regional center and to maintain records, data and information on a quarterly basis in order to report to USCIS upon request the following year to date information for each Federal Fiscal Year[1], commencing with the initial year as follows:

[1] A Federal Fiscal Year runs for twelve consecutive months from October 1st to September 30th.

4. Be prepared to provide:

    a. the name, date of birth, petition receipt number, and alien registration number (if one has been assigned by USCIS) of each principal alien investor who has made an investment and has filed an EB-5/I-526 Petition with USCIS, specifying whether:

        ii. is pending,
        iii. was approved,
        iv. denied, or
        v. withdrawn by the petitioner, together with the date(s) of such event.

    c. The country of nationality of each alien investor who has made an investment and filed an EB-5/I-526 petition with USCIS.

    d. The U.S. city and state of residence (or intended residence) of each alien investor who has made an investment and filed an EB-5/I-526 petition with USCIS.

    e. For each alien investor listed in item 4.a., above, identify the following:

        i. the date(s) of investment in the commercial enterprise;

        iii. the date(s), nature, and amount(s) of any payment/remuneration/profit/return on investment made to the alien investor by the commercial enterprise and/or regional center from when the investment was initiated to the present.

5. Be prepared to identify/list each of the target industry categories of business activity within the geographic boundaries of your regional center that have:

    a. received alien investors' capital, and in what aggregate amounts;

    b. received non-EB-5 domestic capital that has been combined and invested together, specifying the separate aggregate amounts of the domestic investment capital;

    c. of the total investor capital (alien and domestic) identified above in 5.a and 5.b, identify and list the following:
        i. The name and address of each "direct" job creating commercial enterprise.
        ii. The industry category for each indirect job creating investment activity.

6. Be prepared to provide:

    a. The total aggregate number of approved EB-5 alien investor I-526 petitions per each Federal Fiscal Year to date made through your regional center.

    b. The total aggregate number of approved EB-5 alien investor I-829 petitions per each Federal Fiscal Year to date through your regional center.

7. The total aggregate sum of EB-5 alien capital invested through your regional center for each Federal Fiscal Year to date since your approval and designation.

9. If applicable, the total aggregate of "preserved" or saved jobs by EB-5 alien investors into troubled businesses through your regional center for each Federal Fiscal Year to date since your approval and designation.

10. If for any given Federal Fiscal Year your regional center did or does not have investors to report, then provide:

    a. a detailed written explanation for the inactivity,

    b. a specific plan which specifies the budget, timelines, milestones and critical steps to:

        i. actively promote your regional center program,

        ii. identify and recruit legitimate and viable alien investors, and

        iii. a strategy to invest into job creating enterprises and/or investment activities within the regional center.

11. Regarding your website, if any, please be prepared to provide a hard copy which represents fully what your regional center has posted on its website, as well as providing your web address. Additionally, please provide a packet containing all of your regional center's hard copy promotional materials such as brochures, flyers, press articles, advertisements, etc.

The requested amendment identifies the new commercial enterprise ("NCE") of the proposed project as GreenTech Automotive Inc., which was formed in the State of Mississippi on July 19, 2012. The GreenTech Automotive Inc. project is located at 1323 US Highway 61 in the City of Tunica, Mississippi. One hundred EB-5 investors will subscribe to the NCE as preferred shareholders in exchange for capital contributions of $500,000 each and an aggregate of [redacted] (b)(4)

The NCE will contribute the [redacted] of EB-5 capital as an equity investment. The EB-5 capital proceeds will be used to own and operate an automotive manufacturing facility in Tunica, Mississippi. The NCE will manufacture the MyCar, a two-seat electric vehicle with a 25 to 115 mile range between charges, depending on the battery type and size selected by the customer. A. Job Creation

The job creation methodology presented in the economic impact analysis and underlying business plan is found to be reasonable based on the following inputs, when applying the IMPLAN economic model:

NAICS/ IMPLAN	Industry Name	Input	Multiplier	Jobs
336111/ 276	Operations of Manufacturing facility	[redacted]
3363/283	Parts manufacturing (outside new facility)
			Total Jobs:	[redacted]

The approval of this Form I-924 application and actual project supported by an exemplar Form I-526 petition is based upon the assumptions and estimates used as inputs in the business plan for job creation. Please refer to the input and multiplier analysis table above.

When an actual project is specifically named in this notice and the critical inputs remain materially unchanged, USCIS will give deference to the job creation methodology when adjudicating Forms I-526 associated with the named project. The business plan and economic impact analysis indicate that the battery will be manufactured in the U.S. Evidence must be submitted at the Form I-829 level that establishes that the vehicle's battery was manufactured in the U.S. The same business plan and the same reasonable job creation methodology and projected inputs must be submitted when the individual investor's Form I-526 is filed in order to receive deference.

V. Guidelines for Filing Form I-526 Petitions based on GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is affiliated with the Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC, in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual immigrant investor petition, shall also contain the following:

1. A copy of this regional center approval notice and designation letter including all subsequent amendment approval letters (if applicable).

2. An economic impact analysis which reflects a job creation methodology required at 8 CFR § 204.6 (j)(4)(iii) and shows how the capital investment by an individual immigrant investor will create not fewer than ten (10) indirect jobs for each immigrant investor.

3. A comprehensive, detailed and credible business plan for an actual project that contains the factual details necessary to be in compliance with the requirements described in Matter of Ho, 22 I&N Dec. 206 (Assoc. Comm'r 1998).

4. Legally executed organizational documents of the commercial enterprise. The documents may be the same documents noted in Section IV of this approval notice.

Note: If the project timeline has changed significantly from the original business plan, a narrative that explains the changes in the project timeline, along with a timeline that realistically reflects the status of the project should be submitted.

VI. Designee's Responsibilities in the Operations of the Regional Center

As provided in 8 CFR § 204.6 (m)(6), to ensure that the regional center continues to meet the requirements of section 610(a) of the Appropriations Act, a regional center must provide USCIS with updated information to demonstrate the regional center is continuing to promote economic growth, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment in the approved geographic area. Such information must be submitted to USCIS on an annual basis or as otherwise requested by USCIS. The applicant must monitor all investment activities under the sponsorship of the regional center and maintain records in order to provide the information required on the Form I-924A Supplement to Form I-924. Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924 Application is available in the "Forms" section on the USCIS website at www.uscis.gov.

Regional centers that remain designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as of September 30th of a calendar year are required to file Form I-924A Supplement in that year. The Form I-924A Supplement with the required supporting documentation must be filed on or before December 29th of the same calendar year.

The failure to timely file a Form I-924A Supplement for each fiscal year in which the regional center has been designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program will result in the issuance of an intent to terminate the participation of the regional center in the Immigrant Investor Program, which may ultimately result in the termination of the designation of the regional center.

The regional center designation is non-transferable, as any changes in management of the regional center will require the approval of an amendment to the approved regional center designation.

If the applicant has any questions concerning the regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program, please contact the USCIS by email at USCIS.ImmigrantInvestorProgram@uscis.dhs.gov.

LEGAL NOTICE:

This approval under the Immigrant Investor Program does not constitute or imply an endorsement or recommendation by USCIS, the United States Government or any instrumentality thereof, of the investment opportunities, projects or other business activities related to or undertaken by such Regional Center. Except as expressly set forth in this approval and designation, USCIS has not reviewed any information provided in connection with or otherwise related to the Regional Center for compliance with relevant securities laws or any other laws unrelated to eligibility for designation as a Regional Center. Accordingly USCIS makes no determination or representation whatsoever regarding the compliance of either the Regional Center or associated New Commercial Enterprises with such laws.

Each Regional Center designated by USCIS must monitor and oversee all investment offerings and activities associated with, through or under the sponsorship of the Regional Center. The failure of an associated New Commercial Enterprise to comply with all laws and regulations related to such investment offerings and activities may result in the issuance by USCIS of a notice of intent to terminate the Regional Center designation.

The applicant's economic analysis and underlying business plan have changed as follows:

Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC may use the IMPLAN economic model to establish indirect job creation.

IV. The Project

Effective the date of this notice, USCIS approves the applicant's amendment request to include the following actual capital investment project supported by an exemplar Form I-526 Petition.

Project	Type of Project	Organization Documents	Date of Document
GreenTech Automotive Inc. Geographic Location: 1323 US Highway 61, Tunica, MS Focus of Investment: Equity Investment	Actual Project supported by an Exemplar Form I-526 Petition	Business Plan	Dated 07/19/2012
		Economic Analysis	Dated 02/11/2012 with Supplement dated 12/12/2012
		Confidential Private Placement Memorandum	03/12/2013
		Subscription Agreement	Submitted 09/27/2013

Note: If changes to this project and its supporting documents are found in subsequent Form I-526 or Form I-829 petitions, USCIS will review the supporting documents once more to ensure compliance with EB-5 program requirements.

The requested amendment identifies the new commercial enterprise ("NCE") of the proposed project as GreenTech Automotive Inc., which was formed in the State of Mississippi on July 19, 2012. The GreenTech Automotive Inc. project is located at 1323 US Highway 61 in the City of Tunica, Mississippi. One hundred EB-5 investors will subscribe to the NCE as preferred shareholders in exchange for capital (b)(4) contributions of $500,000 each and an aggregate of [redacted]

The NCE will contribute the [redacted] of EB-5 capital as an equity investment. The EB-5 capital proceeds will be used to own and operate an automotive manufacturing facility in Tunica, Mississippi. The NCE will manufacture the MyCar, a two-seat electric vehicle with a 25 to 115 mile range between charges, depending on the battery type and size selected by the customer. The projected total cost of the project is [redacted] The operation at the manufacturing auto plant is expected to be on-going and job creation will occur over the next five years and will generate approximately [redacted] jobs.

(b)(4)

A. Job Creation

The job creation methodology presented in the economic impact analysis and underlying business plan is found to be reasonable based on the following inputs, when applying the IMPLAN economic model:

NAICS/ IMPLAN	Industry Name	Input	Multiplier	Jobs
336111/276	Operations of Manufacturing facility	[redacted]
3363/283	Parts manufacturing (outside new facility)
			Total Jobs:	[redacted]

The approval of this Form I-924 application and actual project supported by an exemplar Form I-526 petition is based upon the assumptions and estimates used as inputs in the business plan for job creation. Please refer to the input and multiplier analysis table above.

When an actual project is specifically named in this notice and the critical inputs remain materially unchanged, USCIS will give deference to the job creation methodology when adjudicating Forms I-526 associated with the named project. The business plan and economic impact analysis indicate that the battery will be manufactured in the U.S. Evidence must be submitted at the Form I-829 level that establishes that the vehicle's battery was manufactured in the U.S. The same business plan and the same reasonable job creation methodology and projected inputs must be submitted when the individual investor's Form I-526 is filed in order to receive deference.

V. Guidelines for Filing Form I-526 Petitions based on GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is affiliated with the Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC, in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual immigrant investor petition, shall also contain the following:

1. A copy of this regional center approval notice and designation letter including all subsequent amendment approval letters (if applicable).

2. An economic impact analysis which reflects a job creation methodology required at 8 CFR § 204.6 (j)(4)(iii) and shows how the capital investment by an individual immigrant investor will create not fewer than ten (10) indirect jobs for each immigrant investor.

3. A comprehensive, detailed and credible business plan for an actual project that contains the factual details necessary to be in compliance with the requirements described in Matter of Ho, 22 I&N Dec. 206 (Assoc. Comm'r 1998).

4. Legally executed organizational documents of the commercial enterprise. The documents may be the same documents noted in Section IV of this approval notice.

Note: If the project timeline has changed significantly from the original business plan, a narrative that explains the changes in the project timeline, along with a timeline that realistically reflects the status of the project should be submitted.

VI. Designee's Responsibilities in the Operations of the Regional Center

As provided in 8 CFR § 204.6 (m)(6), to ensure that the regional center continues to meet the requirements of section 610(a) of the Appropriations Act, a regional center must provide USCIS with updated information to demonstrate the regional center is continuing to promote economic growth, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment in the approved geographic area. Such information must be submitted to USCIS on an annual basis or as otherwise requested by USCIS. The applicant must monitor all investment activities under the sponsorship of the regional center and maintain records in order to provide the information required on the Form I-924A Supplement to Form I-924. Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924 Application is available in the "Forms" section on the USCIS website at www.uscis.gov.

Regional centers that remain designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as of September 30th of a calendar year are required to file Form I-924A Supplement in that year. The Form I-924A Supplement with the required supporting documentation must be filed on or before December 29th of the same calendar year.

The failure to timely file a Form I-924A Supplement for each fiscal year in which the regional center has been designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program will result in the issuance of an intent to terminate the participation of the regional center in the Immigrant Investor Program, which may ultimately result in the termination of the designation of the regional center.

The regional center designation is non-transferable, as any changes in management of the regional center will require the approval of an amendment to the approved regional center designation.

If the applicant has any questions concerning the regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program, please contact the USCIS by email at USCIS.ImmigrantInvestorProgram@uscis.dhs.gov.

LEGAL NOTICE:

This approval under the Immigrant Investor Program does not constitute or imply an endorsement or recommendation by USCIS, the United States Government or any instrumentality thereof, of the investment opportunities, projects or other business activities related to or undertaken by such Regional Center. Except as expressly set forth in this approval and designation, USCIS has not reviewed any information provided in connection with or otherwise related to the Regional Center for compliance with relevant securities laws or any other laws unrelated to eligibility for designation as a Regional Center. Accordingly USCIS makes no determination or representation whatsoever regarding the compliance of either the Regional Center or associated New Commercial Enterprises with such laws.

Each Regional Center designated by USCIS must monitor and oversee all investment offerings and activities associated with, through or under the sponsorship of the Regional Center. The failure of an associated New Commercial Enterprise to comply with all laws and regulations related to such investment offerings and activities may result in the issuance by USCIS of a notice of intent to terminate the Regional Center designation.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Colucci

PART VI: OTHER BUSINESS PLAN FACTORS

(b)(5)

[2] 8 C.F.R. §.204.6(m)(3)(i)-(v). A regional center that wants to participate in the Immigrant Investor Program must submit a proposal using Form I-924, that: (1) Clearly describes how the regional center focuses on a geographical region of the United States, and how it will promote economic growth through increased export sales, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment; (2) Provides in verifiable detail how jobs will be created directly or indirectly; (3) Provides a detailed statement regarding the amount and source of capital which has been committed to the regional center, as well as a description of the promotional efforts taken and planned by the sponsors of the regional center; (4) Contains a detailed prediction regarding the manner in which the regional center will have a positive impact on the regional or national economy in general as reflected by such factors as increased household earnings, greater demand for business services, utilities, maintenance and repair, and construction both within and without the regional center; and, (5) Is supported by economically or statistically sound valid forecasting tools, including, but not limited to, feasibility studies, analyses of foreign and domestic markets for the goods or services to be exported, and/or multiplier tables.

DUE DILIGENCE SUMMARY

Prepared by: EC0001 Date: 3/20/2014

(b)(5)

PART VII: ADDITIONAL ISSUES /CONCERNS

[i] The level of verifiable detail required for a Form I-924 to be approved and provided deference may vary depending on the nature of the Form I-924 filing. If the Form I-924 projects are "hypothetical" projects,2 general proposals and general predictions may be sufficient to determine that the proposed regional center will more likely than not promote economic growth, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment. Determinations based on hypothetical projects, however, will not receive deference and the actual projects on which the Form I-526 petitions will be based will receive de novo review during the subsequent filing (e.g., an amended Form I-924 application including the actual project details or the first Form I-526 petition filed by an investor under the regional center project). Organizational and transactional documents submitted with a Form I-924 hypothetical project will not be reviewed to determine compliance with program requirements since these documents will receive de novo review in subsequent filings. If an applicant desires review of organizational and transactional documents for program compliance, a Form I-924 application with a Form I-526 exemplar should be submitted.

[ii] Our AAO precedent decision has articulated the standards by which USCIS will review a business plan:

The plan should contain a market analysis, including the names of competing businesses and their relative strengths and weaknesses, a comparison of the competition's products and pricing structures, and a description of the target market/prospective customers of the new commercial enterprise. The plan should list the required permits and licenses obtained. If applicable, it should describe the manufacturing or production process, the materials required, and the supply sources. The plan should detail any contracts executed for the supply of materials and/or the distribution of products. It should discuss the marketing strategy of the business, including pricing, advertising, and servicing. The plan should set forth the business's organizational structure and its personnel's experience. It should explain the business's staffing requirements and contain a timetable for hiring, as well as job descriptions for all positions. It should contain sales, cost, and income projections and detail the bases therefore. Most importantly, the business plan must be credible. Matter of Ho, 22 I&N Dec. at 213. USCIS will review the business plan in its totality to determine if it is more likely than not that the business plan is comprehensive and credible. A business plan is not required to contain all of the detailed elements described above, but the more details the business plan contains, as described in Matter of Ho, the more likely it is that the plan will be considered comprehensive and credible.

GreenTech Automotive, a U.S. automotive manufacturer dedicated to developing and producing environmentally friendly, energy-efficient vehicles, began construction on its new production facility in Tunica, Mississippi.

GTA currently operates a pilot manufacturing facility in Horn Lake, Mississippi, where it builds MyCar, a two-seat Neighborhood Electric Vehicle, and GTA's new four door, All-Electric Sedan. Both vehicles produce zero emissions, provide segment leading range per charge and can be recharged via a common 110V wall outlet, a 220V wall outlet or fast charging stations.

"GTA's permanent manufacturing home in Tunica has been taking shape on the ground level for several months now, and we're looking forward to seeing the structure itself rise up in the coming weeks," said Charles Wang, Chairman and CEO of GTA. "As GTA continues to make significant progress toward our engineering, production and hiring goals, we're eager to move into the new facility when construction is complete this spring."

The firm said structural steel work began January 6 and will continue through mid-February. Exterior walls will go up beginning in early February. Forcum Lannom Contractors is overseeing the construction.

Form I-924 EB-5 Exemplar Filing/Regional Center Amendment
Regional Center – Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC ("GCFM")
Investment Project – GreenTech Automotive Inc. ("GTA")
Exemplar – GTA Series A-2 Preferred Shares ("Series A-2")
Exemplar Approval Date - February 12, 2014

Dear Madam or Sir:

Thank you for your February 12, 2014, decision approving the Series A-2 exemplar, a copy of which is enclosed. We respectfully request your assistance to reissue that decision with corrections to certain factual mistatements made when the officer prepared the decision.

I am the attorney of record and my G-28 is already on file for this client.

The exemplar portion of the decision begins on page 3 and is labeled "IV. The Project." The decision correctly identifies all of the exemplar documents and dates exactly with what was submitted. There is no problem there.

The problem arises on two paragraphs on page 4. There the decision states values for the number of investors and EB-5 capital that is incorrect. The decision should have used the same numbers that were used in the Business Plan, Econonic Analysis, and Confidential Private Placement Memorandum that are listed as part of the exemplar.

Here is the exact text from the approval decision on page 4, with my suggested changes so that the decision will use the exact same numbers that were used in the USCIS-approved exemplar documents:

(b)(4)

The requested amendment identifies the new commercial enterprise ("NCE") of the proposed project as GreenTech Automotive Inc., which was formed in the State of Mississippi on July 19, 2012. The GreenTech Automotive Inc. project is located at 1323 US Highway 61 in the City of Tunica, Mississippi. [redacted] EB-5 investors will subscribe to the NCE as limited partners in exchange for capital contributions of $500,000 each and an aggregate of [redacted]

The ~~NCE~~ EB-5 investors will directly contribute the [redacted] of EB-5 capital as an equity investment. The EB-5 capital proceeds will be used to own and operate an automotive manufacturing facility in Tunica, Mississippi. The NCE will manufacture the MyCar, a two-seat electric vehicle with a 25 to 115 mile range between charges, depending on the battery type and size selected by the customer. ~~The projected total cost of the project is~~ [redacted] The operation at the manufacturing auto plant is expected to be on-going and job creation will occur over the next five years and will generate approximately [redacted] jobs.

We believe that these corrections are important. Individual investors and their advisors rely on USCIS exemplar approval decisions as part of their due diligence before making investment. USCIS adjudicators rely on exemplar approval decisions as well to facilitate more efficient adjudication. We are very concerned that the errors in the February 12 approval will detrimentally impact investors, their advisors, and possible USCIS adjudicators.

Further, we respectfully request your immediate attention to this. We appreciate how busy your office is and understand that every project is vying for your limited resources. Our client waited for many months for this approval decision. The requested correction is minor and should not take much time for your staff. The correction will help us to raise the business investment needed to create jobs for American workers.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if there are any questions. I look forward to your quick reply.

Sincerely,

Dentons US LLP

The approval of this Form I-924 application and actual project supported by an exemplar Form I-526 petition is based upon the assumptions and estimates used as inputs in the business plan for job creation. Please refer to the input and multiplier analysis table above.

When an actual project is specifically named in this notice and the critical inputs remain materially unchanged, USCIS will give deference to the job creation methodology when adjudicating Forms I-526 associated with the named project. The same business plan and the same reasonable job creation methodology and projected inputs must be submitted when the individual investor's Form I-526 is filed in order to receive deference.

V. Guidelines for Filing Form I-526 Petitions based on GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is affiliated with the Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC, in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual immigrant investor petition, shall also contain the following:

1. A copy of this regional center approval notice and designation letter including all subsequent amendment approval letters (if applicable).

2. An economic impact analysis which reflects a job creation methodology required at 8 CFR § 204.6 (j)(4)(iii) and shows how the capital investment by an individual immigrant investor will create not fewer than ten (10) indirect jobs for each immigrant investor.

3. A comprehensive, detailed and credible business plan for an actual project that contains the factual details necessary to be in compliance with the requirements described in Matter of Ho, 22 I&N Dec. 206 (Assoc. Comm'r 1998).

4. Legally executed organizational documents of the commercial enterprise. The documents may be the same documents noted in Section IV of this approval notice.

Note: If the project timeline has changed significantly from the original business plan, a narrative that explains the changes in the project timeline, along with a timeline that realistically reflects the status of the project should be submitted.

VI. Designee's Responsibilities in the Operations of the Regional Center

As provided in 8 CFR § 204.6 (m)(6), to ensure that the regional center continues to meet the requirements of section 610(a) of the Appropriations Act, a regional center must provide USCIS with updated information to demonstrate the regional center is continuing to promote economic growth, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment in the approved geographic area. Such information must be submitted to USCIS on an annual basis or as otherwise requested by USCIS. The applicant must monitor all investment activities under the sponsorship of the regional center and maintain records in order to provide the information required on the Form I-924A Supplement to Form I-924. Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924 Application is available in the "Forms" section on the USCIS website at www.uscis.gov.

Regional centers that remain designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as of September 30th of a calendar year are required to file Form I-924A Supplement in that year. The Form I-924A Supplement with the required supporting documentation must be filed on or before December 29th of the same calendar year.

The failure to timely file a Form I-924A Supplement for each fiscal year in which the regional center has been designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program will result in the issuance of an intent to terminate the participation of the regional center in the Immigrant Investor Program, which may ultimately result in the termination of the designation of the regional center.

The regional center designation is non-transferable, as any changes in management of the regional center will require the approval of an amendment to the approved regional center designation.

If the applicant has any questions concerning the regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program, please contact the USCIS by email at USCIS.ImmigrantInvestorProgram@uscis.dhs.gov.

LEGAL NOTICE:

This approval under the Immigrant Investor Program does not constitute or imply an endorsement or recommendation by USCIS, the United States Government or any instrumentality thereof, of the investment opportunities, projects or other business activities related to or undertaken by such Regional Center. Except as expressly set forth in this approval and designation, USCIS has not reviewed any information provided in connection with or otherwise related to the Regional Center for compliance with relevant securities laws or any other laws unrelated to eligibility for designation as a Regional Center. Accordingly USCIS makes no determination or representation whatsoever regarding the compliance of either the Regional Center or associated New Commercial Enterprises with such laws.

Each Regional Center designated by USCIS must monitor and oversee all investment offerings and activities associated with, through or under the sponsorship of the Regional Center. The failure of an associated New Commercial Enterprise to comply with all laws and regulations related to such investment offerings and activities may result in the issuance by USCIS of a notice of intent to terminate the Regional Center designation.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Colucci

Dear Immigrant Investor Program Adjudicator:

Thank you very much for your attention to this. We appreciate it.

Incidentally, the President of the investment project pointed out another error. As you can see from the supporting documents in the approved exemplar, th[redacted] EB-5 investors will be "preferred shareholders" of the NCE, not "limited partners" as misstated in the exemplar approval decision in the same paragraph where the investor count will be corrected.

I appreciate your attention to this. (b)(4)

Incidentally, thank you for yesterday's stakeholders' meeting. There was helpful information for all of us.

Regards,

Matt

GreenTech Automotive, Electric Car Company, Now Under Federal Investigation After Big Plans

By HOLBROOK MOHR and MITCH WEISS 08/12/13 12:43 PM ET EDT AP

TUNICA, Miss. -- It seemed like a win for everyone involved when a startup car company, backed by political heavyweights, wooed investors with plans to build a massive auto plant in the Mississippi Delta, hire thousands of people and pump out a brand new line of fuel-efficient vehicles.

GreenTech Automotive Inc. announced in 2009 production would start in three years and foreign investors who plunked down at least $500,000 for the venture would get the opportunity to live in the United States while an impoverished area of Mississippi would get desperately needed jobs and tax revenues.

But today, the company is under a federal investigation and about the only thing on its land in Tunica County is a temporary construction office. The company says it will be producing cars by April, but its plans have changed drastically, from a goal of 250,000 a year to 30,000.

And the federal investigation is reverberating far beyond Mississippi, bringing scrutiny to a Virginia gubernatorial candidate and the company run by the brother of former Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton.

"Back in 2009, it was a big deal," said 21-year-old casino employee Perry Turner, who lives across the highway from GreenTech's mostly empty site in rural Tunica County. "I haven't heard much else about it."

Some analysts say it was a risky business plan and foreign investors may have been more interested in an easy way to get a visa than trying to support a venture that had a good chance to turn a profit or create jobs.

In October 2009, GreenTech's owner, Chinese businessman Xiaolin "Charles" Wang, unveiled four prototype cars during a flashy ceremony and promised to build a $2 billon plant in the heart of the Mississippi Delta.

Besides backing from foreign investors, some 100 acres were donated by Tunica County's economic development foundation, at a cost of $1.8 million, and in 2011 the state gave a $3 million loan toward site preparation. For a time, the company's chairman was politically connected heavyweight Terry McAuliffe, a close adviser to both former President Bill Clinton and his wife, a former Democratic national chairman. McAuliffe is now a contender for Virginia governor.

The cars were supposed to start rolling off the assembly line in 2012. The company now hopes to start producing cars next year. And while they say they still plan to build a plant in Tunica County, all that was on the land on a recent afternoon was a construction trailer, a few pieces of equipment and a few workers strolling around.

The company instead now uses a former elevator factory 30 miles away in Horn Lake. A McAuliffe spokesman said about 100 small electric vehicles were built by the time McAuliffe resigned from the company in December 2012. But in an email Monday, Marianne McInerney, GreenTech's vice president of sales and marketing, disputed that figure. She said the company does not release production numbers.

"It takes time to build a brand new company in a capital-intensive industry like electric vehicles, and we will not cut corners on quality or safety as we progress. We have a plan. The plan is working. We're sticking to it," GreenTech said in a statement.

The company said it has more than 100 workers and "once production is ramped up" should employ at least 350 – the same number of jobs required under the state loan agreement.

Jeff Rent, a spokesman for the Mississippi Development Authority, said the company has assured the agency they're on track to meet hiring goals.

Industry analysts say the company faces hurdles to succeed.

"A brand-new electric car company without an established U.S. partner, or global partner, is a lofty goal," said Joe McCabe, president of AutomotiveCompass, which forecasts global vehicle and power train production. "They're one of several other electric manufacturing startups entering a tough market. They have to come with something better to the game, not just an also-ran."

Other analysts say GreenTech exposes problems with a program used to attract foreign investors – known as the EB-5 visa program.

David North, a fellow with the Center for Immigration Studies, a nonprofit based in Washington, D.C., that examines immigration policies, said the foreign investors in the EB-5 program are primarily motivated by a desire to get green cards for them and their families, not to find lucrative propositions.

"So this EB-5 program by its very nature is often linked to second- and third-class investments," he said.

Under the EB-5 visa program, foreigners can invest $500,000 or $1 million in American business ventures depending on the location of the project. In GreenTech's case, the program called for $500,000 investments.

The EB-5 program is capped at 10,000 investors a year, and had 6,106 applicants in 2012.

Under the rules of the program, each EB-5 investment must create at least 10 jobs. In exchange, the foreign investors and their families get to stay in the United States for up to two years and can then apply for permanent legal residency, allowing them to permanently live and work in the country.

The federal U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services' Immigrant Investor Program also designates so-called "regional centers," companies that have authorization to handle the company's EB-5 investments – and can collect thousands of dollars in fees from foreign investors to process their visa applications.

In this case, Gulf Coast Funds Management – a company headed by Tony Rodham, Hillary Clinton's brother – is the designated "regional center" and has raised $45.5 million from foreign investors for GreenTech, according to an internal immigration services document obtained by The Associated Press that outlines background information about the firm. Rodham has not responded to phone messages at Gulf Coast Funds or a message sent to an email address listed in government reports submitted to the government.

Hybrid Kinetic Motors, a predecessor to GreenTech, paid Gulf Coast $250,000 for assistance in setting up the EB-5 program, according to a lawsuit between Wang and his former partner. Regional centers collect additional fees for processing the investments.

Of GreenTech's 91 foreign investors, only one has received permanent residency status, according to an internal immigration services document obtained by the AP that outlines background information about the firm; the name of the investor was not disclosed.

Simone Williams of GreenTech said "every one of our first two rounds of EB-5 investors was approved and their investment was released to GreenTech Automotive." But she did not provide the number of investors.

She said the government's pace in approving foreign investors has slowed down plans to start construction at its Tunica County facility.

Christopher Bentley, spokesman for immigration services, said in an email he couldn't comment on details on the plans by GreenTech and Gulf Coast Funds.

In May, the SEC subpoenaed unspecified documents from GreenTech and banking records from Gulf Coast, according to nearly 100 pages of documents recently released by Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa.

The documents indicate that GreenTech allegedly improperly guaranteed investors returns on their money. GreenTech has acknowledged receiving the subpoenas and said the company is cooperating with investigators.

"We are confident that we have strictly adhered to all statutory and regulatory requirements, and have always had open communications with our industry's regulators," GreenTech said in a news release Monday.

The Department of Homeland Security inspector general also is investigating allegations that USCIS director Alejandro Mayorkas_ President Barack Obama's pick for the No. 2 slot at DHS – used his influence to help Gulf Coast obtain a foreign investor visa for a Chinese executive.

Since the 2009 groundbreaking, GreenTech has changed its business plan. Instead of producing versions of the four prototypes it showcased then, including hybrid cars, it now says its plant, when built, will have the capacity to make 30,000 electric vehicles each year, including a sedan and small electric vehicles known as MyCars. It now aims to have the first ones rolling off the line in Tunica by April.

In the meantime, GreenTech has been using space at an old elevator factory in Horn Lake, Miss., where the company says it's building MyCars, neighborhood electric cars that are a cross between a golf cart and a full-sized vehicle. It's not clear how many of the MyCars – which are not legal to drive on U.S. highways – have been sold.

GreenTech recently declined an AP request to tour the Horn Lake facility. The company won't say how many MyCars it has produced or sold, but says it has "international distribution agreements for 30,000 vehicles over the next three years."

Local officials haven't lost hope it will all still happen as advertised.

"I still look at this as an ongoing economic development project," said Lyn Arnold, president and CEO of the Tunica County Chamber of Commerce.

Some residents are ready to see results, like 33-year-old waitress Shaquita Pickett, who said a car plant would be a big boost for the county.

"We really do need one here because we need better jobs," she said.

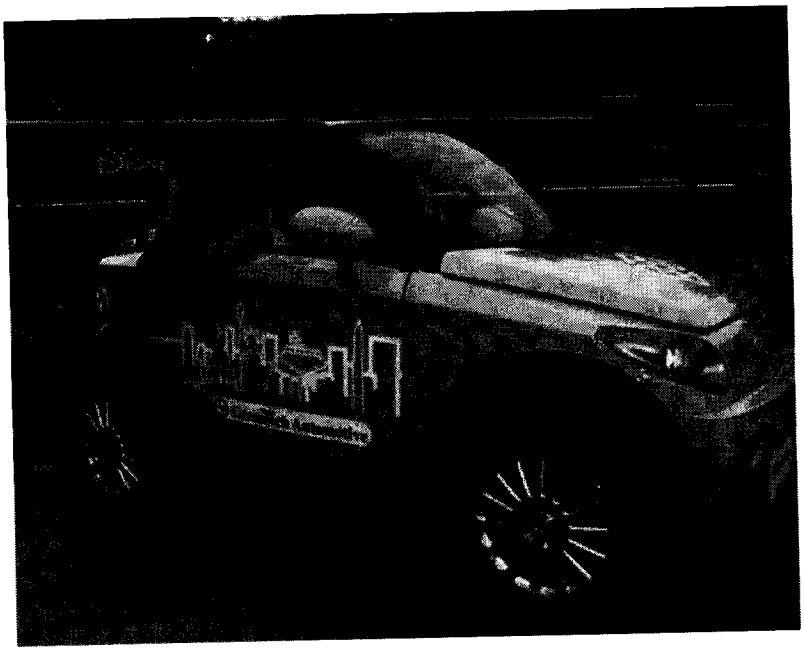
Virginia Governor Dem Candidate Terry McAuliffe's GreenTech Auto: small eco-car, big green scam?

- Posted by Christine Lakatos on September 29, 2013 at 6:30pm
- View Blog



Did you know that that there's a competitive and contentious governor race going on in Virginia? The two contenders: the state Attorney General Republican Ken Cuccinelli vs. Democrat Terry McAuliffe, "whose controversial business dealings and past life as a party moneyman make him a walking negative ad," wrote POLITICO this month.

McAuliffe, with a modest lead, Wednesday night during a crucial debate in Northern Virginia each "cast the other as unfit for office, untrustworthy and wrong for the commonwealth," noted the Washington Post.

Blows were thrown, with McAuliffe attempting to cast Cuccinelli as a "right-winger," and Cuccinelli landing a right hook: "If Terry's elected governor, we're gonna have to change the state motto from 'Sic Semper Tyrannis' to 'Quid Pro Quo.'" Still, most of the headlines portrayed this debate as uneventful, and there was very little "pounding McAuliffe over transgressions such as the current federal investigation of a "green car" company that the Democrat founded" — the focus of today's Green Corruption File.

While this battle will end in just over a month, the controversy surrounding the "green car" in question won't, and it serves as another example of how green energy has been hijacked and deceptively used. Even Kimberly Strassel of the Wall Street Journal, a while back had this to say, "Green crony capitalism is proving to be one of the more politically toxic stories of our time…"

This green energy story has connections all the way from the Clinton's to the Obama White House, as well as other interesting ties, including a Republican governor, and plenty of taxpayer subsidies. Worse, besides "Chinese capitalism" at the helm, political influence, and a flop to boot, it involves exaggeration at best, deception at its worst, all wrapped up in a pile of mystery, and possibly bundled with a "green cards for sale" scheme. Meanwhile, this particular green project "has led to two federal investigations — one by the Securities and Exchange Commission to determine whether company officials improperly raised money and one by the Department of Homeland Security's inspector general to determine whether appeals to obtain visas for foreign investors were improper," reported TribLive News in August.

The only difference in this tale, other than the potential threat to national security, and that President Obama is not at the center (although there are ties), is the fact that GreenTech is overly sensitive, even when facing facts.

Case in point: sometime in April, GreenTech filed an $85 million lawsuit against an online government watch dog for libel, taking issue with two online stories, of which "detail the woes of the government immigration program, called EB-5. In one article, a financial expert criticized the EB-5 program as "a fraud," explained Watchdog.org.

Later I'll dig into the EB-5 program, but at this juncture it is important to point out that Watchdog.org, who has provided a 63-part series on "Terry McAuliffe, gubernatorial candidate and car mogul," stands by its reporting. "Jason Stverak, president of Watchdog's parent company the Franklin Center for Government and Public Integrity, said the lawsuit is baseless," and many on the right have since expressed their outrage over what they deem as an attempt to intimidate and suppress the truth from being exposed.

"Hustler" on the move

Interesting enough, the politically connected heavyweight (a close friend and adviser to both former President Bill Clinton and his wife Hilary) and former Democratic National Committee Chairman, Terry McAuliffe is aligned with President Obama's "war on coal," and he also has the backing of "climate change radical," Big Oil investor, Obama bundler and billionaire buddy, Tom Steyer. I've addressed Steyer's footprint inside this Green Corruption scandal a few times, but now we see that just a bit ago he "has directed his political operation to spend heavily in the Virginia governor's race in support of Democrat Terry McAuliffe," as reported by POLITICO

Wall Street Journal's Strassel, in covering GreenTech this past April — "McAuliffe's Solyndra" — nailed it in her statement, "Turn over any green-energy rock, and wiggling underneath will be the usual creepy mix of political favoritism and taxpayer-funded handouts. Add to this the Clintons, Mississippi and a murky visa program, and you've got a particularly ripe political embarrassment for Terry McAuliffe."

It all started a few years ago: After losing the 2009 Democratic primary for governor in Virginia, McAuliffe bought a Chinese electric-car company, moved its headquarters to Northern Virginia and tried to set up a manufacturing base in the United States.

In July 2012, Mr. McAuliffe unveiled his signature MyCar at a rock-star event attended by the former President Clinton and then-Gov. Republican Haley Barbour, who is also personal friends with McAuliffe — an electric car, by the way, that has recently received "awful" reviews by some auto industry experts. Four months later, November 2012, McAuliffe announced his plans to run for Virginia governor in 2013 and he stated in an email, "It is absolutely clear to me that Virginians want their next Governor to focus on job creation..."

McAuliffe has "made his private sector experience a cornerstone of his campaign" and is betting that his slogan, "McAuliffe for Governor: Putting Jobs First," will resonate with the folks. Still, prior to officially beginning his second attempt to be the governor of Virginia (although it seems he never stopped campaigning), sometime in 2009, he began a traveling road show, bragging about GreenTech, and using it as an example of how he was a big job creator, promising hope, hundreds of thousands of green cars and thousands of green jobs.

Due to the fact that Virginia denied access (for various concerns and doubts) to McAuliffe's electric-car dreams, he found a willing participant: "In October 2009, GreenTech Automotive Inc.'s owner, Chinese businessman Xiaolin "Charles" Wang [President and CEO] unveiled four prototype cars during a flashy ceremony and promised to build a $2 billion [some report it as $1 billion] plant in Mississippi, the poorest state in the U.S.," wrote Phys.org News. With the support of then-Governor Barbour, GreenTech was in line and has already received "public loans and grants that total more than $8 million, with millions more in tax exemptions and rebates."

At that time, GreenTech "promised it would create 1,500 jobs. McAuliffe predicted at least 10,000 cars a year would be manufactured by 2011," as documented by Politifact.com last month — with another 2009 report stating, "the plant will produce 150,000 vehicles annually in phase one."

Considering that there are conflicting reports on the number of green cars and green jobs — promised, claimed and actual — I'll attempt to tackle that part of this tale a bit later. But to give you a hint, Politifact.com also noted, "GreenTech has not met those expectations, undercutting McAuliffe's claim to be a proven job creator. The New York Times, in an Aug. 9 article, said GreenTech employs 80 people and that company officials would not say how many cars will be built this year."

But being a master job creator is not the only declaration made by McAuliffe: Breitbart.com busted him when he claimed that he was a founder of this start-up long after it existed. In May 2011, he told a Democrat audience, "I'm a founder of a company called GreenTech Automotive, a very ambitious project. I'm building 5 cars .... we have 3 hybrids and 2 electrics." However, Breitbart.com documented a chronological timeline on how GreenTech evolved by Mr. Wang, "a Chinese national, who first became involved in the project that would become GreenTech Automotive, Inc." — and it all dates back to March 2008.

Mr. McAuliffe, who became chairman of GreenTech Automotive in March 2010, when things began to heat up, he mysteriously left his green car company sometime in late 2012. McAuliffe's "carbon footprint" may have been scrubbed from the GreenTech website, and all the while as hardball questions, serious accusations and ongoing criticism are hurled his direction, McAuliffe response is to distract and deflect: "Don't ask me about GreenTech, I was just the Chairman."

Needless to say, evidence has emerged that as of March 2013, McAuliffe is still a GreenTech Exec, and is found to be the largest individual shareholder. This all came to light in a September 21 article by the Washington Post, divulging that McAuliffe "is listed in a recent confidential memorandum to prospective investors." His position, writes Breitbart.com, is described as "Chairman Emeritus of the company," noting that the document states McAuliffe "will have such duties and responsibilities as designated by the Board of Directors from time to time." The Post also notes that "the company's confidential March memo implies to investors that he would remain involved" even if McAuliffe wins his race for governor. Basically, the memo says, that he would "resign all positions with [GreenTech] and appoint a representative to vote his shares."

Additionally, the pitch to lure potential investors, touted the Democrat heavyweight's political connections, savvy, and McAuliffe's past promotion of electric vehicles on "national television news programs." It also included another PROMISE: GreenTech "will enjoy billions in government subsidies and tax credits."

What's quite fascinating is that The Post, in its 2013 analysis of what I am calling "McAuliffe's formula for success" (methodology that has made him a millionaire many times over), while giving an array of examples, concludes: "The prospectus, along with other documents reviewed by The Post, shows how GreenTech fits into a pattern of investments in which McAuliffe has used government programs, political connections and access to wealthy investors of both parties in pursuit of big profits for himself."

However, The Post wasn't so kind in 2009: "McAuliffe is, at his core, a salesman -- and described himself as a hustler in his [2008] autobiography [What A Party!: My Life Among Democrats...]" — a label that at best is deemed a "go-getter," but has many other negative connotations. I'll keep that to your imagination, but The Post, a paragraph earlier wrote, "He is a deal maker who made millions from investments. And many of his biggest deals came in partnership with prominent donors and politicians, creating a portrait over the years of a Washington insider who got rich as he rose to power within the Democratic Party." In fact, one of the most disturbing references to his methodology is this: "McAuliffe has made a fortune investing -- sometimes in companies that went bust, laid off thousands and drained investors' and employees' savings."

The "Alleged" Corruption

Special money

Before he resigned as chairman in December 2012 — although as documented earlier, we know he's still quite active — McAuliffe helped raised plenty of private money from foreign investors, but GreenTech Auto also received its fair share of government assistance.

With GreenTech's 2009-promise to build a $2 billion plant in Mississippi, the poorest state in the U.S, "some 100 acres were donated by Tunica County's economic development foundation, at a cost of $1.8 million, and in 2011 the state gave a $3 million loan toward site preparation," as documented by the Huffington Post.

"Breitbart News confirmed with the Mississippi Development Authority [MDA] on July 22 [2013] that these loans have been completely disbursed." However, Mississippi's Economic Development Authority says the taxpayer subsidies are contingent on GreenTech raising $60 million by Dec. 31, 2014. If GreenTech fails to meet the capital requirement and hire 350 full-time workers, local and state authorities can "claw back" their investments. Good luck with that...

What's not widely reported is that the MDA got stimulus funds: The Mississippi Development Authority, Energy Division received approximately $40 million in American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) funding from the U. S. Department of Energy (DOE).

Also, I have found conflicting reports on how much taxpayer money GreenTech snagged: it ranges from $5 million to $8 million, and even McAuliffe himself puts the price tag at $18 million. Not to mention for every car purchased, taxpayers again pay — for example the MyCar NEV states, "...find state and federal incentives to make your MyCar even more affordable."

But the worst part comes from the fact that the private funds for GreenTech involves a program here in the USA called the Immigrant Investor Program, also known as "EB-5," which was "created by Congress in 1990 to stimulate the U.S. economy through job creation and capital investment by foreign investors." What's relevant here is that "GreenTech has sought overseas investors through [this] federal program that allows foreigners to gain special visas if they contribute at least $500,000 to create U.S. jobs," documented The Post last month.

The other twist here is that "GreenTech partners with Gulf Coast Funds Management (GCFM), a company that is authorized by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) to collect EB-5 investments for GreenTech." And, Anthony Rodham, a close friend of McAuliffe who also happens to be the brother of the former secretary of state Hillary Rodham Clinton, is the President and CEO of GCFM. According to an August 12, 2013 report by the Washington Free Beacon, "GCFM has collected at least $45.5 million from foreign investors for GreenTech through the program."

Special political favors

With so many numbers floating around — $37.5 million in cash investments, says Breitbart.com, with $32 million from the "green cards for sale program" — it's difficult to track just how much foreign cash McAuliffe and Co. raised for GreenTech Automotive. However, there is strong evidence — not yet proven beyond a reasonable doubt — that the USCIS gave them special treatment.

At the core is Alejandro Mayorkas, who currently serves as director of U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (UCIS), an agency within Homeland Security, and is also the Obama administration's nominee to become the next Deputy Secretary of Homeland Security. This is where it gets even more convoluted. As stated earlier, this "visas for sale" program has caused quite the controversy. Last month, the National Review Online reported that "the Homeland Security Inspector General is investigating to see whether officials gave special treatment to GreenTech because of McAuliffe's political connections," of which NRO notes that "McAuliffe was central to GreenTech's effort to get DHS to reverse decisions on visas."

That accusations was preempted by the Daily Beast July report: "in December 2010, McAuliffe wrote to Napolitano on behalf of GreenTech and asked her to expedite the company's EB-5 requests and reopen consideration of requests that had been previously denied." Moreover, we find via the New York Times: "Frustrated by government red tape slowing his electric car company, Terry McAuliffe repeatedly sought a meeting at the Department of Homeland Security."

The Times gives a few more details...

> He and his lawyers sent a stream of e-mails to a senior official in charge of approving foreign investments that Mr. McAuliffe sought, and he went up the chain of command to Janet Napolitano, the secretary of homeland security... Finally, a 2011 meeting took place, and Mr. McAuliffe and Mr. Wang met with Alejandro Mayorkas [my words here]... As their meeting was wrapping up, Ms. Napolitano popped into the room to say hello, Mr. Wang said. Later, Mr. Mayorkas issued a favorable ruling that cleared the way for GreenTech to recruit more foreign investors.

The Times goes on... "In 2011, Mr. Mayorkas overruled two lower officers in his department, Citizenship and Immigration Services, which allowed GreenTech to recruit more Chinese investors."

In the Daily Beast piece we also discover that "this past January, Rodham wrote to Mayorkas directly and pressed him to speed up approval of EB-5 visas for GreenTech."

This past July NBC News reported that this particular IG investigation, "was opened in September 2012 based on a referral from an FBI counterintelligence analyst," and they gave some key points:

> The probe is based on allegations that Mayorkas personally intervened to win an approval for Gulf Coast Funds Management, a financing company headed by Clinton's brother Anthony Rodham, after USCIS officials rejected its application, according to an aide to GOP Sen. Charles Grassley, who had received internal USCIS emails about the matter from a department whistleblower.
> During the course of the probe, the email states, the inspector general learned of other allegations "involving alleged conflicts of interest, misuse of position, mismanagement of the EB-5 program, and an appearance of impropriety by Mayorkas and other" officials within the UCSIS.

By the end of July, Republican senators, due to the ongoing IG investigation, boycotted the confirmation hearing set for Mayorkas, "Obama's nominee to become the deputy secretary of Homeland Security, a job that could result in him running the department" since Secretary Janet Napolitano stepped down in September," wrote the Daily Beast. Mayorkas' confirmation has since been put on ice, but that was after the hearings proceeded in July without Republican participation, giving him an opportunity to plead his side of the GreenTech case: "I have never in my career used undue influence to influence the outcome of a case," Mayorkas testified in front of the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee.

Even so, according to TribLive News, Senator Grassley, who is pressing for more information on Homeland Security's handling of the EB-5 program, recently charged, "We absolutely gave special treatment to Green Tech at the directive of D1" ("D1" is an apparent reference to Mr. Mayorkas). In an August letter, "Grassley told Alejandro Mayorkas that he has received a torrent of whistleblower reports that Mayorkas interfered continuously on behalf of GreenTech."

But a "homeland invasion" is not the only thing hampering McAuliffe and his eco-car's reputation: "in May [2013], the SEC subpoenaed documents from GreenTech Automotive and bank records from a sister company, Gulf Coast Funds Management of McLean," reported the Washington Post last month.

Even though The Post admits that "the full focus of the SEC investigation into GreenTech and Gulf Coast is not known, we do know that "in recent months, the SEC has stepped up its scrutiny of companies that use the visa program, largely over concerns that investors may have been misled or defrauded by the companies seeking their money. The visa program has also raised national security concerns from some lawmakers worried that suspect individuals are using it to gain entry into the country."

More GreenTech Cronies

Detailed thus far in this Green Corruption File has been some influential pals of McAuliffe: former President Bill Clinton, who appeared at a company launch party, Hillary Clinton's brother Anthony Rodham, who runs the firm's foreign-investor outreach, as well as former Republican National Committee chair and Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour, who not only "helped the company secure millions in state incentives," but stood by Terry's side, even for photo ops.

Watchdog.org has also exposed Levar Stoney, a former director of the Virginia Democratic Party (2008 to 2009), who served as GreenTech's director of public and government affairs from May 2010 until December 2012. Then this past August we learn via the Washington Free Beacon that the former Virginia Democratic Gov. Tim Kaine, who is now a U.S. senator, in December 2009, "sent a letter to an official at the U.S. Customs and Immigration Service (USCIS), detailing Virginia policies that would benefit Gulf Coast Funds Management (GCFM)" — and we've already established that GreenTech's sister company is GCFM, and where we find Terry's pal and Hillary's brother Anthony Rodham (President & CEO).

Considering all that clout, there's a former Obama cabinet official by the name of Rick Wade, whom as Tori Richards (author at Watchdog.org and Human Events) puts it, "might be the insider who carries the most weight." Mr Wade, whose history includes "a founding partner of the Axelrod-Wade Group, a global business development firm," joined GreenTech Automotive in 2011, whereas his bio brags that he is currently the "Senior Vice President & Head of China Operations, following a distinguished career at the Department of Commerce."

Wade, while at Commerce, was involved in President Obama's trillion-dollar stimulus spending spree, yet he also had many other key Democratic positions, both during and after his time with Team Obama (see bullet point presentation). And as of late, Wade is planning on getting back into politics, and will be running for the United States Senate against Tim Scott, of which according to the Grio, "He is expected to announce his candidacy early next month."

- 2008: Senior adviser role for then-Senator Obama's 2008 campaign
- 2008: Wade chaired Obama's successful South Carolina primary in 2008 against Hillary Clinton
- 2009: Wade was a member of the White House task forces on Automobile Recovery (a $25 billion effort to prop up the failing U.S. auto industry), which was led by former treasury secretary Timothy Geithner and Economic Council Director Lawrence Summers.
- 2009: Within Commerce, Wade served as interim chief of staff during the presidential transition, and he contributed to all major policy and personnel decisions.
- 2009 to 2011: Wade was also the Senior Adviser and Deputy Chief of Staff for Commerce Secretary Gary Locke, who served that role from March 24, 2009 until October 2011. Gary Locke resigned as the 36th Secretary of Commerce on August 1, 2011 to become the U.S. Ambassador to the People's Republic of China. And then John Bryson, who became Obama's Secretary of Commerce in October 2011, is another player inside some of this clean-energy dirt. Bryson resigned in June of 2012 following a series of mysterious auto accidents, and now we have Penny Pritzker, the mega-rich pal of Obama, who raised mega-bucks for both of his presidential campaigns and was a member of his so-called jobs council, whereas she is "related" to at least two large Green Corruption stories.
- 2009-2011: Additionally, while at the Commerce Department, "Wade worked diligently to ensure President Obama's business and economic programs, including the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, were implemented effectively and efficiently." Some say that Wade even helped craft President Obama's massive stimulus package, of which $100 billion was earmarked for renewable energy. These taxpayer funds have been the centerpiece of the entire Green Corruption scandal, of which I've been tracking and reporting on since 2010 — even the fact that billions of "green" tax dollars have been shipped overseas to aid production of green ventures in foreign countries.
- 2009-2011: According to Watchdog.org, "The Commerce Department job also allowed Wade to hone a skill that might explain his value to GreenTech: he became a U.S. envoy on Chinese and Asian trade."
- 2012: Wade, a member of the Democratic National Committee (DNC), was also a Senior Advisor to the Obama for America presidential campaign and the 2012 Democratic National Convention, which means that he helped run the president's 2012 campaign while simultaneously serving as a Democratic Party executive and vice president of GreenTech Automotive.
- Wade is (was) also part of the Advisory Board for Volt Energy

Now, I haven't found any clear evidence at this time whether Mr. Wade helped in any of the GreenTech dealings, but it's awfully convenient that Wade was not only involved in the 2009-Recovery Act, but worse, since joining GreenTech in 2011, he was actively part of President Obama's re-election bid — thus he had "access and influence."

And, if you've been following any of my work, you'd know that I've published a series entitled "The RAT in the Recovery and the Gang of Eight": those individuals and groups that were involved in crafting the energy sector of the 2009-Recovery Act, and who ultimately financially benefited from the $100 billion that was earmarked for renewable energy (with a summary installment coming in the near future). Keep in mind too, as mentioned earlier, the Mississippi Development Authority, Energy Division, — the one that awarded GreenTech millions in state subsidies — received approximately $40 million from President Obama's stimulus package.

"Fast Terry": Master Job Creator or Con Man?

Even though many news organizations, watchdog groups, and online forums have exposed the empty promises and debunked the claims in regards to GreenTech's factories, green cars and green jobs, I'll attempt to do my part, starting with a challenge: take the time to view "Fast Terry," a documentary by Citizens United. Besides being informed and infuriated, you'll discover that during the course of his traveling electric-car road show that began in 2009, McAuliffe promised hope, hundreds of thousands of green cars and thousands of green jobs — all made in America

Two GreenTech Factories:

The Horn Lake Facility in DeSoto County, Mississippi and The Tunica Plant in Tunica County, Mississippi

According to the New York Times, in 2011, while presenting GreenTech as a catalyst of American job creation, McAuliffe was adamant, "I am sick and tired of seeing our jobs go to China..." Ironically, GreenTech has two manufacturing facilities in Mississippi, where the company has received state subsidies, and one in China, as well as some office locations.

- GreenTech Automotive Corporate Office: McLean, VA
- Tunica Office: Tunica, MS
- Horn Lake Assembly Plant: Horn Lake, MS
- Dongguan MyCar Electric Vehicle Technology Limited: located in China

Besides grants and loans from the state of Mississippi (totaling either $5 million, $8 million, or $18 million), GreenTech sometime in September 2011, received a sweetheart land deal as part of their location compensation: "The Tunica County Economic Development Foundation, a group in Mississippi headed by Tunica County Chamber of Commerce president and CEO Lyn Arnold, worked out a strategy to secure land [100 acres] for GreenTech without going through the state's legislative approval process," reported The Daily Caller this past July — which also emphasized that "Richmond's Action News 5 recently reported there is no evidence GreenTech has produced any cars, green or otherwise."

Meanwhile GreenTech's website (GTA), with a grand picture of their plant — the Horn Lake Facility in DeSoto County, Mississippi — claims, "With 380,000 square feet under roof, GTA's first plant will be used for the production of GTA's first vehicle, a neighborhood electric vehicle (NEV) named MyCar. They also claim, "In late 2013, MyCar production will move to GTA's all-new, state-of-the-art manufacturing facility located approximately 20 miles away in Tunica, MS," and that the "groundwork has already begun..." for the Tunica Plant — again promising "5,000 new direct and indirect jobs in Mississippi and the vendor base nationwide."

It turns out that for more than one year (July 2012 to July 2013), the Action News 5 Investigators have been asking questions about GreenTech Automotive, "and its promise of hundreds of new jobs in North Mississippi." Action News also gave us another McAuliffe promise, followed by evidence that something is wrong...

> "If I can be successful and make 10,000 cars over the next 12 months here in Horn Lake and ship them over to Denmark, that's a huge win for me, the company, and most importantly, Mississippi," said McAuliffe in July 2012.
> Twelve months later, the Action News 5 Investigators have uncovered no evidence of any major car production and a former Greentech employee raises new questions about the company's operation.
> "We were told, you know, when we first went in the fall of '11, we were going to build a 100 by Christmas, didn't happen," said the former employee, who asked to remain anonymous. "Then we were told we were going to build X amount through the year 2012 and that didn't happen."
> The employee says workers built cars then deconstructed and rebuilt them over and over again to appear as though they were working.

What was GreenTech's response on reassembling of cars? "Both the plant manager Trey Agner and GreenTech Vice President Marianne McInerney said workers break down and re-assemble the cars for training and quality control," reported Action News.

Action News, in the same report said, "McInerney refused to release the number of vehicles actually made at the facility or sold last year because GTA is a private company. She would only say there are pending orders for the new 2014 MyCar," and McInerney told them that they "would create 350 jobs by the end of 2014 and those are direct jobs."

This investigation also uncovered the fact that GreenTech "told its employees in Northern Mississippi to pretend to build cars to fool foreign investors."

Furthermore, in April of this year, Watchdog.org made a visit to the GreenTech office located at a Tunica strip mall, whereas their investigators exposed quite the encounter, "Silence, secrecy, cops follow GreenTech's China deal." One of the most interesting conclusions came from a local police officer stating, "They're pretty secretive," he said. "Just like the Russians."

In that same April 25, 2013 article, Watchdog.org documented the following Intel, which coincides with, and adds another layer to what I just highlighted from the Action News investigation:

> Next door, in the Desoto County city of Horn Lake, it's a different story — except for the secrecy and apparent lack of actual manufacturing. Locals said workers almost daily drive GreenTech's tiny MyCars — two-seater, all-electric vehicles with a 25-mile range — around the facility in what looks like a test-drive caravan.

While some say that "Terry McAuliffe's GreenTech has tried to import more Chinese Nationals than it has sold cars," on August 12, 2013, the Washington Free Beacon shed some light into what's going on: "Five Things You Need to Know About GreenTech Automotive." The number one issue being that GreenTech has fallen "short on job promises multiple times..."

> At this point it is unclear whether GreenTech is producing any jobs.

GreenTech is still operating at what was supposed to be a temporary facility in Horn Lake, Miss.

Although McAuliffe claimed that ground was broken at the company's planed permanent facility, local investigators found that there was nothing but overgrown grass covering the plot on which it is supposed to be located.

(NOTE: Both photos are by Dustin Hurst — one of the GTA office and the other of GTA's proposed production facility at the site in Tunica County, Mississippi, which I wrote about in this section — can be found at Watchdog.org, yet I placed them on my blog as well.)

GreenTech Jobs

As many are still pondering when GreenTech will build (or even begin to break ground) at their proposed $60 million Tunica plant in Mississippi, GreenTech jobs are even more puzzling. I must reemphasize that tracking both the number of cars and jobs — promised, claimed, or even saved for that matter, versus reality — has been a difficult task. It seems to be a moving target and depending on the day, what con tactics Terry has up his sleeve, or what the folks at GreenTech are smoking, it changes.

Now, I briefly covered this topic early on, but here is my bullet point presentation of what I found during my two-week crash course research project on GreenTech and all its shenanigans. (NOTE: big shout out to Bearing Drift: Virginia's Conservative Voice, for their list as well).

- October 6, 2009 / Memphis Business Journal: "Tunica County will become home to a new hybrid automobile development and manufacturing facility that will initially employ 1,500 with a $1 billion investment. The [Mississippi] plant will produce 150,000 vehicles annually in phase one."
- 2009: "McAuliffe predicted at least 10,000 cars a year would be manufactured by 2011," as documented by Politifact.com this past August
- May 18, 2010 / Terry's Newsroom: "McAuliffe has announced his intent is to eventually create 4,500 new jobs for the electric auto manufacturing firm in Virginia as well as Tennessee and Mississippi."
- May 20, 2010 / EVWorld.com: "GTA plans to create thousands of "'green collar'" jobs across Mississippi, Tennessee and Virginia. At full production, GTA will create over 4,000 new US jobs."
- October 7, 2010 / Bloomberg News: "GreenTech plans to buy parts abroad and assemble the cars in the U.S., creating around 5,000 jobs in economically depressed areas. Besides Mississippi, McAuliffe is looking at sites in Tennessee and Virginia and says he will go to the state offering the best tax breaks and other benefits."
- October 7, 2010, as written by Watchdog.org in Dec 2012: "In a 2010 interview, McAuliffe predicted that his company's first-generation NEV would go on sale mid-2011. GreenTech initially pledged to hire thousands workers to assemble tens of thousands of vehicles a year at its new Tunica, Miss., plant by the end of 2012." At that time, "None of those projections has come close to fruition. The Tunica plant is still under construction, and the payroll barely tops 100 workers.
- February 2011 / You Tube clip (R): "I'm going to announce another major plant this year, which is going to be about 3,000 – 5,000 jobs." – Terry McAuliffe
- August 6, 2011, but reported on September 5, 2011 / Automotive News: "We can achieve two important goals at once. We can provide China with clean technology and help reduce carbon emissions in the country," said McAuliffe, chairman of GreenTech, in an Aug. 6 press release about the China factory. The China project will create 2,000 jobs for Americans, he said.
- November 2011 / Charlottesville Tomorrow: "Denmark has bought GreenTech's first year of production, about 110 cars, which will be manufactured at a temporary plant in Horn Lake, Miss. McAuliffe is opening a permanent factory in nearby Tunica, which will eventually employ 350 workers."

- 2012: "Terry McAuliffe claimed in 2012 that the plant would be churning out 10,000 electric cars this year," reported by the Washington Free Beacon June 18, 2013
- July 2012 statement by McAuliffe and reported by Action News 5 (July 2013): "If I can be successful and make 10,000 cars over the next 12 months here in Horn Lake and ship them over to Denmark, that's a huge win for me, the company, and most importantly, Mississippi."
- July 6, 2012 when GreenTech Automotive unveiled its environmentally friendly, energy efficient vehicle, MyCar / HR Professionals: "Former President Bill Clinton and former Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour were on hand to help celebrate GTA's relocation to the U.S. The company is expected to create 426 new jobs and support about 7,400 more."
- July 9, 2012 / HybridCars.com: "Production of MyCar and its derivatives, plus the all-new vehicles to be added to the product portfolio will lead to the formation of 5,000 new direct and indirect jobs in Mississippi and the vendor base nationwide," GreenTech boldly says on its Web site.
- April 12, 2013 / Mother Nature Network by Jim Motavalli: "I also talked to McAuliffe, and he said the company was planning on at least 400 employees in Tunica, Miss., with 3,500 indirect jobs. (The company launched with a temporary facility in Horn Lake, Miss.) "We have 14 job openings right now," he said. "These cars will be made by American workers." The 300,000-square-foot plant was supposed to be pumping out cars in mid-2013, which is now, isn't it?
- July 6, 2012 / Wheels Blogs @ the New York Times: "Mr. McAuliffe said the venture would employ 900 workers in Mississippi by the end of the year, as well as create many jobs indirectly."
- July 15, 2013 / TimesDispatch.com: McAuliffe promised GreenTech Automotive would create 2,000 American jobs and produce cars
- July 17, 2013 / PR Newswire: designed to have an annual production capacity of 30,000 vehicles in Tunica, Mississippi
- July, 2013 / Action News 5: GreenTech Vice President Marianne McInerney "refused to release the number of vehicles actually made at the facility or sold last year because GTA is a private company. She would only say there are pending orders for the new 2014 MyCar," and that the plant "would create 350 jobs by the end of 2014 and those are direct jobs."
- August 12, 2013 / Phys.org News: The company says it will be producing cars by April, but its plans have changed dramatically, from a goal of 250,000 a year to 30,000...

Quite the track record, but in an effort to simplify, here a few of the latest stats that I could find on GreenTech jobs, starting in July of 2012 with HR Professionals Magazine, which stated, "As of July, GTA has more than 840 employees enterprise-wide, and they are on track to employ more than 900 more by the end of 2012." Later they add, "As of July [2012] there were 67 employees in the northern Mississippi sites (Tunica/Horn Lake) and eight employees in the McLean, Virginia office."

And July of this year, when Action News 5 Investigators attempted to get back inside GreenTech to check into the Horn Lake operation and its staff, the "GreenTech Vice President Marianne McInerney denied their requests each time, but claimed that 78 employees worked inside."

We also have (as presented earlier in this post) the New York Times, and its August 9, 2013 article that said, "GreenTech employs 80 people and that company officials would not say how many cars will be built this year."

Small Eco-car; Big Green Scam?

At what stage each of the two GreenTech plants are and how much money they snagged from the taxpayers of Mississippi ($5 to $18 million), is still unclear. Neither do we know the exact status of both investigations, and what they will conclude: the Securities and Exchange as well as the Department of Homeland Security IG. But as the residents of Virginia buy into his campaign slogan, "McAuliffe for Governor: Putting Jobs First," how many green jobs GreenTech has created in the state of Mississippi as well as the number of green cars they've assembled here in the United States remains a mystery.

Since Terry is leading the Virginia governor race, I can only assume that Virginians haven't done their homework or maybe they just don't care, because GreenTech has left many of us in the dark: instead of hope, cars and jobs, McAuliffe and his electric-car dream has perpetuated nothing but confusion and frustration for the folks at Tunica County and many in the state of Mississippi.

Obviously, GreenTech produces a small eco-car — we've seen the flashy prototypes after all; like a high-end golf cart. Quite frankly, I wouldn't mind getting one for my teenage daughter (that way she can't go over 25 MPH); but the most critical question remains to be answered...is this a big green scam?

We report, you decide....

UPDATE, September 29, 2013: Marita Noon followed my research and this 9/28/13 post, adding her flair, personal experience as well as her take on what's going on with this small eco-car, and can be found at her Townhall.com column: Terry McAuliffe's MyCar Isn't Even a "Real Car": Car and Driver.

Well, frankly, I think I might have been feeling better before I read about the scammer running for Virginia governor! But thanks for your efforts to shed some light on these things. I really hope someone discovers

Hi Gary and Simone,
I have spoken with my counsel and our internal risk group on the below. We are not able to make the requested change to the Escrow Agreement. All of the funds that are deposited remain the property of the depositor until the particular contingency set forth in the agreement is met, in this case the receipt of the I-526 Approval.

(The purpose of the Escrow Agreement is to hold the funds for the Depositor until the contingency is met.)

Please let me know if you have any further questions.

Dear Jenny,

Just to further clarify: Per the statutory regulations found in 8 CFR Sec. 204.6 (j), "a petition submitted for classification as an alien entrepreneur must be accompanied by evidence that the alien has invested or is actively in the process of investing lawfully obtained capital in a new commercial enterprise in the United States..."

The escrow agreement, section 3(a) states that the escrow deposit shall remain the property of the "investor" -- However, to satisfy immigration regulations, the escrow agreement should instead state that the Escrow Deposit shall be the property of the Issuer, subject to the approval of such investor's I-526 petition. This would satisfy regulatory authority that an investor actually invested the funds in the "new commercial enterprise" at the time of the I-526 petition filing.

An investor's I-526 petition has a risk of denial due to this clause, because it states that the alien has not actually invested the money (but retains the investment) subject to the approval of the I-526 petition, when the investment should be the property of the Fund, subject to approval of the investor's I-526 petition.

If you or your counsel have any further questions, please contact me.

Thanks and best regards,
Simone

GreenTech Automotive Unveils Revolutionary All-Electric MyCar, Marks Creation of 426 Manufacturing Jobs in Mississippi

More

Former President Bill Clinton and former Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour participate in event revealing affordable, environmentally friendly MyCar

HORN LAKE, Miss., July 6, 2012 /PRNewswire-USNewswire/ -- GreenTech Automotive (GTA), a U.S.-based manufacturer of environmentally friendly energy-efficient vehicles, today unveiled its revolutionary MyCar, a two-seat all-electric vehicle that produces zero emissions and provides a range of up to 115 miles. Former President Bill Clinton and former Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour attended the unveiling, which also celebrated GTA's relocation to the United States, where the company expects to create 426 new manufacturing jobs and support 7,400 more.

"Too many people have given up on American manufacturing, saying manufacturing jobs are not coming back. But GTA set out to prove them wrong," said Terry McAuliffe , chairman of GreenTech. "For too long, America has been inventing products here and sending the production jobs overseas. But we're part of a rebirth for American manufacturing. We're proud to bring manufacturing jobs back and prove that the U.S. is still the world leader in technological innovation and manufacturing."

GreenTech Automotive purchased Hong Kong-based EuAuto in 2010 and relocated the company's operations and manufacturing to the United States. The move was part of the company's strategy to create jobs in the United States and have a positive impact on a local economy in need of revitalization. The company leased a shuttered factory in Horn Lake, where skilled workers are now producing vehicles during the construction of its permanent 300,000-square-foot facility in Tunica, Miss.

GTA projects it will create 426 direct jobs by 2014, and an independent analysis by Evans, Carroll & Associates Inc. found that GTA's operations would create more than 7,400 direct, indirect and induced jobs by 2014. As of July 2012, GTA had more than 840 employees enterprise-wide, and the company is on track to employ more than 900 people by the end of 2012.

"Thanks are due to Governor Barbour for being so receptive to our strategy to create manufacturing jobs in the United States," said McAuliffe. "This unlikely partnership illustrates the kind of jobs-before-politics attitude that will get America back on track by restoring manufacturing to its rightful place at the core of our economy. We're looking forward to continuing that relationship with Governor Bryant's new administration." McAuliffe previously served as the chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Barbour served as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Affordability is a key element of GTA's strategy for product development. With an expected base price of $15,500, MyCar will be considerably less expensive than other all-electric vehicles. Future models, including the MyCar EV planned for early 2014, will also be competitively priced. GTA's commitment to affordable alternative energy solutions earned the praise of former President Bill Clinton , who attended the Mississippi unveiling.

"MyCar is just the beginning of GTA's efforts to produce a wide range of environmentally friendly, energy-efficient, affordable vehicles," said Charles Wang , CEO of GreenTech. "Many electric carmakers have tried to force electric vehicle technology into the existing transportation paradigm, which invariably results in vehicles that are environmentally friendly but prohibitively expensive. GreenTech has broken the mold by adopting the revolutionary strategy of creating an affordable electric car that will reshape how Americans think about meeting our daily transportation needs."

MyCar is an ideal solution for corporations, government entities, rental car fleets, and corporate and college campuses in addition to individual transportation use such as commuting and daily errands. MyCar is expected to evolve into other vehicle models, including a micro pick-up and delivery vehicle, beginning in 2013. GTA also plans to manufacture a larger MyCar EV beginning in 2014.

About MyCar
MyCar is a two-seat all-electric vehicle manufactured by GreenTech Automotive in Horn Lake, Miss. MyCar produces zero emissions and provides a range of up to 115 miles. It is can be recharged via a common 110 wall outlet, a 220 wall outlet or a fast charging system with re-charge times ranging between three to twelve hours depending on the charging system used. In the European Union, MyCar has a top speed of up to 45 miles per hour. In the U.S., MyCar has a top-speed of 25 miles per hour due to regulatory restrictions, classifying it as a Neighborhood Electric Vehicle (NEV). MyCar meets and exceeds all safety standards for its vehicle class.

Hi Mari,

I have added all the RC information including their filing dates and status of the amendments. Only one I-924 is pending - Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC/RCW1221950726. An Economist Summary Report was completed on 9/21/12. As such, there is no need to forward the file to the economists.

It looks like Rose only wanted to address in the template the super old cases [redacted] and [redacted] which you have already done. However, I have attached a second version (v2) with specific issues and recommendations concerning the Regional Center. Feel free to forward the template you think is appropriate.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Ana

Ok – So tonight, I need this updated to address the super-old cases that were identified in the email with the EMERGENCY: subject and the status of the amendments. AND, I need Ana to update this with any missing and relevant 924 information.

Thanks. Let's specifically address the couple of cases that were highlighted as being super-old. Also, there should be an indicator of the status of the amendments.

Ana, please take a look too to make sure this matches the information you are providing to me in regards to the 924.

Kelly/Julia, I want these cases fast tracked and the economic reviews need to be expedited through the Economists as these are of interest to counsel and HQ. Please get with your respective supervisors.

Supervisors, are you all aware if the I-829s are being pulled from JIT and who they are being assigned to. Let's plan on meeting next week to discuss work assignments.

Thank you. (b)(6)

Hi Marisol,

Julia and I met last week to discuss the economist report for the I-829. We have requested all the I-829s for this NCE so that we can adjudicate them together. The NCE is significantly behind schedule. Once the files have been delivered we will meet again.

The response to the 526 RFE came back and we (the team) will meet again after the economists review the response to the RFE.

Thanks,

Kelly

The members are me, Julia Knapp, and George Wolfert. However George has retired and we may need another member. I just looked at the watchlist and it appears that the economist review for the I-829 was just completed on 1/2/13. I wasn't aware the review had been completed yet. I was out sick for most of last week.

I have been the team leader as I have written the request for economist reviews (I-526 and I-829), and the RFE for the I-526.

Semra will review the I-829 RFE. The I-526 RFE was reviewed by Amy and Semra before it was sent out.

Thanks,

Kelly

The I-526 has gone out; the I-829 has not gone out. The RFE still has to be reviewed by the team, and submitted for supervisory approval.

These files are both involve GreenTech Automotive. The I-529 (A-3 Fund) has been to the economist for review and they found numerous problems with the job creation calculations. I prepared an RFE for the I-526. Amy has reviewed the RFE (Semra was away for the week) and she made corrections; I sent it back to Amy with her edits included and I am waiting for her response. As soon as the RFE template is approved the RFE is ready to be sent out. The file was previously issued an RFE for source of funds only.

The I-829 (A-1 Fund) will require an RFE too. I will schedule a meeting for the members of the specialization team for the I-829. The issue for the I-829 is that there have been no jobs created at their permanent site as they are significantly behind schedule. In the new filings (the A-3 fund) there is even talk of refunding the investment funds for the members of the A-1 and A-2 funds.

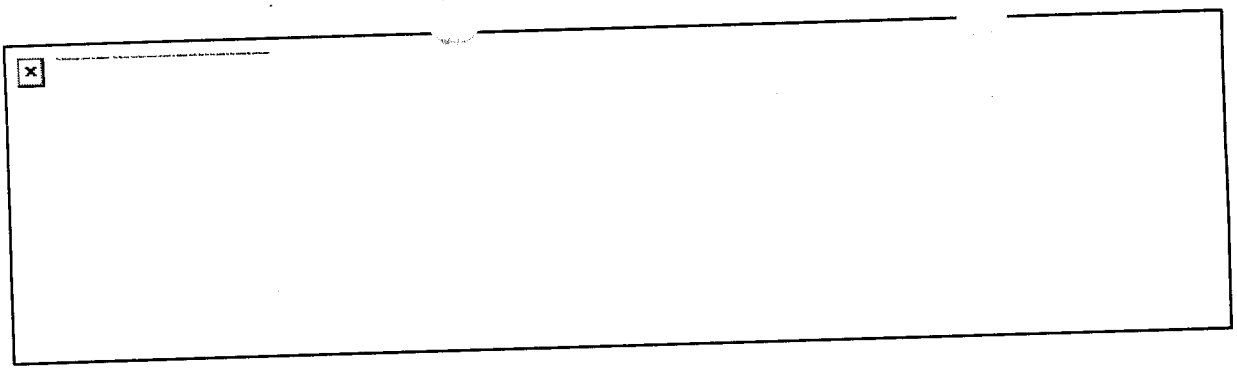
Please provide a status update as to where you are on the adjudication of these two referenced files below. NFTS indicates that you originally got the A-file in mid-March and the receipt file in May, and recently got them back in October. Please provide a brief update by 3:00 pm today.

If an RFE was sent out, what did we request and is there anything else that may cause a significant hold up on these.



Many thanks.

Sorry to bother you with this, but I need a status report on the following cases:

(I-526) (b)(6)

This should not be interpreted in any way as having "HQ Interest". The allegation is simply that they are outside normal processing times and we need to respond. If they are held up for T/O or other issues, that is fine – just let me know. Similarly, if they are within normal processing times that is fine too.

Application:	Form I-924, Application for Regional Center Under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program
Regional Center:	Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC ID1031910101
Re:	Request to Amend Regional Center Designation Project: GreenTech Automotive, Inc. RCW1221950726

On 02/12/2014, USCIS approved the request of Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC (GCFM) to amend its Regional Center Designation under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program. GCFM submitted electronic correspondence on 02/20/2014 & 02/28/2014 to USCIS citing project related factual errors within the decision letter as it pertained to the number of investors, the EB-5 capital contribution amount and the type of investors.

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) has decided to reconsider the approval decision of the Form I-924, Application for Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program that was filed by the applicant with the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services ("USCIS") on 08/06/2012. After consideration of the law, regulations and policy guiding USCIS, it is concluded that the decision dated, 02/12/2014, was made in error. This has prompted USCIS to reconsider the decision on your Form I-924.

USCIS has reopened and issued an amended approval to your Form I-924 as followed:

The applicant filed the Form I-924 to request approval of an amendment to a previously approved regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program. The Immigrant Investor Program was established under § 610 of the Department of Commerce, Justice and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 1993 (Pub. L. 102-395, Oct. 6, 1992, 106 Stat. 1874).

In addition to the Form I-924, the applicant submitted a completed exemplar Form I-526, Immigrant Petition by Alien Entrepreneur, seeking USCIS review and approval of an actual project supported by a comprehensive business plan as contemplated in Matter of Ho, 22 I. & N. Dec. 206 (Assoc. Comm'r 1998).

I. Executive Summary of Adjudication

Effective the date of this notice, USCIS approves the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project based on the evidence submitted with the above referenced Form I-924 and exemplar Form I-526. The applicant has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. will be a new commercial enterprise (NCE) and that the project is likely to result in the creation of at least [redacted] jobs. USCIS will give deference to the applicant's estimates of actual job creation and economic analysis, the business plan, and the organizational documents, offering memorandum, and investment agreements in subsequent related filings of any Form I-526 filed by an individual investor associated with the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project. Deference, however, will not apply if the underlying facts have materially changed, there is evidence of fraud or misrepresentation in the record of proceeding, or the previously favorable decision is determined to be legally deficient (involved an objective mistake of fact or law).

(b)(4)

II. Procedural History

On August 18, 2008, USCIS approved the Gulf Coast Fund Management, LLC (GCFM) for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as a designated regional center with an approved geographical scope of the entire State of Mississippi and Louisiana. GCFM now seeks to amend its previously approved regional center designation to include an actual project that will be managed by GreenTech Automotive, Inc., an NCE established on July 19, 2012.

III. The Project

Effective the date of this notice, USCIS approves the applicant's amendment request to include the following actual capital investment project supported by an exemplar Form I-526:

Project	Type of Project	Organization Documents	Date of Document
GreenTech Automotive, Inc. Geographic Location:	Actual Project support by an Exemplar Form I-526 Petition Project Investment: Equity	Business Plan	07/19/2012
		Economic Analysis	02/11/2012 with Supplement Dated 12/12/2012 & 08/13/2013
		Confidential Private	03/12/2013 with

[1] The job estimate of [redacted] offers sufficient job creation to account for investors in Series "A-1", "A-2" and "A-3" (see Confidential Private Placement Memorandum Dated 03/12/2013 with Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013). This amended application to include Series A-2, requires up to 1,200 jobs. Please reference section IV of this approval letter for more information related to the job creation number.

(b)(4)

1323 US Highway 61 Tunica, MS		Placement Memorandum	Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013
		Subscription Agreement	As Submitted

Note: If material changes to this project and its supporting documents are found in a subsequent Form I-526 petition or Form I-829, Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions, USCIS will review the supporting documents once more to ensure continued compliance with EB-5 program requirements.

The requested amendment identifies the NCE of the proposed project as GreenTech Automotive, Inc. which was formed in the State of Mississippi on July 19, 2012. The GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project is located at 1323 US Highway 61 in the City of Tunica, Mississippi. Approximately [redacted] EB-5 investors will subscribe to the NCE as preferred shareholders in exchange for capital contributions of $500,000 each and an aggregate of [redacted]

The NCE will contribute the [redacted] of EB-5 capital as an equity investment. The EB-5 capital proceeds will be used to own and operate an automotive manufacturing facility in Tunica, Mississippi. The NCE will manufacture the MyCar, a two-seat electric vehicle with a 25 to 115 mile range between charges, depending on the battery type and size selected by the customer. The projected total cost of the project is [redacted] The operation at the manufacturing auto plant is expected to be on-going and job creation will occur over the next five years and will generate approximately [redacted] jobs.

IV. Job Creation

The job creation methodology presented in the economic impact analysis and underlying business plan is found to be reasonable based on the following inputs, when applying the RIMS II economic model:

NAICS [3]	Industry Name	Input	Multiplier	Jobs[4]
336111	Automobile Manufacturing	[redacted]

[2] Page 20 of the Business Plan Dated 07/19/2012 indicates that GreenTech Automotive, Inc. "intends to use the [redacted] proceeds from the offering of our Preferred Shares for general corporate purposes." The Confidential Private Placement Memorandum Dated 03/12/2013 with Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013, supports an equity investment of up to 120 Series A-2 Preferred Shares ([redacted]). If the project requires up to [redacted] submitting supporting documents such as a revised Business Plan in a subsequent Form I-526 petition or Form I-829, Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions, USCIS will review the supporting documents to ensure continued compliance with EB-5 program requirements.

[3] These industry codes are used for informational purposes in estimating job creation and do not limit the economic or job creating activity of an approved regional center or its investors. Jobs created in industries not previously identified in the economic methodology may still be credited to the investors in subsequent Form I-526 and Form I-829 filings, as long as the evidence in the record establishes that it is probably true that the requisite jobs are estimated to be created, or have been created, in those additional industries.

[4] The GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project potentially has the capacity to create up to [redacted] jobs from the combined investments of the Series "A-1", "A-2" and "A-3". If fully subscribed, this round of equity investment (Series "A-2") requires [redacted] jobs of the total job estimate that GreenTech Automotive, Inc. proposes to create.

(b)(4)

3363	Motor Vehicle Parts Manufacturing (outside new facility)
Total Jobs:

The approval of this Form I-924 application, supported by the exemplar Form I-526 petition, is based upon the assumptions and estimates used as inputs in the business plan for job creation. Please refer to the input and multiplier analysis table above.

The economic analysis accurately portrays the assumptions stated in the business plan, and the calculations using RIMS II multipliers are verifiable. The applicant has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the project is expected to result in the creation of approximately at least [redacted] jobs as part of the total [redacted] jobs calculated associated with the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project.

USCIS will give deference to the job creation methodology when adjudicating Forms I-526 and I-829 associated with GreenTech Automotive, Inc. Deference, however, will not apply if the underlying facts have materially changed, there is evidence of fraud or misrepresentation in the record of proceeding, or the previously favorable decision is determined to be legally deficient (involved an objective mistake of fact or law).

It will be the responsibility of the individual investor to demonstrate that the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology remain materially unchanged when he or she files a Form I-526. When filing Form I-829 for removal of conditional status, the individual investor has the burden of demonstrating that the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology have not materially changed and have been realized (or can be expected to be realized within a reasonable time). If the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology have materially changed, an updated business plan and economic analysis may need to be submitted to establish eligibility.

If the job creation estimated in the business plan and economic analysis will not be realized, then it will be the responsibility of the EB-5 investor to notify USCIS of an agreed upon methodology to allocate job creation among eligible investors.

V. Guidelines for Filing Form I-526 Petitions based on the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is affiliated with the Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC, in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual immigrant investor petition, shall also contain the following:

[5] The reliability of job creation estimates provided by an economic analysis is dependent upon the validity of the information and assumptions that form the basis for the analysis. Please be advised that the number of projected jobs were revised lower due to the reduction of Year 4 revenues from [redacted] (Economic Analysis 02/11/2012 with Supplement Dated 12/12/2012 & 08/13/2013, GTA Inc. proforma financial statements Dated 01/27/2012) to [redacted] as documented in the Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013.

[6] Job Creation as a result of this Amendment to include the Series A-2 Preferred Shares offering.

1. A copy of this regional center approval notice and designation letter including all subsequent amendment approval letters (if applicable).

2. An economic impact analysis which reflects a job creation methodology required at 8 CFR § 204.6(j)(4)(iii) and shows how the capital investment by the individual immigrant investor will more likely than not create ten (10) jobs.

3. A comprehensive, detailed and credible business plan for an actual project that contains the factual details necessary to be in compliance with the requirements described in Matter of Ho.

4. Legally executed organizational documents of the commercial enterprise. The documents may be the same documents noted in Section III of this approval notice.

5. If the project timeline has changed significantly from the original business plan, a narrative that explains the changes in the project timeline, along with a timeline that realistically reflects the status of the project should be submitted.

VI. Designee's Responsibilities in the Operations of the Regional Center

As provided in 8 CFR § 204.6(m)(6), to ensure that the regional center continues to meet the requirements of section 610(a) of the Appropriations Act, a regional center must provide USCIS with updated information to demonstrate the regional center is continuing to promote economic growth, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment in the approved geographic area. Such information must be submitted to USCIS on an annual basis or as otherwise requested by USCIS. The applicant must monitor all investment activities under the sponsorship of the regional center and to maintain records in order to provide the information required on the Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924. Form I-924A is available in the "Forms" section on the USCIS website at www.uscis.gov.

Regional centers that remain designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as of September 30th of a calendar year are required to file Form I-924A in that year. The Form I-924A with the required supporting documentation must be filed on or before December 29th of the same calendar year.

The failure to timely file a Form I-924A for each fiscal year in which the regional center has been designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program will result in the issuance of an intent to terminate the participation of the regional center in the Immigrant Investor Program, which may ultimately result in the termination of the designation of the regional center.

The regional center designation is non-transferable.

VII. Legal Notice

This approval and designation of a Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Program does not constitute or imply an endorsement or recommendation by USCIS, the United States Government or any instrumentality thereof, of the investment opportunities, projects or other business activities related to or undertaken by such Regional Center. Except as expressly set forth in this approval and designation, USCIS has not reviewed any information provided in connection with or otherwise related to the Regional Center for compliance with relevant securities laws or any other laws unrelated to eligibility for designation as a Regional Center. Accordingly USCIS makes no determination or representation whatsoever regarding the compliance of either the Regional Center or associated New Commercial Enterprises with such laws.

Each Regional Center designated by USCIS must monitor and oversee all investment offerings and activities associated with, through or under the sponsorship of the Regional Center. The failure of an associated New Commercial Enterprise to comply with all laws and regulations related to such investment offerings and activities may result in the issuance by USCIS of a notice of intent to terminate the Regional Center designation.

If the applicant has any questions concerning the regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program, please contact USCIS by email at USCIS.ImmigrantInvestorProgram@uscis.dhs.gov.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Colucci

Re:	Request to Amend Regional Center Designation Project: GreenTech Automotive, Inc. RCW1221950726

On 02/12/2014, USCIS approved the request of Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC (GCFM) to amend its Regional Center Designation under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program. GCFM submitted electronic correspondence on 02/20/2014 & 02/28/2014 to USCIS citing project related factual errors within the decision letter as it pertained to the number of investors, the EB-5 capital contribution amount and the type of investors.

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) has decided to reconsider the approval decision of the Form I-924, Application for Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program that was filed by the applicant with the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services ("USCIS") on 08/06/2012. After consideration of the law, regulations and policy guiding USCIS, it is concluded that the decision dated, 02/12/2014, was made in error. This has prompted USCIS to reconsider the decision on your Form I-924.

USCIS has reopened and issued an amended approval to your Form I-924 as followed:

The applicant filed the Form I-924 to request approval of an amendment to a previously approved regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program. The Immigrant Investor Program was established under § 610 of the Department of Commerce, Justice and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 1993 (Pub. L. 102-395, Oct. 6, 1992, 106 Stat. 1874).

In addition to the Form I-924, the applicant submitted a completed exemplar Form I-526, Immigrant Petition by Alien Entrepreneur, seeking USCIS review and approval of an actual project supported by a comprehensive business plan as contemplated in Matter of Ho, 22 I. & N. Dec. 206 (Assoc. Comm'r 1998).

I. Executive Summary of Adjudication

Effective the date of this notice, USCIS approves the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project based on the evidence submitted with the above referenced Form I-924 and exemplar Form I-526. The applicant has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. will be a new commercial enterprise (NCE) and that the project is likely to result in the creation of at least [redacted] jobs. USCIS will give deference to the applicant's estimates of actual job creation and economic analysis, the business plan, and the organizational documents, offering memorandum, and investment agreements in subsequent related filings of any Form I-526 filed by an individual investor associated with the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project. Deference, however, will not apply if the underlying facts have materially changed, there is evidence of fraud or misrepresentation in the record of proceeding, or the previously favorable decision is determined to be legally deficient (involved an objective mistake of fact or law).

(b)(4)

II. Procedural History

On August 18, 2008, USCIS approved the Gulf Coast Fund Management, LLC (GCFM) for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as a designated regional center with an approved geographical scope of the entire State of Mississippi and Louisiana. GCFM now seeks to amend its previously approved regional center designation to include an actual project that will be managed by GreenTech Automotive, Inc., an NCE established on July 19, 2012.

III. The Project

Effective the date of this notice, USCIS approves the applicant's amendment request to include the following actual capital investment project supported by an exemplar Form I-526:

Project	Type of Project	Organization Documents	Date of Document
GreenTech Automotive, Inc. Geographic Location:	Actual Project support by an Exemplar Form I-526 Petition Project Investment: Equity	Business Plan	07/19/2012

[1] The job estimate of [redacted] offers sufficient job creation to account for investors in Series "A-1", "A-2" and "A-3" (see Confidential Private Placement Memorandum Dated 03/12/2013 with Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013). This amended application to include Series A-2, requires up to 1,200 jobs. Please reference section IV of this approval letter for more information related to the job creation number.

		Subscription Agreement	As Submitted

Note: If material changes to this project and its supporting documents are found in a subsequent Form I-526 petition or Form I-829, Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions, USCIS will review the supporting documents once more to ensure continued compliance with EB-5 program requirements.

The requested amendment identifies the NCE of the proposed project as GreenTech Automotive, Inc. which was formed in the State of Mississippi on July 19, 2012. The GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project is located at 1323 US Highway 61 in the City of Tunica, Mississippi. Approximately [redacted] EB-5 investors will subscribe to the NCE as preferred shareholders in exchange for capital contributions of $500,000 each and an aggregate of [redacted]

The NCE will contribute the [redacted] of EB-5 capital as an equity investment. The EB-5 capital proceeds will be used to own and operate an automotive manufacturing facility in Tunica, Mississippi. The NCE will manufacture the MyCar, a two-seat electric vehicle with a 25 to 115 mile range between charges, depending on the battery type and size selected by the customer. The projected total cost of the project is [redacted] The operation at the manufacturing auto plant is expected to be on-going and job creation will occur over the next five years and will generate approximately [redacted] jobs.

IV. Job Creation

The job creation methodology presented in the economic impact analysis and underlying business plan is found to be reasonable based on the following inputs, when applying the RIMS II economic model:

NAICS [3]	Industry Name	Input	Multiplier	Jobs[4]
336111	Automobile Manufacturing	[redacted]

[2] Page 20 of the Business Plan Dated 07/19/2012 indicates that GreenTech Automotive, Inc. "intends to use the [redacted] proceeds from the offering of our Preferred Shares for general corporate purposes." The Confidential Private Placement Memorandum Dated 03/12/2013 with Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013 supports an equity investment of up to 120 Series A-2 Preferred Shares [redacted] If the project requires up to [redacted] submitting supporting documents such as a revised Business Plan in a subsequent Form I-526 petition or Form I-829, Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions, USCIS will review the supporting documents to ensure continued compliance with EB-5 program requirements.

[3] These industry codes are used for informational purposes in estimating job creation and do not limit the economic or job creating activity of an approved regional center or its investors. Jobs created in industries not previously identified in the economic methodology may still be credited to the investors in subsequent Form I-526 and Form I-829 filings, as long as the evidence in the record establishes that it is probably true that the requisite jobs are estimated to be created, or have been created, in those additional industries.

[4] The GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project potentially has the capacity to create up to [redacted] jobs from the combined investments of the Series "A-1", "A-2" and "A-3". If fully subscribed, this round of equity investment (Series "A-2") requires [redacted] jobs of the total job estimate that GreenTech Automotive, Inc. proposes to create.

3363	Motor Vehicle Parts Manufacturing (outside new facility)	[redacted]
Total Jobs:		[redacted]

The approval of this Form I-924 application, supported by the exemplar Form I-526 petition, is based upon the assumptions and estimates used as inputs in the business plan for job creation. Please refer to the input and multiplier analysis table above.

The economic analysis accurately portrays the assumptions stated in the business plan, and the calculations using RIMS II multipliers are verifiable. The applicant has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the project is expected to result in the creation of approximately at least [redacted] jobs as part of the total [redacted] jobs calculated associated with the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project.

USCIS will give deference to the job creation methodology when adjudicating Forms I-526 and I-829 associated with GreenTech Automotive, Inc. Deference, however, will not apply if the underlying facts have materially changed, there is evidence of fraud or misrepresentation in the record of proceeding, or the previously favorable decision is determined to be legally deficient (involved an objective mistake of fact or law).

It will be the responsibility of the individual investor to demonstrate that the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology remain materially unchanged when he or she files a Form I-526. When filing Form I-829 for removal of conditional status, the individual investor has the burden of demonstrating that the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology have not materially changed and have been realized (or can be expected to be realized within a reasonable time). If the assumptions and estimates presented as inputs to the job creation methodology have materially changed, an updated business plan and economic analysis may need to be submitted to establish eligibility.

If the job creation estimated in the business plan and economic analysis will not be realized, then it will be the responsibility of the EB-5 investor to notify USCIS of an agreed upon methodology to allocate job creation among eligible investors.

V. Guidelines for Filing Form I-526 Petitions based on the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is affiliated with the Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC, in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual immigrant investor petition, shall also contain the following:

[5] The reliability of job creation estimates provided by an economic analysis is dependent upon the validity of the information and assumptions that form the basis for the analysis. Please be advised that the number of projected jobs were revised lower due to the reduction of Year 4 revenues from [redacted] (Economic Analysis 02/11/2012 with Supplement Dated 12/12/2012 & 08/13/2013, GTA Inc. proforma financial statements Dated 01/27/2012) to [redacted] as documented in the Confidential Memorandum update Dated 06/17/2013.

[6] Job Creation as a result of this Amendment to include the Series A-2 Preferred Shares offering.

1. A copy of this regional center approval notice and designation letter including all subsequent amendment approval letters (if applicable).

2. An economic impact analysis which reflects a job creation methodology required at 8 CFR § 204.6(j)(4)(iii) and shows how the capital investment by the individual immigrant investor will more likely than not create ten (10) jobs.

3. A comprehensive, detailed and credible business plan for an actual project that contains the factual details necessary to be in compliance with the requirements described in Matter of Ho.

4. Legally executed organizational documents of the commercial enterprise. The documents may be the same documents noted in Section III of this approval notice.

5. If the project timeline has changed significantly from the original business plan, a narrative that explains the changes in the project timeline, along with a timeline that realistically reflects the status of the project should be submitted.

VI. Designee's Responsibilities in the Operations of the Regional Center

As provided in 8 CFR § 204.6(m)(6), to ensure that the regional center continues to meet the requirements of section 610(a) of the Appropriations Act, a regional center must provide USCIS with updated information to demonstrate the regional center is continuing to promote economic growth, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment in the approved geographic area. Such information must be submitted to USCIS on an annual basis or as otherwise requested by USCIS. The applicant must monitor all investment activities under the sponsorship of the regional center and to maintain records in order to provide the information required on the Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924. Form I-924A is available in the "Forms" section on the USCIS website at www.uscis.gov.

Regional centers that remain designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as of September 30th of a calendar year are required to file Form I-924A in that year. The Form I-924A with the required supporting documentation must be filed on or before December 29th of the same calendar year.

The failure to timely file a Form I-924A for each fiscal year in which the regional center has been designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program will result in the issuance of an intent to terminate the participation of the regional center in the Immigrant Investor Program, which may ultimately result in the termination of the designation of the regional center.

The regional center designation is non-transferable.

VII. Legal Notice

This approval and designation of a Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Program does not constitute or imply an endorsement or recommendation by USCIS, the United States Government or any instrumentality thereof, of the investment opportunities, projects or other business activities related to or undertaken by such Regional Center. Except as expressly set forth in this approval and designation, USCIS has not reviewed any information provided in connection with or otherwise related to the Regional Center for compliance with relevant securities laws or any other laws unrelated to eligibility for designation as a Regional Center. Accordingly USCIS makes no determination or representation whatsoever regarding the compliance of either the Regional Center or associated New Commercial Enterprises with such laws.

Each Regional Center designated by USCIS must monitor and oversee all investment offerings and activities associated with, through or under the sponsorship of the Regional Center. The failure of an associated New Commercial Enterprise to comply with all laws and regulations related to such investment offerings and activities may result in the issuance by USCIS of a notice of intent to terminate the Regional Center designation.

If the applicant has any questions concerning the regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program, please contact USCIS by email at USCIS.ImmigrantInvestorProgram@uscis.dhs.gov.

A. Job Creation

The job creation methodology presented in the economic impact analysis and underlying business plan is found to be reasonable based on the following inputs, when applying the IMPLAN economic model:

methodology and projected inputs must be submitted when the individual investor's Form I-526 is filed in order to receive deference.

V. Guidelines for Filing Form I-526 Petitions based on GreenTech Automotive, Inc. project

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is affiliated with the Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC, in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual immigrant investor petition, shall also contain the following:

1. A copy of this regional center approval notice and designation letter including all subsequent amendment approval letters (if applicable).

2. An economic impact analysis which reflects a job creation methodology required at 8 CFR § 204.6 (j)(4)(iii) and shows how the capital investment by an individual immigrant investor will create not fewer than ten (10) indirect jobs for each immigrant investor.

3. A comprehensive, detailed and credible business plan for an actual project that contains the factual details necessary to be in compliance with the requirements described in Matter of Ho, 22 I&N Dec. 206 (Assoc. Comm'r 1998).

4. Legally executed organizational documents of the commercial enterprise. The documents may be the same documents noted in Section IV of this approval notice.

Note: If the project timeline has changed significantly from the original business plan, a narrative that explains the changes in the project timeline, along with a timeline that realistically reflects the status of the project should be submitted.

VI. Designee's Responsibilities in the Operations of the Regional Center

As provided in 8 CFR § 204.6 (m)(6), to ensure that the regional center continues to meet the requirements of section 610(a) of the Appropriations Act, a regional center must provide USCIS with updated information to demonstrate the regional center is continuing to promote economic growth, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment in the approved geographic area. Such information must be submitted to USCIS on an annual basis or as otherwise requested by USCIS. The applicant must monitor all investment activities under the sponsorship of the regional center and maintain records in order to provide the information required on the Form I-924A Supplement to Form I-924. Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924 Application is available in the "Forms" section on the USCIS website at www.uscis.gov.

Regional centers that remain designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program as of September 30th of a calendar year are required to file Form I-924A Supplement in that year. The Form I-924A Supplement with the required supporting documentation must be filed on or before December 29th of the same calendar year.

The failure to timely file a Form I-924A Supplement for each fiscal year in which the regional center has been designated for participation in the Immigrant Investor Program will result in the issuance of an intent to terminate the participation of the regional center in the Immigrant Investor Program, which may ultimately result in the termination of the designation of the regional center.

The regional center designation is non-transferable, as any changes in management of the regional center will require the approval of an amendment to the approved regional center designation.

If the applicant has any questions concerning the regional center designation under the Immigrant Investor Program, please contact the USCIS by email at USCIS.ImmigrantInvestorProgram@uscis.dhs.gov.

LEGAL NOTICE:

This approval under the Immigrant Investor Program does not constitute or imply an endorsement or recommendation by USCIS, the United States Government or any instrumentality thereof, of the investment opportunities, projects or other business activities related to or undertaken by such Regional Center. Except as expressly set forth in this approval and designation, USCIS has not reviewed any information provided in connection with or otherwise related to the Regional Center for compliance with relevant securities laws or any other laws unrelated to eligibility for designation as a Regional Center. Accordingly USCIS makes no determination or representation whatsoever regarding the compliance of either the Regional Center or associated New Commercial Enterprises with such laws.

Each Regional Center designated by USCIS must monitor and oversee all investment offerings and activities associated with, through or under the sponsorship of the Regional Center. The failure of an associated New Commercial Enterprise to comply with all laws and regulations related to such investment offerings and activities may result in the issuance by USCIS of a notice of intent to terminate the Regional Center designation.

Dear Madam or Sir:

This letter responds to your Request for Clarification (RFC), received by e-mail on December 3, 2013, in the above-referenced matter.

Your RFC seeks further clarification concerning the indirect input of [ ] jobs and what this number represents and how it was derived. As noted in our submission, the [ ] indirect jobs would be located externally in supplier facilities. Pursuant to your request, below is the response prepared by Evans, Carroll & Associates (ECA). As the response and our previous submission indicates, [ ] is the total value of shipments for this plant and the average output per employee for automobile manufacturing, according to the 2010 national IMPLAN model, is [ ] This figure is expected to increase about [ ] per year, or a total of [ ] from 2010 to 2013, which would be abou [ ] at 2013 levels. When divided into [ ], that would be [ ] employees engaged in manufacturing auto parts outside this plant, as previously calculated by ECA. (b)(4)

Response prepared by Evans, Carroll & Associates

Materials are [ ] of shipments, according to the Census, see Table 1 (from the previous response). Total value of shipments is about [ ] for this plant, also from the previous response. Hence total value of materials is about [ ] As shown previously, an estimated [ ] of these parts and materials are produced locally, which would reduce the figure to [ ] The average output per employee for automobile manufacturing, according to the 2010 national IMPLAN model (see Table 2) is [ ] (b)(4)

(b)(4)

Table 1. Shipments, Value Added, and Materials Costs for Alabama Auto Manufacturing Plants

Geographic area name	2007 NAICS code	Meaning of 2007 NAICS code	Year	Percent estimated	Number of establishments	Establishments with 20 employees or more	Number of employees	Annual payroll ($1,000)	Production workers avg per year	Production workers hours ($1,000)	Production workers, nonleased employee wages ($1,000)	Value added ($1,000)	Total cost of materials ($1,000)	Total value of shipments ($1,000)	Total capital expenditures (new and used) ($1,000)
Alabama	336	Transportation equipment manufacturing	2007

Industry Code	Description	Employment	Output	Employee Compensation	Proprietory Income	Other Property Type Income	Tax on Production and Imports

This figure is expected to increase about per year, or a total of from 2010 to 2013, which would be about at 2013 levels. When divided into that would be employees engaged in manufacturing auto parts as previously calculated.

Form I-797E

A request for initial designation as a Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Program or an amendment to an existing Regional Center designation, may involve:

1. A request for review of an exemplar Form I-526, Immigrant Petition by Alien Entrepreneur, prior to the filing of Form I-526 petitions by individual alien entrepreneurs with USCIS and/or;
2. In the case of a Regional Center amendment request, a review of a new specific capital investment project where the Regional Center designation involved a review of an exemplar capital investment project.

It appears that the applicant is requesting an amendment to the Regional Center designation

Background:

The Regional Center entity, Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC, ("the regional center"), was established on October 21, 2008 in Mississippi, and is structured as an LLC. The regional center was initially approved for designation in the Pilot Program on August 18, 2008. Based on the initial designation and any subsequently approved designation amendments, the regional center has jurisdiction over the following geographic area:

State	Counties	Approval Date
Mississippi	Entire State	August 18, 2008
Louisiana	Entire State	August 18, 2008

The regional center is authorized to focus investment activities in the following approved industry categories:

Industry Category	NAICS	Approval Date
Shipbuilding		August 18, 2008
Food Processing Plants		August 18, 2008
Manufacturing Plants		August 18, 2008

The Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924, requires that the regional center provide statistical data regarding capital investments and job creation impacts for each industry category and North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) code identified by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Census Bureau. In order to comply with this requirement, it is recommended that the regional center modify their approved categories to the following industry categories:

Industry Category	NAICS	Approval Date
Ship and Boat Building	3366	August 18, 2008
Food Manufacturing	311	August 18, 2008
Manufacturing	31-33	August 18, 2008

The capital investment projects have or will involve equity investments or loans to job creating enterprises located within the proposed bounds of the Regional Center.

The regional center is requesting to modify its designation as follows:

The regional center requests to amend the approved regional center designation concerns the addition of new industry categories, which will relate to the construction and operation of a new automotive manufacturing plant instrumental in the production of electric vehicles, which will be located in Tunica, Mississippi.

The regional center requests USCIS's review of an actual project, which is supported by an Exemplar I-526 Petition. USCIS will review the Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-2, LLC ("Fund A-2") Project business plan in regard to whether it is "Matter of Ho" compliant. If USCIS deems that the project complies with Matter of Ho requirements, the project will be mentioned by name in an approval notice.

Evidentiary Requirements for Regional Center Proposals

8 CFR 204.6 (m)(3), which is appended to this notice, describes the evidence that must be submitted in support of a Regional Center proposal. After review of the proposal, the following information, evidence and/or clarification is required. Note that in response to this notice, that it is helpful to provide a cover letter that acts as an executive summary, followed by a table of contents with sections that are tabbed at the bottom of the page.

Issue #1: Indirect Job Creation (8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(ii))

Section 610(c) of the Departments of Commerce, Justice and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 1993, as amended, allows aliens admitted under the pilot program described in this section to establish reasonable methodologies for determining the number of jobs created by the pilot program, including jobs which are estimated to have been created indirectly through revenues, improved regional productivity, job creation, or increased domestic capital investment resulting from the pilot program.

8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(ii) requires that a Regional Center proposal must provide in verifiable detail how jobs will be created indirectly, while 8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(v) describes the analytical tools that the Regional Center must employ when making economic and job creation predictions. It is also noted in 8 CFR 204.6(m)(1) in pertinent part that except as provided herein, aliens seeking to obtain immigration benefits under this paragraph continue to be subject to all conditions and restrictions set forth in section 203(b)(5) of the Act and this section.

The reliability of job creation estimates provided by an economic analysis is dependent upon the validity of the information and assumptions that form the basis for the analysis. Any business plan, exemplar or actual, provided in support of a Regional Center proposal or amendment must contain sufficient specificity to provide valid and reasoned inputs into the economic model, if such a model is used to demonstrate job creation for EB-5 purposes. Otherwise, a determination cannot be made that the Regional Center proposal demonstrates in "verifiable detail" that the requisite jobs will be created. The ability of the regional center to address the issues regarding the feasibility of each capital investment project, the validity of the economic analysis, and the timing of the EB-5 job creation is critical to the success of the immigrant investors' immigration process.

The economic model described in the proposal is IMPLAN.

The regional center's proposed project involves the construction and operation of automotive manufacturing plant in Tunica, Mississippi. The automotive facility will design, manufacture and sell electric vehicles. The first car to be manufactured will be, MyCar, a two-seat electric vehicle. A subsequent vehicle, MyCar EV is expected to be produced in early 2014. The project is the second phase in an anticipated three phase plan to build an automobile manufacturing facility on a 100 acre parcel of land. The regional center estimates the total cost of the project to be [ ] of which [ ] will be from fifty [ ] EB-5 investors.

The regional center requests to add two new industry categories based on the business plan and economic analysis submitted. The new requested industry categories include:

New Requested Industry Categories	NAICS
Automotive Manufacturing	336111
Motor Vehicle Parts Manufacturing	3363

Based on the Market Segment Criteria, high gasoline prices, and strong public concern for environmental protection, the regional center expects that the initial market for MyCar and MyCar EV sales will be in Europe. The regional center anticipates that the electric vehicle market in the European Union will grow primarily due to two factors: (i) a long standing appreciation for micro-cars and (ii) substantial government incentives. Based on these factors, the regional center believes the current demand for small electric vehicles in Europe exceed the supply. However, the regional center does not present the data from their market study to support this expectation.

The business plan does not include financial statements. Without pro forma financial data, USCIS cannot assess the feasibility of the proposed project to determine that there is a reasonably high probability that the project is viable and will meet requisite job creation. The regional center must provide pro forma financial forecasts and verifiable data and analysis that demonstrate the feasibility of the project.

The regional center solicited the expertise of Evans, Carroll & Associates, Inc. (Evans-Carroll) to conduct the economic impact analysis. Evans-Carroll calculates the potential economic impacts of manufacturing at the new facility and sourcing of parts for the assembly production process.

The critical assumptions of the analysis are summarized in the table below:

Activity	NAICS/IMPLAN	Input	Multiplier	Total Jobs
Operations of manufacturing facility	336111/ 276
Parts manufacturing (outside new facility)	3363/ 283

(b)(4)

* Evans-Carroll states that these direct jobs are located outside the area of the regional center. Thus, the direct jobs are not counted, but indirect and induced jobs are included.

The regional center anticipates [ ] direct employees at the proposed manufacturing facility, which Evans-Carroll uses as an input to IMPLAN. However, the regional center has not provided an industry source or benchmark comparison to establish the credibility and validity of this specific amount of employment. The regional center must still submit evidence that the [ ] direct employees fall within reasonable range of similar projects. .

The regional center estimates the direct employment from parts manufacturing outside the new EB-5 funded facility. It is estimated that 56% of the value and 90% of the actual amount of parts sourced to each car will be derived from parts manufactured outside the proposed new manufacturing facility. USCIS recognizes that the purchase of pre-made parts for the manufacturing process is typical for this type of business and requires a large and geographically diverse supply chain. However, there are three concerns with the applicant's use of activity relevant to the parts supply to as direct inputs into IMPLAN:

1. Evans-Carroll estimates that [ ] direct jobs will result from the manufacturing of those parts and uses these jobs as a direct employment input. However, no sources, methods, or explanation is provided concerning this calculation and derivation of this estimate. .

2. The direct effect multipliers used to estimate total job creation, are calibrated at the national level to account for the wide supply chain. However, there is a strong possibility that some of the parts will be imported from outside the U.S. The regional center must clearly explain where the parts are sourced from, so USCIS can be confident that they are not imported.

3. The indirect employment effect is double-counted. This issue exists because the first calculation, for the [ ] direct, indirect, and induced employment resulting from the manufacturing facility, includes the job creation estimated by the second calculation pertaining to the parts. The indirect effects of the direct employment at the manufacturing facility account for suppliers of the manufacturing facility, including automobile parts manufacturers. The second calculation also estimates the effects of automobile parts purchases.

(b)(4)

Due to these concerns the [redacted] jobs created from parts manufacturing is ineligible because the evidence submitted has not substantiated the validity of the inputs. The regional center must submit a revised economic analysis addressing the above deficiencies.

Issue #2: Capital at Risk (8 C.F.R. 204.6(j)(2))

Redemption Agreements

It appears from the Confidential Private Placement Memorandum, effective as of July 19, 2012 (on page 9), and the Subscription Agreement, submitted August 6, 2012 (on page 2), that the EB-5 investment funds may not be entirely at risk. Redemption agreements that involve the guaranteed return of capital are not EB-5 compliant. The organizational documents for the regional center should be written so that the immigrant investor can comply with EB-5 regulations.

8 C.F.R. 204.6(j)(2) states that:

> ...To show that the petitioner has invested or is actively in the process of investing the required amount of capital, the petition must be accompanied by evidence that the petitioner has placed the required amount of capital at risk for the purpose of generating a return on the capital placed at risk....

In Matter of Izummi, 22 I&N Dec. 169 (Comm'r 1998) the Service held that a "sell-option" or redemption agreement between an alien investor and the new commercial enterprise in effect constitutes "debt" and cannot qualify as a contribution of "capital" as defined at 8 C.F.R. 204.6(e). A "sell-option" or redemption agreement exists when the alien has the right to require the enterprise to purchase his or her interest in the enterprise at a future time. The decision further states:

> ...To enter into a redemption agreement at the time of making an "investment" evidences a preconceived intent to unburden oneself of the investment as soon as possible after unconditional permanent resident status is attained. This is conceptually no different from a situation in which an alien marries a U.S. citizen and states, in writing that he will divorce her in two years. The focus here is on the green card and not on the business... [One] could argue that an alien who enters into a redemption agreement considers the continued success on the U.S. workers and U.S. businesses secondary. His primary concern is obtaining a permanent resident status for as little money as possible.

> can he be assured that he will receive a certain price. Otherwise, the arrangement is nothing more than a loan, albeit an unsecured one.
> ... An investment assumes that a risk exists. The alien must go into the investment not knowing for sure if he will be able to sell his interest at all after he obtains his unconditional permanent resident status; and if he is successful in selling his interest, the sale price may be disappointingly low (or surprising high and more than what he paid), This way, the alien risks both gain and loss. To allow otherwise transforms the arrangement into a loan.

The following provisions found in the organizational documents, submitted in support of the application, indicate that there is a guaranteed return of the $500,000 capital investment and $40,000 of the Administrative Fee, if Form I-829 petition is denied:

> If the Subscriber's I-829 Petition is denied by the USCIS due to insufficient job creation solely resulting from the Company's gross negligence, the Company will redeem the investor's Preferred Shares of Converted Shares, as applicable and cause the Management Company to repay $40,000 of the Administrative Fee (without interest) within one-hundred and twenty (120) calendar days of the later to occur of (i) the Company's receipt of written notification from the Subscriber of such denial and the Subscriber's written request for the Company to redeem its Preferred Shares or his or her Converted Shares and
> ...
> If the Subscriber's I-829 Petition is denied by the USCIS due to insufficient job creation solely resulting from the Company's gross negligence, the Company will return to the Subscriber the Accepted Commitment plus $40,000 of the Administrative Fee (without interest) within one-hundred and twenty (120) calendar days of the later to occur of (i) the Company's receipt of written notification from the Subscriber of such denial and the Subscriber's written request for the Company to redeem its Preferred Shares or his or her Common Shares received upon conversion of his or her Preferred Shares and...

The two provisions found in the organization documents provide a written agreement between the new commercial enterprise and the immigrant investor. The written agreement provides the immigrant investor a buy back arrangement, whereas the Company will redeem the investors Preferred Shares, if sufficient job creation is not attained by the job creating entity. This arrangement is impermissible and must be amended or removed from the organization documents.

Issue #3: Incomplete Documentation

The GreenTech Automotive Confidential Private Placement Memorandum (p. viii) and the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. Private Placement of Series A-2 Preferred Shares Subscription Booklet (p. 4) indicate that a Confidential Memorandum Update is to be signed by the subscriber. Please submit a copy of the Confidential Memorandum Update, dated July 19, 2012, any promissory notes between GreenTech Automotive, Inc. and potential investors, and all subsequent EB-5 Investor subscription agreements.

Copies:

Unless specifically required that an original document be filed with an application or petition, an ordinary legible photocopy may be submitted. Original documents submitted when not required will remain part of the record, even if the submission was not required.

Regulatory References

The regulation at 8 CFR 204.6(e) provides the following definitions:

Regional center

means any economic unit, public or private, which is involved with the promotion of economic growth, including increased export sales, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment.

The regulation at 8 CFR 204.6(j)(4) provides:

Job creation --

(i) General. To show that a new commercial enterprise will create not fewer than ten (10) full-time positions for qualifying employees, the petition must be accompanied by:

(A) Documentation consisting of photocopies of relevant tax records, Form I-9, or other similar documents for ten (10) qualifying employees, if such employees have already been hired following the establishment of the new commercial enterprise; or

(B) A copy of a comprehensive business plan showing that, due to the nature and projected size of the new commercial enterprise, the need for not fewer than ten (10) qualifying employees will result, including approximate dates, within the next two years, and when such employees will be hired.

(ii) Troubled business. To show that a new commercial enterprise which has been established through a capital investment in a troubled business meets the statutory employment creation requirement, the petition must be accompanied by evidence that the number of existing employees is being or will be maintained at no less than the pre-investment level for a period of at least two years. Photocopies of tax records, Forms I-9, or other relevant documents for the qualifying employees and a comprehensive business plan shall be submitted in support of the petition.

(iii) Immigrant Investor Pilot Program. To show that the new commercial enterprise located within a regional center approved for participation in the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program meets the statutory employment creation requirement, the petition must be accompanied by evidence that the investment will create full-time positions for not fewer than 10 persons either directly or indirectly through revenues generated from increased exports resulting from the Pilot Program. Such evidence may be demonstrated by reasonable methodologies including those set forth in paragraph (m)(3) of this section.

The regulation at 8 CFR 204.6(m)(1) provides:

(1) Scope. The Immigrant Investor Pilot Program is established solely pursuant to the provisions of section 610 of the Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, and subject to all conditions and restrictions stipulated in that section. Except as provided herein, aliens seeking to obtain immigration benefits under this paragraph continue to be subject to all conditions and restrictions set forth in section 203(b)(5) of the Act and this section.

The regulation at 8 CFR 204.6(m)(3) provides:

(3) Requirements for regional centers. Each regional center wishing to participate in the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program shall submit a proposal to the Assistant Commissioner for Adjudications, which:

(i) Clearly describes how the regional center focuses on a geographical region of the United States, and how it will promote economic growth through increased export sales, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment;

(ii) Provides in verifiable detail how jobs will be created indirectly through increased exports;

(iii) Provides a detailed statement regarding the amount and source of capital which has been committed to the regional center, as well as a description of the promotional efforts taken and planned by the sponsors of the regional center;

(iv) Contains a detailed prediction regarding the manner in which the regional center will have a positive impact on the regional or national economy in general as reflected by such factors as increased household earnings, greater demand for business services, utilities, maintenance and repair, and construction both within and without the regional center; and

(v) Is supported by economically or statistically valid forecasting tools, including, but not limited to, feasibility studies, analyses of foreign and domestic markets for the goods or services to be exported, and/or multiplier tables.

Note that promoting economic growth through increased export sales is no longer a requirement.

The regulation at 8 CFR 204.6(m)(6) provides:

(6) Termination of participation of regional centers. To ensure that regional centers continue to meet the requirements of section 610(a) of the Appropriations Act, a regional center must provide USCIS with updated information to demonstrate the regional center is continuing to promote economic growth, improved regional productivity, job creation, or increased domestic capital investment in the approved geographic area. Such information must be submitted to USCIS on an annual basis, on a cumulative basis, and/or as otherwise requested by USCIS, using a form designated for this purpose. USCIS will issue a notice of intent to terminate the participation of a regional center in the pilot program if a regional center fails to submit the required information or upon a determination that the regional center no longer serves the purpose of promoting economic growth, including increased export sales, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment. The notice of intent to terminate shall be made upon notice to the regional center and shall set forth the reasons for termination. The regional center must be provided 30 days from receipt of the notice of intent to terminate to offer evidence in opposition to the ground or grounds alleged in the notice of intent to terminate. If USCIS determines that the regional center's participation in the Pilot Program should be terminated, USCIS shall notify the regional center of the decision and of the reasons for termination. As provided in 8 CFR 103.3, the regional center may appeal the decision to USCIS within 30 days after the service of notice.

- ☐ 2. Corporation
- ☐ 3. Partnership (including Limited Partnership)
- ☒ 4. Limited Liability Company (LLC)
- ☐ 5. Other (Explain) _____

2. Has this regional center's designation ever been formally terminated by USCIS, or has the regional center ever filed a Form I-924 or regional center proposal or amendment that was denied?

☒ No ☐ Yes - Attach a copy of the adverse decision, with an explanation, the date of decision, and case number, if any.

3. Describe the geographic area of the regional center. Note: This area must be contiguous. Provide a map of the geographic area.

The Regional Center geographic area is comprised of the entire states of Mississippi and Louisiana. The geographic focus of this area contains numerous High Unemployment Targeted Employment Areas (TEA) as designated by the States of Mississippi and Louisiana, and rural TEA's as defined in 8 CFR 204.6(e).

4. Describe the regional center's administration, oversight, and management functions that are or will be in place to monitor all EB-5 capital investment activities and the allocation of the resulting jobs created or maintained under the sponsorship of the regional center.

Due to the large scope and scale of projects expected to be completed under the Regional Center, ("RC") the status, completion and operation of the job creating enterprise will be carefully monitored by the RC. The RC will be responsible for reviewing reports, financial documents, tax filings, bank accounts, receipts/invoices, general expenditures as well as contracts related to the funding of the EB-5 related project. The RC will then prepare correlated and organized information regarding job creation, and provide this information to the new commercial enterprise at the appropriate time intervals including at the close of the fiscal year in anticipation of filing the 1-924A with the U.S. The Center will provide specific information on the methodology utilized for each project to USCIS with any required filings. Please see attached Addendum for further explanation.

5. Describe the past, current, and future promotional activities for the regional center. Include a description of the budget for this activity, along with evidence of the funds committed to the regional center for promotional activities. Describe whether and how the regional center is engaged in supporting a due diligence screening of its alien investor's lawful source of capital and the alien investor's ability to fully invest the requisite amount of capital. Also, describe the regional center's prospective plans in this regard if they differ from past practice.

The RC engages in the full due diligence screening of its potential EB-5 investors to ensure that it is is able to properly verify the lawful source of funds, which includes requesting income tax returns and substantial documentation evidencing the funds intended for investment were derived from lawful sources. Furthermore, as noted in the sample Subscription Agreement, investors must verify that they can afford to bear the risk of such an investment and will have no need for liquidity from these investments.

7. Identify each industry that has or will be the focus of EB-5 capital investments sponsored through the regional center.

Re: Amendment to a Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program

BACKGROUND:

Pursuant to Section 610 of the Appropriations Act of 1993, on January 17, 2008, GCFM submitted a proposal for the designation of Gulf Coast Funds Management Regional Center which focuses on the entirety of the states of Mississippi and Louisiana. The industry focus is primarily as follows:

1. Shipbuilding,
2. Food Processing Plants, and
3. Manufacturing Plants.

The initial proposal contained the following evidence in support of its requested designation:

- A Job Creation Analysis and Econometric Model prepared by a professional economic analysis firm which specifically calculates but excludes construction jobs from the detailed prediction;
- A business plan reflecting the timing, scale and planned use of the alien investor capital;
- A Private Placement Memorandum;
- An Operating Agreement;
- A Subscription Agreement; and
- A Management Agreement.

The initial regional center proposal for GCFM was approved by USCIS on August 18, 2008.

On May 7, 2009, petitioner submitted an amendment to its approved regional center requesting the establishment of two additional investment GCFM funds. The amendment is approved. The separate IMPLAN investment funds have been added below.

EMPLOYMENT CREATION:

Alien entrepreneurs who file petitions for commercial enterprises located in the GCFM area must fulfill all of the requirements set forth in 8 CFR 204.6, except that the petition need not show that the new commercial enterprises created ten new jobs indirectly as a result of the alien entrepreneur's investment. This determination has been established by way of USCIS' acceptance of the final economic analysis that is contained as part of the approved GCFM proposal and its indirect job creation model and multipliers contained within the final approved GCFM application package. In addition, where job creation or preservation of existing jobs is claimed based on a multiplier rooted in underlying new "direct jobs" in support of an immigrant investor's individual I-526 petition affiliated with the GCFM, then:

- To be credited with projected creation of new "direct" jobs for "qualifying employees" upon filing the I-526 petition, then the petition must be supported by a comprehensive detailed business plan and supporting financial, marketing and related data and analysis providing a reasonable basis for projecting creation of any new direct jobs for "qualifying employees" to be achieved/realized within two years pursuant to 8 CFR 204.6(j)(4)(B).

An alien investor's I-829 petition to remove the conditions which was based on an I-526 petition approval that involved the creation of new direct jobs or the creation of new indirect jobs based on a multiplier tied to underlying new direct jobs needs to be properly supported by evidence of job creation. To support the full number of direct and indirect new jobs being claimed in connection with removal of conditions, the petition will need to be supported by probative evidence of the number of new direct full time (35 hours per week) jobs for qualified employees whose positions have been created as a result of the alien's investment. Such evidence may include copies of quarterly state employment tax reports, Forms W-2, Forms I-9, and any other pertinent employment records sufficient to demonstrate the number of qualified employees whose jobs were created directly.

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is associated with the GCFM , in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual alien entrepreneur petition, shall also contain as supporting evidence relating to this amended regional center designation, the following:

1. A copy of this letter for the GCFM amendment approval and designation.

2. A copy of the approved regional center narrative proposal and business plan.

3. A copy of the job creation methodology required in 8 CFR 204.6(j)(4)(iii), as contained in the regional center economic analysis which has been approved by USCIS, which reflects that investment by an individual alien investor of at least $500,000 into the Transit Village or any other similar project will create full-time employment positions, either directly or indirectly, for not fewer than ten qualified employees per alien investor.

4. Be prepared to provide:

   a. the name, date of birth, petition receipt number, and alien registration number (if one has been assigned by USCIS) of each principal alien investor who has made an investment and has filed an EB-5/I-526 Petition with USCIS, specifying whether:
      i. the petition was filed.
      ii. is pending,
      iii. was approved.
      iv. denied, or
      v. withdrawn by the petitioner, together with the date(s) of such event.

   b. The total number of visas represented in each case for the principal alien investor identified in 4.a. above, plus his/her dependents (spouse and children) for whom immigrant status is sought or has been granted.

   c. The country of nationality of each alien investor who has made an investment and filed an EB-5/I-526 petition with USCIS.

   d. The U.S. city and state of residence (or intended residence) of each alien investor who has made an investment and filed an EB-5/I-526 petition with USCIS.

   e. For each alien investor listed in item 4.a., above, identify the following:

      i. the date(s) of investment in the commercial enterprise;

      ii. the amount(s) of investment in the commercial enterprise; and

      iii. the date(s), nature, and amount(s) of any payment/remuneration/profit/return on investment made to the alien investor by the commercial enterprise and/or regional center from when the investment was initiated to the present.

5. Be prepared to identify/list each of the target industry categories of business activity within the geographic boundaries of your regional center that have:

   a. received alien investors' capital, and in what aggregate amounts;

   b. received non-EB-5 domestic capital that has been combined and invested together, specifying the separate aggregate amounts of the domestic investment capital;

   c. of the total investor capital (alien and domestic) identified above in 5.a and 5.b, identify and list the following:
      i. The name and address of each "direct" job creating commercial enterprise.
      ii. The industry category for each indirect job creating investment activity.

- the RC mailing address, web site address, email address, phone and fax number,

Re: Proposal for Designation of Gulf Coast Funds Management (GCFM) as a USCIS recognized Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program

BACKGROUND:

Pursuant to Section 610 of the Appropriations Act of 1993, on January 17, 2008, Gulf Coast Funds Management (GCFM) submitted a proposal seeking approval and designation by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) of the GCFM Regional Center (GCFM-RC), with a geographic area focusing on the entirety of the states of Mississippi and Louisiana. The GCFM-RC for EB-5 Immigrant Investor purposes shall focus investment in the following three target industry economic clusters:

1. Shipbuilding;
2. Food Processing; and
3. Manufacturing.

The initial proposal contained the following evidence in support of its requested designation:

- A Job Creation Analysis and Econometric Model prepared by a professional economic analysis firm which specifically calculates but excludes construction jobs from the detailed prediction;
- A business plan reflecting the timing, scale and planned use of the alien investor capital;
- A sample Private Placement Memorandum;
- A sample Operating Agreement;
- A sample Subscription Agreement; and
- A sample Management Agreement.

- To be credited with projected creation of new "direct" jobs for "qualifying employees" upon filing the I-526 petition, then the petition must be supported by a comprehensive detailed business plan and supporting financial, marketing and related data and analysis providing a reasonable basis for projecting creation of any new direct jobs for "qualifying employees" to be achieved/realized within two years pursuant to 8 CFR 204.6(j)(4)(B).

For purposes of an alien investor's filing of a subsequent I-829 petition to remove the conditions wherein the investment through the GCFM-RC in an enterprise for which the initial I-526 petition approval involved the creation of new direct jobs or the creation of new indirect jobs based on a multiplier tied to underlying new direct jobs, then to support the full number of direct and indirect new jobs being claimed at that point, an alien's subsequent I-829 petition will need to be supported by probative evidence of the number of new direct full time (35 hours per week) for qualified employees whose positions have been created as a result of the alien's investment. Such evidence may include copies of quarterly state employment tax reports, Forms W-2, Forms I-9, and any other pertinent employment records sufficient to demonstrate the number of qualified employees whose jobs were created directly.

Each individual petition, in order to demonstrate that it is associated with the GCFM-RC , in conjunction with addressing all the requirements for an individual immigrant investor petition, shall also contain as supporting evidence relating to this amended regional center designation, the following:

1. A copy of this letter for the GCFM-RC approval and designation.

2. A copy of the USCIS approved regional center narrative proposal and business plan.[1]

3. A copy of the job creation methodology required in 8 CFR 204.6(j)(4)(iii), as contained in the final regional center economic analysis which has been approved by USCIS, which reflects that investment by an individual immigrant investor will create not fewer than ten (10) full-time employment positions, either directly or indirectly, per each immigrant investor.

4. A legally executed copy of the USCIS approved:

   a. Private Placement Memorandum;
   b. Subscription Agreement;

[1]With respect to an individual I-526 individual investor petition, for any large scale high impact investor manufacturing or processing projects such as a shipyard, other large-scale manufacturing or processing plants, the detailed business plan should also address or reflect those project critical factors associated with infrastructure required to support operations on the scale proposed, in terms of roads, rail tracks and facilities, port capacity, water, sewage, electrical power capacity to meet the projected demand imposed by the envisioned facility, fire fighting services and capabilities, and environmental impact issues.

has been assigned by USCIS) of each principal alien investor who has made an investment and has filed an EB-5/I-526 Petition with USCIS, specifying whether:

i. the petition was filed,
ii. is pending,
iii. was approved,
iv. denied, or
v. withdrawn by the petitioner, together with the date(s) of such event.

b. The total number of visas represented in each case for the principal alien investor identified in 4.a. above, plus his/her dependents (spouse and children) for whom immigrant status is sought or has been granted.

c. The country of nationality of each alien investor who has made an investment and filed an EB-5/I-526 petition with USCIS.

d. The U.S. city and state of residence (or intended residence) of each alien investor who has made an investment and filed an EB-5/I-526 petition with USCIS.

e. For each alien investor listed in item 4.a., above, identify the following:

i. the date(s) of investment in the commercial enterprise;

ii. the amount(s) of investment in the commercial enterprise; and

iii. the date(s), nature, and amount(s) of any payment/remuneration/profit/return on investment made to the alien investor by the commercial enterprise and/or regional center from when the investment was initiated to the present.

5. Be prepared to identify/list each of the target industry categories of business activity within the geographic boundaries of your regional center that have:

a. received alien investors' capital, and in what aggregate amounts;

b. received non-EB-5 domestic capital that has been combined and invested together, specifying the separate aggregate amounts of the domestic investment capital;

c. of the total investor capital (alien and domestic) identified above in 5.a and 5.b, identify and list the following:
i. The name and address of each "direct" job creating commercial enterprise.
ii. The industry category for each indirect job creating investment activity.

6. Be prepared to provide:

a. The total aggregate number of approved EB-5 alien investor I-526 petitions per each

- the management and administration of the RC,
- the RC structure,
- the RC mailing address, web site address, email address, phone and fax number,
- the scope of the RC operations and focus,
- the RC business plan,
- any new, reduced or expanded delegation of authority, MOU, agreement, contract, etc. with another party to represent or act on behalf of the RC,
- the economic focus of the RC, or
- any material change relating to your regional center's basis for its most recent designation and/or reaffirmation by USCIS.

Dated June 1, 2009

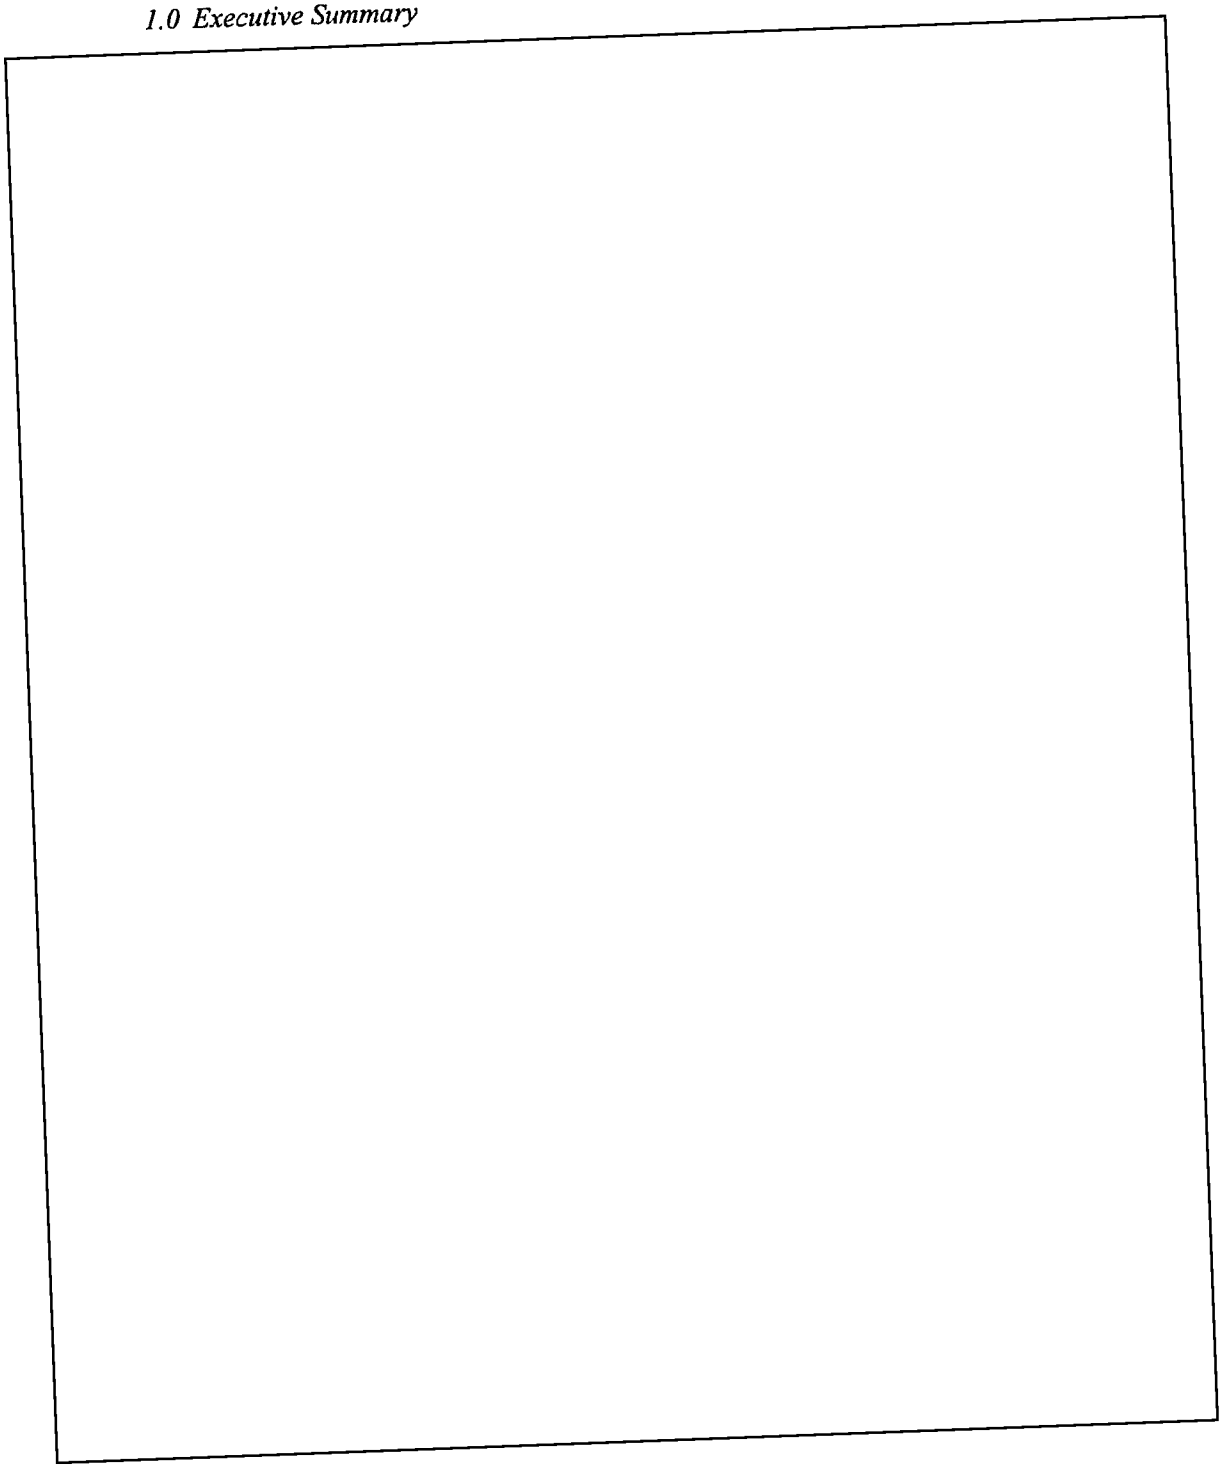
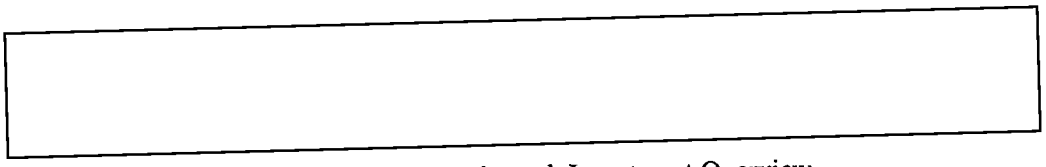
1.0 Executive Summary



(b)(4)



Immigration through Investment Overview

Under section 203(b)(5) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), 8 U.S.C. δ 1153(6)(5), 10,000 immigrant visas per year are available to qualified individuals seeking permanent resident status on the basis of their engagement in a new commercial enterprise.

Of the 10,000 investor visas (i.e., EB-5 visas) available annually, 3,000 are set aside for those who apply under a pilot program involving a USCIS-designated Regional Center. A regional center is an entity, organization or agency that has been approved as such by the USCIS; focuses on a specific geographic area within the United States; and seeks to promote economic growth through increased export sales, improved regional productivity, creation of new jobs, and increased domestic capital investment.

"Alien investors" must demonstrate that a "qualified investment" (see below) is being made in a new commercial enterprise or approved Regional Center; and, show, using reasonable methodologies, that 10 or more jobs are actually created either directly or indirectly from the new commercial enterprise through revenues generated from increased exports, improved regional productivity, job creation, or increased domestic capital investment resulting from the pilot program.

Eligibility

Permanent resident status based on EB-5 eligibility is available to investors, either alone or coming with their spouses and unmarried children under 21 years of age. Eligible aliens are those who have invested – or are actively in the process of investing – the required amount of capital into a new commercial enterprise that they have established. They must further demonstrate that this investment will benefit the U.S. economy and create the requisite number of full-time jobs within the U.S.

In general, "eligible individuals" include those:

1. Re: State Agency Designation

Dear Ms. Velarde,

The Mississippi Department of Employment Security certifies that the attached areas are Targeted Employment Areas within the State of Mississippi. Targeted Employment Areas are defined as "an area, which at the time of investment, is a rural area or an area which has experienced unemployment of at least 150 percent of the national average rate".

High unemployment areas were determined using the 2009 national not seasonally adjusted unemployment rate of 9.3%; 150 percent of 9.3% is 14.0%. High unemployment areas are any particular geographic or political subdivision located within a Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) or within a city or town having a population of 20,000 or more within such state. Our designation for areas of high unemployment was initially at the county level for the State's MSA counties using 2009 annual averages calculated using the Handbook method as provided by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. For MSA counties with rates below the 14.0% threshold, areas were then analyzed at the Census Tract level. Employment and Unemployment ratios for Census 2000 by census tract were computed and applied to the county level 2009 annual average in order to create labor force estimates along with unemployment rates at the census tract level. In addition cities with populations in excess of 20,000 were reviewed to determine those with unemployment rates in excess of 14.0%.

Rural areas are defined as civil jurisdictions not located within any standard Metropolitan Statistical Area as designated by the Office of Management and Budget, or within any city or town having a population of 20,000 or more based on the most recent decennial census of the United States.

The following attachments contain designated High Unemployment Areas and Rural Areas for the State of Mississippi. If you have any questions or need any clarification please contact me at 601-321-6260 or by e-mail at mwilloughby@mdes.ms.gov.

Sincerely,

Mary H. Willoughby

1.0 EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

GTA, a Mississippi corporation organized on August 14, 2009, is a development stage company established to design, manufacture and sell electric vehicles. We plan to build an automobile manufacturing facility (the "Facility") on our 100 acre parcel of land in Tunica, Mississippi (the "Land") to manufacture:

- MyCar ("MyCar"), a two-seat electric vehicle with a 25 to 115 mile range between charges, depending upon battery type and size selected by the customer. MyCar is expected to have a maximum speed up to 45 mph in the European Union and a lower maximum speed of up to 25 or 35 mph in the United States (depending upon the state) due to regulatory restrictions. MyCar will be a neighborhood electric vehicle ("NEV") in the United States pursuant to National Highway Traffic Safety Administration ("NHTSA") standards. The original version of MyCar, designed by world-renowned Italian designer, Giorgetto Giugiaro, was named Electric Vehicle of the Year at the 2008 European GreenFleet Awards.

- one or more subcompact cars utilizing the MyCar platform and upgraded for certification as a full speed vehicle in our targeted markets ("MyCar EV"). Subject to market conditions, we plan to begin production of MyCar EV after certification as a full speed vehicle, which we expect to occur in early 2014.

- other energy efficient automobiles that may be developed by us for production (together with MyCar and MyCar EV, the "Vehicles").

2.0 GTA PRODUCTS

Our planned products will include:

- MyCar ("MyCar"), a two-seat electric vehicle with a 25 to 115 mile range between charges, depending upon battery type and size selected by the customer. MyCar is expected to have a maximum speed up to 45 mph in the European Union and a lower maximum speed of 25 or 35 mph in the United States (depending upon the state) due to regulatory restrictions. MyCar will be an NEV in the United States pursuant to NHTSA standards. The original version of MyCar, designed by world-renowned Italian designer, Giorgetto Giugiaro, was named Electric Vehicle of the Year at the 2008 European GreenFleet Awards. This version of MyCar has been further engineered and optimized by GTA and its design partner U.S. race car engineering firm Panoz Auto Development Company.

- one or more subcompact cars utilizing the MyCar platform and upgraded for certification as a full speed vehicle in our targeted markets ("MyCar EV"). We will design MyCar EV for car buyers who enjoy the style of MyCar and desire a similar (or possibly greater) driving range, but expect to drive at higher speeds. As such, MyCar EV is expected to meet all safety standards required under U.S. federal regulations and European Union regulations. Subject to market conditions, we plan to begin production of MyCar EV after certification as a full speed vehicle, which we expect to occur in early 2014.

- other energy efficient automobiles that may be developed by us for production (together with MyCar and MyCar EV, the "Vehicles").

SHOW: THE SITUATION ROOM 6:00 PM EST

I'm Wolf Blitzer. You're in THE SITUATION ROOM.

Many Republicans and Democrats claim to know how best to create badly needed jobs in this country, but, Kate, you and I have seen a lot of partisan bickering going on that's preventing some of that.

BOLDUAN: It's definitely preventing some of that. Wolf, but that's why it's interesting to see two former party chairmen actually cooperating on an economic venture.

GreenTech Automotive, a company that makes small electric vehicles, began production at a new plant in Mississippi on Friday. Former Democratic National Committee Chairman Terry McAuliffe is chairman of the company that is manufacturing what it's calling a revolutionary all-electric low-speed vehicle that doesn't produce any emissions.

McAuliffe relocated the company's operations from China to Mississippi with financial incentives offered under the former Governor Haley Barbour of the state. Haley Barbour is also the one- time chairman of the Republican National Committee. GreenTech says the move will create more than 400 new jobs in the short term.

Former President Bill Clinton was on hand to kick off production and also congratulate longtime friend McAuliffe.

BILL CLINTON, FORMER PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES: It really matters that you can come to Horn Lake, Mississippi, and come up with a new technology that offers the prospect of providing a product at an affordable price.

BLITZER: Let's bring in Terry McAuliffe and Haley Barbour right now.

And, Terry, let's talk about politics first, a little bit of a subject close to your heart. You're a former chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Haley Barbour is a former chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Is President Obama doing the right thing now wanting to raise taxes on families making more than $250,000 a year?

TERRY MCAULIFFE, FORMER DNC CHAIRMAN: Well, I think what he said today, the point is, let's get those people who are making $250,000 and less, which are 98 percent of the population, let's go ahead. Republicans, Democrats agree that they ought to keep the tax cuts. Let's just do that, get that off the table.

The issue of the top 2 percent is much more contentious. It's probably not going to be done before the election. It's going to be a big fight. But let's take care of those 98 percent.
BLITZER: but do you think that in terms of when economic recovery now sort of fragile, is it smart to raise taxes on anyone right now?

MCAULIFFE: Well, what he is saying is that debate... BLITZER: Not what he's saying. What are you saying?

MCAULIFFE: Well, he's the president of the United States.

BLITZER: So you support him?

MCAULIFFE: Of course I support President Obama.

BLITZER: On this specific issue, raising taxes on those making more than $250,000 at this time?

MCAULIFFE: I thought it was a brilliant move today to say let's take care of those 98 percent. Listen, I spent a lot of years working with President Clinton. As you know, our rate was 39.6 percent. We had the greatest economic expansion in the history of our country, 22 million new jobs, also passed the Deficit Reduction Act, took our government work force down to the lowest level since John F. Kennedy.

You got to do the cuts. You got to bring in some revenue. But let's go ahead out and make sure those 98 percent of people who are small businesses -- 97 percent of the people affected are small business. They create jobs.

My business down in Mississippi, with the help of the governor, we're going to have 1,000 employees by next year. We're a small business. We're growing. We want to be a big business, but we're working together in a bipartisan way.

BLITZER: Fair enough. Well, we remember the 39.6 percent tax rate during the Clinton administration.

MCAULIFFE: Sure.

BLITZER: The economy was doing just fine then.

BOLDUAN: Governor, I want to bounce off something that Terry just said. You two are working together in the spirit of bipartisanship. Listen here to something also that President Obama said today. Listen.

BARACK OBAMA, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES: The Republicans say they don't want to raise taxes on the middle class. I don't want to raise taxes on the middle class. So we should all agree to extend the tax cuts for the middle class. Let's agree to do what we agree on.

BOLDUAN: Seems logical. Why don't you -- you know, is this an area where Republicans should take what you can get and then fight about the other stuff later?

HALEY BARBOUR, FORMER GOVERNOR OF MISSISSIPPI: It didn't seem logical to President Obama during the Obama care debate when Republicans said look, let's -- there are a lot of things we agree on. Let's pass the things we agree on.

And instead Obama and the Democrats crammed Obama care down the nation's throat, despite its unpopularity with any Republican votes, with no vote to spare in the Senate. It's always easy to say, "Let's do what we agree on." He didn't do what they agreed on. But this idea that they haven't raised taxes on the middle class, small businesses in America are about to have to start paying $3,000 per employee tax.

BOLDUAN: So you don't see any...

BARBOUR: For every employee they can't afford to give health insurance to.

BOLDUAN: You don't see anything in what the president's saying there? I mean, the American people want to see politicians doing what you guys are doing, working together.

BARBOUR: Sure, but American people want to see our economy grow. And if you want to put $850 billion tax on employers -- and remember that most of the small businesses in the United States pay the tax return, pay on the individual rate. We already have the highest corporate tax in the world. So now he wants to raise the taxes.

BLITZER: The president says 97 percent of those small businesses would not be affected by that.
BARBOUR: The president said 97 percent of people.

BLITZER: He said 97 percent of the small businesses would not be affected.

MCAULIFFE: Ninety-eight percent of people, 97 percent of small businesses.

BARBOUR: I beg to differ, if you look at the returns. But you look at where the jobs are created in the United States, the people who create jobs he's trying to saddle with the largest tax increase in American history. Unless Obama care turns out to be the largest tax increase in history.

BLITZER: He's saying that most small businesses don't show a profit of more than $250,000 here. The most successful of the largest ones, 2 or 3 percent of all the small businesses who employ a lot of people, they do show a profit of more than $250,000 a year, so they would be directly affected by this increase in the tax rate to 39.6 percent from 35 percent.

BARBOUR: Unless this recession has been so bad that so many small businesses now have had their profits reduced, during the Clinton administration and the Reagan administration, a whole lot higher percentage of small businesses made more than $250,000 a year. BLITZER: Are you surprised, Terry, that the Romney campaign and the Republicans this month for the second month in a row raising a lot more money than the Obama campaign and the Democrats?

MCAULIFFE: No, in fact, when I was chairman of the Democratic National Committee in 2004, we outraised the Bush -- you know, the incumbent president campaigned every single month. By the end of the campaign, we raised more for the first time in history than the Republican National Committee and the Bush campaign together. So I'm not surprised.

After you win the nomination, I think a lot of people come together. There's a lot of excitement. We did it in 2004, so I'm not surprised. Still I know the president's raising a lot of money. A lot of grass-roots support. I will say this. I've said this consistently. We're going to come down to a basket of six or seven states we're fighting over. Both sides will have sufficient funds in order to get their message out.

BOLDUAN: You don't think this says something about the campaign that -- that Romney and Republicans are outraising them by, what, $35 million in June?

MCAULIFFE: Kate, President Obama has been raising money probably now for 15 or 16 months. So he's got a lot of the people. This is brand-new to bring all the other primary opponents together for Mitt Romney.

BLITZER: They both have about the same cash on hand. Where the Republicans do much better, and Haley Barbour knows this, are the super PACs. They're going to raise a ton more than the pro-Obama Democratic super PACs.

MCAULIFFE: That is probably the most frightening thing out there is the amount of money that's privately raised on the other side, through the Koch brothers and all these super PACs.

BLITZER: How much will they raise?

BARBOUR: We hope we can raise something close to what the labor unions have been contributing for the Democratic campaigns.

BLITZER: Let me ask you about this. The Democrats really going after the Republican -- going after Romney that he's not releasing his income tax returns. One year he's released. And they're saying he's got Swiss bank accounts, Cayman Island banks, secret business deals in Bermuda. Listen to Robert Gibbs, the former White House press secretary, now supports the Obama campaign.

(BEGIN VIDEO CLIP)

ROBERT GIBBS, FORMER WHITE HOUSE PRESS SECRETARY: This is a guy whose slogan is "believe in America." And it should be "business in Bermuda." That's what Mitt Romney is all about.

(END VIDEO CLIP) BLITZER: Why doesn't he just release his income tax returns, as every other recent Democratic and Republican presidential candidate has done?

BARBOUR: It doesn't surprise anybody in the United States that Barack Obama knows he can't run on his record, so he always wants to change the subject.

He wants to talk about Romney's tax returns. He wants to talk about Romney's Bain Capital. He wants to talk about Romney's wife is an equestrian. They want to talk about anything except Barack Obama's record, which is a record of failed policies that are hurting the American economy. And we're talking about them right now.

Let me say, we came on here to talk about his car business. Let me tell you something about his car business. Terry said...

BLITZER: Yes or no, tax returns, should he release the tax returns?

BARBOUR: I would. But should it be an issue in a campaign? I don't think it amounts to diddly. But Terry came to Mississippi, he said, because we had the best inventive package. Our package was all tax incentives. If they did certain deals, we would forgive taxes, taxes that they wouldn't pay us if they didn't come to Mississippi. That speaks volumes about how people create jobs. Low taxes create jobs.

An $850 billion tax increase plus Obama care, where you don't even know your obligations or cost for health insurance for your employees, no wonder our job market is being strangled by this administration's policies. That's why we want to talk about...

BLITZER: That's why we love the fact that the two of you, two former party chairmen, are working together in Mississippi. You've got a new car deal going on down there. I hope you make a lot of money. I'm sure you're pretty happy about that, as well.

BARBOUR: Very.

BLITZER: Haley Barbour, Terry McAuliffe, guys, thanks very much for coming in.

MyCar: An Electric Runabout With Bipartisan Support
By Jim Motavalli
July 6, 2012, 12:01 AM

GreenTech AutomotiveThe MyCar, which is to be produced initially in Mississippi.

If a start-up car company's chances for success were correlated to the enthusiasm of its chief executive, then an electric-vehicle venture led by Terry McAuliffe, the former Democratic National Committee chairman, would be a sure thing. It takes more than charisma to attract buyers, though, and while the enterprise in question enjoys support from prominent politicians in the Republican and Democratic parties, it also engenders skepticism from some analysts.

Mr. McAuliffe's GreenTech Automotive will unveil the two-seat, low-speed, Smart-size MyCar on Friday at a new plant in Mississippi. The event, he said in a telephone interview, would feature a barbecue and an appearance by the former president Bill Clinton, Mr. McAuliffe's longtime friend.

GreenTech Automotive

"No green technology is truly green until it is Affordably Green."

GreenTech AutomotiveTerry McAuliffe.

Mr. McAuliffe is a possible candidate for the Virginia governorship in 2013 — he lost a three-way Democratic primary for the post in 2009 — but he says he has a good reason for choosing to manufacture the MyCar in Mississippi.

"Haley Barbour put the most aggressive package on the table for us," he said, referencing the state's former governor, a Republican. "No one else's offer was even close to Governor Barbour's. We can disagree on political issues, but this is two people from different parties coming together. He's been very aggressive in bringing in the carmakers, so now he's saying, 'Let's try an electric.' It's a win-win for everybody."

Toyota and Nissan also operate plants in the state.

In a separate telephone interview, Mr. Barbour said he and Mr. McAuliffe had reached across the aisle before, since both were involved in the opening of the bipartisan Caucus Room restaurant in Washington in 2000. He said GreenTech received an "off-the-shelf package of incentives" to locate its plants in Mississippi. "It's not about politics," he said. "It's about economic development and higher-paying, higher-skilled job creation in my state. We have not, by a long shot, given up on manufacturing in Mississippi."

Mr. McAuliffe said the venture would employ 900 workers in Mississippi by the end of the year, as well as create many jobs indirectly. With an initial focus on fleet sales and the European market, he says he believes the company can produce 10,000 cars in 2013. GreenTech described its first Mississippi plant, a leased 400,000-square-foot former elevator factory in Horn Lake, as a pilot facility. A second plant, in Tunica, is expected to open in 2013.

Mr. McAuliffe quoted a price of $18,000 for a MyCar with an included lithium-ion battery pack, and $10,000 for the basic car, presuming a battery lease from the company. A version of the car with lead-acid batteries and 51 miles of range will sell in the mid-$15,000 range, according to Marianne McInerney, a GreenTech sales and marketing spokeswoman.
But prices and performance may vary. Chris Anthony, chief executive of Flux Power, said in a telephone interview that his California-based company had worked with GreenTech "for well over a year" on lithium batteries for the car and had developed 7-, 15- and 23-kilowatt-hour packs, the largest of which would give the car more than 100 miles of range. He also said several hundred packs had been delivered to GreenTech.

The MyCar is hardly a slam dunk for Western buyers. It is a neighborhood electric vehicle, or N.E.V., which means it is not allowed on interstates and is legally limited to 25 miles per hour in most states. In a majority of markets, statutes limit the cars to roads with posted top speeds of 35 m.p.h. or lower. Although it was designed by the noted Italian stylist Giorgetto Giugiaro, the MyCar was originally the product of a Hong Kong-based venture bought by Mr. McAuliffe and his partners for $20 million in 2010.

Mr. McAuliffe said in May that an early MyCar produced in Mississippi was delivered to Denmark, where the company has a relationship with an electric car distributor, Greenabout A/S. Last year, GreenTech said Greenabout would "purchase a sizeble percentage of production through 2014."

GreenTech is also building a factory in China to produce cars for that market. According to Mr. McAuliffe, he negotiated a contract requiring that core components for those vehicles be built at the plants in Mississippi. "The powertrain and guts of the car will be made in the United States," he said. "If we allow one more technology to escape overseas, shame on us."

There's some skepticism over the market for speed-limited cars. "It's a niche vehicle, and historically niche vehicles haven't done particularly well," Michelle Krebs, a senior analyst at Edmunds.com, said in a telephone interview. She also noted that pricing for the soon-to-be-delivered Chevrolet Spark minicar would start at about $13,000, "and you can take it on the highway."

But Jay Friedland, legislative director of the advocacy group Plug In America, was more supportive. "It makes sense in some ways," he wrote in an e-mail. "The export market for these, as medium-speed vehicles, is pretty good. There is also a big market for neighborhood vehicles in Florida." He described annual sales of 5,000 to 10,000 N.E.V.'s as "probably doable." Anything beyond that, however, "is dreaming," he said.

GreenTech marks start of output with Clinton visit

HORN LAKE, Miss. (AP) — GreenTech Automotive marked the start of production at its plant in Horn Lake on Friday with a visit from former President Bill Clinton and says it hopes to make 10,000 of its small electric vehicles in the coming year.

Former Democratic National Committee chief Terry McAuliffe is chairman of the company building the two-seater MyCar, a neighborhood electric vehicle, in a former elevator factory in the southern suburbs of Memphis, Tenn.

GreenTech Automotive

"No green technology is truly green until it is Affordably Green."

Neighborhood electric vehicles, a cross between a golf cart and a full-sized vehicle, are limited to streets with speed limits of 35 mph and below in the United States. It will cost $18,000 and the top-of-the-line model is supposed to go up to 95 miles on a single charge.

The company plans to sell a year's output to a Danish firm and will also sell some to Domino's Pizza franchisees and other U.S. vehicle fleet operators.

The current top American maker of such vehicles, the Global Electric Motorcars unit of Polaris Industries, focuses on selling to retirement communities and fleet users such as colleges, said Daniel Sperling, who directs the Institute for Transportation Studies at the University of California, Davis.

Though the company also plans a factory in China and is led by Chinese CEO Charles X. Wang, McAuliffe touted the importance of American manufacturing. He pledged, under a giant American flag at the sweltering ceremony, that GreenTech would make the innards of vehicles in the U.S. and export them to China for assembly.

"We can't become a service economy," McAuliffe said. "We've got to go back to making things."

Sperling and other observers say they're not sure small vehicles will have a wide market in the U.S, though there could be more demand abroad.

"The way we've designed our roads and cities makes it difficult for them to compete," Sperling said, saying that could change if states and cities reserve lanes for small vehicles as they've done for bicycles

McAuliffe acknowledged that the startup is a risky venture, but exuded confidence.

"When people hear our story, they're going to want to buy the car," he said.

McAuliffe said the company has raised hundreds of millions of dollars and has no debt. He said the firm has accepted no loans or grants from the federal government. The company has raised money in the past through the EB-5 visa program, which allows foreign investors to obtain residency in the United States in exchange for putting money into a business venture and creating jobs.

The plant is drastically smaller than a typical car plant, with only a few rows of shelves holding parts. Aluminum frames and panels are stamped and painted off site. Instead of being welded, parts are joined with epoxy and bolts.

Plant Manager Suresh Nair said many suppliers were in the region, though lithium batteries are coming from Flux Power in California. GreenTech hasn't said who's making its powertrain.

The company started assembling a handful of vehicles in the past two weeks, and is in the process of adding employees as production increases. GreenTech said it employs 840 people today in all its locations, including Mississippi, its McLean, Va., headquarters and China.

GreenTech plans to build a permanent 300,000-square-foot facility on 100 acres in Tunica County that would allow it to make 16,000 cars a year.

Clinton, who participated in a launch for the company in Denmark in May, saluted the company's emphasis on American manufacturing, technology and cooperation with China.

"We are going to share the future with China," Clinton said. "What we've still got to decide every single day is what kind of future we're going to share."

GreenTech's board is stocked with the politically connected, including former Louisiana Gov. Kathleen Blanco, a Democrat, and former Clinton-era IRS Commissioner Margaret Richardson. Tony Rodham, Secretary of State Hillary Clinton's brother, has been helping raise money.

Despite the Democratic links, former Republican Gov. Haley Barbour attended and sung GreenTech's praises. McAuliffe and Barbour were once investors in a Washington restaurant, the Caucus Room.

"Creating jobs is not a partisan political issue," McAuliffe said.

McAuliffe said GreenTech chose Mississippi because it offered the best incentives. The Mississippi Development Authority has said that the state hasn't assisted the Horn Lake operation, but is "committed" to providing infrastructure aid, tax breaks and a loan to Tunica County government to buy land. The state hasn't placed a value of that aid, and says details haven't been finalized.

GreenTech To Take First U.S. MyCar Order From Domino's
By Alan Ohnsman - Jul 6, 2012 12:01 AM ET

GreenTech Automotive Inc., a startup maker of battery-powered vehicles led by former Democratic National Committee Chairman Terry McAuliffe, said Domino's Pizza Inc. (DPZ) is the first U.S. customer for its low-speed cars.

GreenTech initially expects at least 20 Domino's franchise owners to place orders for its MyCar, McAuliffe said in a phone interview, ahead of today's opening of its factory in Horn Lake, Mississippi. The orders would follow an agreement with Greenabout A/S, a Danish distributor of electric cars, for "thousands" of the two-passenger vehicles, McAuliffe said.
Enlarge image

"We've got to get 10,000 built over the next year," he said, declining to detail how much closely held GreenTech raised to fund the plant and a second factory that opens next year in Tunica, Mississippi. "If we can get up to 10,000 the first year, that's a big deal."
McAuliffe's move into the nascent market for rechargeable cars follows his role as chairman of Hillary Clinton's 2008 presidential bid. He was also a fundraiser for former President Bill Clinton, who's attending the factory opening in Horn Lake. Unlike startups Tesla Motors Inc. (TSLA) and Fisker Automotive Inc., which got low-interest federal loans for their operations, GreenTech says it's only using private funds.

The McLean, Virginia-based carmaker has no debt and didn't apply for or receive federal funds, McAuliffe said. The company received incentives from the state of Mississippi that were worth at least $10 million, he said.

Neighborhood Vehicle

GreenTech Automotive

MyCar, about the size of Daimler AG (DAI)'s Smart Fortwo minivehicle, sells for $15,000 to $20,000, and goes as far as 115 miles (185 kilometers) per charge. The car is a 'neighborhood electric vehicle' for urban commuters, which means it can't be used on highways. It has a top speed set for 25 miles per hour in the U.S. and for 45 mph in Europe.

The vehicle costs half as much as Nissan Motor Co. (7201)'s Leaf hatchback, the top-selling battery car that starts at $35,200, and is cheaper than Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (7211)'s i-MiEV electric car that, at a $29,975 base price, is currently the cheapest battery-powered car in the U.S.

Tesla and Fisker, focused on luxury buyers, sell top-of-the line rechargeable cars costing more than $100,000.

Under the terms of GreenTech's order with Greenabout, the Danish company will purchase a "sizeable percentage" of MyCar's production through 2014, GreenTech said in September, without giving details.

Along with Clinton, former Mississippi Governor Haley Barbour is to attend the opening of the Horn Lake factory plant. The factory will employ 426 workers, which will take its total staff to 845. The company plans to employ as many as 1,500 workers by the end of next year, when the Tunica plant opens, McAuliffe said.

New American-made electric car unveiled in Mississippi
Published July 06, 2012

Your next Domino's pizza may not get there in 30 minutes or less, but could be emissions free.

Bloomberg reports that the restaurant chain is the first U.S. customer for an all-new battery powered car from GreenTech Automotive that entered production in Horn Lake, Mississippi today.

Technically a neighborhood electric vehicle, the tiny two-seat MyCar has a range of up to 115 miles per charge, but a restricted top speed of 25 mph. It is not required to meet the same crash test safety requirements as conventional automobiles and is only legal for use on roads with a speed limit of 35 mph or less in most states.

Founded in 2006 by former Democratic National Campaign Committee Chairman Terry McAuliffe and Chinese businessman Charles Wang, the company has secured a deal with a Danish company to export the car to Europe – where laws allow it to operate up to 45 mph – and expects to build up to 10,000 next year in Horn Lake and a planned facility in nearby Tunica.

Mississippi Governor Haley Barbour told The New York Times that GreenTech Automotive received an "off the shelf package of incentives" to open up shop in the state.
A start date for U.S. retail sales has not been announced, but the MyCar is expected to have a base price of $15,500. McAuliffe says he expects at least 20 Domino's franchises to purchase the cars for use as delivery vehicles.

GreenTech Automotive plans to add a highway capable EV to its lineup in 2014.

Carlyle Group invests in Philly refinery

The Carlyle Group, the Dutch-based private equity firm, announced last week that it is investing several hundred million dollars in a Sunoco oil refinery in Philadelphia. Carlyle managing director Rodney S. Cohen, 46, who is the point man on the deal, said he plans to lay out the rest of the specifics of U.S. oil and natural gas refining, which are available through new drilling technology, to turn the plant into a profitable, state-of-the-art facility.

THOMAS HEATH

Cohen talked to us after disclosing the deal:

Why did you get in the refining business?

Part of our premise is that there is a change going on in the United States right now, and it's twofold. There is a renaissance of gas available, and [how natural gas relates to] the edge cost for those who use natural gas in the refining process. For example, [adding a natural gas–fired cogeneration] component would reduce the cost of running the refinery. There are also other natural gas–based products that we very well at this refinery.

Cohen

You're also trying to change the types of crude oil that are used in the refinery as a growth product. Increase the margin, as with the Bakken oilfield in North Dakota, there is an opportunity to vastly increase the amount of domestic consumption and decrease our reliance on imported crudes.

Are there other refinery types of using Bakken oil instead of North American or West African crude, where much of the Sunoco oil currently originates?

Although the price varies, Bakken crude is [to the] benefit of a refinery [relative to other crudes].

Why didn't Exxon or one of the big supermajors buy this refinery?

My own belief is that [a] lot of the supermajors, [of] operation and production, have a very attractive. They're not getting the same yield on a refinery investment as they would get from finding new reserves.

Do you need high gas prices to make money in this business?

The answer is [a — not specifically. A refinery's profits are dictated by the difference between its crude costs and the value of its refined products in a particular region. [It's] operating costs.

GreenTech Automotive Unveils MyCar Low-Speed Electric Vehicle
July 6, 2012

GreenTech Automotive (GTA) unveiled on Friday its MyCar, a two-seat neighborhood electric vehicle, at its manufacturing facility in Horn Lake, Miss.

With an expected base price of $15,500, MyCar will be considerably less expensive than other all-electric vehicles. GTA also plans to manufacture a larger MyCar EV beginning in 2014. GTA says that future models, including the MyCar EV planned for early 2014, will also be competitively priced.

MyCar is about the size of the smart fortwo electric drive and goes as far as 115 miles (185 kilometers) per charge. The car is a 'neighborhood electric vehicle' for urban commuters, which means it can't be used on highways. Due to regulatory restrictions MyCar has a top speed set for 25 mph (40 km/h) in the U.S. and 45 mph (72 km/h) in Europe.

GreenTech said that Domino's Pizza Inc. is the first U.S. customer for its MyCar EVs. The company initially expects at least 20 Domino's franchise owners to place orders for its MyCar. The orders would follow an agreement with Greenabout A/S, a Danish distributor of electric cars, for "thousands" of the two-passenger vehicles.

GreenTech Automotive purchased Hong Kong-based EuAuto in 2010 and relocated the company's operations and manufacturing to the United States.

GTA projects it will create 426 direct jobs by 2014, and an independent analysis by Evans, Carroll & Associates Inc. found that GTA's operations would create more than 7,400 direct, indirect and induced jobs by 2014. As of July 2012, GTA had more than 840 employees enterprise-wide, and the company is on track to employ more than 900 people by the end of 2012.

Former President Bill Clinton and former Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour attended the unveiling, which also celebrated GTA's relocation to the United States.

Domino's Pizza to Employ Electric Vehicle Fleet
Carrin Hall
July 6, 2012

Ordering pizza these days is about to come with a little less guilt—you won't be able to cut calories, but soon you'll be able to cut emissions. Domino's Pizza is set to become the first US customer of GreenTech Automotive's new battery-powered vehicles.

Led by the former Democratic National Committee Chairman Terry McAuliffe, the company expects at least 20 Domino's franchise owners to place orders for its MyCar, according to McAuliffe in an interview with Bloomberg.

"We've got to get 10,000 built over the next year," he told Bloomberg. "If we can get up to 10,000 the first year, that's a big deal."

After his role as chairman of Hilary Clinton's 2008 presidential bid, McAuliffe became more involved in the market of rechargeable cars.

The startup GreenTech says it's only using private funds, unlike Tesla Motors Inc. and Fisker Automotive Inc. The company is debt free and didn't apply for or receive federal funding, though it received incentives from the state of Mississippi worth at least $10 million.

The small MyCars sell for $15,000 to $20,000, and can travel up to 115 miles per charge at a top of speed of 25 mph in the US and 45 mph in Europe.

Former President Bill Clinton attended the opening of the Horn Lake factory plant, where GreenTech expects to employ as many as 1,500 workers by the end of next year.

MyCar Set to Start Production in Mississippi
July 5, 2012

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — An electric car maker plans another coming-out party Friday in north Mississippi.

GreenTech Automotive says it will unveil its MyCar electric vehicle line in Horn Lake, just south of Memphis, Tenn. Some auto industry analysts have questioned whether the company will succeed.

MyCar is a two-seat neighborhood electric vehicle, a cross between a golf cart and conventional car, with a 115-mile range. The company has said it plans to sell a "sizeable percentage" of products to Denmark over several years. In the United States, such vehicles are allowed only on streets with speed limits of 35 mph and below. The vehicles are supposed to recharge from household electric outlets and sell for about $10,000.

The company says former President Bill Clinton and former Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour will attend Friday's event. Former Democratic National Committee Chairman Terry McAuliffe is chairman of GreenTech, based in McLean, Va. The CEO is Chinese businessman Charles X. Wang.

GreenTech announced in 2009 it would build a massive factory in Tunica County, Miss., unveiling four models of full-sized electric cars at a Tunica casino. Those plans changed, though, after McAuliffe got involved and GreenTech acquired MyCar.

GreenTech had said it would start production in late 2011, but missed that deadline. The company said it still plans to build a 200,000- to 300,000-square-foot factory in Tunica County. It also says it plans to progress from neighborhood electric vehicles to full-sized cars. But for now, it's leasing a former elevator factory in the Memphis suburbs of DeSoto County, Miss.

Sally Williams, spokeswoman for the Mississippi Development Authority, said that the state hasn't provided any assistance to the Horn Lake operation. She said Mississippi is "committed" to providing infrastructure aid, tax breaks and a loan to Tunica County to buy land there.

However, Williams said she had no estimate of the value of that projected assistance and said details haven't been finalized because GreenTech "is still assessing its needs related to its Tunica County plant."

GreenTech had said Thursday that Mississippi Gov. Phil Bryant would attend Friday's event, but withdrew that statement after the governor's office told The Associated Press that Bryant wasn't going.

The company has not responded to questions submitted June 26 by the AP, and a number of factors remain unclear. Originally, GreenTech said it would raise money from foreign investors through the EB-5 visa program, which allows investors to obtain residency in the United States in exchange for putting a certain amount of money into a business venture and creating a certain number of jobs.

It's not clear whether GreenTech is still seeking foreign investors, or how much money it has put into the Horn Lake operation so far. On Thursday, an Escondido, Calif., firm called Flux Power said it would be providing lithium battery packs for GreenTech and had already delivered

"several hundred." Flux Power is led by Chris Anthony, who co-founded failed electric vehicle company Aptera and then left to start Epic Electric Vehicles, which is developing a three-wheeled electric roadster, an electric dune buggy and an electric boat.

The GreenTech project has encountered intense skepticism from some auto industry analysts, who say it's unlikely that an untried player without very deep pockets will be able to break into the fledgling electric vehicle market.

GreenTech first came to public notice when Wang was engaged in a legal dispute with Yung "Benjamin" Yeung, a business associate. Yeung moved his separate venture, called Hybrid Kinetic motors, to a site north of Mobile, Ala. The American part of that venture largely fizzled after several years, Alabama officials have said.

MS-based GreenTech Automotive unveils low-speed electric two-seater MyCar

July 6, 2012

GreenTech Automotive (GTA) unveiled its MyCar, a two-seat Neighborhood Electric Vehicle (NEV) with a range of up to 115 miles (185 km). GreenTech Automotive purchased Hong Kong-based EuAuto in 2010 and relocated the company's operations and manufacturing to the United States.

In the US, MyCar has a top-speed of 25 mph (40 km/h) due to regulatory restrictions, classifying it as a Neighborhood Electric Vehicle (NEV). In the European Union, MyCar has a top speed of up to 45 mph (72 km/h).

GreenTech Automotive Starts Production of the MyCar EV
By Ana
July 6, 2012

GreenTech Automotive electric car maker announced it will unveil this Friday, June 6th, the MyCar electric vehicle line in Horn Lake, south of Memphis, Tenn.

The MyCar electric vehicle is somewhere between a conventional car and a golf cart. The company plans to sell the two-seat vehicle to Denmark over several years, since in the US such models are allowed only on streets with speed limits of 35 mph or lower. A car costs around $10,000 and can be charged from household electric outlets.

In 2009 GreenTech Automotive unveiled four full-sized electric cars at a Tunica casino and announced its plans of building a plant in Tunica County, Miss. Meanwhile those plans changed after McAuliffe got involved and GreenTech acquired MyCar. The company also declared it would start production in 2011 but missed that target too.

GreenTech Automotive still aims at building a 200,000- to 300,000-square-foot plant in Tunica County and to step from neighborhood EVs to full-sized cars. Until then the company is leasing a former elevator facility located in the Memphis suburbs of DeSoto County, Miss. The company didn't give information on how much it had invested in the Horn Lake operation so far or whether it will seek foreign investors.

GreenTech Automotive launches tiny electric car with help of Bill Clinton and Haley Barbour
By David Herron on Fri, 07/06/2012 - 17:55

Electric car manufacturing GreenTech Automotive launched, today, its two seater electric car, with top political players like Pres. Bill Clinton, former DNC Chair Terry McAullife, and former RNC Chair Haley Barbour on hand to lend support.

Startup automotive manufacturer, GreenTech Automotive, today launched its first product, the MyCar, a small two-seater electric car. The car brings with it a complex story of global automotive manufacturing, that is claimed will create thousands of American jobs, but along the way the company is building a gigantic factory in China. The American side of the company bought a Chinese electric vehicle manufacturer, moving the whole company to America, with a business plan constructed by senior Democratic Party political leaders, full of political talking points, that sounds like a political debate rather than normal business-as-usual in the age of globalism.

GreenTech Automotive is a politically connected company, founded by former DNC Chairman Terry McAuliffe, and counts President Bill Clinton in some kind of advisory role. Today's ceremony to launch the MyCar was attended not just by Bill Clinton, and of course Terry McAuliffe, Chairman of Green Tech Automotive, and also former Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour who is also former Chair of the Republican National Committee. Whatever the value of the products the company looks to manufacture, it is well-enough connected to tap on high stakes political clout. McAuliffe founded the company in 2006, and since his failed gubernatorial campaign in Virginia turned his full attention to GreenTech Automotive. The company bought Hong Kong-based EuAuto in 2010, moving operations and manufacturing to the United States. In part the strategy is to "have a positive impact on a local economy in need of revitalization." The company is leasing a small factory in Horn Lake, MS, where they are making a small manufacturing run of the electric MyCar NEV. At the same time they are building a 300,000-square-foot facility in Tunica, Miss. and an even larger 1.5 million square foot factory in China. Supposedly the company's plans will it will create 426 direct jobs by 2014, and would create more than 7,400 direct, indirect and induced jobs by 2014.

"Thanks are due to Governor Barbour for being so receptive to our strategy to create manufacturing jobs in the United States," said McAuliffe. "This unlikely partnership illustrates the kind of jobs-before-politics attitude that will get America back on track by restoring manufacturing to its rightful place at the core of our economy. We're looking forward to continuing that relationship with Governor Bryant's new administration." McAuliffe previously served as the chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Barbour served as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

A tag-line on the corporate website reads "No green technology is truly green until it is Affordably Green." In light of luxury electric cars like the Tesla Model S, we can certainly appreciate that attitude. However the pragmatist recognizes that while the MyCar has an affordable expected base price of $15,500, it is also a Neighborhood Electric Vehicle (NEV), a class of electric vehicle which straight-up does injustice to the whole concept of electric vehicles, and only serves to reinforce negative stereotypes. In the current state of electric vehicle manufacturing and sales, it's pragmatic reality that the cost of the battery pack required to support a 300 mile driving range, at highway speed, means an outrageous vehicle base price that forces the manufacturer into the luxury market.

The MyCar is an all-electric vehicle, hence has zero tailpipe emissions, and the model built for sales in the European Union will offer a 45 miles/hr top speed. Due to regulations in America, the top speed will be limited to 25 miles/hr putting the MyCar into the NEV class. NEV's have a large number of limitations not just in a measly 25 miles/hr top speed, but also where they can drive. Unlike many NEV's, the MyCar looks like a regular car, specifically drawing on the Smart ForTwo, the Scion iQ, and the Fiat 500 for design cues. This makes it a tiny two-seater car that will fit very well in a crowded urban setting where parking might be tight.

The company claims driving range will be 115 miles, at 25 miles/hr, and the car can be recharged from either regular 120 volt or 220 volt electrical outlets, and presumably it has a J1772 port on board. Charging time is said to range between 3 and 12 hours depending on what sort of power outlet is used to recharge the car.

The company describes the MyCar as "an ideal solution for corporations, government entities, rental car fleets, and corporate and college campuses". In 2013 the company expects to launch a "micro pick-up and delivery vehicle", and in 2014 a larger MyCar EV. The company promises to manufacture, in the future, fully NHTSA- and EPA-certified, full-speed, all-road vehicles. The NEV is said to be just a starting point. In the meantime they have inked a deal with Dominos Pizza to deploy the MyCar's as delivery vehicles near Ole Miss University. Domino's has experimented with small electric vehicles for Pizza delivery in the past.

How will having manufacturing in China create jobs in America? Is this just a bit of political flimflam? McAuliffe did a number of video's over the last couple years, linked off the corporate website, that explain the strategy.

First, China is the largest automotive market in the world at the market, with Chinese buying more cars than any other country ever. Because of the import tarrifs imposed by the Chinese government on any imports into China, it is beneficial for any company looking to sell a product in China, to set up manufacturing in China. That explains the massive factory in China.

Second, the MyCar's assembled in China will use drive train components manufactured in America. The corporate website does not list the sources of those components, but there are several manufacturers of battery pack, battery management, electric motors, electric vehicle controllers, and the like in America. At the same time there are many times more manufacturers of those components in China.

Third, the company's facility in Tunica, Miss will be manufacturing the MyCar's for sale in the U.S.

What we have is a start-up company led by people with top level political connections in the U.S. They're pushing a line of building jobs in America, while at the same time building jobs in China. The choice to start with manufacturing an NEV is not new to this company, several other companies got started with NEV manufacturing while promising future highway-capable electric cars. Wheego and ZENN are two companies that come to mind. Where GreenTech Automotive differs is the depth of funding the company appears to have, as well as the top-level political connections, and how the company is exploiting those two things to generate attention.

DEATH OF A GAS GUZZLER

President Clinton Driving Around GreenTech's MyCar Electric Vehicle
Posted by Luis Aponte
July 7, 2012

Not to be overly critical, but for the price of this electric vehicle, you would think it would go faster and have a longer driving range. Perhaps the company should collaborate with Tesla Motors?

Story by by Jay Cole, InsideEVs.com - July 7, 2012

GreenTech Automotive, which produces the electric MyCar, celebrated the start of production on Friday in Horn Lake (MS), with both a visit from former President Bill Clinton, and an announcement that it had received its first orders from Dominoes pizza.

Dominoes will buy at least 20 of the MyCar electric vehicles from GreenTech, a match the company said is a perfect fit, and a relationship it hopes to expand into the future.

The MyCar is classed strictly as a city car, or neighborhood electric vehicle (NEV). The EV has a electronically limited top speed of 25 mph on US roads (the maximum allowed nationwide), while in Europe it will be governed to 45 mph. The cost of the car starts at about $18,000, with the top-of-the-line model achieving about 95 miles of range.

Compared against other EVs, it handily beats the current lowest price offering available on US roads by over $11,000 (the Mitsubishi i has a starting MSRP of $29,975). Naturally, the fact you can't drive it on the highway makes it a different class of vehicle entirely.

Former Democratic National Committee chief Terry McAuliffe is chairman of GreenTech, and hopes to built an astonishing (and impossible) 10,000 copies of the car next year between the new US factory and one planned in China. The bulk of this estimate is based on the hopes that Greenabout A/S, which is a Danish distributor of EVs, can sell "thousands" of their MyCars.

"We've got to get 10,000 built over the next year. If we can get up to 10,000 the first year, that's a big deal...Too many people have given up on American manufacturing, saying manufacturing jobs are not coming back. But GTA (GreenTech Automotive) sets out to prove them wrong," said McAuliffe. "For too long, America has been inventing products here and sending the production jobs overseas."

The new factory will employ 426 workers, bringing the total staff to 845 later this year. For 2013, the employee head count is estimated to hit 1,500 workers.
We at InsideEVs are more than a little skeptical of the claims of the company, or if it will even produce more than an handful of the cars.

This is especially true since we had a little trouble even finding the company's website (www.wmgta.com), and once there, finding out any actual details on the car itself (there is none). Then there is also the fact the website may possibly have been put together entirely by a high school student, armed with stock photos, just learning some HTML in his basement over the weekend.

In the end, finding customers to pay $18,000 to go 25 mph may prove difficult. GreenTech reminds us a little ofZENN motorcars, who also produced NEVs before discontinuing the product in April of 2010, due to "lack of sales". ZENN built a total of 500 cars before throwing in the towel. That car had an original stated price of $15,995, and at one point ZENN attempted to sell the car at $9,995 to drum up interest.

Today, with an array of highway capable, full electric vehicles available, we are not sure the landscape is anymore friendly to this sub-brand of EVs. Additionally, even more competition is on the horizon for the MyCar, as Mercedes will introduce the SMART EV (already on sale in Canada and Germany – details here) into the US market sometime in 2013, with an expected starting price around $25,000.

Still we wish them luck.

Former US President Helps Kick Off Electric MyCar Launch

GreenTech Automotive invited former U.S. President Bill Clinton and former Mississippi governor Haley Barbour to celebrate the launch of production of the all-electric MyCar at its plant in Horns Lake, Mississippi.

While classified in the United States as a Low-Speed Electric Vehicle and limited to a top speed of 25 mph, it can hit 45 mph and is reported to have a range over 100 miles on a charge. Initial production is slated for export to Denmark where can operate as a normal motor vehicle.

Here in the United States, Domino's Pizza announced at the plant opening that it had purchased several of the cars for delivering pizzas on the Old Miss university campus. WLOX covered the event for local viewing audiences.

GreenTech Automotive begins production of MyCar EV in US
ABR Staff Writer
Published 09 July 2012

US manufacturer based electric vehicle (EV) manufacturer, GreenTech Automotive (GTA), has begun the production of new two seat MyCar EV at its new Horn Lake facility in Mississippi.

The new EV can be recharged through a 110 wall outlet, a 220 wall outlet or through a fast charging system which can recharge the vehicle between three to twelve hours dependent on the charging system.

According to the car maker, the new EV offers a range of up to 115 miles and a top speed of up to 45mph in the European Union, while it has a top-speed of 25mph in the US due to the regulatory limitations.

GreenTech said that MyCar produces zero emissions and meets all safety standards for its type of vehicle class.

GTA had purchased Hong Kong-based EuAuto in 2010 and relocated its operations and manufacturing to the US, while the currently leased Horn Lake facility is producing vehicles during the construction of its permanent 300,000ft2 facility in Tunica.

GreenTech Automotive Blessed by Bill Clinton- Production Commences [Video]

By Andrei Nedelea

July 9, 2012

While Green Tech Automotive is a relatively unknown name on the increasingly-busy EV marketplace. The company was founded in 2006 and up until recently, they had yet to begin production of their first (and only) offering, dubbed MyCar.

Now, under the watchful eyes of former US President, Bill Clinton, the tires of the Horn Lake, Mississippi plant were kicked, with the first 20 finished cars going to Domino's Pizza, to be used as delivery vehicles - a role very well suited to them. The imaginatively-named MyCar (they could have definitely done so much better than that, we say) is priced starting at $18,000 (€14,600) for the slower version, limited to 40 km/h (25 mph), with the top-of-the-range model being limited to 72 km/h (45 mph), with a maximum range of 152 km (95 miles).

Their (rather optimistic) aim is to build 10,000 MyCars next year. Who are they planning to sell all of them to? Well, apparently, a Danish distributor can shift them by the 'thousands'. However, keeping in mind the kinds of people backing the project, with the likes of Bill Clinton, Terry McAuliffe (former Democratic Nation Committee Chief), as well as other very important names, maybe the right strings will be pulled and GTA's MyCar will be a success - we still say it's a long shot.

GreenTech Automotive supplying EVs to Domino's Pizza
Date: Monday, July 9, 2012, 9:26am

GreenTech Automotive unveiled last week its MyCar, a two-seat all-electric vehicle that produces zero emissions and provides a range of up to 115 miles, at its manufacturing facility in Horn Lake, Miss.

The company also announced it has inked a deal to provide MyCars to Domino's Pizza for its delivery drivers. The campus of Ole Miss will be one of Domino's first target service areas. Former President Bill Clinton and former Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour attended the unveiling, which also marked GreenTech's relocation to the U.S. The company expects to create 426 manufacturing jobs and support 7,400 more.

"Too many people have given up on American manufacturing, saying manufacturing jobs are not coming back. But GTA set out to prove them wrong," said Terry McAuliffe, chairman of GreenTech. "For too long, America has been inventing products here and sending the production jobs overseas. But we're part of a rebirth for American manufacturing. We're proud to bring manufacturing jobs back and prove that the U.S. is still the world leader in technological innovation and manufacturing."

GreenTech Automotive purchased Hong Kong-based EuAuto in 2010 and relocated the company's operations and manufacturing to the U.S. The company is leasing the factory in Horn Lake, where workers are now producing vehicles during the construction of its permanent, 300,000-square-foot facility in Tunica, Miss.

GTA expects to create 426 direct jobs by 2014, and an independent analysis by Evans, Carroll & Associates Inc. found that GTA's operations would create more than 7,400 direct, indirect and induced jobs by 2014. GTA currently employs 100 people in Horn Lake.

McAuliffe thanked Barbour for being supportive and working with GreenTech to establish operations in Mississippi, and he looks forward to continued support expressed by new Gov.Phil Bryant's administration. McAuliffe previously served as the chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Barbour served as chairman of the Republican National Committee. The MyCar has an expected base price of $15,500, and the company's commitment to affordable alternative energy solutions earned the praise of Clinton.

Charles Wang, CEO of GreenTech, said the company's strategy of creating an affordable electric car "will reshape how Americans think about meeting our daily transportation needs."

MyCar is being marketed to corporations, government entities, rental car fleets, and corporate and college campuses in addition to individual transportation use such as commuting and daily errands. MyCar is expected to evolve into other vehicle models, including a micro pick-up and delivery vehicle, beginning in 2013. GTA also plans to manufacture a larger MyCar EV beginning in 2014.

MyCar EV Brings Green Jobs to a Red State
By Tina Casey
July 11, 2012

Mississippi Governor Haley Barbour has been bucking the party line when it comes to promoting electric vehicles, and his efforts have just borne fruit with the official unveiling of GreenTech Automotive's MyCar all-electric vehicle. The two-seater is being manufactured at GreenTech Automotive's Horn Lake facility, and it will directly create hundreds of new jobs in Mississippi with the expectation of thousands of related employment opportunities. The big question, of course, is whether there is enough demand out there to keep the conveyor belts humming at Horn Lake.

Governor Barbour and MyCar
Governor Barbour aggressively courted Green Technologies to bring MyCar production to Mississippi. In doing so he took a political risk, considering the high-decibel rants against EV technology that have been emanating from other conservative political leaders and pundits. Barbour also took an economic risk as well, since the market for MyCar seems rather narrow at first glance. MyCar is not a highway EV like the Chevy Volt. In the U.S. it is classified as a Neighborhood Electric Vehicle (NEV) with a top speed of 25 mph, which effectively prohibits its use on highways.

A wider market for NEVs
It would be easy to scoff at the idea of pitching a 25 mph vehicle to the general public, but on closer inspection the market for a relatively inexpensive, stylish NEV like MyCar could be a strong and growing one, especially for the many households in need of a second (or more) car. One trend favoring MyCar is the growth of urban areas, "smart" mixed-use developments and other areas where local streets provide ample routes to nearby shopping, work, commuter connections, schools and other resources.

MyCar could also serve an increasing population of older persons and persons with disabilities, or for that matter any person who needs some degree of mobility and flexibility but prefers to avoid highway driving.

The growing market for NEVs at airports, corporate parks, universities, health care complexes, research centers, malls, resorts, private communities and large public facilities including park lands and military bases is also working in favor of MyCar.
The company already foresees meeting that demand by rolling out a highway-qualified EV in 2014 along with a line of fleet-friendly NEVs based on the MyCar platform including pickups and delivery vehicles.

Helping that trend along is a recent study from MIT that indicates a significant savings by switching from petroleum-fueled trucks to electric trucks.

It's also worth mentioning that the newly formed public-private Electrification Leadership Council will be working across the industry to help speed the pace of EV (and by extension, NEV) adoption by companies, institutions and the general public.

GreenTech, Green Jobs
GreenTech Automotive was formed when a team headed by former Democratic National Committee chairman Terry McAuliffe purchased Hong Kong-based EuAuto in 2010 and relocated the company to the U.S.

The Horn Lake facility, which occupies a formerly vacant factory, is going to be supplanted by a larger facility under construction in Tunica, Mississippi.

All together, GreenTech is anticipating that it will create about 7,400 jobs by 2014, including direct employees of the company and jobs that are induced or created indirectly by the growing enterprise.

Other aspects of Governor Barbour's public policies may not find agreement with many readers on this site, but his embrace of electric vehicles demonstrates an acknowledgement of the fact that the U.S. is in the beginning stages of another historic, unstoppable transition from one transportation model to another.

In a recent interview with the New York Times, Barbour said:

"It's not about politics...It's about economic development and higher-paying, higher-skilled job creation in my state. We have not, by a long shot, given up on manufacturing in Mississippi."

MyCar Low Speed Electric Vehicle Debuts for $15,500
By Nino Marchetti
July 12, 2012

The world of low speed electric vehicles you roam your neighborhood in has gotten larger by two in the last few weeks. First it was the Toyota COMS one-seater in Japan, and now comes Greentech Automotive's MyCar, which debuted recently at a leased former elevator plant in Mississippi.

As we reported before, Greentech Automotive (GTA) is run by Terry McAuliffe, the former chairman of the Democratic National Committee. He's been able to use this influence to carry him further then other nice electric car companies coming off the starting block. He was able to pull in at the launch ceremony, for example, former US president Bill Clinton as well as Haley Barbour, former chair of the Republican National Committee.

The company is trying as much as possible to go the Made in America route, with plans in place to create 426 new manufacturing jobs and to support 7,400 more by 2014. As of July 2012, GTA said it had more than 840 employees enterprise-wide, and the company is on track to employ more than 900 people by the end of 2012.

GTA originally purchased the Hong Kong based company called EuAuto, who was behind MyCar, and relocated its operations and manufacturing to the United States. Bloomberg reported that even as GTA works away at the plant it is leasing currently after the relocation, plans are in the works for a second factory to be opened in the same state next year.

The specifications of GTA's MyCar make for an interesting EV, even if it falls into the same neighborhood electric vehicle category as Toyota's slow driving COMS. Expected to price for around $15,500 starting, this two seater reportedly has a range of up to 115 miles on a single charge and a top speed of 25 MPH, which is set as such because of regulatory restrictions.

MyCar, like other electric vehicles, can be charged either at a regular wall outlet or a fast charging system. Charging times range from three to twelve hours, depending upon what type of charging option is being used. The car has its share of stylish design touches, having originally been designed by Georgetto Guigiaro of ItalDesign.

Other features of noteworthiness in MyCar include recyclable thermoplastic body panels, a driving cost said to be 2 cents per mile, 40 inches of legroom, 7.5 cubic feet of storage space, a vehicle monitoring system located in the car's dashboard, an energy recovery system to help extend driving range, a single speed drive/neutral/reverse transmission and an optional sound system.

Looking beyond MyCar, GTA has plans to expand its EV offerings in coming years. These include a micro pick-up and delivery vehicle, beginning in 2013, as well as a larger MyCar EV by 2014. These plans will depend, of course, on how well the first generation MyCar is received by consumers and the private sector.

Electric car firm says it's starting production
Jeff Amy- Associated Press

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — An electric car maker plans another coming-out party Friday in north Mississippi.

GreenTech Automotive says it will unveil its MyCar electric vehicle line in Horn Lake, just south of Memphis, Tenn. Some auto industry analysts have questioned whether the company will succeed.

MyCar is a two-seat neighborhood electric vehicle, a cross between a golf cart and conventional car, with a 115-mile range. The company has said it plans to sell a "sizeable percentage" of products to Denmark over several years. In the United States, such vehicles are allowed only on streets with speed limits of 35 mph and below. The vehicles are supposed to recharge from household electric outlets and sell for about $10,000.

The company says former President Bill Clinton and former Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour will attend Friday's event. Former Democratic National Committee Chairman Terry McAuliffe is chairman of GreenTech, based in McLean, Va. The CEO is Chinese businessman Charles X. Wang.

GreenTech announced in 2009 it would build a massive factory in Tunica County, Miss., unveiling four models of full-sized electric cars at a Tunica casino. Those plans changed, though, after McAuliffe got involved and GreenTech acquired MyCar.

GreenTech had said it would start production in late 2011, but missed that deadline. The company said it still plans to build a 200,000- to 300,000-square-foot factory in Tunica County. It also says it plans to progress from neighborhood electric vehicles to full-sized cars. But for now, it's leasing a former elevator factory in the Memphis suburbs of DeSoto County, Miss.

Sally Williams, spokeswoman for the Mississippi Development Authority, said that the state hasn't provided any assistance to the Horn Lake operation. She said Mississippi is "committed" to providing infrastructure aid, tax breaks and a loan to Tunica County to buy land there.

However, Williams said she had no estimate of the value of that projected assistance and said details haven't been finalized because GreenTech "is still assessing its needs related to its Tunica County plant."

GreenTech had said Thursday that Mississippi Gov. Phil Bryant would attend Friday's event, but withdrew that statement after the governor's office told The Associated Press that Bryant wasn't going.

The company has not responded to questions submitted June 26 by the AP, and a number of factors remain unclear. Originally, GreenTech said it would raise money from foreign investors through the EB-5 visa program, which allows investors to obtain residency in the United States in exchange for putting a certain amount of money into a business venture and creating a certain number of jobs.

It's not clear whether GreenTech is still seeking foreign investors, or how much money it has put into the Horn Lake operation so far. On Thursday, an Escondido, Calif., firm called Flux Power said it would be providing lithium battery packs for GreenTech and had already delivered "several hundred." Flux Power is led by Chris Anthony, who co-founded failed electric vehicle company Aptera and then left to start Epic Electric Vehicles, which is developing a three-wheeled electric roadster, an electric dune buggy and an electric boat.

The GreenTech project has encountered intense skepticism from some auto industry analysts, who say it's unlikely that an untried player without very deep pockets will be able to break into the fledgling electric vehicle market.

GreenTech first came to public notice when Wang was engaged in a legal dispute with Yung "Benjamin" Yeung, a business associate. Yeung moved his separate venture, called Hybrid Kinetic motors, to a site north of Mobile, Ala. The American part of that venture largely fizzled after several years, Alabama officials have said.

Fewer auto closings reduce US unemployment claims

CHRISTOPHER S. RUGABER, AP Business Writers, TOM KRISHER, AP Business Writers

Updated 11:47 a.m., Thursday, July 12, 2012

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of people seeking U.S. unemployment benefits plunged last week. But a big reason is that automakers have skipped some of their usual summer shutdowns to keep up with demand, causing fewer temporary auto layoffs.
Economists expect the number of Americans seeking unemployment aid to go back up in coming weeks.

The auto industry's recovery has helped support the struggling U.S. economy. U.S. auto sales in the first half of the year jumped 15 percent over the same period a year ago. Sales of new vehicles surged in June. Automakers also began Independence Day promotions early, lifting sales at the end of the month.

The Labor Department adjusts the number of applications for unemployment aid to account for seasonal factors. But it underestimated this summer's drop in temporary shutdowns of auto plants. That distorted the seasonally adjusted data it released Thursday.
And that may largely explain why applications for unemployment aid tumbled 26,000 last week to a seasonally adjusted 350,000 — the fewest since March 2008.

"Take July with a grain of salt," Jill Brown, an economist at Credit Suisse, said in a note to clients. The auto shutdowns "often cause extreme volatility."

Automakers traditionally close their plants in the first two weeks in July to prepare them to build new models, and their employees often file for unemployment benefits. But Ford Motor Co. said in May that it would reduce its usual two-week closing to just one week. And Chrysler canceled the normal two-week shutdowns at three factories.

Applications for unemployment benefits measure the pace of layoffs. When they consistently fall below 375,000, it generally suggests that hiring is strong enough to reduce the unemployment rate. The number has fluctuated at or above that level since April.

At the same time, hiring has slowed sharply compared with the first three months of the year. Employers added only 80,000 jobs in June, the third straight month of weak hiring. The unemployment rate was stuck at 8.2 percent.
And wages have barely kept up with inflation over the past year, leading consumers to pull back on spending.

The economy isn't growing fast enough to prompt more hiring. The economy grew at an annual rate of just 1.9 percent in the first three months of the year. Most economists don't think growth picked up in the April-June quarter. And some predict that it weakened.

The Federal Reserve expects the U.S. economy to grow just 1.9 percent to 2.4 percent for 2012. That's half a percentage point lower than the range it estimated in April. The Fed also says the unemployment rate won't fall much further this year than it has already.

Yet the auto industry is enjoying a rebound. From January through June, U.S. auto sales ran at an annual rate of 14.3 million, far better than last year's 12.8 million. Many analysts predict 15 million sales next year.

Much of the increase comes from pent-up demand. The average age of a vehicle on U.S. roads is nearing 11 years. Many are wearing out and need to be replaced.

The higher auto production also has ripple effects: Many parts companies have had to add workers to keep up with demand.

Chrysler's first-half sales are up more than 30 percent over the same period a year ago. Ford's sales rose nearly 7 percent in the first half of 2012. It cut in half the usual two-week shutdowns at six assembly plants and seven engine and parts plants, all so it could make 40,000 more vehicles this year.

Most other areas of the U.S. economy aren't faring as well. That's why some analysts think applications for unemployment aid could rise in coming weeks, once the Labor Department's seasonal adjustments no longer include the summer auto shutdowns.

Most economists don't foresee a strong increase in hiring coming soon.

"We have been disappointed for the past three months, and I will believe that payroll gains have improved up when I see it," said Joel Naroff, chief economist at Naroff Economic Advisors.

GreenTech unveils new plant, car line
10:47 PM, Jul. 6, 2012
Jeff Amy-The Associated Press

HORN LAKE — GreenTech Automotive marked the start of production at its plant in Horn Lake on Friday with a visit from former President Bill Clinton and says it hopes to make 10,000 of its small electric vehicles in the coming year.

Former Democratic National Committee chief Terry McAuliffe is chairman of the company building the two-seater MyCar, a neighborhood electric vehicle, in a former elevator factory in the southern suburbs of Memphis.

Neighborhood electric vehicles, a cross between a golf cart and a full-sized vehicle, are limited to streets with speed limits of 35 mph and below in the United States. It will cost $18,000, and the top-of-the-line model is supposed to go up to 95 miles on a single charge.

The company plans to sell a year's output to a Danish firm and will also sell some to Domino's Pizza franchisees and other U.S. vehicle fleet operators.

The current top American maker of such vehicles, the Global Electric Motorcars unit of Polaris Industries, focuses on selling to retirement communities and fleet users such as colleges, said Daniel Sperling, who directs the Institute for Transportation Studies at the University of California, Davis.

Though the company also plans a factory in China and is led by Chinese CEO Charles X. Wang, McAuliffe touted the importance of American manufacturing. He pledged, under a giant American flag at the sweltering ceremony that GreenTech would make the innards of vehicles in the U.S. and export them to China for assembly.

"We can't become a service economy," McAuliffe said. "We've got to go back to making things." Sperling and other observers say they're not sure small vehicles will have a wide market in the U.S, though there could be more demand abroad.

"The way we've designed our roads and cities makes it difficult for them to compete," Sperling said.

McAuliffe said the company has raised hundreds of millions of dollars and has no debt. He said the firm has accepted no loans or grants from the federal government. The company has raised money in the past through the EB-5 visa program, which allows foreign investors to obtain residency in the United States in exchange for putting money into a business venture and creating jobs.

The plant is drastically smaller than a typical car plant, with only a few rows of shelves holding parts.

Plant Manager Suresh Nair said many suppliers were in the region, though lithium batteries are coming from Flux Power in California. GreenTech hasn't said who's making its powertrain.

The company started assembling a handful of vehicles in the past two weeks, and is in the process of adding employees as production increases. GreenTech said it employs 840 people today in all its locations, including Mississippi, its McLean, Va., headquarters and China.

GreenTech plans to build a permanent 300,000-square-foot facility on 100 acres in Tunica County that would allow it to make 16,000 cars a year.

Clinton, who participated in a launch for the company in Denmark in May, saluted the company's emphasis on American manufacturing, technology and cooperation with China.

"We are going to share the future with China," Clinton said. "What we've still got to decide every single day is what kind of future we're going to share."

Despite the Democratic links, former Republican Gov. Haley Barbour attended and sung GreenTech's praises. McAuliffe and Barbour were once investors in a Washington restaurant, the Caucus Room.

"Creating jobs is not a partisan political issue," McAuliffe said.

McAuliffe said GreenTech chose Mississippi because it offered the best incentives. The Mississippi Development Authority has said the state hasn't assisted the Horn Lake operation but is "committed" to providing infrastructure aid, tax breaks and a loan to Tunica County government to buy land.

Past President Bill Clinton visits GreenTech Automotive opening in Horn Lake Attends unveiling of electric car

Former President Bill Clinton watches as one of GreenTech's all electric cars rolls off the assembly line at the company's Horn Lake facility.

A union of the unlikeliest pairings — Democrats and Republicans, Americans and Chinese — debuted an equally unusual progeny Friday as a stubby little vehicle zoomed and clambered through a DeSoto County factory to the adoring applause of hundreds of sweaty onlookers, well-heeled backers and a former U.S. president.

For the private startup firm GreenTech Automotive, the occasion in a former elevator plant in Horn Lake celebrated the launch of production of a plug-in electric vehicle it has christened "MyCar." But it also marked what company officials described as something of a renaissance for American manufacturing, innovation and self-sufficiency.

"If you live in America, you should buy products that were made in the United States of America," GreenTech chairman Terry McAuliffe told the crowd of more than 600.

During the next 12 months, GreenTech expects to make 10,000 of the vehicles, which will cost $15,000 to $18,000 each, have a range of 115 miles and in the U.S. will be limited to neighborhood use. By 2014, the firm expects to employ more than 400 workers in North Mississippi manufacturing operations, including a new plant under construction in Tunica County.

The entire first year's production line has been essentially purchased by Denmark, but Domino's Pizza also announced Friday its plans to use the vehicles to deliver pizzas in some areas. GreenTech eventually will add full-scale electric vehicles to its product line and complete a huge plant in China, McAuliffe said, but "the guts" of the cars always will be made in the U.S.

Although they rely on electrical power that's in many cases generated by fossil fuels, plug-in electric vehicles don't emit any of the exhaust compounds blamed for ozone pollution, which remains a potent problem in the Memphis area, and climate change. Plug-ins and hybrid-electric vehicles are expected to account for more than 5 percent of U.S. vehicle sales by 2017, and charging stations, including a solar-powered facility under construction at Shelby Farms Park, are being installed at many locations to serve them.

Despite the tone of Friday's event, some industry analysts are less than optimistic about GreenTech's future. "It's a tough market to build a car in, period, even if you're not a startup," said Alan Baum of Baum & Associates, a Michigan-based market research firm specializing in the auto industry.

The origins of the vehicles can be traced to GreenTech's 2010 purchase of Hong Kong-based EuAuto, whose operations were moved to the U.S. McAuliffe, a former Democratic National Committee chairman and friend of former President Bill Clinton, one of the other speakers at the event, brought the plant to Mississippi largely as a result of the economic incentives offered by a prominent Republican, former Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour.

"We got this done because Democrats and Republicans worked together," said Barbour, who also is a former chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Clinton hailed GreenTech's operations as a boon to American manufacturing and the environment.

"I don't care what anyone tells you, manufacturing matters to a country's economy," the former president said.

He praised Denmark for generating strong economic growth without increasing its greenhouse gas emissions, saying the U.S. could achieve similar benefits while cutting its dependence on foreign oil. "Being more self-sufficient with your energy is good economics," Clinton said.

He added that America's future is intertwined with that of China. "We are going to share the world with China. What we have to decide each and every day is what kind of future we are going to share."

For many who waited in the heat at the plant, Clinton was the main draw. Hernando attorney Anne Jackson, a Democrat, said she had a tough time getting an invitation in GOP-dominated Mississippi.

"It's a sorry state of affairs when I have to prevail upon my Republican friends for help to see my favorite Democrat," Jackson said.

GreenTech Automotive unveils MyCar, announces deal with Domino's Pizza
Memphis Business Journal by Michael Sheffield, Staff writer

GreenTech Automotive unveiled on Friday its MyCar, a two-seat all-electric vehicle that produces zero emissions and provides a range of up to 115 miles, at its manufacturing facility in Horn Lake, Miss.

The company also announced it has inked a deal to provide MyCars to Domino's Pizza for its delivery drivers. The campus of Ole Miss will be one of Domino's first target service areas.

Former President Bill Clinton and former Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour attended the unveiling, which also marked GreenTech's relocation to the U.S. The company expects to create 426 manufacturing jobs and support 7,400 more.

"Too many people have given up on American manufacturing, saying manufacturing jobs are not coming back. But GTA set out to prove them wrong," said Terry McAuliffe, chairman of GreenTech. "For too long, America has been inventing products here and sending the production jobs overseas. But we're part of a rebirth for American manufacturing. We're proud to bring manufacturing jobs back and prove that the U.S. is still the world leader in technological innovation and manufacturing."

GreenTech Automotive purchased Hong Kong-based EuAuto in 2010 and relocated the company's operations and manufacturing to the U.S. The company is leasing the factory in Horn Lake, where workers are now producing vehicles during the construction of its permanent, 300,000-square-foot facility in Tunica, Miss.

GTA expects to create 426 direct jobs by 2014, and an independent analysis by Evans, Carroll & Associates Inc. found that GTA's operations would create more than 7,400 direct, indirect and induced jobs by 2014. As of July, GTA had more than 840 employees and should exceed 900 people by the end of 2012.

McAuliffe thanked Barbour for being supportive and working with GreenTech to establish operations in Mississippi, and he looks forward to continued support expressed by new Gov. Phil Bryant's administration. McAuliffe previously served as the chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Barbour served as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The MyCar has an expected base price of $15,500, and the company's commitment to affordable alternative energy solutions earned the praise of Clinton.
Charles Wang, CEO of GreenTech, said the company's strategy of creating an affordable electric car "will reshape how Americans think about meeting our daily transportation needs."

MyCar is being marketed to corporations, government entities, rental car fleets, and corporate and college campuses in addition to individual transportation use such as commuting and daily errands. MyCar is expected to evolve into other vehicle models, including a micro pick-up and delivery vehicle, beginning in 2013. GTA also plans to manufacture a larger MyCar EV beginning in 2014.

"The way we've designed our roads and cities makes it difficult for them to compete," Sperling said, saying that could change if states and cities reserve lanes for small vehicles as they've done for bicycles

McAuliffe acknowledged that the startup is a risky venture, but exuded confidence.

"When people hear our story, they're going to want to buy the car," he said.

McAuliffe said the company has raised hundreds of millions of dollars and has no debt. He said the firm has accepted no loans or grants from the federal government. The company has raised money in the past through the EB-5 visa program, which allows foreign investors to obtain residency in the United States in exchange for putting money into a business venture and creating jobs.

GreenTech's board is stocked with the politically connected, including former Louisiana Gov. Kathleen Blanco, a Democrat, and former Clinton-era IRS Commissioner Margaret Richardson. Tony Rodham, Secretary of State Hillary Clinton's brother, has been helping raise money.

HORN LAKE — GreenTech Automotive officials Friday unveiled their revolutionary two-seat all-electric vehicle referred to as a MyCar coupe before an overflow crowd and a former U.S. president gathered inside GTA's 376,000 square-foot Horn Lake facility.

The cars, which have maximum speeds of about 45 mph in Europe, are destined in the immediate future for U.S. college campuses, gated communities and urban areas. The vehicle, which will have a top maximum speed of 25 mph in the U.S. are not yet "street legal" for use on U.S. roads and highways.

However, it was announced the Domino's franchise chain will exclusively use the vehicles as their mode of transportation in delivering pizzas in 10,000 locations across the U.S., the first of which will be the Horn Lake Domino's franchise.

Horn Lake Mayor Nat Baker shook hands with former U.S. President Bill Clinton during a receiving line afterwards and hailed the historic visit by Clinton, Gov. Haley Barbour and Assistant U.S. Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security Douglas Smith.

""This is a historical day for Horn Lake," Baker said. "I have a former president and a former governor all in Horn Lake on the same day."

The vehicle, which has zero emissions and a range of up to 115 miles on a single charge, is being touted as the vehicle of the future.

Barbour, representing Gov. Phil Bryant who was on his way to England on an industrial mission of his own, praised Clinton for two balanced budgets and welfare reform — two things the former National Republican Party chairman said Clinton, the nation's 42nd president, would be remembered for in the history books.

However, Barbour reserved most of the praise for the cooperative effort made to create GTA.

Barbour said the cooperation between people with backgrounds in both political parties and various political affiliations helped bring about the GTA venture.

"Job creation is not about parties," Barbour said. "It's not about politics. It's about jobs."

Barbour also thanked Clinton who made several trips to the hurricane-battered Mississippi Gulf Coast after Hurricane Katrina in 2005 as part of the Bush-Clinton Katrina Fund.

After taking the podium, Clinton, dressed casually in the stifling Mississippi heat in an open collar shirt and khakis, lauded the cooperation between Barbour and the political rival and foe of most Republicans, former Democratic Party Chairman Terry McAuliffe.

"Manufacturing really matters to a country's economy," Clinton said. "I really respect the package of economic incentives Gov. Barbour put together."

Clinton said the working relationship between China and the United States had been strengthened through the GTA venture. The internal manufacturing of the MyCar operation or the "guts" as described by McAuliffe, was brought over from China to the U.S., although cars will actually be shipped from China.

Clinton said the partnership echoes a broader working relationship between China and the U.S.

GreenTech Automotive purchased Hong Kong-based EuAuto and relocated the company's operations and manufacturing to the United States.

"We're going to share the future with China," Clinton said adding, "it's important" the two competing nations work together and not against each other.

For his part, McAuliffe, said when he and MyCar GreenTech CEO Charles X. Wang discussed opening a car manufacturing company during a recession, he remarked that only one state had the "most active" incentive program — Mississippi — to make such an enterprise successful.

He informed Clinton, his close friend of about 25 years, that he and Barbour, then the state's chief executive, would be doing business together.

McAuliffe effused praise for Barbour, calling him "the greatest governor in the history of Mississippi."

"Thanks are due to Gov. Barbour for being so receptive to our strategy to create manufacturing jobs in the United States," McAuliffe said. "This unlikely partnership illustrates the kind of jobs-before-politics attitude that will get America back on track by restoring manufacturing to its rightful place at the core of our economy. We're looking forward to continuing that relationship with Gov. Bryant's new administration."

McAuliffe previously served as the chairman of the Democratic National Committee while Barbour served as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The spirit of non-partisanship was reflected in the large number of Republicans seen in the crowd.

"We're all DeSoto Countians," Kim Chamberlin, constituent liaison for U.S. Sen. Roger Wicker said.

State Rep. Pat Nelson, R-Southaven, spent many years in Arkansas. He just smiled as he watched Clinton work the rope line inside the plant. Clinton, tall, suntanned and smiling, shook hands for more than a half hour after the ceremony concluded.

"Say what you like, he's a great politician," Nelson said.

Although there have been skeptics about the future of the electric car market abroad and nationally, McAuliffe radiated unbridled optimism and enthusiasm.

"It's not the easiest thing to start a car company," McAuliffe said. "All I can tell you is we're going to be busy building and selling cars."

Just before dignitaries arrived, Wang walked the floor of the Horn Lake facility like an expectant father, making sure everything was in place.

in an exclusive interview, he praised the workers at the Horn Lake plant, which is housed in the former Dover Elevator Manufacturing facility.

"They take a personal interest in every car they make," Wang said. "We have a very hard working group of people in Mississippi and the surrounding area. Three years ago, I came to Mississippi and I said there are smart, hard working people here that all of us need. They refer to it as MyCar."

State Rep. Gene Alday, R-Walls, said he hopes his district will reap major economic benefit from the GTA operation, which hopes to create 426 jobs by 2014 and a total of 7,400 direct, indirect and "induced" jobs by 2014.

As of July of 2012, GTA had more than 840 employees enterprise-wide. Company officials said they are on track to employ more than 900 people by the end of 2012.

"I am very excited about this — just ecstatic," Alday said. "This is a good day for DeSoto County. We're all excited about the same thing — job creation. Republicans and Democrats worked together to bring this about."

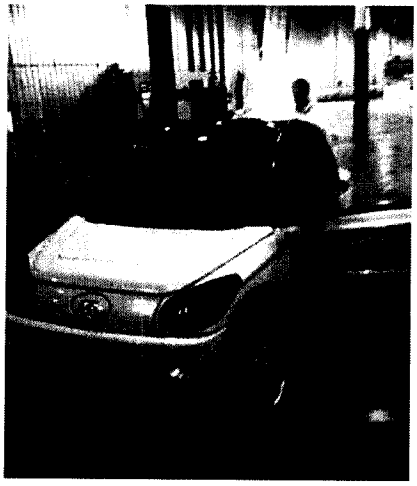
Electric Vehicle Plant Bringing Jobs to North Mississippi
PUBLISHED BY DANIEL CHERRY ON 08 JUL 2012 09:02PM

A new electric vehicle manufacturing plant is beginning operations in North Mississippi. MPB's Daniel Cherry has more on how local leaders are excited about the potential for thousands of new jobs in the area.

GreenTech Automotive announced they're beginning production of their MyCar, a two-seat, all electric vehicle in Horn Lake. It's a move the company says will create more than 400 direct jobs, and about 74 hundred more indirectly. Horn Lake Mayor, Nat Baker, is looking forward to having more jobs for residents, most of all because they don't have to drive to Memphis to get to work.

"It keeps people at home. The residual income as far as taxes and all is created through buying at the grocery stores and the shopping malls and all. So the city benefits in more ways than just one."



GreenTech officials say they chose Mississippi because the state offered the most aggressive incentive program. Jay Moon, President of the Mississippi Manufacturers Association believes automotive manufacturing is taking off in the state because foreign companies see plenty of opportunity.

"Really, the biggest issue for most businesses is workforce. How do I get the workforce? How do I train the workforce so I can make a world-class product? We have that workforce here in Mississippi."

The company announced they plan to produce 10 thousand of the vehicles in the coming year. Congressman Alan Nunnelee was on hand for the unveiling, and he's glad to see the plant opening up and bringing more jobs to his district.

"No green technology is truly green until it is Affordably Green."

"Mississippi has what manufacturing is looking for. We've got a stable tax base, we passed tort reform, and we have a great work force. You put all those things together and the future is bright for Mississippi."

The first year's output is slated to be sent overseas to Denmark.

Clinton sees GreenTech as boost to the economy

During a visit to GreenTech Automotive's Horn Lake assembly facility Friday, former President Bill Clinton stressed the importance of manufacturing in the United States,Memphis Business Journal reports.

"I don't care what anybody tells you, manufacturing matters to this country's economy," Clinton said.

GreenTech, which is assembling cars in 376,000 square feet in Horn Lake while it is building a $75 million, 300,000-square-foot manufacturing facility in Tunica, rolled out its MyCar electric car product Friday. The company also announced a partnership with Domino's Pizza for GreenTech to assemble cars for the company's delivery drivers. Franchisees in Gulfport, Oxford and Southaven have already committed to buying an unspecified number of cars.

GreenTech currently employs 100 people in Horn Lake. Company officials estimate it will create 426 direct jobs by 2014.

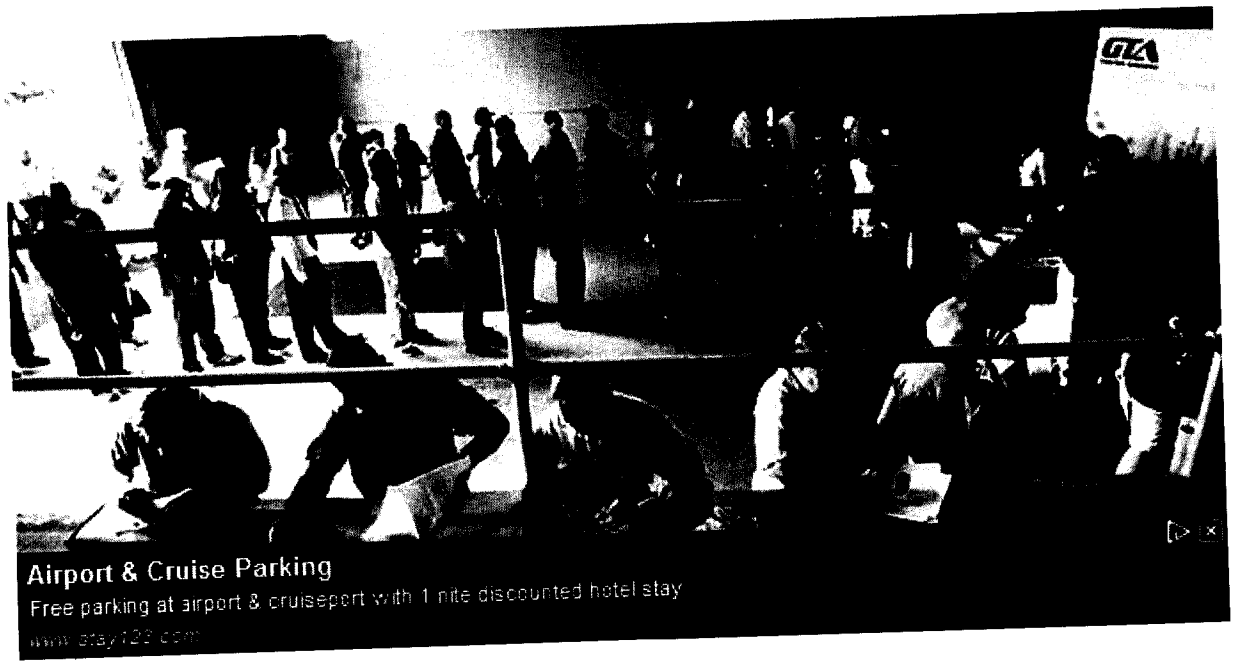
GreenTech Automotive puts out welcome mat

GreenTech Automotive hosted a Talent Meet and Greet at its Horn Lake facility, 6266 Hurt Road on Tuesday for those interested in finding out more about employment opportunities. Hundreds were on hand filling out job applications.

By Chris Van Tuyl
Posted July 11, 2012 at 4 a.m.



Nick O'Donnell was hopeful Tuesday morning's two-hour drive from Pocahontas in northeast Arkansas to DeSoto County would be worthwhile.

After all, the recent aerospace engineering graduate from Mississippi State University had a personal referral to attend the Talent Meet and Greet at the new GreenTech Automotive manufacturing plant in Horn Lake.
"I was interviewing for another job and the owner there told me he's doing some fabrication work for GTA," said O'Donnell, 22. "I'm looking to start a career in engineering, and they seem like they have a pretty good thing going right now."

If last Friday's grand opening, which featured an appearance by former President Bill Clinton, was any indication, the hundreds of men and women who braved the heat Tuesday waiting in line near the loading dock of the 376,000-square foot facility to begin the application process were also in the right place.

"We had a lot of activity on our website since Friday," said GTA Executive Vice President of Sales and Marketing Marianne McInerney. "We had a lot of people stop by spontaneously (Monday) and then today ... we know there's a lot of great talent in this area, so this is a great way for us to capture it."

The company that will produce the Neighborhood Electric Vehicle, MyCar, is seeking to fill 13 positions, ranging from assembly technician to commodity souring manager and cost accountant.

"We truly believe that manufacturing has to return to the United States and this is our way of demonstrating our commitment," McInerney said, "and today is a great example of people that believe in that same thing. I think we can be a large part of the economic growth of this region."

HR Specialist Teri Stanton was among the GTA officials working the application table. Some applicants left with information pertaining to the workforce development course offered by Northwest Mississippi Community College — the manufacturing basic skills certification program. Others were instructed to stop by the DeSoto County WIN Job Center in Southaven to obtain a Career Readiness Certificate (CRC).

"We've got some skilled people," Stanton said. "But even more than that, we've got interested people that are willing to go do this course if it makes them bubble up. They're willing to do that because they want to work here."

Horn Lake resident Angel Owens walked away satisfied with the prospect of landing a job.

I've been looking online for two years trying to figure out when they were going to start hiring," she said. "It would be a good thing to help produce the environmentally friendly cars."

Terry McAuliffe to Bring High Energy to Falls Church Talk Sunday

BY NICHOLAS F. BENTON, Falls Church News-Press

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 30 2011 06:07:01 PM ? When former Democratic National Chair, Clinton family friend and unsuccessful 2009 Virginia gubernatorial candidate Terry McAuliffe moves down from his nearby Tysons Corner offices to speak at the Falls Church Community Center this Sunday night, be prepared for a heavy barrage on a wide range of subjects from this high energy personality.

It is widely recognized that McAuliffe is preparing for another run at the Richmond statehouse in 2013, when he will most likely be warmly embraced by the state's Democrats as their candidate of choice, and the kind of speaking schedule he's keeping now certainly indicates that.

But he told the News-Press in an exclusive interview Tuesday that he's really not yet made up his mind. He's having too much fun with his start-up electric car business to be certain.

McAuliffe has a lot to say about the avoidable failure, in his view, of the Democrats in the midterm elections last year, saying their leaders failed to "message the party" to exhibit the clear choice that was before voters. "It was disgraceful," he said.

The focus of his remarks at the annual Falls Church City Democratic Committee's Jefferson-Jackson Dinner Sunday, however, may focus more on the needs of Virginia to become more competitive bringing new jobs to the state.

Or maybe not. As the CEO of his new "GreenTech Automotive" company, McAuliffe is hop-scotching around the globe cutting deals and anticipating the launch of his first manufacturing plant in Mississippi this summer that will turn out energy-saving, environmentally-friendly and efficient lithium ion battery-powered cars. He bought up a Chinese company to start his business, and has already cut a deal to sell the first batch of cars coming off his assembly line to the government of Denmark.

In fact, McAuliffe's appearance here Sunday may be more like a blur than a baby-kissing, glad-handing politico. That's because after hitting a string of events in Northern Virginia this week, he'll be showing at the F.C. Community Center Sunday April 3 with plans to head to an event in Herndon after that, jump on a plane to Switzerland, fly over to London, pop in on Shanghai, China, and then be back to keynote a fundraiser for State Sen. Donald McEachin in Richmond on April 13.?That's a lot of airline miles in 10 days, and it's been par for the course for McAuliffe since he moved to start his new company after failing to get his party's nomination to run for governor in 2009. "It's an idea I had starting in 2006,' he said. "It's clean energy, and it's a job-creator. It's the future."?As for the pressures of his schedule, "Who needs sleep?," he said. "I'll sleep when I'm dead."

But still, McAuliffe loves to articulate his views on a wide range of subjects, including domestic Virginia politics, always with energy and passion. So, he'll tarry in Falls Church Sunday, one suspects, as long as his audience exhibits an interest in what he has to say.

He's been paying attention to what's gone on in Richmond since Republican Bob McDonnell won the gubernatorial election in '09, and he's fundamentally critical of policies that "kick problems down the road" through bonding, and then cynically declaring a surplus, he said.

"They're bonding for transportation without any plan for paying back the debt," he said. "It's a shell game of moving money around, and it's net effect will be to cripple education when paying for it has to come out of the general fund. Shame on them all."

He added that there is no "vision" in Virginia to compete effectively for new jobs. "We're losing jobs to neighboring states. We've got the rail infrastructure and the deep port, but we're not getting the new alternative energy plants that are going to North and South Carolina," he said. New wind and blade industries are also locating in Arkansas and Pennsylvania, and his own company's new plant located in Mississippi because there were no incentives to come to Virginia, and the governor of Mississippi made a very strong effort to get it to locate there.

Focusing on things like privatization of liquor stores "doesn't move the ball forward. It's a waste of time."

Meanwhile, unemployment remains a terrible problem in especially the southwestern part of the state. "Nationally, after losing 17 million jobs in the recession, we need to create 1.8 million jobs a year just to keep up with population growth," he said, and alternative energy is the key.

"We can't rely on the same old energy grid," he noted. "We can't continue to take money from China, give them a big interest rate, then turn around and spend it for oil in the Middle East."

With his new electric car company, McAuliffe is "walking the talk." The first car coming off the new job-creating assembly line this summer is a "MyCar," a "neighborhood" car that goes up to 35 miles per hour and up to 80 miles on a charge. It was named the "electric vehicle of the year" at the 2008 European Green Fleet Awards, and is one of five models that McAuliffe bought from a Chinese firm in a deal that was closed in May 2010.

The deal to sell a fleet to the government of Denmark includes the promise of favorable terms to locate a manufacturing plant there, too, McAuliffe noted.?Maybe in addition to Falls Church's political leaders, representatives of its Economic Development efforts should be there this Sunday night, too.?The event at the Community Center begins at 5 p.m. with a reception prior to a dinner that starts at 6.

Through Invest in Denmark, the EV company GTA discovered the Danish strongholds within R&D and testing of electrical vehicles. Last year, GTA tested a new electrical vehicle named MyCar on the Danish island of Bornholm.

Denmark is a small country with short distances between cities and a very well-functioning infrastructure, which makes it a perfect test market for R&D on electrical vehicles. Moreover, Denmark has nearly twice the renewable energy on the grid than any other country and has developed the prototype for a modern electricity system with high penetration of variable electricity generation. As Denmark works toward the stated goal of 50 per cent generation from wind by 2025 and fossil fuel independence by 2050, the country is rapidly transforming electricity system where flexible demand will enable more renewables and a cleaner energy sector. No taxes on electrical vehicles in Denmark

Framework conditions for electrical vehicle businesses are excellent in Denmark. The emphasis on green energy means that there is no registration tax on electrical vehicles in Denmark and hence, EV?s are a very attractive alternative to traditional cars. To this adds that Danish citizens are environmentally aware, which makes Denmark a profitable market for electrical vehicle businesses like GTA. Invest in Denmark as the gateway to Danish cleantech insight

GTA made use of Invest in Denmark?s free services to explore the opportunities on the Danish market and establish test facilities on the green island of Bornholm. Read more about Invest in Denmark?s services and the Danish cleantech cluster at www.investindk.com.

GreenTech's MyCar Dream Set For Reality

Mississippi Business Journal

With site underway near Tunica, officials hopeful for announcement soon

Clay Chandler
Published: July 17, 2011

GreenTech Automotive is on schedule to begin production of the MyCar at the old Dover Elevator Building in Horn Lake by the end of the third quarter.

And Lyn Arnold, president and CEO of the Tunica County Chamber of Commerce, told the Mississippi Business Journal in an interview last week that she hopes an announcement related to the beginning of construction at the company's planned Tunica facility will be made "within a couple of months."

It's the first tangible progress GreenTech has made since revealing plans in fall 2009 to build its electric hybrid vehicles in Mississippi.

In May 2010, GreenTech purchased Hong Kong-based EuAuto, an international firm that built the MyCar, a neighborhood electric vehicle not much bigger than a golf cart with enclosed cabins. GreenTech's acquisition of EuAuto also marked the start of a partnership with Business Center Bornholm in Denmark.

Shortly after that, GreenTech bought the old Dover Elevator building in Horn Lake with the intentions of building the MyCar there. In January of this year, GreenTech CEO Charles Wang said he hoped production of the MyCar would start by the end of the third quarter, a timetable the company apparently still plans to meet. A GreenTech spokesperson did not respond to email and phone messages seeking comment last week.

Arnold, though, said the company had already started installing the assembly line in the Dover building. The facility in Horn Lake is one of three where the company plans to build the MyCar.

As for the Tunica plant, which GreenTech plans to build in phases with the hopes of producing its midsize and subcompact sedan and sports car model while employing 1,000 people, Arnold said site preparation work had already started. Specifically, she said GreenTech had cleared space for the facility slated for the first phase of construction, and had begun the process of setting up a drainage system and configuring an acceptable runoff system.

"They're very close to a formal announcement (about when construction will start), but we're not quite ready to do that just yet," Arnold said. "I would think within a couple of months we'll be ready, based on what's happening today. That doesn't take into account what happens tomorrow. A lot of times you take two steps forward and one step back, but I really think we're making good progress. "

The estimated $1-billion cost of the Tunica facility is being paid at least in part by money raised via the EB-5 Investment Visa program, in which foreigners can obtain permanent residency status in the U.S. if they agree to invest a minimum of $1 million in an economic development project or $500,000 in a project in an economically depressed area. GreenTech has repeatedly declined to say how much of the facility's cost will come from the EB-5 program, or if there is a private capital target that must be hit before serious steps can be taken toward getting the plant built and operational.

The EB-5 program is scheduled to sunset next September, and because it does not enjoy the expedited process of other residency programs, some applications can take a year to come to fruition. Wang said in January that GreenTech would continue to employ the program as a fundraising mechanism, and that he was confident Congress would renew it.

"They've worked really hard to get to this point," Arnold said. "Charles Wang has told us that when they come back and say they're ready to go, they'll be ready to go. That has proven to be true."

GreenTech Intends to Build E.V.'s in Mississippi

The New York Times

A rendering of the MyCar, supplied by GreenTech Automotive

September 8, 2011 - The MyCar is a Smart-sized, two-seat electric vehicle with an international pedigree to match its manufacturer's outsize ambitions. Designed by Giorgetto Giugiaro, one of the auto industry's most famous stylists, the MyCar was originally intended for a manufacturer based in Hong Kong. But the diminutive E.V. is now scheduled to be produced by GreenTech Automotive, based in Mississippi, and shipped to Denmark for European distribution later this year.

The MyCar project grew yet another wrinkle this month. Terry McAuliffe, GreenTech's chairman and the former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said the car's hybrid and electric drivetrains would be built not at the brand's Chinese joint-venture plant ? currently under construction in Inner Mongolia ? but in Mississippi, a distinct reversal of the usual flow of manufactured goods.

Mr. McAuliffe, who also headed the presidential campaign of Hillary Rodham Clinton and mounted an unsuccessful bid for Virginia governor in 2009, was described in 2000 by Vice President Al Gore as "the greatest fund-raiser in the history of the universe."

In recent media appearances, Mr. McAuliffe has presented GreenTech as a catalyst of American job creation. "I am sick and tired of seeing our jobs go to China," Mr. McAuliffe recently told MSNBC. "I am sick and tired of seeing big cargo ships coming in from China."

GreenTech's plans have engendered some skepticism. According to Automotive News, Mr. McAuliffe's ambitious scheme faces "overwhelming obstacles" and is "dead on arrival."

The Truth About Cars, an automotive news and commentary Web site, recently recounted GreenTech's history as an offshoot of Hybrid Kinetic Motors, founded by Yang Rong ? also known as Benjamin Yeung ? the former chief executive of Brilliance, another Chinese automaker. In 2009, Hybrid Kinetic outlined a plan to build green cars in northern Mississippi with the involvement of Charles Wang, currently the chief executive of GreenTech. But Mr. Wang and Mr. Yang parted ways before any cars were built. Brilliance's plans to enter the European passenger-car market also were dealt a blow when one of its products received a zero-star safety rating in a crash test.

Despite the skepticism, Mr. Wang said in a telephone interview that crews were moving at "warp speed" to build the Inner Mongolia plant, which he said would be completed by the end of 2012 and have the capacity to produce 300,000 cars annually for the domestic market.

Wheels reported last year that Hybrid Kinetic planned to "heavily rely" on the Immigrant Investor Program, also known as EB-5, which would grant green cards and permanent residency to foreign citizens and their families who invested at least $500,000 in successful businesses in rural locations, or in areas of high unemployment. The Commercial Appeal of Memphis reported in 2009 that GreenTech would also be financed through EB-5. Mr. Wang confirmed the report in an e-mailed statement to Wheels, saying that GreenTech Auto "has been utilizing the EB-5 program as part of our funding sources."

American customers must wait to sample the MyCar because GreenTech intends to ship "a sizable percentage" of production through 2014 to its European venture, Mr. Wang said, adding that neighborhood electric vehicles, or N.E.V.'s, are more widely usable in Europe, where they are not limited to speeds of 25 or 35 miles per hour as they often are in the United States. The MyCar has a top speed of approximately 50 m.p.h.

Phil Gott, an automotive analyst at IHS Global Insight, said that inexpensive N.E.V.'s like the MyCar might find a market, in Europe and elsewhere, as limited range urban vehicles.

Southaven Job Fair Draws Thousands

MPB Mississippi Public Broadcasting

Published by Sandra Knispel on 12 Oct 2011 10:30am

With Mississippi's unemployment rate continuing to hover around 10 percent, many are desperately looking for jobs. As MPB's Sandra Knispel reports, more than 2,500 came to the DeSoto job fair in Southaven yesterday, resumes in hand.

"What we are is an electric car company, manufacturing company. Our first line of cars will be rolling off at the end of this month and we'll be moving to the Tunica area within the next 18 to 24 months. Do you have a resume we can attach to that?" asks Sandra Polk.

"I ran out of resumes but do you have an e-mail address that I can e-mail it to?" replies Donnisha Denham."

"Sure,' says Polk.

Sandra Polk is a receptionist at GreenTech Automotive, whose company is hiring across the board: marketing, administration, warehouse, logistics, production, accounting, housekeeping and sales. Applicant Donnisha Denham is looking for a second income.

"Sales might interest me and housekeeping and warehouse because I have plenty [of] experience in that." Reporter: "What was your last job?" "Well currently, I'm a security officer. I'm looking for an additional job anything that can fill whatever opening I have available." Reporter: "Because one job just isn't enough to pay the bills?" "Never. Never enough. You can never stop working," replies Denham.

The event here in Southaven is the 15th state-sponsored job fair this year. Out of the 2,500 who came, 515 walked away with a job offer in hand. Adam Todd is the director of the Governor's Job Fair Network.

"We seek out real job opportunities by organizations who are actually hiring. We put them under one roof. And that is giving an individual who is seeking a work opportunity ? the opportunity of a lifetime to be able to meet with that many people in one day. So, that is the essence of what we do."

For human resource managers, like Minnie Hightower at A.L.P. Lighting Components in Olive Branch, being able to look an applicant in the eye helps whittling down the stack of resumes:

"We can train people, we can teach them skills. But we can't teach them energy and we can't teach them zeal for the job, and for the company and for growth. So that's the initial first impression. We get to realize ?Ok, this person has a spark in their eye. We can train them, they are worth investing in.'"

Hightower says the caliber of applicants has been very good and vows to be back next year. Meanwhile the next area job fair will take place at the Leflore County Civic Center in Greenwood on October 20th.

Dear Sir or Madam:

The Mississippi Development Authority (MDA) is the lead economic development agency for the State of Mississippi responsible for creating and maintaining jobs within the state. MDA has actively worked with GreenTech Automotive (GTA) and Tunica County to prepare for a new manufacturing facility to be located in Mississippi.

At this time, the engineering layout for the plant is completed and GreenTech Automotive is in the process of obtaining various permits that are required to move forward with the construction of this facility. I want to thank you for the prompt processing of GTA's immigrant investors applications so that this project continues to move forward and US citizens are employed at this facility.

To meet European and other overseas markets demand, the Mississippi Development Authority has helped GTA locate temporary production facility in Mississippi to launch its initial production in the second quarter of this year. It is our understanding that the production equipment has been ordered, manufactured and shipped. Installation and tooling is expected to begin in March 2011 at this temporary facility.

MDA is working with Tunica County to prepare an incentive package for the GTA project. Among tax and other incentives, infrastructure and other grants are currently under consideration as part of this incentive package. MDA is also working with Tunica County and GTA in its acquisition of the land necessary for this project.

We are confident that by the end of the second quarter of this year, GTA will have created more than 100 jobs in Mississippi. GTA is actively engaged with our agency and local government entities to help recruit and train its workforce.

We appreciate the work that your Center does to create jobs in the United States. We appreciate your assistance in making this project possible through the EB5 Program. If you have any questions, you can reach me by phone at (601) 359-5766 or by email at amurray@mississippi.org.

REFERENCE: Green Tech Automotive Project

Tunica County Mississippi has been actively involved in working with Green Tech Automotive (GTA) for the past two years to build a auto manufacturing facility in our county. We have been encouraged by the progress made by the company during this time and are now anticipating beginning construction of the facility this year.

GTA has established an office in Tunica and has been actively hiring through the Mississippi Department of Employment Services and other venues. The State of Mississippi will prepare a customized job recruitment program for GTA to further increase the number of employees.
GTA has participated in state sponsored job fairs to recruit employees and the state will offer customized job training in automotive manufacturing for these employees once they are hired.

GTA has finalized the plant engineering and construction plan and requested as part of an incentive package that a site (land) be provided through a grant to GTA. The Mississippi Development Authority is working with Tunica to prepare an incentive package for the GTA project. Among tax and other incentives, land acquisition is currently under consideration as part of this incentive package. Accordingly, once the land is acquired, the construction permitting process will begin immediately.

Tunica County has historically been one of the poorest counties in the United States and had little opportunity for manufacturing jobs. Green Tech will change this dynamic and will assist Tunica County in their stated goal of diversifying the economy and growing the economy through job creation.

We welcome Green Tech to Tunica County and are very grateful for the opportunity they offer residents of Tunica and surrounding counties in the Mississippi Delta – allowing many citizens to greatly improve their standard of living.

Kind regards,

Lyn Arnold

I. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

INTRODUCTION

The Offering

(b)(4)

The Company

GreenTech Automotive, Inc, a Mississippi corporation organized on August 14, 2009, is a development stage company established to design, manufacture and sell electric vehicles. We plan to build an automobile manufacturing facility (the "Facility") on our 100 acre parcel of land in Tunica, Mississippi (the "Land") to manufacture:

- MyCar ("MyCar"), a two-seat electric vehicle with a 30 to 115 mile range on a single charge, depending upon battery configuration or size selected by the customer. MyCar is expected to have a maximum speed up to 45 mph in the European Union and a speed of up to 25 or 35 mph in the United States due to current respective state regulatory restrictions. MyCar is a neighborhood electric vehicle ("NEV") in the United States pursuant to National Highway Traffic Safety Administration ("NHTSA") standards. The original model of MyCar, designed by world-renowned Italian designer, Giorgetto Giugiaro, was named Electric Vehicle of the Year at the 2008 European GreenFleet Awards. MyCar has been further engineered and optimized by GTA and our design partners (i) U.S. race car engineering firm Panoz Auto Development Company, and (ii) Lotus Engineering, Inc., an internationally renown engineering services company that has performed engineering work for the majority of large automobile manufacturers, including design work for Tesla's Roadster, to arrive at the current production version of MyCar. For the first year of our operations, we plan to produce only MyCars and develop model variants off the MyCar platform for customized usages including a urban or micro work truck and urban box van suitable for commercial applications.

- one or more subcompact cars utilizing the MyCar platform and upgraded for certification as a full speed vehicle in our targeted markets ("MyCar EV"). We will design MyCar EV for car buyers who enjoy the style of MyCar and desire a similar (or possibly greater) driving range, but expect to drive at higher speeds. As such, MyCar EV is expected to meet all safety standards required under U.S. federal regulations and European Union regulations. Subject to market conditions, we plan to begin production of MyCar EV after certification as a full speed vehicle, which we expect to occur in early 2014.

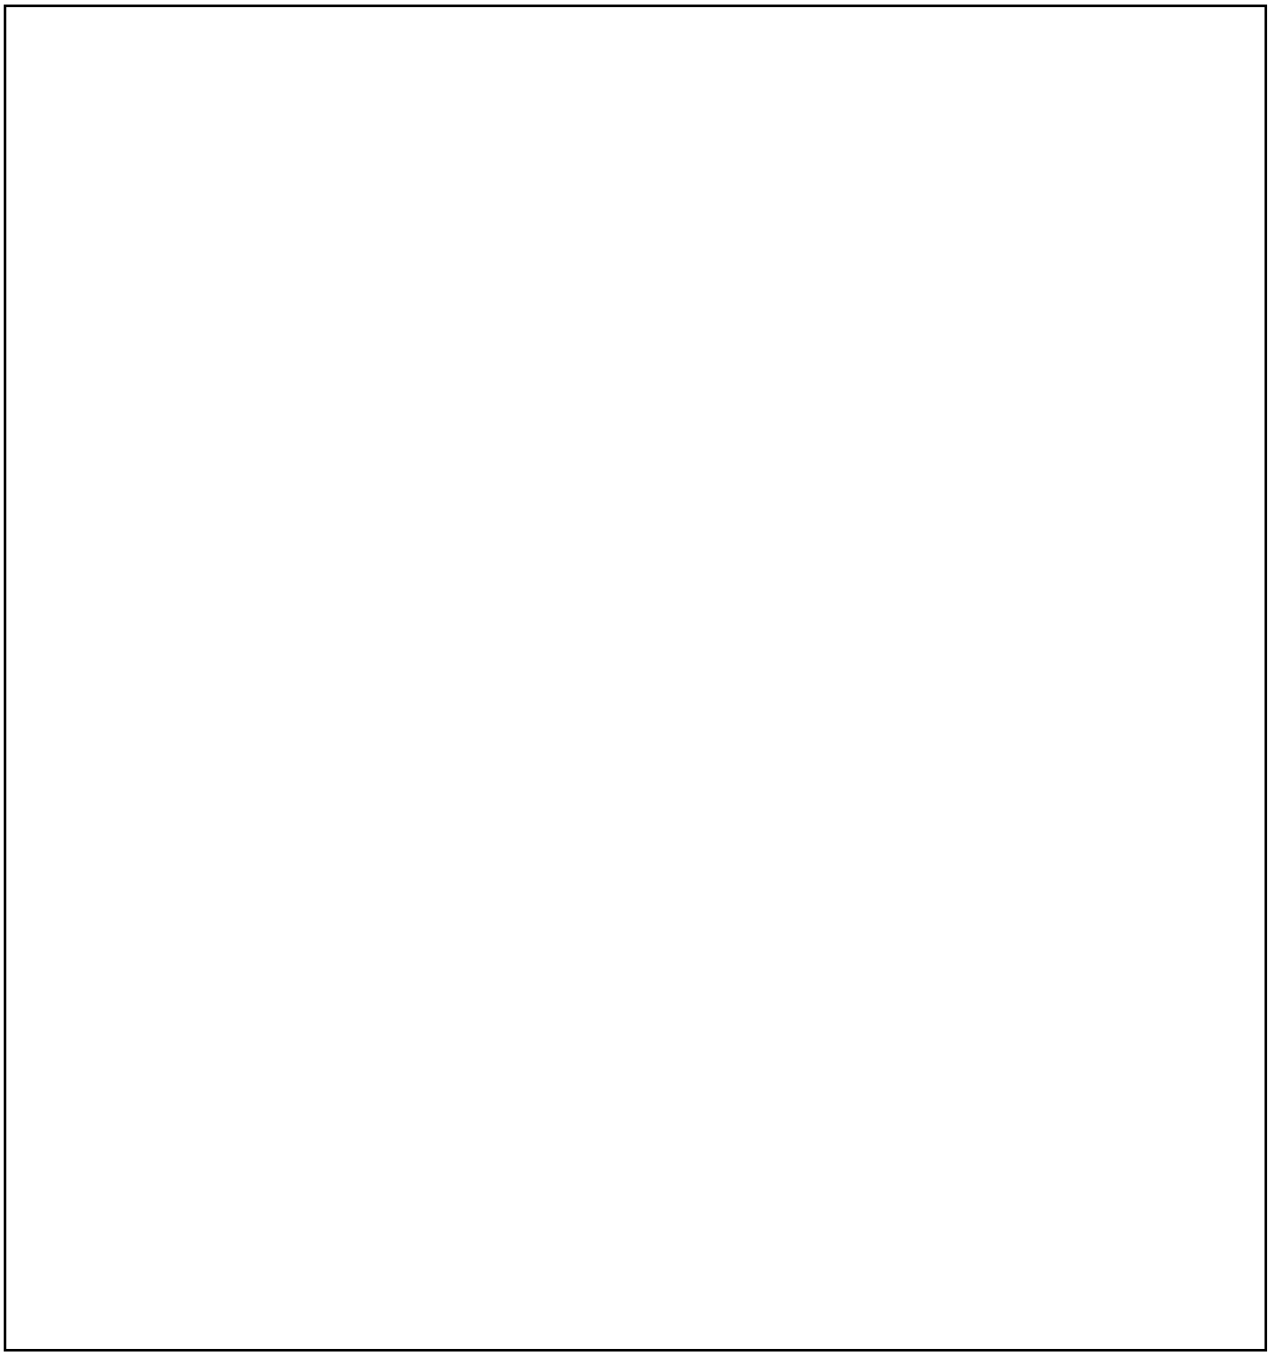
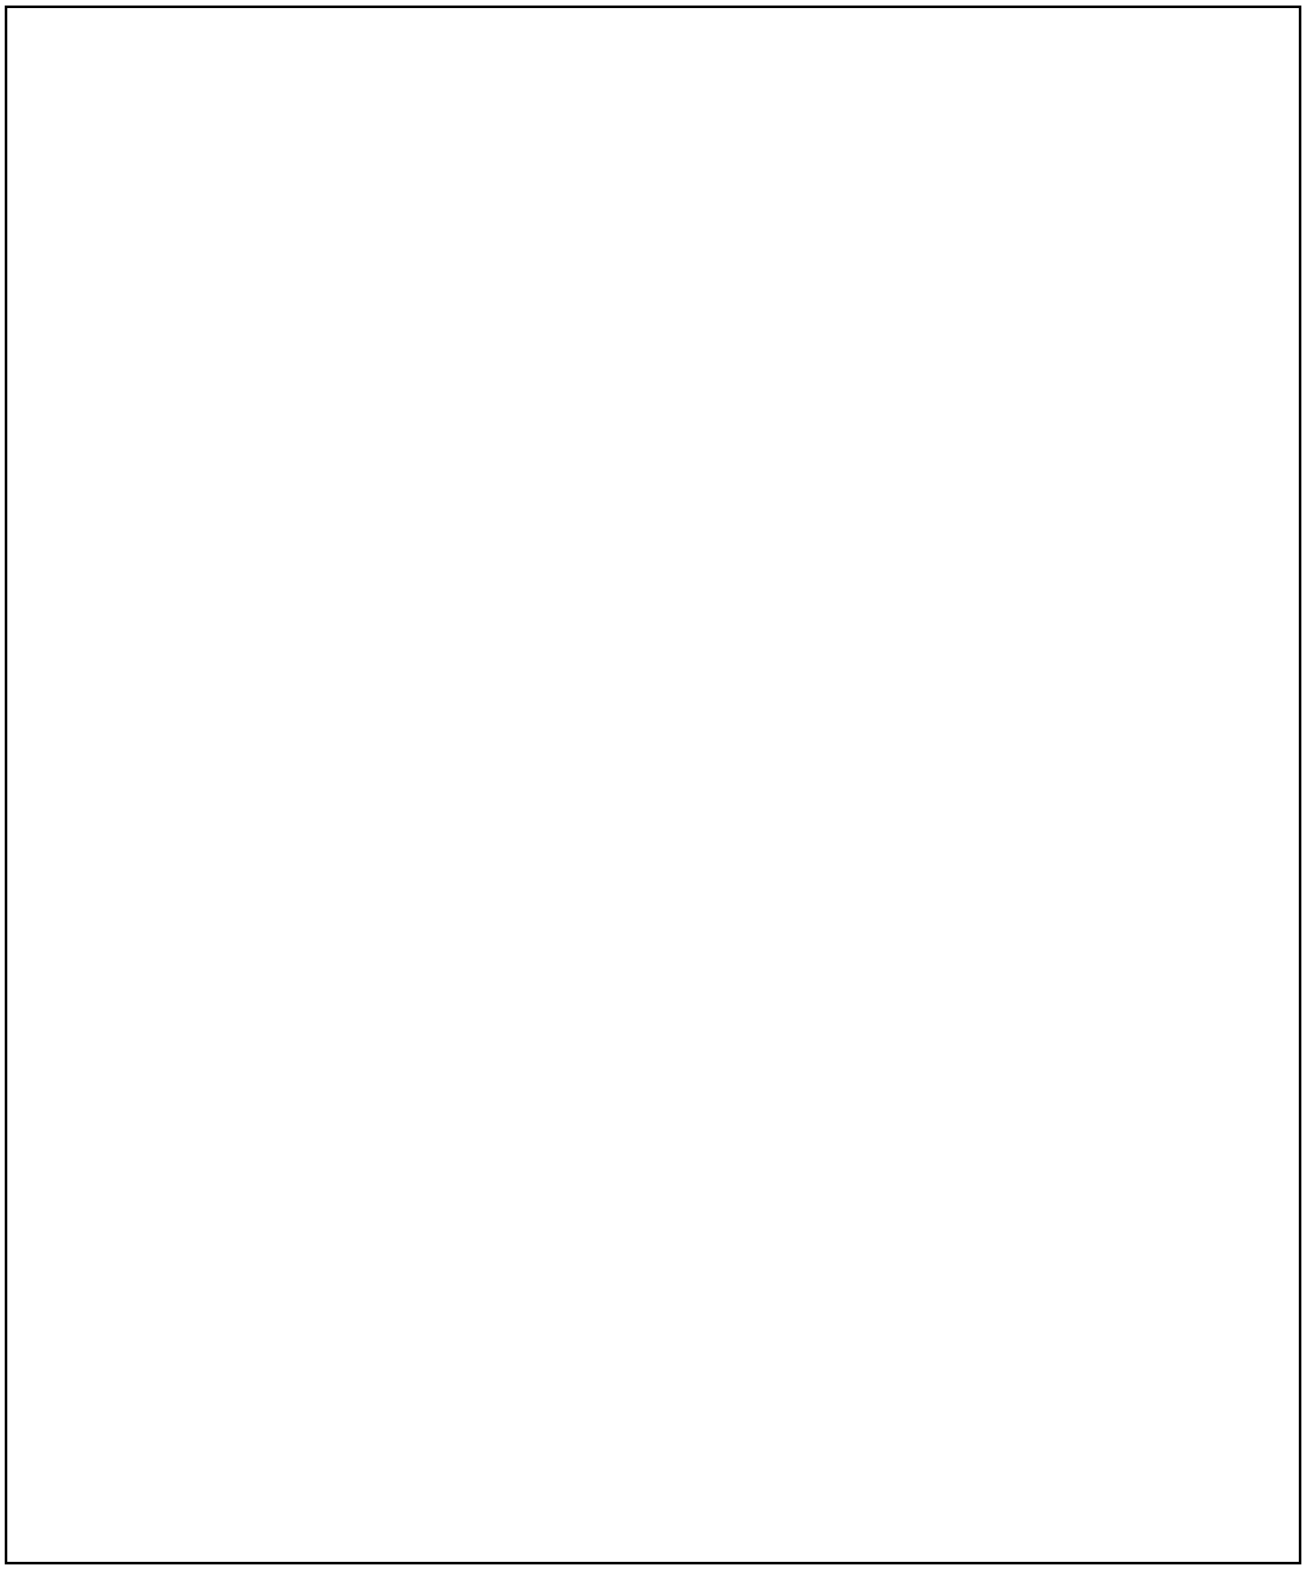
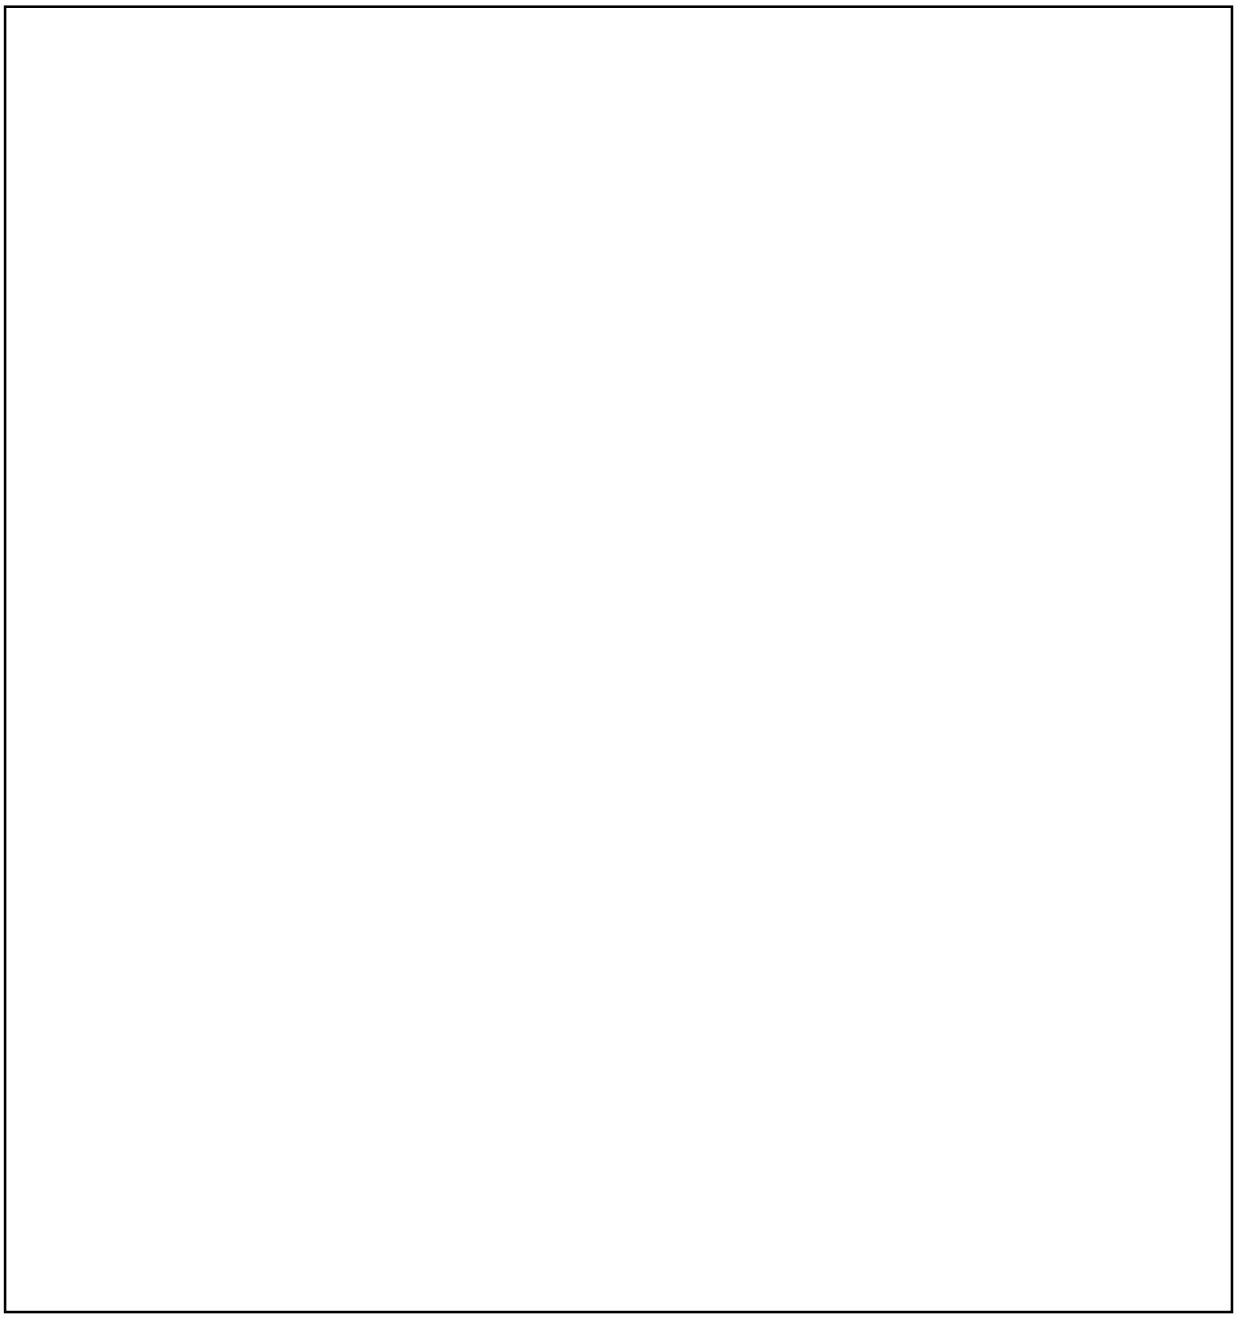
- other energy efficient automobiles that may be developed by us for production (together with MyCar and MyCar EV, the "Vehicles"). (b)(4)

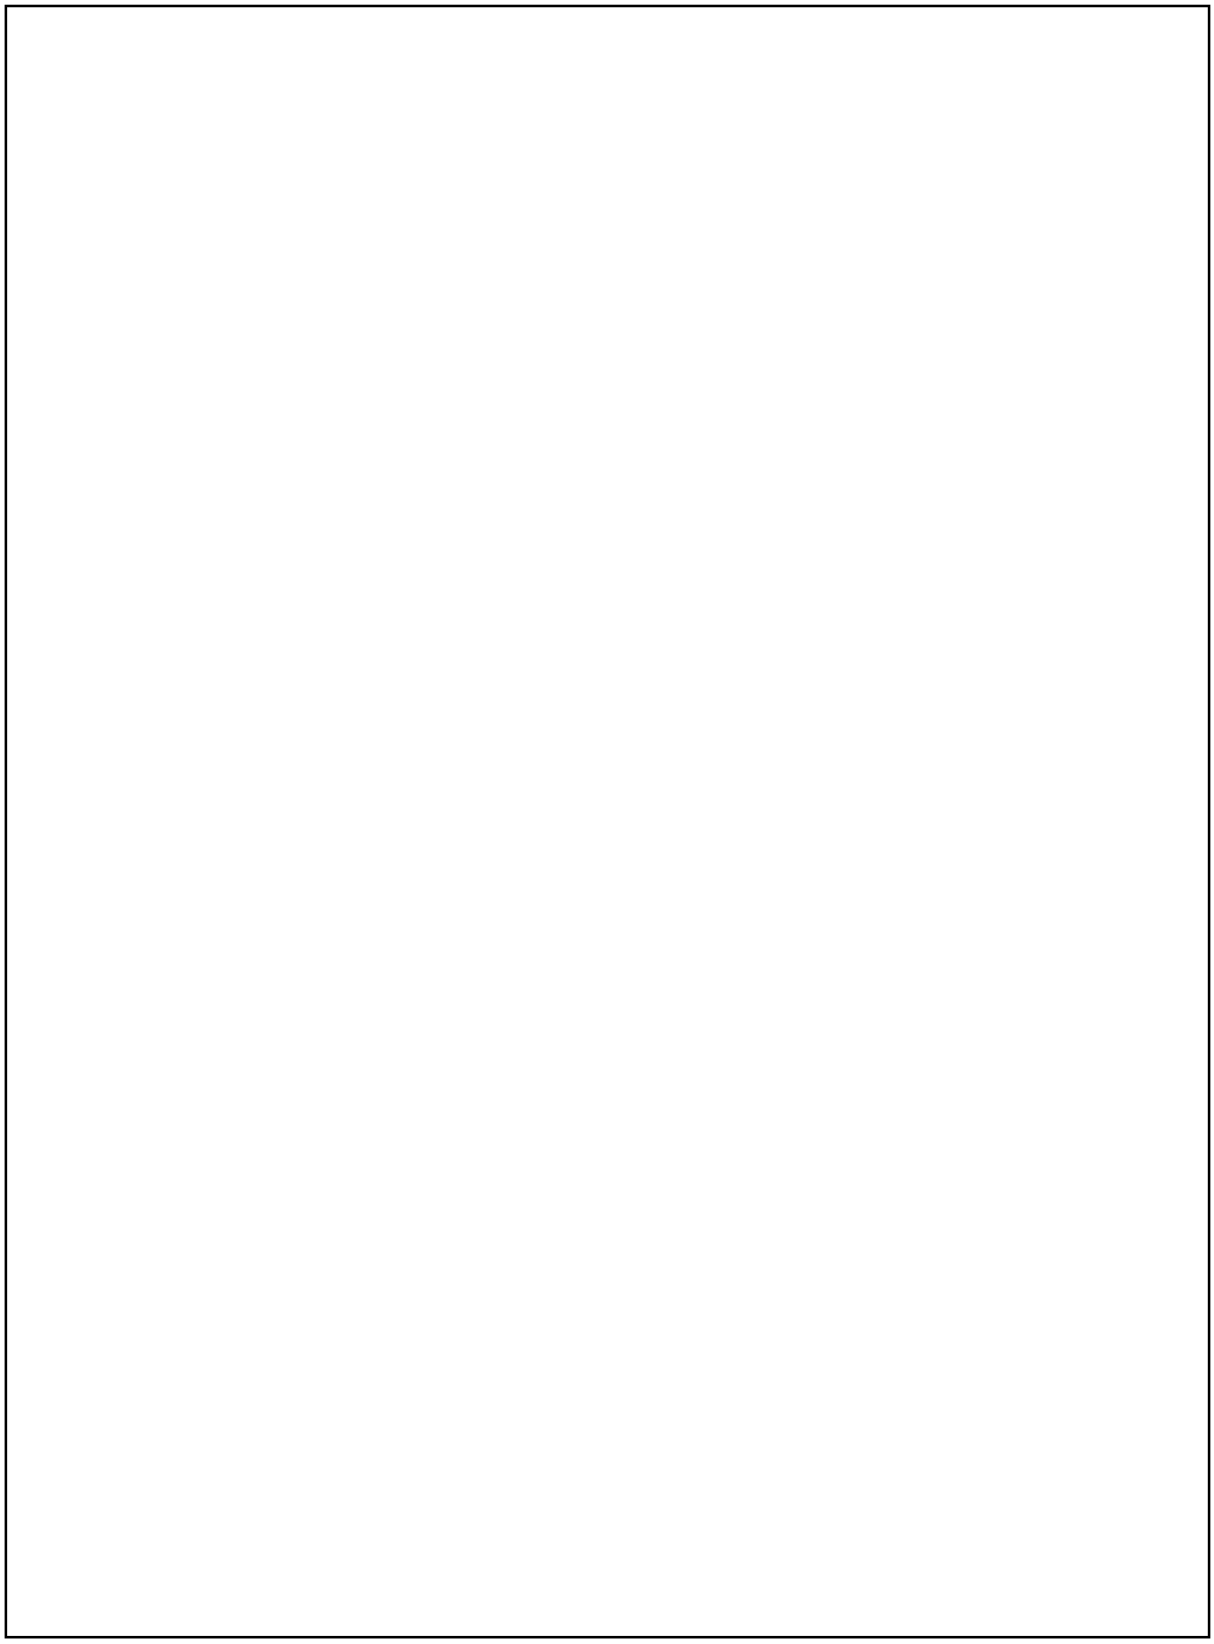




(b)(4)



(b)(4)



(b)(4)

EB-5 PROGRAM

The EB-5 Program grants lawful permanent resident status in the United States to foreign investors who make qualifying investments under the provisions of the relevant immigration law, being 8 U.S.C. §1153 (b)(5)(A) - (D); Immigration and Nationality Act § 203 (B)(5)(A) - (D) (the "Immigration Act"). To obtain the benefit of lawful permanent resident status in the United States under the EB-5 Program, a foreign investor must, among other things, make a qualified investment, such as an investment in the Company, into a new commercial enterprise and comply with the requisite immigration procedures (See —summary of immigration procedures beginning on page 65). Pursuant to the Immigration Act, a qualified immigrant investor must invest at least $1 million; however, if the investment is made in a "Targeted Employment Area" (defined as a rural location or an area of high unemployment which is at least 150% of the national average) then the minimum investment amount is $500,000 (the "Minimum Investment Criteria"). Pursuant to section 610 of the Departments of Commerce, Justice and State, the Judiciary and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 1993, as amended, Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC was designated as a "regional center" to participate in the EB-5 Program. The advantage of the regional center designation is that jobs may be direct, indirect or induced (as opposed to only direct) and qualify for the purposes of the EB-5 Program. To qualify for purposes of the EB-5 Program, the Company must create through investing into the new commercial enterprise and subsequently into the job creating Company 10 full-time jobs for each Preferred Shareholder in connection with this Offering. The Company believes that capital contributions from sales of Preferred Shares in this Offering should create (directly and/or indirectly) a sufficient number of jobs to satisfy the requirements for purposes of the EB-5 Program. However, investors must be aware that there are numerous other factors that could lead to the grant or denial of an EB-5 immigrant visa based on the personal facts and circumstances of each investor. See Risk Factors – Risks Related to Immigration and the EB-5 Program.

VI. IMMIGRATION MATTERS

Summary of EB-5 Pilot Immigrant Investor Program

Immigration Act (under Title 8 U.S.C. §1153 (b)(5)(A)(i)-(iii), (C)) provides for a fifth employment based preference immigrant visa category for immigrants seeking to enter the United States to engage or invest in a commercial enterprise that will benefit the United States economy and create at least ten full-time jobs per immigrant investor (the "Program" or "EB-5 Program"). Pursuant to the Immigration Act, a qualified immigrant investor must invest at least $1 million in a new commercial enterprise; however, if the investment is made in a "targeted employment area" (defined as a rural location or a location of high unemployment that is 150% of the national average) then the threshold investment amount is $500,000. Pursuant to Section 610 of the Departments of Commerce, Justice and State, the Judiciary and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 1993, as amended, on February 4, 2009, a regional center may be approved to participate in the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program. Investments made through Regional Centers can take advantage of a more expansive concept of job creation including both "indirect" and "direct" jobs. To satisfy the USCIS job creation requirements, the Company must create (direct and/or indirectly) ten full-time jobs for each investor admitted as a Limited Partner in connection with this Offering. The Company believes its business should create (directly and/or indirectly) a sufficient number of jobs to satisfy the requirements for purposes of the EB-5 Program. An investor's investment in Preferred Shares is not, however, conditioned upon the Company creating a sufficient number of jobs to satisfy the requirements for purposes of the EB-5 Program, and a failure of the Company to satisfy the EB-5 Program requirements will not entitle an investor to receive a refund of its investment in Preferred Shares.

Under the Immigration Act, lawful permanent resident status may be granted to the investor, his or her spouse and children less than 21 years of age. Under the Program, the investor is required to be "engaged" in the management of the commercial enterprise, but such participation in connection with the activities of the entity is subject to the requirements of relevant USCIS regulations. Notwithstanding such requirements, limited partnerships have been recognized as appropriate investment vehicles under the Program. USCIS regulations specifically state that the "management" requirement can be met if a partner in a partnership is engaged in "policy making activities" or if a limited partner has the "rights, powers and duties" normally granted under the ULPA. Although the regulations do not expressly apply this language to corporations, the USCIS has generally applied the same principles to shareholders in corporations or members of LLCs. The investor must also demonstrate that the investment funds were lawfully obtained and trace those funds back to their origin.

Conditional lawful permanent resident status is granted under the Immigration Act for a period of two years, after which the investor must file an I-829 Petition within 90 days prior to the second anniversary of the grant of conditional permanent residence status. As part of the I-829 application, the investor must demonstrate that the investment in the new commercial enterprise has complied with the requirements of the EB-5 Program and created the requisite number of jobs as described in the business plan and forecasted by the econometric analysis. Under current legislation, the regional center pilot program has been extended through September 30, 2012.

Summary of Immigration Procedures

(b)(4)

EB-5 Immigrant Investor Overview

USCIS is a part of the United States Department of Homeland Security. USCIS is the government agency that oversees lawful immigration to the United States. The fifth employment based visa preference category, created by Congress in 1990, is available to immigrants seeking to enter the United States in order to invest in a new commercial enterprise that will benefit the U.S. economy and create at least 10 full-time U.S. jobs.

Specifically, under this program, foreign nationals who invest in certain United States businesses can obtain permanent resident status in the United States for themselves, their spouses and their unmarried children under the age of 21. Children that turn 21 after the filingl of the I-526 petition but prior to the issuance of the immigrant visa or the adjustment of status may still be eligible for their permanent residency under the Child Status Protection Act. Each such investment needs to create or save at least ten (10) full-time jobs for U.S. workers. An investment in the Company is intended to conform to this requirement.

The EB-5 Program provides certain flexibility for prospective immigrant investors. Prospective immigrant investors do not need to be physically present in the U.S. while applying for residence. There is no requirement for special business expertise or language skills. While the prospective immigrant investor must be involved in the day-to-day management of the new business or directly manage it through formulating business policy as opposed to maintaining a purely passive role in regard to the investment, the USCIS has recognized that if the petitioner is a limited partner and the limited partnership agreement provides the petitioner with certain rights, powers and duties normally granted to limited partners under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act, the petitioner will be considered sufficiently engaged in the management of the new commercial enterprise. USCIS regulations specifically state that the "management" requirement can be met if a partner in a partnership is engaged in "policy making activities" or if a limited partner has the "rights, powers and duties" normally granted under the ULPA. Although the regulations do not expressly apply this language to corporations, the USCIS has generally applied the same principles to shareholders in corporations or members of LLCs. The prospective immigrant investor may be a minority owner of the commercial enterprise. The spouse and unmarried children under the age of 21 of such investor may be admitted to the U.S., along with the investor, as conditional lawful permanent residents.

Admission to the United States

Immigrant investors applying for lawful permanent residency must demonstrate that they are admissible to the U.S. under Section 212 of the Immigration and Nationality Act sets forth various grounds of inadmissibility, which may prevent an otherwise eligible prospective immigrant investor from receiving their permanent residence or entering the U.S. in certain visa categories. Prospective immigrant investors who are ineligible to receive permanent residence or be admitted to the U.S. include but are not limited to an individual who: (1) is determined to have a communicable disease of public health significance, which shall include infection with the etiologic agent for acquired immune deficiency syndrome; (2) is determined to have a physical or mental disorder and behavior associated with the disorder that may pose, or has posed, a threat to the property, safety, or welfare of the individual or others; (3) is determined to have had a physical or mental disorder and a history of behavior associated with the disorder, which behavior has posed a threat to the property, safety, or welfare of the individual or others and which behavior is likely to recur or to lead to other harmful behavior;

(4) is determined to be a drug abuser or addict; (5) has been convicted of, or who admits having committed, or who admits committing acts which constitute the essential elements of a crime involving moral turpitude (other than a purely political offense), or a violation of (or a conspiracy or attempt to violate) any law or regulation of a State, the U.S., or a foreign country relating to a controlled substance; (6) has been convicted of 2 or more offenses (other than purely political offenses), regardless of whether the conviction was in a single trial or whether the offenses arose from a single scheme of misconduct and regardless of whether the offenses involved moral turpitude, for which the aggregate sentences to confinement were 5 years or more; (7) is or has been an illicit trafficker in any controlled substance or in any listed chemical (as defined in section 102 of the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. §802)), or is or has been a knowing aider, abettor, assister, conspirator, or colluder with others in the illicit trafficking in any such controlled or listed substance or chemical, or endeavored to do so; (8) is the spouse, son, or daughter of an alien inadmissible under clause (7) and has, within the previous 5 years, obtained any financial or other benefit from the illicit activity of that alien, and knew or reasonably should have known that the financial or other benefit was the product of such illicit activity; (9) is coming to the U.S. solely, principally, or incidentally to engage in prostitution, or has engaged in prostitution within 10 years of the date of application for a visa, admission, or adjustment of status; (10) directly or indirectly procures or attempts to procure, or (within 10 years of the date of application for a visa, admission, or adjustment of status) procured or attempted to procure or to import, prostitutes or persons for the purpose of prostitution, or receives or (within such 10 year period) received, in whole or in part, the proceeds of prostitution; (11) is coming to the U.S. to engage in any other unlawful commercialized vice, whether or not related to prostitution; (12) has committed in the U.S. a serious criminal offense, regardless of whether such offense was prosecuted as a result of diplomatic immunity; (13) is excludable from the U.S. on grounds relating to national security, related grounds or terrorist activities; (14) is excludable from the U.S. on grounds relating to foreign policy; (15) is or has been a member of or affiliated with the Communist or any other totalitarian party or who has participated in Nazi prosecutions or genocide; (16) is likely to become a public charge at any time after entry; (17) by fraud or willfully misrepresenting a material fact, seeks to procure (or has sought to procure or has procured) a visa, other documentation, or admission into the U.S.; (18) illegally entered into the U.S.; or (19) has at any time knowingly encouraged, induced, assisted, abetted, or aided any other alien to enter or to try to enter the U.S. in violation of law.

Executive and Director Compensation

We pay our executives a salary that we believe to be at or below market compensation for similar positions at automotive manufacturing companies. Bonuses may be awarded to employees but are discretionary.

We anticipate establishing a restricted stock plan or a stock option plan, which would compromise 10% of our total equity on an as-converted basis, as a means to retain and motivate key employees and directors (the "Incentive Plan"). Our board of directors would be authorized to grant options under the Incentive Plan.

We have entered into agreements with employees giving us the right to retain any intellectual property developed by such employee in connection with their employment with us. We do not have employment agreements with our Chairman of the Company, Chief Executive Officer, Executive Vice President Finance or Vice President and General Counsel.

Compensation of Directors

Our company's directors, who are also employees, do not receive any cash compensation for service on our company's board of directors, but they may be reimbursed for certain expenses in connection with attendance at meetings of our company's board of directors and committees thereof. Nonemployee directors may also receive options to purchase shares of our company's common stock.

- an intentional infliction of harm on the corporation or its shareholders;
- a violation of Section 79-4-8.33 of the Mississippi Code regarding unlawful distributions; or

- an intentional violation of criminal law.

GTA's Amended and Restated Bylaws provide that GTA shall, to the maximum extent and in the manner permitted by law, indemnify each of its directors and officers against expenses, judgments, fines, settlements, and other amounts actually and reasonably incurred in connection with any proceeding arising by reason of the fact that such person is or was an agent of the corporation. IX. CERTAIN RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

DUE TO ITS SENSITIVE NATURE, INFORMATION TYPICALLY FOUND IN THIS SECTION IS BEING PROVIDED PURSUANT TO A MEMORANDUM UPDATE THAT IS AVAILABLE FOR CONFIDENTIAL VIEWING BY INVESTORS AT THE MANAGEMENT COMPANY'S BEIJING OFFICE, UNIT 1712, TOWER E1, ORIENTAL PLAZA, NO.1, EAST CHANG AN AVE., DONG CHENG DISTRICT, BEIJING, 100738, PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA. (TEL: 86-10-85189580). PLEASE CONTACT THE BEIJING OFFICE OF GULF COAST FUNDS MANAGEMENT LLC IF YOU SEEK ALTERNATIVE VIEWING ARRANGEMENTS. PROSPECTIVE INVESTORS MUST REVIEW THE MEMORANDUM UPDATE AND SIGN AN ACKNOWLEDGEMENT TO THE COMPANY THAT SUCH INVESTOR HAS REVIEWED THE MEMORANDUM UPDATE BEFORE THE INVESTOR'S SUBSCRIPTION FOR PREFERRED SHARES WILL BE ACCEPTED.

X. CERTAIN FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSIDERATIONS

EACH INVESTOR SHOULD SEEK, AND MUST DEPEND UPON, THE ADVICE OF HIS OR HER TAX ADVISOR WITH RESPECT TO THEIR INVESTMENT, AND EACH INVESTOR IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE FEES OF SUCH ADVISOR. NOTHING IN THIS MEMORANDUM IS OR SHOULD BE CONSTRUED AS LEGAL OR TAX ADVICE TO AN INVESTOR. INVESTORS SHOULD BE AWARE THAT THE INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE (THE "IRS") MAY NOT AGREE WITH ALL TAX POSITIONS TAKEN BY THE COMPANY AND THAT CHANGES TO THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE (THE "CODE") OR THE REGULATIONS OR RULINGS THEREUNDER OR COURT DECISIONS AFTER THE DATE OF THIS MEMORANDUM MAY CHANGE THE ANTICIPATED TAX TREATMENT TO AN INVESTOR.

TO ENSURE COMPLIANCE WITH TREASURY DEPARTMENT CIRCULAR 230, PROSPECTIVE INVESTORS ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED THAT: (A) ANY DISCUSSION OF FEDERAL TAX ISSUES IN THIS OFFERING MEMORANDUM IS NOT INTENDED OR WRITTEN TO BE RELIED UPON, AND CANNOT BE RELIED UPON, BY INVESTORS FOR THE PURPOSE OF AVOIDING PENALTIES THAT MAY BE IMPOSED ON SUCH INVESTORS UNDER THE CODE; (B) SUCH DISCUSSION IS WRITTEN IN CONNECTION WITH THE PROMOTION OR MARKETING OF PREFERRED SHARES; AND (C) PROSPECTIVE INVESTORS IN PREFERRED SHARES SHOULD SEEK ADVICE BASED ON THEIR PARTICULAR CIRCUMSTANCES FROM AN INDEPENDENT TAX ADVISOR.

The following discussion summarizes certain material U.S. federal income tax considerations that may be relevant to the acquisition, ownership and disposition of Preferred Shares. This discussion is based upon the provisions of the Code, applicable Treasury Regulations, judicial authority and administrative interpretations, as of the date of this Memorandum, all of which are subject to change, possibly with retroactive effect, or are subject to different interpretations. The Company cannot assure prospective investors that the IRS will not challenge one or more of the tax consequences described in this discussion, and the Company has not obtained, nor does it intend to obtain, a ruling from the IRS or an opinion of counsel with respect to the U.S. federal tax consequences of acquiring, holding or disposing of the Preferred Shares. Moreover, the facts with respect to the Company's anticipated activities may not occur as set forth in this Memorandum. No assurance can therefore be given that the federal income tax treatment described herein will be applicable to the Company's activities.

This discussion does not purport to address all tax considerations that may be important to a particular investor in light of the investor's circumstances, or to certain categories of investors that may be subject to special rules. This summary does not address state, local, or foreign tax considerations. This summary of U.S. federal income tax consequences deals only with Preferred Shares held as "capital assets," as defined in the Code, and primarily addresses the federal income tax considerations affecting an investment by individuals who are natural persons, as opposed to corporations, estates, trusts, or tax-exempt organizations, and expressly excludes (i) individuals in special tax situations, such as traders in securities, dealers in securities or currencies, persons holding securities as a "hedge," or as a position in a "straddle," or "conversion" transaction, or (ii) individuals whose functional currency is not the U.S. Dollar. Moreover, this discussion does not purport to deal with (x) the tax treatment of retirement plans, individual retirement accounts or other tax-deferred accounts with respect to Preferred Shares, or (y) the effect of holding Preferred Shares for an investor that has incurred interest expense properly allocable to an investment in Preferred Shares. Further, this discussion is limited to investors who purchase Preferred Shares in this offering and not to future investors that may acquire Preferred Shares from a prior investor.

The Company is taxed on its income for U.S. federal income tax purposes and an investor investing in the Company will be taxed as a shareholder of a corporation. The specific tax treatment of the investors is too complex, involves too many rules and principles (many of which entail substantial uncertainty), and is too dependent on the particular tax situation of each investor, to discuss in detail in this Memorandum. Accordingly, the discussion below only summarizes some of the principal potential federal income tax consequences to an investor from an investment in the Company. Prospective investors are urged to consult their tax advisors as to the various tax aspects and risks associated with an investment in the Company, taking into account the investors' own specific tax situations (e.g., whether the investor is liable for alternative minimum tax).

Classification as a "C" Corporation

As a "C" corporation under Subchapter C of the Code, the Company is taxed on its own income before making any distributions to its shareholders. Holders of Preferred Shares are not taxed on the Company's income. Holders of Preferred Shares are instead taxed on certain distributions received from the Company in the manner discussed below.

U.S. Investors and Non-U.S. Investors

U.S. Investor. A "U.S. Investor" includes a beneficial owner of Preferred Shares that is, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, an individual citizen or resident of the United States. An individual is generally considered a resident of the United States for federal income tax purposes once he or she enters the United States pursuant to an immigrant visa issued under the EB-5 program, or obtains an adjustment of status from the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services, following approval of the investor's I-526 petition, even though permanent resident status is conditional for two years after the visa or status adjustment is issued.

Non-U.S. Investor. As used in this Memorandum, the term "non-U.S. Investor" means a beneficial owner of Preferred Shares that is not a U.S. Investor. It is not likely that investors will be considered non-U.S. Investors for any extended period. However, it should be noted that Investors shall be treated as non-U.S. Investors (i) during the period such investors are awaiting the final issuance of their immigrant visa if they enter into the United States, or (ii) if such Investors do not remove the conditional status of their U.S. residency after two years pursuant to the regulations of the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services.

Furthermore, an individual who has not been admitted to the United States as a permanent resident pursuant to an EB-5 visa or petition for adjustment of status may nevertheless, subject to exceptions, be deemed to be a resident alien (i.e., a U.S. Investor) as opposed to a non-resident alien, by, among other ways, being present in the United States:

- on at least 31 days in the calendar year, and
- for an aggregate of at least 183 days during a three-year period ending in the current calendar year, counting for such purposes all of the days present in the current year, one-third of the days present in the immediately preceding year, and one-sixth of the days present in the second preceding year.

Resident aliens under either the "green card test" or the "substantial presence rule" just described are subject to United States federal income tax as if they were U.S. Investors.

Taxation of Distributions in General

Distributions to U.S. Investors. Distributions to U.S. Investors out of the Company's current or accumulated earnings and profits will be taxable as dividends. A U.S. Investor who receives a distribution constituting "qualified dividend income" may be eligible for favorable federal income tax rates. U.S. Investors are urged to consult their tax advisors regarding the characterization of corporate distributions as "qualified dividend income." Distributions in excess of the Company's current and accumulated earnings and profits will not be taxable to a U.S. Investor to the extent that the distributions do not exceed the adjusted tax basis of the U.S. Investor's Preferred Shares. Rather, such distributions will reduce the adjusted basis of such shares. Distributions in excess of current and accumulated earnings and profits that exceed the U.S. Investor's adjusted basis in its shares will be taxable as capital gain in the amount of such excess if the shares are held as a capital asset.

Prospective U.S. Investors should note that Section 1411 of the Code, added by the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act of 2010 (the "2010 Act"), expands "FICA" taxes to include a new 3.8% tax on certain investment income, effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 2012. In general, in the case of an individual, this new tax will be 3.8% of the lesser of (i) the taxpayer's "net investment income" or (ii) the excess of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income over the applicable threshold amount ($250,000 for taxpayers filing a joint return, $125,000 for married individuals filing separate returns and $200,000 for other taxpayers). In the case of an estate or trust, the new 3.8% tax will be imposed on the lesser of (x) the undistributed net investment income of the estate or trust for the taxable year, or (y) the excess of the adjusted gross income of the estate or trust for such taxable year over a beginning dollar amount (currently $7,500 of the highest tax bracket for such year). U.S. Investors should note that for tax years beginning in 2013 and thereafter dividends will be included as investment income in the determination of "net investment income" under Section 1411(c) of the Code. From that point in time, a U.S. Investor will be subject to the new 3.8% tax if such U.S. Investor's adjusted gross income is in excess of the U.S. Investor's applicable threshold amount. Further, in the case of distributions to a U.S. Investor in excess of the U.S. Investor's adjusted basis, any taxable gain will be taken into account by the U.S. Investor for purposes of determining its "net investment income" under Section 1411(c).

Distributions to non-U.S. Investors. Distributions to non-U.S. Investors out of the Company's current or accumulated earnings and profits will be taxable as United States source dividends. It is anticipated that the Company's distributions to non-U.S. Investors will be United States source "fixed or determinable annual or periodical gains, profits and income" (as defined in the Code and including, but not limited to, interest and dividends) that is not effectively connected with a United States trade or business. Non-U.S. Investors will be generally subject to a withholding tax of 30% (unless reduced by an applicable treaty) on dividend distributions and other current distributions (distributions not made in the course of a liquidation, redemption, reorganization, or other extraordinary corporate event). Non-U.S. Investors are therefore generally subject to withholding on all current distributions with respect to their Preferred Shares even if such distributions are not considered dividend distributions of current or accumulated earnings and profits. The withholding tax imposed on a dividend distribution to a non-U.S. Investor is generally imposed on the gross amount of such dividend distribution.

Taxation of Dispositions of Preferred Shares in General

Dispositions by U.S. Investors. Upon any taxable sale or other disposition of his or her Preferred Shares a U.S. Investor will recognize gain or loss for federal income tax purposes on the disposition in an amount equal to the difference between:

- the amount of cash and the fair market value of any property received on such disposition; and
- the holder's adjusted tax basis in the Preferred Shares.

A U.S. Investor's adjusted tax basis in Preferred Shares generally equals his or her initial amount paid for the Preferred Shares and decreased by the amount of any distributions to the investor in excess of the Company's current or accumulated earnings and profits.

In computing gain or loss, the proceeds that U.S. Investors receive will include the amount of any cash and the fair market value of any other property received for their Preferred Shares, and the amount of any actual or deemed relief from indebtedness encumbering their Preferred Shares. The gain or loss will be long-term capital gain or loss if the Preferred Shares are held for more than one year before disposition. Long-term capital gains of individuals, estates and trusts currently are taxed at a maximum rate of 15% (plus any applicable state income taxes), but this rate will increase to 20% for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2013 unless the change is delayed or repealed by future legislation. The deductibility of capital losses may be subject to limitation and depends on the circumstances of a particular U.S. Investor; the effect of such limitation may be to defer or to eliminate any tax benefit that might otherwise be available from a loss on a disposition of Preferred Shares. Capital losses are first deducted against capital gains, and, in the case of non-corporate taxpayers, any remaining such losses are deductible against salaries or other income from services or income from portfolio investments only to the extent of $3,000 per year. U.S. Investors are urged to consult with their own tax advisors with respect to their capital gains tax liability.

Dispositions by non-U.S. Investors. A non-U.S. Investor generally will not be subject to U.S. federal income tax on any gain realized on the sale, redemption, exchange, retirement or other taxable disposition of Preferred Shares unless:

- gain is effectively connected with the conduct of his or her U.S. trade or business (or, if a tax treaty applies to them, is attributable to their permanent establishment in the United States);
- he or she is an individual who has been present in the United States for 183 days or more in the taxable year of disposition and certain other requirements are met; or
- he or she had previously been a citizen or long-term resident of the United States and is subject to special rules that apply to certain expatriates.

Income or Gain Effectively Connected with a U.S. Trade or Business.

The preceding discussion of the tax consequences of the purchase, ownership, and disposition of Preferred Shares by non-U.S. Investors generally assumes that they do not hold their Preferred Shares in connection with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business. If any distributions with respect to Preferred Shares or gain from the sale, exchange, or other taxable disposition of Preferred Shares is effectively connected with a U.S. trade or business conducted by non-U.S. Investors (or, if pursuant to an applicable tax treaty, is attributable to his or her permanent establishment in the United States), then the income or gain will be subject to U.S. federal income tax at regular graduated income tax rates and the non-U.S. Investor will be required to file U.S. federal income tax returns, but will not be subject to withholding tax if certain certification requirements are satisfied. Non-U.S. Investors can generally meet the certification requirements by providing a properly executed IRS Form W-8ECI or an appropriate substitute form to the Company.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding.

U.S. Investors. Information reporting will apply to payments of distributions with respect to Preferred Shares, and to proceeds of the sale, redemption, or other disposition of, Preferred Shares held by a U.S. Investor, and backup withholding may apply to payments of distributions unless the U.S. Investor provides the appropriate intermediary with a taxpayer identification number, certified under penalties of perjury, as well as certain other information, or otherwise establishes an exemption from backup withholding. Any amount withheld under the backup withholding rules is allowable as a credit against U.S. federal income tax liability, if any, and a refund may be obtained if the amounts withheld exceed a U.S. Investor's actual U.S. federal income tax liability and such U.S. Investor timely provides the required information or appropriate claim form to the IRS.

Non-U.S. Investors. Payments of distributions allocated to non-U.S. Investors, and amounts withheld from such payments, if any, generally will be required to be reported to the IRS and to such non-U.S. Investors. United States backup withholding tax generally will not apply to payments of distributions on Preferred Shares held by a non-U.S. Investor if the non-U.S. Investor provides the Company with the relevant IRS Form W-8, duly completed and executed, or the non-U.S. Investor otherwise establishes an exemption, provided that the Company does not have actual knowledge or reason to know that the non-U.S. Investor is a United States person.

Payment of the proceeds of a disposition of Preferred Shares effected by the U.S. office of a U.S. or foreign broker will be subject to information reporting requirements and backup withholding unless non-U.S. Investors properly certify under penalties of perjury as to their foreign status and certain other conditions are met or they otherwise establish an exemption. The backup withholding tax rate is currently 28%. For payments made after 2012, the backup withholding rate will be increased to 31%.

Any amount withheld under the backup withholding rules may be credited against the non-U.S. Investor's U.S. federal income tax liability, if any, and any excess may be refundable if the proper information is timely provided to the IRS and an income tax return is filed.

Possible FATCA Withholding

Beginning in 2014, amounts paid to an investor through an account maintained at a non-U.S. financial institution could be subject to a 30% withholding tax (or a lower rate if an applicable tax treaty applied), if the non-U.S. financial institution is not a "Participating Foreign Financial Institution." Investors who intend to hold their Preferred Shares at a non-U.S. financial institution, or intend to direct payments on their Preferred Shares to be made to an account at a non-U.S. financial institution, are urged to consult with their own tax advisors regarding withholding under the Financial Account Tax Compliance Act ("FATCA") provisions of the Code.

Possible Changes in Federal Tax Laws

The Code is subject to change by Congress, and interpretations of the Code may be modified or affected by judicial decisions, by the Treasury Department through changes in Regulations and by the Service through its audit policy, announcements, and published and private rulings. Although significant changes historically have been given prospective application, no assurance can be given that any changes made in the tax law affecting an investment in the Company would be limited to prospective effect. Accordingly, the ultimate effect on an investor's tax situation may be governed by laws, regulations or interpretations of laws or regulations which have not yet been proposed, passed or made, as the case may be.

FOR ALL THE FOREGOING REASONS, THE COMPANY HIGHLY RECOMMENDS THAT ALL INVESTORS SEEK INDEPENDENT LEGAL AND TAX ADVICE PRIOR TO PURCHASING INTERESTS IN THIS OFFERING.

Under penalties of perjury, I certify that:

1. The number shown on this form is my correct taxpayer identification number (or I am waiting for a number to be issued to me), and
2. I am not subject to backup withholding because: (a) I am exempt from backup withholding, or (b) I have not been notified by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) that I am subject to backup withholding as a result of a failure to report all interest or dividends, or (c) the IRS has notified me that I am no longer subject to backup withholding, and

For real estate transactions, item 2 does not apply. For mortgage interest paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, contributions to an individual retirement arrangement (IRA), and generally, payments other than interest and dividends, you are not required to sign the certification, but you must provide your correct TIN. General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

Special rules for partnerships. Partnerships that conduct a trade or business in the United States are generally required to pay a withholding tax on any foreign partners' share of income from such business. Further, in certain cases where a Form W-9 has not been received, a partnership is required to presume that a partner is a foreign person, and pay the withholding tax. Therefore, if you are a U.S. person that is a partner in a partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States, provide Form W-9 to the partnership to establish your U.S. status and avoid withholding on your share of partnership income.

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000[1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7[2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2).

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000[1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7[2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued).
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000 [1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7 [2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must: give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued).
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000[1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7[2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid, the acquisition or abandonment of secured property, the cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000 [1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7 [2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

1. The number shown on this form is my correct taxpayer identification number (or I am waiting for a number to be issued to me), and
2. General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000 [1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7 [2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000[1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7[2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7[2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

IRS Form W-9

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000 [1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7 [2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entry name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000[1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7[2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

IRS Form W-9

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.
2. The treaty article addressing the income.
3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.
4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.
5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,
2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),
3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,
4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or
5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000 [1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7 [2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

6. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN.
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued).
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2).

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000 [1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7 [2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued).
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000 [1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7 [2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

Form I-924 EB-5 Exemplar Filing/Regional Center Amendment
Regional Center – Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC ("GCFM")
Investment Project – GreenTech Automotive Inc. ("GTA")
Exemplar – GTA Series A-2 Preferred Shares ("Series A-2")

Dear Madam or Sir:

This letter is filed in response to the Request for Evidence, dated July 17, 2013, in the above entitled matter.

Enclosed please find:

1. RFE, dated July 17, 2013;
2. Form G-28 notice of entry of appearance of C. Matthew Schulz as co-counsel with Simone Williams, GCFM's General Counsel, at her request. Ms. Williams' G-28 is already on file;
3. European market study entitled "Brief on Europe EV Market" providing support for the projected growth of the electric vehicle market in Europe in GTA's business plan and the economic analysis;
4. GTA pro forma financial statements providing financial date used in the economic analysis;
5. Economist Dr. Michael Evans response to the RFE, dated August 13, 2013;
6. GTA worksheet providing a summary of the percentage of American manufactured parts broken down by component type that will be used at the new facility and relied upon in the economic analysis;

7. Supplement to the February 11, 2012 report by Evans, Carroll & Associates, dated December 12, 2012;

8. Memorandum of August 19, 2013, entitled "Response to RFE from USCIS re: 'Redemption' Provisions" by U.S. Securities lawyer Jennifer M. Moseley of Barnes & Thornburg LLP;

9. GTA Series A-2 revised Confidential Private Placement Memorandum;

10. GTA Series A-2 revised Subscription Agreement;

11. The most current GTA Confidential Memorandum Update, dated June 17, 2013; and

12. EB-5 Investor subscription agreements between GTA and individual EB-5 investors to date for GTA Series A-2 Preferred Stock.

The RFE (Exhibit 1) made a number of requests and we respond as follows:

Modification of Approved Industry Categories

The RFE requested the GCFM modify its previously approved industry categories to include NAICS codes as follows:

INDUSTRY	NAICS	APPROVAL DATE
Ship and Boat Building	3366	August 18, 2008
Food Manufacturing	311	August 18, 2008
Manufacturing	31-33	August 18, 2008

GCFM hereby makes the modification requested by the USCIS.

Further, GCFM requested on the petition amendment that the following new industry categories be added:

INDUSTRY	NAICS	APPROVAL DATE
Automobile Manufacturing	33611	pending
Motor Vehicle Parts Manufacturing	3363	pending

GCFM respectfully requests that the USCIS grant the addition of these industry categories.

Indirect Job Creation

The RFE requests data from GTA's market study to support the expectation that the electric vehicle market in the European Union will grow. The market study (Exhibit 3) is enclosed.

The RFE requests pro forma financial forecasts with verifiable data and analysis that demonstrates the feasibility of GTA's project. The pro forma financial forecasts (Exhibit 4) are enclosed.

The RFE requests an industry source or benchmark comparison to establish the credibility and validity of the anticipated 426 direct employees at the manufacturing facility. Dr. Evans provides in the enclosed August 13, 2013, statement (Exhibit 5) an excerpt from a U.S. Economic Census report, on page 2 which shows the relationship between production numbers of motor vehicles and vehicle pricing to the number of direct employees at manufacturing facilities. The data from this federal agency when applied to the data from GTA Series A-2 Preferred Stock offering to the EB5 Investors supports the [redacted] direct employees that GTA expects to employ.

The RFE requests a revised economic analysis that: (1) provides the sources, methods, or explanation for the submitted economic analysis's estimate that [redacted] direct jobs will result from parts manufacturing; (2) an explanation of where parts are sourced from to show the parts will be sourced from inside and not outside the U.S.; and (3) that does not double count employment for the [redacted] direct, indirect, and induced employment resulting from the manufacturing facility.

Please note that the RFE confuses the job numbers stated in the economic analysis. The [redacted] jobs in parts manufacturing are indirect, not direct, jobs. These [redacted] American workers will not be direct employees of GTA. These are indirect/induced jobs for employees who will be employed outside GTA's new facility by the American companies manufacturing parts for GTA.

The enclosed statement (Exhibit 5) from Dr. Evans explains the source for the [redacted] direct jobs in automobile manufacturing. He further explains where parts are sourced from and shows how his economic analysis only considers parts sourced from inside the U.S. Finally, Dr. Evans acknowledges that [redacted] of the indirect jobs in his original economic analysis are in the auto parts industry, and could therefore be considered double counting. Dr. Evans reduces the indirect job creation count as follows:

Activity	NAICS/IMPLAN	Input	Multiplier	Indirect/Induced Jobs
Operations of manufacturing facility	33611/276
Parts manufacturing (outside new facility)	3363/283

The enclosed GTA worksheet (Exhibit 6) provides a summary of the percentage of American manufactured parts broken down by component type that will be used at the new facility and relied upon in the economic analysis;

In addition, we have enclosed a supplement to the report by Evans, Carroll & Associates (Exhibit 7). The Supplement was provided in response to USCIS's request for additional evidence in another case. As the supplement to the economic report further shows, indirect employment effects were not double

Capital at Risk

The RFE raises concerns that certain provisions in GTA's Private Placement Memorandum and Subscription Agreement may constitute an impermissible redemption agreement and asks that these provisions be amended or removed.

In particular, the RFE raises the concern that the Private Placement Memorandum ("PPM") on page 9 and the Subscription Agreement on page 2 provide a guaranteed return of the $500,000 capital investment and $40,000 administrative fee if the Form I-829 is denied. The RFE states that this is an impermissible buy back arrangement that must be amended or removed.

In response, GCFM respectfully points out that there is no requirement that any funds beyond the required amount of capital be placed at risk. Only the $500,000 capital investment must be at risk, 8 CFR 204.6(j)(2) cited in the RFE clearly shows. The $40,000 administrative fee is not subject to this requirement and it was an error for the RFE to suggest otherwise.

The RFE cites Matter of Izummi, 22 I&N Dec. 169 (Comm'r 1998) as the authority that a "redemption agreement exists when the alien has the right to require the enterprise to purchase his or her interest in the enterprise at a future time." The RFE includes the following quotes from Izummi:

> For the alien's money to be considered truly at risk, the alien cannot enter into a partnership knowing that he already has a willing buyer in a certain number of years, nor can he be assured that he will receive a certain price. Otherwise, the arrangement is nothing more than a loan, albeit an unsecured one.
> ... An investment assumes that a risk exists. The alien must go into the investment not knowing for sure if he will be able to sell his interest at all after he obtains his unconditional permanent resident status; and if he is successful in selling his interest, the sale price may be disappointingly low (or surprising high and more than what he paid). This way, the alien risks both gain and loss. To allow otherwise transforms the arrangement into a loan.

Emphasis added.

With respect, we believe that the RFE misapplies the clear meaning of Izummi to the GTA Series A-2 Private Placement Memorandum and Subscription Agreement.

First, the GTA Series A-2 documents do not provide the alien with the knowledge prohibited by Izummi. The GTA Series A-2 documents do not provide investors with a willing buyer in a certain number of years, or a guaranteed price.

Second, Izummi expressly states that the alien must not know he will be able to sell after he obtains permanent resident status. The provision at issue in the GTA Series A-2 documents would not ever apply after the alien obtains permanent resident status.

The GTA Series A-2 provision at issue would only apply in the event that an alien does not obtain permanent resident status. Even then, the provision would apply only if the I-829 is denied due to insufficient job creation and that insufficient job creation must solely result from the gross negligence of GTA.

Gross negligence requires a much higher level of culpability than ordinary negligence. For GTA to be found grossly negligent, GTA would have to act with more than a mere failure to take reasonable care. There is a higher evidentiary legal burden of proof required to show that someone has been grossly negligent. This higher burden of proof is difficult to meet.

It is well understood that companies already have a fiduciary duty to investors separate and apart from EB-5 law. As a result, companies are already legally required to exercise a high standard of care.

Further, the GTA Series A-2 provision at issue would require that GTA's gross negligence be the only reason that there was insufficient job creation.

In fact, the GTA Series A-2 provision at issue merely expressly states what U.S. Securities law generally requires. See, int. al., Section 12 of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, Section 18 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, and the expert opinion statement contained in the enclosed Memorandum of August 19, 2013, entitled "Response to RFE from USCIS re: 'redemption' Provisions" by U.S. securities lawyer Jennifer M. Moskeley of Barnes & Thornburg LLP (Exhibit 7).

Under U.S. securities laws, an investor has the right to demand their money back (a contractual "rescission right") if a company violates securities laws or has committed securities fraud or other wrongdoing under the law. The GTA Series A-2 provision at issue provides a right that investors already have under U.S. securities laws. Securities laws already permit investors to file law suits against companies that fail to create sufficient jobs as a result of the company gross negligence.

In contrast, redemption agreements are as Izummi states. Redemption rights are designed to protect investors from a situation where, after a period of time, the company the investor has invested in is not progressing in such a way that would allow the investor to sell its ownership interest or otherwise exit the company. Redemption rights give investors the opportunity to exit the investment by exercising their redemption rights. Here, GTA is not providing an exit/redemption right. The GTA Series A-2 provision at issue is not a prohibited redemption right.

Accordingly, GCFM believes that the USCIS should accept the GTA Series A-2 PPM and Subscription Agreement as submitted and without further change.

In the alternative, if upon review and careful consideration of the above legal points and authorities, the USCIS still believes that these provisions violate EB-5 law, then in the interest of obtaining approval of the exemplar without further delay, GCFM amends the GTA Series A-2 documents (Exhibits 9 and 10) to remove the provisions in question in their entirety. GCFM does so without prejudice and expressly reserves its claim that the USCIS's position is in error and that these provisions are in compliance with EB-5 law.

It is the goal of GCFM and GTA to fully comply with EB-5, as well as U.S. securities law, in the creation of jobs for American workers through immigrant investment. To create those jobs without further delay and to minimize the harms such delay causes immigrant investors and the reputation of the American EB-5 program generally, GCFM respectfully requests that the USCIS grant the exemplar now.

Incomplete Documentation

The RFE requests a copy of GTA's Confidential Memorandum Update, dated July 19, 2012, any promissory notes between GTA and potential investors, and all subsequent EB-5 Investor subscription agreements.

The most current GTA Confidential Memorandum Update is dated June 17, 2013, a copy of which is enclosed (Exhibit 11).

There are no promissory notes between GTA and potential investors for GTA Series A2 Preferred Stock.

GTA has entered into EB-5 Investor subscription agreements with a limited number individual EB-5 investor for GTA Series A-2 and these are enclosed (Exhibit 12) per your request.

Conclusion

GCFM believes that the documentation now in the administrative record establishes eligibility for the benefits sought. We look forward to your approval of the additional NAICS industries and the GTA Series A-2 exemplar.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if there is any additional information or documentation that will assist you. Thank you for your favorable consideration of this petition amendment.

Sincerely,

C. Matthew Schulz

A request for initial designation as a Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Program or an amendment to an existing Regional Center designation, may involve:

1. A request for review of an exemplar Form I-526, Immigrant Petition by Alien Entrepreneur, prior to the filing of Form I-526 petitions by individual alien entrepreneurs with USCIS and/or;
2. In the case of a Regional Center amendment request, a review of a new specific capital investment project where the Regional Center designation involved a review of an exemplar capital investment project.

It appears that the applicant is requesting an amendment to the Regional Center designation

Background:

The Regional Center entity, Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC, ("the regional center"), was established on October 21, 2008 in Mississippi, and is structured as an LLC. The regional center was initially approved for designation in the Pilot Program on August 18, 2008. Based on the initial designation and any subsequently approved designation amendments, the regional center has jurisdiction over the following geographic area:

State	Counties	Approval Date
Mississippi	Entire State	August 18, 2008
Louisiana	Entire State	August 18, 2008

The regional center is authorized to focus investment activities in the following approved industry categories:

Industry Category	NAICS	Approval Date
Shipbuilding		August 18, 2008
Food Processing Plants		August 18, 2008
Manufacturing Plants		August 18, 2008

The Form I-924A, Supplement to Form I-924, requires that the regional center provide statistical data regarding capital investments and job creation impacts for each industry category and North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) code identified by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Census Bureau. In order to comply with this requirement, it is recommended that the regional center modify their approved categories to the following industry categories:

Industry Category	NAICS	Approval Date
Ship and Boat Building	3366	August 18, 2008
Food Manufacturing	311	August 18, 2008
Manufacturing	31-33	August 18, 2008

The capital investment projects have or will involve equity investments or loans to job creating enterprises located within the proposed bounds of the Regional Center.

The regional center is requesting to modify its designation as follows:

The regional center requests to amend the approved regional center designation concerns the addition of new industry categories, which will relate to the construction and operation of a new automotive manufacturing plant instrumental in the production of electric vehicles, which will be located in Tunica, Mississippi.

The regional center requests USCIS's review of an actual project, which is supported by an Exemplar I-526 Petition. USCIS will review the Gulf Coast Automotive Investment Fund A-2, LLC ("Fund A-2") Project business plan in regard to whether it is "Matter of Ho" compliant. If USCIS deems that the project complies with Matter of Ho requirements, the project will be mentioned by name in an approval notice.

Evidentiary Requirements for Regional Center Proposals

8 CFR 204.6 (m)(3), which is appended to this notice, describes the evidence that must be submitted in support of a Regional Center proposal. After review of the proposal, the following information, evidence and/or clarification is required. Note that in response to this notice, that it is helpful to provide a cover letter that acts as an executive summary, followed by a table of contents with sections that are tabbed at the bottom of the page.

Issue #1: Indirect Job Creation (8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(ii))

Section 610(c) of the Departments of Commerce, Justice and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 1993, as amended, allows aliens admitted under the pilot program described in this section to establish reasonable methodologies for determining the number of jobs created by the pilot program, including jobs which are estimated to have been created indirectly through revenues, improved regional productivity, job creation, or increased domestic capital investment resulting from the pilot program.

8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(ii) requires that a Regional Center proposal must provide in verifiable detail how jobs will be created indirectly, while 8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(v) describes the analytical tools that the Regional Center must employ when making economic and job creation predictions. It is also noted in 8 CFR 204.6(m)(1) in pertinent part that except as provided herein, aliens seeking to obtain immigration benefits under this paragraph continue to be subject to all conditions and restrictions set forth in section 203(b)(5) of the Act and this section.

The reliability of job creation estimates provided by an economic analysis is dependent upon the validity of the information and assumptions that form the basis for the analysis. Any business plan, exemplar or actual, provided in support of a Regional Center proposal or amendment must contain sufficient specificity to provide valid and reasoned inputs into the economic model, if such a model is used to demonstrate job creation for EB-5 purposes. Otherwise, a determination cannot be made that the Regional Center proposal demonstrates in "verifiable detail" that the requisite jobs will be created. The ability of the regional center to address the issues regarding the feasibility of each capital investment project, the validity of the economic analysis, and the timing of the EB-5 job creation is critical to the success of the immigrant investors' immigration process.

The economic model described in the proposal is IMPLAN.

The regional center's proposed project involves the construction and operation of automotive manufacturing plant in Tunica, Mississippi. The automotive facility will design, manufacture and sell electric vehicles. The first car to be manufactured will be, MyCar, a two-seat electric vehicle. A subsequent vehicle, MyCar EV is expected to be produced in early 2014. The project is the second phase in an anticipated three phase plan to build an automobile manufacturing facility on a 100 acre parcel of land. The regional center estimates the total cost of the project to be [redacted] of which [redacted] will be from fifty ( ) EB-5 investors. (b)(4)

The regional center requests to add two new industry categories based on the business plan and economic analysis submitted. The new requested industry categories include:

New Requested Industry Categories	NAICS
Automotive Manufacturing	336111
Motor Vehicle Parts Manufacturing	3363

Based on the Market Segment Criteria, high gasoline prices, and strong public concern for environmental protection, the regional center expects that the initial market for MyCar and MyCar EV sales will be in Europe. The regional center anticipates that the electric vehicle market in the European Union will grow primarily due to two factors: (i) a long standing appreciation for micro-cars and (ii) substantial government incentives. Based on these factors, the regional center believes the current demand for small electric vehicles in Europe exceed the supply. However, the regional center does not present the data from their market study to support this expectation.

The business plan does not include financial statements. Without pro forma financial data, USCIS cannot assess the feasibility of the proposed project to determine that there is a reasonably high probability that the project is viable and will meet requisite job creation. The regional center must provide pro forma financial forecasts and verifiable data and analysis that demonstrate the feasibility of the project.

The regional center solicited the expertise of Evans, Carroll & Associates, Inc. (Evans-Carroll) to conduct the economic impact analysis. Evans-Carroll calculates the potential economic impacts of manufacturing at the new facility and sourcing of parts for the assembly production process.

The critical assumptions of the analysis are summarized in the table below:

Activity	NAICS/IMPLAN	Input	Multiplier	Total Jobs
Operations of manufacturing facility	336111/ 276
Parts manufacturing (outside new facility)	3363/ 283

* Evans-Carroll states that these direct jobs are located outside the area of the regional center. Thus, the direct jobs are not counted, but indirect and induced jobs are included.

The regional center anticipates [redacted] direct employees at the proposed manufacturing facility, which Evans-Carroll uses as an input to IMPLAN. However, the regional center has not provided an industry source or benchmark comparison to establish the credibility and validity of this specific amount of employment. The regional center must still submit evidence that the [redacted] direct employees fall within reasonable range of similar projects. .

The regional center estimates the direct employment from parts manufacturing outside the new EB-5 funded facility. It is estimated that 56% of the value and 90% of the actual amount of parts sourced to each car will be derived from parts manufactured outside the proposed new manufacturing facility. USCIS recognizes that the purchase of pre-made parts for the manufacturing process is typical for this type of business and requires a large and geographically diverse supply chain. However, there are three concerns with the applicant's use of activity relevant to the parts supply to as direct inputs into IMPLAN:

1. Evans-Carroll estimates that [redacted] direct jobs will result from the manufacturing of those parts and uses these jobs as a direct employment input. However, no sources, methods, or explanation is provided concerning this calculation and derivation of this estimate. .

2. The direct effect multipliers used to estimate total job creation, are calibrated at the national level to account for the wide supply chain. However, there is a strong possibility that some of the parts will be imported from outside the U.S. The regional center must clearly explain where the parts are sourced from, so USCIS can be confident that they are not imported.

3. The indirect employment effect is double-counted. This issue exists because the first calculation, for the [redacted] direct, indirect, and induced employment resulting from the manufacturing facility, includes the job creation estimated by the second calculation pertaining to the parts. The indirect effects of the direct employment at the manufacturing facility account for suppliers of the manufacturing facility, including automobile parts manufacturers. The second calculation also estimates the effects of automobile parts purchases.

Due to these concerns the [redacted] jobs created from parts manufacturing is ineligible because the evidence submitted has not substantiated the validity of the inputs. The regional center must submit a revised economic analysis addressing the above deficiencies.

Issue #2: Capital at Risk (8 C.F.R. 204.6(j)(2))

Redemption Agreements

It appears from the Confidential Private Placement Memorandum, effective as of July 19, 2012 (on page 9), and the Subscription Agreement, submitted August 6, 2012 (on page 2), that the EB-5 investment funds may not be entirely at risk. Redemption agreements that involve the guaranteed return of capital are not EB-5 compliant. The organizational documents for the regional center should be written so that the immigrant investor can comply with EB-5 regulations.

8 C.F.R. 204.6(j)(2) states that:

> ...To show that the petitioner has invested or is actively in the process of investing the required amount of capital, the petition must be accompanied by evidence that the petitioner has placed the required amount of capital at risk for the purpose of generating a return on the capital placed at risk....

In Matter of Izummi, 22 I&N Dec. 169 (Comm'r 1998) the Service held that a "sell-option" or redemption agreement between an alien investor and the new commercial enterprise in effect constitutes "debt" and cannot qualify as a contribution of "capital" as defined at 8 C.F.R. 204.6(e). A "sell-option" or redemption agreement exists when the alien has the right to require the enterprise to purchase his or her interest in the enterprise at a future time. The decision further states:

> ...To enter into a redemption agreement at the time of making an "investment" evidences a preconceived intent to unburden oneself of the investment as soon as possible after unconditional permanent resident status is attained. This is conceptually no different from a situation in which an alien marries a U.S. citizen and states, in writing that he will divorce her in two years. The focus here is on the green card and not on the business... [One] could argue that an alien who enters into a redemption agreement considers the continued success on the U.S. workers and U.S. businesses secondary. His primary concern is obtaining a permanent resident status for as little money as possible.
> For the alien's money to be considered truly at risk, the alien cannot enter into a partnership knowing that he already has a willing buyer in a certain number of years, nor can he be assured that he will receive a certain price. Otherwise, the arrangement is nothing more than a loan, albeit an unsecured one.

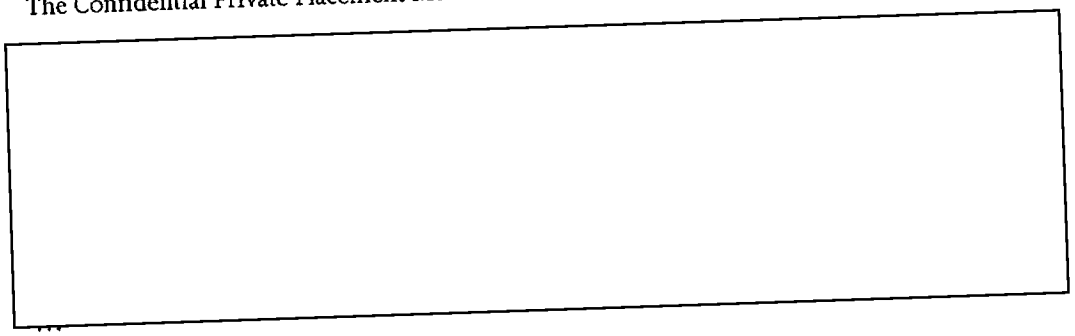
... An investment assumes that a risk exists. The alien must go into the investment not knowing for sure if he will be able to sell his interest at all after he obtains his unconditional permanent resident status; and if he is successful in selling his interest, the sale price may be disappointingly low (or surprising high and more than what he paid), This way, the alien risks both gain and loss. To allow otherwise transforms the arrangement into a loan.

The following provisions found in the organizational documents, submitted in support of the application, indicate that there is a guaranteed return of the $500,000 capital investment .and $40,000 of the Administrative Fee, if Form I-829 petition is denied:

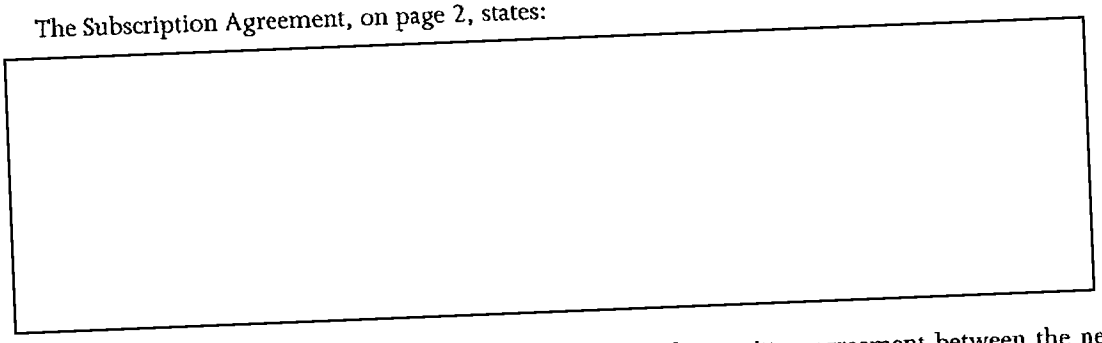
The Confidential Private Placement Memorandum, on page 9, states:

(b)(4)



...

The Subscription Agreement, on page 2, states:



The two provisions found in the organization documents provide a written agreement between the new commercial enterprise and the immigrant investor. The written agreement provides the immigrant investor a buy back arrangement, whereas the Company will redeem the investors Preferred Shares, if sufficient job creation is not attained by the job creating entity. This arrangement is impermissible and must be amended or removed from the organization documents.

Issue #3: Incomplete Documentation

The GreenTech Automotive Confidential Private Placement Memorandum (p. viii) and the GreenTech Automotive, Inc. Private Placement of Series A-2 Preferred Shares Subscription Booklet (p. 4) indicate that a Confidential Memorandum Update is to be signed by the subscriber. Please submit a copy of the Confidential Memorandum Update, dated July 19, 2012, any promissory notes between GreenTech Automotive, Inc. and potential investors, and all subsequent EB-5 Investor subscription agreements.

Copies:

Unless specifically required that an original document be filed with an application or petition, an ordinary legible photocopy may be submitted. Original documents submitted when not required will remain part of the record, even if the submission was not required.

Regulatory References

The regulation at 8 CFR 204.6(e) provides the following definitions:

Regional center

means any economic unit, public or private, which is involved with the promotion of economic growth, including increased export sales, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment.

The regulation at 8 CFR 204.6(j)(4) provides:

Job creation --

(i) General. To show that a new commercial enterprise will create not fewer than ten (10) full-time positions for qualifying employees, the petition must be accompanied by:

(A) Documentation consisting of photocopies of relevant tax records, Form I-9, or other similar documents for ten (10) qualifying employees, if such employees have already been hired following the establishment of the new commercial enterprise; or

(B) A copy of a comprehensive business plan showing that, due to the nature and projected size of the new commercial enterprise, the need for not fewer than ten (10) qualifying employees will result, including approximate dates, within the next two years, and when such employees will be hired.

(ii) Troubled business. To show that a new commercial enterprise which has been established through a capital investment in a troubled business meets the statutory employment creation requirement, the petition must be accompanied by evidence that the number of existing employees is being or will be maintained at no less than the pre-investment level for a period of at least two years. Photocopies of tax records, Forms I-9, or other relevant documents for the qualifying employees and a comprehensive business plan shall be submitted in support of the petition.

(iii) Immigrant Investor Pilot Program. To show that the new commercial enterprise located within a regional center approved for participation in the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program meets the statutory employment creation requirement, the petition must be accompanied by evidence that the investment will create full-time positions for not fewer than 10 persons either directly or indirectly through revenues generated from increased exports resulting from the Pilot Program. Such evidence may be demonstrated by reasonable methodologies including those set forth in paragraph (m)(3) of this section.

The regulation at 8 CFR 204.6(m)(1) provides:

(1) Scope. The Immigrant Investor Pilot Program is established solely pursuant to the provisions of section 610 of the Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, and subject to all conditions and restrictions stipulated in that section. Except as provided herein, aliens seeking to obtain immigration benefits under this paragraph continue to be subject to all conditions and restrictions set forth in section 203(b)(5) of the Act and this section.

The regulation at 8 CFR 204.6(m)(3) provides:

(3) Requirements for regional centers. Each regional center wishing to participate in the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program shall submit a proposal to the Assistant Commissioner for Adjudications, which:

(i) Clearly describes how the regional center focuses on a geographical region of the United States, and how it will promote economic growth through increased export sales, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment;

(ii) Provides in verifiable detail how jobs will be created indirectly through increased exports;

(iii) Provides a detailed statement regarding the amount and source of capital which has been committed to the regional center, as well as a description of the promotional efforts taken and planned by the sponsors of the regional center;

(iv) Contains a detailed prediction regarding the manner in which the regional center will have a positive impact on the regional or national economy in general as reflected by such factors as increased household earnings, greater demand for business services, utilities, maintenance and repair, and construction both within and without the regional center; and

(v) Is supported by economically or statistically valid forecasting tools, including, but not limited to, feasibility studies, analyses of foreign and domestic markets for the goods or services to be exported, and/or multiplier tables.

Note that promoting economic growth through increased export sales is no longer a requirement.

The regulation at 8 CFR 204.6(m)(6) provides:

(6) Termination of participation of regional centers. To ensure that regional centers continue to meet the requirements of section 610(a) of the Appropriations Act, a regional center must provide USCIS with updated information to demonstrate the regional center is continuing to promote economic growth, improved regional productivity, job creation, or increased domestic capital investment in the approved geographic area. Such information must be submitted to USCIS on an annual basis, on a cumulative basis, and/or as otherwise requested by USCIS, using a form designated for this purpose. USCIS will issue a notice of intent to terminate the participation of a regional center in the pilot program if a regional center fails to submit the required information or upon a determination that the regional center no longer serves the purpose of promoting economic growth, including increased export sales, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment. The notice of intent to terminate shall be made upon notice to the regional center and shall set forth the reasons for termination. The regional center must be provided 30 days from receipt of the notice of intent to terminate to offer evidence in opposition to the ground or grounds alleged in the notice of intent to terminate. If USCIS determines that the regional center's participation in the Pilot Program should be terminated, USCIS shall notify the regional center of the decision and of the reasons for termination. As provided in 8 CFR 103.3, the regional center may appeal the decision to USCIS within 30 days after the service of notice.

Request for Evidence

(b)(4)

Summary: In the previous report, the calculations showed [redacted] jobs from operations of the manufacturing facility and [redacted] jobs from parts manufacturing (outside new facility). After making the adjustments requested by USCIS, the number of jobs at the manufacturing facility declines from [redacted] to [redacted] and he number of jobs outside the new facility declines from [redacted] to [redacted] The reasons are explained below.

The relevant sections of the RFE as it applies to the economic impact analysis report are reproduced below.

Activity	NAICS/IMPLAN	Input	Multiplier	Total Jobs
Operations of manufacturing facility	336111/ 276	[redacted]
Parts manufacturing (outside new facility)	3363/ 283

(b)(4)

The regional center anticipates [redacted] direct employees at the proposed manufacturing facility, which Evans-Carroll uses as an input to IMPLAN. However, the regional center has not provided an industry source or benchmark comparison to establish the credibility and validity of this specific amount of employment. The regional center must still submit evidence that the [redacted] direct employees fall within reasonable range of similar projects. .

The regional center estimates the direct employment from parts manufacturing outside the new EB-5 funded facility. It is estimated that 56% of the value and 90% of the actual amount of parts sourced to each car will be derived from parts manufactured outside the proposed new manufacturing facility. USCIS recognizes that the purchase of pre-made parts for the manufacturing process is typical for this type of business and requires a large and geographically diverse supply chain. However, there are three concerns with the applicant's use of activity relevant to the parts supply to as direct inputs into IMPLAN:

1. Evans-Carroll estimates that [redacted] direct jobs will result from the manufacturing of those parts and uses these jobs as a direct employment input. However, no sources, methods, or explanation is provided concerning this calculation and derivation of this estimate. .

2. The direct effect multipliers used to estimate total job creation, are calibrated at the national level to account for the wide supply chain. However, there is a strong possibility that some of the parts will be imported from outside the U.S. The regional center must clearly explain where the parts are sourced from, so USCIS can be confident that they are not imported.

3. The indirect employment effect is double-counted. This issue exists because the first calculation, for the 426 direct, indirect, and induced employment resulting from the manufacturing facility, includes the job creation estimated by the second calculation pertaining to the parts. The indirect effects of the direct employment at the manufacturing facility account for suppliers of the manufacturing facility, including automobile parts manufacturers. The second calculation also estimates the effects of automobile parts purchases.

Point #1 answered.

The [redacted] direct employees are based on the production of [redacted] motor vehicles per year times an average price of [redacted] per vehicle, which is about [redacted] That is about $[redacted] per employee. Figures are not available for MS due to disclosure, but for Alabama the figure is [redacted] as shown below, so this plant has slightly fewer employees per dollar of production than industry standards. Please see below chart from the U.S. economic census bureau report:

Geographic area name	2007 NAICS code	Meaning of 2007 NAICS code	Year	Percent estimated	Number of establishments	Establishments with 20 employees or more	Number of employees	Annual payroll ($1,000)	Production workers avg per year	Production workers hours (1,000)	Production workers, nonleased employees wages ($1,000)	Value added ($1,000)	Total cost of materials ($1,000)	Total value of shipments ($1,000)	Total capital expenditures (new and used) ($1,000)

Point #2 answered.

The applicant has provided the following table for the location of auto parts used in the manufacturing process.

in % of complete vehicle BOM

Part family	USA	CHINA	EU	Total per family
Fasteners & Adhesives
Seats / Plastic Parts (Body panels & Interior)
Wire Harnesses / Electrical Driveline
Heater HVAC
Glasses Stamping
Laser cut & bended parts
Extrusions
Suspension / Steering / brakes
Battery Box
Total

As shown in this table, [redacted] of the dollar amount of auto parts is produced domestically. Hence we take [redacted] of the [redacted] jobs created indirectly as previously reported, which is [redacted] jobs.

Point #3 answered.

Table 6-1 of the original report shows there are [redacted] direct jobs, [redacted] indirect jobs, and [redacted] induced jobs created by manufacturing operations at the new plant. Of the [redacted] indirect jobs, [redacted] are in the auto parts industry, and could be considered double-counting. After excluding those, the total number of jobs created at the auto manufacturing plant would be reduced from [redacted] to [redacted]

Car Batteries for Sale: Average Prices and Costs You'll Pay

May 28, 2010

Comments 0 Like 0 0 0 Share 0

When looking for car batteries for sale you need to keep in mind the various factors involved in the overall price of the battery. Below you will find a few paragraphs describing these various costs.

Cost of the Battery

The base cost of the battery is going to be the largest portion of the price of a battery. Depending on your location, what series you need, how many cold cranking amps it's capable of producing, and the reserve capacity, along with construction quality, which determines battery life, you can expect to pay anywhere from approximately $40 all the way up to almost $300.

Core Charge

Except for brand new cars, there are actually very few brand new batteries powering cars on the roads right now. Most batteries are rebuilt to help maintain affordability. Depending on where you're shopping, you will pay between $5 and $10 for a core charge. This core charge is refunded once you return the old battery, known as the core.

Installation Costs

Installation is something that someone with the right size wrenches or sockets can complete in about 15 minutes. However, if you don't wish to get dirty or don't have the right tools, you shouldn't be required to pay anything more than $20 for a battery installation. Some of the large retail parts chains offer free battery installation with purchase.

Extended Warranties

The average warranty period of a decent quality battery is around 60 months. Usually this will be broken down into a 12 or 24 month free replacement period. After the free replacement period expires, if the battery goes bad or is defective, the replacement will be pro-rated. Some retailers offer an extended warranty, which will extend the free replacement period up to the full life of the battery. Average price for an extended warranty will be between $20 to $50 .

The preceding paragraphs address the four factors which affect the overall purchase price of car batteries for sale. For car battery reviews, see the Consumer Reports website. Remember that no garage is complete without a car battery charger of some sort, in case your battery ever goes dead or is unable to start your car.

Battery technology charges ahead

Russell Hensley, John Newman, and Matt Rogers

New research suggests that the price of lithium-ion batteries could fall dramatically by 2020, creating conditions for the widespread adoption of electrified vehicles in some markets.

Most experts agree that prices for energy storage will fall in coming years, but disagree over how far and how quickly. This is an important debate because a significant drop in battery prices could have wide-ranging effects across industries and society itself. In particular, cheaper batteries could enable the broader adoption of electrified vehicles, potentially disrupting the transportation, power, and petroleum sectors.

To inform the debate, we developed a detailed, bottom-up "should cost" model that estimates how automotive lithium-ion battery prices could evolve through 2025. Our analysis indicates that the price of a complete automotive lithium-ion battery pack could fall from $500 to $600 per kilowatt hour (kWh) today to about $200 per kWh by 2020 and to about $160 per kWh by 2025.[1] In the United States, with gasoline prices at or above $3.50 a gallon, automakers that acquire batteries at prices below $250 per kWh could offer electrified vehicles competitively, on a total-cost-of-ownership basis, with vehicles powered by advanced internal-combustion engines (exhibit).[2]

Of course, the pace of adoption will hinge on a range of factors in addition to battery prices. Macroeconomic and regulatory conditions, the performance and reliability of the vehicles, and customer preferences are important. And the rate at which automakers realize lower battery prices could vary by three to five years—the length of a product-development cycle—depending on the investment and power train–portfolio strategies these companies pursue.

Moreover, the emergence of cheaper batteries will probably spur further innovation in other technologies, such as internal-combustion engines. These advances would increase the probability that the broader economics of transportation will be reshaped over the next decade—no matter which technology prevails.

The path to savings

The model we developed, disaggregating the price of automotive battery packs into more than 40 underlying drivers,[3] accounts for expected changes in areas such as materials technology and manufacturing, as well as overhead costs and margins for various segments of the value chain. This component-by-component perspective on future battery prices rests on a foundation of primary research, including interviews with experts in industry, academia, and government.

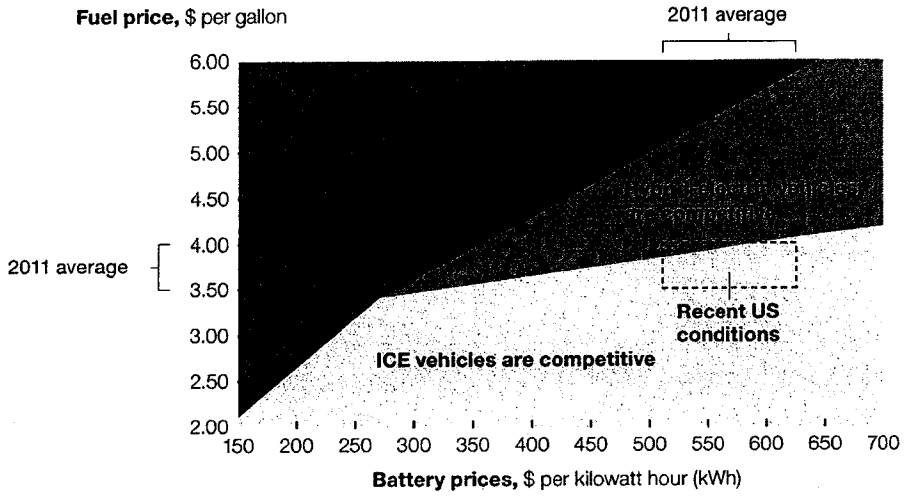
Our work suggests that three factors could accelerate the day when electrified vehicles become more compelling alternatives—at least on a total-cost-of-ownership basis—to vehicles powered by internal-combustion engines.

- Manufacturing at scale. Scale effects and manufacturing productivity improvements, representing about one-third of the potential price reductions through 2025, could mostly be captured by 2015. Savings will come largely from improving manufacturing processes, standardizing equipment, and spreading fixed costs over higher unit volumes. New plants could therefore be significantly more productive than those in operation before 2010–11.

Exhibit

The interaction of battery and fuel costs will determine the size of the market for electric vehicles.

Electrified vehicles' projected competitiveness with internal-combustion-engine (ICE) vehicles, based on total cost of ownership[1] (US example)



[1]Assumes 240 watt hours per mile (as may be achieved with lightweight, efficient air conditioning) compared with today's 305–322 watt hours per mile.
[2]Plug-in hybrid-electric vehicles.

Source: US Energy Information Administration; McKinsey analysis

Electric-vehicle basics

Throughout this article, the term "electric vehicle" actually describes the all-electric sedan of the future. At present, vehicles using electricity (electrified vehicles) come in a variety of forms—battery-electric vehicles, plug-in hybrid-electric vehicles, and hybrid-electric vehicles.

We use the term "price" (that is, costs plus margins) to reflect what automakers could pay—in other words, we take into account the margins needed to support reinvestment economics to achieve the growth rates assumed in our model. Exceptions include some instances in which the term "cost" is used colloquially (for instance, total cost of ownership). Otherwise, the use of cost (such as manufacturing cost) does not assume any margins.

- Lower components prices. Reductions in materials and components prices, representing about 25 percent of the overall savings opportunity, could mostly be captured by 2020. Under competitive pressure, EBIT[4] margins could fall to half of today's 20 to 40 percent. Component suppliers could reduce their costs dramatically by increasing manufacturing productivity and moving operations to locations where costs are optimal.

- Battery capacity-boosting technologies. Technical advances in cathodes, anodes, and electrolytes could increase the capacity of batteries by 80 to 110 percent by 2020–25. These efforts represent 40 to 45 percent of the identified price reductions. New battery cathodes that incorporate layered–layered structures[5] eliminate dead zones and could improve cell capacity by 40 percent. Manufacturers are developing high-capacity silicon anodes that could increase cell capacity by 30 percent over today's graphite anodes. And researchers are developing cathode–electrolyte pairs that could increase cell voltage to 4.2 volts, from 3.6 volts, by 2025, thus increasing cell capacities by 17 percent over present-day standards—and potentially by much more.

Many innovations that enable price reductions for automotive lithium-ion batteries will actually be realized first in other sectors, particularly consumer electronics, where global demand for cheaper and better-performing batteries is intense.

Changing industry dynamics

Automakers will need to balance their evaluation of the pace and trajectory of declining energy storage prices against their views on how other power train technologies will mature. Scenarios featuring a relatively quick decline in battery prices and flat or rising petroleum prices favor battery-electric-vehicle (BEV) strategies, as the exhibit indicates. Those anticipating slower declines in battery prices, as well as increases in petroleum prices, favor plug-in hybrid-electric vehicles (PHEV) or, perhaps, today's hybrid-electric vehicles (HEV). Given the length of product-development cycles, automakers may hedge their risks by investing in a range of technologies.

Other sectors could face disruptions as well—particularly electric power and petroleum, where the emergence of inexpensive energy storage could undermine the profitability of capital-intensive, long-lived assets. Power companies, for instance, could face challenges if low-cost battery storage enables the wider use of distributed generation or if the adoption of electrified-vehicle charging alters patterns of demand in some markets. Similarly, the race between electrified vehicles and advanced internal-combustion technology could accelerate the reduction in demand for transport fuels. Refiners of liquid fuels in developed markets would have to rethink their product and customer portfolios.

These, of course, are only early indicators of possible market developments. But given the path to substantially lower battery prices, which are now coming into view, executives should be considering bold actions to capitalize on one of the biggest disruptions facing the transportation, power, and petroleum sectors over the next decade or more. o

[1] These figures represent the price per effective kWh, assuming batteries with 70 percent depth of discharge. The price of battery packs includes the price of battery cells, battery-management systems, and packaging. Unless otherwise noted, values here are reported in real dollars, indexed to 2011.

[2] We used a five-year total-cost-of-ownership model that considers the prices of vehicles with advanced internal-combustion engines (in other words, vehicles that satisfy future US government fuel economy standards) and electrified vehicles adapted to make efficient use of on-board energy storage (using 150 watt hours of electricity per kilometer traveled). Note that electrified vehicles offer features, including better acceleration and noise levels, for which customers may be willing to pay more.

[3] The model builds on work initially done by Argonne National Laboratory, a US Department of Energy laboratory. For more information, see www.cse.anl.gov/batpac.

Is This The Cost Effective Lithium Battery Solution Wall Street and Industry Have Been Waiting For?

* Reuters is not responsible for the content in this press release

Thu Oct 18, 2012 8:01am EDT

Publicly traded U.S. based Lithium cell battery companies have had a rough year. Ener1 and Valence both entered bankruptcy in 2012 and A123 Systems Inc. (NASDAQ: AONE) accepted a $465 million rescue investment from China's largest auto parts maker, Wanxiang Group Corp. to avoid the fate of Ener1 and Valence, but that deal was not consummated. On October 16, 2012 A123 filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy and Johnson Controls Inc. (NYSE: JCI) will acquire the automotive assets in a deal valued at $125 million. Two primary issues doomed these companies: 1) Lack of demand for electric vehicles due to the high price, and 2) the high cost of batteries that is a large contributor to the high price of electric vehicles.

The addressable market for lithium energy solutions in 2010 was $21.4 billion according to Lux Research and Oracle Capital estimates. This estimate was from four addressable markets: Grid Management ($5.4B), Electric Vehicles ($7.7B), E-Bikes/Scooters ($6.4B) and Other ($1.9B). The research groups project the markets to grow rapidly on an annual basis and estimate the addressable market to more than double to $44.4 billion in 2015. Flux Power Holdings, Inc. (OTCBB: FLUX) is positioned to be a leader in providing innovative, high-performance, low-cost lithium energy solutions in these rapidly growing industries.

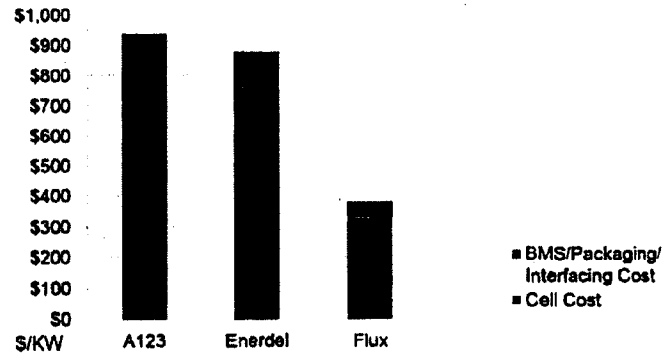
FLUX is now the only publicly traded, U.S. owned Lithium Power Solutions Company. Flux is significantly different than A123, Ener1 and Valence. Flux is an innovator in developing Intelligent Battery Management Systems, including charging, energy monitoring and display solutions for large format lithium cells; Flux does not focus on developing battery chemistries. Flux provides lithium storage energy solutions to several markets including lead acid battery replacement, electric vehicles, backup power and solar array power systems. Flux Power uses lower cost, lower functionality lithium batteries from multiple suppliers in their plug and play designed Battery Management Systems (BMS), which substantially lowers the cost versus other suppliers, by over 50% in most cases. Flux BMS then manages the batteries to perform equally or better than the higher cost competitors. Flux's BMS increases the life cycles of the battery over 500% compared to an unmanaged battery, and controls and records all aspects of the batteries functions.

To get some bearing on the battery cost situation for electric vehicles (EV's) McKinsey and Company wrote a report, published in the July 2012 McKinsey Quarterly, on their battery cost model and where the market could go with continued improvement in technology. The authors wrote, "To inform the debate, we developed a detailed, bottom-up "should cost" model that estimates how automotive lithium-ion battery prices could evolve through 2025. Our analysis indicates that the price of a complete automotive lithium-ion battery pack could fall from $500 to $600 per kilowatt hour (kWh) today to about $200 per kWh by 2020 and to about $160 per kWh by 2025.1 In the United States, with gasoline prices at or above $3.50 a gallon, automakers that acquire batteries at prices below $250 per kWh could offer electrified vehicles competitively, on a total-cost-of-ownership basis, with vehicles powered by advanced internal-combustion engines."

Cost Advantage Over The Competition

FLUX POWER

Flux's IP enables the use of lower cost lithium cells to achieve equal or superior performance at far lower cost than its competitors



The McKinsey model shows that EV prices may not be competitive for 7 to 12 years, base on battery cost alone. One thing they may have overlooked is that EV's need an extensive system to manage the batteries to allow them to perform within the ranges expected of them and to charge the vehicle properly. These Battery Management Systems can add considerable expense on top of the battery costs. Not only do the systems add expense, but so does the engineering of the battery systems, for connecting all the batteries, to charging and discharging all the cells in the battery system, and making the batteries interact properly with the EV.

An example of the power of Flux's plug and play system is their customer Wheego Electric Cars. Wheego challenged suppliers to provide them with a 30 kilowatt-hour battery system for $12,000. Flux's engineers designed a system for ease of use in the Wheego vehicles at a cost to Wheego of $11,500. The two competitors for the project came in with their best prices of $24,500 from Valence and $25,500 from A123. This example alone may explain the demise of both Valence and A123. Furthermore, Flux's system cost about $380/kilowatt-hour, much lower than the $500-600/kilowatt hour cost estimate of McKinsey's model and closer to the $250 competitive EV price range.

Aside from the EV market, Flux Power is also focused on the large opportunity in replacing lead acid batteries with the Flux lithium energy solution. Many service vehicles, such as forklifts and sidewalk cleaners are electric vehicles powered by lead acid batteries. The replacement market is a multi-billion dollar annual market. Flux has proven that their solutions cost at or the below the cost of lead acid batteries when spread across the 5 plus year lifecycle of the Flux lithium system. Lead acid power system usually needs to be replaced annually, as well as have scheduled maintenance, both of which adds cost. Flux's solutions are very low maintenance, last for five or more years and charge faster than lead acid systems, all of which are significant advantages for their lead acid replacement customers.

Another advantage of the Flux BMS is the recording of the charge cycles of each individual cell in the battery pack. This allow the customers to get 'State of Charge" and 'State of Health' reports on the battery pack so customers know exactly how the batteries are performing. When an EV battery pack nears the end of its useful life for the EV, these reports facilitate the battery cells to be recycled into energy storage systems, as the full history of the cells are known. It is estimated that recycling these batteries may allow customers to recoup up to 35% of the battery pack cost. This is another savings for the customer with the Flux Power systems, further reducing the overall cost of the Flux solution through the lifetime of use.

Flux Power Holdings has shipped over 14 kilowatt-hours of systems since 2010. Flux is working with Hyster USA to convert Hyster's new and legacy electric forklifts using lead acid to lithium solutions. A Flux Battery Management System is also designed into GreenTech Automotive's Neighborhood Electric Vehicles, which should be hitting the roads in 2013. Greentech may expand their lineup in the future with a vehicle that could compete with the Chevy Volt, which is built by General Motors (NYSE: GM). With 40 customers and another 60 potential customers, the company is on track to see strong growth in 2013 and beyond.

Flux's experienced management team has taken a common sense approach to the lithium solutions market. They utilized easily accessible lower cost lithium batteries, smart design and software to develop a low cost, easy to use, robust solution that is competitive in performance with much more expensive systems. As more companies become aware of Flux's solutions, we expect potential customers in all of Flux's focus markets to migrate to their cost effective system technologies. The next few years could be very successful for Flux Power Holdings.

Flux Power made over $5 million in revenues for fiscal 2012, which ended in June, while posting an EBITDA loss of $1.19 million. Flux has the capability of strong growth over the next few years, and should see a strong second half to the current fiscal 2013 year. The Company has just over 41 million shares outstanding and a market cap of $62 million at $1.50/share. For investors looking for Cleantech investments that can grow and be profitable in the current environment, look no further than Flux. The product is complete, cost effective and in a multi-billion dollar, rapidly growing market. As we see Flux's customers begin to roll out their products with the Flux BMS over the next nine month, we will see strong growth in Flux's top line and possibly cash flow and earnings positive results. Over a long-term investment period, Flux Power Holdings is poised to be one of the Cleantech sector's biggest winners.

About This Document 36

Summary

The federal government has adopted several policies to encourage the production and purchase of electric vehicles, which run partly or entirely on electric power stored in a battery that can be recharged from a standard home outlet. Such vehicles are fairly new, having been reintroduced commercially in the United States late in 2010. Federal policies to promote their manufacture and purchase include tax credits for buyers of new electric vehicles, financial support for the industry that produces them, and programs that promote efforts to educate consumers about electric vehicles and improve the infrastructure for recharging them. The Congressional Budget Office (CBO) estimates that such policies, some of which also support other types of fuel-efficient vehicles, will have a total budgetary cost of about $7.5 billion through 2019. Of those federal incentives, the tax credits for buying electric vehicles—which account for about one-fourth of that budgetary cost—are likely to have the greatest impact on vehicle sales. The tax credits apply to the first 200,000 electric vehicles sold by each manufacturer for use in the United States, after which the credits gradually phase out.

The electric vehicles that are the focus of this study fall into two broad classes:

- Plug-in hybrid vehicles are powered by an internal combustion engine, which runs on gasoline or other liquid fuels, and by an electric motor, which is powered in part by an externally rechargeable battery. (Traditional hybrid vehicles, which have been available for about 10 years, also have internal combustion engines and electric motors, but their batteries cannot be recharged externally.)
- All-electric vehicles, also known as battery electric vehicles, run entirely on battery power.

Tax Credits and the Cost-Competitiveness of Electric Vehicles

At current vehicle and energy prices, the lifetime costs of an electric vehicle are generally higher than those of a conventional vehicle or traditional hybrid vehicle of similar size and performance, even with the tax credits. That conclusion takes into account both the higher purchase price of an electric vehicle and the lower fuel costs over the vehicle's life. For example, an average plug-in hybrid vehicle (that is, an electric version of the typical light-duty vehicle) with a battery capacity of 16 kilowatt-hours (kWh) would be eligible for the maximum tax credit of $7,500.[1] However, that vehicle would require a tax credit of more than $12,000 to have roughly the same lifetime costs as a comparable conventional or traditional hybrid vehicle.

The additional tax credit that would be required for cost-competitiveness is smaller for electric vehicles that have small batteries or that are substituting for vehicles with low fuel economy. Assuming that everything else is equal, the larger an electric vehicle's battery capacity, the greater its cost disadvantage relative to conventional vehicles—and thus the larger the tax credit needed to make it cost-competitive. All-electric vehicles are closer than plug-in hybrids to being cost-competitive with conventional vehicles, for a given battery size.

Tax Credits and the Cost to the Government of Reducing Gasoline Use and Emissions

The tax credits for electric vehicles have multiple direct and indirect effects on the total amounts of gasoline consumed and greenhouse gases emitted by the U.S. transportation sector. The direct effect of the credits is to subsidize purchases of electric vehicles—some of which are additional purchases and some of which are purchases that would have been made even without the credits. In itself, that direct effect leads to lower gasoline consumption and fewer emissions than would otherwise be the case. The cost to the federal government of those reductions can vary widely. For example, by CBO's estimate, the cost of the credits' direct effect on gasoline consumption ranges from about $3 to $7 per gallon saved when people buy an electric vehicle that is similar in size and performance to a conventional vehicle with average fuel economy, depending on the electric vehicle's type and battery size. The cost per metric ton of carbon dioxide equivalent (CO_2e) emissions reduced can vary even more widely—from $230 to $4,400 in CBO's estimates for electric vehicles that are comparable to average-fuel-economy conventional vehicles—because that cost also depends on the emissions released in generating the electricity used to recharge vehicles' batteries.[2] The cost per gallon of gasoline saved or per metric ton of emissions reduced is higher when electric vehicles substitute for high-fuel-economy vehicles, which use comparatively little gasoline themselves, and lower when the alternative to electric vehicles is low-fuel-economy conventional vehicles.

1. Light-duty vehicles include passenger cars and light-duty trucks (such as pickup trucks, minivans, and sport-utility vehicles) that have a gross weight of no more than 8,500 pounds.

Because of their other, indirect effects, however, the tax credits will have little or no impact on the total gasoline use and greenhouse gas emissions of the nation's vehicle fleet over the next several years. As a result, the cost per gallon or per metric ton of any such reductions will be much greater than the amounts described above. In particular, as automakers seek to comply with the rising federal standards that govern the average fuel economy of their vehicle fleets, they can use increased sales of high-fuel-economy electric vehicles as an opportunity to boost their sales of low-fuel-economy vehicles as well. (The tax credits may also lead to more sales of traditional hybrids and high-fuel-economy conventional vehicles by prompting sellers to reduce their prices in an attempt to compete with electric vehicles. But that price-competition effect also will probably be offset by greater sales of low-fuel-economy vehicles.) Consequently, given corporate average fuel economy (CAFE) standards that are high enough to constrain automakers' production decisions, the tax credits cannot significantly affect total gasoline use or greenhouse gas emissions by vehicles during the period when those standards are in effect.

Currently, that period extends through 2021 for the fuel economy standards and through 2025 for the emissions standards. Previously, CAFE standards were in place for new vehicles through model year 2016, but regulators recently set more-stringent fuel economy standards that are due to take effect in 2017 and continue rising through 2021, reaching about 40 miles per gallon in that year. Parallel restrictions have been established on the greenhouse gas emissions of vehicles for model years 2017 to 2025.[3]

Over the longer term, the tax credits can affect gasoline consumption and emissions if future revisions to the CAFE standards are influenced by current sales of electric vehicles and expectations about future sales. Moreover, if the credits play an important role in helping the U.S. electric vehicle industry become self-sustaining, their effect on vehicle sales might continue to affect CAFE standards—and the resulting amounts of gasoline use and emissions—for many years after the tax credits themselves have run out.

Comparing the Tax Credits with Other Recent Subsidy Programs in the Transportation Sector

CBO compared the effects of the current tax credits in reducing gasoline use and greenhouse gas emissions with the effects of three other recent subsidy programs aimed at the transportation sector: federal tax credits for the purchase of traditional hybrid vehicles, which were in effect until 2011; federal tax credits, most of which have expired, for companies that blended biofuels with petroleum fuels; and the 2009 "Cash for Clunkers" program, which made payments to people who traded in eligible lower-fuel-economy vehicles for higher-fuel-economy vehicles.[4] Like the current credits for electric vehicles, the

2. Because individual greenhouse gases vary in their warming characteristics and persistence in the atmosphere, researchers commonly measure emissions in kilograms or metric tons of carbon dioxide equivalent—the amount of carbon dioxide that would cause an equivalent amount of warming over 100 years.

3. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) sets CAFE standards for the fuel economy of passenger cars and light-duty trucks, and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets parallel standards to limit emissions of greenhouse gases from such vehicles. NHTSA is allowed to set CAFE standards for only five years at a time (currently, through model year 2021); EPA has set emissions standards that run through model year 2025.

4. Of the tax credits for biofuels, those for corn ethanol and biodiesel expired in 2011, and the credits for cellulosic ethanol are due to expire at the end of 2012.

credits for traditional hybrids did not reduce gasoline use or greenhouse gas emissions in the short term, because sales of those high-fuel-economy vehicles allowed vehicle manufacturers to sell more low-fuel-economy vehicles and still comply with CAFE standards. By contrast, the other two programs did reduce total gasoline use and greenhouse gas emissions in the short term. The biofuel credits lowered the emissions of vehicles already purchased, and "Cash for Clunkers" raised the average fuel efficiency of all vehicles in operation (by reducing the number of less fuel-efficient older vehicles in favor of those with higher fuel economy).

The overall cost-effectiveness of such programs also depends on their long-term impact on gasoline use and greenhouse gas emissions. "Cash for Clunkers" probably did not have an ongoing influence on buyers' vehicle choices, so it did not have any additional effects over the long term. The biofuel credits may have had long-term effects by making the biofuel industry more viable in the future. And the tax credits for electric vehicles and traditional hybrids could have a long-lasting influence on CAFE standards, depending in part on the extent to which they have affected or will affect regulators' expectations about the future viability of their respective industries. The credits' influence on future CAFE standards could also depend on the extent to which they spur additional sales of high-fuel-economy vehicles not eligible for the credits by prompting manufacturers and retailers to reduce the prices of those competing vehicles.

Possible Approaches for Future Policies

Lawmakers concerned about gasoline consumption or greenhouse gas emissions could take a number of approaches in setting future policies, some within the framework of the existing tax credits and others involving very different policies.

Some lawmakers have proposed altering the dollar amounts of the tax credits or the number of vehicle purchases to which they would apply.[5] Increasing the size of the tax credits would raise federal budgetary costs, whereas reducing or eliminating the credits would reduce costs. Such changes would have little, if any, effect on gasoline use or greenhouse gas emissions over the short term, because automakers would still have to meet existing CAFE standards. However, changes in the size of the tax credits could affect future CAFE standards by influencing regulators' expectations about future sales of electric vehicles and could also affect the commercial viability of the U.S. electric vehicle industry.

Increases or moderate reductions in the number of credits available would probably have little near-term impact on the credits' benefits to society—or on the cost to the government of those benefits—because sales of electric vehicles are years away from reaching the 200,000-per-manufacturer milestone now in effect. The long-term costs and benefits of changing the number of credits available are uncertain; they depend greatly on how future CAFE standards are set and on the pace at which the electric vehicle industry develops.

Another option available to policymakers is to increase the federal excise tax on sales of gasoline. Raising that tax (and thus the price of fuel) would tend to reduce gasoline use and emissions, particularly after drivers had enough time to adjust their commuting patterns or to purchase different vehicles. Other policies—such as an economy-wide cap-and-trade program for greenhouse gas emissions or a tax on the carbon content of fossil fuels—could focus on low-cost reductions in emissions outside the transportation sector. Such policies would tend to minimize the total cost of achieving a given reduction in emissions, but they would probably have less of an effect on gasoline consumption than electric vehicle tax credits that achieved the same reduction in emissions, and they would have little or no effect on the development of the electric vehicle industry.

5. For example, two bills introduced in the current (112th) Congress (S. 232 and H.R. 500) would make the credits apply to the first 500,000 electric vehicles sold by each manufacturer (up from 200,000 under current law).

BARNES & THORNBURG LLP

MEMORANDUM

TO: GULF COAST FUNDS MANAGEMENT, LLC
FROM: JENNIFER M. MOSELEY
DATE: AUGUST 19, 2013
SUBJECT: RESPONSE TO RFE FROM USCIS RE: "REDEMPTION" PROVISIONS

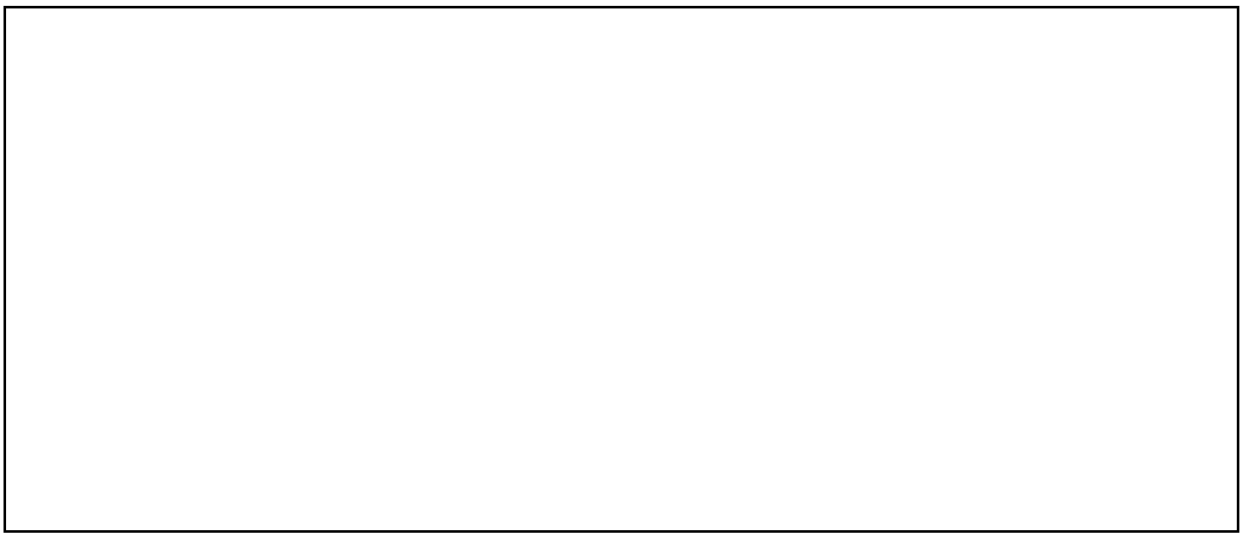
You have asked me to review the comments received from the US Citizenship and Immigration Services ("USCIS") in its July 17, 2013 Notice of Request for Evidence (the "RFE"). In particular, you've asked me to focus on the USCIS' comments regarding the "redemption" provisions in the Confidential Private Placement Memorandum dated July 19, 2012 for the Series A-2 Preferred Shares of GreenTech Automotive, Inc. (the "PPM") and in the related Subscription Agreement.

The USCIS states in Issue #2 of the RFE that it believes the EB-5 investment funds are not entirely at risk because GreenTech Automotive, Inc. (the "Company") will return the investor's preferred shares if the investor's I-829 Petition is denied by the USCVIS due to insufficient job creation "solely resulting from the Company's gross negligence..." As we discussed on our call last Friday, this comment from the USCIS appears to be based on a lack of understanding of the very narrow applicability of this return provision as well as a lack of analysis as to whether this provision truly affects whether the investors' monies are entirely at risk.

As a result, I have laid out below the basic framework of a response to the RFE that should assist the USCIS in understanding how your provision still meets the requirements of the EB-5 regulations, which can be modified or used as a whole by your immigration counsel who is preparing the written response the USCIS. The response is simplified, though not as short as I originally intended. However, I think it's necessary to lead the USCIS down this particular train of thought in order to assist their analysis of how this is not an impermissible redemption provision.

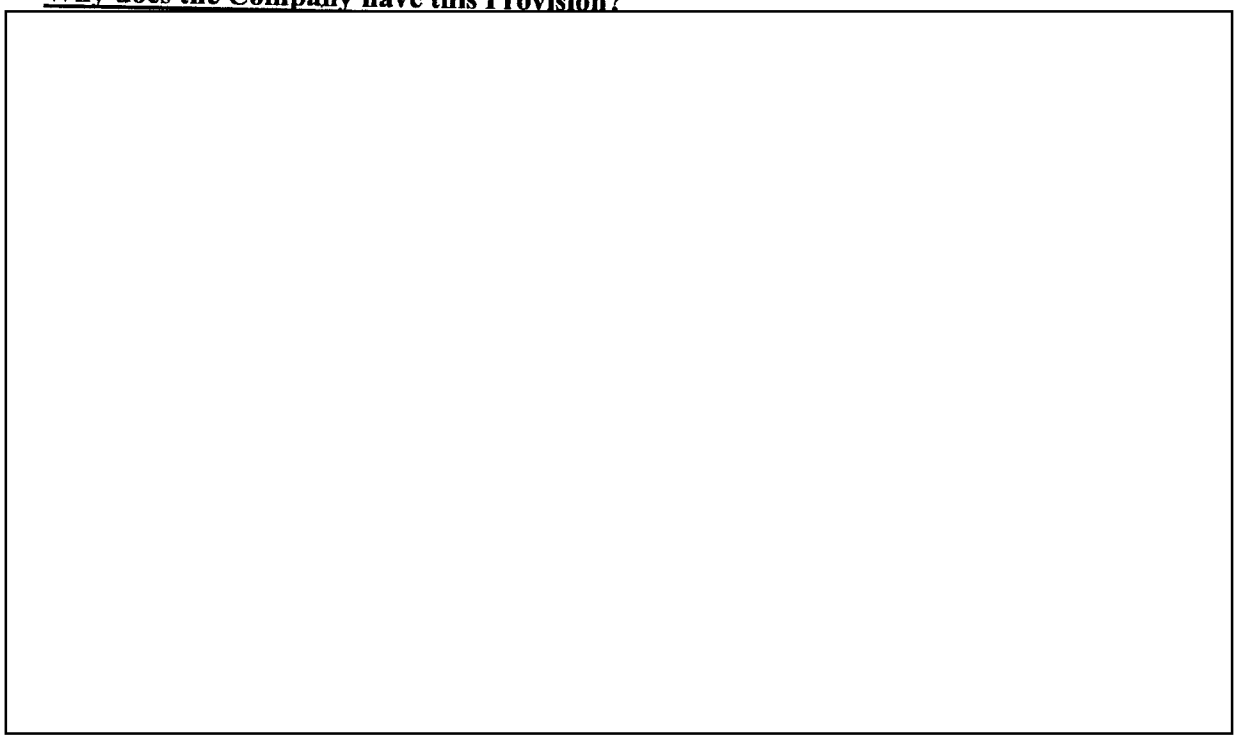
When does the Company's provision to return money apply?

(b)(4)



Why does the Company have this Provision?

(b)(4)



The Company's Provision meets the requirements of EB-5 regulations and is a permissible provision under the requirements of Matter of Izummi

Furthermore, the Company's Provision is not an impermissible redemption under the terms provided in Matter of Izummi, 22 I&N Dec. 169 (Comm'r 1998).

In Matter of Izummi, the INS stated a redemption agreement at the time of making an investment "evidences a preconceived intent to unburden oneself of the investment as soon as possible after unconditional permanent resident status is attained." The Company's Provision is triggered if the investor does not receive unconditional permanent residency because of the narrow reasons already discussed above. Therefore, the Company's Provision does not reflect a preconceived intent to unburden the investor with the investment after he or she receives unconditional permanent residency.

In addition, the INS in Matter of Izummi stated that an investor "cannot enter into a partnership knowing that he already has a willing buyer in a certain number of years..." The Company's Provision does not pre-set a willing buyer, in that the Company is not promising to return the investment money generally. Again, the Company is instead providing a contractual rescission right provision in the unlikely event that an investor's I-829 is denied due to insufficient job creation caused solely by the Company's gross negligence.

Finally, the Service in Matter of Izummi stated that investor "must go into the investment not knowing for sure if he will be able to sell his interest at all after he obtains his unconditional permanent resident status..." Investors in the Company have no assurance that they will ever receive their money back after unconditional permanent residency is achieved. The Company's Provision applies only in the event permanent residency is denied, and furthermore, only if caused by insufficient job creation solely because of the Company's gross negligence. These trigger events are too hypothetical and contingent to be a guaranteed return of capital.

For the reasons discussed above, the Company's Provision is not a guarantee of return and do not mitigate the risk of the investment whatsoever; therefore, the Provision is permissible under the requirements of EB-5 regulations.

IV. OUR BUSINESS

Our History

GTA, a Mississippi corporation organized on August 14, 2009 and a wholly-owned subsidiary of WM GreenTech Automotive Corp. (our "Parent"), is a development stage company established to design, manufacture and sell electric vehicles.

On August 19, 2009, GTA and Hybrid Kinetic Automotive Corp. ("Hybrid Kinetic") entered into a Plan and Agreement of Merger whereby Hybrid Kinetic was merged with and into GTA with GTA as the surviving corporation. Prior to its merger with GTA, Hybrid Kinetics was in the planning stage of development, manufacture and distribution of fuel-efficient vehicles in Mississippi.

(b)(4)

Our Products

Our planned products will include:

- MyCar ("MyCar"), a two-seat electric vehicle with a 50 to 115 mile range on a single charge, depending upon battery configuration or size selected by the customer. MyCar has a maximum speed up to 50 mph in the European Union and a speed of up to 25 or 35 mph in the United States due to current respective state regulatory restrictions. MyCar is an Neighborhood Electric Vehicle ("NEV") in the United States pursuant to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration ("NHTSA") standards. The original model of MyCar, designed by world-renowned Italian designer, Giorgetto Giugiaro, was named Electric Vehicle of the Year at the 2008 European GreenFleet Awards. The updated MyCar has been engineered by GTA and our engineering partners (i) Panoz Auto Development Company, known for its development of the Panoz Esperante and Panoz Abruzzi and (ii) Lotus Engineering, Inc., an internationally renowned engineering services company that has performed engineering work for the majority of large automobile manufacturers, including design work for Tesla's Roadster. For the first year of our operations, we plan to produce only MyCars and develop model variants off the MyCar platform for customized usages including an urban or micro work truck and urban box van suitable for commercial applications.

- One or more subcompact cars utilizing the MyCar platform and upgraded for certification as a full speed vehicle in our targeted markets ("MyCar EV"). We will design MyCar EV for car buyers who enjoy the style of MyCar and desire a similar (or possibly greater) driving range, but expect to drive at higher speeds. As such, MyCar EV will meet all safety standards required under U.S. federal regulations. Subject to market conditions, we plan to begin production of MyCar EV in early 2014..

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

Special rules for partnerships. Partnerships that conduct a trade or business in the United States are generally required to pay a withholding tax on any foreign partners' share of income from such business. Further, in certain cases where a Form W-9 has not been received, a partnership is required to presume that a partner is a foreign person, and pay the withholding tax. Therefore, if you are a U.S. person that is a partner in a partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States, provide Form W-9 to the partnership to establish your U.S. status and avoid withholding on your share of partnership income.

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.
2. The treaty article addressing the income.
3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.
4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.
5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,
2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),
3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,
4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or
5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000[1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7[2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

Special rules for partnerships. Partnerships that conduct a trade or business in the United States are generally required to pay a withholding tax on any foreign partners' share of income from such business. Further, in certain cases where a Form W-9 has not been received, a partnership is required to presume that a partner is a foreign person, and pay the withholding tax. Therefore, if you are a U.S. person that is a partner in a partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States, provide Form W-9 to the partnership to establish your U.S. status and avoid withholding on your share of partnership income.

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000[1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7[2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

Special rules for partnerships. Partnerships that conduct a trade or business in the United States are generally required to pay a withholding tax on any foreign partners' share of income from such business. Further, in certain cases where a Form W-9 has not been received, a partnership is required to presume that a partner is a foreign person, and pay the withholding tax. Therefore, if you are a U.S. person that is a partner in a partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States, provide Form W-9 to the partnership to establish your U.S. status and avoid withholding on your share of partnership income.

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000 [1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7 [2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN.
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

Special rules for partnerships. Partnerships that conduct a trade or business in the United States are generally required to pay a withholding tax on any foreign partners' share of income from such business. Further, in certain cases where a Form W-9 has not been received, a partnership is required to presume that a partner is a foreign person, and pay the withholding tax. Therefore, if you are a U.S. person that is a partner in a partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States, provide Form W-9 to the partnership to establish your U.S. status and avoid withholding on your share of partnership income.

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2),

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation,

7. A foreign central bank of issue,

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States,

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission,

10. A real estate investment trust,

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940,

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a),

13. A financial institution,

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000 [1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7 [2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA.

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income.

Note. If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Regulations section 301.7701-7).

Special rules for partnerships. Partnerships that conduct a trade or business in the United States are generally required to pay a withholding tax on any foreign partners' share of income from such business. Further, in certain cases where a Form W-9 has not been received, a partnership is required to presume that a partner is a foreign person, and pay the withholding tax. Therefore, if you are a U.S. person that is a partner in a partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States, provide Form W-9 to the partnership to establish your U.S. status and avoid withholding on your share of partnership income.

IRS Form W-9

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases:

- The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity,
- The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and
- The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person. If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien. Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the payee has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items:

1. The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien.

2. The treaty article addressing the income.

3. The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions.

4. The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax.

5. Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example. Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W-8.

What is backup withholding? Persons making certain payments to you must under certain conditions withhold and pay to the IRS a percentage of such payments. This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include interest, tax-exempt interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester your correct TIN, make the proper certifications, and report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if:

1. You do not furnish your TIN to the requester,

2. You do not certify your TIN when required (see the Part II instructions on page 3 for details),

3. The IRS tells the requester that you furnished an incorrect TIN,

4. The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your interest and dividends on your tax return (for reportable interest and dividends only), or

5. You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest and dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. See the instructions below and the separate Instructions for the Requester of Form W-9.

Also see Special rules for partnerships on page 1.

Updating Your Information

You must provide updated information to any person to whom you claimed to be an exempt payee if you are no longer an exempt payee and anticipate receiving reportable payments in the future from this person. For example, you may need to provide updated information if you are a C corporation that elects to be an S corporation, or if you no longer are tax exempt. In addition, you must furnish a new Form W-9 if the name or TIN changes for the account, for example, if the grantor of a grantor trust dies.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment.

Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Specific Instructions

Name

If you are an individual, you must generally enter the name shown on your income tax return. However, if you have changed your last name, for instance, due to marriage without informing the Social Security Administration of the name change, enter your first name, the last name shown on your social security card, and your new last name.

If the account is in joint names, list first, and then circle, the name of the person or entity whose number you entered in Part I of the form.

Sole proprietor. Enter your individual name as shown on your income tax return on the "Name" line. You may enter your business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA)" name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Partnership, C Corporation, or S Corporation. Enter the entity's name on the "Name" line and any business, trade, or "doing business as (DBA) name" on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line.

Disregarded entity. Enter the owner's name on the "Name" line. The name of the entity entered on the "Name" line should never be a disregarded entity. The name on the "Name" line must be the name shown on the income tax return on which the income will be reported. For example, if a foreign LLC that is treated as a disregarded entity for U.S. federal tax purposes has a domestic owner, the domestic owner's name is required to be provided on the "Name" line. If the direct owner of the entity is also a disregarded entity, enter the first owner that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. Enter the disregarded entity's name on the "Business name/disregarded entity name" line. If the owner of the disregarded entity is a foreign person, you must complete an appropriate Form W-8.

Note. Check the appropriate box for the federal tax classification of the person whose name is entered on the "Name" line (Individual/sole proprietor, Partnership, C Corporation, S Corporation, Trust/estate).

Limited Liability Company (LLC). If the person identified on the "Name" line is an LLC, check the "Limited liability company" box only and enter the appropriate code for the tax classification in the space provided. If you are an LLC that is treated as a partnership for federal tax purposes, enter "P" for partnership. If you are an LLC that has filed a Form 8832 or a Form 2553 to be taxed as a corporation, enter "C" for C corporation or "S" for S corporation. If you are an LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner under Regulation section 301.7701-3 (except for employment and excise tax), do not check the LLC box unless the owner of the LLC (required to be identified on the "Name" line) is another LLC that is not disregarded for federal tax purposes. If the LLC is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner, enter the appropriate tax classification of the owner identified on the "Name" line.

Other entities. Enter your business name as shown on required federal tax documents on the "Name" line. This name should match the name shown on the charter or other legal document creating the entity. You may enter any business, trade, or DBA name on the "Business name/ disregarded entity name" line.

Exempt Payee

If you are exempt from backup withholding, enter your name as described above and check the appropriate box for your status, then check the "Exempt payee" box in the line following the "Business name/ disregarded entity name," sign and date the form.

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are not exempt from backup withholding. Corporations are exempt from backup withholding for certain payments, such as interest and dividends.

Note. If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should still complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

1. An organization exempt from tax under section 501(a), any IRA, or a custodial account under section 403(b)(7) if the account satisfies the requirements of section 401(f)(2).

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities.

4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or

5. An international organization or any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include:

6. A corporation.

7. A foreign central bank of issue.

8. A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States.

9. A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

10. A real estate investment trust.

11. An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940.

12. A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a).

13. A financial institution.

14. A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or

15. A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

The following chart shows types of payments that may be exempt from backup withholding. The chart applies to the exempt payees listed above, 1 through 15.

IF the payment is for . . .	THEN the payment is exempt for . . .
Interest and dividend payments	All exempt payees except for 9
Broker transactions	Exempt payees 1 through 5 and 7 through 13. Also, C corporations.
Barter exchange transactions and patronage dividends	Exempt payees 1 through 5
Payments over $600 required to be reported and direct sales over $5,000[1]	Generally, exempt payees 1 through 7[2]

[1] See Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, and its instructions.

[2] However, the following payments made to a corporation and reportable on Form 1099-MISC are not exempt from backup withholding: medical and health care payments, attorneys' fees, gross proceeds paid to an attorney, and payments for services paid by a federal executive agency.

Part I. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

Enter your TIN in the appropriate box. If you are a resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, your TIN is your IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Enter it in the social security number box. If you do not have an ITIN, see How to get a TIN below.

If you are a sole proprietor and you have an EIN, you may enter either your SSN or EIN. However, the IRS prefers that you use your SSN.

If you are a single-member LLC that is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner (see Limited Liability Company (LLC) on page 2), enter the owner's SSN (or EIN, if the owner has one). Do not enter the disregarded entity's EIN. If the LLC is classified as a corporation or partnership, enter the entity's EIN.

Note. See the chart on page 4 for further clarification of name and TIN combinations.

How to get a TIN. If you do not have a TIN, apply for one immediately. To apply for an SSN, get Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, from your local Social Security Administration office or get this form online at www.ssa.gov. You may also get this form by calling 1-800-772-1213. Use Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to apply for an ITIN, or Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number, to apply for an EIN. You can apply for an EIN online by accessing the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and clicking on Employer Identification Number (EIN) under Starting a Business. You can get Forms W-7 and SS-4 from the IRS by visiting IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

If you are asked to complete Form W-9 but do not have a TIN, write "Applied For" in the space for the TIN, sign and date the form, and give it to the requester. For interest and dividend payments, and certain payments made with respect to readily tradable instruments, generally you will have 60 days to get a TIN and give it to the requester before you are subject to backup withholding on payments. The 60-day rule does not apply to other types of payments. You will be subject to backup withholding on all such payments until you provide your TIN to the requester.

Note. Entering "Applied For" means that you have already applied for a TIN or that you intend to apply for one soon.

Caution: A disregarded domestic entity that has a foreign owner must use the appropriate Form W-8.

Part II. Certification

To establish to the withholding agent that you are a U.S. person, or resident alien, sign Form W-9. You may be requested to sign by the withholding agent even if item 1, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4 indicate otherwise.

For a joint account, only the person whose TIN is shown in Part I should sign (when required). In the case of a disregarded entity, the person identified on the "Name" line must sign. Exempt payees, see Exempt Payee on page 3.

Signature requirements. Complete the certification as indicated in items 1 through 3, below, and items 4 and 5 on page 4.

1. Interest, dividend, and barter exchange accounts opened before 1984 and broker accounts considered active during 1983. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

2. Interest, dividend, broker, and barter exchange accounts opened after 1983 and broker accounts considered inactive during 1983. You must sign the certification or backup withholding will apply. If you are subject to backup withholding and you are merely providing your correct TIN to the requester, you must cross out item 2 in the certification before signing the form.

3. Real estate transactions. You must sign the certification. You may cross out item 2 of the certification.

4. Other payments. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification unless you have been notified that you have previously given an incorrect TIN. "Other payments" include payments made in the course of the requester's trade or business for rents, royalties, goods (other than bills for merchandise), medical and health care services (including payments to corporations), payments to a nonemployee for services, payments to certain fishing boat crew members and fishermen, and gross proceeds paid to attorneys (including payments to corporations).

5. Mortgage interest paid by you, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, qualified tuition program payments (under section 529), IRA, Coverdell ESA, Archer MSA or HSA contributions or distributions, and pension distributions. You must give your correct TIN, but you do not have to sign the certification.

Secure Your Tax Records from Identity Theft

Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information such as your name, social security number (SSN), or other identifying information, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. An identity thief may use your SSN to get a job or may file a tax return using your SSN to receive a refund.

To reduce your risk:

- Protect your SSN,
- Ensure your employer is protecting your SSN, and
- Be careful when choosing a tax preparer.

If your tax records are affected by identity theft and you receive a notice from the IRS, respond right away to the name and phone number printed on the IRS notice or letter.

If your tax records are not currently affected by identity theft but you think you are at risk due to a lost or stolen purse or wallet, questionable credit card activity or credit report, contact the IRS Identity Theft Hotline at 1-800-908-4490 or submit Form 14039.

For more information, see Publication 4535, Identity Theft Prevention and Victim Assistance.

Victims of identity theft who are experiencing economic harm or a system problem, or are seeking help in resolving tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, may be eligible for Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) assistance. You can reach TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059.

Protect yourself from suspicious emails or phishing schemes. Phishing is the creation and use of email and websites designed to mimic legitimate business emails and websites. The most common act is sending an email to a user falsely claiming to be an established legitimate enterprise in an attempt to scam the user into surrendering private information that will be used for identity theft.

The IRS does not initiate contacts with taxpayers via emails. Also, the IRS does not request personal detailed information through email or ask taxpayers for the PIN numbers, passwords, or similar secret access information for their credit card, bank, or other financial accounts.

If you receive an unsolicited email claiming to be from the IRS, forward this message to phishing@irs.gov. You may also report misuse of the IRS name, logo, or other IRS property to the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration at 1-800-366-4484. You can forward suspicious emails to the Federal Trade Commission at: spam@uce.gov or contact them at www.ftc.gov/idtheft or 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338).

Visit IRS.gov to learn more about identity theft and how to reduce your risk.

Privacy Act Notice

Section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons (including federal agencies) who are required to file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, or certain other income paid to you; mortgage interest you paid; the acquisition or abandonment of secured property; the cancellation of debt; or contributions you made to an IRA, Archer MSA, or HSA. The person collecting this form uses the information on the form to file information returns with the IRS, reporting the above information. Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. possessions for use in administering their laws. The information also may be disclosed to other countries under a treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce civil and criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Under section 3406, payers must generally withhold a percentage of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to the payer. Certain penalties may also apply for providing false or fraudulent information.

Conclusion

The United States is suffering one of the most severe economic recessions in its history, with unemployment rates climbing to historic levels. As Congress intended and as President Obama reiterated with the signing of the three-year extension of the EB-5 program in September 2009, the EB-5 regional center program can have a significant and lasting impact in regions of the United States that desperately need an economic stimulus.

We therefore respectfully request that you adjudicate and approve this regional center application as [illegible] as possible. Please contact us if you have any further questions.

The Honorable Mark R. Warner
The United States Senate
459A Russell Senate Office Building
Washington, DC 20510

Dear Senator Warner:

I write you with a request of the greatest of urgency. Ten much needed jobs are being lost in Virginia with every day of inaction that passes on this matter. With your help, we can resolve this matter and contribute sustainable economic growth in the Commonwealth as well as the entire country.

GreenTech Automotive ("GTA") is an environmentally sensitive vehicle manufacturing project partially funded by USCIS EB-5 Alien Entrepreneur Program. GTA operates within the geographic coverage of Gulf Coast Funds Management ("GCFM"), a USCIS approved Regional Center. GFCM was originally approved by the USCIS on 18 August 2008 to cover only Louisiana and Mississippi. The GTA project planned to expand first into Virginia, and later Tennessee, due to logistical necessities. These necessities include access to a deep-sea port, which Norfolk would provide. However, GTA is facing a crippling delay in executing their business plan due to a delay in approval by USCIS of GCFM's Expansion Amendment request. This delay resulted from misguided advice given by USCIS to GFCM prior to filing the initial Expansion Amendment in early January 2010.

The advice was that there was no requirement to have contiguous geographic coverage for the Regional Center. Based on this advice, GCFM filed the first Expansion Amendment only including Virginia in early January 2010. This Amendment was subsequently denied specifically due to the contiguous expansion requirement by USCIS in late-January 2010. GCFM re-filed on 19 February 2010, this time including Tennessee to satisfy contiguity. USCIS Headquarters stated that this second Amendment filing would be expedited. After filing, GCFM found no one at the USCIS California Service Center to listen to their business concerns regarding the necessity of expediting the Amendment request. Despite USCIS Headquarters statements regarding expediting the second Expansion Amendment filing, GCFM had no significant contact with the USCIS California Service Center for two months. Upon follow-up with the California Service Center, GCFM was extremely surprised to learn that the Expansion Amendment would not be expedited but given a normal protracted process.

This continuing delay in approval of the Expansion Amendment is costing the Commonwealth ten jobs a day and has adversely affected private investment as well as GTA. GCFM's investors have understandable qualms about placing their hard earned money into the project when GCFM is facing uncertainty about the approval of the Expansion Amendment. Further, without this approval from USCIS, GTA cannot know whether it should plan on enlarging its Mississippi facility or plan on building a hybridization power train plant in Virginia. The urgency is further compounded by the fact that summer and fall are the only viable construction season in Virginia and Mississippi. As summer is nearly here, any further delay in approving the Expansion Amendment will in turn delay GTA products roll out by one year, which significantly and negatively affects the company's market position in a fiercely competitive auto market.

GCFM has diligently adhered to the requisite channels of communication with USCIS to no avail and we write as a last resort to ensure the Commonwealth continues to experience a positive employment[1] trend in these difficult economic times. There is no intention to give pressure to the reviewing officials at USCIS California Service Center. However, GCFM is eager to create the much-needed jobs in Virginia and both GTA and GCFM are time pressed by the necessities to finalize its construction plan and hopefully start the construction this year.

Sussex County understands and very much appreciates your support of GCFM's expansion by sending a supportive letter to the Secretary of Homeland Security earlier this year. Now Sussex County asks that you again please speak with the Secretary of Homeland Security about expediting approval for GCFM's Expansion Amendment to cover Virginia. This approval will allow GTA to create much-needed employment opportunity in the Commonwealth.

Sincerely,

George E. Morrison, III
Deputy County Administrator

[1] Virginia reported a statistically significant over-the-month unemployment rate increase in March, up 0.2% from February 2010; the unemployment rate remains at 7.4%. See U.S. Dept. of Labor, Bureau of Labor Stats, Economic News Release, Regional and State Employment and Unemployment Summary, March 2010 10:00 a.m. (EDT) Friday, April 16, 2010 http://www.bls.gov/news.release/laus.nr0.htm

Detailed Summary of Communication with USCIS

Gulf Coast Funds Management ("GFCM") was approved by United States Citizen and Immigration Services ("USCIS") as an EB-5 Regional Center in August of 2008. USCIS approved GFCM for the states of Louisiana and Mississippi. GreenTech Automotive ("GreenTech") is GFCM's sole investment project and is the largest EB-5 project in the United States. Louisiana and Mississippi lack economically feasible transportation hubs to receive raw materials and store GreenTech's finished product. To remedy this problem, GreenTech first planned to build an assembly facility for its hybridization system and power train in Virginia, to benefit from the deep-sea ports in Norfolk, and later planned to secure warehouse space in Tennessee, near the Memphis transportation hub for fed-ex and ample warehouses. Since neither Virginia nor Tennessee was covered by USCIS's initial Regional Center approval, GCFM sought to file an Expansion Amendment to allow EB-5 investment in these states. Before filing, GCFM spoke with then-current USCIS Deputy Chief for Service Center Operations, Robert Kruszka, to determine if the Expansion Amendment could only be granted for states contiguous to the already approved Regional Center.

Mr. Kruszka stated that approval of an Expansion Amendment did not require that the situs of expansion be contiguous with an already approved EB-5 Regional Center. Based on this conversation, GCFM filed an Expansion Amendment for Virginia in January, planning on filing one for Tennessee later on. The Amendment was subsequently denied because of a USCIS policy that Expansion Amendments are only granted in locales contiguous to the Regional Center. Kruszka's conversations with GFCM explicitly denied this requirement. Further, the requirement is not present in any EB-5 statutory language. Upon receiving the denial, and under instruction from USCIS headquarters, GCFM re-filed the Expansion Amendment in February and included Tennessee in the expansion area to satisfy the contiguity requirement. To make up for time lost on the initial incorrect filing, GCFM spoke with Mr. Kruszka about expediting the Amendment. Mr. Kruszka said he would expedite the approval process. After two months, GCFM contacted USCIS to follow-up with the Amendment request. GCFM was informed that the Amendment could not be expedited and that Mr. Kruszka was no longer Deputy Chief of Service Center Operations.

Approval of GCFM's Expansion Amendment is still pending leaving GreenTech in limbo regarding construction of a new hybridization power train plant. Weather permits construction in Mississippi and Virginia only during the summer and fall. GCFM must give GreenTech a firm answer from USCIS or risk further delaying their expansion plans and jeopardizing the EB-5 investor's contributions. Both Louisiana and Mississippi were two of the regions most affected by the economic downturn and are still rapidly loosing jobs as a result of the delay in approval.[2]

[2] Mississippi jobless rate increase from March 2009 was 2.6 points. As of March 2010, Mississippi has an 11.5% unemployment rate. Louisiana has a 6.9% unemployment rate as of March 2010. See id.

In addition to the basic general proposal and amendments, the Regional Center Proposal and/or Amendment may now be approved to include two optional requests, review of the enterprise's organization and operational documents and/or a specific investment project. While a planned specific investment project may be included in the proposal or amendment for review, hypothetical or actual business plans must be included for each industry cluster for the reasons explained later in this request. Thus, documentation submitted in support of the Regional Proposal or Amendment may be grouped into two categories, mandatory, required for the basic general proposal or amendment, and optional, needed for the two options.

The Immigrant Investor Pilot Program

8 CFR 204.6 (m)(3) describes specific evidence that must be submitted before consideration for eligibility for this benefit may proceed. After review of the amendment in the light of these requirements, the following information, evidence or clarification is needed to proceed.

It is always best to start with a cover letter that acts as an executive summary followed by a table of contents of the various tabbed sections to follow.

The Regional Center

This request is seeking to amend the geographic area to add the State of Tennessee and the Tobacco dependent counties of the Commonwealth of Virginia to the current focus area of the States of Mississippi and Louisiana. In addition, they have requested that the industrial scope be expanded to include manufacturing, education and training, research and development, and wholesale trade. The current approved Proposal and its Amendment includes shipbuilding, food processing plants and manufacturing plants. While not specifically requested by the Center, it also appears that the Center is requesting that the industrial clusters of warehousing, transportation and truck transportation be added to support their proposed transportation hub in Memphis, Tn. The investment activities will also be expanded to include debt and mezzanine debt investments along with the equity investments currently approved.

Currently, the Center is primarily engaged in equity investment of EB-5 funds in the construction and development of an automotive manufacturing and car parts facilities for the production of hybrid and other "green" automotive products. The Regional Center wishes to expand its coverage, to include building an automotive park and assembly plant somewhere in the southern or southwestern counties of Virginia, and developing a warehouse and logistic center in the Memphis, TN area.

Promotion of Economic Growth within the selected Geographic Area (8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(i)):

8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(i) requires that a proposal be submitted which:

> Clearly describes how the regional center focuses on a geographical region of the United States, and how it will promote economic growth through improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment;

Submit documentation, such as an economic analysis showing how the newly expanded Regional Center will promote economic growth through improved productivity, job creation and increased capital investment with-in the newly designated Region. Aspects of this element of the proposal may be combined with other issues listed below in a single economic analysis and job creation model.

Regional or National impact of the Regional Center (8 CFR 204.6 (m)(3)(iv)):

Regulations at 8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(iv) require that the proposal contain:

> ...a detailed prediction regarding the manner in which the regional center will have a positive impact on the regional or national economy in general as reflected by such factors as increased household earnings, greater demand for business services, utilities, maintenance and repair, and construction both within and without the regional center;

Because of the major proposed geographic expansion and new industrial clusters are to be added, provide an updated prediction, which includes the topics of regional or national impact on household earnings, greater demand for business services, utilities, maintenance and repair, and construction both within and outside the Regional Center. The analysis should not make vague references to national regional economic impacts but should provide actual monetary predictions and address the elements listed in USCIS regulations. The analysis should discuss the impact of the additional industrial clusters as well as the expanded geographical area.

Indirect Job Creation (8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(ii)):

Under the provisions of the INA which apply to the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program and specific amendments to the statute, especially in the 2002 amendment Per Public Law 107-273, enacted November 2, 2002, which clearly states:

> A regional center shall have jurisdiction over a limited geographic area, which shall be described in the proposal and consistent with the purpose of concentrating pooled investment in defined economic zones. The establishment of a regional center may be based on general predictions, contained in the proposal, concerning the kinds of commercial enterprises that will receive capital from aliens, the jobs that will be created directly or indirectly as a result of such capital investments and the other positive economic effects such capital investments will have.

Also 8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(ii) requires you to:

> Provide in verifiable detail how jobs will be created indirectly;

In addition, INA 203(b)(5)(B)(i) states:

> (B) Set-aside for targeted employment areas.-
> > (i) In general. - Not less than 3,000 of the visas made available under this paragraph in each fiscal year shall be reserved for qualified immigrants who invest in a new commercial enterprise described in subparagraph (A) which will create employment in a targeted employment area.

It is imperative to fully explain indirect job creation, as well as the direct and induced jobs, if any. The requirement of creating at least 10 new full-time (35 hours per week) jobs per each individual alien investor may be satisfied by showing that, as a result of the investment and the activities of the new enterprise, at least 10 jobs per alien investor will be created directly or indirectly through an employment creation multiplier effect. The econometric model describe in the case is IMPLAN, a model that has been previously approved for your center

Submit an Econometric Analysis along with the IMPLAN model that shows and describes job creation for each additional industrial cluster. The additional clusters identified are manufacturing, education and training, research and development, wholesale trade, warehousing, transportation and truck transportation. For each industrial cluster described in the economic analysis, list the actual job creating activities. The analysis must clearly show the inputs to the model, and the calculations used to determine the jobs that will be created.

To support the econometric analysis submit either a hypothetical investment plan or an actual investment plan for a specific proposed project for each industry project type to show how an investment project will be capitalized and operated in a manner that will create 10 direct and indirect jobs per alien investor. For multiple industries a combination of hypothetical and actual plans may be submitted. The plan must clearly identify how the investor funds will flow to the job creating entity and how the jobs will be created.

Proposed Investment Plans

While the amendment describes an investment plan that is clearly intended to be an actual investment plan, it lacks key elements to qualify as a detailed business plan and as such only qualifies as a hypothetical investment plan. The plan identifies three sites for automotive development; Mississippi, the tobacco counties of Virginia, and Tennessee. However, the plan fails to identify the total costs of development at each site, the number of proposed EB-5 investors, the source of other financing, the estimated number of direct jobs that will be created each year at each site from 2012 to the estimated date each facility will be fully operational, to list the permits and licenses needed for construction and operation of the facilities, to estimate construction time frames such as architectural design time and construction permits times. Without such details, the plan at best qualifies as a hypothetical plan for the Mississippi and Virginia sites. If you wish to have the Mississippi and Virginia sites approved as Actual Investment Plans, as opposed to hypothetical plans, provide a detailed business plan for each location, as well as a hypothetical I-526.

In regards to the Tennessee site, besides lacking a detailed business plan to qualify as an approved investment plan, it lacks an econometric analysis of job creation as a Warehouse and Transportation hub. Therefore, provide an econometric analysis of the transportation hub, and if you wish it to be approved as an actual investment plan, also provide a detailed business plan for the warehouse and transportation hub, as well as a hypothetical I-526.

In addition, as the proposed projects presume that the investors will be eligible for the reduced minimum investment amount of $500, 000, a preliminary determination that the Virginia and Tennessee sites will be located in an area that qualifies as a Targeted Employment Area (TEA) must be rendered.

Targeted Employment Areas:

8 CFR Section 204.(6)(j) discusses the requirements for designation of a Targeted Employment Area:

> (6) If applicable, to show that the new commercial enterprise has created or will create employment in a targeted employment area, the petition must be accompanied by:

(i) In the case of a rural area, evidence that the new commercial enterprise is principally doing business within a civil jurisdiction not located within any standard metropolitan statistical area as designated by the Office of Management and Budget, or within any city or town having a population of 20,000 or more as based on the most recent decennial census of the United States; or

(ii) In the case of a high unemployment area:

(A) Evidence that the metropolitan statistical area, the specific county within a metropolitan statistical area, or the county in which a city or town with a population of 20,000 or more is located, in which the new commercial enterprise is principally doing business has experienced an average unemployment rate of 150 percent of the national average rate; or

(B) A letter from an authorized body of the government of the state in which the new commercial enterprise is located which certifies that the geographic or political subdivision of the metropolitan statistical area or of the city or town with a population of 20,000 or more in which the enterprise is principally doing business has been designated a high unemployment area. The letter must meet the requirements of 8 CFR 204.6(i).

The amendment indicates that the Virginia auto park will be located somewhere near an ocean seaport; however the specific location has not been identified. This is crucial as the proposed Tobacco Dependent Areas of Virginia includes some counties that are located within Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSA), some cities outside of the MSA with populations greater than 20,000 and some areas that may be classified as rural. While evidence has been provided showing that within some of the MSA counties and cities with potential populations greater than 20,000 may have areas that qualify as High Unemployment areas, population figures for cities outside of MSA Areas have not been provided. With the lack of specific location for the proposed investment and the lack of population figures if the site is to be located in city of 20,000 or a rural area, USCIS can not determine if the proposed location qualifies as a Targeted Employment Area.

In regard to the proposed transportation hub, similar problems exist. Memphis is a Metropolitan Statistical area that as a whole does not qualify as a High Unemployment Area. Without a specific location including the address and census track of the transportation hub, the record fails to establish that the Transportation Hub will be located in a Targeted Employment Area.

Therefore, submit evidence that the proposed auto park and the proposed transportation hub will be located either in a qualifying High Employment Area or will be located in a Rural Area. If the proposed areas will be located in a High Employment Area provide evidence of its address and census track or if it will be located in a city with a population greater than 20,000, provide its address, census track and population figures for the city. If the proposed area will be located in a Rural County outside metropolitan areas provide U. S Census population figures for the cities in that county. Failure to submit such documentation may result in the determination that the minimum investment amount for each investor using your proposed investment plan(s) will be $1million.

Note: For aliens requesting the reduced threshold of $500,000 based upon an investment in Targeted Employment area, the alien must, when filing a regional center affiliated I-526, establish at the time of filing that the investment either will be made in TEA designated area or was in a TEA designated area at the time of the alien's initial investment into the enterprise. Any determination of TEA designation at the Regional Center Proposal level is not final and should not be relied on to establish eligibility at the Immigrant Investor Petition level.

Also Note: When calculating the unemployment rate, the state must use either:

(1) the most recent calendar year that covers the alien's initial investment date or
(2) the most recent 12 month period that covers the alien's initial investment date.

Regional Center's Operational Plan (8 CFR 204.6(m) and 8 CFR 204.6):

In addition the Regional Center Operational plan must address the following areas:

- Regional Center's Operational Plan: Recruitment and Promotional Efforts:
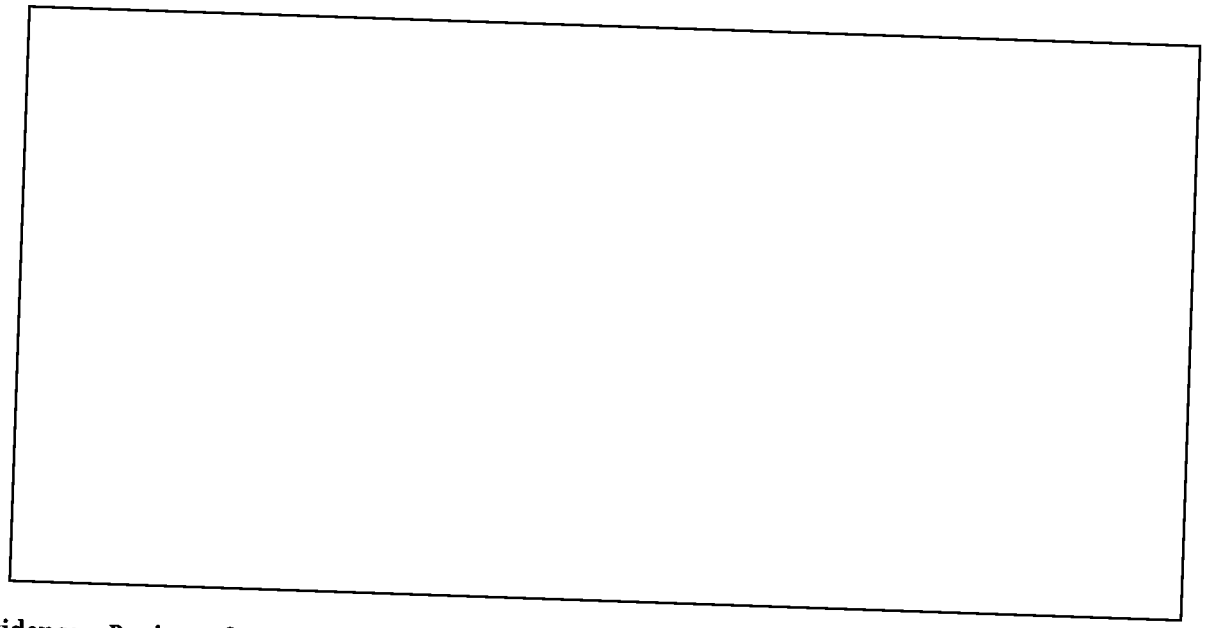
  - Under 8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(iii), USCIS interprets the words "promotional efforts" to mean an advertising or marketing program planned by the sponsors of the Regional Center that is designed to attract immigrant investors to the Regional Center. Regional Center proposals require a full description of the past, current and future promotional activities for the Regional Center.

(b)(4)



Optional Evidence – Review of the commercial enterprise's organizational documents

USCIS has reviewed the documents listed below to determine if they are in compliance with EB-5 eligibility requirements. While no adverse factors have been found, as the documents are samples only, this review can only advise the Regional Center of any potential problems. Because, they are samples only, the organizational documents may not be specifically approved for use at the I-526 level.

- Operating Agreement
- Management Agreement
- Subscription Agreement
- Escrow Agreements and Instructions (one for capital and one for any service fees).
- List of proposed reputable financial institutions to serve as the Escrow Agent(s).
- Confidential Private Placement

As the GTA Automotive Investment Fund A-1 has not yet been formed, the its organizational documents have not been reviewed.

If you wish to submit final versions of these documents, the documents should clearly show an edition date so that future changes and amendments can be clearly identified by all parties, the Regional Center, the entrepreneurs, the enterprises, their attorneys and USCIS.

This Notice is in reference to the request by Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC. to Amend its Regional Center Proposal. That amendment was filed on February 22, 2010, with the California Service Center, and denied on August 11, 2010. On September 10, 2010, Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC ("GCFM") filed a motion requesting that USCIS reopen and reconsider the decision to deny the amendment request. As noted on the motion decision, USCIS has granted the motion to reopen but denied the motion to reconsider. This decision will be certified to the Office of Administrative Appeals for their review.

Background:

On August 18, 2008, USCIS approved and designated GCFM as a Regional Center under the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program ("Pilot Program"). Currently the focus of the GCFM-RC business plan and job creation analysis and multipliers is to generate immigrant investor capital into the following target industry commercial enterprise activities within Mississippi and Louisiana:

1. Shipbuilding;

2. Food Processing; and

3. Manufacturing.

As such, aliens seeking immigrant visas through the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program may file individual petitions with USCIS for these commercial enterprises located within the GCFM-RC area comprised of the states of Mississippi and Louisiana. The Gulf Coast Funds Management Regional Center requested USCIS to amend its designation as a Regional Center for the purpose of expanding their industrial scope to include: manufacturing; education and training; research and development; and wholesale trade. The Center also requested permission to add the State of Tennessee and the Tobacco dependent counties of the Commonwealth of Virginia to the current focus area of the States of Mississippi and Louisiana.

As part of the requested amendment GCFM is seeking authorization to offer capital investment opportunities to immigrant investors in order to invest in limited liability companies (LLCs) as the new commercial enterprise, the first one being GTA Automotive Investment Fund I, LLC (GTAAIF I)[1]. Through GTAAIF I the Regional Center plans to offer investment "Units" only to non-resident investors with a subscription price of (b)(4) $500,000 of which will be the EB-5 investment capital investment. According to page two of GTAAIF I's sample Offering Memorandum, (b)(4) of the subscription price will be transferred from GTAAIF I to the prospective job-creating entities, WM GreenTech Automotive Corp. (WMGTA) or GreenTech Automotive, Inc. (GTAI) as an administrative fee which will be used to "pay legal and other administrative fees associated with marketing the Units world-wide." According to the Business Expansion Plan, dated February 1, 2010, GTAI was incorporated in Mississippi, and WMGTA was incorporated in Virginia. The business plan refers to the corporations as "GTA", collectively. The investment units are to be used by GTAAIF to purchase shares of preferred stock in either WMGTA or GTAI, to construct and operate a hybrid car automotive plant, predominantly building the parts in the Virginia plant (WMGTA) and then assembling the parts in the Mississippi plant (GTAI). A transportation hub/warehouse will be constructed and will operate in Shelby County, TN, which is in close proximity to the MS plant.

[1] A review of the GCFM website shows that GCFM is currently promoting investments in GTAI through an entity called Gulf Coast Automotive Fund A-1, which is within the geographic area (MS & LA) which is the GCFM's current geographic scope. http://www.gulfcoastfunds.com/investmentfunds/automotivefund/index.html

The request to amend the proposal was denied because the amendment failed to show that its focus will be on the newly defined geographical area in its entirety. The amendment was also denied because the impact prediction required under 8 C.F.R. 204.6(m)(3)(iii) did not establish the impact of the future Regional Center's activities on either the national or regional level. Based upon a review of the entire record, including the documentation and arguments submitted in support of the motion, the Regional Center still has failed to demonstrate that it will in fact focus on the entire geographic area of the regional center.

Description of how the Regional Center will focus on the geographical area

Section 610 of the Departments of Commerce, Justice and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 1993, Pub. L. 102-395, as amended, provides:

> (a) Of the visas otherwise available under section 203(b)(5) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1153(b)(5)), the Secretary of State, together with the Secretary of Homeland Security, shall set aside visas for a pilot program to implement the provisions of such section. Such pilot program shall involve a regional center in the United States, designated by the Secretary of Homeland Security on the basis of a general proposal, for the promotion of economic growth, including increased export sales, improved regional productivity, job creation, or increased domestic capital investment. A regional center shall have jurisdiction over a limited geographic area, which shall be described in the proposal and consistent with the purpose of concentrating pooled investment in defined economic zones. The establishment of a regional center may be based on general predictions, contained in the proposal, concerning the kinds of commercial enterprises that will receive capital from aliens, the jobs that will be created directly or indirectly as a result of such capital investments, and the other positive economic effects such capital investments will have.

8 CFR 204.6(m)(3) states, in pertinent part:

> (3) Requirements for regional centers. Each regional center wishing to participate in the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program shall submit a proposal to the Assistant Commissioner for Adjudications, which:
> (i) Clearly describes how the regional center focuses on a geographical region of the United States, and how it will promote economic growth through increased export sales [if any], improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment; (emphasis added).

(Emphasis added)

8 CFR 204.6(e) defines a Regional Center as follows:

Regional center

means any economic unit, public or private, which is involved with the promotion of economic growth, including increased export sales, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment.

(Emphasis added)

As indicated above, the statute provides that "a regional center shall have jurisdiction over a limited geographic area, which shall be described in the proposal and consistent with the purpose of concentrating pooled investment in defined economic zones." The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.6(m)(3) also provides that each regional center must describe "how the regional center focuses on a geographical region of the United States." Further, the regulation at 8 CFR 204.6(e) defines a Regional Center as an economic unit. The geographical limitation of the regional center was also emphasized in Matter of Izummi, 22 I&N Dec. 169,174 (Comm'r. 1998). Thus, the evidence to demonstrate that the requirement at 8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(i) has been met must be based on a single geographic region as defined in the proposal or amendment and must demonstrate also that the proposed geographical area functions as an economic unit.

The evidence of record discusses Sussex County Virginia, which is part of the Richmond Metropolitan Statistical Area ("MSA"), Shelby County Tennessee, part of the Memphis MSA and Tunica County Mississippi, which is also part of the Memphis MSA. It is significant that Shelby County Tennessee is nearly 900 miles from Sussex County Virginia and that the July 2010 analysis did not provide any narrative or documentary evidence to show that the large geographic area between these very distant counties will be the focus of the Regional Center's activities to any degree. Thus, the focus, as shown in the July 2010 analysis, of the Regional Center appears not to be on one geographic area, but on two distinct and unrelated areas; the Memphis MSA and the Richmond MSA.

It is the responsibility of the Regional Center to show that its activities will focus on the requested geographic region, and not simply on isolated and unrelated areas within the region. It appears that the addition of sections of the Commonwealth of Virginia and the entire State of Tennessee is being requested as an expanded geographic scope to the GCFM because the various components of the prospective automotive manufacturing project lend themselves to locations in Sussex County, VA (deep-sea port access, less humidity than MS, and trained technicians, etc.), Shelby County, TN (rail transportation hub, etc.), and Tunica County, MS (transportation, business-friendly environment, etc.) The prospective location of these manufacturing & transportation centers may be desirable from a production and distribution standpoint, but the amendment does not show how the GCFM is going to focus on the entire region as an economic unit, other than to link these locations together so that the geographic area of the Regional Center will be considered contiguous for EB-5 purposes.

For the foregoing reasons, GCFM has not demonstrated that the current and prospective activities of the Regional Center will focus on the proposed geographic area in a manner consistent with the statutory requirement that at a Regional Center have jurisdiction over a limited geographic area with the purpose of concentrating pooled investment in defined economic zones.

The Individual Alien's Investment Funds must be placed "at risk" - Redemption Agreement

Section 610(c) of the Departments of Commerce, Justice and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 1993, as amended, allows aliens admitted under the pilot program described in this section to establish reasonable methodologies for determining the number of jobs created by the pilot program, including jobs which are estimated to have been created indirectly through revenues generated from increased exports, improved regional productivity, job creation, or increased domestic capital investment resulting from the pilot program. 8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(ii) requires that a Regional Center proposal must provide in verifiable detail how jobs will be created indirectly. It is also noted in 8 CFR 204.6(m)(1) in pertinent part that except as provided herein, aliens seeking to obtain immigration benefits under this paragraph continue to be subject to all conditions and restrictions set forth in section 203(b)(5) of the Act and this section.

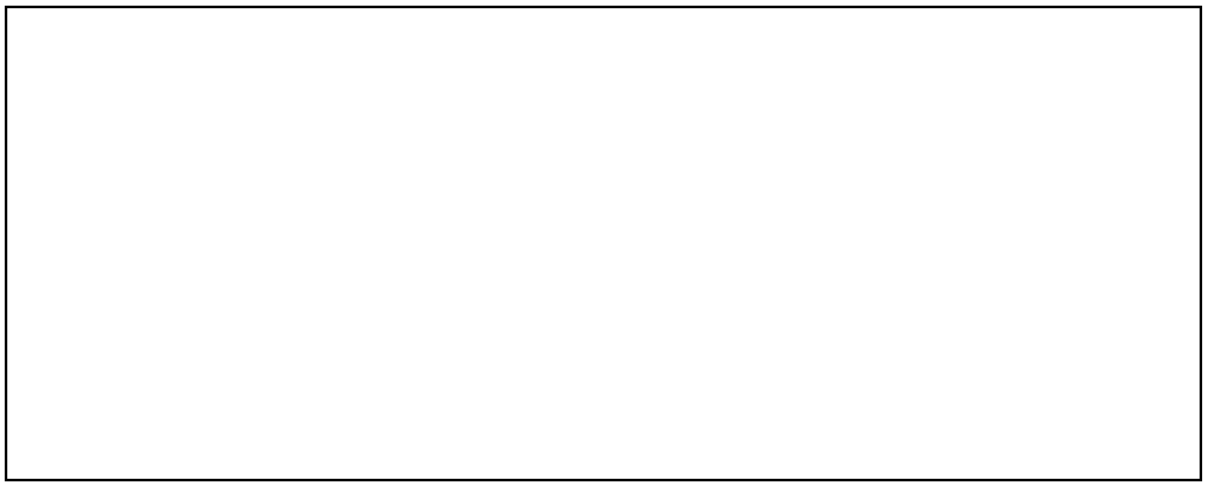
8 C.F.R. 204.6(j)(2) states in part:

> To show that the petitioner has invested or is actively in the process of investing the required amount of capital, the petition must be accompanied by evidence that the petitioner has placed the required amount of capital at risk for the purpose of generating a return on the capital placed at risk.

In Matter of Izummi, 22 I&N Dec. 169 (Assoc. Comm., 1998), the Service found that an alien "may not enter into a redemption agreement with the new commercial enterprise at any time prior to completing all of his cash payments" or "enter into a redemption agreement prior to the end of the two year period of conditional residence."

For an alien's money to be truly at risk, the alien cannot enter into a partnership knowing in advance that s/he already has a willing buyer for his/her shares in the partnership. Nor is the investment at risk if the alien can be assured s/he will receive a certain price for his/her shares in the partnership. An investment assumes that a risk exists. The alien must go into the investment not knowing for sure if s/he will be able to sell that interest at all after obtaining unconditional permanent resident status; and if the alien is successful in selling the interest, the sale price will be determined in an open market. This way, the alien risks both gain and loss.

(b)(4)



In light of the above, it appears that the plan for the return of the immigrant investors' capital involves a de facto redemption agreement.

The Regional Center activities must be consistent with the purpose of concentrating pooled investments.

Section 610(a) of P.L. 102-395 as amended by P.L. 107-273 describes the statutory basis for eligibility as a Regional Center

a) Of the visas otherwise available under section 203(b)(5) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1153(b)(5)), the Secretary of State, together with the Attorney General, shall set aside visas > for a pilot program to implement the provisions of such section. Such pilot program shall involve a regional center in the United States, designated by the Secretary of Homeland Security on the basis of a general proposal, for the promotion of economic growth, including increased export sales, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment. A regional center shall have jurisdiction over a limited geographic area, which shall be described in the proposal and consistent with the purpose of concentrating pooled investment in defined economic zones. The establishment of a regional center may be based on general predictions, contained in the proposal, concerning the kinds of commercial enterprises that will receive capital from aliens, the jobs that will be created directly or indirectly as a result of such capital investments and the other positive economic effects such capital investments will have...

Thus, section 610(a) of the Pilot Immigration program requires that the regional center proposal be consistent with the purpose of concentrating pooled investments.

(b)(4)

Immigrant Investor Engagement in the Management of the New Commercial Enterprise

8 CFR 204.6(j)(5) states:

> To show that the petitioner is or will be engaged in the management of the new commercial enterprise, either through the exercise of day-to-day managerial control or through policy formulation, as opposed to maintaining a purely passive role in regard to the investment, the petition must be accompanied by:
> (i) A statement of the position title that the petitioner has or will have in the new enterprise and a complete description of the position's duties;
>
> (ii) Evidence that the petitioner is a corporate officer or a member of the corporate board of directors; or
> (iii) If the new enterprise is a partnership, either limited or general, evidence that the petitioner is engaged in either direct management or policy making activities. For purposes of this section, if the petitioner is a limited partner and the limited partnership agreement provides the petitioner with certain rights, powers, and duties normally granted to limited partners under the Uniform Limited Partnership Act, the petitioner will be considered sufficiently engaged in the management of the new commercial enterprise.

(b)(4)

practice, USCIS has recognized that as long at an EB-5 immigrant investor has been granted the normal rights and responsibilities provided for under the jurisdiction of the LLC's organization that this eligibility requirement will be met. The following is noted on page 6 of the sample GTA Automotive Investment Fund 1, LLC Operating Agreement, Article VI (6.3(b)):

> This Section 6.3 supersedes any authority granted to the members pursuant to the Law.

This provision in the sample operating agreement seems to imply that immigrant investors will not be granted the normal rights and responsibilities provided for under the law in the jurisdiction of the LLC's organization, and thus this provision may not be EB-5 compliant. Additionally, the other provisions within the operating agreement do not appear to provide the immigrant investor with rights and responsibilities that are comparable to those referenced in 8 CFR 204.6(j)(5)(iii).

Therefore this amendment is again denied for the reasons cited above. However, because of the complexity of the issues involved, this decision is certified to the AAO in accordance with 8 CFR 103.4.

EMPLOYMENT CREATION IMMIGRANT VISA (EB-5) PROGRAM RECOMMENDATIONS

March 18, 2009

The Citizenship and Immigration Services Ombudsman, established by the Homeland Security Act of 2002, provides independent analysis of problems encountered by individuals and employers interacting with U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, and proposes changes to mitigate those problems.

I. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Citizenship and Immigration Services Ombudsman (Ombudsman) has reviewed the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) policies and processes concerning the Employment Creation EB-5 immigrant visa,[1] and formed several recommendations that USCIS should implement to stabilize and energize the program.

In passing employment creation legislation, Congress sought to attract entrepreneurial immigrants to the United States who would invest capital to create jobs for U.S. workers, and thereby stimulate the economy.[2]

Congress allocates approximately 10,000 immigrant visas per year to the EB-5 category (including derivative visas for the spouses and minor children of investors), although less than 1,000 visas are used annually.[3] This underutilization is caused by a confluence of factors, including program instability, the changing economic environment, and more inviting immigrant investor programs offered by other countries.

In recognition of the present turmoil in the U.S. economy, it is incumbent upon USCIS to take all necessary and appropriate steps to facilitate a healthy, vigorous, and smooth-running employment creation immigrant visa program.

For these reasons, the Ombudsman recommends that USCIS:

1. Finalize regulations to implement the special 2002 EB-5 legislation which offers a certain subgroup[4] of EB-5 investors a pathway to cure deficiencies in their previously submitted petitions.

2. Issue Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) for Form I-526 (Immigrant Petition by Alien Entrepreneur) and Form I-829 (Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions) that specifically direct EB-5 adjudicators to not reconsider or re-adjudicate the indirect job creation methodology in Regional Center cases, absent clear error or evidence of fraud.

3. Designate more EB-5 Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) decisions as precedent/adopted decisions to provide stakeholders, investors, and adjudicators a better understanding of the application of existing USCIS regulations to given factual circumstances.

4. Engage in formal rulemaking to further develop rules that will promote stakeholder and investor confidence as well as predictability in adjudicatory processes.

5. Form an inter-governmental advisory group to consult on domestic business, economic, and labor considerations relevant to EB-5 adjudications.

6. Offer a Special Handling Package option to EB-5 investors for faster adjudication of Forms I-526, I-829, and related applications for a higher fee.

7. "Prioritize" the review and processing of all Regional Center EB-5 related petitions and applications to foster the immediate creation and preservation of jobs.[5]

8. Establish a program to promote the EB-5 program overseas in coordination with the U.S. Departments of State and Commerce.

II. BACKGROUND

Purpose and Terms of the EB-5 Program

Pursuant to INA § 203(b)(5), Congress established the fifth employment-based (EB-5) preference category in 1990 for immigrants seeking to enter the United States to engage in a commercial enterprise that will benefit the U.S. economy and directly create[6] at least ten full-time jobs.[7] The minimum qualifying investment amount is $500,000 for commercial enterprises located within a rural area[8] (or targeted employment area),[9] and is otherwise $1,000,000.[10]

Congress allocated 10,000 immigrant visas annually for this employment-based preference category. Figure 1 depicts actual EB-5 usage from FY 1998 through FY 2007.

[6] A qualifying investment in a new commercial enterprise must create full-time employment for at least ten U.S. citizens, lawful permanent residents, or other immigrants lawfully authorized to be employed in the United States. INA § 203(b)(5)(a)(ii); 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(5)(A)(ii); see also 8 C.F.R. § 204.6(j)(4)(i) (2008). The investor and his/her immediate family, as well as lawful nonimmigrant employees, are excluded from the ten-person employment calculation. 8 C.F.R. § 204.6(e) (2008). Special rules also allow for making a qualifying investment where the investment serves to maintain jobs that might otherwise be lost in a troubled business (i.e., an existing business over two years old that has incurred a net loss exceeding 20 percent of its net worth during the 12 or 24 month period preceding a Form I-526 petition filing). 8 C.F.R. §§ 204.6(e), 204.6(j)(4)(i)(B)(ii) (2008).

A Senate Committee Report stated that the EB-5 provision was "intended to provide new employment for U.S. workers and to infuse new capital in the country, not to provide immigrant visas to wealthy individuals. . . ."[11]

The legislative history suggests that Congress anticipated that as many as 4,000 foreign investors and their families would seek U.S. lawful permanent residence (LPR or "green card" status), bringing in fresh investment funds totaling an estimated $4 billion and creating 40,000 jobs annually.[12]

Pilot Regional Center Program

To encourage use of the EB-5 visa category, Congress established the Immigrant Investor Pilot Program in 1993 and set aside 3,000 of the allocated 10,000 visas for investors who invest within designated "regional centers."[13] This program eventually became referred to as the "Regional

[13] The original set-aside was 300 visas annually. See Departments of Commerce, Justice, State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriation Act of 1993, Pub. L. No. 102-395 (Oct. 6, 1992). In 1997, Congress increased the set-aside to 3,000 annually. See Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriation Act of 1998, Pub. L. No. 105-119 (Nov. 26, 1997). A "regional center" is defined as "any economic Center Pilot," and legislation was introduced in 2008 to make the Regional Center Pilot permanent.[14] Under the pilot, foreign investors can pool their investments into Regional Centers which make large investments that create jobs. Regional Center investors are permitted to demonstrate through "reasonable methodologies" that their investment resulted in the creation of ten or more direct or indirect jobs. More specifically, investors within EB-5 Regional Centers are permitted to use statistical formulas and models to demonstrate a correlation between their investment of capital into a specific business and indirect jobs created in other businesses within the greater community. In Regional Center cases, these indirectly generated jobs may be used to satisfy the job creation requirement.

According to the Congressional Research Service, the South Dakota International Business Institute's Dairy Economic Region program (SDIBI South Dakota Dairy) provides an EB-5 Regional Center story that illustrates how the successful implementation of an EB-5 program can positively impact a community.[15] Approved in June 2005, the SDIBI South Dakota Dairy program attracted more than 60 immigrant investors who infused approximately $30 million into the South Dakota economy. Their combined investment was leveraged to secure approximately $90 million in bank financing for various dairy investment projects. These EB-5 investments directly created 240 jobs. Using RIMS II[16] modeling to predict the correlation between monies invested and employment creation, the combined investment also is credited with generating an additional 638 indirectly-created jobs, and over $360 million in additional funds to the region.[17]

According to the SDIBI South Dakota Dairy Director, the "paramount" EB-5 program issue is whether "USCIS [has] sufficient resources to quickly adjudicate EB-5 immigrant visa petitions. If the adjudication process is too long . . . the opportunity cost may make a South Dakota dairy investment unappealing to foreign investors."[18] Similar sentiments were expressed to the unit, public or private, which is involved with the promotion of economic growth, including increased export sales, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment." 8 C.F.R. § 204.6(e) (2008).

[14] See S. 2751, a Senate bill co-sponsored by Senators Patrick Leahy (D-VT) and Arlen Specter (R-PA) on March 12, 2008. Although the EB-5 Regional Center Pilot program was not made permanent in the 110th Congress, bipartisan support did exist to ensure that the pilot did not expire at the end of the 2008 fiscal year. A short extension of the Regional Center Pilot (through March 6, 2009) was thus included in the Consolidated Security, Disaster Assistance, and Continuing Appropriations Act, 2009, Pub. L. No 110-329 (Sept. 30, 2008). Following passage of a five day extension, on March 11, 2009, President Obama signed the Omnibus Appropriations Act extending the EB-5 Regional Center Pilot sunset date to September 30, 2009. Accordingly, the 111th Congress may yet again take up the question of extending the pilot, or making the program permanent, later this year.

Ombudsman by other stakeholders. They emphasized that the EB-5 program generally, and the Regional Center Pilot particularly, needs stability and predictability to attract foreign investors.

Foreign Competition and Response

It is generally understood that in enacting the EB-5 provisions contained within the Immigration Act of 1990,[19] Congress intended to establish an immigrant investment program to rival those enacted by other countries, specifically Canada and Australia.[20] However, by the time the EB-5 program became law, Canada's Immigrant Investor program was in existence for four years (since 1986). See Figure 2 below for use of this program.

Under the Canadian program, foreign business persons establish eligibility by proving that they have "two years of business experience," a net worth of at least CDN $800,000, and by affirmatively expressing that they are willing to deposit CDN $400,000 into designated government guaranteed securities for a period of five years.[21] Unlike the EB-5 program, the

Rec. 17106, 112 (Oct. 26, 1990) (Senator Paul Simon (D-IL) arguing that the United States should "learn from and build upon the track record and experiences of Governments of Canada and Australia who have had great success in attracting talented people through their investor visa programs.")

Canadian Immigrant Investor program is a passive program: a qualifying investor is not required to open a business, or hire and manage employees. Rather, the investment itself is assumed to spur significant economic activity and create jobs.

Uncertainty Has Plagued the EB-5 Program From Its Inception

Initial delay in the issuance of EB-5 rules, followed by changes in interpretation of the rules, has led to uncertainty in the EB-5 program since inception.

Between 1993 and 1997, the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) issued General Counsel interpretive guidance on key legal issues, which was received favorably by several private sector companies specifically formed to develop investment project opportunities for EB-5 investors.

The number of EB-5 immigrant visas issued increased from 583 in FY 1993 to 1,361 visas in FY 1997. However, informal General Counsel guidance in the mid-1990s permitted investors to obtain status without actually committing their entire investment amount to the business.[22]

Concerns of insider access, suspicions of abuse, misrepresentation, and fraud surfaced in the mid-1990s at the same time that the EB-5 program was experiencing its most significant usage. Some of these concerns were later proven in a federal court case leading to convictions for immigration fraud, wire fraud, money laundering, and conspiracy against the principals and officers of an EB-5 investment business then operating as Interbank.[23] The defendants in the case attracted $21 million in investment funds from foreign investors who were seeking to lawfully obtain green card status through the EB-5 program. The fraudulent investment scheme involved the juggling of funds through an offshore financial institution, and the production and use of fake bank statements used in connection with underlying I-526 petitions filings. However, debt obligation to return the full CDN $400,000 in five years (without interest). Id. There has never been a governmental default on these obligations, and because of their reliability, Canadian financial institutions are willing to partially finance the required investment. See Jeffrey S. Lowe, "Canada's Immigrant Investor Program," Research Solutions (Dec. 2007). Interestingly, the qualifying investment may be delayed until as late as the eve of the date of visa issuance. See Citizenship and Immigration Canada "Operating Procedure Manual (OP 9 Investors)" at 9.2 (Aug. 8, 2008); www.cic.gc.ca (accessed Feb. 18, 2009). In the ten-year period between 1998 and 2007, according to Citizenship & Immigration Canada, 16,213 principal foreign nationals have invested in direct qualifying funds in Canada. See Citizenship & Immigration Canada Facts and Figures 2007: Immigration Overview—Permanent and Temporary Resident, p. 19; http://www.cic.gc.ca/english/resources/statistics/menu-fact.asp (accessed Feb. 5, 2009). Based on the total number of principal foreign nationals and the qualifying investment of CDN $400,000, Canada has benefited from CDN $6,485,200,000 through its Immigrant Investor program.

[22] See INS General Counsel Memorandum, "Sections 203(b)(5) (EB-5) and 216A of the Immigration and Nationality Act," HQCOU 70/6.1 & 70/9-P (Dec. 19, 1997). This 1997 Memorandum clarified and provided new guidance disallowing such practices.

none of the individual 216 EB-5 investors were found complicit in the fraud. In fact, most of the foreign investors suffered a total loss of their funds and were not granted green cards.[24]

In 1998, the USCIS Administrative Appeals Office (AAO)[25] issued four precedent decisions[26] that altered the previously issued guidance and substituted new and more restrictive interpretations of the law. These changes caused much concern among current and potential EB-5 investors, and introduced new and significant uncertainties into the EB-5 program.

Following issuance of the AAO's precedent decisions, EB-5 visa applications dropped dramatically. Between FY 1998 and FY 2008, USCIS had an average approval rate of approximately 44 percent, as shown in Figure 4 below.

Many potential investors decided not to go forward with their EB-5 investments and filings. In addition, USCIS took action to remove some existing investors from the United States based on the retroactive application of the principles set forth in the precedent decisions. While most investors lost legal challenges, one group of affected investors did successfully challenge the retroactive application of these decisions in one federal court. In reversing the denials, the court found:

> [Investors] relied on their understanding that their business and investment plans conformed to the requirements of EB-5. They sold businesses, uprooted from their homelands, and moved to the U.S.... [They] sought no guarantee of success, but a contingent promise that, if they held up their end of the bargain ... they would obtain LPR status promised by the EB-5 program. This was not unreasonable.... The reputation and integrity of the EB-5 program is ill-served by the proposition that INS approval of an I-526 petition as satisfying EB-5's requirements cannot be relied upon.[28]

[28] Chang v. U.S., 327 F.3d 911, 928-29 (9th Cir. 2003).

In 2002, the President signed special legislation that attempted to rectify the situation.[29] However, new regulations needed to implement this legislation remain outstanding, and these cases cannot be adjudicated until final rules are issued. As a result, approximately 700 investors, most of whom are at the condition removal stage, have had their immigration status placed on hold, some since 1995.[30] This long delay has adversely impacted these affected investors (and their derivative family members) who have been unable to fully integrate into the United States.

It is widely believed that the EB-5 program has never truly fulfilled Congress' expectations. Experts may differ on the cause, but citing to input from USCIS officials and immigration attorneys, a 2005 Government Accountability Office (GAO) report attributed:

> ... low participation to a series of factors that led to uncertainty among potential investors. These factors include an onerous application process; lengthy adjudication periods; and the suspension of processing of over 900 EB-5 cases -- some of which date to 1995 -- precipitated by a change in [USCIS'] interpretation of regulations regarding financial [qualifications.][31]

Citing the same GAO report, the Congressional Research Service's 2005 report to Congress on "Federal Investor Visas: Policies and Issues," stated that EB-5 visa underutilization can be traced to:

> [T]he rigorous nature of the LPR investor application process and qualifying requirements; the lack of expertise among adjudicators; uncertainty regarding adjudication outcomes; negative media attention on the LPR investor program; lack of clear statutory guidance; and lack of timely application processing and adjudication.[32]

In 2005, USCIS established an EB-5 unit at USCIS headquarters, the Investor and Regional Center Unit (IRCU),[33] and announced the agency's intention to re-invigorate the EB-5 program.[34] In the last few years, the EB-5 immigrant visa category has attracted the interest of high net-worth investors seeking to immigrate to the United States. USCIS reported to the Ombudsman that it received 1,257 Form I-526 petitions in FY 2008.

Despite a recent upswing in EB-5 filings, as discussed below, the Ombudsman has heard from stakeholders that USCIS' decision to consolidate EB-5 adjudications at the California Service Center (CSC)[35] has rekindled concerns within the EB-5 investor community.

Case Processing Procedures

To acquire an EB-5-based green card, an investor must first make a qualifying investment, and then file a Form I-526 petition (and supporting documents) with USCIS. Once the Form I-526 is approved, an investor who is in the United States in lawful nonimmigrant status may file a Form I-485 (Application to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status).[36] Upon approval of the Form I-485, the investor is afforded conditional lawful permanent resident status, which is valid for two years.

If the investor is outside the United States when the Form I-526 petition is approved, the U.S. Department of State's National Visa Center will process the EB-5 immigrant visa through the local U.S. consular post with jurisdiction over the place of residence. The EB-5 immigrant visa is used to enter the United States, which commences the two-year conditional lawful permanent resident status.

Regardless of whether the investor adjusted to conditional green card status while living in the United States, or acquired such status through consular processing, approximately 21 months later the investor must file a Form I-829 to remove the conditional status. In addition, petitioners must also provide supporting documents to establish that they have satisfied all EB-5 qualifying conditions. Upon approval, a new ten-year unconditional green card is issued.

Prior to October 1, 2008, EB-5 related Form I-526 and Form I-829 filings were divided between the Texas Service Center (TSC) and the CSC as part of USCIS' bi-specialization initiative. USCIS announced last year that beginning on October 1, 2008, all Form I-526 and I-829 petitions would be adjudicated at the CSC.[37]

[37] Supra note 35.

The Ombudsman met with EB-5 product line managers and adjudicators at the TSC and CSC in August 2008 regarding the scheduled consolidation of EB-5 adjudications at the CSC. At that time, there were two EB-5 adjudicators at the TSC, each with over ten years of experience. The Ombudsman learned that neither of these seasoned TSC EB-5 adjudicators would relocate to the CSC to continue work on EB-5 filings. However, these seasoned adjudicators trained ten CSC adjudicators who now supplement the EB-5 unit.

The CSC advised the Ombudsman that it expects the new complement of CSC EB-5 adjudicators to reduce processing times. Final transition of all EB-5 related adjudications and oversight to the CSC, including IRCU functions, occurred in January 2009.

Recent EB-5 Stakeholder Meetings and Feedback

Stakeholders advised the Ombudsman that they are concerned about delays in EB-5 processing times and the impact on existing investors. Specifically, some expressed concern[38] that adjudicators who are new to the complex EB-5 product line may seek to review previously settled guidance, or request new types of evidence from investors.[39]

USCIS met with an EB-5 regional center trade association group in Washington on September 22, 2008. There were four themes highlighted by EB-5 stakeholders at this meeting: program institutionalization, program enforcement, minimization of program risk, and a need to increase program predictability.

Stakeholders believe that USCIS should not re-adjudicate the indirect job creation methodology when reviewing individual Form I-526 and I-829 petitions. Since that meeting, USCIS advised the Ombudsman in December 2008 that the agency is continuing to review I-829s to determine if the originally presented methodology is valid and appropriate, and whether the projected jobs were created or will be created within two years.[40]

[38] These concerns were raised by individual stakeholders with the Ombudsman in informal discussions in the fall of 2008, and in an Ombudsman-hosted a public teleconference on September 26, 2008, "EB-5 Investor Visas: Opportunities and Challenges."

[39] In the past, the AAO has endorsed a "hypertechnical" review of certain issues, including source and path of funds. See Matter of [Redacted], EAC 98 229 50661, Vermont Service Center (AAO Jan. 18, 2005) ("'hypertechnical' requirements for establishing the lawful source of an investor's funds serve a valid government interest....") citing a Ninth Circuit decision, Spencer Enterprises, Inc., v. United States, 229 F. Supp. 2d 1025, 1040 (E.D. Cal. 2001), aff'd 345 F. 3d 683 (9th Cir. 2003).

[40] USCIS has sent mixed messages on the question of whether and when an EB-5 investor must prove that the qualifying Regional Center investment satisfied the law's job creation requirement. In an October 22, 2008, letter to Senator Patrick J. Leahy (D-VT), Chairman of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary, USCIS stated that a business plan that relies on an indirect job creation methodology, but does not forecast the generation of the jobs within the two-year period that an investor is afforded conditional LPR status, is insufficient. Yet the same letter, citing 8 C.F.R. § 216.6(a)(4)(iv) (2008), states that the regulations do allow some flexibility for USCIS to remove the conditions on an investor's LPR status based upon a showing that the forecasted "jobs will be created within a reasonable time." Note that the cited regulation concerns the adjudication of Form I-829 and in fact does not

III. ANALYSIS

Based upon the foregoing discussion, EB-5 program administration has historically lacked continuity. For the EB-5 program to realize its full potential, it is essential that USCIS establish a regulatory and administrative environment to promote investor confidence that the program can be relied upon.

Accordingly, the Ombudsman makes the following recommendations to USCIS:

1. Quickly Finalize the Special Legislation Regulations.

USCIS drafted proposed regulations to implement the EB-5 special legislation in 2002,[41] but these proposed rules remain in internal rulemaking review processes with the USCIS Office of Chief Counsel.[42] Adjudicators in the field indicate that they are ready to address these long-pending I-829 petitions to remove condition cases, but need final action on the regulations to move forward. Continued delay negatively impacts adjudicators and USCIS as a whole, as hours of customer service time are spent addressing congressional and direct customer inquiries on these cases. Finalization of these proposed regulations is overdue.

For these reasons, the Ombudsman recommends that USCIS finalize regulations to implement the special 2002 EB-5 legislation which offers a certain subgroup[43] of EB-5 investors a pathway to cure deficiencies in their previously submitted petitions.

2. Do Not Re-adjudicate the Job Creation Methodology Question.

USCIS should issue Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) for Form I-526 and Form I-829 adjudications that specifically instruct adjudicators that they are not to reexamine the job methodology issue. Repeat questioning, debate, and re-adjudication of complex economic models and analyses used to prove the ten full-time job creation requirement unnecessarily uses USCIS resources and results in adjudication delays. Eliminating this re-examination may result in increased speed and predictability in adjudications, and allow adjudicators more time to focus on other factual matters. The adoption of SOPs should yield greater regularity in process, and consequently, build confidence in EB-5 project developers and attract potential foreign national entrepreneurs.

specifically state that the investor must prove that the required jobs be created and filled within the two-year conditional LPR period initially granted to the EB-5 investor.

[41] Supra note 27.

[42] Information provided by USCIS to the Ombudsman (Jan. 30, 2008).

[43] This subgroup includes only those EB-5 investors whose Form I-526 petition was filed and/or approved between January 1, 1995 and August 31, 1998.

Developers and investors should be able to rely on the rules applicable at the time they make their investments and expect the government not to revisit those rules when it adjudicates their cases. Accordingly, once the agency reviews the indirect job methodology presented by a developer in its submission seeking USCIS designation as an approved Regional Center, the issue should be considered conclusively established, absent clear error or fraud.

For these reasons, the Ombudsman recommends that USCIS issue Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) for Form I-526 and Form I-829 that specifically direct EB-5 adjudicators to not reconsider or re-adjudicate the indirect job creation methodology in Regional Center cases, absent clear error or evidence of fraud.

3. Issue More EB-5 Precedent/Adopted[44] Decisions.

Although the EB-5 visa category and the Regional Center pilot program have been in existence for over 15 years, many key terms have not been clearly defined by USCIS. Such ambiguity contributes to entrepreneur anxiety and uncertainty about the program, and ultimately to underutilization of this visa category. AAO issuance of additional precedent/adopted decisions would clarify USCIS' interpretation of key EB-5 terms and policies within specific fact patterns, and assist the business community, investors, and EB-5 adjudicators. For example:

- Definition of Restructuring. Current regulations do not define what level of restructuring or reorganization is required to render the purchase of an existing business a "new enterprise" under the EB-5 provisions. The AAO has held that simply buying and changing the legal name and/or the legal form of the business entity alone is insufficient to qualify the business as a "new enterprise."

- Designation of High Unemployment Area and Effect of Later Changes in Unemployment Rate. Clarification is needed on which government office(s) is/are appropriate to designate an area as a qualified "high unemployment area." The EB-5 legislation permits a lower ($500,000) threshold investment in areas so defined. In addition, clarification is needed on what impact an improvement in the unemployment rate would subsequently have on an investor who invested in a formerly designated "high unemployment area." The lack of clarity in these matters might cause investors to avoid investing in areas which could otherwise benefit from an infusion of foreign capital and related job creation.

For these reasons, the Ombudsman recommends that USCIS designate more EB-5 Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) decisions as precedent/adopted decisions to provide stakeholders, investors, and adjudicators a better understanding of the application of existing USCIS regulations to given factual circumstances. The Ombudsman suggests that USCIS issue additional EB-5 precedent/adopted decisions as an interim measure until completion of formal rulemaking, as outlined in Recommendation #4 below.

[44] USCIS adopted decisions are AAO decisions that the USCIS Director proactively identifies and considers binding policy guidance on USCIS personnel, and must be followed in all cases involving similar issues. See generally Ombudsman Recommendation #20 (FR2005-20).

4. EB-5 Rulemaking Is Needed.

The time is ripe to take a fresh look at how USCIS can best implement congressional intent in establishing the EB-5 category.

Given that four significant EB-5 precedent decisions[45] effectively established extra-regulatory interpretations of law, the Ombudsman further recommends that USCIS initiate formal EB-5 rulemaking to advance a new set of rules to replace the combination of existing rules and controlling precedent decisions.[46]

By engaging in formal rulemaking, USCIS will have a chance to reinvigorate the EB-5 program.

For these reasons, the Ombudsman recommends that USCIS engage in formal rulemaking to further develop rules that will promote stakeholder and investor confidence as well as predictability in adjudicatory processes.

5. Form An EB-5 Advisory Group.

USCIS should form an EB-5 inter-governmental advisory group composed of selected representatives from the Departments of Commerce, Treasury, State, Labor, and possibly, the Small Business Administration. Without recommending that these agencies have any adjudicatory role in determining the merits of an application or petition, this group should meet regularly to consult with USCIS on Regional Center designations, and to address other business, economic, and labor issues which impact the EB-5 program.

Some of the specific matters which the inter-governmental advisory group could provide invaluable insight and assistance with include: the examination of Regional Center submissions for such designation, including the business plan; the financial instruments described; the designation of high unemployment areas; and the validity of "indirect job methodologies" advanced by EB-5 project developers. Additional issues might include: appropriate levels of due diligence related to program integrity; the availability and reasonableness of requesting particular financial documents and/or asset identification; and issues surrounding the path of funds.

[45] Supra note 26.

[46] To avoid further confusion or inequity, the regulations concerning new EB-5 filings should not be made retroactive.

For these reasons, the Ombudsman recommends that USCIS form an inter-governmental advisory group to consult on domestic business, economic, and labor considerations relevant to EB-5 adjudications.

6. Offer A Special Handling Processing Option To EB-5 Investors.

High net-worth individuals who are willing to risk in excess of $500,000 in an investment in the United States require program predictability. Such entrepreneurs frequently make significant financial decisions in a matter of hours or days, and existing EB-5 case processing timeframes simply do not mesh well with the pace of progress expected in the business world. The Ombudsman notes that this is not a new concern -- the time USCIS takes to adjudicate these filings has been regularly mentioned as a source of difficulty by stakeholders and investors. This issue was specifically raised by stakeholders during a public meeting with USCIS in Washington in September 2004. It also was the subject of an April 6, 2005, letter from House Judiciary Committee Chairman James Sensenbrenner to then USCIS Director Eduardo Aguirre, requesting that USCIS process EB-5 cases more quickly by instituting a premium processing option, as well allowing for concurrent filing.[47] The Ombudsman recognizes that it may be impractical for USCIS to institute the standard 15-day[48] premium processing $1,000 upgrade option[49] for these complex EB-5 filings. However, USCIS may formulate an appropriately priced specialized handling option that is operationally sound (e.g., 60 days).

For these reasons, the Ombudsman recommends that USCIS offer a Special Handling Package option to EB-5 investors for faster adjudication of Forms I-526, I-829, and related applications for a higher fee.

7. "Prioritize" Processing of Regional Center Related Filings.

Section 4 of the Basic Pilot Program Extension and Expansion Act of 2003 states: "[i]n processing [EB-5] petitions ... the Secretary of Homeland Security may give priority to petitions filed by aliens seeking admission under the pilot program...."[50] Timely adjudications are of critical importance to EB-5 investors. Given the current state of the U.S. economy, USCIS should exercise this discretion and "prioritize" Regional Center filings.

Additionally, as a matter of administrative discretion, the Ombudsman suggests that USCIS consider accelerating its review and adjudication of all new applications seeking Regional Center approval and designation. In these difficult times, many communities nationwide could benefit from investments in newly created Regional Centers.

---

[47] Supra note 15 at p. 26, citing to Chairman Sensenbrenner letter. "Concurrent filing" refers to the ability to simultaneously file Form I-485 along with Form I-526, rather than to file this form sequentially after the Form I-526 is approved. Existing regulations do not currently permit concurrent filing of these forms.
[48] 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(f) (2008).
[49] INA § 286(u); 8 U.S.C. § 1356(u).
[50] Supra note 5 (emphasis supplied).

For these reasons, the Ombudsman recommends that USCIS "prioritize" the review and processing of all Regional Center EB-5 related petitions and applications to foster the immediate creation and preservation of jobs.

8. Actively Promote the EB-5 Program.

Visible support by USCIS of the EB-5 program generally, and the Regional Center Pilot Program specifically, would send a strong signal to entrepreneurs, financiers, and stakeholders that the United States is open for business and intends to welcome immigrant investors. Sending such a signal, in coordination with its adoption of the other recommendations in this study, would likely encourage individuals and interests to look at the EB-5 program.

Just as corresponding immigration components in other countries actively promote their immigrant investor programs globally,[51] USCIS should actively support the U.S. EB-5 program.

For these reasons, the Ombudsman recommends that USCIS establish a program to promote the EB-5 program overseas in coordination with the U.S. Departments of State and Commerce.

IV. CONCLUSION

The underutilization of the EB-5 visa category is principally caused by significant regulatory and administrative obstacles, as well as by uncertainties that undermine investor and stakeholder confidence. Given current economic conditions, by adopting these recommendations USCIS will send a message that it accepts, understands, and will implement Congress' intention that the EB-5 program serve as an employment creation engine for our nation.

[51] Among others, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Poland, and the United Kingdom have investor programs that offer high net-worth individuals the opportunity for permanent resident status. Some are more active than others in terms of marketing. One of the most active is Canada, where the equivalent organization to USCIS, Citizenship & Immigration Canada (CIC), actively promotes and sponsors initiatives to strengthen its Immigrant Investor Program. In 2004, CIC reported that immigrant investors contributed CDN $211 million in funds that were used to create employment opportunities for Canadians. This Notice is in reference to the Request to Amend the Regional Center Proposal that was filed with the California Service Center, on February 22, 2010 seeking amendment designation as a Regional Center pursuant to Pilot Immigration Program under Section 610 of P.L. 102-395 and as amended by P.L. 107-273.

Section 610(a) of P.L. 102-395 as amended by P.L. 107-273 describes the statutory basis for eligibility as a Regional Center

a) Of the visas otherwise available under section 203(b)(5) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1153(b)(5)), the Secretary of State, together with the Attorney General, shall set aside visas for a pilot program to implement the provisions of such section. Such pilot program shall involve a regional center in the United States, designated by the Secretary of Homeland Security on the basis of a general proposal, for the promotion of economic growth, including increased export sales, improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment. A regional center shall have jurisdiction over a limited geographic area, which shall be described in the proposal and consistent with the purpose of concentrating pooled investment in defined economic zones. The establishment of a regional center may be based on general predictions, contained in the proposal, concerning the kinds of commercial enterprises that will receive capital from aliens, the jobs that will be created directly or indirectly as a result of such capital investments and the other positive economic effects such capital investments will have...

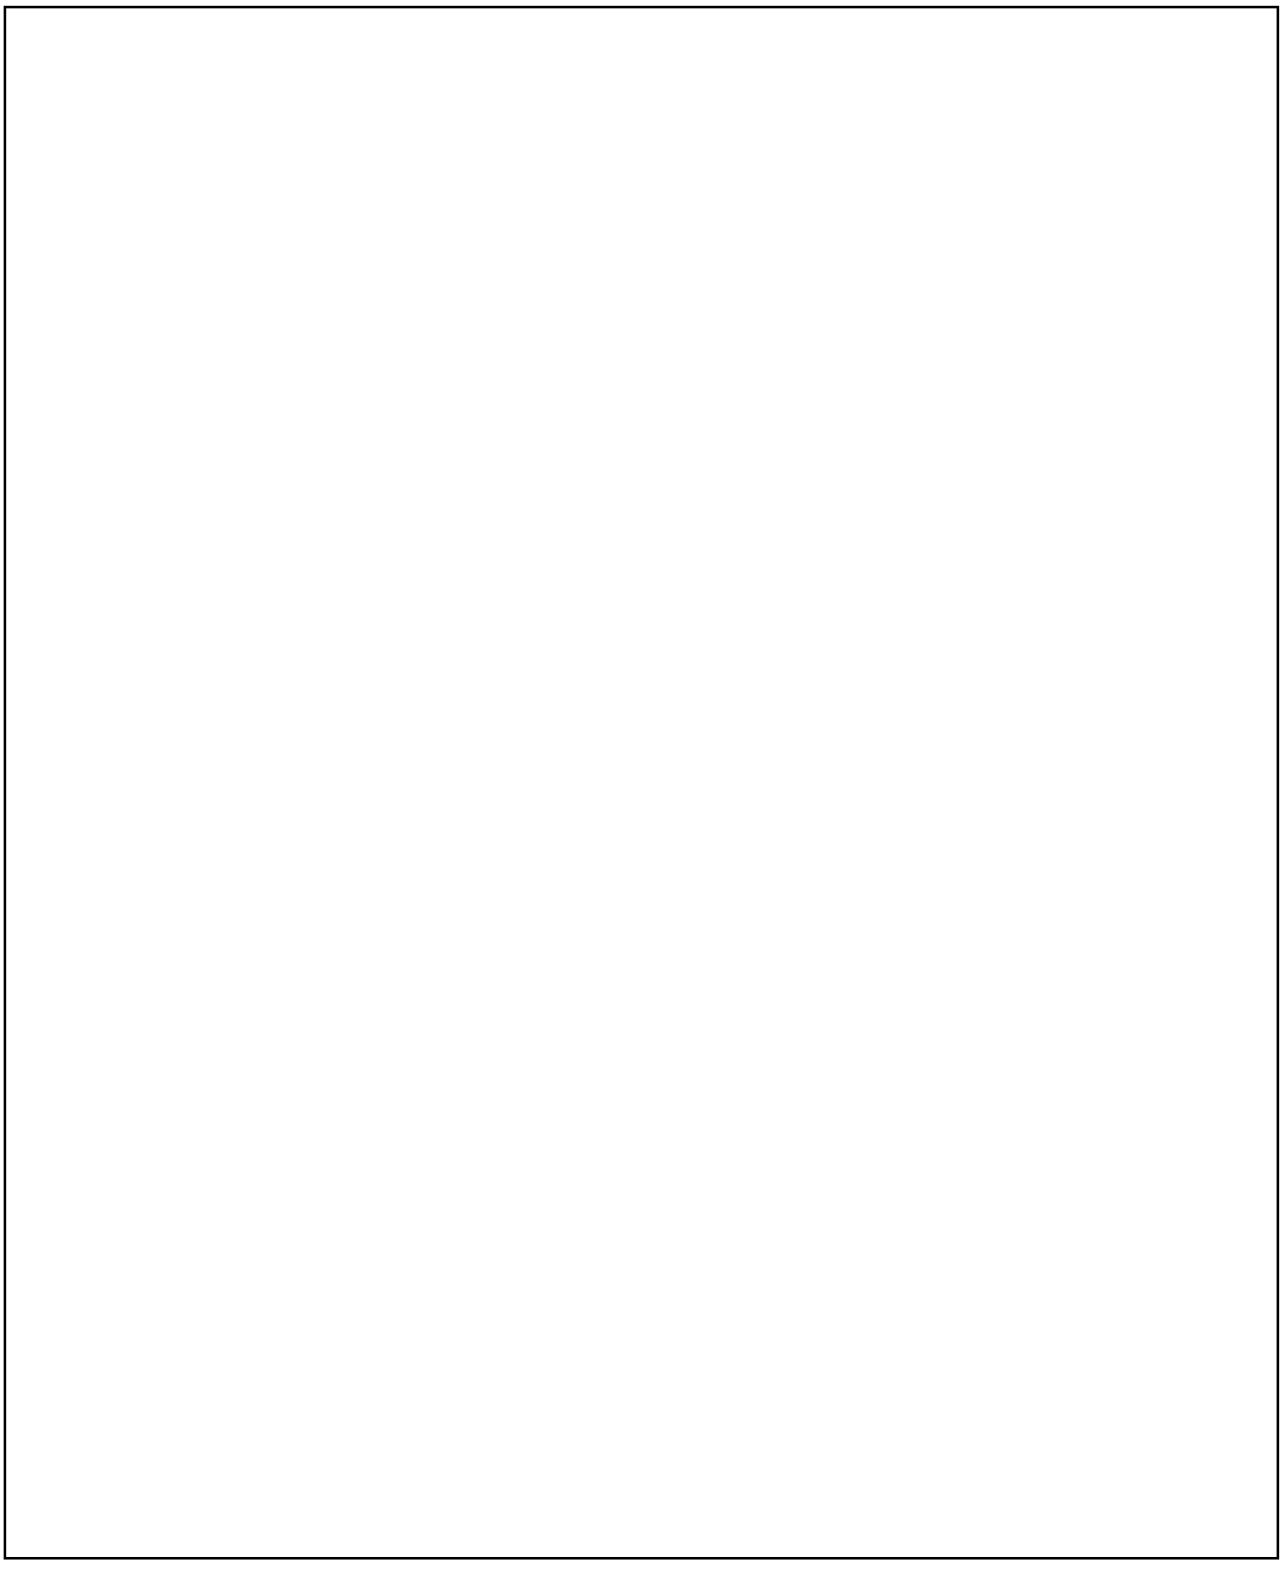
Thus, the general proposal must address the kinds of commercial enterprise which will receive capital from the aliens, the jobs that will be created directly or indirectly as a result of the investment, other positive economic impacts on a national or regional basis and how it will promote economic growth within the limited geographic area. To be effective such a proposal needs to be realistic, viable and credible.

The Gulf Coast Funds Management Regional Center has requested to amend its designation as a Regional Center to add the State of Tennessee and the Tobacco dependent counties of the Commonwealth of Virginia to the current focus area of the States of Mississippi and Louisiana. In addition, they have requested that the industrial scope be expanded to include: manufacturing; education and training; research and development; and wholesale trade. The current approved Proposal and its Amendment includes: shipbuilding; food processing plants; and manufacturing plants.

On May 13, 2010 the USCIS issued form I-797 Notice of Action requesting evidence in support of the Amendment filed on February 22, 2010. The USCIS noted the request did not contain sufficient evidence showing that the proposed regional center's industrial and geographical expansion would met the regulatory requirements as a Regional Center. Multiple issues were addressed in the request for evidence and the evidentiary requirements for each of these issues were explained in detail. However, the evidence provided in response to the USCIS request does not establish eligibility under the Pilot Immigrant Investor Program.

(b)(4)

(b)(4)



(b)(4)

Thus, the Regional Center has failed to show that it will promote economic growth within the Regional Center's geographical area; and has failed to show the economic impact the Regional Center will have on either the 4-state region or nationally.

Therefore, this proposal is denied for the above stated reasons.

In addition to the basic general proposal and amendments, the Regional Center Proposal and/or Amendment may now be approved to include two optional requests, review of the enterprise's organization and operational documents and/or a specific investment project. While a planned specific investment project may be included in the proposal or amendment for review, hypothetical or actual business plans must be included for each industry cluster for the reasons explained later in this request. Thus, documentation submitted in support of the Regional Proposal or Amendment may be grouped into two categories, mandatory, required for the basic general proposal or amendment, and optional, needed for the two options.

The Immigrant Investor Pilot Program

8 CFR 204.6 (m)(3) describes specific evidence that must be submitted before consideration for eligibility for this benefit may proceed. After review of the amendment in the light of these requirements, the following information, evidence or clarification is needed to proceed.

It is always best to start with a cover letter that acts as an executive summary followed by a table of contents of the various tabbed sections to follow.

The Regional Center

This request is seeking to amend the geographic area to add the State of Tennessee and the Tobacco dependent counties of the Commonwealth of Virginia to the current focus area of the States of Mississippi and Louisiana. In addition, they have requested that the industrial scope be expanded to include manufacturing, education and training, research and development, and wholesale trade. The current approved Proposal and its Amendment includes shipbuilding, food processing plants and manufacturing plants. While not specifically requested by the Center, it also appears that the Center is requesting that the industrial clusters of warehousing, transportation and truck transportation be added to support their proposed transportation hub in Memphis, Tn. The investment activities will also be expanded to include debt and mezzanine debt investments along with the equity investments currently approved.

Currently, the Center is primarily engaged in equity investment of EB-5 funds in the construction and development of an automotive manufacturing and car parts facilities for the production of hybrid and other "green" automotive products. The Regional Center wishes to expand its coverage, to include building an automotive park and assembly plant somewhere in the southern or southwestern counties of Virginia, and developing a warehouse and logistic center in the Memphis, TN area.

Promotion of Economic Growth within the selected Geographic Area (8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(i)):

8 CFR 204.6(m)(3)(i) requires that a proposal be submitted which:

> Clearly describes how the regional center focuses on a geographical region of the United States, and how it will promote economic growth through improved regional productivity, job creation, and increased domestic capital investment;

Submit documentation, such as an economic analysis showing how the newly expanded Regional Center will promote economic growth through improved productivity, job creation and increased capital investment with-in the newly designated Region. Aspects of this element of the proposal may be combined with other issues listed below in a single economic analysis and job creation model.

Re: W09001430 – Gulf Coast Funds Management Regional Center Amendment Application

Dear Examiner:

This letter and accompanying exhibits constitutes a timely response to the Request for Evidence ("RFE") issued on May 13, 2010. Please note that the initial amendment request of February 16, 2010 was submitted pro se. GCFM submits this RFE response with the assistance of experienced EB-5 counsel, Stephen Yale-Loehr of Miller Mayer, LLP. Mr. Yale-Loehr's G-28 is attached as Exhibit 1.

The February 2010 amendment application requested an amendment to Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC ("GCFM")'s regional center designation to include the geographic areas of the State of Tennessee and the tobacco dependent localities within the State of Virginia. Those localities are listed in Exhibit 2 entitled "Tobacco Commission Counties Southside and Southwest". The February 2010 amendment application also requested addition of the economic sectors of manufacturing, education and training, research and development, and wholesale trade.

Conclusion

The United States is suffering one of the most severe economic recessions in its history, with unemployment rates climbing to historic levels. As Congress intended and as President Obama reiterated with the signing of the three-year extension of the EB-5 program in September 2009, the EB-5 regional center program can have a significant and lasting impact in regions of the United States that desperately need an economic stimulus.

We therefore respectfully request that you adjudicate and approve this regional center application as quickly as possible. Please contact us if you have any further questions.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Wei

MANAGEMENT OF GTA

The following is a description of the business backgrounds of the executive officers of GTA:

Terry McAuliffe, Chairman

Mr. McAuliffe is the Chairman of GTA. He has been a long time investor and promoter of affordable green energy projects. It is at his direction that GTA has set its goal to truly meet a higher standard among our peers stating that "no green technology is green unless it is affordable to average consumers."

Mr. McAuliffe has been a longtime business leader and successful entrepreneur for nearly four decades. He has successfully started over two dozen companies in the fields of banking, real estate, securities, marketing, renewable energy and insurance. At the age of 14, Mr. McAuliffe started his first business, McAuliffe Driveway Maintenance, where he sealed residential driveways and commercial parking lots in his local community of Syracuse, New York. In January 1988, when he was only 30 years old, Mr. McAuliffe became the youngest chairman of a federally chartered bank in the history of the United States.

Mr. McAuliffe also served as Chairman of American Heritage Homes, one of Florida's largest homebuilding companies, as well as President of American Capitol Management Company, a major developer of real estate projects. He has been an active investor in the alternative energy field for over a decade.

In addition to his successful business career, he is a longtime political leader for the Democratic Party in the United States. He started his political career during the 1980 Presidential reelection campaign of President Jimmy Carter, and at the age of 22 became the national finance director for that campaign. He then served as National Finance Chairman of the Gephardt for President committee, National Finance Chairman and the National Co-Chairman of the Clinton-Gore re-election committee. In 1993, he was named by President Clinton as Ambassador and Commissioner General of the Korean International Exposition. He was Chairman of the 53rd Presidential Inaugural Committee and Chairman of the White House Millennium Celebration. In 2000, he chaired the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles. He was elected Chairman of the Democratic National Committee from 2001 to 2005. He is widely credited with rebuilding, reenergizing and revitalizing the Democratic Party. As Chairman of the DNC, he shattered all Party records by raising over $535 million. He also served as Chairman of the 2008 Hillary Clinton Presidential campaign. In 2009, he unsuccessfully ran for Governor of the State of Virginia.

Chairman McAuliffe received a Juris Doctor degree from Georgetown University School of Law and a bachelor's degree from The Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

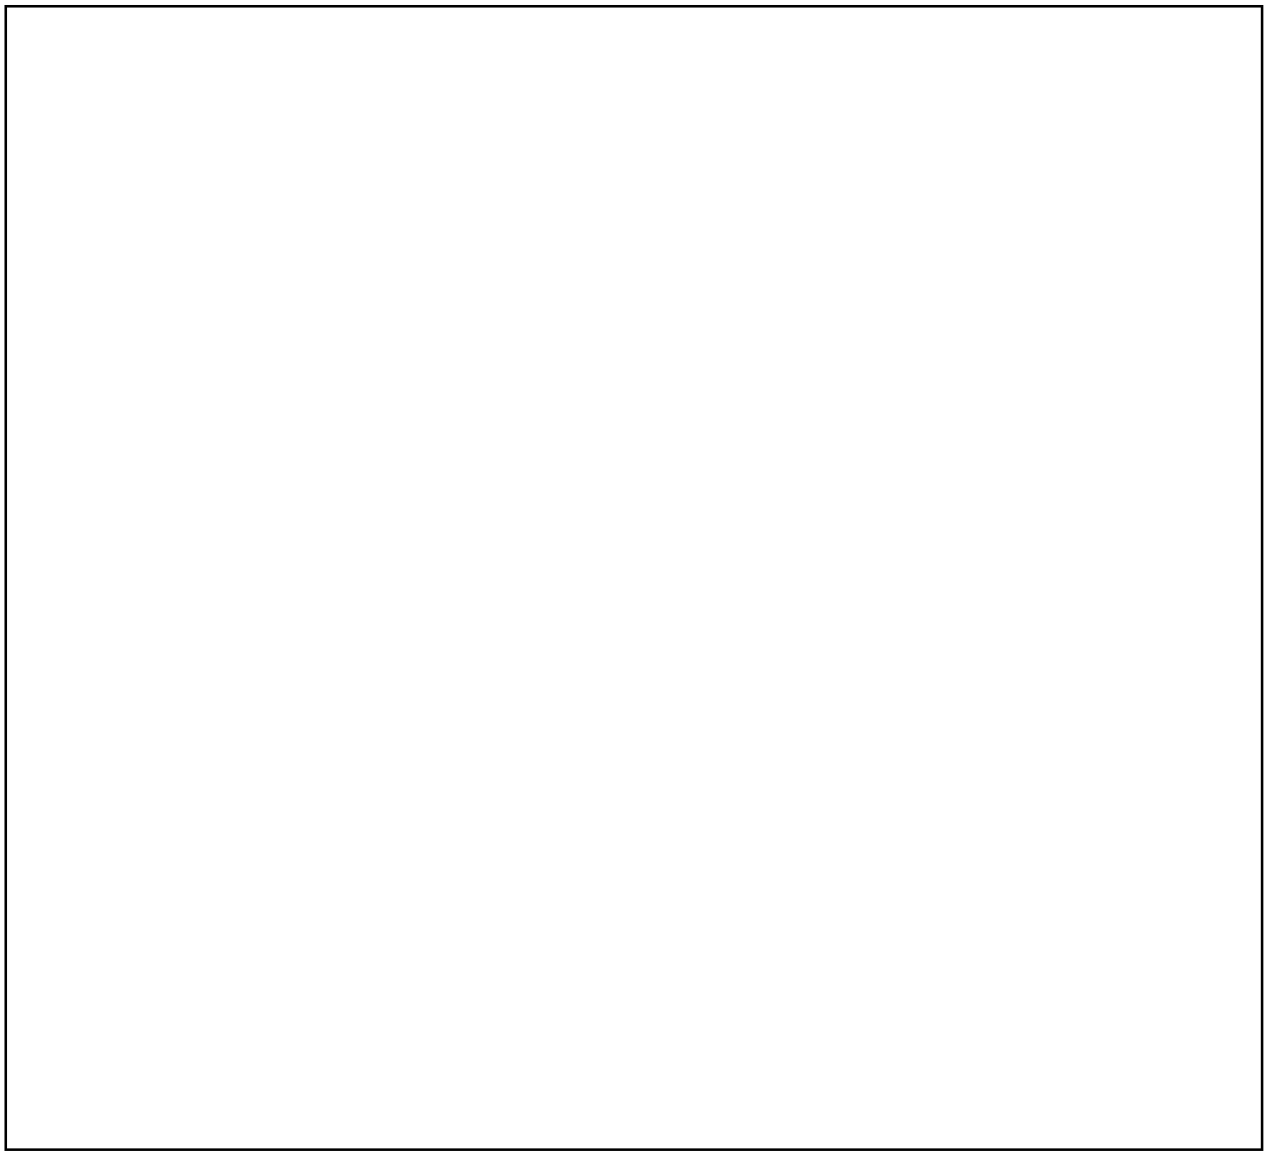
MANAGEMENT OF OUR FUND

The management company of the Fund, GCFM, is managed by a group of distinguished business, community, and political leaders with extensive experience in investment. The following is a description of the business backgrounds of the board members and officers of the management company for the Fund. With the expansion of GCFM-RC coverage, the fund will provide the same level of highly professional management as it does right now to support GTA project.

Chairman & Board Director, Sudhakar Shenoy

(b)(6)



Board Director, Kathleen Blanco

Kathleen Blanco is the former governor of the State of Louisiana. Governor Blanco was elected lieutenant governor in 1995, and was overwhelmingly reelected to her second term in 1999, winning 80 percent of the vote. As the state's second-highest official, she supervised the Department of Culture, Recreation and Tourism. Under her leadership, tourism in Louisiana increased by 41 percent. This growth led to a $2.5 billion increase in the tourism industry's economic contribution to the state and the creation of 21,000 new tourism-related jobs.

On January 12, 2004, Blanco became the first woman governor of Louisiana. Committed to education excellence, she chaired the Southern Regional Education Board and made Louisiana a leader in improved education standards throughout the South. She was responsible for passage of the largest increased investment in education in the state's history. Blanco also led one of the most aggressive economic development efforts in state history, making significant investments in the advanced technology infrastructure needed to diversify Louisiana's economy as well as in the highway, port, and infrastructure improvements needed to increase Louisiana's ability to compete for new jobs. In all, she attracted nearly $24 billion in new investments representing nearly 35,000 new jobs in just three years. In addition, she was responsible for the expansion of access to health insurance for Louisiana's children, and created a nationally-recognized model of excellence in juvenile justice by overhauling Louisiana's state corrections system. In 2005, Governor Blanco led Louisiana through Hurricane Katrina and its aftermath, the largest natural disaster in American history. Under her leadership and guidance, well over $2 billion in recovery dollars is at work aiding local communities. Included in that figure are investments in school and home rebuilding, improving emergency response capabilities, and addressing health care needs. Blanco also established the Coastal Protection and Restoration Authority and led the fight to secure America's wetland, Louisiana's natural barrier against future storms. During her gubernatorial tenure, Blanco served on the National Governors Association's Center for Best Practices board as well as on two NGA committees: Natural Resources; and Education, Early Childhood, and Workforce.

THE EB-5 PROGRAM

Overview

In 1990, the U. S. Congress created the employment based 5th preference (EB-5) immigrant investor visa program. The EB-5 Program offers 10,000 immigrant visas a year to qualified investors who wish to obtain residence in the United States by investing in businesses that will benefit the economy and create jobs. The EB-5 Immigrant Investor Regional Center Pilot Program ("The Pilot Program") was created by Congress in 1992 and sets aside 3,000 of the 10,000 EB-5 visas each year for people who invest in designated "regional centers."

Once a qualifying investment has been made in a regional center, an investor files a Form I-526 Immigrant Petition by Alien Entrepreneur, ("Form I-526") with the USCIS. After the USCIS approves I-526 petition, an investor files an adjustment of status application if he or she is already in the U.S. in valid non-immigrant status or ii) applies for an interview and entry visa at a U.S. embassy or consulate abroad ("consular processing"). When an adjustment of status application is approved, a conditional residence status of two years will be given to the investor. If the investor pursues consular processing, upon approval the investor and his or her family will be issued an EB-5 entry visa to the U.S. Once they enter the U.S., the two-year conditional residence status starts.

At the end of the two-year conditional resident period the investor must show that his or her investment has been sustained and the projects invested in by the regional center have created at least ten jobs for each investor. Assuming the investor provides that evidence, the USCIS will remove the conditional residence status, and the investor will receive his or her permanent residency status.

The Immigration Process

The Fund's primary role in the immigration process is to sell interests in the Fund to immigrant investors (which allow the investors to file Form I-526) and invest the investors' capital in a manner that is consistent with the EB-5 Program and leads to the creation of at least ten jobs for each Unit holder in the Fund. If GTA's proposed business plan succeeds, our independent economist's report indicates that GTA will create enough jobs to meet the EB-5 Program requirements for every investor in the Fund. The rest of the immigration process will be led by the immigrant investor and his or her independent immigration counsel. The management company will maintain a current record of jobs created by the Fund's investment activities. The management company will assist each Unit holder by providing information about job creation to the USCIS in the manner required by the EB-5 Program. Upon the initial conditional residency filing, the Fund will certify to the USCIS with respect to the projected number of jobs that will be created. Two years after an immigrant investor is granted conditional resident status, the investor must file with the USCIS Form I-829, Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions ("Form I-829") to convert his or her status to permanent residency. 4. Using the IMPLAN Model to Calculate National Multipliers

The IMPLAN model is a regional input/model developed and maintained by the Minnesota IMPLAN group, headquartered in Minneapolis. The basic model was originally developed by the USDA Forest Service in cooperation with the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the USDI Bureau of Land Management.

The IMPLAN model has certain similarities with the RIMS (Regional Input/Output Modeling system) model developed by the Department of Commerce, but is generally thought to contain several superior features besides its greater ease and flexibility of use. These improvements can be summarized as follows:

1. The Commerce Department is not permitted to publish data in any category where there are less than three organizations in a given economic area. IMPLAN has developed an algorithm to fill in the missing numbers.

2. IMPLAN has introduced improved methods of accounting for flows of goods and services among counties.

3. IMPLAN permits aggregation of any subset of industries for calculation and tabular purposes. This is useful when results are desired for, say, 1-digit industries instead of the 509 industries actually found in the input/output table.

4. As seen in the tables throughout this text, IMPLAN estimates three separate effects, labeled "direct", "indirect" and "induced". The direct effects are those entered by the user. The other two columns represent the multiplier effects, but they are usually combined in other input/output models. Briefly, the indirect effect represents purchases made by businesses when their sales rise. For example, a restaurant might order more food produced or sold in the region, or an automobile plant might order more steel. The induced effect represents the additional household spending because income has risen. For example, casino workers would spend their paychecks on various goods and services, some of which are produced in the region. In general, then, the larger the region under consideration, the larger the multipliers would be.

The following material, taken from the IMPLAN manual, describes the input/output process in more detail.

Input/output analysis is a means of examining relationships within an economy, both between businesses and between businesses and final consumers. It captures all of the monetary market transactions for consumption in a given time period. The resulting mathematical formulae allow examination of the effects of a change in one or several economic activities on an entire economy.

A descriptive model includes information about local economic interactions known as regional economic accounts. These tables describe a local economy in terms of the flow of dollars from purchasers to producers within the region. The initial IMPLAN data details all purchases, including imported goods and services. When regional economic accounts are created, imports to the region are removed from the initial data, allowing examination of local inter-industry transactions and final purchases.

The regional economic accounts are used to construct local level multipliers. Multipliers describe the response of the economy to a stimulus (a change in demand or production). The multipliers represent the Predictive Model.

Purchases for final use (final demand) drive an input/output model. Industries producing goods and services for consumption purchase goods and services from other producers. These other producers, in turn, purchase goods and services. These indirect purchases (or indirect effects) continue until leakages from the region (imports, wages, profits, etc.) stop the cycle.

The indirect effects and the effects of increased household spending (induced effects) can be mathematically derived as sets of multipliers. The derivation is called the Leontief inverse. The resulting sets of multipliers describe the change of output for each industry caused by a one dollar change in final demand for any given industry.

The input/output analysis framework is similar to a financial accounting framework that tracks purchases of and expenditures on goods and services in dollars. Input/output accounting traces the flow of dollars between businesses and between businesses and final consumers. An input/output accounting framework can be illustrated using classic financial accounting T-accounts, which include receipts (income) and expenditures (expenses) on each side of a "T", as shown below.

Final Consumption (or final demand) drives input/output models. Industries respond to meet demand directly or indirectly, by supplying goods and services to industries responding directly. Each industry that produces goods and services generates demands for other goods and services, and so on. Multipliers describe these iterations.

There are three different multipliers developed for predictive modeling: Type I, Type II, and Type SAM. We start with the transactions table and derive a coefficient by dividing each industry column by the column total. This coefficient matrix is also known as the A Matrix.

• Constructed a detailed econometric model for the State of Pennsylvania to determine the economic impact of the complete panoply of state taxes levied; the model contains over 1,000 equations. In cooperation with American Economics Group, the model was developed to simulate the effect of changes in any state tax rate on households and businesses by income deciles, household status, age of individuals, size of households, and many other demographic variables. The change in business taxes can also be simulated for detailed industry classifications.

• Determined appropriate levels of shelter grants individual counties in New York State, and for utility allowances in New York City. Reviewed and prepared testimony in ongoing court cases in these areas.

• Calculated the economic impact of the revitalization of downtown Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

C. Economic Impact of Casino Gaming

Secretary
U.S. Department of Homeland Security
Washington, DC 20528

Dear Secretary Napolitano:

I write to express my support for the creation of an EB-5 regional center to serve the tobacco regions in the Commonwealth of Virginia. It is my understanding that the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service (USCIS) within the Department of Homeland Security is currently considering an amended application submitted by Gulf Coast Funds Management, LLC (GCFM) for a regional center designation.

The tobacco regions in the Commonwealth of Virginia, which already experience high unemployment rates, have been hit particularly hard during the current economic recession. The designation of an EB-5 regional center is important in order to help generate capital investment in local economies in these regions and create new jobs in industries that are less tobacco dependent. I believe the designation would go a long way to expedite economic recovery in the tobacco regions and across the Commonwealth of Virginia.

It is my hope that the USCIS will approve GCFM's amended application to create an EB-5 regional center to serve the tobacco regions in the Commonwealth of Virginia. Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions or concerns.

Sincerely,

Mark R Warner

The Honorable Janet Napolitano, Secretary

Re: EB-5 Regional Center Amendment Application for Virginia Tobacco Regions

Dear Secretary Napolitano,

As we assess the employment statistics in Virginia during these difficult economic times, we see a continuing need to create jobs, particularly in the historically tobacco-dependent regions across southside Virginia.

I am writing in support of Gulf Coast Funds Management LLC's request that the Department of Homeland Security and the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services allow them to expand their coverage to include tobacco-dependent localities in Virginia for the following industries: manufacturing, education and training, research and development, assembling, and international trade.

In Virginia, the credit crisis and difficult economy have caused unemployment to rise over the last two years, particularly in the tobacco regions. I support GCFM's amendment application and encourage the Department of Homeland Security and USCIS to allow this expansion.

Prompt consideration of their application will allow us to move as quickly as possible in generating funds for new investment in this region.

Sincerely,

Timothy M. Kaine

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
The Secretary of Commerce

May 14, 2010

Mr. Charles Wang
Chief Executive Officer
GreenTech Automotive, Inc.
1650 Tysons Boulevard, 8th Floor
McLean, VA 22102

Dear Mr. Wang:

I would like to congratulate GreenTech Automotive on its acquisition of EU Auto Technology. GreenTech Automotive is a new, U.S.-based auto maker whose goal is to develop and produce affordable, environmentally-friendly, energy-efficient vehicles that will meet higher emissions standards.

I understand that this transaction is intended to advance GreenTech's plans to produce and market the MyCar electric vehicle in the United States and in Asia, as well as in Europe, where the MyCar is already available for purchase. I further understand that GreenTech plans to invest an additional $100 million in manufacturing capacity and R&D facilities in the United States.

Transactions such as this one are truly win-win: they bolster the U.S. economy and speed our economic recovery; they support high-quality, high-wage green jobs in the United States; they help rebuild our manufacturing sector; and, by leading to lower carbon emissions, they contribute to our ability to deal with climate change.

I wish GreenTech every success in its endeavors.

Sincerely,

Gary Locke

Terry McAuliffe firm buys electric car company

By Thomas Heath
Monday, May 24, 2010; 3

Terry McAuliffe is in the car business.

The former Virginia Democratic gubernatorial hopeful last week paid $20 million for Hong Kong-based EuAuto Technology, which builds an electric vehicle called the MyCar.

MyCar is for people who need wheels to run errands or tool around the neighborhood.

"It's really a second car if you live in Washington," McAuliffe said.

McAuliffe bought MyCar through his McLean-based holding company, GreenTech Automotive. GreenTech will provide MyCar with capital and access to the U.S. market.

McAuliffe said if MyCar is approved by the U.S. regulators, it could be on sale next year.

MyCar can travel 70 miles on a single charge and has a top speed of 45 miles per hour.

The MyCar is not for highway travel, and is designed to sell as a second car for families. The MyCar will be priced between $13,000 and $16,000, McAuliffe said. It will take four hours to charge.

In addition to the MyCar, GreenTech is developing four highway-ready prototypes using European technology. Three of the vehicles are hybrids and one is electric. McAuliffe said GreenTech is scouting sites in Mississippi, Tennessee and Virginia for a plant where it can manufacture his product line.

Brett Smith, director of automotive analysis at the Center for Automotive Research, said electric car technology is promising, but advances will be essential before electric cars overtake sales of gas-powered automobiles.

"There is an enormous amount of interest in EVs and battery-powered vehicles, but there is a lot of development needed to make them commercially viable," Smith said. "The real challenge is developing a battery that is cost-competitive with an internal combustion engine. That has yet to happen."

McAuliffe said he discovered the MyCar in London a few months ago.

"I'm walking down this street, and I see a car pull into a charging station," he said. "I walk up to the guy, promise him I'm not a carjacker, and told him I want to drive the car. I gave him $100 to let me drive it around the block."

McAuliffe phoned his GreenTech office and told his team to start researching MyCar. The acquisition closed last week in Hong Kong.

McAuliffe said GreenTech, which he chairs, was founded last August. GreenTech is a holding company for investments in various green technologies, from wind to solar to electric vehicles like the MyCar.

The company has been in the works since 2006, but his political activities -- chairing Hilary Clinton's 2008 campaign and running for the Democratic nomination for Virginia governor in 2009 -- interrupted his plans.

"If you have good green projects, there are billions of dollars that are looking for those projects," he said.

Re: Targeted Employment Area Designation in Virginia

Dear Ms. Velarde:

The Virginia Employment Commission certifies that the following areas are Targeted Employment Areas (TEA) within the Commonwealth of Virginia. Targeted Employment Areas are defined as areas, which at the time of investment, are rural areas, or areas which have experienced unemployment of at least 150 percent of the national average rate within Virginia.

High unemployment areas were determined using the 2008 national not seasonally adjusted unemployment rate of 5.8 percent; 150 percent of 5.8 percent is 8.7 percent. High unemployment areas are any particular geographical or political subdivision located within a Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA), or within a city or town having a population of 20,000, or more, within such state. Many of the high unemployment areas are tobacco-dependent regions, which are established under Code of Virginia, Section 3.1-1107, and defined as civil jurisdictions in Southwest and Southside Virginia, where they are historical tobacco production regions and are experiencing the highest unemployment rates within the Commonwealth of Virginia. In order to decrease the high unemployment rate while transforming into a less tobacco-dependent economy, these areas are designated as TEA to seek enhanced economic recovery and development.

Rural areas are defined as civil jurisdictions not located within any standard MSA as designated by the Office of Management and Budget, or within any city or town having a population of 20,000, or more, based on the most recent decennial census of the United States.

The following attachment contains designated Target Employment Areas for the Commonwealth of Virginia. If you have any questions or need clarification, please contact Donald Lillywhite, Economic Information Services Director, at (804) 786-5670.

Re: Targeted Employment Area Designation in Virginia

Dear Ms. Chapline:

This letter is follow-up to a December 15, 2009, communication to Barbara Velarde of the USCIS Foreign Trade Investor Program concerning Targeted Employment Areas (TEA). The Virginia Employment Commission certifies that Sussex County, Virginia, is a TEA within the Commonwealth of Virginia. Targeted Employment Areas are defined as areas, which at the time of investment, are rural areas, or areas which have experienced unemployment of at least 150 percent of the national average rate within Virginia.

High unemployment areas were determined using the 2008 national not seasonally adjusted unemployment rate of 5.8 percent; 150 percent of 5.8 percent is 8.7 percent. Re: Targeted Employment Area Designation in Tennessee

Dear Mr. Kruszka,

The Tennessee Department of Labor and Workforce Development, Research and Statistics has been delegated the authority to certify 'high unemployment' areas in Tennessee, according to the provisions of the Immigration Act of 1990 and 8 C.F.R. 204.6(i). We hereby certify that the following areas are Targeted Employment Areas (TEA) within the State of Tennessee. Targeted Employment Areas are defined as an area, which at the time of investment, is a rural area, or an area which has experienced unemployment of at least 150 per cent of the national average rate within Tennessee.

High unemployment areas were determined using the 2008 national not seasonally adjusted unemployment rate of 5.8%; 150 per cent of 5.8% is 8.676%. High unemployment areas are any particular geographic or political subdivision located within a Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) or within a city or town having or population of 20,000 or more within such state. In order to decrease the high unemployment rate, these areas are designated as TEA to seek enhanced economic recovery and development.

Rural areas are defined as civil jurisdictions not located within any standard MSA as designated by the Office of Management and Budget, or within any city or town having or population of 20,000 ore more based on the most recent decennial census of the United States.

The following attachments contain designated Targeted Employment Areas for the State of Tennessee. If you have any questions or comments, please contact Mark Herron of the Tennessee Department of Labor and Workforce Development, Employment Security Division, Research and Statistics, 220 French Landing Drive, Nashville, Tennessee 37243. Also, you may call him at (615) 741-2284.

3.0 The EB-5 Immigrant Investor Program

The management company will manage EB-5 investment funds. The EB-5 immigrant investor program is described as follows by the United States Department of Homeland Security:

Immigration through Investment Overview

Under section 203(b)(5) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), 8 U.S.C. 81153(6)(5), 10,000 immigrant visas per year are available to qualified individuals seeking permanent resident status on the basis of their engagement in a new commercial enterprise.

Of the 10,000 investor visas (i.e., EB-5 visas) available annually, 3,000 are set aside for those who apply under a pilot program involving a USCIS-designated Regional Center. A regional center is an entity, organization or agency that has been approved as such by the USCIS; focuses on a specific geographic area within the United States; and seeks to promote economic growth through increased export sales, improved regional productivity, creation of new jobs, and increased domestic capital investment.

"Alien investors" must demonstrate that a "qualified investment" (see below) is being made in a new commercial enterprise or approved Regional Center; and, show, using reasonable methodologies, that 10 or more jobs are actually created either directly or indirectly from the new commercial enterprise through revenues generated from increased exports, improved regional productivity, job creation, or increased domestic capital investment resulting from the pilot program.

Eligibility

Permanent resident status based on EB-5 eligibility is available to investors, either alone or coming with their spouses and unmarried children under 21 years of age. Eligible aliens are those who have invested – or are actively in the process of investing – the required amount of capital into a new commercial enterprise that they have established. They must further demonstrate that this investment will benefit the U.S. economy and create the requisite number of full-time jobs within the U.S.

In general, "eligible individuals" include those:

1. Who establish a new commercial enterprise by: creating an original business; or purchasing an existing business and simultaneously or subsequently restructuring / reorganizing the business such that a new commercial enterprise results; or expanding an existing business by 140 percent of the pre-investment number of jobs or net worth, or retaining all existing jobs in a troubled business that has lost 20 percent of its net worth over the past 12 to 24 months; and

2. Who have invested – or who are actively in the process of investing – in a new commercial enterprise: at least $1,000,000; or at least $500,000 where the investment is being made in a "targeted employment area," which is an area that has experiences unemployment of at least 150 percent of the national average rate or a rural area as designated by OMB; and

3. Whose engagement in a new commercial enterprise will benefit the United States economy and: create full-time employment for not fewer than 10 qualified individuals; or maintain the number of existing employees at no less than the pre-investment level for a period of at least two years, where the capital investment is being made in a "troubled business," which is a business that has been in existences for at least two year and that has lost 20 percent of its net worth over the past 12 to 24 months.

THE EB-5 PROGRAM

Overview

In 1990, the U. S. Congress created the employment based 5th preference (EB-5) immigrant investor visa program. The EB-5 program offers 10,000 immigrant visas a year to qualified investors who wish to obtain residence in the United States by investing in businesses that will benefit the economy and create jobs. The EB-5 Immigrant Investor Regional Center Pilot Program ("The Pilot Program") was created by Congress in 1992 and sets aside 3,000 of the 10,000 EB-5 visas each year for people who invest in designated "regional centers."

Once a qualifying investment has been made in a regional center, an investor files a Form I-526 Immigrant Petition by Alien Entrepreneur, ("Form I-526") with the USCIS. After the USCIS approves I-526 petition, an investor files an adjustment of status application if he or she is already in the U.S. in valid non-immigrant status or ii) applies for an interview and entry visa at a U.S. embassy or consulate abroad ("consular processing"). When an adjustment of status application is approved, a conditional residence status of two years will be given to the investor. If the investor pursues consular processing, upon approval the investor and his or her family will be issued an EB-5 entry visa to the U.S. Once they enter the U.S., the two-year conditional residence status starts.

At the end of the two-year conditional resident period the investor must show that his or her investment has been sustained and the projects invested in by the regional center have created at least ten jobs for each investor. Assuming the investor provides that evidence, the USCIS will remove the conditional residence status, and the investor will receive his or her permanent residency status.

The Immigration Process

The Fund's primary role in the immigration process is to sell interests in the Fund to immigrant investors (which allow the investors to file Form I-526) and invest the investors' capital in a manner that is consistent with the EB-5 program and leads to the creation of at least ten jobs for each Unit holder in the Fund. If GTA's proposed business plan succeeds, our independent economist's report indicates that GTA will create enough jobs to meet the EB-5 program requirements for every investor in the Fund. The rest of the immigration process will be led by the immigrant investor and his or her independent immigration counsel. The management company will maintain a current record of jobs created by the Fund's investment activities. The management company will assist each Unit holder by providing information about job creation to the USCIS in the manner required by the EB-5 program. Upon the initial conditional residency filing, the Fund will certify to the USCIS with respect to the projected number of jobs that will be created. Two years after an immigrant investor is granted conditional resident status, the investor must file with the USCIS Form I-829, Petition by Entrepreneur to Remove Conditions ("Form I-829") to convert his or her status to permanent residency. At that time, the Fund will allocate to each Unit holder ten jobs from those jobs created and maintained by GTA.

(b)(4)

When will my visa become permanent?
Two years after you receive your conditional resident status, you must apply for permanent residency. At that time, we will supply documents for your Form I-829 petition to show that your money has been invested in the region and that the Fund's investment has created at least ten jobs. Once your application is approved, you will become a permanent resident of the United States, and may soon apply for full citizenship if you desire.

CERTAIN U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSIDERATIONS

The following discussion about certain U.S. federal income tax and other tax considerations that you should weigh prior to investing in a Unit is merely a presentation of certain tax issues that generally apply to all investors in EB-5 funds. You should not consider this discussion to be tax advice, applicable to your particular situation or a full discussion of all material United States, state, local and foreign tax consequences of an investment in the Fund or your status as U.S. tax resident or non-resident and you should consult with your personal tax advisor about these, and all other issues relevant to your personal decision to invest in a Unit. Neither the Fund nor the management company is qualified to provide the tax advice you will need. You cannot use this summary for the purpose of avoiding United States federal tax penalties.

The following discussion is based upon the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (the "Code"), the applicable Treasury Regulations promulgated or proposed under the Code (the "Regulations"), current positions of the IRS contained in published revenue rulings and revenue procedures, current administrative positions of the IRS, and existing judicial decisions, as in effect on the date of this Memorandum, all of which are subject to change or modification, with or without retroactive effect, at any time.

No assurance can be given as to the future status of federal income tax laws or other tax laws as they pertain to limited liability companies of the type described herein. It is likely that changes to the Code will be proposed in the future. The effect of such proposals on the Fund and on an investment therein cannot be analyzed. Accordingly, potential investors are urged to consider on-going developments regarding changes in the federal income tax law and other tax laws and to consult their own advisors in assessing the risks associated with an investment in the Fund.

(b)(4)

Certain Tax Consequences to Non-United States Investors

Foreign Individuals Potentially Subject to U.S. Tax on Their Worldwide Income. Individuals who are not citizens of the United States but who are treated as "residents" of the United States for federal income tax purposes are subject to United States federal income tax on their worldwide income, including but not limited to their income from the Fund. For this purpose, an individual who is a lawful permanent resident of the United States (e.g., a holder of a "green card") generally will be treated as a resident. In addition, an individual who is not a lawful permanent resident under the immigration laws may nevertheless be a "resident" for tax purposes based upon a "substantial presence" in the United States as defined under Code Section 7701(b). For example, under that Code Section, an individual may be a "resident" if the individual is physically present in the United States on all or any part of a certain number of days, determined under a formula, within a three-year testing period. An individual present in the United States under certain types of temporary visas (e.g., teachers or students) may be excepted from the "substantial presence" test, but the determination whether an individual is a resident can be a complex determination. Potential investors who are foreign individuals should consult with their own tax advisors to be certain of their tax status under United States law.

Taxation of Non-U.S. Individuals Not Treated as Tax Residents. Potential investors who are neither citizens nor residents (as determined for tax purposes) of the United States ("Non-U.S. Investors") are subject to additional tax rules. Generally, Non-U.S. Investors are taxable on certain United States source passive investment income ("FDAP"), including dividends, interest and rents, at a flat rate of 30% on the gross amount of such income, without reduction for any expenses or other tax deductions, and that tax is satisfied by withholding of tax on payments of such amounts to the Non-U.S. Investors. In the case of a partnership, the partnership generally will be required to withhold based on the share of its FDAP allocable to its Non-U.S. Investors. The 30% tax on the gross amount of FDAP may be reduced or eliminated if the Non-U.S. Investor is a resident of a country with which the United States has a bilateral income tax treaty, provide that the Non-U.S. Investor submits timely certification of his entitlement to treaty relief. Certain other exceptions apply which may reduce or eliminate the tax on certain types of FDAP, including interest income. Non-U.S. Investors generally are not subject to tax on capital gains unless either (1) the gains are attributable to a United States trade or business or (2) the Non-U.S. Investor is an individual who is present in the United States for more than 183 days during the taxable year in which the gains are realized.

The 30% taxation of FDAP will not apply to any income that is effectively connected with the active conduct of a trade or business within the United States. The net income from such a trade or business within the United States realized by a Non-U.S. Investor will be subject to tax at the regular graduated income tax rates applicable to resident individuals. Such income currently will be subject to income tax withholding, generally at a rate of 35%. A Non-U.S. Investor who realizes any such income will be required to file a United States federal income tax return with respect to the taxable year in which the income is realized.

A Non-U.S. Investor in the Fund who is allocated a share of passive income (including capital gain) or active trade or business income realized by the Fund will be subject to tax under the above rules as if such Non-U.S. Investor had realized such income directly. Any withholding of federal income taxes by the Fund attributable to a Non-U.S. Investor will be treated as a distribution to that particular Unit holder.

THE FOREGOING IS NOT A COMPLETE DISCUSSION OF ALL OF THE FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES TO A NON-U.S. INVESTOR; THERE ARE STATE AND LOCAL TAX AND ESTATE TAX CONSEQUENCES TO BE CONSIDERED. ALSO, FOREIGN TAXES MAY BE IMPOSED ON A NON-U.S. INVESTOR'S INCOME FROM THE FUND. INVESTORS ARE STRONGLY ADVISED TO CONSULT WITH THEIR TAX ADVISORS WITH RESPECT TO THE TAX CONSEQUENCES OF AN INVESTMENT IN THE FUND.

Compliance Matters

Tax Returns/Audits. The Fund will furnish annually (and in certain circumstances, periodically) to each of the Unit holders sufficient information from the Fund's tax return for the Unit holders to prepare their own federal income tax returns.

The tax treatment of items of partnership income, loss, deduction, and credit will be determined at the partnership level. In addition, all partners are required, on their individual federal income tax returns, to treat partnership items in a manner that is consistent with the treatment of such items on the partnership's return.

The tax matters partner for the Fund will be the management company. The tax matters partner is required to, among other things, keep the other partners informed of all administrative and judicial proceedings and represent the Fund in such proceedings. The tax matters partner is authorized to obtain judicial review of any proposed readjustment of partnership items. Although every partner with an interest in the outcome is allowed to participate in an action filed by the tax matters partner, the outcome of that proceeding will bind all partners. If the tax matters partner fails to seek judicial review of a proposed adjustment of partnership items, other partners may seek such review, provided that there can be only one judicial proceeding with respect to a partnership. The foregoing procedures may adversely affect a Unit holder's ability to deal with adjustments to his income tax return resulting from adjustments made with respect to the Fund.

If any of the tax returns of the Fund are audited, it is possible that substantial legal and accounting fees will have to be paid to substantiate the position of the Fund, and such fees would reduce the cash otherwise available to meet Fund obligations or for distribution to the Unit holders. Such an audit may result in adjustments to each Unit holder's income tax return. An audit of the Fund's tax returns may also result in an audit of non-partnership items on each Unit holder's income tax returns, which in turn could result in adjustments to such items. The costs incurred by a Unit holder in connection with an IRS audit of his income tax return will be borne solely by that Unit holder.

State and Local Taxes

In addition to federal income taxes, the Fund and the Unit holders may be subject to other taxes imposed by various jurisdictions, such as state and local income taxes. Although a detailed analysis of these various taxes is not presented here, investors should consider the potential state and local tax consequences of an investment in the Fund. For example, a Unit holder's distributive share of all or a portion of Fund income, gains, losses and deductions, profits and losses, may be required to be included in determining his income subject to tax under the laws of the state or locality in which he is a resident, as well as jurisdictions in which the Fund does business.

For example, with respect to Unit holders who are not residents of the State of Mississippi, if the Fund has Mississippi source income allocated to such Unit holders, the Fund will be required to file composite returns and make composite payments of tax on behalf of all of its Unit holders who are not residents of Mississippi. The current rate of the Mississippi composite tax is [_____]% and any composite payment on behalf of a non-resident Unit holder will be treated by the Fund as a distribution to the non-resident Unit holder.

The State of Mississippi also requires a partnership to withhold income tax on a non-resident partner's allocable share of Mississippi source income. The Fund will withhold at the required withholding rate (currently [_____]%) of Mississippi source income allocable to Unit holders who are not residents of Mississippi. Any such withholding will be treated by the Fund as a distribution to the non-resident Unit holder. The withholding by a partnership does not relieve the non-resident partner of his obligation to file a Mississippi income tax return. A partnership is allowed to file a composite return on behalf of non-resident partners who have no activity in Mississippi other than that from the partnership. If a composite filing is allowable with respect to a non-resident partner and the composite return is properly filed and all taxes, including applicable interest and penalty is paid, the individual non-resident partner is relieved of his separate individual filing requirement. If the Fund elects to file a composite return on behalf of any non-resident Unit holders, the composite tax payment attributable to the non-resident will be treated as a distribution by the Fund to that non-resident Unit holder.

The Fund intends to supply the Unit holders with information regarding their income, if any, derived from various jurisdictions in which the Fund does business. Unit holders are urged to consult with their own tax advisors regarding state and local tax laws.

U.S. Federal Estate and Gift Taxation

U.S. residents generally are subject to federal estate taxes on their taxable estates at death which includes the value at the time of a decedent's death of all of his property, real or personal, tangible or intangible, wherever situated. Additionally, U.S. residents are subject to gift taxes on the transfer of any property by gift. U.S. estate taxes can also apply to a Non-U.S. Investor to tax that part of his gross estate which at the time of his death is situated in the United States. For example, shares of stock in a domestic U.S. corporation owned by a non-resident alien are treated as property situated in the United States for purposes of this provision. Further, the IRS has ruled that a partner's interest in a partnership is situated where the partnership's business is carried on for purposes of applying the U.S.-United Kingdom Estate Tax Convention. Thus, a Unit in the Fund held by a Non-U.S. Investor could possibly be subject to U.S. estate tax on the death of the Non-U.S. Investor.

Additionally, state and local taxing jurisdictions may also impose state, inheritance and/or gift taxes on their residents or on property deemed situated within their respective jurisdictions.

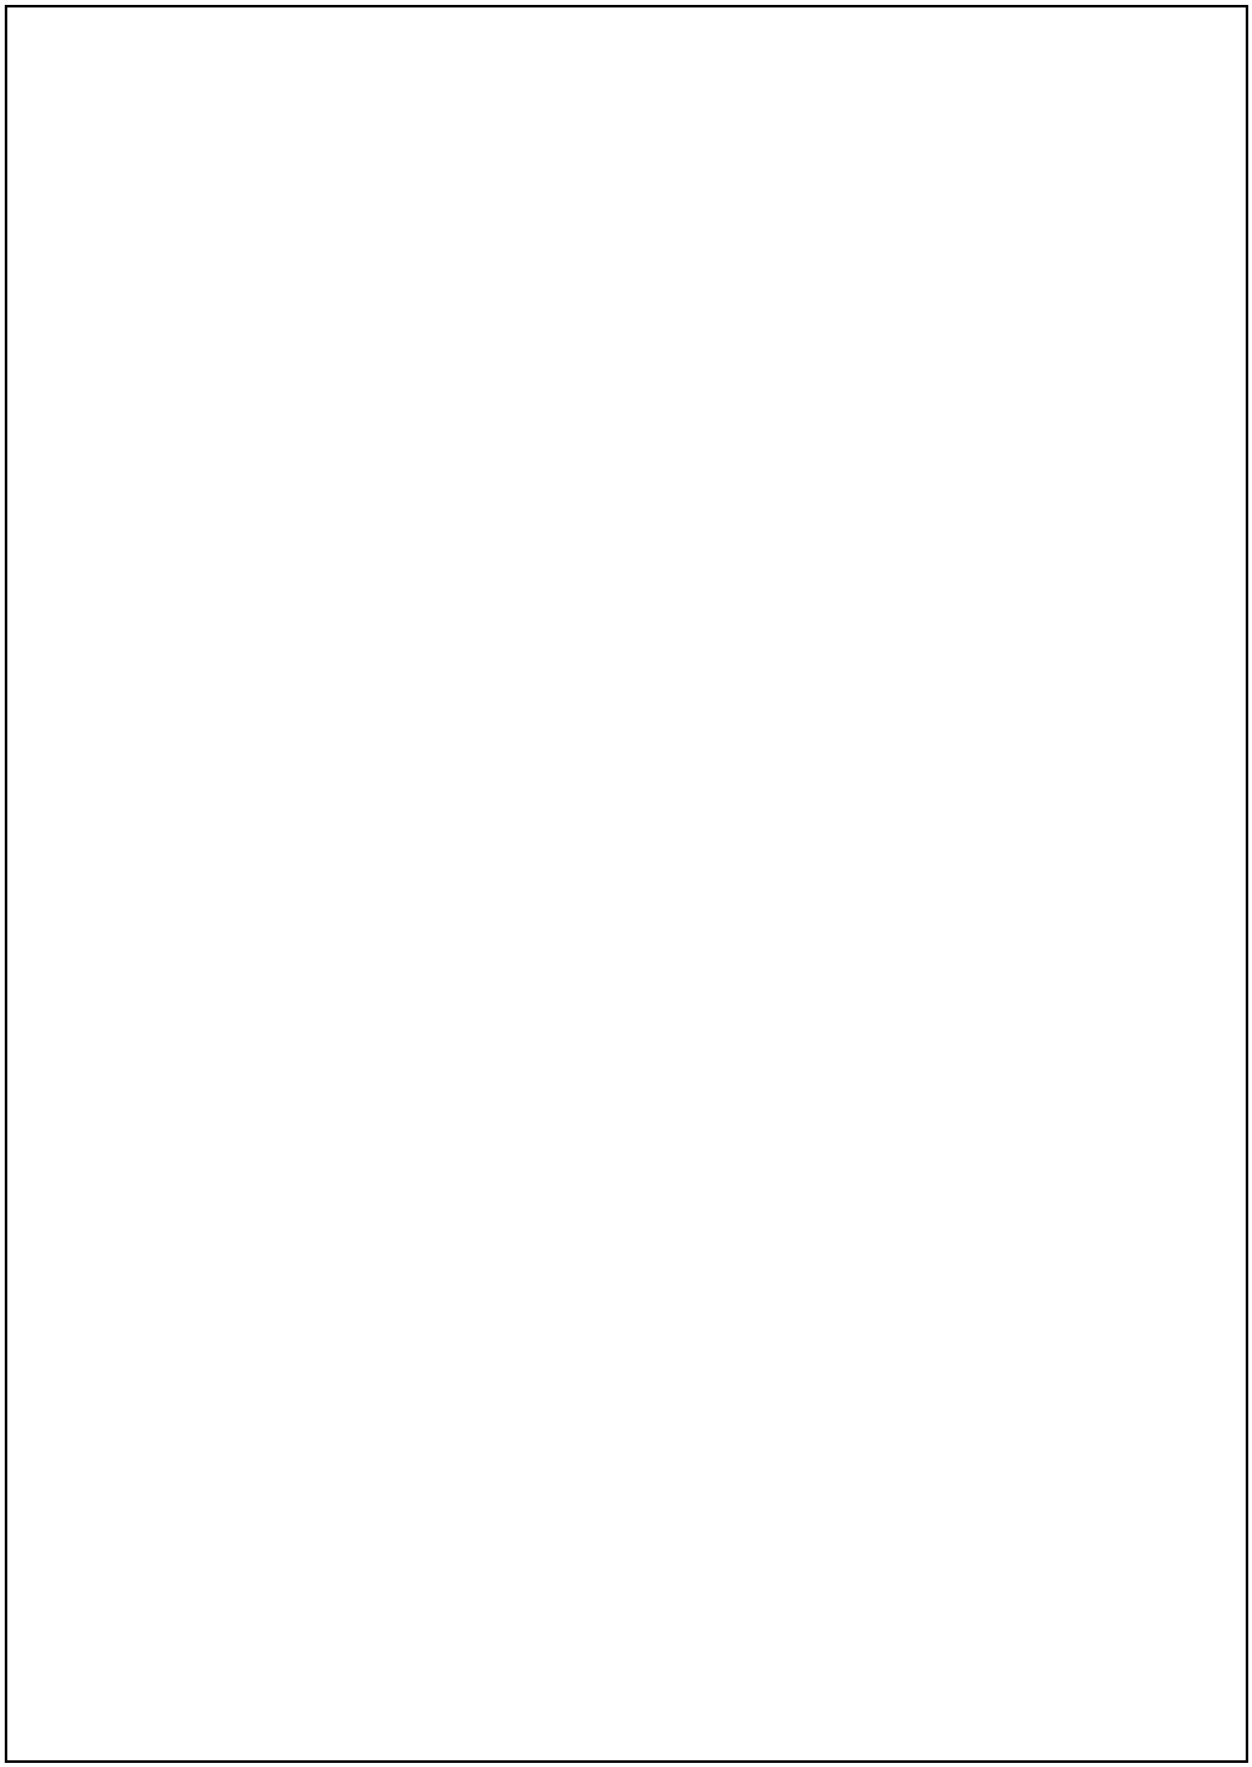
OFFERING MEMORANDUM



SUMMARY

The Offering

The EB-5 Immigrant Investor Program

EB-5 visas may be issued to immigrants and their immediate families by investing in an approved "regional center" projects such as our Fund. A foreign investor may apply for a conditional immigration status to live, work and study in the United States, once his or her investment is made. If the Fund invests this money in businesses within the region that create at least ten new jobs within two years, the immigrant investors receive permanent resident status in the United States, and eventually become eligible for U.S. citizenship, should they so choose. In the section of this offering memorandum entitled "Frequently Asked Questions about the EB-5 Visa Program," beginning on page 32, you will find a detailed discussion of the EB-5 program. You can also read about the program on our website: www.GulfCoastFunds.com.
